That, sir, has been the expenditure under this Commission in the ten years of its existence. I am satisfied that there can not be given a reasonable appeal to the fairness or judgment of a single Senator why the Commission should be continued under the condition of affairs as it exists there to-day, and with the facts staring us in the face that since 1888 there has never been an indictment for a polygamous offense in the courts of Utah that occurred subsequent, I will say, to 1887.

These reasons seem to justify me in my opposition to the views of the Committee on Appropriations. I will say frankly to the Senate that I do not exactly like the provision of the other House. I do not like the Commission to carry on the law which the House of Representatives has provided for. I do not think there ought to be any Commission there, but I prefer it to this extent, that at least one of the gentlemen appointed or substituted on the Commission is a gentleman who has lived for a long time in the Territory of Utah, a man in whom all the people have confidence, and who, although a Republican in politics, as all the members of the Commission created by the other House are, is one to whom they feel they can trust their best interests, and that is the chief justice of the Territory, Justice Zane.

But the other House has accomplished this; although it carries on this Commission and invests the governor, the chief justice, and the secretary with the power conferred by the Edmunds law upon the five commissioners, whose expenditures will amount to at least $59,000 under that law, it has gone to the extent of saying that these gentlemen may perform the duties devolving upon the Commission without extra compensation, and in that way has saved $30,000 of the entire appropriation that is now asked for by the Committee on Appropriations.

There is, of course, no question of politics in the commission as created by the other House, because all the board of commissioners who are to appoint these registrars and supervisors and to receive the returns and to certify them are members of the same party, but yet they live in the Territory. If they did not live there before their appointment to office, at least they have become domiciled in the Territory. They know the people, they know their feelings, their wants, and their sentiments; and it is more agreeable to any class of people in any section of this country to have that class of officers placed over them than to bring officers from two or three thousand miles there to perform these inferior duties.

I hope, therefore, the Senate will not adopt the suggestion of the Committee on Appropriations and strike out the provision as provided of the other House.

Mr. ALLISON. I am so anxious to complete this bill that I will say but a word respecting the reasons why the Committee on Appropriations recommended that this provision should be stricken out.

I was glad to hear the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] anticipate me somewhat in the reasons I propose to give. In the first place, the duties devolved upon the Utah Commission are devolved by this bill upon the governor, the chief justice, and the secretary of the Territory, this being a wholly partisan body, and therefore we concurred with the Senator from West Virginia in his views that this is not a wise thing to do, especially as respects elections.

The governor, the chief justice, and the secretary are Republicans, and we hope they will be during this entire fiscal year and during the elections to occur in the near future; but if they are there will be at once great party strife in Utah respecting registration and voting, and all the consequences which come from one party having exclusive and absolute control of elections. I do not know of a Northern State in the Union where that is done. I believe recently the laws were changed in the State of New York, whereby two Democrats and one Republican are to control elections in the cities. Prior to that time's anxious were they in New York to secure an honest vote that the officers having control of elections were divided equally between the two political parties.

Now, although these gentlemen are Republicans and I am sure they will administer the election laws with perfect fairness, yet it did not seem to us that it was wise to deprive the Utah Commission from exercising the power it now exercises under the law in view of the fact that three of them are Republicans and two of them are Democrats; so that whatever comes there will be a fair registration and a fair election.

Mr. PLATT. There has never been any complaint of partisanship there.

Mr. ALLISON. I thank the Senator. There never has been, so far as I know, any complaint respecting the conduct of the elections in Utah. Therefore the provision as found in the bill as it came from the House is radically defective, and I am glad to know the Senator from West Virginia practically agrees with me.

That is one thing. Another thing respecting the amendment is that it is an amendment placed on an appropriation bill radically changing a public policy. That public policy is one which was established after long debate and full consideration in this body. Whilst, as respects mere matters of detail or matters of administration in the consideration of appropriation bills, we have allowed legislation to be placed upon them and have not struck out legislation, here is a proposition to radically change the public policy as respects the control of the Territory of Utah.

Mr. VEST. May I ask the Senator a question?

Mr. ALLISON. Yes.

Mr. VEST. Do I understand the Senator to take the position now that we have adopted this as a permanent policy without any limitation?

Mr. ALLISON. Surely the Senator can not understand me in that way.

Mr. VEST. Then, as I understand, waiving the question as to the point of order on the amendment, it comes simply to the question whether the state of things exists in the Territory of Utah at this time which existed at the time this policy was adopted, and whether there is any necessity for continuing it.

Mr. ALLISON. My point is, that here is a matter of policy which has been upon our statute books for many years respecting the control of the government of that Territory. That policy, I think, has shown itself to be so reasonably wise that there exists now a very different condition from what existed when that policy was inaugurated. The condition there is greatly improved, I think, though the Committee on Appropriations surely has not, nor has any committee of this body or of the House of Representatives, if you please, so far as I know, examined into the question so as to know and be able to report whether or not the condition of things existing there is such as that the proposed change would be justifiable.

There is nothing in the report of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives so far as I have been able to see, except the naked statement that they have modified the law. I believe myself that within a year or two the conditions in Utah will be such as that all the affairs relating to elections and every other question in that Territory may be relegated more directly to the General Assembly of the Territory; but are we now, on an appropriation bill, to consider this question without having the necessary data and the necessary information upon this subject? There may be Senators on this floor who have that information, but I certainly have not. That was the general motive and view which the Committee on Appropriations took with respect to this legislative provision abolishing the Utah Commission.

There is still, however, another objection which occurs to me, and that is that the chief justice, who is made one of the commissioners to execute this law and perform the functions of the Commission, is now the chief justice of the Territory and will be obliged to sit as a judge upon his administrative functions as a commissioner under this law. Suppose any question shall come up before the court in respect of the election after it shall have taken place, he will be the judge as to the regularity of the proceedings and he will be the judge as to whether the proceedings were in accordance with the provisions of law. Therefore, the provision here is radically defective. I confess that I do not know what the state of the law would be as respects the Territory of Utah if we were to abolish the Commission without providing a substitute for it.

Mr. FAULKNER. I would state to the Senator that, according to my understanding of the condition of the law there, if the Commission is abolished now, after the governor had put the statute into his pocket which had been passed by the Legislature to meet the very requirements of the Edmunds law, and thereby refused to permit it to become a law, you have no law.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well.

Mr. FAULKNER. But the result, if the chairman of the committee will permit me, would be that the governor could at once convene the Legislature and it could at once pass a law, as it has done four times, in accordance with the provisions of the Edmunds act.

Mr. ALLISON. Then the situation is such that I think it ought to invoke the consideration of the proper committee of this body whose business it is to examine into these questions and these statutes, and that is the Judiciary Committee. The Senator has stated enough to show that the Judiciary Committee ought to make some explanation of this subject and see what amendment, if any, is necessary under the Edmunds law, so called, and see what, if anything, can be omitted as respects these officers under the Edmunds law, but shall we here and now, upon a bill which must be approved before next Thursday or the Government machinery will stop, unless the former appropriations are extended through the action of both Houses, undertake to regulate this matter? It does not seem to me that it is wise to do it.

I should gladly vote for a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee of this body or the Committee on Territories, or any committee having proper jurisdiction of this question, to examine into it and report whether or not this Commission can be abolished, and, if so, what tribunal shall have the jurisdiction which is now exercised by it. I have no desire to retain the commission a minute longer than is necessary for executing the purposes and aims for which it was originally appointed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the motion to strike out the paragraph which has been read.

Mr. FAULKNER. I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. COCKRELL. The amendment is to strike out from line 13, on page 66, down to line 7, on page 67, as I understand.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is the question, to strike out only, and not to strike out and insert.

Mr. VEST. I have no disposition to detain the Senate, but I want to make a single observation about this legislation.

I state very frankly that I opposed the Edmunds bill, and there is no act of my public life that gives me less regret or more satisfaction than my action in that matter. But that is aside from this question.

One thing is certainly known to the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON] and to all of us, and that is that a very great revolution has taken place in the Territory of Utah. It has increased wonderfully in population and in wealth, and in all the higher civilization of which the American people are so justly proud. There has been new blood infused into that Territory.

No man can go to Salt Lake City and take even a superficial glance at the society and business there without coming to the conclusion that those people can be just as safely trusted with the great problem of American destiny as the people of any State in this Union. As a matter of course, the cloud of polygamy rests upon them, like the cloud of slavery rested upon some of the other States and Territories of the Union; but are we forever to go back to these old obsolete questions and prejudices in order to arrive at conclusions as to matters which are now pressing upon us in the hurry and rush and roar of our everyday American life?

All of us know that the Territorial Legislature of Utah, with new motives and under new guidance, has adopted a statute, which I have in my committee room or in my desk, which is as stringent and as absolutely coercive and punitive as the Edmunds act ever was or as mortal man, in my judgment, could ever frame a statute.

Now, what is the effect of continuing this Commission? It is just saying to the people of Utah, whose representatives have adopted that statute "you lied deliberately when you passed it;" it is saying to them, "you are not worthy of confidence; we did not believe you when you passed that law; it was a sham, a fraud, and a blind, and you are just as much devoted to polygamy as you ever were." That is the whole of it.

If we now say to them "you can not exercise the rights of American citizenship as the people of the other Territories do, notwithstanding this solemn enactment of your Territorial Legislature and putting behind you this institution of polygamy," we must say to them "We distrust you absolutely and you can not do anything to remove that distrust." Is that wise statesmanship? I do not myself know any better way in the world to ruin an individual than to give him to understand that you have not the slightest confidence in him, and that you propose to resort to punitive measures entirely in regard to him. I do not know any better way to kill a community than to say to them you have no confidence in their professions.

Look at the condition of Utah to-day. It is known to every intelligent man who has paid any attention to it, that the old leaders have lost their influence; they can not to-day summon a corporal's guard to carry out any of the old polygamous and antiquated ideas with which Smith and Young indoctrinated that people. The young men of the Territory are controlling. If I should use names here and produce private letters, I could show a state of things in Utah which makes the action of our committee here absolutely monstrous.

I have a very dear and intimate friend who went there and he is now occupying the position of a journalist at the head of one of the leading papers of Utah. He went there with as strong and as bitter prejudices against polygamy and against the people of that Territory as any man could possibly have. He is a man of great ability, a man of frank, open, strong nature, and I have private letters from him in which incidentally he discusses the question. He writes to me that Utah is exactly in the condition of any other American Territory. The quarrel about polygamy is not in Utah at all. It exists with people who do not know anything about it and are not at all connected with it, except on account of their general prejudices against such an institution, in which, of course, we all here share. That is my objection to this.

As the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] very pertinently remarked, if we are to have this Commission, which I think is absolutely unnecessary, let us have it. The idea of the Government of the United States treating one of its Territories as a colony, the idea of making an Ireland out of any portion of the soil of this country, is utterly abhorrent to all my opinions about the Government, its autonomy, and its hereditary traditions. You can not strike a more fatal blow at the progress, the pride, the self-respect, the individuality of any people in the world than by keeping them in swaddling clothes politically, in tutelage, under espionage by the Government of which they are citizens.

If these people to-day, under the blazing sunlight of our civilization and our religion, with the railroad, the telegraph, the newspaper, and progress in every way, are not fit to conduct their own affairs in the Territory, then our problem of government is a failure, and we might as well admit now that we have started on the wrong track, and that we ought to adopt the old coercive, paternal theory that men should be governed from a distance, and ought not to be permitted to govern themselves.

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President, the Territory of Utah and its government, in view of the institution which prevails there, has presented one of the most difficult problems which this Government has ever had to encounter. I think that Congress has dealt well with those people in the past, and I think that the results which have been achieved in Utah show the wisdom of the action which has been taken by Congress in the passage of the Edmunds-Tucker act and the creation of the Utah Commission.

I think the gratifying progress which has been made in Utah towards an emergence from that condition of barbarism in which for a time it was beclouded has shown that this Commission has been a wise commission. Very much of the advance which has been made and very much of the action which has been taken by the Mormon Church looking to an abandonment of the system of polygamy I believe has resulted from the wise conduct of the Utah Commission.

I agree that rapid progress is being made there, that the time is rapidly approaching, and very much more rapidly approaching than the people throughout the country now understand, when we may safely admit Utah as a State in the Union.

I believe, Mr. President, that the system of polygamy, certainly in all the most thickly settled portions of Utah, is a thing of the past. I do not believe that polygamous marriages are now being contracted—certainly not, unless it be in some of the remote and secluded portions of the Territory. In the more thickly settled and highly civilized portions of the Territory the practice of polygamy has undoubtedly been abandoned, except possibly some persons who contracted polygamous marriages in the past are not quite giving up the relations which were thus contracted. As to all the new marriages I think that the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] is quite right in saying that no new polygamous marriages are being contracted, unless it be in rare and exceptional cases.

But, Mr. President, it does not follow from that, when this Union, the Good Templars, Sons of Temperance, Temple of Honor, Will Try Social, and Boys' Temperance Union of Fall River, Mass., praying for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing that the manufacture, importation, exportation, transportation, and sale of all alcoholic liquors as a beverage shall forever be prohibited in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. PASCO presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Pensacola, Fla., praying for the passage of legislation for the completion of the Nicaragua Canal; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE presented petitions of 21 citizens of Onkama, of 38 citizens of Marilla, and of 21 citizens of Burnham, all in the State of Michigan, praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. ALLEN. I present a petition signed by a large number of business men and societies of the city of Tacoma, in the State of Washington. It is very brief, and is as follows:

We, the undersigned, citizens of the United States, residing at Tacoma, Wash., which already has a large and rapidly growing trade with the Old World, especially in wheat, lumber, and flour, respectfully and urgently petition Congress to provide or guarantee such necessary means as will assist, protect, and hasten the completion and secure the national control of the Nicaragua Maritime Canal, as recommended to Congress by the President of the United States in his recent message.

I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN presented the memorial of M. E. Charlton and other citizens of Lewisville, Wash., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Medical Society of the State of Washington, praying for the establishment of a public health department, and that such department be placed under charge of a Cabinet officer; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. SQUIRE presented a petition of the Board of Trade of Anacortes, Wash., praying that an appropriation be made for a coast-defense vessel to be stationed in Puget Sound; which was referred to the Committee on Coast Defenses.

He also presented a petition of John F. Miller Post, No. 31, Grand Army of the Republic, of Washington, praying for the passage of the Quay-Wheeler bills relative to marking the battle lines at Gettysburg, Pa.; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of citizens of Seattle, Wash., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

He also presented memorials of members of the Seventh-Day Adventist churches of College Place, Quilicene, and Kent, and a memorial of members of different religious bodies of Weston, all in the State of Washington, remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the American Sabbath Tract Society of Plainfield, N. J., praying that the World's Columbian Exposition be closed on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PEPPER presented the memorial of Lewis Spencer and 29 other members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church of Bird City, Kans., remonstrating against a commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the memorial of A. N. Case and sundry other citizens of Bavaria, Kans., remonstrating against the passage of House bill 395 and Senate bill 2984, known as the Brosius-Wilson bills, and praying for the passage of the Paddock pure-food bill; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. PADDOCK presented a memorial of the American Secular Union of Chicago, Ill., remonstrating against the passage of House bill 8367 for the delivery and sale of ice on Sunday in the District of Columbia; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. MANDERSON presented a memorial of sundry citizens of Valentine, Nebr., remonstrating against the passage of legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented petitions of citizens of Chester, Blue Springs, and Columbus, all in the State of Nebraska, praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. HARRIS presented a petition of Haywood G. Angus, Patrons of Husbandry, of Tennessee, praying for the passage of legislation regulating speculation in farm products; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. COKE presented a petition of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Austin, Tex., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3130) authorizing the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue a land patent to George W. and Lottie Rogers, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. DOLPH. By direction of the Committee on Public Lands, I report back favorably without amendment the bill (S. 1729) to amend section 2237 of the Revised Statutes, in relation to salaries of registers and receivers of United States land offices. This bill was ordered reported on the 7th of May, and I supposed it was on the Calendar; but it does not appear to have been reported.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. DOLPH, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom were referred the following bills, reported adversely thereon; and they were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 1075) to regulate and fix the compensation of registers of the land office and receivers of public moneys in each land district.

A bill (S. 1734) to amend section 2237 of Title XXXII of chapter 2 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in relation to salaries of registers and receivers of United States land offices; and

A bill (S. 1736) to amend section 2237 of chapter 2 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to registers and receivers of land offices.

Mr. DAVIS. I am directed by the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3319) to secure certain reciprocal advantages to citizens, ports, and vessels of the United States, to report it with amendments.

I am also directed by the committee to give notice that I shall press for an early consideration of the measure.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. PROCTOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1898) for the recognition of Henry C. Hill as captain and aid-de-camp on the staff of Maj. Gen. B. F. Butler, United States Volunteers, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2916) for the relief of David H. Thompson, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. CHANDLER. On behalf of the Senator from California [Mr. STANFORD], from the Committee on Naval Affairs, I report back the bill (S. 1219) to authorize the payment to Rear-Admiral John H. Russell of the highest pay of his grade, without amendment, and submit a written report thereon.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. WARREN, from the Committee on Irrigation and Reclamation of Arid Lands, reported the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate the House of Representatives concurring, That there be printed and bound in cloth 20,000 additional copies of Executive Document No. 41, Fifty-second Congress, first session, it being a report on irrigation and the cultivation of the soil thereby, with physical data, conditions, and progress within the United States for 1891, accompanied by maps, illustrations, and papers, of which 7,000 shall be for use of the Senate and 13,000 for use of the House of Representatives.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the deficiency appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2128) for the relief of John S. Sammis, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 1239) for the relief of the Mobile and Girard Railroad Company, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am directed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1266) to pay the awards of the Court of Claims in the French spoliation cases, to report it with an amendment, and submit a report thereon.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. MITCHELL. From the same committee, I report an amendment intended to be proposed to the deficiency appropriation bill, which I ask be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

I desire to state that this amendment covers awards made by the Court of Claims in French spoliation cases amounting to the sum of $458,359.65. There was incorporated in the last deficiency bill, passed the 3d of March, 1891, the sum of $1,304,065.37. This present report covers scarcely one-fourth of the awards that have been made by the Court of Claims.

Attached to the report and made a part of it for the information of the Senate is a schedule of claims that were reported upon favorably by the Court of Claims prior to March 3, 1891, and which were not included in the appropriation of that date. That list amounts to $1,044,828.51. Then again there is attached to the report a separate schedule of awards that have been made favorably by the court since that date and which are not included in the bill now reported amounting to the sum of $329,936.97. So there have been awards made by that court which are not covered either by the appropriation made one year ago and over or in the proposed bill amounting to $1,374,765.48.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The proposed amendment will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7296) granting pensions to the survivors of the Indian wars of 1832 and 1842, inclusive, known as the Black Hawk war, Creek war, Cherokee disturbances, and the Seminole war, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 3342) to regulate contests under the land laws in certain cases; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3343) to amend the act to incorporate the Washington and Sandy Spring Narrow Gauge Railroad Company; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. FAULKNER introduced a bill (S. 3344) to pension Mary Cunningham; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. COLQUITT introduced a bill (S. 3345) to provide for the improvement of the outer bar of Brunswick, Ga.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HUNTON introduced a bill (S. 3346) for relief of representatives of John S. Barbour, late a Senator from Virginia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3347) for the relief of Mrs. Tabb Bolling Lee, the widow of William H. F. Lee, late a Representative from Virginia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. ALLEN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3348) for the relief of James J. Wheeler; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3349) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Brightwood Railway Company of the District of Columbia;" which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3350) denoting a Napoleon gun to the Society of the Sons of the Revolution of Pennsylvania; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill (S. 3351) for the relief of Francis L. Abbot, administrator of the late Thomas J. Treadwell, of the United States Army; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3352) granting a pension to Dr. J. B. Thurman; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CALL. I present the petition of John H. Caro, of the city of Pensacola, Fla., inclosing a proposed law, in which he appeals to Congress in the name of Christianity and humanity to pass a law designed to overcome the many social and moral evils arising from the existing methods pursued by sailor boarding houses, whereby sailors are led to desert from their vessels and become slaves in the hands of these boarding masters. The petition goes on to set forth the great evils inflicted upon sailors by this practice and the necessity of a change in the existing law. I present it with the bill, which I introduce by request, for the protection of sailors from boarding-house keepers, for reference to the Committee on Commerce.

The bill (S. 3353) for the protection of sailors from boarding-house keepers was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. CALL introduced a bill (S. 3354) for the relief of the heirs of Lieut John E. Scott; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Revolutionary Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3355) granting a pension to Samuel B. Hurlbut; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

AMENDMENT TO APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. CAMERON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which, with the accompanying paper, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. HALE submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7634) "making appropriations for the diplomatic and consular service of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments numbered 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 27, 131, 177 and 178.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 22, 24, 26, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 37, 38, 39, 40, 44, 45, 46, 47, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 176, and 181; and agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 23, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed, insert $30,000; and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 25, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Add at the end of said amendment the following:

"Provided, That this sum shall be in full of the share of the United States, for the expense of said preliminary survey, and nothing herein contained shall in any way commit the United States to any aid for the construction or equipment of said railway."

And the Senate agree to the same.

ECKINGTON AND SOLDIERS' HOME RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 400) to amend the charter of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railroad having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate and agree to the same with the further amendment to be inserted on page 1, line 12, after the word "branch;" also beginning at the intersection of Fifth and G streets northwest; thence south on Fifth street to Louisiana avenue; thence southwesterly on Louisiana avenue to a point, to be located by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, east of Seventh street northwest, and returning by the same route to the said point of beginning;" and that the Senate agree to the same.

COMMITTEE SERVICE.

Mr. HARRIS. Being a member of the Committee to Investigate Failed National Banks, I find my engagements are such as to render it impossible for me to give the matter proper attention. I therefore ask the Senate to excuse me from further service on that committee.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee asks that the Senate excuse him from further service on the Committee to Investigate Failed National Banks. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the Senator is excused.

Mr. HARRIS. The Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON], who was also a member of that committee, was excused yesterday. I ask that the vacancies occasioned by excusing the Senator from New Jersey and myself may be filled by the Chair.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Tennessee? The Chair hears none; and appoints to fill the vacancies on the Committee to Investigate Failed National Banks the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE] and the Senator from Ohio [Mr. BRICE].

LEGISLATIVE, ETC., APPROPRIATION BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there is no further morning business, the Calendar under Rule VIII is in order.

Mr. ALLISON. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 9049) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is in the Senate and the amendments placed on the bill as in Committee of the Whole have been concurred in with the exception of certain reserved amendments. The question is on concurring in the Senate in the first amendment which was reserved. It will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 66, after line 12, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, struck out the following:

That so much of section 9 of the act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, as authorizes the President to appoint a board of five persons to exercise certain powers and duties prescribed in said section, be, and the same is hereby, repealed; and the said board is hereby abolished, and all powers and duties conferred upon said board are hereby imposed upon and shall be discharged, without additional compensation, by a board hereby created, to be constituted of the governor, chief justice, and secretary of the Territory of Utah.

For the following expenses of the foregoing board, namely: For printing, stationery, clerk hire, and office rent, $3,000. Provided, That out of this sum the said board is hereby authorized to pay to the secretary of the Territory, who, in addition to being a member of the board, shall be its secretary and disbursing agent, a reasonable sum for such service, not exceeding $300 for the fiscal year 1893.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on concurring in the amendment agreed to as in Committee of the Whole striking out the words which have been read. Does the Senator from West Virginia desire a ye-a-and-nay vote on this question in the Senate?

Mr. FAULKNER. It was understood that a ye-a-and-nay vote should be considered as ordered on the amendment in the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that, that the yeas and nays were ordered upon this question. The Secretary will call the roll upon concurring in the amendment.

Mr. GEORGE. I should like to have the amendment read so as to know how to vote. I was not present yesterday.

The Secretary again read the amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on concurring in the action of the Senate as in Committee of the Whole in striking out the words which have been read. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

Mr. COLQUITT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. CULLOM (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY].

Mr. PLATT (to Mr. CULLOM). Transfer your pair to the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH].

Mr. CULLOM. It is intimated that I may transfer my pair to the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH]. I do so, and vote "yea."

Mr. DAVIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. McPHERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS].

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (when Mr. MANDERSON'S name was called). The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. SAWYER. I am paired with my colleague [Mr. VILAS], but that pair has been transferred to the Senator from Montana [Mr. POWER], and I vote "yea."

Mr. SQUIRE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL]. Not knowing how he would vote, I withhold my vote.

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON], but I have reason to believe that he would vote on this question as I shall do, and I therefore vote "nay."

Mr. WHITE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Montana [Mr. POWER]. I transfer that pair to the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS], so as to enable the senior Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. SAWYER] and myself to vote, and I vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE].

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I am paired with the junior Senator from Illinois [Mr. PALMER]; if he were present I should vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 28, nays 24; as follows:

YEAS—28

So the amendment was concurred in.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on concurring in the next reserved amendment, which will be read.

The SECRETARY. On page 67, after line 7, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, inserted the following words:

For the salaries of the five Commissioners appointed under an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, at $5,000 each, $25,000.

For the following expenses of the Commission, namely: For traveling expenses, printing, stationery, clerk hire, and office rent, $8,500; Provided, That out of this sum the Commission is hereby authorized to pay the secretary of the Territory, who is its secretary and disbursing agent, a reasonable sum for such service, not exceeding $300, for the fiscal year 1892.

Mr. CAREY. Is an amendment to the amendment in order at this time?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. An amendment to the amendment is in order.

Mr. CAREY. I move to amend by fixing the salary at $3,000 per annum, and reducing the total to $15,000.

I do this for this reason: The governors of the Territories receive $3,000 per annum; the judges of the Territories receive $3,000 per annum; the surveyors-general of the Territories receive $2,500 per annum. The governor of Utah actually receives $2,000, as his salary has been cut down.

The Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] yesterday gave notice that the Western States would not have a sufficient amount of money to carry on the office work of the surveyors-general in the several States where the offices are located, for the reason that the money is not in the Treasury to pay them. There are a number of States in the extreme West that are not very much interested in an appropriation bill that carries forty-odd million dollars. The people in the Western country who are settling upon the lands in the States that have had appropriations of public land are very anxious to have the lands surveyed, and when they are surveyed they are anxious to have the office work brought up so that the settlers and the States may have the advantage which they are entitled to under the act of Congress.

I believe that $3,000 per annum is an adequate salary to men whose only duty consists in appointing certain election officers and making a canvass of the votes in the Territory of Utah. If the $10,000 which would be saved could be distributed among several of the States for office work in the offices of the surveyors-general, I think it would do a great deal of good, while it would not work a hardship to these men who travel backward and forward to perform this duty.

I cast my vote against the amendment reported by the Senate committee for this reason. The Tucker-Edmunds law was aimed at polygamy. The people in Utah, I believe, have abandoned polygamy. I believe that these people are rapidly preparing themselves to enter into the Union as one of the States of this Union. I do not believe in the Territorial system. I have seen too many outrages performed in Territories by men who were sent there from Washington, who know little about Territorial affairs, and who really have no interest in the affairs of those people.

If you believe the people who have settled in Utah are honest, if you believe they really have abandoned polygamy and they intend to forever abandon it, I believe in making some concessions to them and meeting them fairly and squarely upon this issue.

The provision which was put on the bill in the other House did not take away these duties and vest them again in the Mormon people. It simply reposed the duties in officers already in existence, namely, the governor, the secretary, and the chief justice. But the Senate have voted differently upon this matter, so when we come to this second amendment I ask the Senate to have the $10,000 that some of the Western States that need appropriations in other directions may have those which are absolutely necessary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Wyoming to the amendment made as in Committee of the Whole will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 67, line 13, before the first word "thousand," strike out "five" and insert "three;" and in the same line, before the word "thousand," where it occurs the second time, strike out "twenty-five" and insert "fifteen."

Mr. FELTON. Mr. President, I desire to say a word in explanation of the vote I gave yesterday and this morning. I did so because I do not believe, for the reasons given on this floor and from conversations which I have had with many gentlemen from all parts of Utah, that the Commission is any longer necessary. I shall vote for this amendment cheerfully, because the salary which was formerly given is away beyond the requirements for the Commission.

As I understand, this Commission visit that part of the country once a year. The period of their employment is a matter of not more than one month, they remaining there at times about ten days and performing such duties as are required of them. I believe that for a trip to Salt Lake and back, with the usual expense attached to it, the pay is amply sufficient for the services the Commission render. In the interest of economy and for the reason the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] has just given, that there is urgent necessity for small appropriations such as he referred to, and those appropriations may be made from the amount saved by reducing this item, and at the same time a nifty payment be rendered the Commission for all the duties they perform. I think the amendment should be agreed to. Three thousand dollars, in my opinion, would be an extravagant price for the services rendered by the Commission.

Mr. SHERMAN. I voted against abolishing the Utah Commission because I believe that so long as Utah remains as a Territorial government a commission of this kind will have a healthy effect. I believe the organization of the Commission has practically abolished polygamy, one of the greatest evils and vices which could befall any people. But I do think now, inasmuch as the desired results have been accomplished, and since the moral effect of the Commission is no longer required, that the appropriation should be reduced.

When these gentlemen were first appointed the salary was placed very high for the reason that it was thought best to select five gentlemen of distinguished position, of high character, well-known attainments, and well-known influence throughout the United States; men who would bring to bear a moral influence upon the people of Utah. That was the idea which I know actuated the Senators who participated in organizing the Utah Commission, and it influenced me in providing the liberal compensation of $5,000 a year, making the amount $25,000 a year for a commission to practically govern the Territory. Their powers were very extensive. Now there is no necessity for such powers, and a reduction of the rate of salary to $2,000 a year would be amply sufficient. Three thousand dollars is the amount proposed, but I think that is probably too high, as their duties are now limited to taking care of the elections and seeing that the election laws are fairly observed. I believe a moderate sum, which will enable the commissioners to go there and remain a month in the year will be amply sufficient. I shall vote, however, for any sum that is proposed, $3,000 or $2,000, though I think $2,000 is enough.

Mr. CALL. Let the amendment be stated.

Mr. SHERMAN. I shall move an amendment that "$2,000" be inserted instead of "$3,000."

Mr. CAREY. I will accept that amendment. There is another matter—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY], the Chair understands, is modified by him.

Mr. CAREY. I am willing to modify the amendment in the way suggested by the Senator from Ohio.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated, as modified.

The SECRETARY. On page 67, line 13, before the word "thousand" where it first occurs, it is proposed to strike out "five" and insert "two," and in the same line before the word "thousand" where it occurs the second time, to strike out "twenty-five" and insert "ten;" so as to make the clause read:

For the salaries of the five commissioners appointed under an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, at $2,000 each, $10,000.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment to the amendment.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question now is on concurring in the amendment as amended.

Mr. CAREY. I should like to offer another amendment if it is in order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is in the Senate and an amendment is in order.

Mr. CAREY. On page 67, line 8, after the word "commissioners," I move to insert the words, "who shall be actual residents of the Territory of Utah."

Several SENATORS. Oh, no.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope that amendment will not be insisted upon for the little time the commissioners are there.

Mr. CAREY. Then, make it that, when the terms of the present commissioners expire, residents of the Territory only shall be appointed. I will move the amendment in the form which I send to the desk.

Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HENDERSON of North Carolina, Mr. BLOUNT, and Mr. CALDWELL, managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 6875) making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, asked a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. MITCHELLER, Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts, and Mr. GROTT managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9040) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, asked a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. FORNEY, Mr. DOCKERY, and Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa, managers at the conference on the part of the House.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. FRYE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3050) to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate the carriage of passengers by sea," approved August 2, 1882, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2920) to establish a subport of entry, reported it with amendments.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2966) to amend rule 7, section 4233, Revised Statutes, reported it without amendment.

Mr. FRYE. I am instructed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3017) to provide and equip a steam vessel for boarding purposes, at Philadelphia, Pa., to report it adversely, for the reason that the Treasury Department is now building a vessel which will be assigned to the port of Philadelphia. I move that the bill be postponed indefinitely.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1753) to remove charges of desertion in certain cases, submitted an adverse report thereon: which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

A bill (S. 477) for the relief of Jane Boller.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1240) granting to the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway Company right of way across the military reservation at Sault Ste. Marie, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PROCTOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom were referred the following bills, submitted adverse reports thereon: which were agreed to, and the bills were postponed indefinitely:

A bill (S. 519) for the relief of Francis Irsch;

A bill (S. 1803) for the relief of Francis Irsch;

A bill (S. 2616) providing for the assignment to active service of army officers previously retired on account of disability incurred in the line of duty upon their restoration to health, and for other purposes; and

A bill (S. 3089) to regulate the examination of the records and papers concerning soldiers, sailors, and marines of the United States by claimants for pension, back pay, and bounty, and for other purposes.

Mr. WALTHALL, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1103) for the relief of Thomas J. Spencer, submitted an adverse report thereon: which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6792) granting to the county of Mariposa, in the State of California, the right of way for a free wagon road or turnpike across the Yosemite National Park, in said State, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. CAMERON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1383) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of George H. Holmes, submitted an adverse report thereon: which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HAWLEY, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2983) to authorize the construction of a railway across the Government reservation at Willoughby Spit, Va., submitted an adverse report thereon: which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. PROCTOR. I am directed by the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2861), to authorize the Secretary of War to purchase for governmental and industrial use at Rock Island Arsenal, Rock Island, Ill., a testing machine for tension and compression, to submit an adverse report thereon. The Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM], who introduced the bill, desires that it be placed on the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. At the request of the Senator from Illinois the bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

Mr. PETTIGREW, from the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select), to whom was referred the bill (S. 3251) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus by holding an international exhibition of arts, industries, manufactures, and the products of the soil, mine, and sea, in the city of Chicago, in the State of Illinois," reported it with amendments.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I am also instructed by the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial, to whom was referred an amendment proposed by the Senator from Illinois [Mr. PALMER] to the sundry civil appropriation bill, to report it favorably with amendments. I ask that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be so ordered.

Mr. VEST. As a member of that committee I desire to state that the minority of the committee disagree from this favorable report, and also from the action of the committee in offering an amendment to the sundry civil bill. I speak for myself and the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT].

Mr. FRYE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2906) to amend section 1194 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to certificates of title of vessels, reported adversely thereon: and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill (S. 3358) providing for the collection of fees for furnishing certificates of title to vessels: which was read twice by its title.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3188) to extend to Duluth, Minn., the privilege of immediate transportation of unappraised merchandise, reported it with amendments.

Mr. DIXON, from the Committee on Patents, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3216) revising and amending the statutes relating to patents, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH, EAST BATON ROUGE, LA.

Mr. WALTHALL. I am directed by the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3273) authorizing the St. Joseph's Church, in the parish of East Baton Rouge, in the State of Louisiana, to use the land quitclaimed to it by the United States for school purposes, to report it favorably without amendment.

Mr. WHITE. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate consider the bill just reported.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to authorize the St. Joseph's Church, in the parish of East Baton Rouge, La., to use the land quitclaimed to it by the terms of an act approved September 30, 1890, for religious, school, or charitable purposes, in addition to the right to use the same for cemetery purposes, as expressed in the terms of the act.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

COURTS IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am instructed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3126) to regulate the times for holding the terms of the United States courts in the State of South Dakota, to report it with an amendment, and recommend its passage. This is a local bill, and it is important that it should be passed at an early date. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to its consideration at this time.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The amendment of the Committee on the Judiciary was to add the following additional section:

SEC. 2. The provision of statute now existing for the holding of said courts on any day contrary to the provisions of this act is hereby repealed, and all suits, prosecutions, process, recognizances, bail bonds, and other things pending in or returnable to said court on the days now fixed by law are hereby transferred to and shall be made returnable to and have force in the said respective terms in this act provided in the same manner and with the same effect as they would have had said statute not been passed.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WILLIAM P. KEADY.

Mr. DOLPH. By direction of the Committee on Public Lands, I report favorably the bill (S. 3264) for the relief of William P. Keady, and during the day I shall present a written report, which I shall hand to the Secretary to be printed. As this is purely a private bill on its face to perfect the title to a town in the State of Washington, a mere confirmation of an entry allowed by the register and receiver of the land office, and the bill will consume no longer time than will be necessary to read it, I ask for its present consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The Secretary read the bill; and, by unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. DOLPH. In four places in the bill the words "Territory of Washington" appear. The word "Territory" should be stricken out in each case, as Washington is now a State.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendments will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 9, after the word "Washington," it is proposed to strike out "Territory."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in line 13, after the word "Washington," to strike out "Territory."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in line 25, after the word "Washington," to strike out "Territory."

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in line 29, after the word "Washington," to strike out "Territory."

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 3356) for the relief of Theodore Ten Eyck, a retired army officer; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. FAULKNER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3357) for the relief of Emmart, Dunbar & Co.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. COCKRELL. I introduce by request a bill, not knowing anything about the merits of it.

The bill (S. 3359) for amendment of the military record of Thomas Kehoe as a member of Company A of the Sixty-first New York Volunteers was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. DOLPH introduced a bill (S. 3360) to amend section 6 of an act entitled "An act to prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States," approved May 5, 1892; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. DOLPH. It will be remembered that when the conference report on the bill for the exclusion of Chinese laborers from the United States was under discussion some one objected that the word "white" had been used in the clause of the bill requiring Chinamen after the expiration of a year to prove that they had been lawfully in the country by one credible witness. At that time it was too late to correct the bill. Certainly there was no intention on my part, and I think I can speak for the other members of the committee, to discriminate against any person of color as a witness, the only object being to provide that there should be some witness besides Chinese laborers or Chinese persons. I therefore ask leave to introduce this bill to amend section 6 of the act mentioned by striking out the word "white" and inserting in lieu of it "a witness not a Chinese person or a person of Chinese descent;" so as to carry out what I suppose to have been the intention of the conference committee.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations in the absence of objection.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3361) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase certain books; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (S. 3362) for the relief of Alonzo E. Miltimore; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. COLQUITT (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3363) for the relief of the heirs of Jacob R. Davis; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS.

Mr. PADDOCK submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. CALL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the general deficiency appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. WARREN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill (S. 51) to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes; which was ordered to be printed.

PRINTING OF A MEMORIAL.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, on January 27, 1890, I presented a memorial of the State of Washington, upon which I find indorsed the usual order that it be printed in the RECORD. By some inadvertence this memorial never was printed. It is a memorial of the Legislature of the State of Washington, setting forth the advantages of shipping and general commerce in the construction of a fresh-water basin by connecting Lakes Union and Washington with Puget Sound. As use is desired to be made of this memorial, I ask at this time that it may be printed as a document, as by an oversight it was not printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the memorial will be printed as a document. The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

INCOME AND SUCCESSION TAX.

Mr. CALL submitted the following resolution; which was ordered to lie on the table and be printed:

Resolved both Houses. That in view of the great amount of money required to be appropriated under existing law for the payment of pensions and the current expenditures of the Government and the unequal pressure of our present system of taxation on the great body of the people the public interests require that an income and a succession tax shall be imposed on all net incomes and all successions and all inheritances which shall exceed $3,000, which shall increase with the amount of the income and the property inherited or distributed under wills, devises, or by operation of law.

HEATON'S "RECALL OF COLUMBUS."

Mr. QUAY submitted the following resolution; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled. That the representatives from the United States to the Columbian Historical Exposition at Madrid in 1892 are hereby permitted to take from the Capitol, for use at said exposition, the picture of the "Recall of Columbus," painted by Augustus G. Heaton.

APPEALS IN CAPITAL CASES.

Mr. MITCHELL. I move that the bill (S. 2171) to amend section 763 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which passed the other House with certain amendments, be taken from the table and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. HALE submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7033) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes having met, after full and free conference have been unable to agree.

The report was concurred in.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the President pro tempore:

A bill (H. R. 410) to amend the charter of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railroad Company;

A bill (H. R. 429) to incorporate the District of Columbia Suburban Railway Company; and

A bill (H. R. 5734) granting a pension to Eliza M. Boatright, the surviving widow of Alexander M. Boatright, who was a soldier in the Black Hawk war.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVAL.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had this day approved and signed the act (S. 246) for the relief of Thomas A. McLaughlin.

DAVID L. TRUEN.

The bill (H. R. 2902) for the relief of David L. Truex was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to David L. Truex, dependent son of John Truex, late a private in Company D, Eighty-second Indiana Volunteers, the pension of $18 per month heretofore made payable to his guardian, said payments to include all sums accrued and accruing by reason of the act of August 19, 1890, for his relief.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

NANCY E. RENFRO.

The bill (H. R. 3202) to pension Nancy E. Renfro was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Nancy E. Renfro, of Camden, Ouachita County, Ark., the widow of William P. Renfro, deceased, who served in Captain Otey's company, from the State of Alabama, Creek Indian war, 1838, and to pay her the same pension as is allowed by law to the widows of the soldiers of the war of 1812.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read a third time, and passed.

MARY GATLIN.

The bill (H. R. 5364) granting a pension to Mary Gatlin was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Mary Gatlin, widow of John H. Gatlin, a soldier of the war of 1836, and to pay her a pension at the rate of $20 per month.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WILLIAM A. BIRCH.

The bill (H. R. 4043) granting an increase of pension to William A. Birch was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to William A. Birch, of Louisville, Ky., a monthly pension of $20, in lieu of the amount paid him as a survivor of the Mexican war under pension certificate No. 18089.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DAVID C. BARROW.

The bill (H. R. 5363) granting a pension to David C. Barrow was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of David C. Barrow, a soldier of the Indian war of 1836, and to pay him a pension of $20 per month.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FORDYCE R. MELVIN.

The bill (S. 1660) granting an increase of pension to Fordyce R. Melvin was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, in line 8, after the word "rate," to strike out "of $50 per month in lieu of the pension he is now receiving," and to insert "fixed by law for the loss of an arm above the elbow;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of Fordyce R. Melvin, late a corporal in Company K, Twenty-fourth Regiment New York Volunteers, and pay him a pension at the rate fixed by law for the loss of an arm above the elbow.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

KATE P. MITCHELL.

The bill (H. R. 1445) for the relief of Kate P. Mitchell, daughter of Stephen Mitchell, late of the Fifth Maine Battery, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to pay to Kate P. Mitchell, of Somerville, Mass., dependent daughter of Stephen Mitchell, late of the Fifth Maine Battery, a pension of $15 per month.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ADELINE ALEXANDER.

The bill (H. R. 1276) to pension Adeline Alexander was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Adeline Alexander, widow of Thomas C. Alexander, late a private in Company I, Thirtieth Regiment Vermont Volunteers.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BRIDGET MALOY.

The bill (H. R. 2456) granting a pension to Bridget Maloy was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Bridget Maloy, widow of Arthur Maloy, late of Company E, Forty-third Regiment New York Infantry, and to pay her a pension of $12 a month.

MRS. HELEN A. DE RUSSY.

The bill (S. 533) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Helen A. De Russey, widow of the late Gen. René E. De Russey, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place the name of Mrs. Helen A. De Russey, widow of the late Gen. René E. De Russey, on the pension rolls at $50 per month in lieu of the pension of $30 per month which she is now receiving.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

AARON V. HAMILTON.

The bill (H. R. 5383) to increase the pension of Aaron V. Hamilton, late a member of Fremont's Battalion, Mexican war, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, in line 6, before the word "dollars," to strike out "twenty" and insert "twelve;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the pension of Aaron V. Hamilton, of Lincoln County, Mo., late a member of Gibson's Company, Fremont's Battalion, in the war with Mexico, be increased from the sum of $8 per month to the sum of $12 per month.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

ANDREW J. JONES.

The bill (H. R. 3123) to pension Andrew J. Jones for services in the Indian wars was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

It proposes to place on the pension rolls the name of Andrew J. Jones, of Capt. James Barnes's Spy Company, Second Regiment of Oregon Mounted Volunteers, for meritorious services, and for severe wounds received in March, 1856, while engaged in battle with the hostile Rogue River and Cow Creek Indians in Cow Creek Valley, in the then territory, now State of Oregon. The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

JAMES A. DAVIS.

The bill (H. R. 188) granting a pension to James A. Davis was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, in line 12, before the word "dollars," to strike out "twenty" and insert "twelve," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to place upon the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of James A. Davis, a soldier in the Black Hawk war, who enlisted July 31, 1832, for one year, and served to December 21, 1832, when he was discharged on surgeon's certificate of disability, in Capt. Jesse B. Brown's company, United States Mounted Rangers, and pay him a pension of $12 per month.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

ANNIE M. GREENE.

The bill (S. 1770) granting a pension to Annie M. Greene, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, in line 8, before the word "dollars," to strike out "eighteen" and insert "fifteen," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll the name of Annie M. Greene, dependent on an invalid daughter of Jeremiah Greene, late a private in Company A, First Regiment New Hampshire Artillery Volunteers, at the rate of $15 per month.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EDWARD DORSEY.

The bill (S. 2979) for the relief of Edward Dorsey, late Company C, First United States Colored Troops, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place upon the rolls of the Pension Bureau the name of Edward Dorsey, at the rate of $45 per month.

Mr. GALLINGER. I move to insert "late Company C, First United States Colored Troops" after the name "Dorsey," in line 4.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. I ask that the report be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will read the report.

The Secretary read the following report (submitted by Mr. DAVIS May 25, 1892):

The Committee on Pensions, having considered the bill (S. 2979) for the relief of Edward Dorsey, late Company C, First United States Colored Troops, beg leave to report:

The beneficiary under the bill is now a pensioner at $35 per month, for the resection of the left arm at the shoulder joint, and for varicose and fistula in ano. The condition of this pensioner, as shown before the committee, is such that the elbow and forearm is attached to the shoulder simply by the muscles and integuments the bones having been entirely removed, and it remains only as an incumbrance without power or use, and is a source of constant pain, reaching to the left shoulder, neck, and right arm, and rendering the latter member so ineffective as to be practically useless for work. If his arm were amputated at the shoulder joint he would be entitled to a pension of $45 per month; but under the law as construed by the Pension Bureau, he is awarded only $35. This construction is not criticised by the committee, as it may be technically correct; but they consider that as this arm by resection is rendered worse than useless, and a painful incumbrance, the spirit and justice of the law is vindicated in his behalf by the award of $45 hereby recommended, the sum to which he would have been unquestionably entitled if full amputation had been originally performed.

The committee report favorably upon the bill and recommend its passage.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MRS. JULIA C. SHARPE.

The bill (S. 3166) providing a pension for Mrs. Julia C. Sharpe was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $50 per month, the name of Julia C. Sharpe, widow of the late Gen. Jacob Sharpe.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MARY ISABELLA HUTCHISON.

The bill (H. R. 5377) granting a pension to Mary Isabella Hutchison was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. I object to the consideration of that bill for the present.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Shall the bill retain its place on the Calendar?

Mr. COCKRELL. For the present it may retain its place.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection being made, the bill will be passed over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

MERIDY SMITH.

The bill (H. R. 5722) increasing the pension of Meridy Smith, a Revolutionary pensioner, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to increase the pension of Meridy Smith, widow of William Smith, a soldier in the Revolutionary war, from $12 per month to $30 per month.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read in that case. I thought we had gotten through with Revolutionary pensioners.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. PADDOCK June 8, 1892:

The Committee on Pensions, having had under consideration the bill (H. R. 5722) increasing the pension of Meridy Smith, adopted and submit as their own report of the House Committee on Pensions on the same, presenting the statement of fact and conclusions therein, and recommending the passage of the bill.

HOUSE REPORT

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5722) increasing the pension of Meridy Smith have considered the same and respectfully report as follows:

A similar bill was before your committee at the second session of the Fifty-first Congress, and the favorable report therein, numbered H. R. 3989, is adopted by your committee as their report, and the bill is returned, recommending its passage.

(House Report No. 3989, Fifty-first Congress, second session.)

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 13061) increasing the pension of Mrs. Meridy Smith have considered the same and report:

Meridy Smith is the widow of William Smith, who served as a soldier in the Revolutionary war. She is now receiving a pension at $12 per month under the general law pensioning widows of the soldiers of the Revolution.

Accompanying the bill is the testimony of William Wise and C. H. Stamps, citizens of Newnan, Ga., setting forth that Mrs. Smith's pension of $144 per year is insufficient to afford her a comfortable support, and that she has no property whatever aside from a few poor articles of household furniture and wearing apparel, and that she is now about 85 years old and requires the constant attention of another person.

The passage of the bill is recommended.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GEN. WILLIAM H. MORRIS.

Mr. CAREY. I ask the Senator from New Hampshire to give way one minute, that I may call up a bill on the Calendar. It will take no time.

Mr. GALLINGER. I will yield to the Senator provided the bill does not provoke discussion.

Mr. CAREY. It will cause no debate whatever. I ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair understands that the Senate is proceeding with pension bills by unanimous consent, and it will require unanimous consent to take up any bill other than pension bills.

Mr. CAREY. I ask unanimous consent.

Mr. COCKRELL. We have commenced on pension bills, and let us go on with them until we get through. We do not want to make two bites of one cherry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next pension bill on the Calendar will be announced.

The bill (S. 849) granting a pension to Gen. William H. Morris was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, in line 7, before the word "dollars," to strike out "one hundred" and insert "fifty," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws, the name of William H. Morris, late a brevet major-general of volunteers in the Army of the United States, at the rate of $50 per month, in lieu of the pension which he is now receiving.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BETSEY MCGEORGE.

The bill (S. 3166) for the relief of Betsey McGeorge was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

So the bill was passed.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

Mr. TARSNEY. Mr. Speaker, I move to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the absence of objection that order will be made.

Mr. KILGORE. I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. McRAE. I desire to report back from the Committee on Public Lands the bill (S. 782) and ask that it be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. KILGORE. I have objected to the unanimous consent asked that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair did not hear the gentleman's objection.

Mr. KILGORE. But I objected.

Several MEMBERS. Too late.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. At what time did the gentleman object?

Mr. KILGORE. I did it before the Chair made any announcement on the subject.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will take the word of the gentleman. The Chair did not hear the objection of the gentleman. The question is on the motion to lay on the table the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed.

The question being taken, the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

On a division demanded by Mr. KILGORE, there were—ayes 113, noes 1.

Mr. KILGORE. No quorum, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEARD. I demand the yeas and nays.

Mr. KILGORE. I am willing to withdraw the point of no quorum to let in conference reports, but for no other purpose.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Then the gentleman might as well not withdraw the point at all.

Mr. TARSNEY. I deny the right of any member to dictate the order of business in this House, and I demand the yeas and nays.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. No one man can run this House.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 163, nays 15, not voting 150; as follows:

So the motion to reconsider was laid on the table.
During the roll call (at 5 o'clock p. m.)

Mr. KILGORE said: Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order that the hour has arrived when, under the rules, the House must take a recess until 8 o'clock p. m.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. O'FERRALL in the chair). The present occupant of the chair understands that it has been uniformly held that a roll call can not be interrupted.

Mr. KILGORE. But the rule is imperative.

Mr. BUCILANAN of New Jersey. The ruling is just as imperative.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair overrules the point of order.

The Clerk then resumed and completed the calling of the roll.

The following additional pair was announced:

For the rest of this day:

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama with Mr. GRISWOLD.

Mr. GANTZ. Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. HARE] is absent on account of the sickness of his child.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule the House stands in recess until 8 o'clock this evening.

EVENING SESSION.

The recess having expired, the House met at 8 o'clock p. m. and was called to order by the Chief Clerk, Mr. T. O. TOWLES, who read the following communication:

SPEAKER'S ROOM,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, UNITED STATES,
Washington, D. C., July 1, 1892.

SIR: I name Hon. J. C. TARSNEY, a Representative from Missouri, to perform the duties of the Chair at this evening's session.

Yours, etc.,

CHARLES F. CRISP,
Speaker House of Representatives.

Hon. JAMES KERR,
Chief House of Representatives.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. TARSNEY). The House is in session, under the rule, for the consideration of measures upon the Private Calendar reported from the Committee on Invalid Pensions and the Committee on Pensions, measures reported from the Committee on the Judiciary for the removal of political disabilities, and measures reported from the Committee on Military Affairs for the removal of charges of desertion.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. MCKINNEY. I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the consideration of bills on the Private Calendar under the rule.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. KILGORE. Division, Mr. Speaker.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 37, noes 3.

Mr. KILGORE. No quorum, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas [Mr. KILGORE] makes the point of no quorum. The gentleman from New Hampshire [Mr. MCKINNEY] and the gentleman from Texas [Mr. KILGORE] will take their places as tellers.

The House again divided; and tellers reported—ayes 40, noes 0.

Mr. KILGORE. No quorum, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MCKINNEY. There being no quorum, I move a call of the House.

The motion was agreed to.

The roll was called, and the following-named members failed to respond:

Abbott.	Bacon.	Beltzhoover.	Blount.
Adler.	Bankhead.	Bergen.	Boatner.
Allen.	Barwig.	Bingham.	Boutelle.
Amerman.	Beeman.	Blanchard.	Branch.
Andrew.	Belden.	Bland.	Brawley.

Also, a bill (H. R. 9425) granting a pension to John Hoy—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

[illegible]

A bill, S. 2979, for the relief of Edward Dorsey, late Company

Sec. 5. All appeals and writs of error shall be heard and determined on the record sent up by the court of the first instance and the printing of said ferred by the committee. I only ask in my proposed amendment that the words "and Washington Territory" be inserted after the word "Oregon," in line 11 of section 1.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That is the pending question, on which the yeas and nays have been demanded.

Mr. COCKRELL. Not on that amendment. I withdraw the demand for the yeas and nays if I asked for them on that amendment. That amendment is all right. There is no objection to that particular point. The amendment as amended, where it gives a service pension to men who were soldiers in 1862, is what I am objecting to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Washington [Mr. ALLEN].

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PADDOCK. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk as an additional section.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to add as a new section the following:

SEC. 7. Any person not an enlisted soldier in the Army, serving for the time being as a member of the militia of any State, under orders of an officer of the United States, or who volunteered, for the time being, to serve with any regularly organized military or naval force of the United States, or who otherwise volunteered and rendered service in any engagement with rebels or Indians, disabled in consequence of wounds or injury received in the line of duty in such temporary service.

Mr. BUTLER. Let that amendment be again read. We did not catch the first part of it.

Mr. PADDOCK. I will state to the Senator that this is the law as it now stands.

Mr. BUTLER. We can not hear. There is a speech louder going on behind me than that being made by the Senator.

Mr. PADDOCK. This is the very paragraph of the act in question, except that it eliminates the limitation fixed at the year 1874, and has not been operative since for this class of cases, which was without reason or upon any proper theory at the time. This simply restores it.

Mr. PERKINS. I would say in support of the amendment that what the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. PADDOCK] offers as an amendment to this bill was the law until 1874. By the statute of 1874 the claims which are provided for by this amendment became barred; in other words, where the applications were not made prior to the 1st day of July, 1874, the claims became barred. This amendment is offered to provide for those who served in militia organizations acting under the orders and commands of a United States officer.

Mr. PADDOCK. It will be principally operative in the State of Missouri.

Mr. PERKINS. There was a large service from the State of Missouri, and there were some of these troops from my own State and from other States, which will be provided for by an amendment of this character. As I have said, it was the law for a number of years.

Mr. BERRY. I should like to hear the amendment read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be again read.

The Secretary read the amendment proposed by Mr. PADDOCK.

Mr. VEST. I should like to ask a question about the amendment. It uses these words—

Mr. DAVIS. If the Senator from Missouri will allow me—

Mr. PADDOCK. It is exactly the language of the act.

Mr. VEST. I want to ask this question, as it has a very important effect—

Mr. DAVIS. If the Senator will allow me, I desire to make a motion in regard to this bill, that the bill and the pending amendments be recommitted to the Committee on Pensions. There are some matters about it which I think require reconsideration.

Mr. VEST. I was going to say that the expression of service upon any occasion would embrace a very large number of persons in the State of Missouri who served in what we called the enrolled militia. They were not under the command of United States officers, but under the command of officers appointed by the State authorities, and yet under the language of the bill unquestionably they would be entitled to pensions.

Mr. PADDOCK. But they rendered service, did they not?

Mr. VEST. Yes; but I understood the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS] to use the expression "where they were under the command of United States officers."

Mr. PERKINS. That is the language of the act.

Mr. VEST. The latter part does not put that condition in.

Mr. PADDOCK. That is the language of the act.

Mr. VEST. It says where the troops served upon any occasion.

Mr. PERKINS. The language of the amendment is:

Any person not an enlisted soldier in the Army serving for the time being as a member of the militia of any State under orders of an officer of the United States.

Mr. VEST. Read on.

Mr. PERKINS. It is barely possible that there is a word below which qualifies it.

Mr. VEST. Yes.

Mr. PERKINS. It continues—

Or who volunteered for the time being to serve with any regularly organized military or naval force of the United States, or who otherwise volunteered and rendered service in any engagement with rebels or Indians, disabled in consequence of wounds or injuries received in line of duty in such temporary service.

That is the language of the amendment.

Mr. VEST. The latter part of it I think would cover the troops I referred to.

Mr. DAVIS. I renew my motion that the bill with the pending amendments be recommitted to the Committee on Pensions.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the motion of the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS].

Mr. CALL. I would suggest to the Senator from Kansas that the laws for pensioning soldiers in the war against the rebels are very full and complete, and there is no reason for the amendment.

Mr. PERKINS. They do not provide for the classes which are provided for by this amendment. There was a general statute providing for these classes until 1874, and under the act which I have spoken of these claims became barred and have been barred since 1874. The object of this amendment is to remove the bar of the statute of limitations.

Mr. PADDOCK. The point is this: There is a general statute describing the classes of the beneficiaries, and the act is operative entirely now in respect to all of them except as to the class in this particular paragraph, which was limited as to time to the year 1874, since which time it has not been operative.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS], that the bill with the pending amendments be recommitted to the Committee on Pensions.

The motion was agreed to.

SLUMS OF CITIES.

Mr. KYLE. I ask unanimous consent at this time for the consideration of Senate joint resolution No. 46, which was passed over without prejudice.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the joint resolution (S. R. 46) providing for an investigation relative to the "slums of cities."

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time.

Mr. VEST. I ask for the yeas and nays on the final passage of the joint resolution.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BATE and Mr. QUAY. Let the joint resolution be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be read.

The Secretary read the joint resolution as amended.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the passage of the joint resolution, on which the yeas and nays have been ordered. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Chief Clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COLQUITT (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. MCPHERSON]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. JONES of Arkansas (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK], and withhold my vote.

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], and withhold my vote.

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON], and therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I announce that my colleague [Mr. TELLER] is absent from the Chamber on account of illness. He is paired with the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BERRY].

Mr. BUTLER. I am paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. BERRY. I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. CARLISLE. I am paired with the senior Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. CULLOM. I inquire if the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY] has voted?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He is not recorded.

Mr. CULLOM. I am paired with that Senator, and therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. PLATT. My colleague [Mr. HAWLEY] is absent from the city, having been called away to fulfill a Fourth of July engagement. I supposed that he was paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON], but I thought, as the vote progressed, I heard the announcement of another pair with the Senator from Georgia. I may have been mistaken about that. I do not know that it is important, but I wished to make the statement.

Mr. WARREN. In relation to the pair with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON], I will state that I have been paired with that Senator regularly during this session until the recent absence of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY], when the pair was transferred, and presuming that that was for the entire absence of the Senator from Connecticut, I voted upon this question.

Mr. PLATT. I may have been mistaken in supposing that I heard a pair stated with the Senator from Georgia. I understand that my colleague [Mr. HAWLEY] is paired with him.

Mr. HARRIS. The Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] announced a pair with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. If agreeable to the Senator from Michigan, I being paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], we will transfer our pairs and record our votes.

Mr. McMILLAN. That is agreeable to me.

Mr. HARRIS. I vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN. I vote "yea."

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana (after having voted in the negative). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL], but I voted in the negative. I will not withdraw my vote unless I am assured that the Senator from Oregon would vote in the affirmative if present. In that case I shall withdraw it.

Mr. DOLPH. What is the suggestion of the Senator?

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. I was saying that I voted in the negative on this joint resolution, but I shall withdraw my vote if assured that the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL] would vote on this proposition in the affirmative.

Mr. DOLPH. I am not able to speak for my colleague, but my impression is that, if present, he would vote with the majority of his associates on this side of the Chamber, which I understand to be "yea." That is all I can say.

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. Then I withdraw my vote.

Mr. DOLPH (after having voted in the affirmative). Has the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] voted? I saw him in the Chamber a few moments ago.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He is not recorded.

Mr. DOLPH. I am paired with him and withdraw my vote, although I saw him during the roll call.

Mr. DANIEL. I beg leave to state that I am paired with the Senator from Washington [Mr. SQUIRE]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. CULLOM. I have a general pair with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY], with an understanding, however, that in order to make a quorum either of us when present may vote. If the question of a quorum is involved, I shall take the liberty of voting, and vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 34; nays 14, as follows:

YEAS—34.

Aldrich,	Dubois,	Paddock,	Sawyer,
Allen,	Frye,	Peffer,	Shoup,
Alphon,	Gallinger,	Perkins,	Turpie,
Calk,	Hale,	Pettigrew,	Voithes,
Caray,	Hansbrough,	Platt,	Warren,
Chandler,	Kyle,	Power,	Washburn,
Cullom,	McMillan,	Proctor,	Worcott,
Davis,	Mariberson,	Sanders,

NAYS—14.

Bate,	Felton,	Kenna,	Vilas,
Blackburn,	Hartis,	Mills,	White,
Cockrell,	Hill,	Palmer,
Coke,	Huntom,	Vest,

NOT VOTING—13.

Berry,	Butler,	Casey,	Dawes,
Blodgett,	Cameron,	Colquitt,	Dixon,
Brice,	Carlisle,	Daniel,	Dulph,

Chadkner,	Higgins,	Morgan,	Stanford,
George,	Hancock,	Morrill,	Stewart,
Gibson, La.,	Hear,	Pasco,	Stockbridge,
Gordon, Md.,	Joby,	Pugh,	Teller,
Grandon,	Jones, Ark.,	Quay,	Vander,
Grassman,	Jones, Nev.,	Ransom,	Wentland,
Gray,	McTherson,	Sherman,	Wilson,
Hawley,	Mitchell,	Squire,

So the joint resolution was passed.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. ALDRICH. I ask unanimous consent to offer at this time the concurrent resolution which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring): That the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives declare their respective Houses adjourned sine die at 3 o'clock on July 29, 1892.

Mr. ALDRICH. I ask that the resolution may be referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and I bespeak for that committee the early and favorable consideration of the resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations in the absence of objection.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH OF JACKSON, TENN.

Mr. HARRIS. Order of Business No. 906, being House bill 1216, was partially considered yesterday or the day before, but informally laid aside because the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER] had been directed by the Committee on Claims to offer a amendment which had not been returned from the Printer. I ask that the consideration of the bill be now completed.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 1216) for the relief of the First Methodist Church in the city of Jackson, Tenn.

Mr. PLATT. Is there a report accompanying the bill?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is no report.

Mr. PLATT. I wish the Senator in charge would explain the bill.

Mr. PEPPER. This bill was substituted for the Senate bill on the same subject and in the same language. I should like to inquire whether the report has yet been brought to the Senate?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is no report at the desk.

Mr. PEPPER. Then I request that the bill lie over, retaining its place on the Calendar until the report comes in.

I will say to the Senate that on account of an unavoidable mistake on the part of the Printer the reprinting of the report has been delayed. I examined the proof twice myself; the last time yesterday. I supposed that the report would be in this morning. I think certainly it will be here to-morrow.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be laid aside informally.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT MUNCIE, IND.

Mr. VOORHEES. I ask the indulgence of the Senate for the present consideration of Senate bill 677.

By unanimous consent the bill (S. 677) for the erection of a public building at Muncie, State of Indiana, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ADJUSTMENT OF PENSIONS FOR LOSS OF LIMBS.

Mr. GALLINGER. In accordance with the suggestion I made a little while ago when the other pension bill was under consideration, I now ask unanimous consent that Senate bill 641 may be considered.

By unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 641) to adjust the pensions of those who have lost limbs, or the use of the arm, or have additional disabilities.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments reported by the Committee on Pensions will be stated.

Mr. COCKRELL. There is a report on the bill. Let it be read before action is had upon the amendments.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. GALLINGER May 25, 1892:

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 641) to adjust the pensions of those who have lost limbs or the use of the arm, or have additional disabilities, have considered the same and report.

This bill proposes to increase three classes of pensions, the disabilities resulting from amputation as follows, viz: Those who have lost an arm at the shoulder joint, or leg at the hip joint, or who have been totally disabled in the same, from $45 to $50 per month; those who have lost an arm at or above the elbow, or a leg at or above the knee, or who have been totally disabled in the same, or who have lost an arm below the elbow, or a leg below the knee, and who suffer from total or partial stiffness of the joint, or other cause which render the stump useless, from $30 to $35 per month; and those who have lost a hand or a foot, or are totally disabled in the same, from $30 to $35 per month. The bill also contains a provision that—

"A 15 per cent persons who have incurred or contracted other disabilities, shall be entitled to a sum per month equal to the total of the rates for all of said disabilities, said sum to be determined by adding together the rates provided by law for each of said disabilities separately."

A careful computation shows that the increase in the three classes of cases named in the bill will be as follows:

	No.	Increase per month.	Total increase per year.
Hip and shoulder joint amputations.....	920	$15	$165,000
Leg or arm amputation at or above knee or elbow.....	4,762	19	1,085,736
Leg or arm amputation below knee or elbow.....	2,381	20	571,440
Total increase.....			1,822,176

There is no question as to the justice of the claims of the men who left limbs on the battlefield. Whatever frauds (if any) have been committed on the Treasury by those now drawing pensions, the men who suffered amputations have not been a party to them. And it should not be forgotten that these amputations were hurriedly performed, often by ignorant or inexperienced surgeons, and without any of the precautions deemed so necessary in private or hospital practice, the result of which was diseased stumps and other sequelae that will follow the soldier through life. Beyond a question a large proportion of these men are suffering from nervous affections, from heart disease, or other painful disability, the direct result of the amputations they underwent. The celebrated physician, Dr. Pancoast, of Philadelphia, expressed a great truth when he said concerning this class of cases:

"One of the prominent symptoms observed in this condition of the nervous system is a weakness of the heart action, causing an abnormal blood pressure which deranges the secretions and excretions of the various organs of the body, seriously interfering with nutrition. He is easily fatigued, and when this occurs it invariably produces weak and compressible pulse and not infrequently an intermittent pulse, all of which results from neurasthenia of the medulla, the seat of nerve energy which controls the action of the heart as well as that of respiration. Permit me to say that during a period of thirty-five years of active practice I have found that where large nerves are injured by shock, laceration, or by cutting, they are seldom restored to normal activity, and the nervous debility thus produced not only shortens life, but it incapacitates the one so unfortunately afflicted from continued mental or physical exertion."

These men, as a class, are great sufferers, and much more liable to accidents than others. Besides this, they are shut out from life insurance, the means used by prudent men to protect their families from possible want. The mortality in this class is unusually large, reaching the enormous figure of 57 per thousand annually, with a constantly increasing death rate; and as the average age of the soldiers of the war of 1861-'65 is 56 years, the ranks of these men will be rapidly decimated by natural causes. For these reasons we are impressed with the justice of their demands, sympathizing with them when they say:

"Give back the legs and arms, give back the sight, make helpful the now helpless body, and the largest pension that might be provided by a grateful country would not be accepted as the price of either by the man who has suffered such a loss."

But while thus recognizing the urgency of these cases, we are of opinion that the increase asked is greater than Congress should grant under existing circumstances. Unfortunately, any legislation that may be enacted in behalf of these classes of pensioners can not by any possibility be made to apply equitably to them all, inasmuch as some are great sufferers while others are comparatively free from suffering; some are poor and some rich; yet the probabilities are that most of them are broken in health, and a very large proportion of them are in moderate circumstances. We recommend that the bill be amended by striking out in line 8 the word "sixty," and inserting the word "fifty-five;" that in line 15 the word "fifty-five" be stricken out and the word "forty-five" inserted, and that in line 17 the word "fifty" be stricken out and the word "thirty-six" be substituted. If thus amended the aggregate increase will be $796,128 instead of $1,822,176, as proposed by the bill.

The increase proposed under the provision of the bill granting cumulative pensions for other disabilities than those of amputation is purely problematical, and if granted to this class it would logically be claimed by all other classes of pensioners, thus reopening the entire pension list, and making a field for the work of pension attorneys and claim agents more valuable than anything that the legislation of Congress has yet created. To this provision we are utterly opposed, believing that it would prove a veritable Pandora box in our system of pension legislation, and we therefore recommend that all after line 17 be stricken from the bill.

Inasmuch as the Commissioner of Pensions can carry out the proposed legislation by simply rating up the pensions of those coming under its provisions, and the services of pension attorneys and claim agents would not be required in a single case, we recommend that a new section be added to the bill as follows:

"SEC. 2. That in the adjudication of claims arising under the provisions of this act no fees whatever shall be paid to pension attorneys or claim agents."

We further recommend that the title of the bill be amended by striking from it the words "or have additional disabilities."

With the proposed amendments your committee are of opinion that the bill should become a law, and therefore report it back favorably with a recommendation that it do pass.

The Secretary proceeded to read the amendments.

The first amendment reported by the Committee on Pensions was, in section 1, line 8, after the words "pension of," to strike out "sixty" and insert "fifty-five," in line 15, before the word "dollars," to strike out "fifty-five" and insert "forty-five;" in line 17, after the words "pension of," to strike out "fifty" and insert "thirty-six;" and in line 18, after the word "month," to strike out "and all such persons who have incurred or contracted other disabilities shall be entitled to a sum per month equal to the total of the rates for all of said disabilities, said sum to be determined by adding together the rates provided by law for each of said disabilities separately;" so as to make the section read:

That from and after the passage of this act all persons on the pension roll and all persons hereafter granted a pension who, while in the military or naval service of the United States, and in the line of duty, shall have lost an arm at the shoulder joint or a leg at the hip joint, or who have been totally disabled in the same, shall be entitled to a pension of $55 per month; and all such persons who have lost an arm at or above the elbow or a leg at or above the knee, or who shall have been totally disabled in the same, or who shall have lost an arm below the elbow or a leg below the knee and suffer from total or partial stiffness of the joint, or other cause which renders the stump useless, shall be entitled to a pension of $45 per month; and all such persons who shall have lost a hand or a foot, or shall have been totally disabled in the same, shall be entitled to a pension of $35 per month.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 1, after the word "that," to strike out "all acts or parts of acts so far as they may conflict with the provisions of this act be, and they are hereby, repealed," and insert "in the adjudication of claims arising under the provisions of this act no fees whatever shall be paid to pension attorneys or claim agents;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. 2. That in the adjudication of claims arising under the provisions of this act no fees whatever shall be paid to pension attorneys or claim agents.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. I offer an amendment, which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. After the word "month," in line 18 of section 1, it is proposed to insert:

Provided, That in pensions for amputations coming under the provisions of this act where pensions have been increased by special act but to an amount less than herein allowed, the provisions of this act shall apply.

Mr. COCKRELL. What will be the effect of that?

Mr. GALLINGER. Simply this: In a few cases pensioners have had their pensions increased, that is the pensioners belonging to some one of these classes, to an amount less than is allowed in this bill. Those cases presumably the Pension Bureau will not consider, for the reason that Congress has acted upon them. The amendment simply puts them on all-fours with the others who are included in the bill under consideration.

Mr. WHITE. May I inquire what will be the increase to the pension roll made by the passage of this bill?

Mr. GALLINGER. I will state that definitely in a moment before the vote is taken upon the bill. I should like the amendment I have proposed first acted upon. It will only cover a very few cases, of which I have one in mind.

Mr. PADDOCK. It is simply an assignment of the general class.

Mr. GALLINGER. I think there can be no objection to the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER].

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and read the third time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. GALLINGER. Before the passage of the bill I desire to answer the interrogatory of the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE], which was a very proper one. He asked as to the increase under this bill. I will state now that the report shows that the increase will be $796,128, but since that time I have had a communication from the Surgeon-General's Office, the tables in the report having been made up from the best available source at the time the report was made. It occurred to me that the Surgeon-General would know all about this subject, and I communicated with him and have a definite report from him, which shows that the number stated in the report exceeds by 876 the actual number of pensioners, so that the amount stated will be decreased about 10 per cent. In other words, the increase under this bill will presumably be in the vicinity of $709,000.

I desire to have incorporated in my remarks the letter from the Surgeon-General's Office, which may be of use in the future.

The letter referred to is as follows:

WAR DEPARTMENT, SURGEON-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., July 2, 1892.

SIR: In reply to your inquiry of the 29th ultimo, I have the honor to report that on January 31, 1892, there were on the rolls of claimants for artificial limbs or compensation therefor:

- 3,535 pensioners who have lost one arm each.
- 24 pensioners who have lost both arms each.
- 57 pensioners who have lost one hand each.
- 1 pensioner who has lost both hands.
- 2,657 pensioners who have lost one leg each.
- 23 pensioners who have lost both legs each.
- 87 pensioners who have lost one foot each.
- 18 pensioners who have lost both feet each.
- 13 of these pensioners have lost one arm and one leg each.
- 1 of these pensioners have lost one arm and use of other.
- 1 of these pensioners has lost both arms and both legs.
- 1 of these pensioners has lost one leg and one hand.
- 6 of these pensioners have lost one leg and the other foot.
- 4 of these pensioners have lost one leg and use of the other.
- 2 of these pensioners have lost one leg and the use of one arm.

Of the above 7,412 pensioners it is probable that 200 may have died during or since the making up of the report, but of this fact my office had not been notified.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. SUTHERLAND,
Surgeon-General United States Army.

Hon. J. H. GALLINGER,
United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The bill was passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to adjust the pensions of those who have lost limbs, or the use of them."

DEADLY WEAPONS IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of House bill 8294, a bill relating to the District, which is very short.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 8294) to punish the carrying or selling of deadly or dangerous weapons within the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

Mr. WHITE. I should like to ask the Senator in charge of this bill what explanation is given of that clause in the bill which, whilst it prevents the carrying of concealed weapons, appears to leave it a matter of favoritism with a certain officer to issue a permit to carry them. In other words, if this is a penal statute, on what theory is a penal statute not made to apply to all the citizens and a tribunal created by which there will be a favored class permitted to carry concealed weapons in the District?

Mr. McMILLAN. It does apply to all, but there are cases in which it might be necessary to have an exception. This is a very peculiar District. This bill is to protect the public generally from people who are in the habit of carrying dangerous weapons and using them on all occasions. It is a very important bill, which has had a great deal of attention from our committee and also from the committee of the House. This is a House bill, and it is taken up in preference to the Senate bill. I think it a bill which is very important indeed to the District.

Mr. WHITE. With the greatest respect for the Senator and his views, I suggest if this is a general penal statute imposing a penalty upon all citizens, that the insertion in it of an exempting clause purely in the discretion of a magistrate, without any statement in the bill of the reason why he should exercise the discretion, leaving it solely to his judgment to license people to carry concealed weapons, is utterly out of keeping with the provisions of the bill. The very fundamental principle of criminal statutes is their universality. In other words, this proposed statute makes the act referred to a penal offense, and then gives a man who can furnish a bond the right to carry a weapon in the discretion of a magistrate.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I would say in reply to the Senator from Louisiana, that I think he states the fact rather more broadly than the provisions of the bill quite warrant.

The bill is a penal statute providing that no man in the District shall carry concealed weapons, recognizing, however, as do the statutes of many of the States of the Union, and I think my own among the number—and I have seen such criminal statutes of other States—that there may be peculiar circumstances of threatened assault or otherwise, where, for a limited time, it may be proper that one shall carry weapons. Instead of granting general authority to any person who is able to give a bond to carry weapons, it is provided that a person who is in such danger of attack as to lead him to believe that he should be permitted to carry a weapon, must appear before the proper authority, and the proper authority, upon an investigation of the circumstances, may, in his discretion, authorize the person for a limited time, not exceeding one month, to carry such weapon. The provision is one which I feel sure other Senators will remember is included in the statutes of many of the States of the Union. In my opinion it does not affect the constitutionality of the law, nor with the safeguards thrown around the permission to be given does it in my mind operate to favor any class of individuals, but is simply a bill providing generally for the prohibition of carrying deadly weapons, with the exception that under certain circumstances a discretion to grant permission to do so is left with the proper officials.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, and read the third time.

Mr. MILLS. What is the question now before the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Paddock in the chair). The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. MILLS. Is the bill open to debate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is.

Mr. MILLS. I desire to ask the friends of this measure what they do with this second amendment to the Constitution:

The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that it is a natural right of a citizen to defend himself. I know that that provision of the Constitution has by judge-made law been construed so as to invade and impair the rights of the citizen. All these laws—at least that has been my observation in noticing them—intended to secure the person of the citizen, result in rendering him more insecure.

What persons will obey this law? The best citizens in the country: the men whose lives are endangered by some assassin, but the assassin is not going to obey the law. He will carry concealed weapons in defiance of the law. You put the lives and persons of the best people, the law-abiding people of this country, at the mercy of these lawbreakers, and you render the citizens of the country more defenseless by depriving them of the natural right to carry the arms which are necessary to secure their persons and their lives.

I only wish to say, Mr. President—because it seems that this bill is going to pass almost by unanimous consent—that I shall never vote in this or any other legislative assembly for the deprivation of any citizen of a single natural right that he has, if I know it, and his right to defend himself is one of the rights with which he is invested by his Maker. The Declaration of Independence, which is the creed of our faith as a republican people, says that governments are organized to secure those rights and not to take them away from the people.

This bill can have but one effect, and that is to put the law-abiding citizens of this District at the mercy of those who habitually break the law.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. WHITE. Is it too late to offer an amendment to the bill?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is too late.

Mr. WHITE. I do not agree with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] as to the effect of this provision. The provision has the scope which I claim for it. The necessary effect of the bill is to prevent the carrying of concealed weapons and to leave it purely discretionary with the judge, without any statement whatever in the bill as to the reasons which should control him in determining who shall carry concealed weapons and who shall not.

Says the bill—

That nothing contained in the first or second sections of this act shall be so construed as to apply to any person who shall have been granted a written permit to carry such weapon or weapons by any judge of the police court of the District of Columbia, and authority is hereby given to any such judge to grant such permit for a period of not more than one month at any one time, upon satisfactory proof to him of the necessity for the granting thereof.

Here is an absolute and unlimited discretion in that judge. The reasons which are to bring his actions into play are not stated in the bill. It is a discretion as wide as his mind—personal favoritism, personal friendship, considerations of influence, anything that will weigh upon his mind and enable him to give the permission. We have one class of citizens who come under the operation of a penal statute, and we have another class who are not reached by the penal statute, because in the unlimited, uncontrolled, and arbitrary exercise of discretion by a police magistrate they are taken out of the reach of the criminal laws of the District.

Why, Mr. President, it is an elementary aphorism in criminal-law statutes that the worst criminal statute in the world is that which allows judicial discretion to take citizens out of the reach of the statute; and that is the best criminal statute which operates universally upon everyone coming within its reach. If this bill contained a statement of the reasons by which the judge should act, if it prescribed the conditions which were to take a citizen out of the reach of the general law, there might be some propriety in it; but when it leaves it solely and absolutely to the arbitrary discretion of a police magistrate, I think the statute as a whole is a bad one. Unless the provision to which I have excepted shall be stricken out from the bill, the proposed statute, I think, is bad and should not pass.

Mr. WOLCOTT. The bill infers that the police magistrate would not grant the permit except upon the exercise of a discretion. I think the bill might, to one inclined to be extremely critical, be open to the objection that some reasons should be given which should authorize the exercise of the discretion. If the Senator from Louisiana has an amendment—he rose asking if it were too late to offer an amendment—to provide that the discretion shall be exercised only upon the well-grounded apprehension of the party applying for it that his life or his property or the lives of his family are in danger, there is no objection to such an amendment. The provision as it stands does not, it seems to me, intrust too great a power to the police magistrate; but if he has such an amendment I have no doubt the chairman of the committee having the bill in charge would be glad to accept it.

In reference to what was said by the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS] I do not know except by the public press how the law permitting the carrying of weapons generally operates down in Texas, but I do know that in our cities of the North there is no law which serves so much in the interests of justice and the police power and the preservation of the public peace as acts which prohibit the carrying of concealed weapons. The constitutional provision is not affected by such a law. This bill is intended to apply to the criminal classes in the alleys of Washington who carry razors in their pockets, who carry concealed weapons, and brass knuckles. It is intended to reach them, and it is not intended to affect the constitutional right of any citizen who desires to obey the law.

For my part, I think it is a very late day for anybody to claim that under the provisions of the Constitution of the United States we have no right to enact a law which shall prohibit assassins and thugs from carrying concealed weapons. Bearing arms and carrying concealed weapons are very different things.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. WHITE. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. HARRIS. If the Senator from Louisiana desires to offer an amendment I will ask the Senate to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading so that it will be in order for him to offer such amendment as he desires to submit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair supposes that that may be done by unanimous consent.

Mr. HARRIS. A motion to reconsider does not require unanimous consent; but I take it for granted the Senate would give unanimous consent, so that the Senator from Louisiana may offer such amendment as he desires.

Mr. FRYE. Mr. President, has not the hour of 2 o'clock arrived?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair will lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 979) for the development and encouragement of silk culture in the United States, under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Mr. COCKRELL. I ask that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri asks that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside in order to proceed with the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. In order to finish the pending bill.

Mr. FRYE. If that is going to take any time, I desire to submit a conference report.

Mr. COCKRELL. The Senator can submit it during the pendency of the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. A conference report has the right of way at any time.

Mr. FRYE. I am aware that it has. Still I did not wish to disturb the bill if it was to be concluded immediately.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Missouri? The Chair hears none.

INDIANS AT QUAPAW AGENCY.

Mr. MORGAN. I hope the Senator will withhold his request for a moment. The bill (S. 3030) to provide for the allotment of lands among the several Indian tribes in the Quapaw Agency, in the Indian Territory, and for the sale of surplus lands of such tribes, and for the creation of the county of Cayuga, in the Territory of Oklahoma, and for other purposes, was set down as a special order for the 15th day of June. Since that order of the Senate was taken a demand has been made upon the Committee on Indian Affairs to extend an investigation that this body ordered to be made in regard to the subject-matter of the bill. I had the honor to report the bill under the instruction of the Committee on Indian Affairs. I wish to ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to change the order to next Monday at 2 o'clock, so that the Committee on Indian Affairs may hear what the opposition to the bill have to say. They insist upon being heard, and it is only for that purpose that I make the request. The committee are entirely satisfied with the bill as it stands, but we think it is proper to give them a showing. I ask that the order be changed from June 15 at 2 o'clock to next Monday at 2 o'clock, and that the bill be made a special order for that time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate has heard the request of the Senator from Alabama. Is there objection to unanimous consent? The Chair hears no objection, and that order will be made.

DEADLY WEAPONS IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Do I understand that there is objection to laying aside the unfinished business in order that we may conclude the little District bill which was under consideration at 2 o'clock?

Mr. COCKRELL. There is no objection to that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. No objection has been made. The bill is still before the Senate, the unfinished business having been laid aside temporarily. The question is on reconsidering the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. HARRIS. I made no motion. I said if the Senator from Louisiana desired to offer an amendment I would so move, but the Senator from Louisiana has not indicated whether he desires to move an amendment.

Mr. WHITE. I will make that request; but in order that gentlemen may vote intelligently on the request when I make it I will state that I move to reconsider for the purpose of moving to strike out the proviso entirely, so as to leave the law general in its operation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading, for the purpose indicated by the Senator from Louisiana. Is the Senate ready for the question? [Putting the question]. The yeas seem to have it. The yeas have it, and the motion to reconsider is not agreed to. The question recurs on the passage of the bill, on which the yeas and nays have been demanded.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

Mr. WHITE. Is the vote on the question to reconsider or on the question of passage?

Mr. HARRIS. It is on the passage of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. PASCO. No one in this part of the Chamber heard the decision of the Chair upon the motion of the Senator from Louisiana to reconsider.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair announced its decision, stating that the yeas seemed to have it and that the yeas had it.

Mr. PASCO. That was not heard in this part of the Chamber.

Mr. WHITE. We did not hear it here, sir.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. By unanimous consent the vote will be taken again.

Mr. CAMERON. I object to that. Let us vote on the final passage of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is made, and the roll call will proceed.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On the passage of the bill.

The Secretary resumed the call of the roll.

Mr. CAMPBELL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN].

Mr. COLQUITT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. DOLPH (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE]. I do not see him in the Chamber, and I withhold my vote.

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN. I know that the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] would vote "yea." I think the Senator from Tennessee can vote.

Mr. HARRIS. If the Senator from Michigan gives assurance that the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] would vote "yea" I will record my vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN. I give that assurance, that the Senator from Vermont would vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. I am not aware of his views upon the bill, and therefore withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. QUAY. I am assured by the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] that the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] favors the bill, and with that assurance I vote "yea."

Mr. PASCO. I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. HIGGINS. This does not seem to be a party question; there is no quorum voting, and I think I will take the liberty of voting, notwithstanding the absence of the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. I vote "yea."

Mr. DOLPH. I am paired with the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE]. I understand that the junior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL] is paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. If agreeable to him, we will transfer our pairs and both vote.

Mr. WALTHALL. Very well.

Mr. DOLPH. I vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL. I vote "nay."

Mr. BERRY. With the consent of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] who is present—

Mr. WHITE. I call for the announcement of the vote.

Mr. BERRY. I do not like to be taken off the floor when making a statement about a pair, with all respect to the Senator from Louisiana.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas will proceed.

Mr. BERRY. I say, with the consent of the Senator from Colorado, who is present, while I do not know how his colleague [Mr. TELLER] would vote, I will vote "yea" on the passage of the bill.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I can state that my colleague [Mr. TELLER], if present, would vote "yea" on the passage of the bill.

Mr. MANDERSON. I ask whether the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] has voted?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He has not voted.

Mr. MANDERSON. Is my vote needed to make a quorum?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is needed.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN], but I will vote to make a quorum. I vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 24, nays 13; as follows:

YEAS—24.

RIVER AND HARBOR APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. FRYE submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7829) making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments numbered 20, 24, 25, 55, 61, 91, 92, 93, 103, 104, 107, 123, 129, 130, 131, 133, 136, 140, 142, 151, 153, 159, 157, 178, 183, 191, 195, 199, 185, 188, 189, 192, 196, 200, 210, 213, 225.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 21, 22, 24, 25, 28, 29, 31, 32, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 41, 42, 43, 45, 47, 48, 49, 51, 53, 54, 56, 57, 58, 59, 61, 62, 63, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 87, 88, 89, 90, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 100, 101, 102, 105, 106, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 120, 121, 122, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 132, 133, 137, 138, 139, 141, 143, 144, 145, 146, 149, 152, 163, 164, 166, 169, 171, 172, 173, 175, 176, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 186, 187, 190, 194, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 206, 207, 208, 212, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 226, 227, and agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 22: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 22, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the paragraph proposed insert the following:

"Improving Bay Ridge Channel in Gowanus Bay, New York Harbor, New York: Completing improvement, $98,000."

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 27: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 27, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the matter proposed to be inserted and insert in lieu thereof the following: "That before any Government money shall be expended in the improvement of this harbor, or any of its approaches, the owners of the basin forming the harbor, and the channel or canal leading thereto or connecting said harbor with Cherrystone Inlet, shall execute and cause to be executed, and file with the Secretary of War, an instrument in writing satisfactory to the said Secretary of War, giving to any and all vessels, upon any and all occasions for all time to come, the right to enter and remain in said harbor and transact business therein without charge, except legitimate, usual, and reasonable wharf charges, to be determined by the Secretary of War in event of disagreement, and shall further legally dedicate or cause to be dedicated to public use an approach to the wharves of said harbor from the nearest public highway of not less than 40 feet in width, to be approved by the Secretary of War," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 30: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 30, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$170,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 33: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 33, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$283,250," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 40: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 40, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$100,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 44: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 44, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$40,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 50: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 50, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the amendment proposed by the Senate insert after the word "dollars" a comma and the following words: "in portion of which may, in the discretion of the Secretary of War, be used in dredging in Superior Bay along the dock line between the Quebec channel and the main channel opposite the base of Connors Point;" and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 52: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 52, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the entire paragraph, being lines 20 to 21, inclusive; and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 60: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 60, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$100,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 80: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 80, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the period at the end of the proposed amendment, insert a comma and the words "to be expended in the improvement of the natural channel," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 119: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 119, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$15,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 134: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 134, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the word "titles," and insert the word "titles;" strike out the word "dams" and insert the word "dams;" strike out the comma after the word "two" and insert a period, and strike out the following words: "three, four, and five," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 145: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 145, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the language proposed to be inserted in lines 10 to 14; and in line 22, in lieu of the sum proposed insert "$1,625,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 148: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 148, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$55,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 149: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 149, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$60,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 154: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 154, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: After the word "war," in line 13, insert the following: "Shall extend $50,000 of said $50,000 between the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Omaha Railroad bridge at St. Paul and the Washington and Annapolis bridge, Minneapolis, and;" and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 157: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 157, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$60,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 158: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 158, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$200,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 159: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 159, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Restore the paragraph proposed to be stricken out and insert after it the following paragraph:

"At the harbor of New Madrid, Mo.: $25,000."

And the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 167: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 167, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the phrase proposed on page 64, lines 8 to 20, and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 168: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 168, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out all of the proposed paragraph after the words "view," in line 21, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "or determining at what point, if any, an outlet be made of water power for manufacturing or other purposes, without unreasonably impairing the navigability of that portion of said river," and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 173: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 173, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the language proposed by the Senate, and in lieu thereof insert the following:

"The President is hereby authorized to appoint a board of engineers, to consist of seven members, of whom three shall be from civil life, whose duty it shall be to thoroughly examine the obstructions to navigation on the Columbia River, in that portion from the navigable waters thereof below Three Mile Rapids to the navigable waters above the Chello Falls, and report as soon as they conveniently can to the Secretary of War, such plan for removing or removing said obstructions as in their opinion is most feasible and best adapted to the needs of commerce, together with a statement as to the usefulness of such improvement to navigation, its relation and value to commerce and the most desirable location therefor, the cost of construction and of the right of way, including the necessary land therefor being considered. They shall also report the details of such plan, with careful estimates of its cost. The sum of $20,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to defray the cost of such examination and survey and the expenses of said board."

And the Senate agree to the same.
Amendment numbered 177: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 177, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: After the word "dollars" insert the following: "To be applied to obtaining a 25-foot channel;" and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 205: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 205, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the paragraph proposed insert the following:

"Fort Pond Bay, at the east end of Long Island, including an estimate of the cost of an adequate breakwater."

And the Senate agree to the same.
Amendment numbered 211: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 211, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: Strike out the language proposed after the word "river" and in lieu thereof insert the following: "Above Oregon City;" and the Senate agree to the same.

Amendment numbered 223: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 223, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: After the paragraph proposed insert the following paragraph:

"Upper Columbia River, Washington, from the international boundary to Rock Island Rapids."

And the Senate agree to the same.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF SILK CULTURE.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The unfinished business will be proceeded with.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 979) for the development and encouragement of silk culture in the United States, under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill has been read at length before and amended as in Committee of the Whole. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry as amended. The Chair suggests that the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE], who has charge of the bill, does not seem to be at this moment in the Chamber.

Mr. VEST. Let the bill go over.

Mr. FRYE. If necessary, instead of going over, let it be temporarily laid aside, as it is the unfinished business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be temporarily laid aside, and the first bill on the Calendar under Rule VIII will be announced.

Mr. PEPPER. I wish to inquire what becomes of the bill in relation to silk culture.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is temporarily laid aside on account of the absence of the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE], who is in charge of the bill. The first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

BILLS PASSED OVER.

The bill (S. 3133) to incorporate the Washington, Fairfax and Alexandria Railway Company was announced as first in order on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over, as the Senator in charge of it is not present, and the next bill on the Calendar will be stated.

The bill (S. 770) for the better protection of the public service was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. WALTHALL. The Senator who reported that bill is absent, and I think it had better go over, and also the two following bills, Senate bill 1598 and Senate bill 3042.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bills indicated, being objected to, will go over. The bills are to retain their places on the Calendar?

Mr. WALTHALL. Yes, sir.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bills will go over without prejudice, retaining their places on the Calendar.

The bill (S. 2845) regulating the sale of distilled and fermented liquors in the District of Columbia was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator who reported this bill does not seem to be present. If no other Senator can vouch for him the bill will be passed over without prejudice, and the next bill on the Calendar will be announced.

HOT SPRINGS RESERVATION.

The bill (H. R. 7688) to grant lot No. 1, in block No. 72, of the Hot Springs Reservation, to the school district of the city of Hot Springs for school purposes, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

JABEZ BURCHARD.

Mr. CAMERON. I see that the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER] is in his seat to-day, and I ask that the bill (S. 262) for the relief of Jabez Burchard, which was passed over, be now considered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Pennsylvania? The Chair hears none, and the bill is before the Senate. The question is on the passage of the bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. The bill should be passed as originally reported to the Senate, and the amendment should be reconsidered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire will please indicate the amendment.

Mr. CHANDLER. The bill should pass as it was originally reported from the committee, and the amendment that was agreed to in the Senate should be reconsidered.

Mr. CAMERON. There are two amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendments will be stated.

The SECRETARY. The amendments made in the Senate on the 24 of June are after the word "which," in line 6, to strike out the words "with payments heretofore made to him;" and in line 12 to strike out "date of his retirement by said naval board" and insert "passage of this act;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the proper accounting officers of the Treasury be, and they are hereby, authorized and directed to allow Jabez Burchard, assistant engineer on the retired list of the United States Navy, an amount which will be equal to 75 per cent of the salary pay of the grade or rank held by him at the date of his retirement by a naval board of the United States Navy, said amount to be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated and to take effect from and after the passage of this act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading will be reconsidered, if there be no objection. The vote is reconsidered, and also the vote by which the amendments, which have been stated, were agreed to.

The question recurs on agreeing to the amendments made by the Senate.

The amendments were rejected.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVAL.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRIDEN, one of his Secretaries, announced that the President had on this day approved and signed the act (S. 1768) to allow thirty days leave of absence to employees in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

HIGHWAYS IN ARID REGIONS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Calendar will be proceeded with.

The bill (S. 3071) reserving easements for common highways in the arid States and Territories was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with amendments, in line 4, after the word "around," to insert "and bounded by;" in line 5, before the word "public," to insert "arid;" in line 6, before the word "States," to strike out "arid;" in the same line, after the word "Territories," to insert "in the so-called arid regions;" in line 9, after the word "State," to insert "or Territory;" and in line 10, after the word "situate," to strike out "or the State which may be created out of any Territory in which such easement is situate;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That for public common highways there is hereby declared and reserved an easement 50 feet in width around and bounded by the exterior limits of each section of arid public land in the States and Territories in the so-called arid regions, and no patent for any public lands described by rectangular surveys shall be so construed as to convey such easement to the patentee against the United States, the State or Territory in which such easement is situate, but the State in which such land so subjected to such easement is situate may change the location of such highway or abolish the same upon payment to any person or persons of such damage as such person or persons will suffer thereby, and on like conditions such easement shall be subject to change by the legislative authority of the State or Territory in which the same is situate to another public use of equal or greater public utility if it shall be deemed desirable, but this act shall not ~~cancel any lands~~ now filed on and occupied by qualified settlers under the land laws of the United States, so far as such settler is concerned.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. SANDERS May 17, 1892:

The Committee on Public Lands, to which was referred Senate bill 3071, "A bill reserving easements for common highways in the arid States and Territories," have had the same under consideration and beg leave respectfully to report as follows:

Amend the bill by inserting after the word "around," in the fourth line, the words "and bounded by." Before the word "public," in the fifth line, insert the word "and." That the word "arid," in the fifth line, be changed to the word "the." That after the word "Territories," in the sixth line, the words "in the so-called arid regions" be inserted. That before the word

"in" in the ninth line, the words "or Territory" be inserted. That the words in the ninth and tenth lines where they consecutively occur, "or the State which may be created out of any Territory in which such easement is situated," be stricken out. Also, strike out all of lines 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, and down to and including the word "desirable" in the eighteenth line of the bill as printed, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "That said highway shall be subject in all respects to the laws of the State or Territory where the same is located as are other highways created under the laws of said State or Territory;" and as so amended your committee recommend that the bill do pass.

Mr. PLATT. The report does not shed very much light on the bill. I should like to have the bill as it has been amended read, so that we may know how it will read if it passes with the amendments which have been made.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill appears not to have been printed so as to show the exact form of the amendments. The report calls for an amendment to the bill that does not appear in the print. The Senator from Montana [Mr. SANDERS], who reported the bill, will be able to inform the Chair.

Mr. COCKRELL. The last amendment stated in the report is not printed in the bill.

Mr. CAREY. I do not want to object to this measure, but I certainly should like to understand it. It effects, I believe, the entire arid region. I should like to ask the Senator who has charge of the bill a question. Is it proposed to reserve an easement for a public road around the exterior line of every section of land?

Mr. SANDERS. Every section of public land not now occupied. It reserves an easement 50 feet in width in the arid regions for a public highway.

Mr. CAREY. In the States as well as the Territories?

Mr. SANDERS. It applies to the public lands in the arid region whether in a State or Territory.

Mr. President, I do not wish to occupy the time of the Senate, but if it is desired I will explain the views of the committee with reference to the bill.

Confessedly when a country is settled there should be public highways in it, and ordinarily it may be said that they should be within 1 mile of each other for convenience of access to and egress from the various places where neighbors desire to travel. Heretofore it has been the custom of the United States to sell the entire lands and to devolve upon the communities themselves thereafter the burden of condemning land for the uses of public highways. It was deemed by the committee wisest that there should be reserved from each section around its exterior limits a tract of ground which should be wide enough to constitute a highway. It will operate over a very considerable extent of country where one-half of the land is already owned by private individuals or corporations, and will leave a highway 50 feet in width to be taken off from the section which is not so privately owned. It is a width not sufficient probably to constitute a convenient highway, but one nevertheless which would be very materially useful in the absence of the capacity of the community to condemn the land and pay for it; they could get along without widening it. The bill does not in any way or manner affect any section of land now owned or occupied by any person, so far as that occupancy is concerned.

I do not affect to conceal that the most potent argument for the passage of the bill arises out of a desire to secure to the uses of the public the streams in the arid region. The condition of the law is such now that individuals can go upon the public domain and enter 160 acres in each section, or even 80 acres in each section, or even 40 acres in each section for that matter, provided the lines of the streams conform to the lines of the sections, and to all intents and purposes be the owner of 640 acres of land. If they are permitted to become the owners continuously of the streams that run in the arid region there is not a particle of value to be attached to the rest of the land except to the persons who thus own the streams.

The significance of the bill is much greater in the arid region than it is anywhere else. It will occur, if the bill passes, that there is reserved a public highway which will cross a stream every mile, or every mile and a half, throughout that country. So far as the bill itself will operate—and I undertake to say that in the interest of the small settlers and in a larger view in the interest of the people of the United States who are interested that the country shall be settled, that the public land shall be sold and sold to actual occupants, and shall be enabled by those occupants to be utilized for all the purposes for which it can be utilized, this bill is one of vital importance to that region and to all the people of the country.

There is scarce any use of standing on this floor and undertaking to enlarge upon the importance of preventing people from going upon the public domain and by owning narrow strips of land virtually shut out settlers from immense tracts of country. Cicero, in one of his orations, recites a poem that was even then ancient, which contains an adage as to moral duty, that we should debar no man from the running streams. The bill is in the interest of securing the use of the running streams at certain points along them to all the citizens who may occupy that vicinity. It is in behalf of the small settler; it is in behalf of the small farmer; it is in behalf of the marketable value of the public domain of the United States that such a law as this is recommended and ought to be passed.

If anybody is interested in gathering up the streams and narrow strips of land on each side of them and inclosing them with fences, and doing this for many miles, they ought to vote against this bill. If anybody's constituents think that is a wise method to permit to be pursued, I think their opposition to this bill would be justified. But it is perfectly certain that this condition of settling the public domain is being very actively followed out now, and that there are immense tracts of country owned by the United States impossible to be sold, because we have heretofore permitted individuals to secure these streams which alone make them valuable, or alone permit them to be occupied.

I shall not be able to convince Senators of the extent to which this practice has already gone on. Tracts of country 10, 15, and 20 miles wide, deprived of the contiguous streams that are naturally appurtenant to them, can not be sold by the United States, are of no value to the United States, and are not a particle of value to the settler who would desire to go upon them unless they are the fortunate people who have secured locations along the streams on either side of them. I think such a condition of affairs as that ought not to be permitted; and while this bill does not undertake to interfere with such rights as have heretofore been acquired, and does not even undertake to deny to individuals who have gone upon the public domain, and are now there in anticipation of securing such rights, the privilege of completing their titles, it does provide that as to those sections of land that are unoccupied in that region of country hereafter there shall be no monopoly of the public streams. This is done, indeed, under the guise of a highway, as useful for the passage of pedestrians and the citizens who shall occupy the country as for the passage of cattle and horses and sheep that will go to the streams for the water necessary for their existence.

It is on such considerations as these that the Committee on Public Lands was of the opinion that it was wise here and now to pass such a law as this, to remit the change of this highway hereafter, the abolition of it, indeed, if the public interests should seem to so require, by the State or Territory in which the easement is reserved. Everything is remitted to the people themselves ultimately to determine; but the Government simply says it will reserve the easement, and that the patents which they shall issue for these lands shall not be interpreted or held or deemed to be a conveyance of the outer 50 feet of each section so far as that easement is concerned.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is discovered at the desk that there still remains an amendment of the committee on account of the misprint of the bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. I suggest that as the bill now stands all the words on page 2, in line 12, not already stricken out, and in lines 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, down to the word "desirable," at the end of line 19, and beginning with line 20, be stricken out, and the words indicated in the report be substituted:

That said highway shall be subject in all respects to the laws of the State or Territory where the same is located as are other highways created under the laws of said State or Territory.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will state to the Senator from Missouri that that is the committee amendment which was overlooked because of the failure of the Public Printer to print it.

Mr. COCKRELL. It is unfortunate that the Public Printer makes so many mistakes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be reported.

The SECRETARY. In line 12, it is proposed to strike out all down to and including the word "desirable" in line 20, in the following words:

But the State in which such land so subjected to such easement is situated may change the location of such highway or abolish the same upon payment to any person or persons of such damage as such person or persons will suffer thereby, and on like conditions such easement shall be subject to change by the legislative authority of the State or Territory in which the same is situated to another public use of equal or greater public utility if it shall be deemed desirable.

And to insert:

That said highway shall be subject in all respects to the laws of the State or Territory where the same is located as are other highways created under the laws of said State or Territory.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill be read as it has been amended, so that we may understand it.

Mr. CAREY. This bill is a matter of a good deal of importance to the arid region, and I want to understand it. I do not

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CARACAS AWARDS.

The bill (S. 2454) for the application of the accretions of the Caracas awards of 1868 to the new awards made in 1889 and 1890 was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. That appears to be quite an important bill, involving questions of treaty stipulations and adjustments. The Senator from New York [Mr. Hiscock], who made the report, is not present. I think the bill had better be passed over without prejudice.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over without prejudice.

WASHINGTON AND GREAT FALLS RAILWAY.

The bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company was next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. GORMAN. I ask that that bill may go over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be passed over, retaining its place on the Calendar.

DELIVERY OF ICE ON SUNDAY.

The bill (S. 2994) to prevent the sale or delivery of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday, was announced as next in order.

Mr. SANDERS. Let that bill go over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Being objected to, the bill will go over. Shall it go over without prejudice?

Mr. SANDERS. Yes, sir; without prejudice.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will go over without prejudice.

EMILE M. BLUM AND JAMES M. SEYMOUR, JR.

The bill (S. 655) for the relief of Emile M. Blum, late commissioner-general, and James M. Seymour, jr., late assistant commissioner, to the Barcelona Exposition, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the Library with amendments.

The amendments were, in line 4, after the word "allow," to insert "and pay;" and in line 13, after the word "to," to insert "pay;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to allow and pay to Emile M. Blum, late United States commissioner-general to the International Exposition at Barcelona, Spain, the sum of $3,380.96, in the adjustment of his accounts, being the amount of money by him disbursed in furthering American interests at said exposition not heretofore allowed by the accounting officers of the Treasury, and to pay to said Emile M. Blum, for services as commissioner-general, the sum of $5,000; and to pay James M. Seymour, jr., the sum of $2,500 as assistant commissioner, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is there a report in that case?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read, then.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. WOLCOTT May 19, 1892:

The Committee on the Library, to whom was referred the bill (S. 655) for the relief of Emile M. Blum, late commissioner-general, and James M. Seymour, jr., late assistant commissioner, to the Barcelona Exposition, having had the same under consideration, submit the following report:

By the joint resolution of April 11, 1888, the United States accepted the invitation of the Spanish Government to participate in its first international exposition, and $25,000 was appropriated to defray the expenses of the representation of our Government to the international exposition to open on the 8th of May of that year at Barcelona, Spain, to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of State.

Mr. Emile M. Blum, of New York City, having been previously designated as honorary delegate, was, upon the passage of the resolution, appointed commissioner-general. Immediately upon receiving his designation Mr. Blum set vigorously to work to make known to manufacturers and others that this was Spain's first exposition of a national character, traveling to various industrial and commercial centers and meeting boards of trade, chambers of commerce, members of the press, etc., endeavoring to secure a suitable class of representative exhibits. Owing to the shortness of the time between his designation and the date set for the opening of the exposition, Mr. Blum, in his earnest desire to attract public attention to this event, sought the aid of the press, by means of editorials, articles on Spanish needs, etc., and in doing so incurred the heaviest item, which, probably owing to other causes, was not allowed in the settlement of his accounts. Had an equal sum been spent at ordinary rates in the advertising columns, it is safe to say that the result attained would not have been near as great.

Mr. Blum delayed his departure from this country to the latest possible moment in order to secure the widest publicity to the advantages which would probably result from a presentation of the work of American hands to the observation of the Catalans and others attending the exhibition. On his arrival he found scattered out on the wharves of the customs authorities, exposed to the weather, the exhibits of forty-four manufacturers, that had been shipped in the care of their own special agent, who was not able to pay for their release. Mr. Blum, by direction of the Department of State, took these articles into his custody, paid the charges, etc., and installed them in the United States section, at a cost of some $5,000, which expense had not been anticipated in the original scheme of expenses.

The great demand for mechanics, etc., necessary for the installations of the exposition led to numerous strikes, and the contracts which Mr. Blum had made for the United States section were broken several times, requiring new ones to be entered into at greatly increased cost, and as the time was so short it became necessary to employ a number of men, paying them extra wages. Mr. Blum devoted his entire time to carrying out his duty, and the expense of the work, day and night, until the exhibition was completed.

The Department of State writes of his work as follows: "Mr. Blum made a very excellent showing for the United States at Barcelona. Our section was regarded as the handsomest, and was the subject of many flattering testimonials." (Letter to Hon. E. J. DUNPHY, May 8, 1890.)

In pursuance of what he considered to be an appropriate discharge of the purpose in sending any representative to the exposition, Mr. Blum accepted the invitation of the minister of state, Señor D. Serrano y Alarcón, and Prime Minister Sagasta, to visit Madrid with a view to obtaining them information respecting our trade, etc. The expense of this visit is one of the items not heretofore allowed and provided for in the bill.

In making up the quota of jurors of awards on the part of the United States, Mr. Blum was obliged, owing to the lack of one country man, to ask citizens of Barcelona to serve, and the small amounts expended for their lunches, etc., while so employed, if they received no compensation, are among the items for which reimbursement is asked.

In view of the fact that Mr. Blum devoted his entire time and energies for nearly a year to this work, receiving no salary therefor, that he has spent of his own money for the sole purpose of furthering to the best of his ability the extension of our trade with Spain, etc., more than both the reimbursement and salary proposed in the bill combined, it seems but an act of justice to afford this measure of relief.

The following extracts show the views of the Department of State on this matter:

"Mr. Blum was very energetic in the performance of his duties, and was highly commended by the American exhibitors for his services in their behalf.

"Out of 78 manufacturers represented, 29 received gold medals, 12 received silver medals, 16 received bronze medals, and 9 received honorable mention.

"The number of American exhibitors was much greater than was expected at the time the appropriation of $25,000 was made, and this sum proved inadequate to meet the increased expense.

"Mr. Blum met the extra expense out of his own funds, and now asks relief." (Letter from Hon. William F. Wharton, Assistant Secretary, to Hon. E. J. DUNPHY, dated May 8, 1890.)

The Secretary of State, Mr. Blaine, in communicating his views to Hon. JOHN SHERMAN, under date of May 24, 1890, says:

"This Department has already considered the subject in connection with a similar bill introduced in the House of Representatives and referred hither by the House Committee on Claims.

"I inclose herewith, as embodying the views of this Department on the subject, a copy of a letter addressed to Hon. EDWARD D. SMITH, of the Committee on Claims, by the Assistant Secretary of State under date of the 8th instant.

"Mr. Blum rendered the Government an excellent service as its representative at the Barcelona Exhibition, and incurred legitimate expenses in his representative capacity which the appropriation was insufficient to meet.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 8, 1890.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th ultimo, respecting House bill No. 9511, for the relief of Emile M. Blum, late commissioner-general of the United States to the Barcelona Exhibition.

"Mr. Blum made a very excellent showing for the United States at Barcelona. Our section was regarded as the handsomest, and was the subject of many flattering testimonials.

"Mr. Blum was very energetic in the performance of his duties, and was highly commended by the American exhibitors for his services in their behalf.

"Out of the seventy-six manufacturers represented, twenty received gold medals, sixteen received bronze medals, and nine received honorable mention.

"The number of American exhibitors was much greater than was expected at the time the appropriation of $25,000 was made, and this sum proved inadequate to meet the increased expense. Mr. Blum met the extra expense out of his own funds, and now seeks relief.

"The principal items of expense borne personally by Mr. Blum were those for advertising, traveling expenses incurred in visiting manufacturers, and rent of furniture.

"The act of appropriation made no provision for a compensation for the commissioner, but this Department knows of no reason why compensation might not now be provided.

"I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant.

WILLIAM F. WHARTON,

Assistant Secretary.

Hon. EDWARD J. DUNPHY,
House of Representatives.

A bill for this same purpose was unanimously reported and passed the Senate during the fifty-first Congress.

In view of the foregoing facts your committee recommend that the bill do pass, with certain amendments which they suggest, changing in a slight degree the phraseology of the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. I simply desire to say that while I do not object to the consideration of the bill or raise any question about its passage, when Congress has created a commission such as this and appropriated $25,000 to meet the expenses to be incurred, the commissioner is not warranted in exceeding the expenditures that Congress has authorized. When we ratify acts such as this it tends to encourage a total disregard of the checks which the legislative department has a right to impose upon such exhibitions or the expenditures to be made in respect of such exhibitions. I have very little sympathy with the objects and purposes of the bill, but shall not throw any obstacle in the way of its passage.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REMISSION OF TONNAGE DUES TO SWEDEN AND NORWAY.

The bill (S. 3153) to give effect to the eighth article of the treaty of commerce and navigation with Sweden and Norway, of July 1, 1827, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read in that case.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. DAVIS May 19, 1892:

The Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3153) to give effect to the eighth article of the treaty of commerce and navigation with Sweden and Norway, of July 1, 1827, having had the same under consideration, approve the following report submitted to the last Congress, and recommend that the bill be passed.

"The Committee on Foreign Relations, to which was referred the message from the President of the United States, transmitting report of the Secretary of State relative to the claim of the Government of Sweden and Norway for lower rate of tonnage dues, under acts of 1881 and 1886 (Senate Ex. Doc. 34, Fifty-first Congress, first session), respectfully report:

"It appears to the committee that the specific provision of the eighth article of the treaty with Sweden and Norway, made in 1827, positively obliges each nation not to impose upon the vessels of the other any burdens of any kind or denomination, with an exception not applicable to the present question.

"The committee is of opinion that the words 'every other navigation' in that article necessarily include the operations of the vessels of other countries from whatever place they may come, and therefore that the act of Congress of June 26, 1881, and the act of June 19, 1886, so far as they impose upon vessels of Sweden and Norway a burden that is not imposed upon the vessels of other countries, although coming to ports of the United States from specific localities, and impose such burdens equally upon all vessels, are in violation of our treaty obligations with the Government of Sweden and Norway.

"This precise question was raised soon after the conclusion of the treaty of 1827, when the Government of Sweden and Norway undertook to impose burdens on vessels classified by geographical tests. But our Government remonstrated, and after discussion the Government of Sweden and Norway appears to have acceded to our views of the matter, and to have remitted and abandoned the exactions which were founded upon such distinctions.

"We are of opinion, therefore, that not only the clear meaning of the eighth article of the treaty referred to, but the accepted interpretation put upon it on the urgency of our demand by the Government of Sweden and Norway, should oblige the United States to give the same effect to this article in favor of Sweden and Norway that was given to it by that Government in favor of our shipping and on our demand.

"In respect of the suggestion appearing in some of the papers submitted to the committee that the 'most favored nation' clause would cover a case of this character, we think that such a pretension is without foundation.

"We, therefore, report the accompanying bill to give effect to the eighth article of the treaty of 1827."

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. Senate Executive Document No. 34, which is referred to in the report, is a long document, and I did not have time to read it before the bill was taken up. I shall not object to the passage of the bill, reserving the right to enter a motion to reconsider if desired.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WITNESSES BEFORE COURTS-MARTIAL.

The bill (S. 1229) amending section 1202 of Revised Statutes of the United States, providing for the attendance of witnesses before a court-martial, was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

"That section 1202 of the Revised Statutes of the United States be, and the same is hereby, amended, by adding thereto the following words: 'Every person not in the military service who, having been summoned as a witness before a court-martial to give testimony or to produce papers upon any matter under inquiry before such court, refuses to appear or refuses to produce such papers, or refuses to answer any competent question pertinent to the matter upon trial, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction before a United States circuit or district court, be punished by a fine of not more than $500 and by imprisonment in a common jail for not more than twelve months; and it shall be the duty of the judge-advocate of such court-martial to make complaint before a United States commissioner, setting forth such refusal of said witness.'"

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. CALL. I do not think that bill ought to be passed without some provision in it for indictment before a grand jury. I am opposed to allowing, upon the mere complaint of an officer of a court-martial, an arbitrary tribunal confined entirely to military life, citizens to be arrested and imprisoned, and then to be convicted without indictment before a grand jury, or a trial before a petit jury. I am opposed to a law under which a man may be tried for a misdemeanor without the indictment of a jury. I think that bill had better go over. I object to it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over.

EMPLOYMENT OF PINKERTON DETECTIVES.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I move that the Senate adjourn.

Mr. PEPPER. Will the Senator withhold his motion for a moment that I may offer a resolution to lie over?

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I withdraw the motion for that purpose.

Mr. PEPPER. I offer a resolution which at the proper time I will ask to have substituted for the resolution offered to-day by my distinguished friend from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER].

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution, as follows:

Whereas at many times and places within the United States in recent years, the public peace has been disturbed and life and property endangered by the private employment of armed men, commonly known as "Pinkerton men" and "Pinkerton detectives," and

Whereas it is currently reported that a bloody conflict occurred on the 6th day of the present month at or near Homestead, a village near the city of Pittsburg in the State of Pennsylvania, between a body of said Pinkerton men and the citizens of said village of Homestead; and

Whereas the existence and employment of such a body of men without authority of law is contrary to the genius of American institutions and subversive of liberty; Therefore,

Be it resolved, That a select committee of three members of the Senate, belonging to different political parties, be appointed by the President of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to investigate and report to the Senate the facts in relation to the existence and employment of the said "Pinkerton men" or "Pinkerton detectives" since their first appearance in the United States to the present time. The investigation shall extend to the objects of such existence and employment, how organized, how, when, for what purpose, and by whom employed, the work performed by them, who pays them for their services and how much, and what officers of the law, if any, and by what statute or other authority said Pinkertons have at any time been employed.

In addition to the testimony and conclusions of fact, the committee will consider an report, by bill or otherwise, what legislation, if any, is necessary to prevent further unlawful use or employment of said Pinkerton men or other similar bodies of armed men for private purposes.

The committee is authorized to sit during the sessions of the Senate and during recesses thereof, to visit any part of the country wherever their presence shall be necessary for the proper discharge of their duties, to administer oaths to witnesses, to send for persons and papers, to employ a stenographer. The expenses of said committee shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest to the Senator from Kansas that that resolution must go to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. PEPPER. I ask that the resolution go over.

Mr. HARRIS. Still it must be referred to that committee before being acted upon. The law requires that it should be so referred.

Mr. MANDERSON. All that is desired now, as I understand, is that the resolution shall be printed and lie over until to-morrow.

Mr. HARRIS. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will lie over and be printed.

Mr. MANDERSON. I appeal to the Senator from Arkansas to withdraw his motion, to permit us to have an executive session. There are some appointments which should be acted upon.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I withdraw the motion to adjourn.

RIO GRANDE, MEXICO AND PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. CAREY. I ask permission to have a bill considered at this time. It will only take a minute.

Mr. MANDERSON. If it leads to no debate I will yield to the Senator, but I want an executive session.

Mr. CAREY. I ask for the present consideration of Senate bill 1710.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 1710) to authorize the Rio Grande, Mexico and Pacific Railroad Company to purchase certain land.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

"That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to withdraw from sale so much of the land of the abandoned Fort Cummings military reservation, in the Territory of New Mexico, as may be necessary to secure perpetually for public use the spring upon said reservation; the land to be reserved as aforesaid to enhance not only that upon which the spring is situated, but such other portions for right of way as may be necessary to secure to the public the right to have all the advantages of the spring aforesaid.

Sec. 2. That the Secretary of the Interior, and he is hereby, authorized to grant to the Rio Grande, Mexico and Pacific Railroad Company a license to so much of the water of said spring as may be necessary for the operation of the road of said company, and to grant to said company a right of way for a pipe from said spring to the road of said company by the most direct line, to be located under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior; Provided, That said right of way shall not exceed 40 feet in width; and when the same is located the land covered by the right of way shall be withdrawn from entry and after due appraisal shall be paid for by said company and be dedicated to the right of way aforesaid.

Sec. 3. That the license aforesaid shall continue as long as the existence thereof may be deemed not injurious to the public interest by the Secretary of the Interior, who shall at all times have the right to regulate the quantity of water to be used by said company, so as not to deprive the public of the benefits of the dedication to public use heretofore made. Upon the cessation of the license the right of way for the pipe line aforesaid shall revert to the United States, upon refunding by the United States the sum of the appraised price thereof which may have been paid to the United States by said company under the previous provisions of this act.

Mr. COCKRELL. Why not insert a clause "that Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act at any time?" I think the Senator should insert that provision in the bill.

Mr. CAREY. I have no objection to that.

man from Arkansas [Mr. PEEL]; but being informed that he would vote in the affirmative I have voted the same way.

Mr. HARRIES. Mr. Speaker, I am paired with the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. McKEIGHAN], but have voted "ay" for the purpose of making a quorum. As my vote is not necessary for that purpose I withdraw it. The gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. McKEIGHAN], if present, would vote "no."

Mr. ABBOTT. I am paired with the gentleman from Maine [Mr. MILLIKEN], but understanding that he would, if present, vote "ay," I have taken the privilege of voting on the same side.

Mr. COGSWELL. On this question I have voted in the affirmative, but being paired with my colleague from Massachusetts [Mr. O'NEIL], I withdraw my vote.

Mr. HENDERSON of Illinois. I am paired with the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. LIVINGSTON], but I understand that if present, he would vote "ay" and, therefore, desiring to vote on the same side, I have done so.

The result of the vote was announced as above stated.

On motion of Mr. BLANCHARD, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message from the President, by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had approved and signed bills of the following titles:

An act (H. R. 7557) to provide for the opening of a part of the Colville Reservation, in the State of Washington, and for other purposes:

(NOTE.—This bill was presented to the President on the 20th ultimo, and not having been returned by him to the House of Congress in which it originated within the ten days prescribed by the Constitution, has become a law without his approval.)

On July 1, 1892:

An act (H. R. 3767) granting an increase of pension to George W. White.

An act (H. R. 8888) for preparation of a site and erection of a pedestal for statue of late Gen. William T. Sherman, and appropriating the sum of $50,000 therefor; and

An act (H. R. 9089) making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893.

On July 6, 1892:

An act (H. R. 5133) to authorize the Marinette and Western Railroad Company to construct a railroad through the Menominee Reservation in the State of Wisconsin;

An act (H. R. 7081) conforming title to lands in the subdivision of square 206 in the city of Washington, D. C.;

An act (H. R. 4620) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to consent to the use of a portion of the public grounds of the United States in the town of Abingdon, Va., for a public street;

An act (H. R. 7696) amendatory of an act entitled "An act to provide for the taking of the Eleventh Census;"

An act (H. R. 1680) for the relief of the inhabitants of the town of Ferron, county of Emery, Territory of Utah;

An act (H. R. 6591) supplementary and amendatory to an act entitled "An act to refer to the Court of Claims certain claims of the Shawnee and Delaware Indians and the freedmen of the Cherokee Nation, and for other purposes," approved October 1, 1890; and

An act (H. R. 5602) granting a pension to Lucy Haskell, mother, by adoption, of John Haskell.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate by Mr. PLATT, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7820) making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes.

It also announced that the Senate had passed without amendment the bill (H. R. 8294) to punish the carrying of deadly or dangerous weapons within the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

It also announced that the Senate had passed the following concurrent resolutions: in which concurrence of the House was requested:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the representatives from the United States to the Columbian Historical Exposition at Madrid in 1892 are hereby permitted to take from the Capitol, for use at said Exposition, the picture of the "Recall of Columbus," painted by August G. Heaton.

Also,

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 5,000 copies of the bulletins of the Bureau of American Republics submitted to Congress by the President in connection with the first annual report of that Bureau, of which number 1,000 shall be for the use of the members of the Senate, 2,000 for the use of the Members and Delegates of the House of Representatives, and 2,000 for distribution under the direction of the Secretary of State, and said bulletins not to exceed sixteen volumes.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted to Mr. WILSON of West Virginia for two days, on account of sickness.

FREE COINAGE OF GOLD AND SILVER.

Mr. BLAND. Regular order.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is the pending motion of the gentleman from New York [Mr. TRACEY] to refer the bill (S. 51) to provide for the free coinage of gold and silver bullion, and for other purposes, to the Committee on Banking and Currency, on which the yeas and nays have been ordered; and the Clerk will call the roll.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 43, nays 155, not voting 130; as follows:

So the motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

During the roll call

Mr. DICKERSON said: I desire to announce that my colleague [Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky] has been called home on account of the illness of his wife.

Mr. TRACEY. I ask for a recapitulation of the vote.

The Clerk recapitulated the names of those voting.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

Mr. BLAND. Mr. Speaker, I move to refer the bill to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and on that I demand the previous question.

Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Illinois rise?

Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois. To move an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. BLAND] has demanded the previous question. If the House sustains the demand for the previous question the motion is not amendable. If the House votes it down an amendment would be in order. The question is upon ordering the previous question on the motion to refer.

The question being taken, the Speaker announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. FITCH and others demanded a division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 88, noes none.

Mr. FITCH and Mr. TRACEY. No quorum.

Mr. BLAND. I demand the yeas and nays.

Mr. TRACEY. Pending that I move that the House do now adjourn, if that be in order.

The SPEAKER. That motion is in order. The Chair will state the question. The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. BLAND] demands the yeas and nays on the motion for the previous question, and pending that the gentleman from New York [Mr. TRACEY] moves that the House do now adjourn.

The question being taken, the Speaker announced that the noes seemed to have it.

Mr. TRACEY demanded a division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 2, noes 94.

Mr. TRACEY. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken on the motion to adjourn; and there were—yeas 7, nays 165, not voting 156; as follows:

SENATE.

THURSDAY, July 7, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.
EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting an estimate from the Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing relative to additional appropriations rendered necessary by the passage of the law granting thirty days' leave of absence to employees of that Bureau; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT presented resolutions of the Brooklyn Athletic Club; of the Social Union, No. 175; of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; of the Court Eve 7393, Ancient Order of Freemasons of America, and of the Patrick J. Donlon Association, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., in regard to the imprisonment in England of Dr. Thomas Gallagher, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and praying that steps be taken for his release; which were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

He also presented a petition of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America, praying that no appropriation be made by Congress for the World's Columbian Exposition unless the Exhibition be closed on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a communication from the governor of New Mexico, transmitting a copy of a letter to the Committee on Territories of the Senate relative to the admission of New Mexico as a State; which was referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE presented the petition of Isaac N. Aldrich and other citizens of Hopkins, Mich., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PALMER presented a memorial of 5,234 members and patrons of the Chicago (Ill.) Live Stock Exchange and other citizens of Chicago, Ill., remonstrating against the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday or in any other way committing the United States Government to a course of religious legislation; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. DAWES presented the petition of David O. Mears and other citizens of Worcester, Mass., praying that an amendment be adopted to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting appropriations by the States for sectarian purposes; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of the Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends of New York and Vermont, praying for the extension over the colored race in the South of the special care of the Government, maintenance of their rights, and protection by law; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. McMILLAN presented the memorial of Mrs. J. W. Gifford and sundry other citizens of Sumner, the memorial of Samuel Hicks and sundry other citizens of Elm Hall, the memorial of Wesley Guilford and other citizens of Shelby, the memorial of Jasper Adams and 83 other citizens of Battle Creek, the memorial of J. L. Edgar and 87 other citizens of Kalamazoo, the memorial of C. J. Clarke and other citizens of Hastings, the memorial of J. H. Thompson and other citizens of Quincy, and the memorial of William E. Jacobs, supervisor of the township of Hazelton, and 36 other citizens, all in the State of Michigan, remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Congregational Church of Hopkins, Mich., and a petition of the Michigan Congregational Association, held at Detroit, May 25, 1892, praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat, which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PLATT presented memorials of Farmington, Putnam, North Cornwall, Wolf Den, and Far Mill River Granges, of Connecticut, remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. CULLOM. I present a petition adopted at a mass meeting held in the Oakland Methodist Episcopal Church of Chicago, Ill., reciting that it is untrue that those who favor the closing of the World's Fair on Sunday are seeking a union of church and state, and praying that the Exposition be closed on Sunday and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat. I move that the petition be referred to the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CULLOM presented a memorial of citizens of Illinois, remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-tying bill; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DOLPH presented a memorial of sundry citizens of Green Basin, Oregon, remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PERKINS presented the memorial of William C. Davis and 195 others, inmates of the Soldiers' Home, Leavenworth, Kans., and the memorial of O. D. Phillips and 29 other citizens of Chautauqua County, Kans., remonstrating against the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

APPEALS IN CAPITAL CASES.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 2171) to amend section 766 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

The amendment of the House of Representatives was, to strike out all of the bill after the word "Provided," in line 3, and insert:

That no such appeal shall be had or allowed after six months from the date of the judgment or order complained of.

Mr. PLATT. I move that the Senate disagree to the amendment of the House of Representatives, and ask for a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Vice-President was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. PLATT, Mr. MURFEE, and Mr. PUGH were appointed.

NOTE AT HOMESTEAD, PA.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chief lays before the Senate a resolution coming from a previous day, which will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. GALLINGER, as follows:

Whereas the new steel spring of the city of Homestead, Pa., is a deadly conflict between working men and the Trust, and has become a deadly conflict; and

Whereas all good citizens are desirous of putting an end to this violence and bloodshed; Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Education and Labor be instructed to make an immediate and careful inquiry into the causes and consequences of the Homestead strike, and to report thereon to the Senate as soon as practicable.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. VEST. Another resolution upon this subject was offered yesterday, the resolution submitted by the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], and I suggest that the two resolutions should be considered at the same time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution submitted by the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER] will be read for information.

Mr. VEST. Both resolutions ought to be considered at the same time.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. PEPPER, as follows:

Whereas at many times and places within the United States in recent years the public peace has been disturbed and the property endangered by the private employment of armed men, commonly known as "Pinkerton men" and "Pinkerton detectives;" and

Whereas it is currently reported that a bloody conflict occurred on the 6th day of the present month at or near Homestead, a village near the city of

No. 17, Grand Army of the Republic, of Minersville, Pa., praying for the erection of a monument commemorating the glorious deeds of the enlisted men in the late war; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PROCTOR presented the memorial of Mrs. I. H. Archer and other citizens of Taftsville, Vt., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state, by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAWES. I am instructed by the Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8533) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes, to report it with amendments.

I wish to state that the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN] or the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART], who were associated with me as a subcommittee on the bill, will call it up for action at a very early period.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8579) to incorporate the Petworth, Brightwood and Takoma Park Railway Company of the District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1876) to incorporate the East Washington Crosstown Railway Company of the District of Columbia, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. GALLINGER, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1271) for the purchase of the Washington Gas-Light Company's works, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3314) for the relief of E. Darwin Gage, late lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and forty-eighth New York Infantry, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. HARRIS. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to which was referred the bill (S. 2629) to incorporate the Maryland and Washington Railway Company, to report it adversely, the committee having already reported a House bill on the same subject. I move that this bill be postponed indefinitely.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. PROCTOR, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1723) to authorize the Secretary of War to appoint a board of review in certain cases, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6793) to provide for semiannual statements by foreign corporations doing business in the District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I am directed by the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3021) to exempt veterans from competitive examinations in the classified service of the United States, to report it without recommendation, and I move that it be placed on the Calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. QUAY, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1137) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Walla Walla, in the State of Washington, reported it without amendment.

EMPLOYMENT OF ADDITIONAL PAGES.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. McPHERSON, December 15, 1891, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Sergeant-at-Arms is directed to employ during the present session, in addition to the existing force, two additional pages, said employees to be paid from the miscellaneous items of the contingent fund of the Senate.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. BLACKBURN introduced a bill (S. 3395) to remit the penalties on gunboat No. 3, the Concord, and gunboat No. 4, the Bennington; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 3396) granting a pension to Col. William H. Brown; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PERKINS (by request) introduced a joint resolution (S.

R. 95) concerning the use of alphabetic law in public printing; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Printing.

AMENDMENTS TO A BILL.

Mr. DANIEL submitted two amendments intended to be proposed by him to the deficiency appropriation bill; which were referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

OPENING OF WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

Mr. HILL introduced a bill (S. 3394) changing the date for the dedication of the buildings of the World's Columbian Exposition; which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. HILL. I ask that the bill be read at length.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read at length for information.

The bill was read the second time at length, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the date for the dedication of the buildings of the World's Columbian Exposition is hereby changed from the 12th day of October, 1892, to the 21st day of October, 1892.

Mr. HILL. Mr. President, in connection with this bill I desire to make a brief statement.

The act of Congress which became a law April 25, 1890, provided that the dedication of the buildings of the World's Columbian Exposition should take place on the 12th day of October, 1892. There was some question raised at the time as to the propriety of that date. It seems to be now conceded that, strictly speaking, the date should be the 21st day of October according to our present calendar. The 12th day of October was according to the old system.

It has been proposed since the passage of that act that there should be celebrations throughout the country in honor of the discovery of America by Columbus. They are to be held in different parts of the nation. Great preparations have been made in the State of New York for a celebration to take place in the city of New York on the 12th day of October next. That date was fixed by an act of the Legislature of the State of New York, and an appropriation has been made for the celebration. The Legislature has adjourned. It cannot well be reconvened. That celebration would conflict to some extent with the dedications of the buildings in the city of Chicago.

It has now been proposed that the date for the dedication of the buildings at Chicago should be changed. It is desired by the managers on the part of the State of New York that this should be done. It is desired by the citizens of the State of New York. The celebration at New York will be simply a preliminary one to the grand celebration at Chicago. It will attract attention to the one at Chicago. It will certainly aid the one at Chicago. The citizens of New York, especially the public officials of that State, desire to participate in the opening of the Exhibition buildings at Chicago, which they cannot well do unless the date is changed.

I have consulted with the two Senators from the State of Illinois. They inform me that they have no objection to the passage of the bill. I have consulted with the president, secretary, and executive officers of the World's Columbian Exposition, many of whom are now in the city, and they inform me that they have no objection to the passage of the bill. On the contrary, they are disposed to approve it, although they do not desire to take any affirmative action in that respect. They have no power to do it themselves. The act of 1890 absolutely provides that the dedication shall take place on the 12th day of October. There is, therefore, no objection upon the part of the officers of the Exposition; there is no objection on the part of anybody connected with the Exposition; there is no objection anywhere in the country that I am aware of.

Under these circumstances, as the bill is a short one, and as it is desired that the change of date, if made, should be known at once, so that preparations for the various celebrations may be made accordingly, I ask unanimous consent that the bill may now have consideration.

Mr. CULLOM. Mr. President, I do not rise to oppose the request of the Senator from New York, nor do I rise to make any extended remarks in reference to this bill.

My understanding is, from some correspondence with the authorities connected with the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, that they are not disposed to interpose any objection to the change of the date indicated by the bill of the Senator from New York. The authorities there feel, as we all feel, that it is a proper thing to accommodate each other in reference to this matter.

As the Senator from New York states, the preparation by the Legislature of that State having been made, and being unchangeable except by a call of the Legislature of the State in special session for that purpose, so far as I know the authorities connected with the World's Fair at Chicago and the people inter-

Mr. ALLISON. I will say to the Senator from Washington that the amendment of the Senator from Idaho [Mr. SHOUP] is in order, it being an amendment to an amendment of the committee, and therefore must be considered at this moment. I do not know but that the amendment of the Senator from Washington is of the same character; if so, it ought to be considered now.

Mr. SHOUP. My amendment is proposed to the amendment of the committee.

Mr. ALLEN. Substantially it is one and the same thing. I suppose the Senator from Idaho has no objection to the amount being further increased as recommended by the Committee on Public Lands. There is no danger of having too generous appropriations for the surveys of the public lands.

Mr. President, the primary disposition of the public domain of the United States is an act of sovereignty, and part and parcel of that system is the survey of the public lands and preparing them for disposition under the land laws of the United States.

No difference what the wish or what the purpose or what the patriotic disposition of the Western States may be to aid the General Government in the survey of the public lands, to place them in a condition where they may be intelligently identified and accurately described and disposed of, is entirely beyond their power. Those States are compelled to await the action of the Government. The expenditure of the General Government in the survey of the public lands is an inevitable and a necessary expenditure. It must be made sooner or later. The work may be delayed and by small and niggardly appropriations it may be done by piecemeal, but the most intelligent manner in which it can be done will be to do it promptly, to do it at once, so as to meet all the exigencies of the advancing civilization of our times and the demands which are constantly made in all places for the preparation of the public lands for private and individual uses.

Mr. President, I was instructed to offer this amendment by the Committee on Public Lands from the fact that correspondence had taken place between that committee and the Interior Department respecting a bill which I introduced, proposing an appropriation of $200,000 for a survey of the public lands in the State of Washington. On that bill being referred to the Interior Department, a prompt reply came, to which I wish to call the attention of the Senate. This is the letter of the Commissioner of the General Land Office:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., May 4, 1892.

Sir: I am in receipt, by departmental reference of April 27, 1892, for report of a copy of Senate bill (S. 2918) "to provide for the survey of public lands in the State of Washington." Said bill was referred to the Department by the chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Lands, with a request for the views thereon of the Department.

Said bill provides, in effect, for the appropriation of the sum of $200,000, to be immediately available, the same to be expended for surveys of the public lands in the State of Washington at rates of mileage not exceeding the minimum ($9, $7, $5) and the special maximum ($25, $22, $20) for the standard and meander, township, and section lines, respectively; the latter rates to apply only to lands that are heavily timbered, mountainous, or covered with dense undergrowth. Said sum to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

It is further provided in said bill that of the sum herein appropriated an amount not exceeding $40,000 may be expended for examinations of said public surveys, to test the accuracy of the work and for the necessary office work in connection with said surveys.

In reply I have the honor to report that in view of the fact that the enabling act of February 22, 1889, admitting the State of Washington into the Union, donated lands aggregating 668,000 acres for public buildings, State university, agricultural college, scientific and normal schools, and State charitable, educational, penal, and reformatory institutions. In addition to the school-land grant of sections 16 and 36 in each township, and in land selections connected with said school sections, it is apparent that an early survey of the public lands in said State is necessary in order that the requisite selections may be made before the remaining unsurveyed lands shall have been settled upon.

The appropriations made to the State of Washington of the appropriations for public surveys for the last past and the present fiscal years aggregate $119,000 ($85,000 and $34,000), all of which amounts have been and will be embraced in awarded and approved contracts for surveys within said State in compliance with the terms of the acts making said appropriation giving preference to lands occupied by bona fide settlers. Although said appropriations were by the terms of the acts applicable to the survey of lands granted to the State of Washington by the act of February 22, 1889, it does not appear that to the present date the State has made any formal application to this office for surveys in connection with said selections, and the appropriations were consequently expended in the survey of lands occupied by actual settlers, thus leaving the lands to be surveyed for State purposes to be hereafter provided for.

As the immigration to the State of Washington is annually increasing and the demand for lands for settlement purposes is yearly growing larger, it is obvious that the interests of the State in the matter of said selections should be protected and a special appropriation made for that purpose, and including surveys in the interest of settlers.

I have, therefore, no hesitation in recommending that the appropriation of $200,000, as embodied in Senate bill 2918, for the purposes therein stated, be made, in order that the State of Washington may be enabled to make selections at an early date of desirable lands in satisfaction of the grants herein referred to and of school-land and indemnity lands; also providing for the survey of lands occupied in whole or in part by actual settlers.

Senate bill 2918 is herewith returned.

Very respectfully,

THOS. H. CARTER, Commissioner.

The Hon. the SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

The Secretary of the Interior, in corresponding with the committee on the subject and transmitting that letter says, after reciting its transmission:

As stated by the Commissioner, the portions of the general appropriations for surveys allotted to the State of Washington "have been and will be embraced in awarded and approved contracts for surveys within said State, in compliance with the terms of the acts making said appropriations, giving preference to lands occupied by bona fide settlers."

This is the same condition in other of the new States, and, as the demand for the survey of lands for settlement purposes is yearly increasing in those States, it is apparent that some measure is necessary in order to protect those States in their grants for university, college, charitable, reformatory, and other institutions, so that the requisite selections are necessary to satisfy those grants may be made before the great body of the available unsurveyed lands shall have been appropriated by settlers.

While I can see no objection to the present bill, yet I am of the opinion that the appropriation should be so increased as to extend the operation of the acts to the other States, and the legislation thus made general, instead of special.

Mr. President, acting upon that information respecting the State of Washington, which is but the counterpart of all the newly admitted States of the Union, the Committee on Public Lands unhesitatingly directed that this proposed appropriation of $600,000 be made. If one will look at the history of the public surveys he will reach the conclusion very quickly that this is not an exorbitant demand. I think, until the year 1880, appropriations were made special to the particular States, but that about that time a new system was inaugurated, by which a general or lump sum was appropriated for the survey of the entire public domain and apportioned among the different States and Territories in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior.

In reviewing the history of these appropriations I find this fact: Dating from the inauguration of that system, about the year 1880, the appropriations I find directly made averaged $350,000 per annum for the succeeding five years, inclusive of 1880 and 1884. But along with this system there was another system far more liberal and far more extensive. Under the special deposit system, which had been inaugurated before and extended by the act of March 3, 1879, persons desiring to make settlement or purchase of the public lands of the United States were permitted to go to the land office and make deposits of money for the purpose of securing the surveys. These deposits became in the nature of negotiable certificates, which the Government of the United States received in payment of the purchase price of its land. The result was, that under that system of special deposit surveys were made in amount exceeding $1,000,000 per annum. So in the five years beginning with 1880 and closing with 1884, I find by this system alone some $5,813,368 were expended in the survey of the public lands making, as will be seen, one million and nearly two hundred thousand dollars per annum in addition to the regular annual appropriation of an average of $350,000.

There were abuses no doubt under that system, but it resulted in extended surveys. It resulted in enabling many States of the Union to complete their surveys and have all the lands in a condition subject to appropriation and disposition by the General Government.

But the new States of the Union, the remote States, were not the beneficiaries of this system. This was before the day of the extension of the railroads into our new States. This was before the admission of our new States. These immense sums of money went to other localities and to other parts of the Government.

Immediately following upon this system, and at the time when our States had the railroads extended to them, and when emigration on a gigantic scale began to move into these regions a radically different system was adopted. The special deposit system was practically repealed and annulled, and has cut no figure in the surveys of the public lands since that date. The annual appropriations were greatly reduced, going down to $100,000, and even $50,000 for two or three years, with rates so low that even those amounts had to be covered back into the Treasury in a number of the Western or Pacific Slope States; and particularly was that true in the State which I have the honor in part to represent.

But, Mr. President, we have still the other fact, that the generous system of appropriation had been cut off; that for four or five years preceding the admission of those States they practically had been without appropriations for the survey of their lands. We add to that the fact that in this time of need great systems of transportation were opened out, and means of ingress into that part of the country were afforded so that population from all parts of the Union poured into it by hundreds of thousands, taking up homes on the public domain.

We had had this order of things encouraged by the General Government, that a settler should go on the public domain in advance of all surveys. His presence there was not a trespass, he was there by invitation of the Government and upon a contract, and the assurance that the Government would back him up and in the speediest practical time identify his land, survey it, and enable him to acquire the legal title which he already had by going in advance and complying with the requirements of the law.

Not only that, but in addition to this immense demand made for the actual settlement of our lands, so great that the public surveys have been running hopelessly behind, in these years we have had the admission of these new States with grants made by the General Government of a most munificent character. I think none of those States but feel that the General Government has dealt generously and largely with them, if by a proper and speedy extension of the public surveys they can avail themselves of the grants. Now, shall the broad generosity of the National Government to all these young States in each of the particulars specified be a substantial donation? Shall it be the realization of our hopes or shall it all be frittered away?

In competition with actual settlement we have been unable to make the selection of our lands because the actual settler has the pre-emptive right. He can go in advance of the public surveys and equity and statute both combine to protect him even against the beneficent grants that the States have for the general purposes mentioned in the enabling acts.

This being our situation, the necessary expenditure for these public surveys being inevitable to the Government, in fact it being not a disbursement but really an advancement for that which comes back to the Government many fold, we feel that we are only asking that which our constituency are urgently and justly and vehemently pressing upon us.

Look for a moment at the position in which these new States are placed. Some enterprising man with a great deal of courage and of hope goes out upon the public domain in advance of the public settlement. He takes up his home; helps build up a new community—a new commonwealth—and yet in doing that he runs all the hazard of uncertainty as to whether the improvements he makes shall fall upon a particular piece of land which he thinks he has selected for his homestead. He must go through all these years with that uncertainty hanging over him by reason of the delay of the Government. He may find out when it is too late that these improvements have been made upon the land of some railroad company; that they have been made outside of the boundary line of the tract which he hopes to acquire for himself, and he is left homeless. His labor and the sacrifices and hardships undergone by his family may go for nothing.

Not only that; he may identify his land, but his position is nothing but that of a squatter upon it. No difference how his relations and condition may have changed; no difference what the intervening years may have brought him; no difference what the wants of his growing family may have become, so that his duty as a father would require that he should go to the town or village for the purpose of educating his children, he is pinned to the land, because if he leaves it, though his compliance may have been complete with the requirements of the law under which he took it or proposes to take it, he becomes an abandoner of the land, and it is subject to the entry of the next man who comes along. So you see the injustice wrought in his case, and it is not an exceptional one. The fact that the land remains an unsurveyed portion of the public domain affords immunity from taxation, and the burdens of government which his neighbors have to pay one person may be exempted from, because although equitably the land is his own and for all practical purposes, technically it is a part of the public domain of the United States, and he escapes the taxation that is visited upon those about him. This is one of the most unjust and irritating discriminations known in government, denounced and forbidden in organic law, and condemned by popular opinion.

For five, ten, or fifteen years I have witnessed just this order of things prevailing. It invites confusion upon the frontier; it invites the violation of law. It places men in controversy as to the identity of claims and the equality of their rights who otherwise would be in good neighborhood; whereas if the Government had extended the survey there could be no uncertainty and no such grounds of contention. I say confusion, disorder, disadvantage, embarrassment are inflicted upon these new States in every particular and their people are the victims at all times of this delay of the Government.

Again, Mr. President, we have not only the awkward condition of things I have suggested, but the States themselves must stand by conscious of the fact that within their domains are the lands that would munificently endow them for all great State purposes of buildings of education, philanthropy, and all the objects that Congress designs they should be possessed of, yet impotent to avail themselves of these royal grants. Our large expectations through the failure of surveys must prove a delusion and a mockery. The Public Land Committee have sought to formulate some plan whereby these grants may be secured to the States, without obstructing and wronging the actual bona fide settler. Their idea is the States must take their chances with the actual settlers, and the remedy lies in large appropriations for public surveys.

In view of this condition of things, in view of the pressing necessity coming up from every neighborhood, coming up from every community, and in view of the fact that it is no expenditure of public money in reality, but a mere advancement; that the Government is to be abundantly repaid and that it is but meeting a duty on the part of the Government that it sooner or later must meet, I urgently press upon the Senate that the amount of this proposed amendment, which is small indeed compared with the needs of the times, may be allowed as an amendment to the bill.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HARRIS in the chair). The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Idaho [Mr. SHOUP] to the amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. SANDERS. I understood the Senator from Idaho to accept the amendment offered by the Committee on Public Lands, or in their name, and therefore the vote would be upon that amendment.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Idaho modify his amendment to the amendment?

Mr. SHOUP. I accept the amendment as reported by the Committee on Public Lands.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho modifies his amendment to the amendment. The Secretary will read the amendment to the amendment as modified.

THE SECRETARY. On page 60, line 9, in the amendment of the committee before the word "thousand," strike out "three hundred and seventy-five" and insert "six hundred," so as to read:

For surveys and resurveys of public lands, $600,000.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask that the whole of the amendment may be reported. I see there are some other items.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will report the amendment as it will read if amended.

Mr. ALLEN. The paging has been changed since the proposed amendment was submitted.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment to the amendment refers to different lines in the bill. It will have to be looked up.

Mr. ALLISON. I may waive that for the moment.

Mr. ALLEN. The amendment to the amendment itself is plain. It is an increase of the amount of the proposed appropriation, and a corresponding increase in the amount for office work and that for readjusting the work in the field.

Mr. ALLISON. This I see is a substantive amendment by itself.

Now, I desire to say only a word respecting the amendment proposed by the Committee on Appropriations. I agree to every syllable uttered by the two Senators who have spoken upon this subject, but we must deal with this question in a practical way. No one knows better than the Senator from Washington what I mean when I say that.

We have increased this sum $175,000 over the provision as it came to the Senate, and we have in another place, to meet a most pressing necessity, as we understand in the Northwestern States, added an additional sum of $250,000 for the survey of railroad lands, which with the $375,000 here appropriated, makes $625,000 in all that we have provided for surveys of the public lands, or $25,000 more than is suggested by the Senator from Washington. I feel that this is about all that can probably be secured at this session.

If the Senator from Washington and the Senator from Idaho will agree to substitute $450,000 in line 9, and correspondingly increase where the Senator proposes an increase, I shall make no opposition to the amendments to the amendment.

Mr. ALLEN. I appeal a moment to the Senator from Iowa for an inquiry, and then I will give an answer.

I find that in the actual appropriations that were made from 1880 to 1884, inclusive, there was $1,512,000 annually expended in the surveys of the public lands. I do not know of the existence of any state of affairs at that time which made the demand more pressing, if as much so, as it is now.

But I recognize what the Senator from Iowa has so feelingly brought to my attention, that it may not be possible to sustain the amount at the mark at which it is placed, and therefore, with the understanding that the appropriation is placed at $450,000 with the proportionate increase, as I understand he suggests, and that the proposed amendment standing in the bill at this time in regard to the survey of the public lands lying within the limits of land grants shall not be affected, I think I can say that I am willing to accept the proposition.

Mr. ALLISON. I will say to the Senator respecting the large amount expended for surveys between 1880 and 1884, that that large expenditure was made, as the Senator so well stated awhile ago, under the deposit system; and we are now confronted elsewhere with the suggestion that there are 140,000,000 acres of surveyed lands which are unoccupied. A great portion of the surveys made under the deposit system, as the Senator knows very well, were high elevated plains; lands were surveyed in Wyoming and elsewhere that have not been occupied, and the certificates issued for them were used in the Dakotas, Nebraska, etc., in payment of lands. There was a complaint from those States, as well as by the Land Office and the Secretary of the Interior, that there was injustice in the system; that the land surveys ought to follow the necessities of the people, and that the Department here should control the places where the lands should be surveyed; and I think the Senator will quite agree that that ought to be the case.

Mr. PADDOCK. I should like to inquire of the Senator what he means by the term "unoccupied." Does he mean by that, that the lands have been disposed of and segregated from the body of the public lands?

Mr. ALLISON. They have been surveyed and not taken up at the land offices under any of the land laws.

Mr. PADDOCK. That is it.

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to inquire of the Senator from Iowa if the inciting cause of that was not the fact that in the survey of a township it enabled parties to take up the merest fraction of the township along the lines of the streams and leave the rest of it not only unsettled upon but of no value to anybody, as a rule?

Mr. ALLISON. That is absolutely true; and elsewhere and heretofore I have insisted that the fact that there was a large body of land already surveyed which had not been taken up under any of the land laws of the United States was no reason why we should not make reasonable appropriations for the survey of such public lands as the people have settled upon or desire to settle upon for purposes of homes.

Mr. ALLEN. I am glad to hear the Senator make that statement. He will also bear in mind that in the surveys of the lands for which there is an actual and pressing demand in a number of the States the cost of the survey has been very greatly increased over that of the surveys of open lands upon the plains.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Idaho modify the amendment so as to fix the amount at $450,000?

Mr. SHOUP. I accept the modification.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will report the amendment to the amendment as modified.

The SECRETARY. Strike out in line 9, before the word "thousand," the words "three hundred and seventy-five" and insert "four hundred and fifty;" so as to read:

For surveys and resurveys of public lands, $50,000, at rates not exceeding $9 per linear mile for standard and meander lines, $7 for township, and $5 for section lines.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment to the amendment as modified.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, on page 60, line 19, after the word "agriculture," to insert "lands valuable for coal;" so as to make the proviso read:

Provided, That in expending this appropriation preference shall be given in favor of surveying townships occupied, in whole or in part, by actual settlers and of lands granted to the States by the act approved February 22, 1889, and the acts approved July 3 and July 10, 1890, and other surveys shall be confined to lands adapted to agriculture, lands valuable for coal, and lines of reservations, except that the Commissioner of the General Land Office may allow, for the survey of lands heavily timbered, mountainous, or covered with dense undergrowth, rates not exceeding $13 per linear mile for standard and meander lines, $11 for township, and $7 for section lines, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 61, after the words "section lines," at the end of line 61, to insert:

And for the extension of the seventh standard parallel north, in the State of Montana, from its present western terminus, as provided for in surveying contract number 256, being the southwest corner of township 29 north, range 27 west, westward to the western boundary of said State, the Secretary of the Interior may allow a rate not exceeding $40 per linear mile.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. I move, in line 21, to strike out the word "forty," before "thousand," and insert "seventy-five." I think the amount of $75,000 should be inserted there, and for the reason which I shall state.

It will be noticed that when the other House placed the amount of the field work at $200,000 they placed the amount of this other work to correspond with it at $40,000, so that for every $100,000 of work done in the field $20,000 of work is required to bring it up. The Senate should increase the amount to correspond with the amendment in the first instance, and to carry it to $75,000 keeps it within the proportion established by the House of Representatives in the bill as it passed that body.

Mr. ALLISON. I, of course, will not object to the amendment suggested, but I do not think it follows precisely that because we increase one amount we should correspondingly increase the other, because the reexamination of these surveys if made in large bodies can be made more easily and economically than if made in small bodies.

Mr. ALLEN. Then I should be very glad to have the Senator suggest about what amount should be inserted.

Mr. ALLISON. I will allow $75,000 to be inserted, and if that is not the correct amount I will modify it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment moved by the Senator from Washington will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 21, after the word "exceeding," strike out "forty" and insert "seventy-five;" so as to read:

And of the sum hereby appropriated not exceeding $75,000 may be expended for examination of public surveys, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. During my absence yesterday three amendments connected with the District of Columbia were passed over on objection by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], who raised a point of order against them. I should like to have them taken up now, as I shall have to go away after a while.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the point of order raised by the Senator from Missouri.

Mr. ALLISON. I have no objection, I will say to the Senator from Michigan, to going back if he desires to be absent. I had the amendments postponed yesterday, and I am willing to recur to them at this time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair is ready to rule on the point of order.

Mr. ALLISON. I think the Senator from Missouri will perhaps withdraw the point of order.

Mr. VEST. No, I do not think I shall.

Mr. ALLISON. I was hoping the Senator would do so.

Mr. VEST. The point of order, I believe, applies to the last amendment offered by the Senator from Iowa also. I do not want to do anything that will embarrass the collection of taxes here upon a just and equitable basis, but I am compelled to go upon the information I have. In the report of the committee of the House of Representatives, on page 20, the Senator from Iowa will find that in 1889, and that is the assessment he proposes to adopt now in this amendment—

Mr. ALLISON. On what page?

Mr. VEST. On page 20 of the report on the assessment of taxes in the District of Columbia, House Report No. 1469, Fifty-second Congress. It says:

Assessed value of all the taxable land and improvements in the District of Columbia for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892:

Land.....	$76,481,028
Improvements.....	69,039,250
Total.....	145,520,278

Mr. MILLS. I will ask the Senator if he is now discussing the amendments on pages 52 and 53 of the bill?

Mr. VEST. On pages 52 and 53, I think.

Mr. MILLS. There was a point of order made against that amendment.

Mr. VEST. There is a point of order against it, but I was simply stating my objection to the last amendment, to which the point of order also applies:

The new assessment being 160 per cent more on land and 7 per cent more on improvements than the old assessment, the probable assessed value for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, assuming that the board of equalization make no increase, will be as follows:

Land.....	$198,772,672
Total.....	272,642,039

The true land value according to this report, on page 21, is $423,000,000, and improvements $73,000,000, making $500,000,000, instead of $272,635,000, the probable assessment for 1893, and $145,481,278, which was the actual assessment. I have read that to accentuate what I said yesterday in regard to the extraordinary and arbitrary and utterly indefensible assessments in this District. Here is a difference between $272,000,000 and $500,000,000; and if you take the assessment which is now proposed to be adopted by the Senator from Iowa, the difference would be between $145,481,258 and nearly $500,000,000.

Mr. ALLISON. Will the Senator yield to me for just a moment?

Mr. VEST. Certainly.

Mr. ALLISON. I do not propose that any assessment shall be adopted. My suggestion is that if the assessment just made is to be revised by any process whatever, in order to make such revision it will go beyond November 1, when taxes are collected, and therefore unless taxes are collected under the existing valuation there will be no taxes collected on the 1st day of November. Unless the assessment which the Senator from Missouri characterizes as an unjust assessment, the facts about which

I know nothing, is to go on without revision and form the basis of the taxes collected on the 1st of November, there will be no tax collected on that day unless the amendment I propose is adopted.

Mr. VEST. Or unless some other legislation is had.

Mr. ALLISON. But what other legislation is possible, I will ask the Senator, to revise taxation in the District of Columbia between now and the 1st of November? I propose simply that, in view of the criticisms made upon the assessment and in view of the fact that it seems to be conceded that there should be a revisory power, the District shall not be without funds gathered together by means of taxation on the 1st day of November, and therefore, in conversation with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, I asked them to prepare some amendment that would continue the system of assessment until the new assessment could be revised.

Mr. FAULKNER. On the present basis?

Mr. ALLISON. On the present basis. Therefore, whilst that may be ineffectual and insufficient, it is better to have the present basis than no basis at all. I submit to the Senator from Missouri, and that is all I mean by my amendment.

Mr. VEST. With that explanation of course I will not make the point of order against the last amendment, because I do not want to deprive the District of Columbia of its tax money; but I do make the point of order as to the rest of the proposed amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Missouri be good enough to state his point of order again?

Mr. VEST. The point of order is that it is general legislation, and then I understand also, though I know nothing personally about the fact, that the amendment did not go to the Senate from the District of Columbia Committee, but that it went from the District of Columbia Committee directly to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. McMILLAN. That is the case, Mr. President. It came from the committee, having passed the committee unanimously, and it was taken to the Committee on Appropriations because there was not time for us to bring it to the Senate before taking it to the Appropriation Committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That is the amendment commencing on page 522?

Mr. VEST. If the Chair will permit me, it is on page 52, commencing at line 15, with the word "that."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Going down to and including what word?

Mr. VEST. Down to the end of line 19, on page 52.

Mr. McMILLAN. Mr. President, I should like to make a little explanation about this matter. It was found that the new assessment, which has only been completed within a very few days, would result in bringing a very much larger amount of money into the treasury of the District than required, and which would, of course, come out of the taxpayers of the District of Columbia. It was found also that the rate of taxation for the District of Columbia was fixed by law at 1 1/2 per cent, and that there was no possible way, under the law as it now stands, by which that rate could be lowered; that a person owning a piece of property heretofore valued, say, at $5,000 might legitimately be assessed by the present assessors at a valuation of $15,000; and in that case the owner would pay three times as much as he did last year. This would in very many cases be a very great burden and hardship to the people here who have small holdings and small houses. In fact it would practically amount to confiscation. A number of these people called on me and drew my attention to this fact. They said their assessments had been raised in a most extraordinary way, and that when they went to the board of assessors they were told that all property in that section was assessed on the same basis; that property had advanced very much; that somebody had bought a piece of property in that neighborhood and paid much more for it, and therefore the assessors had raised the valuations accordingly.

That is the reason why it was suggested by the property-owners in the District of Columbia and by people here generally that a board should be appointed to review the assessments made by the board of assessors. It did not seem right that these men should review their own work as they were doing. Naturally enough, a man who had assessed a piece of property at $5,000 was not going to put it down to $1,000 at the mere request of the owners. In other words, I understand, as in my own city, there is a board of review, and people can go to this board of review and make their statements, and they can, if they justify their statements, have some change made in the assessments; but that is almost impossible under the system in vogue here.

Therefore, I put in the second amendment, that a board of five persons, who should serve without compensation, be appointed to review the work of the board of assessors. I think it is of very great importance that these two amendments should pass at this time.

Mr. MITCHELL. May I ask the Senator a question?

Mr. McMILLAN. Certainly.

Mr. MITCHELL. I wish to inquire if the Committee on the District of Columbia made an investigation of the existing law as to whether the rate of taxation is absolutely fixed at 1 1/2 per cent, or whether that is simply the maximum beyond which the Commissioners may not go?

Mr. McMILLAN. I referred that matter to the attorney for the District of Columbia, and he has reported that there are two laws on the subject; that the two laws conflict in some way; and that the result of the two is that they cannot charge any less than 1 1/2 per cent. They can not fix the rate at any more than one and a half, and they can not fix it at any less.

Mr. MITCHELL. It has been absolutely fixed at one and a half?

Mr. McMILLAN. It has been absolutely fixed. That is the difficulty. This amendment simply places it so that when ever it is needed for the wants of the District of Columbia shall be at a rate of taxation to be fixed in accordance with that need. It may be 1 per cent, it may be 1 1/2 per cent, or whatever rate may be required to raise the money appropriated by Congress. If that is not done, there will be two or three million dollars raised by taxation only to lie idle in the Treasury. It is to avoid any such difficulty that this amendment was proposed.

Mr. MITCHELL. It is to obviate the difficulty arising from a rate fixed inflexibly at 1 1/2 per cent?

Mr. McMILLAN. That is it exactly. I hope the point of order will not be sustained.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, I labor under one difficulty in the matter. I have not the technical or expert knowledge which enables me to speak accurately, and I am compelled to rely greatly upon the statements of others.

In regard to the amendment of the Senator from Iowa as to which I withdrew the point of order upon his statement, I have just received from the East Washington Citizens' Association the following communication:

DEAR SIR: In behalf of the East Washington Citizens' Association, an organization comprising over 300 of the leading property-owners of this section of the District, I beg of you to prevent the consummation of the gigantic robbery contemplated by extending the assessment of 1889 for another year, which would virtually take over $1,000,000 from the treasury of this District, which sum is so badly needed for public improvements. This action is wholly in the interest of the wealthy class, which is unfortunately so predominant in the management of our affairs, and which is now complaining over the new assessment because it partially cures the evils of unequal assessments, of which system they are the beneficiaries. Under all circumstances the overwhelming majority of the taxpayers in this community, who are undoubtedly opposed to such extension, should be granted an opportunity to oppose the crying shame of the adoption of such a scandalous proposition. In plain language, it would be a legalized steal.

Very truly yours,

M. I. WELLER,

Chairman.

And signed by a number of others.

In this communication is inclosed a report of the committee of assessment of the East Washington Citizens' Association, and I wish to call attention to the extraordinary state of case that prevails now in this District. The case is here that "on a conservative estimate it would be safe to assume that on an average the assessed value of any of the District's properties," which are enumerated above, "exceeds the best six, is not one-sixth of its true value," and they proceed to make good this statement by specific allusions to lots and squares in the city of Washington, with the assessments and with the real value.

My attention was called last evening after the adjournment of the Senate to a list of opposition to the Habit House, which is assessed at $12,000 and the corner lot 3600. Property upon the corner lot in the collection of the Capitol has sold for $20,000. But the statements in this report are from street advertisements I have observed. For instance, there is a piece of property, square 227, lot 1, assessed at $10,000, which has sold for $18,000, and a piece of property, square 227, lot 1, assessed at $10,000, which has sold for $18,000, and a piece of property, square 227, lot 1, assessed at $10,000, which has sold for $18,000, and a piece of property, square 227, lot 1, assessed at $10,000, which has sold for $18,000.

Mr. PLATT. I do not understand this proposed amendment extends the present assessment. A bill is introduced in the House and amendment provided for the assessment.

Mr. VEST. The last amendment proposed by the Senator from Iowa is to the assessment of 1889, which I have a big bone—

Mr. WOLFF. That amendment is not in the printed bill.

Mr. VEST. No, it is not in the printed bill; but I am reading from the original assessment which is adopted by the Senate and is in his amendment.

Mr. FRYE. He does not say that it is not in the printed bill, which has been made and existing law; the law can not be more than 1 1/2 per cent, he is right. If the reform is to go on and a strip of the assessors' table of the property of the Dis-

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PLATT in the chair). The Senator from Arkansas asks for the yeas and nays upon the three amendments from line 12 to line 20, inclusive, on page 114, to be considered as one amendment. Is there objection to considering the three as one amendment?

Mr. ALLISON. I have no objection.

Mr. GEORGE. I should like to have the amendment stated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 114, after line 11, the Committee on Appropriations report to insert:

To enable the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to the widow of the late Chief Justice Morrison R. Waite, $10,500.

To enable the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to the widow of the late Samuel F. Miller, a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, $10,000.

To enable the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to the widow of the late Joseph P. Bradley, a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, $10,000.

Mr. GEORGE. Mr. President—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to treating the three items as one amendment?

Mr. GEORGE. I have none.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears no objection; and the three items will be treated as one amendment, on which the yeas and nays are demanded.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. GEORGE. I desire simply to say that, however much I may have esteemed, and I did esteem, all these three judges whose widows are to be benefited by this appropriation, I do not believe it is just and right to levy upon the taxpayers of this country the sum of $30,500 in order that we may make a gift of that sum to these very estimable persons. I do not believe in the propriety of giving money out of the United States Treasury to any person who has no legal claim to it, however meritorious that person may be.

For that reason, and not on any ground personal to any of these ladies, but upon the ground that such appropriations are mere gifts of the people's money, without justification and without warrant, I shall vote against the amendments.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, I understand these several amounts are simply a year's pay which would have accrued to the justices had they lived. I understand that the custom has been in this Government from its foundation that in the case of the death of a Senator or a Member of the House of Representatives, a year's salary is paid to the family. It is upon the principle, I presume, that nobody is ever ready for death; it is upon the principle, I presume, that preparation is not made for that awful change which must come to us all; and we have dropped into the custom of giving some assistance upon that occasion as if the person had lived another year.

This is not like a pension. It is simply a year's pay to enable these poor women, advanced in life, to meet this dreadful calamity somewhat better than if they were left without it.

With these views, and in accordance with the custom which we have established for ourselves as Senators and Members of Congress, I shall vote for this amendment.

Mr. ALLISON. Mr. President, I do not wish to enter into a discussion of this question. It is a familiar one to the Senate, as respects two of the persons named in the pending amendment. We have been in the habit for a great many years, certainly since I have been a member of this body, and it has been the custom in the House of paying to the families of Senators and Members of the House for the full term of the Congress to which they were elected, although they may have died in the very beginning of the Congress. I have no doubt that this session will not be an exception to that rule. It is undoubtedly based upon the idea, which is a true one, that those who leave their homes and occupations and come here to serve the Government, require that their families should have a brief period to arrange the situation as respects their homes.

It so happens that one person named in this amendment is the widow of that great jurist, Samuel F. Miller, who for twenty-eight years upon the Supreme Bench of the United States served his country with as much distinction as any man has served it in the United States. He resided here as became a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. He served more than three years after the term at which the law would have allowed him to retire upon full pay. His widow now lives in a humble home in the city of Keokuk, in Iowa, transferred to that humble home from the home which her husband occupied here for many years. It took a few months, and I think the Senate will say she ought to be allowed one year to transfer the little that she has left from the home which she had in this city to the humble home which she occupies now in Iowa, without income and without revenue.

I will leave it to the Senate to say whether the widows of these eminent men shall not be allowed one year's compensation, which we allow to the widow of every deceased member of the House of Representatives and of the Senate upon the appropriation bill that passes during every session of Congress.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. President, I want to say that so far as voting money to the widows of Senators and Members is concerned, I have never given such a vote. I have never voted a dollar to them, nor do I believe that we should have any right to vote them a dollar. If the salary of $5,000 a year fixed by law is not sufficient, the law ought to be changed. If it is the purpose to give the widow of a Senator or a Member $5,000 at his death, it ought to be so specified in the law before he is elected to the place, and then she would be entitled to it under the law. But we come here and the law provides that we shall receive $5,000 per annum. It does not say that we shall receive more than that. When we take $5,000 of money that does not belong to us we take $5,000 of trust funds and give it to the widow of a Senator or a Member. I assert that we have no right to do it, and it is a wrong upon the people of the United States for men to stick the items in an appropriation bill when they have not got the nerve to vote and put such a provision into the law.

Every word I have said in regard to the widows of the justices of the Supreme Court applies with equal force to the widows of Senators and Members, and we ought not to vote this allowance to either unless we pass a law saying it shall be part and parcel of the salary.

The Senator from Iowa can appeal with great pathos in regard to a widow living in a humble home, and it appeals to the sympathy of every man in the country; but there are hundreds and thousands of widows living in homes which are more humble than that occupied by the wife of the late eminent Justice Miller. They extend throughout every State in the Union. This is the people's money with which we are dealing. We have the same right to take it out and pay it to the most humble widow in Keokuk who lives in a cabin that we have to pay it to Mrs. Miller. If we owed the late Justice Miller a dollar in the world, I say pay it. But you admit that we do not; and when you appeal for his widow in her humble home at Keokuk I appeal for the other widows there, who are poorer than she, who have the same right to ask us to take the people's money and give it to them as to give it to this widow.

I know the Senate is going to vote this appropriation. It has voted it before. It has voted it to the widows of Senators and Members. I have never cast such a vote. I do not believe I have any right under my oath to take the public money and use it in that way, and I shall not vote it in either the one case or the other.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, I should like to make a few observations on this question. I have always supposed that one of the very best securities for faithful, earnest, impartial judicial service was that the judge should feel relieved from those anxieties that disturb men who are engaged in active life. I have supposed that a judicial place, such as Justice Waite and Justice Miller had, involved very large expenses and almost forbade the possibility of leaving to a family any satisfactory provision. I have felt that the assurance when a man dies that those whom he leaves would have some provision, has been one of most striking encouragement to faithful, earnest judicial service.

I appreciate the force of the remarks of the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BERRY], and I sympathize as he does with the fact that there are hundreds of poor widows in the country who need assistance; but I will say to my friend with great sincerity it does not occur to me that that affords any reason in the world why, when we have this opportunity to relieve these three particular widows we should not do it. I should be glad if the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations would agree to amend these several appropriations so as to concede it to be for one year's salary of the late Chief Justice Waite and Justice Miller and Justice Bradley, and put it on that ground.

Mr. ALLISON. I will accept the suggestion of the Senator from Illinois.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. President, I object to any amendment that would tend to show in the bill that a year's salary was due from the Government, and that would be the purpose and effect of it, I presume. We do not owe them any year's salary, and if you put it in the bill as one year's salary it goes out to the country that we were indebted to them. I object to any such amendment going in the bill. If you specify the amount they would have been entitled to if they had lived another year that is sufficient.

Mr. ALLISON. If the Senator will yield to me, I move to insert at the end of each item "being the amount of one year's salary."

Mr. HARRIS. I should prefer the language, "equal to the amount of one year's salary."

Mr. ALLISON. Very well, "equal to the amount of one year's salary."

Mr. BERRY. To that form I have no objection to the modification.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa suggests an amendment to the amendment, which will be stated.

Mr. PALMER. That amendment being accepted I wish to make a single observation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will first state the amendment to the amendment.

The SECRETARY. After the word "dollars," in line 14, page 114, insert "equal to the amount of one year's salary;" in line 17, after the word "dollars," insert "equal to the amount of one year's salary," and in line 20, after the word "dollars" insert "equal to the amount of one year's salary."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment to the amendment will be agreed to, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none, and it is agreed to.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, I know the reverence that the people of Ohio have for the memory of Chief Justice Waite, and I do not allow the people of Iowa to claim Mr. Justice Miller. Mr. Justice Miller, taking him all in all, was one of the most remarkable men this country has produced. I feel entirely willing to take my full share of responsibility for doing whatever I can to testify my reverence for his memory and to pay this slight tribute to the vast services he rendered to the country. I desire now particularly to say that he had the clearest conception of the true relations between the Federal and State governments of any judge that has been upon the Supreme Bench for many years. I feel that in this I am acting as the people of the State of Illinois would act. I wish I had the power to go much further and meet the opposing claims of those to whom my friend from Arkansas refers, but I trust that the amendment as amended will now be adopted.

Mr. GEORGE. Mr. President, it is not a very pleasant thing to resist an appropriation which appeals to one's sympathies. I knew Judge Miller very well. I esteemed him as a great judge. I think his great judgment in the slaughter-house cases possibly prevented a revolution in our constitutional system. I do not know how to find words strong enough to praise him for that great judgment, which stands out, and will forever stand out, as a landmark in the constitutional history of this country. I knew the other two judges, whose widows are here provided for. I esteemed them as men and as jurists. I have a sympathy for their families if they are in distress.

But, Mr. President, the question before the Senate, I think, rises above and beyond the mere indulgence of our private sympathies for the reliefs of eminent deceased men. This country is a free country, or is supposed to be. It is, I believe, one of the fundamental tenets of our political belief that all men are entitled to equal rights and equal privileges in this country.

Mr. President, I have failed to hear the argument, the fair argument, suggested why the families of these men, great as they were, distinguished for high and good public service as they were, are entitled upon the decease of those men to privileges which are denied to everybody else.

Now, I am going to say something that I believe, and I am afraid I shall shock some man who believes in the sanctity, the dignity, if not the divinity of official station. I believe that the citizen of the United States who does his full duty in that walk of life in which his destiny has placed him, has served his country as well and as faithfully as the man who had the good fortune to be elevated to high and distinguished place and honor in his lifetime. In other words (and I hope nobody will faint when I say so) I believe that the blacksmith who does his duty fairly and well to his country and his family, the farmer who pursues his calling rightly, industriously, and properly, or any other laborer who does his duty in life fairly and well, is just as much entitled to the sympathy of the American Congress and to a largess out of the American Treasury as the highest official who ever filled an office in this country. That is my belief; and when a man above all others in this country had an exceptionally good place, a salary of $10,000 a year, with the privilege after ten years of service and his arrival at the age of 70 to lay down his official cares and draw his salary to the end of his life, I do not see when above all others he has been thus favored there is any reason or cause to demand from the people of this country further advantages, further privileges, and further emoluments.

We get $5,000 a year. I will say something now which I believe, and I hope it will shock nobody. There are members of the Senate, plenty of them, who do as faithful and useful public service as any judge of the Supreme Court who gets twice the salary. I am going to talk plainly. When men receive double the salaries which are considered sufficient, and I believe they are sufficient, for Senators and Representatives, and receive them for life instead of for a specified time, I do not see why out of a sum which is double the salary of Senators and Members a sufficient amount can not be saved to lighten the burden, to lessen the cares of the surviving relatives of the party when he is dead.

Then again, Mr. President, if we are to give the widows of the judges of the Supreme Court a sum equal to one year's salary, what is the reason why we shall not give it to the widows of the circuit judges? There are now, I believe, eighteen circuit judges who will leave widows after awhile, unless their wives die before the husbands. Then, I believe, there are forty-nine or fifty district judges. What is to become of their widows? The circuit judges get less than the Supreme judges; they get only $6,000, and the district judges get $5,000 a year; and by the way allow me to say, without hurting anybody's feelings (and I do not want to hurt anybody's feelings), they receive about double as much as the services of about half of them are worth. Now, if we are to go upon the idea that when judges who have these high salaries for their lifetime come to die their widows must have an additional year's salary, why not apply it to these other men? Why not? There is no answer to that question.

Oh, but it is said, we pay it to the widows of Senators and Representatives. I do not know what the practice is on that subject, but I will say right here, if such a custom has grown up, it is a custom that instead of being made a precedent for further aggressions upon the Federal Treasury ought to be abolished.

Now, let me say another thing while I am up. It is just as well to say it. In all that portion of our beloved country south of the Potomac, or at least in all that portion of it commonly called the cotton States, the people are just at this moment, and have been for the last year, in the most dire pecuniary distress. Sir, if you will go into North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, and the other cotton States, there is not one married woman in ten thousand who would not consider herself and her family fortunate if they were the possessors, not yearly, but the possessors, taking it all together, of $5,000, one-half the amount here proposed to be given. That is the condition. They are in debt, living hard, taxed to increase the already overgrown wealth of millionaires, bearing themselves up bravely against the misfortunes of life—

The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune.

Yet we do not hear one of them coming here and saying, Give me $5,000, or $10,000, or any other sum. Not a bit of it.

What is this proposition? It is simply to add to the burden, however small it may be, of these already overtaxed, distressed, and impoverished people another burden in order to make somebody's life far above the lives in comfort, in ease, and elegance still more comfortable, to draw a line and mark it more distinctly between the condition of those who happen to be the favorites of the Government and the condition of those who are the burden-bearers of the Government.

This is no place for sympathy. If it is a place for sympathy, I am in favor of the old-fashioned Scriptural way of showing sympathy, and that is by putting the hand of one who feels the sympathy in his own pocket and giving to the worthy object instead of putting his hand into somebody else's pocket in order to relieve distress. I am opposed to that kind of charity. Oh, what a sweet thing charity is when one contributes from his own earnings and submits to self-denial in order to make the donation! What a miserable humbug it is when the sympathizer discharges his duty of charity by voting or taking the money from somebody else and giving it to the object of charity!

Of course, I am not to be understood about this matter as having any objection personally to either of these three judges. I knew them all; I esteemed them all, and especially did I esteem the one who rendered most conspicuous and valuable service not only to the section of country from which I come but to the whole country in his great judgment in the Slaughter-house Cases. I esteemed him as I did the others, and it is not because they were Republicans that I oppose this appropriation; it is not because they did not live in my own section of the country; it is not because I feel any disposition to criticize what they may have done upon the bench, but it is because I believe it is a perversion of the powers which have been granted to us to take money from those who have but little of it, or even if they have a great deal of it, and give it to any private person whatsoever.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I am not forgetful of the fact that I have heretofore upon more occasions than one excited a smile of derision in this body by the suggestion that I propose to make now. These amendments propose to appropriate from the Treasury of the United States $30,500 to objects that command justly and excite the sympathies of all of us. But I have never forgotten, and I do not now forget, and I do not intend in the future to forget, that my commission as a Senator has not authorized me to compel by taxation 65,000,000 people to contribute to charities, no matter how meritorious.

I am aware that I shall be laughed at when I say that the taxing power was given to this Government to enable it to raise the money necessary to perform the duties the Constitution imposed upon it, and it was given for no other purpose; and whenever you use the taxing power for purposes other than these it is a usurpation and an abuse and a wrong in my opinion.

Senators may sneer and may smile at such a construction of our powers. I know that if these be the limitations of power they are every day violated, and I suppose every day will be violated; but I have never seen the time when I felt at liberty, however strongly the charity might appeal to my sympathies and to my desires, to vote money out of the Treasury to a mere charity.

I have as much sympathy with these ladies as any other Senator upon this floor, but I can not and will not, with my construction of my own duties, vote the money out of the Treasury to this or to any other donation, or to any other purpose that is not necessary to the Government itself in the performance of its own duties to the country.

I need not detain the Senate further. I have defined fully in these few words the view that will control my vote. I shall vote against these amendments and all other amendments which involve the same principle.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, I think it is proper that those of us who entertain the opinion that the Government of the United States has the power to reward a public servant adequately should give some reason for that belief.

The taxing power of the United States is that of a great government, and the objects for which it is bestowed are certainly within the limitations of the Constitution. But they are so mixed and blended with matters which are not always in their entirety of that description that no man can vote and vote intelligently upon that proposition so as to eliminate from it considerations of charity and of justice to individuals. Were not Mr. Justice Miller's services worth $20,000 to the people of this country, when they gave to these poor widows subsistence, protection, and prosperity which they would not have had without his enlightened interpretations of the law? Were not the services of Mr. Justice Miller of very great value, interposing barriers of judicial authority at a period when public opinion was extreme in one direction? How many widows, their property and their homes, were preserved from scenes of violence, perhaps, by that judicial interpretation that this distinguished jurist put upon the law?

Now, who can say that these poor widows received no benefits from the interpretation of this man and that a compensation is not due to him or his family for his fidelity to these great masses of poor people whose very life and comfort depended upon the ability, the integrity, the impartiality, and the resistance which he made to millionaires and millionaire policies? Who shall say that we are prohibited from giving him adequate compensation because it was not done years ago in the form of a statute? What kind of merit, logic, or reason is in that?

The people of the United States have given to us this taxing power, and they have intrusted it to us for great public policies and public objects. Who shall say that it is not proper for that policy to surround the members of judicial tribunals with such protections as will render them independent of submitting to individual interests or powerful combinations? I take it, no one. I do not see any objection at all to deciding here to-day that Mr. Justice Miller's services to the poor widows and to the women and children of this country entitle him to this compensation. There is none in reason. We can decide it just as well to-day on this bill as we could by making a separate statute, and it is our duty, in my judgment, to so decide it.

But then, Mr. President, there are considerations of public policy. It is no honor to the masses of the people of this country to say to them that those to whom you have intrusted power, whom you have placed in a position where large expense must be maintained because of the very necessity of the position—it is no honor to these Democratic people of this country to say you shall dishonor your public servant and his family, you shall confine them to poverty, you shall make them dependent upon friends and advantages of life, and you shall make themselves and their children dependent upon the liberality or favor of private individuals of wealth and of great associations that command superior means and superior station. It is no honor in the Democratic people of the country to destroy the independence, the character, and the dignity of the public servants whom the people want to represent them and to protect them in their interests as against class legislation.

For these reasons, Mr. President, I think that it is utterly impracticable to establish a system or policy such as my friend from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] advocates here, a system which will put the public servant upon the very lowest ground of absolute necessity, upon bread and water, and say to him, If you enter into public life and devote yourself to the policies that will benefit the great mass of the people, your reward shall be, if you die and leave your family, that they shall be outcasts upon the streets, reduced to the lowest condition of poverty; you shall have forgetfulness and neglect, instead of the appreciation of the people and the protection of your family.

I would like to know upon what ground this great amount of pension money is voted, what the reason is, if it is not that those who survive of those who offered life, health, and strength to their country are properly a charge upon those who did not go into the battle, who did not sacrifice their lives, but retained their lives, their property, and their health, because of the sacrifices that those men made. There is no other ground for that public policy. No man can vote for this great pension money upon any other justification than that.

That reason is quite as strong and quite as applicable to the public servant who gives his life to the people and to the policy that make every humble home comfortable and every widow free from poverty in this whole land and give her the opportunity of rejoicing and of comfort. That is the reason why I shall vote for this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will call the roll on agreeing to the amendment of the committee as amended.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]. The Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER] is paired with the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. We have transferred our pairs so that the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS] will stand paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]. I vote "yea."

Mr. COLQUITT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. CULLOM (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY]. If it is agreeable to the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], I will transfer my pair to the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], and we will vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. DANIEL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Washington [Mr. SQUIRE]. Otherwise I should vote "nay."

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], and the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM] is paired with the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY]. We transfer our respective pairs, and I vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired on political questions with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. On this question I feel at liberty to vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FARMER]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. HAWLEY. I am paired this week with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. His colleague, however, thinks I may safely vote "yea," and I so vote.

Mr. PASCO. I desire to announce my pair with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

The result was announced—yeas 44, nays 8; as follows:

YEAS—44.
Aldrich.	Dawes.	McMillan.	Ransom.
Allen.	Debois.	McPherson.	Sanders.
Allison.	Frye.	Morgan.	Sawyer.

Dolph.	Hill.	Pasco.	Washburn.
Faulkner.	Hoar.	Proctor.	Wilson.

So the amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, in the clause making appropriations for "building the Library of Congress," on page 115, after the word "law," in line 15, to insert:

Provided, That Brig. Gen. Thomas Lincoln Casey, now in charge of the construction of said building, shall continue in said charge until its completion, whether on the active or retired list of the Army.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 115, line 23, before the word "thousand," to strike out "three" and insert "five;" so as to make the clause read:

Botanic Garden: For reconstructing with iron frame three plant houses; repairs to heating apparatus, painting large conservatory inside and out; and for general repairs to the various buildings connected with this garden, under the direction of the Joint Committee on the Library, $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for "Public printing and binding," on page 119, to strike out the clause from line 4, to line 11, inclusive, as follows:

No report, publication, or document shall be printed in excess of the number of 1,000 of each in any one fiscal year without authorization thereof by Congress, except that of the annual report of the head of the Department without appendices there may be printed in any one fiscal year not to exceed 5,000 copies, bound in pamphlet form; and of the reports of chiefs of bureaus without appendices there may be printed in any one fiscal year not to exceed 2,500 copies, bound in pamphlet form; Provided, This restriction or limitation shall not apply to the Department of Agriculture.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 119, to strike out the clause from line 15 to line 17, inclusive, as follows:

Heads of Executive Departments shall direct whether reports made to them by bureau chiefs and chiefs of divisions shall be printed or not.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 120, after line 20, to insert:

Heads of Executive Departments shall direct whether reports made to them by bureau chiefs and chiefs of divisions shall be printed or not.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 2, on page 121.

Mr. ALLISON. We have now reached a point in the bill where there may be some little debate, and before we go further I should like to present several amendments that I think will lead to no discussion. On page 31, after line 5, I move to insert:

MISCELLANEOUS, TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

For 600 copies of Lewis Heyl's work, entitled "United States Duties on Imports," edition of 1891, $1,800, one copy for each Senator, Representative, and Delegate, and the residue for the equal use of the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives.

This is an amendment from the Committee on Finance.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. On page 3, after line 6, I move to insert:

For providing naval and coaling stations, $250,000, to be expended under the direction of the President.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. On page 57, after line 2, I move to insert:

To enable the Board of Capitol Police to employ additional policemen during the closing of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in September, 1893, $1,200, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. I have no further amendments to offer.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading of the bill will be proceeded with.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, to insert as a new section, beginning at line 3 on page 121, the following:

AID TO THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

SEC. 2. That for the purpose of aiding in defraying the cost of completing the work of preparation for inaugurating the World's Columbian Exposition, authorized by the act approved April 25, A. D. 1890, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to have received $5,000,000 in half-dollar silver coins from the uncurrent subsidiary silver coins already below the limit of tolerance now in the Treasury, which coins shall be of the same weight and fineness and have in all other respects the same qualities as the silver half-dollar now authorized by law; said coins shall also be of such design and be stamped and engraved with such inscriptions and devices as will designate their value as coins of the United States, and also make them suitable souvenirs of said celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, and there is hereby appropriated from the Treasury the said $5,000,000 so coined, and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to pay the same as lawful money to the World's Columbian Exposition monthly in such amounts as may be needed, in his discretion, upon detailed estimates of the expenditures for the succeeding month certified to him by the president of the World's Columbian Exposition and by the director-general of the World's Columbian Commission, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, for labor to be done, materials to be furnished, and services to be performed in prosecuting said work of preparing said Exposition for opening on May 1, 1893; Provided, That before the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to the World's Columbian Exposition any part of the said $5,000,000 satisfactory evidence shall be furnished him showing that the sum of $10,000,000 provided for by the fifth section of the act of April 25, 1890, has been collected and disbursed as required by said act; and that the said World's Columbian Exposition shall furnish a satisfactory guaranty to the Secretary of the Treasury that any further sum actually necessary to complete the work of said Exposition to the opening thereof has been or will be provided by said corporation; but nothing herein shall be so construed as to authorize the delay or postponement of the preparation of the souvenir coins heretofore provided for, and there is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to reimburse the Treasury for loss on such coinage.

Mr. McMIHAN. Would I be in order to move an amendment to the bill?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The committee amendments are not yet concluded. The amendment of the committee proposing to insert section 2 will be read.

The Secretary proceeded to read section 2, and read to line 2, on page 122.

Mr. CULLOM. I call the attention of the chairman of the committee to the suggestion of an amendment that I think ought to come in on the first line of page 122, after the word "Exposition." I suggest the insertion of the words "or in his absence or inability to act, by the vice-president;" and then in the next line, after the words "by the director-general of the World's Columbian Commission," to insert "or in his absence by the president of the Commission." I think those two amendments should be inserted.

Mr. ALLISON. Those amendments may be inserted by unanimous consent. They are probably necessary to provide for a condition of things that may arise in the absence of the president or director-general.

Mr. CULLOM. That is the only purpose I have in offering them.

Mr. ALLISON. Though the usual presumption is that they will be present.

Mr. CULLOM. In the first line, on page 122, after the word "Exposition," I move to insert:

Or in his absence or inability to act, by the vice-president

And then in the next line, after the word "Commission," referring to the director-general of the World's Columbian Commission, I move to insert:

Or in his absence, by the president of the Commission

Mr. PALMER. I would suggest to my colleague that it has been suggested to me that the object he has in view might be accomplished by striking out the word "and," in the first line on the one hundred and twenty-second page, and inserting the word "or."

Mr. CULLOM. That would leave only one officer to certify, and the question would be whether that would be regarded as a sufficient guard upon the Treasury. In other words, the theory of the bill is that not only the director-general but the president of the Commission shall certify, to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. PALMER. I yield to the preference of my colleague.

Mr. CULLOM. This is in accord with a letter which I have received from an officer of the Columbian Exposition, suggesting those words.

Mr. PALMER. While I am on my feet I should like to ask a question.

Mr. ALLISON. I suggest to the Senator from Illinois to let the amendments be stated.

Mr. PALMER. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 122, line 1, after the word "Exposition" insert "or in his absence or inability to act, by the vice-president."

Mr. VEST. Should we not say vice-president of the Exposition?

Mr. CULLOM. It would read: "Certified to him by the president of the World's Columbian Exposition, or in his absence by the vice-president of the World's Columbian Exposition." I do not think it would be necessary to insert that.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment moved by the Senator from Illinois, to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The next amendment moved to the amendment by the Senator from Illinois will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 2, on page 122, after the word "Commission" insert:

or in his absence by the president of the Commission

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, I desire to call the attention of the Committee on Appropriations to the language of the bill as it relates to the coinage of silver half-dollars that may be issued. A Senator who is not present to-day but who is interested in this provision of the bill, and concurs in its object, yesterday expressed to me some doubt as to whether the effect of this language would confer upon the half-dollars to be issued the legal-tender quality. I myself supposed that the language was sufficient, but he had some doubt about it, and at his request I ask tion from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting an estimate of an appropriation of $7,500 for repairs, alterations, and improvements in the United States court-house and post-office at Atlanta, Ga.; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

He also laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, requesting that the provision in the sundry civil appropriation bill from line 9 to line 17, inclusive, on page 7, relative to the employment of superintendents and other persons in connection with the repair and preservation of public buildings, be eliminated therefrom; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business?

Mr. BUTLER. I gave notice a few days ago that after the routine morning business to-day I should ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department. Of course I do not wish to interfere with morning business.

Mr. DOLPIL. I hope the Senator will allow me to call up a matter he is familiar with, that will not take time, but will simply require reading.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. President—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Pennsylvania rise to morning business?

Mr. QUAY. No, sir. I ask the Senator from South Carolina to yield the floor to me for a moment.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President, I can not hear a word the Senator from Pennsylvania says.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senate will be in order.

Mr. QUAY. Will the Senator from South Carolina yield the floor to me for a moment to have a statement printed?

Mr. BUTLER. I should be very glad to do anything the Senator from Pennsylvania desires, if I could hear him; but it is impossible with the conversation going on around me.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. No business will be transacted until order is restored in the Chamber. Senators will cease audible conversation.

RIOT AT HOMESTEAD, PA.

Mr. QUAY. I desire simply to present, in order that it may be printed in the RECORD, the official statement of the employees at Homestead, in accordance with the arrangement concluded on Friday last with my friend the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER].

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request made by the Senator from Pennsylvania. The Chair hears none, and the matter referred to will be printed in the RECORD.

The statement is as follows:

DEFINING THEIR POSITION—THE EMPLOYEES' CRITICISM OF STATEMENTS BY MR. H. C. FRICK.

PITTSBURGH, PA., July 9.

The following statement was given out to-night by the Homestead iron and steel workers under the head of "Homestead employees' answer to the Carnegie Company's."

The differences existing between the Carnegie Company and their employees at Homestead have drawn from Mr. H. C. Frick a statement of the points in dispute, which makes necessary a reply, in order that wrong impressions of the conditions may not be received by the public. It is asserted that the employees, combined with others of their trade forming the Amalgamated Association, wish absolute control over the Homestead works. This charge can only be supported to the satisfaction of those who deny the right of the employees to enter objection to any conditions offered by the employer.

The workmen at Homestead, or at any other of the hundreds of mills organized into the Amalgamated Association, have no desire to dictate the wages they shall receive, but they see no good reason why they should not exercise the privilege of engaging with their employer in the controversy through which the rate of compensation for their labor is fixed. The workmen are now, as they always have been, prepared to meet the representatives of the company and discuss the provisions contained in the scale submitted by them. If the conference already having been held failed to bring about a settlement, it can not be said that this was the fault of the workmen.

The scale under which the men at Homestead were working was arranged in July of 1889. The rate of wages was fixed according to the selling price of 4 by 1 Bessemer steel billets, the wages advancing and declining with the selling price of that article; it was provided that the minimum should be $25. Complaint is made that no minimum should have been insisted upon.

It is the experience of the iron and steel workers that some prevention is necessary to protect themselves from being reduced to an extremely low rate of pay by the acceptance by manufacturers of sales below current rates; as the workmen do not sell the product, there must be a point where reduction in wages by reason of low-priced sales shall cease.

It is alleged that labor organizations are injurious alike to the toilers and those by whom they are employed, in substantiation of which it is represented by the firm that there is no organization among their employees at the Braddock or Duquesne steel works; that the men there are satisfied; that they get good wages, and that no strike has occurred at those works since the institution of that management.

It may be said that the satisfaction of which Mr. Frick speaks as existing at the above works is forced rather than voluntary, as may be proven by the many efforts of the men in these mills to organize themselves in secrecy. Knowledge of such intentions coming to the ears of the company would and was followed by discharge. The wages enjoyed by the men at Braddock and Duquesne are the direct result of the rate of compensation sustained by the organized iron and steel workers.

While they are not organized in these mills, the rate of pay for the class of work done by them, fixed by their organized fellow-workmen, determines the pay that can command their services. It is the custom of the employers of nonunion men in the iron and steel trade to pay the rates provided by the Amalgamated scale, in order to secure the services of the men of that trade. It is found, however, to be invariably the case that these employers, while they pay the rates provided by the Amalgamated Association, require the men to accept conditions which are tantamount to a reduced rate, although not appearing on the face. We have reason to believe that the nonunion plants of Braddock and Duquesne can be proven to be no exception to this rule. The introduction of improved machinery, to which reference is made by the company, had displaced men that were necessary before the introduction of such machinery, and in this manner repays the costs of the investment. The output of a mill is always considered when arranging scales, and if increase of output without increase of labor to the workmen is brought about by improvements, there is every opportunity offered by the workmen to arrive through conference at an equitable rate; but when the employer refuses to engage in discussion with the employee on the matter, all hope of a just settlement is lost.

An attempt is made to lead the public into the belief that the number of men affected by the reduction is few. Here again it becomes necessary to impress on the public mind the fact that there are three distinct propositions contained in the dispute, namely:

A reduction in the minimum, another reduction on the proportionate rate of pay (thus making a double reduction), and that the scale terminate December 31, 1893, instead of June 30, 1894. It must be understood that while all of these propositions do not affect the whole of the Homestead workmen, few of the 3,500 employees of that place escape without being affected by one or more of its provisions. What does not affect the one does affect the other, and it might be said instead of the company's proposal altering the condition of employment of 325, the change is general, and the whole are involved. It is stated by the company with much force that it is not their desire to reduce their workmen below others. The cost of production to the Carnegie Company at Homestead is decidedly in favor of the company as compared with mills of that character. It can now be shown that they can not establish a complaint in that direction.

In arranging schedules of wages to govern iron and steel workers there are innumerable things which must receive attention if justice must prevail. The intricacies referred to are such as to render liable erroneous views to be drawn by those not familiar with the trade from their discussion in the public press. There can be no legitimate reason why the Carnegie Company should deny to their Homestead workmen a conference, where the things of which they complain could be analyzed, and, if found unjust, made right. The men make no fairer proposition than this, for the simple reason that no fairer is possible. If argument and honest reasoning were substituted for the reserve and coldness of manner, as seen in the company's present attitude, there can be reason to expect an end to this deplorable state of affairs. Does it not seem strange that the Carnegie Company looks with distrust upon the organization of its Homestead employees, while at several of its large mills it has for several years encouraged the organization of the men, and at this moment they are getting along satisfactorily together?

Surely it will not be charged that the men of Homestead are less intelligent or less entitled to those rights which are the principles of organized labor, and which are inseparable from their citizenship.

There are none who regret the lamentable occurrences of the past few days more than those whom the Carnegie Company charge with having been instrumental in bringing them about. We are willing to allow the public to judge after the evidence is all in, whether their charges are true. We feel that the erroneous statements given out relative to our conduct will be removed by impartial investigation in due time. Until then we prefer to forget our recent sad experience.

TRANSFER OF REVENUE CUTTER SERVICE.

Mr. BUTLER. Now, I should like to have Senate bill 67 taken up.

Mr. CULLOM. Mr. President—

Mr. BUTLER. I will state, furthermore, that if I can get the bill taken up I will yield to the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN], who desires to submit some remarks on the anti-option bill.

Mr. CULLOM. May I inquire from the Senator from South Carolina if it is his purpose to press the bill to which he refers to the exclusion of the consideration of appropriation bills?

Mr. BUTLER. Oh, of course not.

Mr. SHERMAN. I call for the yeas and nays on the motion of the Senator from South Carolina. I first call for the reading of the bill for information.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The title of the bill will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion made by the Senator from South Carolina, that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill, the title of which has just been read. On that motion the yeas and nays have been demanded.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask the Chair if the motion is debatable?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is not debatable.

Mr. SHERMAN. Then I call for the yeas and nays.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is the demand for the yeas and nays seconded?

Mr. BUTLER. I understand that the Senator from Ohio calls for the yeas and nays on the question whether the bill shall be taken up.

Mr. SHERMAN. Yes, sir.

Mr. BUTLER. I have no objection to that.

Mr. MANDERSON. I should like to understand the situation. Is it proposed to call up the bill that the Senator from South Carolina may make some remarks upon it—

Mr. BUTLER. No, sir.

Mr. MANDERSON. Or for general consideration?

Mr. BUTLER. For general consideration: for action by the Senate.

Mr. WASHBURN. Will the Senator from South Carolina yield to me?

Mr. BUTLER. The Senator from Minnesota appeals to me. I have no objection to yielding after the question has been decided by yeas and nays, if he will wait that long.

Mr. WASHBURN. All right.

Mr. HARRIS. I rise for the purpose of appealing to the Senator from South Carolina to let the sundry civil appropriation bill be disposed of before he raises the question he now suggests. Of course, if the Senator's bill is taken up it is informally laid aside and gives way to the appropriation bill, but had we not better dispose of the appropriation bill first?

Mr. BUTLER. I should prefer to have the matter settled as to whether the bill is to be considered.

Mr. ALLISON entered the Chamber.

Mr. CLEVELAND. The chairman of the Committee on Appropriations is now here.

Mr. ALLISON. Has the morning business been concluded?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The morning business is concluded. The pending question is on the motion made by the Senator from South Carolina, that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 67) to transfer the Revenue Cutter Service from the Treasury Department to the Navy Department.

Mr. BUTLER. I trust the Senator from Iowa will allow this question to be settled by yeas and nays before he calls up the appropriation bill. The only time to be consumed will be the calling of the roll.

Mr. ALLISON. I do not know that I have any power to interfere with the motion of the Senator, but I do not see what advantage it would be to take up this bill, as it certainly cannot be considered now. The Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] gave notice several days ago that he desired to make some observations this morning respecting another bill, and as soon as he has concluded I desire to ask the Senate to continue the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Mr. BUTLER. The Senator from Minnesota and I have an understanding about that. I am perfectly aware of the fact that he proposes to address the Senate.

Mr. ALLISON. I understand; but I do not see the practical point the Senator proposes to gain.

Mr. BUTLER. The practical point to be gained is that the Senate will determine whether it is going to consider the bill or not. If it is not, I shall dismiss it; and if it is, then I hope at some future time to have it considered. That is all there is about it. I have been giving notice from time to time that I should ask the Senate to consider the bill and have yielded first to one man and then to another. Now, I should like to have the question settled whether the Senate will consider the bill or not. If the Senate decides in the affirmative, the bill can be informally laid aside and take its chances.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is the demand for the yeas and nays seconded?

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. That pair was transferred last week, and I was permitted to vote, but I do not see the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BERRY] in his seat at present, and I withhold my vote.

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. If it suits the convenience, however, of the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER], who announced a pair with the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS], we will transfer our respective pairs and vote.

Mr. GALLINGER. I shall be very happy to have that accomplished.

Mr. HARRIS. I vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], but after consulting with his colleague it is decided that I may vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the junior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. I am not aware of his views upon this question, and therefore withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. TURNER (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS]. Upon consultation with his colleague, however, who is present, and from what I know of his views, I feel at liberty to vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GALLINGER. I vote "nay."

Mr. COLQUITT. I am paired with the junior Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. CALL. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR], and I withhold my vote.

Mr. BERRY. Has a transfer of pair been arranged for me with anyone? Did the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER] vote?

Mr. GALLINGER. My pair with the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS] was transferred to the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], and the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] and myself have voted.

Mr. BERRY. Very well. I should have voted "nay" had I been present, and but for my pair with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

The result was announced—yeas 35, nays 24; as follows:

YEAS—35

Allen	Cole	Horn	Sawyer
Bate	Daniel	Hiscock	Stewart

So the motion proposed to the consideration of Senate bill 67 was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill is before the Senate in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. ALLISON. Now, I move to lay it aside to take up the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Mr. HARRIS. Ask unanimous consent to lay it aside.

Mr. COCKRELL. No, I object to that. [To Mr. ALLISON.] Make your motion. I object to unanimous consent.

Mr. ALLISON. Then I move to lay the bill aside in order that I may move to proceed to the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Mr. BUTLER. I understand the Senator moves to lay it aside informally, so that it does not lose its place.

Mr. ALLISON. The Senator from Missouri objects to that.

Mr. BUTLER. I can not consent to laying the bill aside, after the Senate has taken it up. It would lose its place, I understand, and I can not consent to that.

Mr. ALDRICH. I should like to ask the Senator from Iowa a question. In case the sundry civil appropriation bill is taken up, is it his intention to proceed with its consideration or to yield for other purposes? It will make a difference in my vote as to what his purpose is in that regard.

Mr. ALLISON. I will say, in response to the Senator from Rhode Island, that on last Thursday the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] gave notice that he would desire this morning to call up for consideration the appropriation bill in order that he might submit some remarks upon that subject. I suppose that in accordance with the usual custom of the Senate I should be expected to yield to him, and when he was engaged in committee work in my committee room, proposing that that would occupy a portion at least of the morning hour, but I came into the Senate finding that other business has intervened. Of course I can not get into any controversy about the matter, and if there is objection to the Senator from Minnesota going on, I can not help it.

Mr. ALDRICH. I have no objection to the Senator from Minnesota proceeding in accordance with the ordinary custom of the Senate. He is certainly entitled to that courtesy. My reason for asking the question did not apply to that view of the case, but I know that the Senator from Iowa has been yielding very liberally to other business during the time the sundry civil appropriation bill has been under consideration, and I wanted to enter my protest as vigorously as I might against any further yielding in that direction.

Mr. ALLISON. In response to the suggestion made by the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH], I will say that I have not yielded for the intervention of any business which would require much time of the Senate; but I have yielded the usual courtesy for the taking up of resolutions at intervals and for the interposition of morning business and matters of that character. Of course, I do not wish to monopolize the work of the Senate, nor do I think it is fair to ask for the intervention of important bills when appropriation bills are under consideration, unless we all intend that the affairs of the Government shall stop.

Mr. MORGAN. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate that the Senator from Minnesota may be allowed to proceed with his remarks without displacing the order of business.

Mr. ALLISON. I shall object to that. I desire now to test the sense of the Senate whether the appropriation bill which was under consideration on Saturday shall be proceeded with. The Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] objects to unanimous consent to laying aside the bill which the Senate has just voted to take up.

Mr. BUTLER. Then, Mr. President, the Senator from Missouri must take the responsibility of objecting to the consideration of the appropriation bill.

I gave notice when I made the motion to take up the bill for the transfer of the Revenue Marine Service that of course I expected appropriation bills would have the right of way, but that when appropriation bills were out of the way I should have the right to ask that the consideration of the bill for the transfer of the Revenue Marine should be proceeded with.

The usual custom of the Senate is where a bill has been taken up to lay it aside informally for the consideration of appropriation bills or other matters. I announced to the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] that I should with the greatest possible cheerfulness after this question was settled yield to him to proceed with his remarks. The Senator from Iowa now comes in with an appropriation bill. I have no desire to antagonize the appropriation bill; but I do insist that a majority of the Senate having determined that they will proceed with the consideration of the revenue-marine bill, it is not exactly fair to object to the usual request in such cases that it be informally laid aside in order that the appropriation bill may be proceeded with. Therefore, I repeat, if the appropriation bill is obstructed, the responsibility will not be upon my shoulders. I have not the slightest objection to its being proceeded with.

Mr. CHANDLER. I desire to say a word in behalf of a fair hearing on the merits of the bill to transfer the Revenue Marine to the Navy Department. I think that the Senate can not justly refuse a hearing in that case sometime during the present session.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Debate can only proceed by unanimous consent.

Mr. SHERMAN. I rise to a question of order. When I rose to say a word about this bill I was informed very politely that debate was not in order.

Mr. CHANDLER. I understand the Senator did make an inquiry, and then the vote was taken without any debate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The pending question is, as the Chair understands, on the motion made by the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON], that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. The debate has been proceeding by unanimous consent, and I do not think the Senator from Ohio ought to object to my saying a word on one side.

Mr. SHERMAN. I was informed that debate was not in order.

Mr. PADDOCK. I desire to say for myself, personally, that I voted against the motion of the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] to take up the bill for the transfer of the Revenue Marine Service to the Navy Department, not because I am opposed to that bill, for I am in favor of it, but because I wish to preserve, if possible, a chance for the taking up and consideration of the bill known as the antioption bill. For that I shall make my struggle from this time forward, and I hope that bill may be disposed of.

Mr. BUTLER. I will say to the Senator from Nebraska that I shall join him with a great deal of pleasure in taking up that bill at the proper time.

Mr. PADDOCK. Do I understand the Senator as giving that assurance?

Mr. BUTLER. I do, with great pleasure.

Mr. PADDOCK. I am glad to have that assurance. I hope the distinguished Senator from Minnesota, who has charge of the antioption bill, may be allowed to proceed.

Mr. BUTLER. I have no objection to the Senator from Minnesota proceeding; but the majority of the Senate has voted this morning to proceed with the revenue marine bill, and now the will of that majority is attempted to be defeated by a collateral motion. For one, I shall not consent to the consideration of any other matter until that bill has had at least a fair opportunity to be considered by the Senate.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] not to object to taking up the sundry civil bill by unanimous consent. He is a member of the Committee on Appropriations; and why should he object to taking up the sundry civil bill when no one else objects to it? I hope the Senator will not do that.

Mr. COCKRELL. The bill can be taken up at any time on motion.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON] to take up the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Mr. HARRIS. The effect of the vote just taken was to make the revenue-marine bill the unfinished business.

Mr. COCKRELL. There can not be any unfinished business in the morning hour, as the Senator well knows.

Mr. HARRIS. That was evidently the object. The Senator from Missouri is right, that when a bill is taken up during the morning hour it only has the right of way during the morning hour.

Mr. COCKRELL. Until 2 o'clock.

Mr. HARRIS. Until 2 o'clock. That is true. I was going to suggest, however, inasmuch as the vote of the Senate decided to proceed with its consideration, that I know of no instance since I have been in the Senate where there has been an objection to informally laying aside the matter in hand and giving way to an appropriation bill. I hope the Senator from Missouri will not interpose an objection to proceeding with the consideration of the appropriation bill without drifting into the scramble of a ye-and-may vote as to what shall be considered. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the appropriation bill, the bill which was taken up by vote being informally laid aside.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. COCKRELL. I withdraw the objection only until 2 o'clock. The bill was taken up in the morning hour and has no priority or preference. I will withdraw the objection until that time. When the hour of 2 o'clock comes the bill will lose its precedence.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The objection is withdrawn.

Mr. BUTLER. Then, Mr. President, I understand the present status of the revenue-marine bill is that it is informally laid aside?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is informally laid aside.

Mr. BUTLER. As the Senator from Missouri says, until 2 o'clock.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Until 2 o'clock.

SUNDRY CIVIL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. ALLISON. I now ask that the appropriation bill may be proceeded with.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7520) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

Mr. WASHBURN. I ask the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations to consent that the appropriation bill may be temporarily laid aside that I may get unanimous consent to take up House bill 7845 with a view of submitting some remarks thereon.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Iowa yield to the Senator from Minnesota?

Mr. ALLISON. I do.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 6875) making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the House had disagreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7093) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes; further insisted upon its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate to the said bill, asked a further conference with the Senate upon the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HERBERT, Mr. LAWSON of Virginia, and Mr. DOLLIVER managers at the further conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9049) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes; it further insisted upon its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate to the said bill insisted upon by the Senate, agreed to the further conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. FORNEY, Mr. DOCKERY, and Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa managers at the further conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 547) for the relief of Lieut. Col. Charles G. Sawtelle, deputy Quartermaster-General United States Army;

A bill (S. 3273) authorizing St. Joseph's Church in the parish of East Baton Rouge, in the State of Louisiana, to use the land quitclaimed to it by the United States for school purposes; and

A bill (S. 3299) to amend section 7 of the act approved June 22, 1888, entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Missouri River at or near the city of Omaha, Nebr.," and for other purposes.

The message further announced that the House had passed the following bills, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 7454) authorizing and directing the sale of certain property belonging to the United States, situate in Pittsburgh, Pa.;

A bill (H. R. 7690) for the local government of the Territory of Utah, and to provide for the election of certain officers in said Territory;

A bill (H. R. 9144) to establish a railroad bridge across the Black River in Arkansas; and

A bill (H. R. 9350) to promote safety of employes and travelers upon railroads by compelling common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to equip their cars with automatic couplers and continuous brakes and their locomotives with driving-wheel brakes, and for other purposes.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 1239) for the relief of the Mobile and Girard Railroad Company; and

A bill (H. R. 3726) to authorize the Luke Charles Road and Bridge Company of Luke Charles, La., to construct and maintain bridges across English Bayou and Calcasieu River.

DEALING IN "OPTIONS" AND "FUTURES."

Mr. WASHBURN. I now ask that the antioption bill may be taken up.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

Mr. WASHBURN. Mr. President, in the early days of the present session of Congress I introduced a bill in the Senate having for its purpose and intent the putting an end to the system of dealing in "options," so called, or selling "future," or, in the parlance of boards of trade, "short selling," which have grown to such monstrous proportions upon the different boards of trade and produce exchanges in this country in the last few years.

This bill was drawn, largely on the lines of the so-called Butterworth bill, and with but few changes, which was introduced in the House of Representatives in the last Congress, and was smothered in the Committee on Agriculture of that body.

At the time of introduction of this bill I did not suppose it to be in any way perfect or that it would satisfactorily cover the case, but I introduced it thus early, in order to invite criticism, comment, and suggestions, so that with all the light which might be acquired, changes would be suggested and made that would enable the preparation of a bill that would more completely meet the exigencies of the situation.

So far as criticism and comment are concerned my expectations have certainly been fully realized: for there has probably been no great measure before Congress for the last several years that has been more thoroughly discussed and with greater interest throughout the country than this same proposition.

Availing myself of everything that I could learn, from such criticisms and comment, I subsequently introduced another bill (Senate bill 1757) which, I think more completely and satisfactorily meets the situation. The great difficulty in preparing a measure of this character is to accomplish the desired purpose of putting an end to the system of gambling in food and agricultural products, which has grown to such alarming proportions and with such disastrous results to the producers of this country, without interfering with the ordinary and legitimate business transactions. In a word, without interfering substantially with legitimate trade and commerce.

The bill coming from the House, which is now before the Senate, is substantially the same in principle and in its method of dealing with this question as the last bill introduced by myself, and, with the amendments which I have proposed to the bill, will accomplish what the friends of such a measure desire, without interfering with the commerce of the country.

The line between fictitious sales and sales of actual property is very clearly drawn. There has been a persistent effort on the part of those who are opposed to any legislation of this subject to convey the impression that the effect of this bill would be to cripple and interfere with legitimate trade. Most of the arguments in fact that have been made have been on the basis that sales of actual property even can not be made for future delivery, under the provisions of this bill. And in this way very many have been greatly misled and deceived, for no one would think, I imagine, for a moment of passing a law that would substantially interfere with the freedom of trade or commerce.

The merchant and the banker, and the business man to some extent, have been drawn into this controversy and placed thus in seeming opposition to the provisions of the measure under such false misrepresentations and consequent misunderstanding of its purposes and effect, so that we find many people who have never read the bill and know little or nothing of its provisions in apparent antagonism. The professional gamblers on the boards of trade have lost no opportunity to create confusion and false impressions, thinking that if they could bring to their aid the merchant, the banker, or the business man they would at least find themselves in good company, and thereby give their own vocation a respectable standing. I desire right here to distinctly state that it is not the purpose of this bill—neither does it—in any manner whatever to interfere with the bargain, purchase, or sale of any product or property where the party making such sale is the owner thereof or where he has a contract for the ownership or right of possession of the same.

It neither seeks nor does it in any way interfere with the freedom of commerce, but leaves legitimate trade without restriction or hindrance. But it is directed against that gigantic modern invention or system known as "dealing in futures" or so-called "short selling" of the agricultural and food products of the country, a system under which, by misrepresentation, tricks of trade, and fraud it is possible to juggle with values and practically eliminate from the commercial world the operation of the "law of supply and demand"—a system that robs the producer and fills the pocket of the parasite. It is aimed at a system of gambling the most unique, insidious, the most pernicious, and bringing with it the most widespread and disastrous results of any scheme of gambling that the wit and skill of man has ever yet been able to devise.

Mr. President, I will now endeavor to explain the bill as it came from the House, somewhat in detail, but as concisely and clearly as possible.

Section 1 of the bill defines the word "options," which is understood to mean "any contract or agreement whereby a party thereto, or any party for whom or in whose behalf such contract or agreement is made, acquires the right or privilege, but is not thereby obligated, to deliver to another or others at a future time or within a designated period, any of the articles mentioned in section 3 of this act."

Dealing in options as defined in this section is nothing more than gambling, pure, simple, and absolutely cold-blooded. They do not contemplate the delivery or receiving of property, and I do not suppose that there is an instance on record where any property passed, but it is simply a bet on what the value of that property may be at a given time in the future. I think that even those who are opposed to the bill do not claim that there is anything in "dealing in options" except gambling.

Section 2 provides that the word "futures" shall be understood to mean "any contract or agreement whereby a party contracts or agrees to sell and deliver to another or others at a future time, or within a designated period, any of the articles mentioned in section 3 of this act, when at the time of making such on page 1, line 27, to strike out the word "his" and insert "their."

Mr. CALL. I move that the Senate concur in the amendment of the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

FOURTH STREET METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1741) to vest the title of public square 102, in the city of Washington, D. C., in the trustees of the Fourth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, and for other purposes.

The amendments of the House of Representatives were read, as follows:

Page 1, line 1, after the word "that," insert:
"Whenever there shall have been a full compliance with the provisions of section 2 of this act, as evidenced by the certificate of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia."

Page 1, line 24, after the word "authorized," insert "and required."

Page 1, line 25, after the word "remove," insert "within twelve months from the approval of this act."

Mr. FAULKNER. I move that the Senate concur in the amendments of the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

DAVIS ISLAND DAM.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the action of the House of Representatives disagreeing to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 402) to establish a division line between land of the United States and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad Company, and asking a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon.

Mr. CAMERON. I move that the Senate insist on its amendments and agree to the conference asked for by the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Vice-President was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. QUAY, Mr. PERKINS, and Mr. FAULKNER were appointed.

ALLEYS IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HARRIS in the chair) laid before the Senate the action of the House of Representatives disagreeing to the amendments of the Senate to the following bills and asking a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon:

A bill (H. R. 5119) to prevent the building of houses along certain alleys in the city of Washington, and for other purposes; and
A bill (H. R. 3971) to provide for the opening of alleys in the District of Columbia.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate insist upon its amendments to the respective bills and agree to the conference asked by the House.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Presiding Officer was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. WOLCOTT, Mr. McMILLAN, and Mr. FAULKNER were appointed.

JUDGMENTS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate a communication from the Attorney-General, transmitting, in compliance with a resolution of July 9, 1892, a list of all judgments rendered in the circuit and district courts of the United States under the act of March 3, 1887, in which the findings were adverse to the Government, and which had not heretofore been reported to Congress; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move that the order changing the reference of the bill (H. R. 4270) for the relief of D. P. Abbott, A. S. Keeves, and T. E. Smith from the Committee on Finance to the Committee on Claims, made on April 27, 1892, at my request, may be revoked. It was a mistake in having the order made at the time.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE BILL REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 9283) authorizing the Leonard Avenue Street Railway Company to lay tracks upon certain streets abutting United States military reservation in the city of Columbus, Ohio, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF SILK CULTURE.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. The bill (S. 979) for the development and encouragement of silk culture in the United States under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Mr. WASHBURN. I ask unanimous consent that House bill 7845 be taken up for immediate consideration, and that the present unfinished business shall take its place next thereto; in other words, that it shall not lose its place, but shall follow the bill I desire to get before the Senate.

Mr. WHITE. What is the bill?

Mr. WASHBURN. It is the antioption bill.

Mr. WHITE. I object.

Mr. WASHBURN. Then I ask that the pending bill be displaced, and that the Senate take up for present consideration House bill 7845, which is the antioption bill.

Mr. GEORGE. I desire to make an explanation.

Mr. ALLISON. I object to debate.

DEALING IN "OPTIONS" AND "FUTURES."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN], that the Senate proceed to the consideration of House bill 7845. The Chief Clerk will read the title of the bill.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

Mr. PADDOCK. I do not think the Senator means a permanent displacement.

Mr. ALLISON. I object to debate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Debate is not in order. The question is on the motion made by the Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. GEORGE. I should like to have the question stated before I vote.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion made by the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill, the title of which has just been read.

Mr. WASHBURN. The present unfinished business to take its place next to it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER put the question, and declared that the yeas appeared to prevail.

Mr. ALLISON. I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR]. If he were here I should vote "yea."

Mr. COLQUITT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. The Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BERRY] is paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]. If agreeable to the Senator from Arkansas our pairs will be transferred, so that the Senator from Texas and the Senator from Colorado will stand paired, and the Senator from Arkansas and myself will vote. I vote "yea."

The PRESIDING OFFICER (when Mr. HARRIS's name was called). The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. I do not know how he would vote, and in his absence I withhold my vote. If I were at liberty to vote I should vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. Understanding that he is in favor of taking up this bill, I vote "yea."

Mr. MITCHELL (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with junior Senator from New York [Mr. HILL]. I do not know how he would vote if present. If I were at liberty to vote I should vote "yea."

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). If I were not paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] I should vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER].

Mr. RANSOM (when Mr. VANCE's name was called). My colleague [Mr. VANCE] is absent. I am satisfied he would vote "yea" if he were present.

Mr. VEST (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. I should vote "nay" if he were present.

Mr. VILAS (when his name was called). On this bill I am paired with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS]. If he were present he would vote "yea" and I should vote "nay."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The roll-call was concluded.

Mr. FASCO. I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. On consultation with his colleague I am told that he would vote yea on this question, and I record my vote in the affirmative.

Mr. COLQUHITT. I am paired generally with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON], but I understand his views would concur with my own on this question, and hence I feel at liberty to vote. I vote "yea."

Mr. PUGH. I suggest to the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS] that we transfer our pairs so that the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] will stand paired with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS], and the Senator from Wisconsin and myself may vote.

Mr. VILAS. Very well.

Mr. PUGH. I vote "yea."

Mr. VILAS. I vote "nay."

Mr. MORGAN. I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES], but I am told that he would vote "yea" if he were here, and as my vote is "yea," I will record it. I vote "yea."

Mr. MANDERSON. I desire to know whether the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] has voted on this question.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He is not recorded.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am paired with that Senator, and therefore will abstain from voting. I should vote "yea" if he were present.

Mr. HAWLEY (after having voted in the negative). I have been paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON], and voted without announcing that my pair has been transferred to the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON], and therefore I was at liberty to vote. The Senator from Rhode Island has been previously paired with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL].

Mr. ALDRICH. The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL] announced his pair with my colleague [Mr. DIXON].

Mr. HAWLEY. We are correcting that now. I have voted, and the Senator from Mississippi is quite at liberty to vote, inasmuch as the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON] and the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON] are paired.

Mr. WALTHALL. The Senator from Rhode Island and the Senator from Georgia stand paired on this question, I understand, and I vote "yea."

Mr. CAMERON. Has the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] voted?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He is not recorded.

Mr. CAMERON. I am paired with that Senator and withhold my vote.

The result was announced: yeas 33, nays 15, as follows:

So the motion to proceed to the consideration of House bill 7515 was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill is before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole, and will be read.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask unanimous consent that the bill may be laid aside in order that—

Mr. PADDOCK. That it be laid aside informally.

Mr. ALLISON. Yes; that it be laid aside informally, in order that we may go on with the appropriation bill.

Mr. PADDOCK. This bill remaining as the unfinished business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the unfinished business be informally laid aside in order that the Senate may proceed with the consideration of the appropriation bill.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I can not understand what the purpose was in asking the Senate to vote by yeas and nays on taking up the bill when unanimous consent is asked that it go over for the consideration of something else. If we are to dispose of the appropriation bill I suppose we had better dispose of it at this time. I do not presume there is any objection to it. I do not know why we should not dispose of it. It seems to me a perfect fare; that we should solemnly vote to take it up and then be asked to unanimously agree that we shall not take it up.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Iowa?

Mr. WOLCOTT. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection being made, the bill just taken up will be read as in Committee of the Whole.

SUNDRY CIVIL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. ALLISON. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of House bill 7520.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill H. R. 7520 making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill.

Mr. HAWLEY. Mr. President—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be in order. When Senators resume their seats and cease conversation the business of the Senate will proceed. The Chair will recognize the Senator from Connecticut when order is restored.

Mr. HAWLEY. I do not know that it is a matter of any consequence, but I mistook the question just put and voted in the negative, and I voted rather emphatically and made perhaps all the noise that was made. I intended to vote "aye."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is on the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] to the amendment of the committee.

Mr. HISCOCK. Mr. President, I understand that the provisions in the appropriation bill to which the Senator from Iowa has referred are in the nature of a contract with what is known as the World's Columbian Exposition, that the Government undertakes to pay to the World's Columbian Exposition a certain sum of money under certain conditions, and the Exposition undertakes to make certain reports and do certain things. I understand further that the World's Columbian Exposition is a corporation under the laws of the State of Illinois, and that no corporation and no commission have been created by the act of Congress authorized to receive money or to which the Senator from Iowa proposes to pay money.

Mr. GRAY. May I ask the Senator from New York for information whether the bill does not propose to pay this appropriation when made to the Illinois corporation known as the World's Columbian Exposition?

Mr. HISCOCK. I said so.

Mr. GRAY. I thought the Senator said there was no corporation to which it could be paid.

Mr. HISCOCK. I said no corporation had been created by act of Congress to which the money could be paid.

Now, I am in favor of this appropriation. I am in favor of the Exposition having the money. However, since the Government of the United States is a silent partner in this transaction and furnishes the capital, if the people of the United States desire the Government to conduct this business upon the plan of closing it on Sunday, and I believe they do that, I am in favor of providing for that in this bill.

I repeat what I have said before, that there is no condition precedent to the closing of the Exposition on Sunday that would enforce such closure. I would not have any doubt but that it would be closed on Sunday except for the earnest struggle that is being made to prevent legislation which will insure such closing.

I repeat what I think I have said or argued, notwithstanding the judgment and opinion of my distinguished friend from Iowa, that an affirmative provision in this bill, of which he has charge, that the Exposition should be closed on Sunday would have no more effect than an attempt to "whistle down the wind." The Columbian Exposition to which the bill proposes to pay this money can disregard it the day after they have received the money, even if there is put in the bill a provision that the Exposition shall be closed on Sunday. I repeat that your Commission have no control over this property whatever. I hope the Senator from Pennsylvania will hold his proposition in such form that either a guaranty shall be taken from the Illinois corporation that the Exposition shall be closed on Sunday, or that by his colleague that his views are the same as my own on this subject and I vote "nay."

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. TELLER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. TURPLE (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS].

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. It has been arranged to transfer my pair to the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON], and I vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. ALLISON. My colleague [Mr. WILSON] is absent from the Chamber on account of illness. If he were present he would vote "nay," and I say this in the presence of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT], that he may be at liberty to vote as he chooses on this question.

Mr. COLQUITT. I vote "nay."

Mr. BUTLER (to Mr. ALLISON). May I pair with your colleague?

Mr. ALLISON. Certainly.

Mr. BUTLER (after having voted in the affirmative). I voted "yea" on the roll call, and have been requested by Senators to pair with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON], who was paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. The Senator from Georgia has voted, and voted as the Senator from Iowa would vote. I will therefore withdraw my vote and announce my pair with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. DOLPH (after having voted in the negative). I am paired with the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE]. I voted under the impression that he was in the Chamber. I withdraw my vote. I do not know how the Senator from Mississippi would vote on this question.

Mr. WALTHALL. I desire to say that my colleague [Mr. GEORGE], if present, would vote "nay."

Mr. DOLPH. I voted "nay." Then I will allow my vote to stand, if agreeable to the Senator. Let me be recorded "nay," then.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator is so recorded.

The result was announced—yeas 11, nays 45; as follows:

So the Senate refused to lay the amendment to the amendment on the table.

Mr. QUAY. At the suggestion of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, with the consent of the Senate, I will modify the amendment already submitted by me, and instead thereof move to insert in section 4, page 124, line 12, after the word "Exposition," the words:

Shall be closed on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, and that the said Columbian Exposition will.

The Secretary will read the section as it would stand amended, so that my amendment may be clear to the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 124, line 12, after the word "Exposition," insert, so as to read:

Shall be closed on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, and that the said World's Columbian Exposition will maintain and pay all the expenses, etc.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is it worth while to repeat that "the World's Columbian Exposition will maintain" and "the said World's Columbian Exposition shall be closed?"

Mr. ALLISON. If the Senator will allow me a moment I think he will see that it is necessary to repeat those words. The World's Columbian Exposition is the name of the Exposition, and it is also the name of the corporation; so that the Exposition is to be closed and the corporation is to maintain and pay all expenses. For safety I suggest to the Senator that it is wise to repeat those words.

Mr. COCKRELL. I have no objection, but there can be no necessity, because one embraces both.

Mr. KENNA. The amendment refers to two different subjects.

Mr. COCKRELL. The same words include both of them.

Mr. GRAY. The amendment just offered by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] as a substitute for the one which the Senate has refused to lay on the table I think embodies what is intended to be embodied, but fails to secure what is secured by the amendment which I had given notice to the Senate that I should offer to-day, and which is one of the printed amendments lying upon the tables of Senators.

The object, I suppose, of the amendment now offered by the Senator from Pennsylvania, as modified on the suggestion of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, is to directly make this appropriation upon condition that the World's Exposition at Chicago shall be closed on Sunday; and yet we heard in debate yesterday on both sides of this Chamber the opinion expressed that no matter what language was used in the act making this appropriation merely conditional, the World's Columbian Exposition, the Illinois corporation, would have the right to and would practically open the gates of the Exposition on Sunday.

There is nothing in the amendment as now proposed, although it clearly indicates the sense of Congress, if it shall become a law, to enforce the will of Congress expressed by the incorporation of this condition into the appropriating act. The amendment which I offered yesterday sought to make practically the purpose of Congress to close the gates of this Exposition on Sunday and by exercising the admitted power of Congress over the commission which it has created.

The World's Columbian Commission is a body created by act of Congress, and that body has the right to modify and alter or make such regulations as it chooses, or such as it is authorized or directed by Congress to make.

I simply propose, in order to effectuate the purpose which a large majority of the Senate seem to have, that we should exercise that power of directing the Commission created by the will of Congress to make such regulations as shall practically enforce the will of Congress as expressed in the incorporation of this Commission.

As to the amendment offered by the Senator from Pennsylvania as modified at the suggestion of the Senator from Iowa, there is nothing more than the expression of the will of Congress that the gates of this Exposition shall be closed on Sunday; there is no attempt to enforce the purpose there disclosed. I therefore would, if it is in order—I do not know that it is now—ask to substitute for the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania the amendment which I offered yesterday, and which directs the World's Columbian Commission, created by the act of Congress of April 25, 1890, to make such modifications of the rules of said corporation as shall require the closing of the Exposition on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

That is the only practicable way in which it can be done, or in which Congress can exercise its power in this matter. If we were seeking to evade (which, of course, we are not), or if the Senator from Iowa was seeking to act collusively (which, of course, he is not), we could not do better than to use the language which is used in the amendment now offered by the Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. ALLISON. I will say to the Senator from Delaware that his amendment undoubtedly accomplishes what the friends of these amendments desire, but if he will turn to page 125 of the bill he will see that there is a provision there which makes it absolutely obligatory upon this Illinois corporation to do what his amendment proposes, namely:

Said Exposition, by action legally had, shall accept the conditions provided by section 3 of this act in reference to the distribution of whatever net amount shall remain in the treasury of said Exposition at the close of the Exposition, and also the provisions of this section, and shall certify such action to the Secretary of the Treasury.

So that I submit to the Senator, with the clear and distinct acceptance on their part of all the provisions of this section, the suggestions made in his amendment are practically covered now by the amendment suggested by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY].

Mr. GRAY. Allow me to suggest to the Senator from Iowa that that provision was made in respect of other conditions and other provisions than the appropriation we are now making.

While it is quite possible that the Senator may be correct in saying that the language covers it, I do not think, inasmuch as it is not drawn with reference to the present condition in regard to the appropriation, that it is entirely clear that it does so. Therefore, I do not see why we should not put it beyond all peradventure by substituting for the amendment which he now suggests through the Senator from Pennsylvania the one which I have framed, which puts it beyond all cavil and all doubt. Our objects are the same identically, of course, as I understand.

Mr. ALLISON. I think there is no trouble about it, but this is much shorter, and I will say enables the provisions to apply to the latter clause of the fourth section, which I think, if the Senator will examine it carefully, he will see is a pretty important clause; but if there is any further doubt about it, on page 41 two or three words can be struck out there, the doing of which will absolutely accomplish the purpose in that place.

Mr. GRAY. I submit to the Senator that it would be easier to adopt the language in my amendment, which is not very long, but in too great brevity there is sometimes obscurity and doubt.

Mr. ALLISON. I have no pride of opinion about this matter.

Mr. GRAY. I have none. I merely wish to secure beyond all peradventure or cavil the adoption of what seems to be the will of Congress in this respect.

Mr. SHERMAN. I wish to call the attention of the Senator from Delaware, if he will allow me for a moment, to the language of a proviso, which is said to have been prepared by Justice Strong, late of the Supreme Court, and which was transmitted to me in the letter of a lady. It strikes me it is simpler and stronger than any other language which has yet been read. It proposes to add at the end of the second section, which is the section making the appropriation, the following words:

Provided, however, That no part of the sum appropriated by this section shall be paid until the corporation organized under the laws of the State of Illinois, known as the World's Exposition of 1892 and said World's Columbian Exposition, shall stipulate in writing that the said Exposition shall not be open to the public on Sunday.

Mr. GRAY. I think that will secure it absolutely and be copier-fastened, but I drew my amendment with reference to the inconvenientness pointed out yesterday by the Senator from Iowa himself. One of those inconveniences seemed to be, as stated by him and as stated to me by the president of the World's Fair Commission, that there might be some delay in making this appropriation available if the one hundred and odd commissioners constituting the Columbian Commission had to be got together in order to make the regulation which is prescribed by the amendment suggested by Justice Strong. I therefore thought it was simpler, in order to meet the objection made by the Senator from Iowa, which I recognized, that we should by law prescribe that the Columbian Commission, created by act of Congress, should make this regulation and make it mandatory upon them and as if Congress itself made the regulation, and left the discretion to no other body or authority whatever. That is acting directly upon the subject in the way I think Congress desires to act.

Mr. ALLISON. Mr. President, just one word about the suggestions made by Justice Strong. They are wise suggestions, but they are absolutely embodied in the amendment suggested by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY], with the exception that it requires the World's Columbian Commission to do this thing. They are our co-authors, as suggested by the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY], and we have here clearly indicated what we expect them to do. We have made a condition precedent that this corporation called the Columbian Exposition shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury. They are not likely to do it verbally, and therefore every suggestion made by the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] from Justice Strong is already in the bill.

Mr. GRAY. I admit that it is not a supposable case, if the Senator from Iowa will pardon me. I should not like to say it is presumable and I do not say so; but suppose as a mere matter of power and authority, the Illinois corporation, after having certified to the Secretary of the Treasury that they had accepted this appropriation upon this condition, a year later or ten months later say that certain conditions had arisen which made it necessary and expedient to abrogate that rule, what authority have we then, Congress not being in session, over the matter at all?

Mr. ALLISON. We propose, in connection with this amendment, on page 41, to absolutely provide for the closing of the Exposition on Sunday.

Mr. FRYE. I desire to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that Rule VII provides that no Senator shall address the Senate more than once on the same subject.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair was just on the point of calling the attention of Senators to the agreement that the bill was to be discussed under that rule.

Mr. COCKRELL. I suggest that a Senator asking a question is not discussing it, as has been done here oftentimes by Senators.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, I rise to ascertain from the Senator from Delaware whether he desires to amend the bill so that his amendment shall extend beyond the mere conditions of the appropriation?

This bill proposes to appropriate a certain sum of money for the use of the managers of the World's Columbian Exposition on certain terms, and in order that the Senator from Pennsylvania, who has an amendment pending, which I take it for granted in substance will be adopted, which makes this appropriation conditional, I desire to inquire of the Senator from Delaware whether he wishes to go beyond making this appropriation conditional, whether he desires to go back and amend and make this requirement upon the managers of the World's Fair wholly independent of this appropriation?

Mr. GRAY. I desire to remove any embarrassment from the World's Columbian Exposition receiving this money by providing that the World's Columbian Commission, the body created by Congress, should make a rule closing the gates of that Exposition on Sunday, if this appropriation is accepted by that Illinois corporation.

Mr. PALMER. Then I wish to add that it seems to me that the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania covers the whole ground. While I think that is clear, precise, explicit, and leaves no room for doubt, and to that extent is preferable, I prefer the amendment proposed by the Senator from Delaware.

I desire to say that the sense of the Senate now being fully expressed on this subject, those who have heretofore opposed this restriction now desire very much that the friends of this amendment shall put it in such language as will satisfy them, because it is expected to observe it in good faith. There is no desire to evade it.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. President, as there seems to be some objection among the friends of the closing of the Exposition on the Sabbath day to the substitute in the form in which I presented it, in order to disembarass the situation, I will withdraw the substitute and allow the vote to be taken on my original amendment as presented.

I am frank to say that I prefer the amendment of the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY] to my own, and if he will offer it at the close of the bill, where it seems to me it will come in properly, I shall vote with him to insert it, and if having been inserted, I shall move to strike out my own amendment if it is adopted.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, I simply wish to say in regard to an observation made by the Senator from Illinois [Mr. PALMER] that while I do not propose to make any faction's opposition to the amendment, which seems to express the sense of the majority of the Senate in regard to this matter, I desire a vote upon an amendment which I had read for information, and which expresses my views relative to this question.

I take it for granted that the Senate proposes to accept the exhortation contained in the numerous telegrams received yesterday by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] to stand firm and make no compromise, but there are some of us who do not choose to be put in the category of the immoral and filthy lions and dangerous elements of this country, and who indignantly deny the imputation that there is anything in our vote upon this question which puts us in sympathy with the immoral element of the United States. I do not propose to discuss the question, but I ask the Secretary now to read the amendment which I submitted, upon which I shall, if parliamentary rules permit, insist upon a ye-and-nay vote.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If the amendment offered by the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY] is adopted to the amendment of the committee, the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] will then be at liberty to offer his amendment to the amendment as amended.

Mr. VEST. Very good. I have no objection to perfecting the amendment as it is proposed to have it. I ask the Secretary to read that amendment, which embodies my views upon the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The proposed amendment will be read for information.

The Secretary read as follows:

If the Commission determine to keep the Exposition open on Sunday there shall be an entire cessation on that day of all labor by employees and attendants connected with the Exposition, except such service and attentions as may be absolutely necessary for the management of the Exposition, the preservation of order, and the safe-keeping of articles on exhibition, nor shall any machinery be operated, nor work of any sort be carried on, except as before stated, within the limits of the Exposition. It shall also be the duty of the Commission to provide a hall of sufficient size, with suitable furniture and arrangement for religious exercises; and said Commission shall invite the various religious denominations of the United States to hold such exercises in said hall upon every Sunday during the time the Exposition may be opened, the invitation to be issued impartially and without discrimination, so that equal opportunity may be given to every sect and faith.

Mr. ALLISON. It has made an appropriation—
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator from Iowa has expired.

Mr. CALL. I ask that the time of the Senator from Iowa may be extended so that he may complete his statement.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope the chairman of the committee will be allowed to complete his remarks so as to explain the situation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida asks unanimous consent that the Senator from Iowa be permitted to continue his remarks. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the Senator from Iowa will proceed.

Mr. ALLISON. We have appropriated no money except for our own Government exhibit and for the payment of the expenses of our own Commission. Here we are now on the 1st of August with our own Commission requiring a scale of exhibits not of ten and a half million dollars but of $18,000,000 or of $17,000,000.

Mr. BUTLER. What amount of money have we appropriated for the Government exhibit, if the Senator can inform me without trouble?

Mr. ALLISON. We have appropriated up to this moment about $800,000 for the Government exhibit and the Commission, and there is in this bill nearly or quite $700,000 more for the Government exhibit. In the original act there was a limit placed upon that of $1,500,000. I do not care to go into that of course. This enlarges that limit.

Now, the question for us to consider when we came to prepare this amendment was what will be a just distribution of this burden, if it be a burden, of maintaining this international Exposition. The citizens of Chicago have appropriated $10,000,000, the city of Chicago $5,000,000, and the subscribers $5,000,000. We appropriate here $5,000,000 more, and we require of the Exposition that they shall pay certain expenses which under the act of 1890 we were required to pay. We require that those expenditures shall be paid out of the receipts of the Exposition.

After we have appropriated the $5,000,000, as the Senator from Louisiana says, there will probably be required $3,000,000 more. We have provided in this amendment that that $3,000,000 shall be guaranteed to the Secretary of the Treasury before our $5,000,000 or any portion of the $5,000,000 is paid. So either this corporation will be obliged to borrow $3,000,000 or it will be obliged to subscribe for $3,000,000 more. I understand that it is in the mind of those controlling it to borrow about half that sum, and that they have or will have subscriptions to the amount of the other half. The scheme of this amendment is that as respects whatever they subscribe hereafter and as respects what they have subscribed heretofore the Government will with them share and share alike, in proportion to the amount contributed, of the net residuum, after all expenses have been paid.

In addition to that, there is involved in this scheme, as Senators will see, the souvenir half-dollar, which is supposed and believed will inure to the benefit of the Government. So, practically, the Government of the United States will receive a certain amount of benefit from that source. Taking all this scheme and machinery together we believed that it was exact justice, or more nearly exact justice, for us to share with this local corporation our subscription with theirs rather than to require them to pay the whole of our debt before receiving anything in return for their investment on this account.

So it seems to me that if we look at this question by and large, and the magnitude and nature of the Exposition, neither the Philadelphia Exposition nor the New Orleans Exposition can be counted as a precedent. I will say, however, that although the New Orleans Exposition was a local exposition in one sense—it had its origin in the Southern States—we did contribute $1,000,000 to it as a loan. I believe the Senator from Louisiana alluded to that. But after all that was done, the Government of the United States, by appropriation of public money, appropriated more than half a million dollars in addition, because we had obligated ourselves in that Exposition in such a way that the honor of the Government was bound. We appropriated out of the Treasury more than half a million dollars to pay the deficit of the Cotton Exposition in the city of New Orleans.

I think it is wiser and better for us to share and share alike with this corporation the contributions which are to be made as respects the Exposition.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, I agree with what the Senator from Iowa has said. Before I could gain my full consent to vote a dollar out of the Treasury of the United States towards this Exposition, I had convinced myself that it was a national undertaking, that it was a national function which the Federal Government and not the States alone could perform in order to put itself in line with the great nations of the world that had come to consider these great expositions as part of the accessories to the civilization of this century. It was not hard to convince myself that as a matter of fact this had been undertaken as a national function by looking at the enacting clause and the first section of the act of April 25, 1890, where I find this language:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That an exhibition of arts, industries, manufactures, and products of the soil, mine, and sea shall be inaugurated in the year 1892, in the city of Chicago, in the State of Illinois, as hereinafter provided.

The initiation of this great Exposition was made by an act of Congress, and so far as this Government can be committed to an undertaking this act has committed the Government to this undertaking as a national function. Being such, I find myself willing to vote for such appropriation as shall be deemed to be wise and just and proper in order to make the Exposition a national success. I would not vote for a loan to this or any other exposition, or to any corporation or set of individuals in any State, no matter what precedent may be quoted in the past action of the Government in that respect, but I am willing to vote an appropriation of money for this Exposition because it is, in my opinion, a public concern and a public object.

I believe that the United States, in regard to the money to be appropriated by it for this purpose, should stand upon an equal footing with all other persons contributing thereto, and that there should be no preference for the United States in regard to the repayment of the money, or exemption of the United States from the ordinary risks that obtain in an undertaking like this. So I feel impelled to vote against the amendment offered by the Senator from Louisiana, believing that the provision already made by the committee is a wiser one, and one consonant with the public objects and with the theory upon which I believe this whole matter has been at all interfered with by the Government of the United States.

Mr. HAWLEY. Mr. President, I am happy to concur entirely with what the Senator from Delaware has said. I will put directly upon record a correct statement of a similar arrangement with the Philadelphia Exhibition.

The act which created the Centennial Commission and authorized the Exposition of 1876 was approved March 3, 1871. It was very brief, and contained no provision for raising the money or for the general government of the exhibition. It merely created a commission and told it to hold an international exhibition. At the first meeting of that commission it was voted to apply to Congress for the creation of an auxiliary corporation to be called the Centennial Board of Finance. It was to carry on the financial operations, and also the active executive work of putting up buildings, caring for the grounds, receiving and disbursing money, etc. It had an elaborate charter and an elaborate organization. Corporators were named from every State in the Union. A great popular subscription was invited. Subscriptions were made in various parts of the Union and by a number of the States.

But there was a good deal of financial disturbance in the country about 1872, 1873, 1874, and 1875, and it was found impossible to raise the money necessary in that way. The State of Pennsylvania came forward with exceeding generosity and put up a building with its own appropriation. The city of Philadelphia did the same thing. The city of Philadelphia made vast improvements upon Fairmount Park, the site of the exposition, having in view of course the future value of those improvements. But as the time for the exposition approached it was found that it was impossible to carry it to a successful conclusion without more money. Therefore an act was passed, very late, you will see, approved February 16, 1876, less than three months before the opening of the exhibition, giving $1,500,000 to the Centennial Board of Finance to carry on the work of the exposition in four several drafts. It was intended, and expected, and hoped then that the Government would do just what it is proposed to do now in this bill, that it would share and share alike, as the popular phrase is, with the stockholders, who had already subscribed two or three million dollars.

The bill was drawn in that form: it was likely to pass in that form; when at the last moment a member of the other House proposed a clause which was afterwards construed to make it a loan. The result was that after all the money was collected and all the expenses of the exhibition paid, the Government of the United States, which had ordered the exhibition for the glory of the nation to celebrate its one hundredth anniversary, took every dollar of its million and a half back and put it in its pocket, and left the shareholders to get a dividend of 22 or 23 per cent.

I say, Mr. President, with all respect to my country, it was not a respectable proceeding. It was a very cruel thing to do. The Government ordered that exhibition with a great flourish. With eloquent whereas and preambles it ordered the exhibition to be held, and then, you may say, ordered the people to subscribe. They subscribed with what was then considered very great liberality, and then the Government, to save the nation from what would have been an unquestioned and mortifying disgrace, put in the million and a half, and at the last moment decided to call it a loan.

Now, I think that the people of the State of Illinois, and especially the people of Chicago, deserve the thanks of the nation for the vigor and the liberality with which they have conducted this affair. They feel that the honor of Chicago is at stake. But there is a great deal more than that, sir. The honor and credit of our whole country are at stake in this enterprise, and I do sincerely and most earnestly hope that we shall not deal with it in any narrow spirit. I say if this $5,000,000 be put in as is proposed in the bill the least that we can do is to put ourselves upon an equality with the shareholders.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President, I was under the impression that we had a unanimous agreement yesterday to vote upon the bill at 2 o'clock. It is now nearly half past 2, and we have had three speeches since that time. I do hope—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will state to the Senator from South Carolina that he does not understand that there was any agreement as to any time when the vote should be taken, but the agreement was that debate should continue to-day under the five-minute rule, under Rule VIII.

Mr. BUTLER. Up to 2 o'clock.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair does not understand that there was any time fixed for closing the debate.

Mr. BUTLER. I will ask the Senator from Iowa if it was not agreed that we should vote at 2 o'clock?

Mr. ALLISON. No; the five-minute debate was to go on until this provision was disposed of.

Mr. BUTLER. Then we can be kept here all night, I presume.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] to the amendment of the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WHITE. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. CAREY. Let the amendment to the amendment be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment of the Senator from Louisiana to the amendment of the committee will be read.

The SECRETARY. On page 123, line 25, after the words "United States," insert:

The sum of money appropriated by this act by preference and priority over all sums, except such sums as shall hereafter be subscribed and paid by the stockholders and the city of Chicago for the completion and conduct of said Exposition, up to $3,000,000 and no more, which sum of three millions to be hereafter subscribed, if subscribed and paid out, shall share in proportion from the assets with the sums appropriated by this act.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will call the roll on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana to the amendment of the Committee on Appropriations.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. DOLPH (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE]. I do not see him in the Chamber at this moment, and withhold my vote.

Mr. FAULKNER (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN].

Mr. WALTHALL (when Mr. GORDON'S name was called). The junior Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON] is paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

Mr. COKE (when Mr. MILLS'S name was called). I desire to announce the pair of my colleague [Mr. MILLS] with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER].

Mr. PUGH (when Mr. MORGAN'S name was called). I desire to announce the pair of my colleague [Mr. MORGAN] with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I desire to announce again my pair with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. TURPINE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GALLINGER. I desire to announce my pair with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS].

Mr. HIGGINS. I am paired generally with the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]; but I feel authorized by the statement of his colleague [Mr. BLODGETT] to vote, and I vote "nay."

Mr. DANIEL (after having voted in the affirmative). I beg leave to withdraw my vote. I am paired with the Senator from Washington [Mr. SQUIRE], and I think it best, out of respect to him, not to vote.

The result was announced—yeas 20, nays 38; as follows:

YEAS—20

So the amendment to the amendment was rejected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee as amended.

Mr. BERRY. Does this include the entire amendment?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The entire amendment, inserting section 2 and the following sections, to the end of the bill.

Mr. BERRY. Upon that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BERRY. Mr. President, I simply desire to say that I do not believe it is the proper thing for the United States Government to loan the corporation in Chicago any money for the purposes of making the Exhibition proposed. I do not believe it is the proper thing for the Government of the United States to give to that corporation at Chicago any money for the purposes of making the Exhibition. I do not believe it is the proper thing for the Government of the United States to enter into partnership, either as a partner or as a stockholder, with a corporation in the State of Illinois for the purposes of making the Exhibition. Whether this amendment, as it is framed, falls under either one of these three heads, whether it is a gift, whether it is a loan, or whether it is a partnership or as a stockholder, I believe that the Government is in any case going beyond what we are authorized to go, and that we should not vote this appropriation.

I do not know that it appears in the bill, but it was asserted by people from Chicago, from St. Louis, and from New York that if the Fair was located at any of those cities the Government would not be called upon for one dollar or for one cent, but that if located at Chicago the money would be paid by the State of Illinois and by the people of Chicago. That has been but little more than a year ago, and yet to-day they come and ask that we go into partnership with them or that we give them $5,000,000 of the money of the people of the United States.

All the arguments that have been made in regard to other questions that have arisen on this amendment apply with equal force to the main proposition. When the Government goes outside of its regular function, and into partnership with any corporation it goes beyond that which was intended by the Constitution of the United States.

A large part of the people of the South and West are to-day clamoring for the Government to loan money to a scheme called the subtreasury, or upon a land-loan bill. I, in common with other Democrats throughout the United States, have told them again and again that we did not believe the Government had any power or authority to lend them money; but we have the same right to loan it to them that we have to loan it to this corporation in the State of Illinois. I can not see how those who stand upon the Constitution and say that the Government can not loan money to anybody, can vote to loan it or give it, or go into partnership with this Exposition in the State of Illinois.

Mr. President, I am opposed to the whole scheme. I want that corporation to run its own show, without any partnership with this Government, or without our giving them a dollar or a dime. If the Government makes its own Exposition there under the law, that is one question; but this is a proposition to take $5,000,000 of the money of the people of the United States and go into partnership with that concern, or practically to give it to them, because no one ever supposes that a dollar of it will be repaid.

For these reasons I have called for the yeas and nays for the purpose of recording my vote against the whole Chicago scheme, whether there is any other vote recorded against it in the Senate or not.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will call the roll on agreeing to the amendment of the committee as amended.

Mr. PEPPER. Before the roll is called I desire to call the attention of the Senator from Iowa to the fact that a few days ago, I think it was Saturday, when we were considering the committee's amendments, I had the honor to propose an amendment in one place, when it was suggested by the Senator that it would come in at a better place in another portion of the bill, and I withdrew it for that purpose. If I am in order now, inasmuch as the amendment was discussed and generally agreed to, I will ask permission to have it read and call attention to where I desire it to be inserted; and if it is not out of order I ask that it may be acted upon.

Mr. ALLISON. Will the Senator refrain until we have a vote upon the pending question?

Mr. PEPPER. I understood that we were to take a vote now upon the bill.

Mr. ALLISON. No, we are to vote now upon the amendment of the committee as amended.

Mr. PEPPER. I beg pardon.

Mr. ALLISON. It is to insert the matter beginning on page 121, section 2, and concluding with the end of the bill, which is treated as one amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FAULKNER (when his name was called). On this and on all other questions upon the bill I am paired with the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. TURPIE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. WALTHALL. The Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON] is paired with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON].

Mr. CALL. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR].

Mr. HARRIS. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. If he were present I should vote "nay." If there is any Senator on the other side who is paired and should like to transfer pairs I would be glad to transfer my pair so that I may record my vote.

Mr. GALLINGER. I suggest to the Senator that my pair may be transferred to the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] so that he will stand paired with the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS].

Mr. HARRIS. Very well; I transfer my pair to the Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS], and record my vote, "nay."

Mr. GALLINGER. I vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS. I understand from the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. BLODGETT] that his colleague [Mr. McPHERSON], with whom I am paired, is in favor of the amendment, and I therefore vote "yea."

Mr. COLQUITT (after having voted in the negative). I voted, supposing that my pair with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON], with whom I am generally paired, had been transferred, but discovering that it has not, I withdraw my vote, with the announcement that I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

The result was announced—yeas 51, nays 14, as follows:

So the amendment of the committee as amended was agreed to: which was to add to the bill the following additional sections:

AID TO THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

SEC. 2. That for the purpose of aiding in defraying the cost of completing the work of preparation for inaugurating the World's Columbian Exposition, authorized by the act approved April 25, 1890, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to have recoined $5,000,000 in half-dollar silver coins from the uncurrent subsidiary silver coins abraded below the limit of tolerance now in the Treasury, which coins shall be of the same weight and fineness and have in all other respects the same qualities as the silver half-dollar now authorized by law; said coins shall also be of such design and be stamped and engraved with such inscriptions and devices as will designate their value as coins of the United States, and also make them suitable souvenirs of said celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, and there is hereby appropriated from the Treasury the said $5,000,000 so coined; and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to pay the same as lawful money to the World's Columbian Exposition monthly in such amounts as may be needed, in his discretion, upon detailed estimates of the expenditures for the preceding month certified to him by the president of the World's Columbian Exposition, or, in his absence or inability to act, by the vice-president, and by the director-general of the World's Columbian Commission, or, in his absence, by the president of the Commission, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, nor labor to be done, materials to be furnished, and services to be performed in preparing said work of preparing said Exposition for opening on May 1st, 1893. Provided, That before the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to the World's Columbian Exposition any part of the said recoinage satisfaction given, he shall be furnished him showing that the sum of $100,000 provided for by the fifth section of the act of April 25, 1890, has been collected and disbursed as required by said act; and that provision has been or will be made by the proper authority for the closing of the Exposition on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday; and that the said World's Columbian Exposition shall furnish a satisfactory guaranty to the Secretary of the Treasury that any further sum actually necessary to complete the work of said Exposition to the opening thereof has been or will be provided by said Exposition; but nothing herein shall be construed as to authorize the delay or postponement of the preparation of the coinage herebefore provided for, and there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to reimburse the Treasury for loss on such recoinage. The sale of intoxicating liquors on the said Exposition grounds shall be prohibited, except for medical, mechanical, or scientific purposes.

SEC. 3. That monthly reports shall be forwarded by the said World's Columbian Exposition to the Secretary of the Treasury, on or before the 10th day of each month, showing the amount of money expended during the preceding month, accompanied with vouchers showing such expenditures in detail, which vouchers shall be made in duplicate, one to be filed with the Secretary of the Treasury, the other to be retained by the World's Columbian Exposition, which vouchers shall be certified by the president of the World's Columbian Exposition and approved by the director-general of the World's Columbian Commission, and like report shall be made monthly of receipts from all sources, before and during the progress of the Exposition, and within thirty days after the close of the Exposition as now provided by law a statement of all receipts and disbursements by the World's Columbian Exposition shall be made, and a copy filed with the Secretary of the Treasury, provided that no expenditures incurred in the preliminary organization or in securing the location of said Exposition shall be included in such disbursements; and from the net amount received into the treasury of the World's Columbian Exposition from all sources whatsoever, including sale of buildings, which together with all property shall be sold within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and upon due ascertainment thereof there shall be paid to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States such proportion of said net amount as the sum appropriated and paid out under section 2 of this act shall bear to the aggregate of such sum, and the sum which has been, or shall hereafter be, subscribed and paid by the stockholders and the city of Chicago for the preparation, completion, and conduct of said Exposition. And the dividends so accruing to the United States shall be paid at the same time and in such proportionate installments as they are paid to the shareholders and to the city of Chicago.

SEC. 4. That the appropriation provided in section 2 of this act shall be upon condition that the said World's Columbian Exposition maintain and pay all the expenses, costs, and charges of the great departments organized for the purpose of conducting the work of the Exposition, but subject to the terms of the conference report known as the compact adopted on the 24th and 25th days of November, 1890, by the directors of the World's Columbian Exposition and by the World's Columbian Exposition, respectively, and with the right remaining in the board of directors of the World's Columbian Exposition to reduce or discontinue any expenditures when in their opinion the interests of the Exposition so require, and the per diem and expenses of all judges and juries of awards, the per diem and expenses of the commissioners who are members of the committee on awards of the World's Columbian Commission while engaged in the discharge of their duties as members of said committee, including compensation of clerks, stenographers, stationery, printing, postage, and all the necessary incidental expenses of said judges, juries, and committee on awards of the World's Columbian Commission; all said expenses, costs, and charges to be paid out of the funds of the said World's Columbian Exposition; Provided, That the gross expenditures on account of medals and diplomas, the committee on awards, judges and juries of awards, clerks, stenographers, stationery, printing, postage, and all the necessary incidental expenses of the same shall not exceed $500,000 and shall be made under the direction of the World's Columbian Commission or its board of control, and before any payment of the sum appropriated by section 2 of this act shall be made to the World's Columbian Exposition, said Exposition, by action legally had, shall accept the conditions provided by section 3 of this act in reference to the distribution of whatever net amount shall remain in the treasury of said Exposition at the close of the Exposition, and also the provisions of this section, and shall certify such action to the Secretary of the Treasury.

SEC. 5. That fifty thousand bronze medals and the necessary dies therefor, with appropriate devices, emblems, and inscriptions commemorative of said Exposition celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, shall be prepared under the supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury at a cost not to exceed $90,000, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prepare plates and make therefrom fifty thousand vellum impressions for diplomas, at a cost not to exceed $13,000. Said medals and diplomas shall be delivered to the World's Columbian Commission, to be awarded to exhibitors in accordance with the provisions of said act of Congress approved April 25, 1890, and there is hereby appropriated, from any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to pay the expenditure authorized by this section; said sum to be reimbursed to the Treasury from the funds of the said World's Columbian Exposition upon the delivery of the said medals and said diplomas; and authority may be granted by the Secretary of the Treasury to the holder of a medal, properly awarded to him, to have duplicates thereof made at any of the mints of the United States from gold, or silver, or bronze, at the expense of the person desiring the same.

Mr. PALMER. I am so unfortunate as not to fully understand the rules of this body and I shall ask the instruction of the Chair on the point. The Senator from Kansas [Mr. PARKER] introduced an amendment to the bill which I have in my hand, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on the grounds of the Exposition. I desire in some parliamentary way to submit that question again to the Senate with an amendment which I propose to offer.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment can only be reached when the bill is in the Senate. It is now before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. PALMER. It will then be in order?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will then be in order to offer the amendment.

Mr. PALMER. I will ask that that amendment be reserved when the bill is reported to the Senate.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I should like to ask the chairman of the committee if we have disposed of the committee amendments?

Mr. ALLISON. All but one or two.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I have some amendments which I wish to offer. Does the Senator from Iowa wish to dispose of the remaining committee amendments now?

Mr. ALLISON. It will take but a moment. On page 3, line 20, I desire to strike out, by unanimous consent, the words "and approaches."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 3, line 20, after the word "building," it is proposed to strike out "and approaches;" so as to read:

For post-office at Beatrice, Nebr.: For completion of building, $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. In line 7, page 22, after the word "Washington," I move to insert:

Including resurvey of San Francisco Harbor.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. On page 55, after line 2, I move an amendment to which I call the attention of the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER]. It was suggested by him. On page 55, after line 2, to insert:

And the additional sum of $209,000 is hereby appropriated for the same purpose.

That relates to epidemic diseases.

Mr. CHANDLER. Making it $350,000 in all.

Mr. ALLISON. About that sum.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Iowa.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ALLISON. There was an amendment passed over on page 71. I will thank the Senator from Arkansas to send to the desk the amendment he proposes there.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. It is to insert the words "in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior" after the word "improvement," in line 6, page 71.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 71, line 6, after the word "improvement," insert "in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior;" so as to make the paragraph read:

Hot Springs Reservation: For the improvement, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior, according to suitable plans and estimates to be prepared under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, of the Government reserve bordering upon Whittington avenue, on the west branch of Hot Springs Creek, Hot Springs, Ark., and to have said improvement completed to make said reserve available in part as a reservoir to retain and retard the flood waters of said creek, and to put said reserve in a suitable state of improvement, $30,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, the same to be paid out of any money that may now or hereafter be available from the proceeds of the sales of public lands within the Hot Springs (Ark.) Reservation, and that is required, by existing law, to be held as a special fund for such improvements as may be provided for on Government reservations at said Hot Springs by Congress.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. MANDERSON. Now, the committee amendment striking out the paragraph should be disagreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee, striking out the paragraph as amended.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. Does the Senator from Iowa consent that the committee amendment shall be disagreed to?

Mr. ALLISON. I agree that the committee amendment may be rejected.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. MANDERSON. I offer an amendment to the bill. On page 88, after line 15, I move to insert:

For the construction, under the direction of the Secretary of War, of suitable building for a military storehouse and offices at the military depot at Omaha, Nebr., $60,000.

I simply desire to say with reference to this matter that a bill appropriating that amount for this purpose has twice passed the Senate. It passed it during the present session and at the last session of Congress. It is estimated for by the Secretary of the Treasury on the recommendation of the War Department. It is very strongly urged (as will be seen by reference to Executive Document No. 124) by the Secretary of War, and I have lately received a letter, which I have sent to the Committee on Appropriations, from the general commanding the Department of the Platte, showing the absolute necessity for public economy and for the protection of Government property that this building should be erected. I do not think the amendment will meet with any opposition from the Committee on Appropriations.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. QUAY. I offer an amendment to come in after line 10 on page 1. It is an amendment which has been favorably reported from the Committee on Buildings and Grounds, and it has been modified to meet the objection of the Committee on Appropriations.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 1, after line 10, it is proposed to insert:

For purchase of site for the public building heretofore authorized at Allegheny, Pa., $200,000; Provided, That the limit heretofore fixed for the cost of said building shall not be hereby increased.

Mr. ALLISON. There are $65,000 already appropriated for that purpose. I trust the Senate will not appropriate more than $135,000 if it appropriates anything. I suggest to the Senator from Pennsylvania to make the amount $135,000.

Mr. QUAY. One hundred and thirty five thousand dollars in addition to the amount heretofore appropriated. That will be satisfactory. That will make it $200,000.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well; that will be satisfactory. It is not worth while to add the $65,000 already appropriated.

Mr. QUAY. That was not the intention.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania will be stated as modified.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to modify the amendment so as to read:

For purchase of site for the building heretofore authorized at Allegheny, Pa., $135,000; Provided—

Mr. QUAY. "In addition to the amount."

Mr. CULLOM. There is no use to put in those words.

Mr. QUAY. Very well.

The CHIEF CLERK (continuing):

Provided, That the limit heretofore fixed for the cost of said building shall not be hereby increased.

Mr. QUAY. I think the words I suggested had better go in.

Mr. ALLISON. I do not object to their going in.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Pennsylvania.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PETTIGREW. On page 41, at the end of line 7, I move to insert:

To enable the board of control and management of the Government exhibit to procure, prepare, and compile for publication and to publish statistics pertaining to the moral, industrial, and intellectual development since January 1, 1863, of the colored people of African descent residing in the United States, $50,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be expended by said board in the same manner and said expenditures to be subject to the same supervision and approval as other funds appropriated for its use, and which shall form a part of the Government exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition. And the several Executive Departments of the Government are authorized and directed to furnish for or provide access to any and all information and material in their respective Departments appertaining to the subjects of this inquiry and exhibit.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from South Dakota.

Mr. GORMAN. I trust the Senator will not press the amendment. It seems to me that it is very unwise to bring in the question of color or race in the matter of this great Exposition.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I shall certainly insist upon the amendment to the extent of a vote upon it. I think these people are entitled to recognition and consideration in this connection.

Mr. GORMAN. I think all the people of this country are entitled to consideration in the matter. From the beginning I have taken a very lively interest in this matter. I think I introduced the first bill for the Exposition, a bill to locate it in the city of Washington.

Mr. President, I do not care to debate the matter. We have already gone over that part of the bill. I raise the point of order that the amendment is not in order, it not having been reported by any committee.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Do I understand that the Senator raises a point of order against the amendment?

Mr. GORMAN. I do.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I will say as to the amendment that it was reported to the Senate by the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial. [A pause.] No; I am mistaken about that. It was not reported by that committee, but it was offered.

Mr. VEST. The Senator is mistaken.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I am mistaken about it. I had another amendment in mind. This amendment, however, was introduced by me and referred to the Committee on Appropriations several weeks ago.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question of order is not debatable.

conditions there is no necessity on earth for an increase of this appropriation, in my judgment, so far as the investigation of the lands is concerned. This provision embraces, however, more than one item. If it were simply to meet the expenses "for protecting timber on the public lands, and for the more efficient execution of the law and rules relating to the cutting thereof; of protecting public lands from illegal and fraudulent entry or appropriation," if it were for those purposes alone a very small sum would be needed, but here comes in the question of adjusting claims for swamp lands and indemnity for swamp lands, some amount should be appropriated for that, because that work ought to be wound up, and speedily wound up. There is no use of keeping it open for all eternity. The swamp-land law was passed in 1849, and yet all cases under that law have not been adjudicated.

I am satisfied the business of the General Land Office is being gotten into that condition where it can be speedily disposed of. The General Land Office is now current with its work, disposing of cases as they come up. The register and receiver make a different report from what they did previously when so many frauds were charged. No charges of fraudulent entries have been heard of in recent years. All the entries of which the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] speaks, of lands granted to foreigners and corporations are past. They have gotten their titles confirmed under this law and under previous action.

We have had special agents for years and years investigating these matters, and I should like to see a few samples of where land-grabbers have been deprived of the public lands they got. I know there have been frauds, and we all know it. They can not well be prevented in the rapid settlement of a new country; but I want to know where these special agents have been instrumental in setting aside entries which have been made evidently for speculative purposes, where cattle ranchmen have had twelve, fifteen, thirty, or one hundred men to take each 160 acres of land under the preemption or homestead laws and completed their entries and got patents, and within a few days after the patents were issued every solitary mother's son of them made a deed to the ranchman for the land.

What are you going to do in such a case? You have to bring a suit to vacate that patent. Tell me where one such suit has been brought and has succeeded? I should like the Senator from Kansas or any other Senator to point to a solitary instance where suit has been brought at the instance of those special agents which has been successful. I doubt whether it can be done. There were some entries made which were fraudulent. Some of them have been set aside by the General Land Office, but I want to know where they have succeeded in setting aside the title in any of the great frauds of which we have heard so much, of foreigners and syndicates and corporations and cattle ranchmen getting titles? I do not think they have succeeded. I do not think they have earned for the public the amount of money which we have paid to them in salaries. It has not been a profitable business for the taxpayer; it has not been a profitable business to the homesteader, to the honest man trying to get a home.

But I say that hundreds and thousands of honest homesteaders have been blackmailed time and again by some of these special agents who have been sent out to investigate the entries. No man who has not made it a point to inquire into those things can tell the number of instances where homesteaders have had to pay blackmail to buy off those who were threatening to have their entries contested.

There will be no occasion for any such thing in the future. Here is a law passed for the express purpose of wiping out this matter and beginning anew, and under it we have no necessity for the appropriation of $200,000 in my judgment.

Mr. ALLISON. I think this matter is pretty well understood now in the Senate, and I should like to waive any opportunity I may have to explain my views if we can secure a vote.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, I should like to say a word. I wish to read a little from the official reports of this Government. I do not understand with the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] that there is any law of the United States which protects a man who has committed a willful fraud in acquiring possession of any of the public lands of the United States. There is no such law; there can be no such law which protects a man in the acquisition of land by a willful fraud.

I wish further to say that if the Senator from Missouri is right, it is the imperative duty of this Congress to pass such legislation as will have these cases prosecuted. If our public domain has been taken away from the purpose to which it was dedicated by the law, these are poor excuses the Senator from Missouri makes for not doing our duty in seeing that this land is restored to the use of the people.

Let us see something about what has been the statement officially made by the officers of this Government charged with this duty, and how it corresponds with the proposition of the Senator from Missouri. In the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office for 1887 I find the following:

I submit the following extracts from the annual report of the surveyor-general of New Mexico which will be found in full in its appropriate place in this report.

Of the patented and unpatented lands I have referred to aggregating 8,064,965 acres, I think it will be safe to estimate that at least one-half, namely, 4,337,482 acres have been illegally devoted to private uses under invalid grants or unauthorized surveys. If to this sum I add the estimate before mentioned of about 4,000,000 acres unlawfully appropriated in cases pending before Congress, an approximate estimate will be reached covering from 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 acres of the public domain, which are now, and for many years past have been, in the grasp of men who have used and enjoyed the land for their own emolument, and whose earnest prayer is to be let alone in the possession of their ill-gotten gains.

I have taken the trouble of going over these various reports. I find that in the State of California it is reported:

San Miguel del Bado; Lorenzo Marquez et al; Preliminary survey 315,700.80 acres. The grant was made to fifty-two persons whose names are appended, and distribution was made in the act of judicial possession among fifty-eight heads of families. The surveyor-general finds the grant valid and recommends confirmation to the heirs and legal representatives of the persons named in the distribution. In reference to quantity, he states that it was not the practice of the Spanish Government to make grants of large tracts of land at the date of this concession. Find upon examining the allotments that the whole area to which title was given to fifty-eight persons was 61 acres, being a house and garden lot for each.

I will not occupy the time of the Senate in reading these extracts to any extent, but I will read this:

In California one agent has been almost exclusively engaged on timber-land entries made upon redwood lands in the Humboldt district and in aiding the United States attorney in procuring and preparing the testimony for the criminal prosecution of some of the parties who committed the frauds. A great majority of the entries investigated were found to have been in the names of poor and ignorant people who had never seen the lands, and who, immediately after the issuance of the final certificates, transferred their respective claims to syndicates or individuals dealing in lumber or timber lands. The facts and circumstances generally indicate that the entrymen were induced for a small consideration to make the entries for the benefit of the persons to whom the lands were conveyed.

The other agent in California has examined a large number of agricultural entries made upon lands valuable chiefly, and in many instances solely, for the timber thereon and for the purpose of transferring the lands to speculators. He also investigated a large number of timber-land entries.

One batch of this class of entries, embracing 12,000 acres of land in the Stockton and Visalia districts, was examined by one of the timber agents, and was found to have been transferred to a San Francisco firm, who, it is alleged, induced the entrymen to take up lands for their benefit.

The report contains specific statements in reference to the different States and Territories. It appears from the report that in the State of Colorado there have been immense appropriations of the mineral lands of that State in positive fraud of the law. Will the Senator from Missouri undertake to tell me that an investigation by this Government should not be made, and those valuable lands restored to the miners of Colorado instead of the foreigners who have by fraud and false oaths appropriated them to their benefit and taken them away from the honest laboring miners to whom the law had dedicated them? If there be such a law, it was not passed in the interests of the people; but it was procured by some designing person having the interest of those capitalists and not the interest of the people of those States in charge.

For that reason and because every administration, Democratic and Republican, has recommended this method of proceeding and vindicated it, and because in the very reason of the thing itself honest and capable men can be seduced for this duty, I object to the withdrawal of these lands by fraud.

Mr. PADDOCK. Mr. President, I desire to say just a word in response to an observation dropped by my distinguished friend from Nevada [Mr. STEWART]. Speaking of Senators and Representatives from the Northwestern States he referred to myself as perhaps not familiar with the situation in the public-land States. The inference to be drawn from what he said was that I lived somewhere in a foreign country or some other remote region. Permit me to say that I, too, am of the Senators of the Northwestern States. I am almost "to the manner born" in a public land State. I have lived in Nebraska more than thirty-five years, and am entirely familiar with the administration of the land laws in that State and the other States which are its neighbors, and know what I was talking about exactly in my discussion of the special agent matter.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. TURNER in the chair). The question is on the amendment of the Committee on Appropriations.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move to strike out "one hundred and twenty thousand" and insert "seventy-five thousand."

Mr. ALLISON. I trust the Senator from Missouri will allow this amendment to go now.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 3, page 58, it is proposed to strike out "one hundred and twenty" and insert "seventy-five;" so a to read:

And of adjusting claims for swamp lands, and indemnity for swamplands, $75,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Missouri.

Mr. ALLEN. I wish to make an inquiry of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriation. I very cheerfully voted to reduce the amount of the appropriation to that fixed by the other House, feeling that by reason of the repeal of the preemption law that amount would be fully adequate for any demand which might be made for the ensuing year for this service. I am not willing, however, by my vote to cripple the service. I desire that as much of the appropriation as possible made for the Interior Department shall go to the surveys of the public lands, and yet to attain that purpose, I am not willing to reduce the appropriation for another legitimate purpose so low as to seriously cripple it. I therefore should like to inquire of the chairman of the committee what is the basis of the demand for $120,000, or whether or not this appropriation can be reduced from $120,000 to $75,000 without serious injury to the public service?

Mr. ALLISON. The estimate is $300,000. After listening to the debate here to-day, I should think about twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars would be enough.

Mr. PERKINS. Nothing.

Mr. ALLISON. Or nothing. But I should think from what I know of this subject, that we had better go slowly down in these investigations.

The amount of the appropriation for the fiscal year which has just expired, is $240,000. We have cut it down for the coming year one-half. I have no doubt the Department can get on with that, but I should like to submit to my friend from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL], who is usually careful about such matters, that we had better try $120,000, the sum fixed by the House, for this year, and next year I will go along with him as rapidly as I can towards a further reduction. Perhaps we shall be able to get along with a less sum next year.

Mr. COCKRELL. As a matter of course we understand how these estimates come in. They are the same estimates that come in year after year.

Mr. ALLISON. We do not always understand, but we generally do.

Mr. COCKRELL. And there was no statement before our committee that there was necessity for any increase of this item or anything of that kind. I do not want to cripple the service.

Mr. ALLISON. I know the Senator does not.

Mr. COCKRELL. I would not have one solitary fraudulent entry confirmed if I could help it, but I do not want to waste the people's money in harassing men and then accomplish nothing. I think $75,000 is all that the Department can properly expend. I believe it is all that the present Commissioner of the General Land Office would spend under this appropriation, unless he had to keep in his service some of the men already appointed upon reports that there was business for them to do here and there. A special agent hunting up business can always find some kind of business to attract his attention.

I believe the present Commissioner has managed that office just as well as he could. He has done wonderful work in bringing it up to date. That he was enabled to do by reason of the confirmation law of March 3, 1891, which ended the great mass of contests, and by diligent work. I think $75,000 is all that can be properly expended, but I am willing to say $100,000, and I know the Commissioner can not possibly expend more than $100,000 with any profit at all. I will change my amendment so as to make the amount "$100,000."

Mr. ALLISON. I think the House of Representatives must have looked this matter over very carefully. I read the testimony of the Commissioner of the General Land Office given before the House committee, and in that testimony, as the Senator will remember, he stated that, with the provision in the bill which authorizes him to detail clerks, he might get on with the sum named by the House; but he stated that it was an injudicious thing to take clerks away from their work here and put them to work outside.

I have the same faith in the Commissioner of the General Land Office that the Senator from Missouri has, and if he does not need this money I think we may trust him to waive its expenditure. He will not feel that he is obliged to expend it because it is appropriated.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Mr. President, I desire to make a suggestion to the Senator from Missouri, and that is this: As the bill now stands the entire Appropriations Committee can not tamper any more with this amount. If we vote to reduce it to $100,000—and I would otherwise cheerfully vote to reduce it to $100,000 or $75,000—it will go to a conference committee, which is a peculiar working body; we have had some marvelous experiences of it and the first thing we know at the end of this session we will find that $200,000 has been appropriated. [Laughter.] I am willing to give $120,000, but I should like to stop there for this year. I hope the Senator from Missouri will withdraw his amendment.

Mr. ALLISON. With that suggestion I hope the Senator from Missouri will withdraw the amendment, because there is great danger that there may be some manipulation after this leaves the Senate. [Laughter.]

Mr. COCKRELL. In view of the fact that one of the most important laws we have upon our statute books to-day is the act entitled "An act to repeal the timber culture, and for other purposes," and as that originated in a conference committee and was brought in and made a law upon the report of a conference committee, and as my good friend from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON] is the chairman of the subcommittee, I believe, and he is famous for these things, I shall have to yield, I reckon. [Laughter.]

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is withdrawn.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I have an amendment which I desire to offer.

Mr. PADDOCK. What is the pending question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no question before the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS. What has become of the amendment reported by the committee with respect to this appropriation?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment reported by the committee was agreed to. The amendment of the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. PETTIGREW] will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 90, at the end of line 21, it is proposed to insert:

There shall be appointed, in addition to the Commission authorized by the act of Congress to provide for the celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, two additional commissioners and alternates, to be selected from the five civilized tribes in the Indian Territory, said commissioners and alternates to be appointed by the President within thirty days after the passage of this act and with the authority conferred in said act upon the commissioners appointed under the second section thereof.

Mr. PETTIGREW. This amendment was reported from the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial, and is for the purpose of allowing the five civilized tribes in the Indian Territory two commissioners, so that these people may feel an interest in the Fair, as they are coming to feel an interest in the other people of the United States. It seems to me there can be no objection to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from South Dakota.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. I offer an amendment to come in on page 54, after line 2.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 54, after line 2, it is proposed to insert:

For the Daisy Chain Hospital, in the District of Columbia, the sum of $31,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in the purchase of such site as the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall approve, and for the building of a hospital, according to plans to be approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, for the treatment of persons suffering from contagious and infectious diseases, and that the title to said property shall vest in the United States.

Mr. ALLISON. Does the Senator provide that this sum shall be paid from the funds of the District?

Mr. McMILLAN. I suppose the amount will be paid one-half from the funds of the District and one-half from the funds of the United States. The land is to belong to the United States, according to the amendment.

Mr. ALLISON. How is it to be purchased by the United States?

Mr. McMILLAN. As every purchase is made, one-half by the District of Columbia and one-half by the United States.

Mr. President, we have a number of hospitals in the District of Columbia, but we have not a place where in case of persons being attacked by a contagious disease, like typhoid fever or diphtheria, they can be cared for in a proper manner. It is only a short time since a case of that kind occurred. A young man was taken down with diphtheria. He was taken around to the different hospitals and was not admitted for the very good reason that they were not prepared to isolate a case of that kind. If such a case had been taken into one of the hospitals here, there is no doubt that it might have infected the other patients.

We have had the need for such a building here for a long time, but there has been great difficulty in getting the proper kind of property upon which to place it. Property-owners object to having a hospital of this kind placed upon land adjoining their property. A piece of ground has been obtained, or can be obtained subject, of course, to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, for this purpose. A number of ladies and gentlemen in the District of Columbia have formed themselves into an association for the purpose of taking care of this hospital. Their names are familiar to almost all of us. Miss Morton is one of the ladies, and among the others are Miss Hopkins, Mrs. Hobson, Mr. James Lowdens, Mr. Reginald Fendall, Mrs. Hoeke, Mr. Archibald Hopkins, and Mr. Sidney Ewart.

These ladies and gentlemen have undertaken to form themselves into an association for the purpose of caring for persons afflicted with contagious diseases, and there is great need for it in this District in case of an epidemic of diphtheria or scarlet fever or similar diseases. We have a pesthouse here for cases of smallpox, but not for such diseases as scarlet fever, diphtheria, and other contagious and infectious diseases.

The amendment is reported by the proper standing committee of the Senate, and I hope the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations will not object to it.

Mr. ALLISON. If the Senator will consent to insert the amendment on page 2, after line 9, I shall not object.

Mr. McMILLAN. Very well. I will allow that alteration to be made.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] to be inserted on page 52, after line 9.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. I offer an amendment, which was reported by the Committee on Fisheries and referred to the Committee on Appropriations on the 7th of this month, to which I hope there will be no objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 37, after line 25, it is proposed to insert:

Fish hatchery in Tennessee: For investigation and report respecting the advisability of establishing a fish-hatching station at some suitable point in the State of Tennessee, $1,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk, to be inserted after the words "Attorney-General," at the end of line 18, on page 80.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 80, after line 18, it is proposed to insert:

Army and Naval Hospital: For the improvement and maintenance of grounds about the Army and Naval Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., $7,960.00.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. MANDERSON. I offer an amendment to come in on page 86, after line 15.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In the clause making appropriations for "Publication of Official Records of the War of the Rebellion," on page 86, line 15, after the date "1880," it is proposed to insert:

The printing and binding of 500 copies thereof, for the personal use of Senators, Members, and Delegates of the Fifty-second Congress, to be printed and bound under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing.

Mr. MANDERSON. This makes no increase in the amount of the appropriation fixed in the bill for continuing the publication of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies.

It will be remembered that the Forty-seventh Congress, by an act passed by it, monopolized the distribution of all of these Records of the Rebellion. This proposition is that one set of the entire publication shall be published for the use of the members of the Fifty-second Congress, to be printed and bound in such form as may be prescribed by the Joint Committee on Printing.

There will be, I understand, about eighty volumes of the Records of the Rebellion. I think that this reprinting and rebinding will be at a cost of perhaps 50 cents a volume, as the whole matter is electrotyped, even printing it on a little better paper than that which is now used for the Records of the Rebellion, and the entire cost for each member of Congress will be about $40, so that the $3,000 of this very liberal appropriation of $235,000 will give to each member of the present Congress one set of this very valuable publication. I hope there may be no objection to the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. VEST. On page 120, after the word "Departments," in line 20, I offer an amendment from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 120, line 20, after the word "Departments," it is proposed to insert:

That to provide a suitable site for a Government Printing Office of such area as will not only admit of a plant equal to the present demands of the Government upon the same, but of such progressive enlargement as the growth of the country shall impose, and the needed storage and distributing warehouses necessary to the economical and efficient conduct of such establishment and the more orderly and prompt distribution of public documents, the Secretary of the Interior be, and he hereby is, empowered and directed to secure by negotiation the purchase of the south half of square 63, containing about 23,277 square feet, and bounded as follows: Two hundred and seventy-three and three-twelfths feet, fronting on North Capitol street, along the same from the intersection of L street therewith to what is called Pierce street; thence along Pierce street for 782½ feet to First street; thence along the same for 23½ feet to L street, and thence along the same to the point of beginning: Provided, That the title thereto shall be approved by the Attorney-General of the United States, or failing to so secure such described property, he is hereby empowered and directed to acquire the same by condemnation proceedings, as provided in the act approved June 25, 1890, to authorize the acquisition of certain parcels of real estate embraced in square numbered 323, of the city of Washington, "to provide an eligible site for a city post-office," and he is hereby empowered and directed to expend for such purchase the money appropriated in the sundry civil appropriation act, approved August 13, 1890, to provide accommodations for the Government Printing Office, or as much thereof as may be required; and such additional sum out of the Treasury, not otherwise appropriated, not exceeding $5,000, which may be necessary to the consummation of such purchase or acquisition of the said property; and the Treasurer of the United States is hereby authorized and directed, upon the requisition of the said Secretary, to pay the purchase, or, into court, the condemnation price of such property.

Mr. CALL. I ask the Senator from Missouri, as this amendment will probably provoke considerable discussion, to allow me to offer an amendment to the bill which will probably not elicit any opposition.

Mr. VEST. I have no objection.

Mr. CALL. The Senator from Missouri agrees that I may offer an amendment, which I send to the desk, to come in on the sixty-third page, after the twelfth line.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment moved by the Senator from Florida will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 63, after the word "interest" in line 12, it is proposed to insert:

Provided, That no part of this sum of money shall be used for the payment of the survey of any lands embraced in a grant to a State when the State made no disposition of the grant within its lifetime, or where the performance of the conditions of the grant to the State were not commenced before the time limited in the act for its expiration; and no adjustment shall be made of land claimed under such granting acts.

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President—

Mr. VEST. I am afraid that that amendment will lead to debate.

Mr. DOLPH. It contains legislation which is out of order under the rules of the Senate.

Mr. CALL. I hope the Senator from Oregon will not raise the point of order against the amendment at this time.

Mr. MANDERSON. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry. What has become of the amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Missouri gave way to the Senator from Florida.

Mr. VEST. I gave way with the understanding, on my part at least, that the amendment of the Senator from Florida would lead to no debate.

Mr. CALL. Yes, undoubtedly. I withdraw the amendment for the present.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment is withdrawn. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST].

Mr. MANDERSON. Mr. President, it may be that the amendment of the Senator from Missouri is subject to the point of order as being in the nature of general legislation upon this bill. I do not propose, however, to make the point of order myself, because I realize, as do many others, the great necessity that exists for a new Government Printing Office. This need has been so great for many years that it has led to repeated efforts on the part of Congress to meet it. Time and again in this Chamber and in the other branch of Congress the attention of Congress has been called to the deplorable condition of affairs at the present Government Printing Office. It is a building that is disgraceful to this Government. It is not only obsolete in style; not up to the present methods of conducting business, but we have agreed, those of us who have debated the proposition, that it is dangerous to human life.

This need was so generally recognized that over two years ago on the motion, as I recall it, of the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN], a member of the Committee on Printing, an amendment was placed upon the sundry civil appropriation bill appropriating $250,000 for the purpose of purchasing a site for the erection of a new Government Printing Office. While that amendment was under discussion here, not only were the needs and necessities made prominent because of that which I have stated, but it was suggested that speed was required for a proper economical administration of affairs. We seemed all of us to agree not only that a new Printing Office was necessary, but that it should receive a location that would be in the interests of a proper economy; that above all things it should be where a railroad should reach it, so that we could dispense with the large amount of money that is yearly squandered in the transporting of material by wagons; that the crude material to be used in this great hive of industry could be carried in by rail, and the output of the establishment placed upon the cars, mail cars and others, that could distribute it to those who were entitled to receive it. This want thus recognized led to the legislation upon that appropriation bill by which $250,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a site.

I recall the fact, as others will recall the fact, that it was because of the protests made by the Senate Committee on Printing that that legislative committee was not charged with the responsibility and duty of the selection of the site; but in that bill the Secretary of the Treasury, then Mr. Windom, the Public Printer, Mr. Palmer, and the Architect of the Capitol, Mr. Clark, were charged with the duty of making the selection. These gentlemen performed that duty, and assuming the responsibility, not sought by them but forced upon them by the action of Congress, made advertisement. In exercise of that, which I think was a judicious and proper discretion, they limited the area upon which the Public Printing Office should be located. They received bids and they opened them. They decided upon a piece of property most admirably fitted in point of area, in point of location, and in point of all sorts of adaptability for this purpose.

There came, however, after they made their report, as I recall it now, a proposition to suspend further action; and the Committee on Printing of the Senate, by a resolution of the Senate, was charged, on the motion of the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON], with the duty of making inquiry as to whether these three high and trusted officials had faithfully and well performed their duty. It was charged upon the floor of the Senate that they had selected a site entirely unfitted for the purpose for which it was proposed to purchase it; that it did not give the opportunity for foundation or footing for the building that was absolutely necessary for a building that should be or the character the new Government Printing Office should be, with its great machinery and its warehouses filled with that heaviest of material, books and paper. There was an arraignment by that resolution of this commission, and an indirect charge by the resolution that they had failed in the performance of their duty.

Under that resolution the Committee on Printing of the Senate held meeting after meeting and took testimony in very large quantity. I have here the pamphlet which contains that testimony. It is a report made in the second session of the Fifty-first Congress and numbered 2494, made on the 26th of February, 1891. It is very full and exhaustive on the subject.

A majority of the committee reported that this site was in every way desirable for the Government Printing Office; that the charges made against it that it could not afford proper footing for the buildings and would give an unsafe foundation were not true in fact. The testimony of the best experts who could be obtained was taken by the committee. The Architect of the Capitol himself testified as to its fitness. The superintendent of construction or inspector of buildings of the District of Columbia testified as to the fitness of the site. They made, as I recall it now, twelve or thirteen exploring wells, digging down to the original earth for the purpose of investigating as to the fitness of the ground for foundation purposes. Testifying from the evidence of these wells the builders, the architects of this city, declared that the attack upon the site was unwarranted and unmerited.

But the resolution and the exploration made under it accomplished the purpose. I make the charge that that exploration and that delay were in the interest of those who desired that another piece of land other than this should be purchased by the Government under the appropriation. The end was reached. At that session of Congress when this report was made there was in an appropriation bill a suspension of the appropriation of a quarter of a million dollars for the site, and there the matter was left.

Now, mark it, Mr. President, there was no effort on the part of the Committee on Printing of either House of Congress to assume the responsibility of the selection of the site. No member of the committee wanted that duty, but shrank from it and protested against it when the effort was made to throw that duty upon the committee.

But in the early days of the present session, on the 9th day of March, 1892, on a resolution introduced by the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM], the Committee on Printing of the two Houses by a simple Senate resolution was charged with the duty of exploring for a site. Here is the resolution as it finally passed. The resolution passed the Senate, and the next day, as the Senator from Illinois will recall, upon my motion the vote by which it was adopted was reconsidered because a simple resolution of the Senate could not charge the Joint Committee on Printing with a duty of this character, and it would require the concurrent action of the two Houses. The reason the next day after the passage of the simple resolution I referred to, a concurrent resolution passed the Senate and finally passed the House of Representatives, and this it was:

That, in pursuance of the legislation heretofore taken for the acquisition of a suitable site for a Government Printing Office, the Committee on Printing acting jointly with the House Committee on the same are hereby empowered and instructed to ascertain the most suitable site for that purpose in the District, looking to the future growth of the country and the growing demands upon the printing establishment, ascertain the fair value of the same, and make report of such investigation and result.

Acting under this duty imposed upon the joint committee by Congress, the joint committee held repeated sessions. They at last decided upon the character of advertisement that should be made, and in due course advertised in the Washington Star and in the Washington Post, three times in each newspaper, reciting the action of Congress and advertising that "the Joint Committee on Printing will receive sealed proposals until 11 o'clock a. m., Monday, April 25, 1892, for the purchase of a site for a new Government Printing Office; said site to be not less than 100,000 nor more than 250,000 square feet, to be located within the District of Columbia, convenient of access to a railroad, and in compact form. Each proposal will state the location of the ground, the number of square feet offered, the price per square foot, and the names and residences of the owner or owners. Proposals must be indorsed 'For a site for the Government Printing Office,'" and directed as follows.

The day came when the proposals were to be opened, the 27th day of April, and there were received in proper form, sealed and duly indorsed, thirty or different proposals of sites. After the day for the opening of the bids other parties, who had not seen the advertisement, came with other propositions of sites, and all of them were received and considered by the Joint Committee on Printing.

Now, Mr. President, let me show what some of these sites were.

Mr. A. M. Dewey offered to donate 270,000 square feet of ground at Langdon, 3 miles from the Capitol.

Mr. John Paul Jones offered 148,555.25 square feet of ground 1 mile north of the Capitol in West Eekington at $1 per square foot.

Weiler & Rapetti offered 165,421 square feet within 1 mile of the Capitol grounds, one-fourth of a mile from the Pennsylvania Central track, for 75 cents per square foot.

Mr. E. Kurtz Johnson offered for himself and O. G. Staples 103,222.52 square feet near the Metropolitan Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, at $1 per square foot.

J. H. Gray & Co. offered 120,000 square feet at West Eekington, at a price to be fixed by appraisement.

George H. Ray offered a site, as much land as might be needed, at $1,300 per acre, situated on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, seven minutes' walk from Stool's Station, or Brightwood, the name of the site being Potomac.

William Mahony and R. S. Winsor, joint owners, offered 137,000 square feet of the south half of square No. 673, at $1.30 per square foot; or the entire south half of the square, containing 213,722 square feet, at $1.35 per square foot, or the sum of $288,522.20; or "the owners are willing," they state, "that the price may be fixed by the committee or determined by a commission of condemnation;" the land being situated on the Metropolitan Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Now, I depart for a moment from reading this list of land that was offered to the joint committee to say that this is the land that it is now proposed to purchase for the Government Printing Office site. In other words, this competitor or these competitors now come in to forestall the decision of the Joint Committee on Printing of the two Houses, to wrest from that committee the performance of this duty with which they are charged, to put to one side the others who came with them under sealed proposals and made their bids, and they ask Congress to purchase this piece of ground. Not only that—

Mr. VEST. May I ask the Senator a question?

Mr. MANDERSON. Certainly.

Mr. VEST. Is it or is it not true that the Committee on Printing, through the Senator from Nebraska, has offered an amendment to this bill for the purchase of another one of these competing tracts?

Mr. MANDERSON. Not at all. That is not the fact.

Mr. VEST. I know an amendment has come from the Committee on Printing.

Mr. MANDERSON. Yes, sir; there is an amendment which came from the Committee on Printing, that I propose to offer as a substitute for the amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri.

Mr. VEST. What is the character of that amendment?

Mr. MANDERSON. That amendment is to resurrect or make available the $250,000 that now lies dormant in the Treasury, suspended in the air, that the Joint Committee on Printing may perform its duty and use that money for the selection of the site illustrations are substantially the same. If that is a year's contribution by Prof. Marsh as an employé of the Geological Survey, it is a very meager contribution, because it might have been prepared in a very short time from the originals. I understand that he is one of the scientists carried on the rolls at the rate of $4,000 a year. I do not know whether he did any other work in that year or not. I have not been able to ascertain as to that. I wish he had stated in his communication whether or not it was only a part of his work, and whether he did anything else to earn the $4,000. Then his explanation would be complete. He has not, however, stated what compensation he got for this reproduction of a former volume, and I shall wait for further explanations as to whether he did anything more than reproduce 40 pages of a former publication.

Mr. HAWLEY. After Prof. Marsh gets an opportunity to reply, if he sees fit to do so, then the Senator may have something more. Prof. Marsh is a gentleman and everybody knows it.

Mr. PLATT. I can hardly think that the Senator from Nevada [Mr. STEWART] wishes to do Prof. Marsh any injustice. The Senator from Nevada, especially when he is not engaged in an attack on the Geological Survey, is a just man and does not desire to do anyone an injustice.

The truth about Prof. Marsh is that he was not in the employ of the Geological Survey at that time.

Mr. STEWART. When he produced the second book?

Mr. PLATT. When he produced either the first or the second book.

Mr. STEWART. He does not so state in his communication.

Mr. PLATT. That is the truth.

Mr. STEWART. I hope that is correct. He did not so state.

Mr. PLATT. When this charge was made the other day I telephoned to the Director of the Geological Survey and asked him what the explanation was. I have received from him a letter, which perhaps ought to be read in connection with this discussion. It shows, as I understand it, that Prof. Marsh received no pay from the Government either for the work done in collecting the materials which went in the first book or for any work done during the year in which the second paper was published. The matter is all explained in Prof. Marsh's letter to the Senator from Nevada, which has been read, and in this letter from the Director of the Geological Survey, which I ask to have read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The letter referred to will be read:

The Secretary read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.
UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.
Washington, D. C., July 11, 1892.

SIR: In reply to your request, by telephonic message, to be furnished with the facts in relation to alleged duplication of certain publications in the Geological Survey, I have the honor to make the following statement:

In 1880 a volume was published on the Odonornithes, as one of the reports of the Fortieth Parallel Survey, in charge of Clarence King. It is a large quarto volume, with a great many plates to illustrate the text. The report is exceedingly technical and of great value to science, and was prepared by Prof. O. C. Marsh, from fossils collected by himself and not at the expense of the Government; but the report of these fossils was of great importance to the Fortieth Parallel Survey, as the fossils were found in certain rocks mapped by that survey. In 1881 Prof. Marsh informed me that he had discovered some additional evidence on the subject, and had reached some important conclusions therefrom which ought to be published; that this additional matter would not require extensive publication, but that in order to be understood a résumé of some portions of the earlier work ought to go with the statements derived from the new material. The rocks in which these fossils are found are widely spread throughout the Rocky Mountain region, and the Geological Survey is engaged in mapping them and making geological sections of the same, and the new material would manifestly be valuable to the work of the survey. I therefore requested Prof. Marsh to prepare an additional paper on this subject, making the necessary résumé, which he did, and the new paper was published by the Geological Survey in the annual report for 1881-82.

This new paper, which is in part a résumé of certain portions of the large volume published by the King survey, with additional matter, makes a paper of 44 pages. The original volume published by King was illustrated at the expense of Prof. Marsh. The Government did not pay for the work of field investigation, the Government did not pay a salary to Prof. Marsh for writing the report, and the Government did not pay for the illustrations, but paid only for paper and printing. Doubtless Mr. King availed himself of this material for the purpose of economizing in his work, as he thus saved the expense of employing men to do the work; so that altogether it was highly advantageous to the Government.

In the same manner, in the short paper published by the Geological Survey, Prof. Marsh made the investigations without pay from the Government, wrote the report without pay from the Government, and furnished the illustrations without expense to the Government; so that the publication cost the Government only the sum necessary to pay for printing and paper. Prof. Marsh desired to definitely connect this new work with the old, and in making the résumé he took pains to quote the language verbatim when possible, and thus color is given to the statement that it is a republication.

The publication of this small paper of 44 pages by the Geological Survey is in no sense a duplication of the first work, except in so far as it contains a résumé of certain material published in the first volume which was needed to explain the new material.

I am, with great respect, your obedient servant,

J. W. POWELL, Director.

Hon. O. H. PLATT,
United States Senate.

Mr. CALL. I think it is scarcely fair to the Senate, after we discussed this question a few days ago and by a decided vote of the Senate determined that it was not proper at this time to interfere with the amendment and with the action of the Committee on Appropriations in regard to this Survey, now to attempt to do it again.

If we analyze the propositions which have been made here, they amount to nothing more than that this investigation is either worthless or that it is conducted improperly, that these are incapable men, and that the favorable opinion of them is obtained by the use of patronage.

Mr. President, in regard to the question of whether scientific investigation is of any value or not, it would seem that this is not a subject which ought to be brought to our consideration at this time. The world is too full of all the practical triumphs of applied science. We see it every day in the new motors, in the application of electricity to its thousand uses, and in the discovery of new motive powers. In this connection I wish again to bring to the attention of this body the statement of the great investigator and founder of the schools of investigation in natural science, Lord Bacon, who, in his work in the Instauratio Magna, says:

Man, the servant and interpreter of nature, does and understands so far as he may have observed respecting the order of nature in things, or in his mind, and further he has neither knowledge nor power.

Truth is the daughter of time, not of authority. No wonder that these spells, authority, traditions have so bewildered men that they have not dared to hold direct intercourse with things.

It would indeed be disgraceful to mankind if after such parts of the material world had been laid open which were unknown in former times, so many seas traversed, so many countries explored, so many new stars discovered, philosophy or the intelligible world should be circumscribed by the same boundaries as before.

It is manifest that the human understanding creates itself much trouble, nor makes an apt and sober use of such aids as are within the command of man, from whence infinite ignorance of things and innumerable disadvantages arise. * * * With all our industry we should endeavor if haply this same commerce of mind and of things (from which a greater blessing can hardly be found up in earth, at least among earthly felicities), might by any means be entirely restored, or if they might at least be brought to terms of nearer correspondence.

Mr. President, that is the foundation of all the schools of natural science. It has been accepted by the intelligence of the world and its fruits have been produced. How are we to say here and now upon this arraignment of one or two Senators, in defiance of the report of repeated committees of these two bodies, that this investigation is carried on improperly and ignorantly? What evidence is there of that? Every item in this appropriation is examined as carefully as every other appropriation by the proper Department of this Government, and there has never been any complaint the truth of which has been established that there was any misappropriation or unwise use of these funds.

I insist that it is neither fair to the Committee on Appropriations, who have examined carefully this subject, nor to the Director of the Geological Survey that we should pass judgment upon him upon these charges without some evidence. The committee have examined these items and have approved them.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment offered by the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT].

Mr. STEWART. This Survey has grown up and gone on by items in appropriation bills, and the duties and number of its officers have never been defined. It is running on, so to speak, without much knowledge on the part of anybody. We have been promised for many years that it would be overhauled and that we should get some change. If we are going to have a Geological Survey, we ought to have it regulated by law. That has not been done. It is too big a job. It runs on to the end of a session and then when it is proposed to regulate it the excuse is always made that there is not time enough to look into it just now, but that hereafter it will be examined into.

I think it would be well to limit it a little in the amount of its appropriation as we do other branches of the Government. That course may develop investigation. Let us see if we can not economize a little in the amount. No great harm will result from that. By suspending a part of this service we may be able to develop what it is and get a view of it, and if we can get it within the bounds of the law great good will have been accomplished.

I cordially support and shall vote for the amendment of the Senator from Colorado. I hope it will prevail. It will certainly do no harm, and may lead to such laws as will regulate this Bureau as other bureaus are regulated.

Mr. ALLISON. I desire to call the attention of the Chair to Rule VIII, which I hope will be enforced hereafter.

I think we understand the question in relation to the Geological Survey well enough now to vote upon it, and all I ask is a vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Colorado.

Mr. STEWART. I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. CALL. Let us understand the question exactly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] to strike out, on page 65, line 16, "$562,400" and insert "$400,000."

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WALTHALL (when Mr. DIXON's name was called). The Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON] is paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. Gordon].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I have been paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS], but I have authority to pair that Senator with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TRAILER], and I vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I should vote "yea" if not paired.

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. TURPIE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. BUTLER. Is the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON] recorded as voting?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He is not recorded.

Mr. BUTLER. I am paired with that Senator, and withhold my vote.

Mr. CARLISLE. Has the the senior Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] voted?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He has not voted.

Mr. CARLISLE. I am paired with that Senator, and withhold my vote.

Mr. BUTLER. I am informed that the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON], with whom I am paired, if present would vote "yea" on this question. I therefore vote "yea."

Mr. PUGH. I desire to state that my colleague [Mr. MORGAN] is paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

Mr. GEORGE (after having voted in the negative). Has the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH] voted?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He has not voted.

Mr. GEORGE. Then I withdraw my vote, as I am paired with him.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], but on this question I am liberty to vote, and I vote "nay."

Mr. HIGGINS. I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. In his absence, I withhold my vote.

Mr. HARRIS. The Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS] has announced a pair with the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. If it is agreeable to the Senator, we will transfer our pairs. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. HIGGINS. I am content.

Mr. HARRIS. I transfer my pair, so that the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON] will stand paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I vote "yea."

Mr. HIGGINS. I vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 21, nays 28; as follows:

YEAS—21.

Allen,	Daniel,	Hansbrough,	Quay,
Berry,	Fenton,	Harris,	Stewart,
Butler,	Gallinger,	Kyle,	Vest,
Caney,	Green, La,	Peffer,	Walthall,
Chandler,	Gray,	Pettigrew,	White,
Cole,	Hale,	Powers,	Woollett,

NAYS—28.

Albright,	Boyd,	Platt,
Allison,	Faulkner,	Push,
Bate,	Frye,	Kenna,
Blackburn,	Hawley,	McMullan,
Call,	Higgins,	Manderson,
Cockrell,	Hiscock,	Paddock,
Cullum,	Hutton,	Palmer,
		Warren,

NOT VOTING—33.

Blackett,	Dolph,	Mills,	Shoup,
Brace,	George,	Mitchell,	Stanford,
Cameron,	Gibson, Md,	Morgan,	Teller,
Chandler,	Gordon,	Morrill,	Turpie,
Cass,	Gorman,	Pasco,	Vance,
Condit,	Hill,	Perkins,	Voorhees,
Davis,	Hogan,	Proctor,	Vilas,
Dawes,	Jones, Nev,	Ransom,	Washburn,
Dixon,	McPheron,	Sherman,	Wilson,

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. MANDERSON. I offer an amendment to the bill, which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 67, in line 5, after the date "1893," it is proposed to strike out "and until the completion of said work," and in line 7, after the word "act," to insert:

And for the printing not to exceed the usual number of any similar reports, the copy of which may be ready for the Public Printer not before the 1st day of January, 1893.

Mr. MANDERSON. The design of this amendment is to make available the appropriation of $250,000 made in the act of March 3, 1891, for printing the final reports of the Eleventh Census, and adding to the specific works which are mentioned in that act any other reports which may be ready for publication before the 1st day of January, 1893.

This amendment is reached by consultation between the two Committees on the Eleventh Census and on Printing and seems to be what is desired by the Census Office.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment offered by the Senator from Nebraska.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SANDERS. On page 65, line 13, after the word "meridian," I move to strike out the words "in the States of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, and the Territory of Oklahoma."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 65, line 19, after the word "meridian," it is proposed to strike out:

In the States of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, and the Territory of Oklahoma.

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to inquire if there is any other amendment to this particular part of the bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. An amendment has been inserted.

Mr. PERKINS. An amendment has been adopted providing that at least one-half of what remains shall be used west of the one hundred and third meridian.

Mr. ALLISON. That will not affect the amendment of the Senator from Montana, as I understand it. He proposes to strike out the words which have been read, so that this appropriation, I take it, will be west of the ninety-seventh meridian, wherever that meridian may be.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Montana [Mr. SANDERS].

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. CAREY. I move to strike out all after line 12, on page 64, all of page 65, and down to line 18, on page 66, and to insert in lieu thereof what I send to the desk:

I will suggest that the amendment I propose is a sliding scale to this whole division. If Senators will listen to the reading of the substitute, and follow the print of the bill, they will see just where the reduction comes under each particular item.

Mr. ALLISON. Let the substitute be reported.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The proposed amendment will be stated. The lines proposed to be stricken out will first be read, and then the lines proposed to be inserted will be read.

Mr. ALLISON. It is unnecessary to read all the words contained on pages 64, 65, and 66. They are well understood.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated. The SECRETARY. It is proposed to strike out all of page 64 after line 12, all of page 65, and from line 1 to 18, inclusive, on page 66, and in lieu thereof to insert:

For salaries of the principal assistants of the Geological Survey: For two geologists, at $4,000 each.

For one geologist, at $3,000.

For one geologist, at $2,000.

For two paid-out geologists, at $2,000 each.

For one chemist, $3,000.

For one ethnologist, $2,700.

For one geographer, at $2,500.

For two topographers, at $2,000 each.

For general expenses of the Geological Survey: For the Geological Survey and the assistance of the public lands and examination of the geological structure, mineral resources, and the products of the national domain, and to continue the preparation of a geological map of the United States, including the pay of temporary employees in the field, and all other necessary expenses, to be expended under the appropriation of the Secretary of the Interior, namely:

For pay of skilled laborers and workmen, temporary employees, $100,000.

For topographic surveys in various portions of the United States, $50,000, of which shall be expended by the Geological Survey in the States of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, and the Territory of Oklahoma, and at least one-half of the remainder shall be expended west of the one hundred and third meridian.

For a geological survey system of transportation of the United States, $50,000.

For paid-out field researches, including the Geological Survey of the United States, $10,000.

For chemical and physical researches, including the Geological Survey of the United States, $5,000.

For the preparation of the report on the mineral resources of the United States, $10,000.

For the purchase of necessary books for the library, and the payment for the transmission of published documents through the Smithsonian Institution, $2,000.

For engraving the geological maps of the United States, $10,000.

For rent of office rooms in Washington, D. C., $2,000.

In aid of the United States Geological Survey.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Secretary has reported

These figures are only approximate.

It will be seen that we shall have 45 ships, with 364 guns, employing 683 officers, 9,590 seamen, and 911 marines. The situation then will be that with the 364 guns authorized, of which 269 are already completed, there will remain to be constructed only 95 additional guns. The seamen required being 9,590 and there being now authorized by law 8,188, there will be required when these ships are finished an increase of 1,312 seamen.

No increase whatever will be required in the number of naval officers. There are at present on the list 1,316 officers. There will be required for this new fleet of 45 vessels only 683, leaving for shore duty and surplus force 633 officers.

On this showing, Mr. President, assuming that all the old wooden vessels will soon go out of existence and that two years from now we shall have no vessels except the new ones already built or authorized by Congress, there will be a fleet constructed in ten years which will be the equal of any fleet of a similar general and diversified character that can be made up from any navy in the world.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendments of the House of Representatives, on the motion of the Senator from Maine.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. HALE. That vote passes the bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It passes the bill.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury transmitting, in further reply to a resolution of the 9th instant, a supplemental list of judgments rendered by the Court of Claims which require an appropriation for their payment; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

SHIPMENT OF RUM TO AFRICA.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, BUREAU OF STATISTICS,
Washington, D. C., July 12, 1892.

DEAR SIR: In reply to the resolution of the Senate of July 12 referred to this office by the Secretary of the Treasury, I have the honor to transmit herewith a table showing the exports of domestic distilled liquors from the United States to countries in Africa during the eleven months ending May 31, 1892.

Returns have not yet been received from the collector of customs at New York and Boston for June last. As soon as received a supplementary statement for that month will be forwarded to the Senate.

Respectfully yours,

S. G. BUCKER, Chief Clerk.

HON. CHARLES F. MANDERSON, President of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This communication is in answer to a resolution introduced by the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN].

Mr. SHERMAN. I call attention to the fact that the communication does not give the names of the exporters, which was the principal object I had in view. However, I will call the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury informally to the omission.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. What disposition does the Senator desire made of the communication?

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that it be referred to the Committee on Finance, and printed.

The motion was agreed to.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented petitions of the E. C. Murphy Association; of the Ninth Ward Democratic Association; of the David B. Hill Club, Seventh ward; of the Village Republican Club, Twenty-first ward; of the U. S. Council No. 1; of the National Provident Union; of the Henry Grattan Association; of the Court Prudential, Order of American Forerunners, No. 7504, and of the Harrison and Reid Battalion, Twenty-first ward, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., in regard to the imprisonment in England of Dr. Thomas Gallagher, and asking that steps be taken for his release; which were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

He also presented the petition of Thomas I. Hall, right worthy national grand supreme ruler, Order of Galileans, and 29 other colored citizens of Baltimore, Md., praying that the appropriation for the World's Columbian Exposition be withheld unless ample provision be made for the representation of the colored people's interest at said Exposition; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. COCKRELL presented a petition of citizens of Wheeling, Mo., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. BATE presented the petition of Mrs. A. A. Gibson, secretary of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and sundry other citizens of Athens, Tenn., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. WASHBURN presented resolutions adopted by the city council of Duluth and the Chamber of Commerce of Duluth, Minn., urging the necessity of a wagon, foot, and street-car bridge between Rice's Point, Duluth, and Connors Point, Superior; which were referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE presented a memorial of 86 citizens of Jackson County, Mich., remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. SAWYER presented the petition of Louis Ellodin and over 40 other members of the Danish Protestant churches of Racine, Wis., praying for the passage of legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. ALLISON presented a petition of the Farmers' Alliance of Springdale, Iowa, praying for the passage of the Hatch anti-option bill; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a petition of 34 citizens of Belmond, Iowa, and a petition of 22 citizens of Land Spring, Iowa, praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which were referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

He also presented a memorial of 3 members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, and 6 other citizens of Shenandoah, Iowa, and a memorial of 36 citizens of Hawleysville, Iowa, remonstrating against the commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were ordered to lie on the table.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. VEST. I am instructed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8453) providing when plaintiff may sue as a poor person and when counsel shall be assigned by the court, to report it without amendment. As soon as the pending appropriation bill is disposed of I shall ask the Senate to take the bill up for consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. WOLCOTT, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3211) to authorize the establishment of an academy and gallery of art in the District of Columbia, reported it with amendments.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1491) to establish a free public and departmental library and reading room, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3391) to incorporate the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2125) to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Anacostia River, in the District of Columbia, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1591) to amend the act entitled "An act for the further protection of property from fire and safety of lives in the District of Columbia," approved January 26, 1887, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2192) in relation to ways of egress and means of escape from fire in certain buildings within the District of Columbia, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. CAREY, from the Committee on Education and Labor, to whom was referred the amendment submitted by Mr. CHANDLER on the 14th instant, intended to be proposed to the general deficiency appropriation bill, reported it without amendment, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 459) for the relief of Alexander Stoddard, of New York, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the following bills, asked to be discharged from their further consideration, and that they be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; which was agreed to:

A bill (S. 2296) for the relief of the legal representatives of Maj. William Kendall;

A bill (S. 1870) for the relief of Carl F. Kolbe; and

A bill (S. 3351) for the relief of Francis L. Abbott, administrator of the late Thomas J. Treadwell, of the United States Army.

Mr. BATE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2730) granting an honorable discharge to William Barnes, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3309) for relief of Catherine E. Whitall, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3185) for the relief of Isaac L. Muschman, of Tennessee, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2338) for the protection of the rights of owners of lots in Columbian Harmony Cemetery, in the District of Columbia, reported adversely thereon; and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

COLUMBUS (OHIO) MILITARY RESERVATION.

Mr. HAWLEY. The Committee on Military Affairs instructed me to report back favorably House bill 9283. I ask that it be read for information, and I should be glad to have it considered now. It is a mere technical assent on the part of the United States to the running of a street railroad on the borders of the Columbus military reservation.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Connecticut reports from the Committee on Military Affairs the bill (H. R. 9283) authorizing the Leonard Avenue Street Railway Company to lay tracks upon certain streets abutting the United States military reservation in the city of Columbus, Ohio, and asks that it may be now considered. Is there objection to the request?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

LEGISLATIVE, ETC., APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. ALLISON submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on certain amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9090) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, having met after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its amendments numbered 11, 13, 15, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 162, 203, 204, and 206.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 175, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the sum proposed insert "$22,000," and the Senate agree to the same.

ate numbered 205, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the matter stricken out by said amendment insert the following: "That so much of section 2 of the act approved March 3, 1891, to establish circuit courts of appeals as authorizes the appointment of a marshal to each of said courts at a salary of $2,500 be, and the same is hereby, repealed, and the duties and powers imposed upon said marshals under the said act shall be performed by the United States marshals in and for the districts where terms of said courts may be held, and to this end said marshals shall be the marshals of said circuit courts of appeals."

And the Senate agree to the same.

W. B. ALLISON,
F. M. COCKRELL,
Managers on the part of the Senate.
WM. H. FORNEY,
ALEXANDER M. DOCKERY,
D. B. HENDERSON,
Managers on the part of the House.

Mr. MITCHELL. I inquire of the chairman of the committee what disposition was made of the Senate amendment to the House bill with reference to the provision for marshals of the United States circuit court of appeals?

Mr. ALLISON. The Senate conferees yielded to the House on that point.

Mr. MITCHELL. Then the effect of the bill as it stands, if it shall become a law, will be to abolish that office?

Mr. CAMERON. Have the Senate conferees agreed to dispense with the services of the marshals?

Mr. MITCHELL. They have agreed to abolish the office of United States marshal of the circuit court of appeals.

Mr. CAMERON. I ask the Senate to disagree to the conference report and insist upon that amendment, unless the Senator from Iowa can give very strong reasons why we should not do so.

Mr. ALLISON. That was one of the difficulties and one of the greatest difficulties we had in dealing with this bill. We were confronted by the House conferees with a statement that the Attorney-General had recommended that these officers be abolished. He did state in his testimony before the House conferees that these officers were not necessary and he thought it wiser to devolve upon the regular marshals of the United States the duties now performed by these marshals. Finally, at the last moment, we yielded the point and yielded with regret, so far as I was concerned.

Mr. CAMERON. Then the Senate conferees yielded entirely upon the suggestion of the Attorney-General?

Mr. ALLISON. No, sir; we yielded upon the insistence of the House conferees that they would not yield that point.

Mr. CAMERON. I hope the conference report will not be agreed to.

Mr. MITCHELL. The practical effect, then, is to repeal by a clause in an appropriation bill a specific provision in the act of Congress which was passed a year or two ago, organizing the circuit court of appeals?

Mr. ALLISON. That is the effect of it.

I will state that it is very important that this conference report shall be agreed to. It has already been agreed to by the other House, and unless the bill is signed to-day by the President it will be necessary to provide for an extension of time of the old appropriations. I feel sure that nothing will be gained by rejecting this report.

Mr. MITCHELL. Has the chairman of the committee any hope that the other House would yield on further contention?

Mr. ALLISON. None whatever. I am sure they will not yield this point.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the report of the committee of conference.

Mr. CAMERON. On that I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BATE. I should like very much to have some gentleman state the reason why he opposes concurrence in the report. We do not understand it over here.

Mr. CAMERON. The reason why I oppose the adoption of the conference report is because the conferees have agreed to abolish the office of marshal of the appellate court. The Senate by a decided majority insisted upon the amendment striking out that provision, and it seems that after a very brief interview with the other House the Senate conferees have agreed to strike it out.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Secretary will call the roll on the question of concurring in the conference report.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COLQUITT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS].

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I should vote "nay" on this proposition if he were here.

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], but on this question I feel at liberty to vote. I vote "yea."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. When Mr. MANDERSON's name was called. The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. WALTHALL. The junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON] is paired with the junior Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON]. I ask that this announcement shall apply to all the yea and nay votes taken to-day.

Mr. CALL. I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR]. As he is not present, and I do not know how he would vote on this question, I withhold my vote.

The result was announced—yeas 38, nays 12; as follows:

YEAS—38.

Allison,	Dubois,	McMillan,	Stockbridge,
Berry,	Faulkner,	Paddock,	Turpin,
Blodgett,	Frye,	Palmer,	Vest,

So the report was concurred in.

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. STEWART submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate numbered 23 to the bill (H. R. 6923) "making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 23 and agree to the same, with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the matter stricken out by said amendment insert the following: "Provided, further, That no money herein appropriated shall be used in payment of the transportation of troops and supplies of the Army over any of the nonbonded lines owned by the Union Pacific Railway Company or by the Central Pacific Railroad Company; but this provision shall not withhold payment from lines leased and operated, but not owned, by said companies, and the Senate agree to the same."

The report was concurred in.

JOHN HENRY LEY.

Mr. TELLER. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary to report favorably, without amendment, the bill (S. 333) to relieve and exempt John Henry Ley, of the District of Columbia, from the operation of an act entitled "An act to restrict the ownership of real estate in the Territories to American citizens." As it is a matter of some importance to the individual concerned and will only take a moment, I ask for the present consideration of the bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to know the reason why this man should be exempt, and whether he has applied to become a naturalized citizen or has become such?

Mr. TELLER. There is a petition from the applicant, but I can state this case in less time than it would take to have the petition read.

This man is an Englishman. He came to Florida in 1880. His wife having died there, he removed later to this District, and bought 10 acres of land out here, upon which he erected a Ford establishment, spending about $15,000 or $16,000, I believe, on the land. He was not aware at the time he purchased the property of the law which prevented him from becoming the pur-character of property. Since he purchased the property he has applied to become a citizen of the United States, but he is not yet a citizen. He is a laboring man, and a man who put his money in an enterprise which is certainly not injurious, and the committee thought he ought to be relieved, as we have relieved in one or two instances under very nearly the same circumstances.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (S. 3433) to ratify and confirm certain agreements with the Lower Pend d'Oreille or Calispel Indians, and the confederated bands of Flatheads, Pend d'Oreille, and Kootenai Indians, in Washington, Idaho, and Montana, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. BLOOD-ETTY. At the request of my colleague [Mr. McPherson] I desire to introduce eight bills, and ask that they be respectively referred to the Committee on Pensions.

The following bills were severally read twice by their titles, and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (S. 3434) granting a pension to Eliza Jane McWhood;

A bill (S. 3435) granting a pension to Jacob Dissenger;

A bill (S. 3436) granting a pension to Kate S. Church, widow of Joseph Church, late of Company C, Thirteenth Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers;

A bill (S. 3437) granting a pension to Louise V. Bonford, widow of Gen. James V. Bonford;

A bill (S. 3438) granting a pension to L. W. Barton, widow of R. P. Barton, late a private of Company I, Twenty-eighth Regiment New Jersey Volunteers;

A bill (S. 3439) granting a pension to Charlotte Cable, widow of Walton Cable, late a pilot in the Revenue Marine Service;

A bill (S. 3440) granting a pension to Mary D. McChesney; and

A bill (S. 3441) granting a pension to Harriet B. Cole, widow of Alfred Cole, late a private in Company E, Twenty-second Regiment United States Colored Troops.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3442) to amend section 11, chapter 106, of "An act to provide a national currency secured by pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1861; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3443) for the relief of G. D. Humphrey; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BITTLER introduced a bill (S. 3444) for the relief of James B. McElhose; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 3445) to establish a military post at or near the city of Grand Forks, in Grand Forks County, State of North Dakota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HAWLEY introduced a bill (S. 3446) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Peter Buckley; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

ELECTION OF SENATORS BY THE PEOPLE.

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. I introduce a joint resolution and give notice that at the proper time I shall offer it as a substitute for the joint resolution reported by the Senator from Oregon (Mr. MITCHELL), with amendments, May 24, 1892, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing that Senators shall be elected by the people of the several States. I ask that the joint resolution may be printed and laid on the table.

The joint resolution (S. R. 99) proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing that Senators shall be elected by the people of the several States, was read twice by its title, and ordered to lie on the table.

OFFICERS AND EMPLOYÉS OF GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Mr. CAREY submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Director of the Geological Survey be, and is hereby, directed to cause forthwith to be sent to the Senate a complete list of all officers and employes who are now or have been within a year past, in any of the work of said Survey, together with the name or employment, the place of employment, and the compensation of each of said persons under said Survey.

RELATIONS OF GOLD AND SILVER.

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. I offer a resolution, which I ask to have read for information, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for certain information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby requested to report to the Senate:

First. What proportion of the customs duties and internal-revenue taxes received within the last twelve months, has been paid each month in gold coin, in standard silver dollars in silver certificates, in United States notes, commonly called "greenbacks," in legal-tender Treasury notes issued under the act approved July 14, 1890, national-bank notes, and gold certificates.

Second. The amount of gold coin and gold certificates in the Treasury of the United States at the present time, the amount of gold and gold certificates held by the banks of the United States, and the total amount of gold coin in this country.

Third. Whether, under the act approved July 14, 1890, the Secretary of the Treasury has deemed the notes issued in the remainder for the purchase of silver bullion with gold coin or silver coin, what amount of said notes should be so redeemed in gold coin or silver coin, or in gold or silver bullion, in the last three months.

Fourth. The report, as far as may be practicable, of the amount of gold and silver, respectively, held by the Bank of France, the Bank of Germany, and the Bank of England.

Fifth. To report what ratio should be maintained between the quantity of gold and silver in order to preserve a substantial equality between the coins of the two metals in the United States.

Sixth. Whether or not the bimetallic system, adopted under the Administration of President Washington, and reestablished and maintained under the Administration of President Jackson, might again be established upon a stable basis, by correcting the ratio, and conforming it to the market value of the two metals, either by increasing the metal in the silver unit, or by decreasing the metal in the gold unit, or by dividing the disparity between the two units and standards of value.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. STEWART. I think that resolution had better go over. It will lead to considerable debate.

Mr. PADDOCK. Let it be printed and lie over.

Mr. STEWART. The resolution calls upon the Treasury Department for a financial system. If it was merely asking for information it would be all right, but we do not want the opinions of the Treasury Department upon that subject.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be printed and lie over, its present consideration being objected to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed a joint resolution (H. Res. 151) to continue the provisions of a joint resolution approved June 30, 1892, entitled "A joint resolution to provide temporarily for the expenditures of the Government," in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

IRRIGATION AND RECLAMATION OF ARID LANDS.

Mr. WARREN. I desire to give notice that I shall ask the consent of the Senate on next Wednesday, immediately after the morning hour, to call up the bill (S. 2529) providing for the irrigation and reclamation of arid lands, for the protection of forests, and utilization of pastureage, and for other purposes, which now lies on the table, for the purpose of making some remarks.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair lays before the Senate under the rules certain resolutions which have come over from a previous day.

Mr. GORMAN. Pending that, I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the fortification appropriation bill.

Mr. STEWART. Let those resolutions be first disposed of.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair recognized the Senator from Maryland, who is entitled to the floor.

Mr. GORMAN. I move that the Senate now proceed to the consideration of House bill 5233, being the fortification appropriation bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maryland moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill H. R. 5733, making appropriations for fortifications for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for prior years, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Maryland.

KENTUCKY RIVER BRIDGE AT KNOXVILLE.

Mr. BATE. I ask the Senator from Maryland to withhold his motion for the present until I can call up a small bill, which will take but a moment. I ask unanimous consent to do it, because it involves the interests of some of the people of Knoxville. The people are anxious to have the bill passed, which merely provides for the extension of the time for constructing the bridge there. I ask for the immediate consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pending the motion of the Senator from Maryland, the Senator from Tennessee asks unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

Mr. BATE. It will take but a moment.

Mr. PADDOCK. Before that is done I desire to suggest that the Chair lay before the Senate the resolution in relation to the Home-lead trouble in Pennsylvania for a moment, in order that we may act upon it.

Mr. BATE. The bill I refer to will only take a moment. There is an amendment to it in the nature of a substitute.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the call up a bill, which was laid aside to accommodate me several weeks ago.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pending the motion of the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN], the Senator from New Hampshire asks the unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 145) to authorize the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, etc.

Mr. ALLISON. That bill, I think, must lead to considerable debate. I do not know but the Senator from New Hampshire himself desires to discuss it.

Mr. CHANDLER. I do not think it will take up much time. I desire to offer an amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill? The Chair hears none, and the bill is before the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, and will be read.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think the bill has already been passed and the question is on its reconsideration. There is no necessity for reading the bill again.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair was not aware of the condition of the bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. The question is on the motion to reconsider, is it not?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill has been reconsidered, the Chair understands. The Chair will ascertain the preliminary status of the bill in a moment. [A pause.] The bill is in Committee of the Whole, has been read at length, and is now open to amendment.

Mr. CHANDLER. I move an amendment, which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 11, after the word "court," it is proposed to strike out all down to and including the word "act," in line 14, as follows:

and said cause shall be advanced on the docket and tried without delay by any court which may become invested with jurisdiction thereof by virtue of the provisions of this act.

So as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That jurisdiction is hereby conferred on the Court of Claims to hear and enter up judgment, as if it had original jurisdiction of said case, on the claim of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana, without interest thereon, against the United States, growing out of the seizure and covering into the Treasury of the United States of certain moneys of said bank by Gen. B. F. Butler, commanding the United States forces in Louisiana in 1862; and either party shall have the right of appeal to the Supreme Court, and the statute of limitations shall not be pleaded or entertained as a bar to recovery in said cause.

Mr. WHITE. I accept the amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from New Hampshire.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. CHANDLER. I desire permission to have printed in the RECORD the views of the minority, submitted by the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH], against this bill, which he desired might go upon the record.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The views of the minority will be printed in the RECORD, if there be no objection.

Mr. CHANDLER. It is a minority report, submitted at a former session.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is so ordered.

Mr. PLATT. I desire to say about this case, as I remember it when it was formerly before the Senate upon a proposition to pay a large sum of money to the Citizens' Bank of New Orleans, that I do not think it is a case in which the Government ought to be made liable; but as the present bill proposes to refer it to the Court of Claims for adjudication, and as I believe that all such complicated cases ought to be decided in the Court of Claims rather than by Congress, I make no objection to the bill.

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. It is a bill which has passed the Senate several times.

Mr. PLATT. I remember the bill very well.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let us vote on it.

Mr. STEWART. Yes, let us vote.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time.

Mr. MITCHELL. I understood the Senator from New Hampshire to ask that a minority report made on a somewhat similar bill at a former session of Congress be printed in the RECORD, and it was so ordered.

Mr. CHANDLER. Yes, views of the minority, submitted by the Senator's colleague [Mr. DOLPH].

Mr. MITCHELL. I ask in this same connection that the report of the committee made at the same time, of which the minority report was a part, be printed also.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the request made by the Senator from Oregon?

Mr. SHERMAN. I think it would be very bad policy to do that. They are documents which have already been printed. Why print them in the RECORD?

Mr. MITCHELL. I think it is bad policy, but the Senator will appreciate that if the minority report made heretofore is printed, then it ought to be accompanied by the report of the committee.

Mr. SHERMAN. I think so, too; but I hope the Senators will withdraw the request to print in the RECORD.

Mr. CHANDLER. I always yield with deference to the suggestions of the Senator from Ohio, and I withdraw the request that the views of the minority be printed in the RECORD.

Mr. MITCHELL. All right.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The request being withdrawn, neither of the reports will be printed in the RECORD. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The bill was passed.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CATHEDRAL.

Mr. STEWART. I ask unanimous consent to call up a bill reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia to incorporate the Episcopal Cathedral of this city. It is rather in prosecution of its business, and it is necessary that the bill should be passed at the present session. It is a short bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will the Senator indicate the order of business?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the order of business be stated.

Mr. STEWART. The bill was reported this morning.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair is informed that the bill was reported to-day, and is not on the printed Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. Then let it be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read for information.

The Secretary read the bill (S. 3391) to incorporate the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral foundation of the District of Columbia.

Mr. COCKRELL. From what committee did that bill come?

Mr. STEWART. From the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. COCKRELL. I must look at it before I can let it pass. If I understand the bill, the way it was read, it proposes to create a perpetual, eternal corporation, with a right to buy, possess, and own anything on earth, and without any limitation whatever; and it would be only a question of time when it could aggregate to itself the whole United States.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is objected to.

HELEN A. PATTERSON.

Mr. GALLINGER. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 1949) granting a pension to Helen A. Patterson.

By unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, in line 1, after the word "roll," to strike out "subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension laws," and insert "at the rate of $12 per month;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $12 per month, the name of Helen A. Patterson, daughter of John T. G. Smart, late a private in Company G, Eighth New Hampshire Volunteers.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

W. H. TIBBITS.

Mr. PADDOCK. I ask leave to call up the bill (S. 3098) to amend an act entitled "An act for the relief of W. H. Tibbits," approved August 8, 1888.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Nebraska?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information. We can not tell what the bill is from the title.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read for information.

Mr. PADDOCK. I ask the Secretary to read the preamble, which is a full history of the bill, and will give the Senator from Missouri the information he desires.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The preamble will be read for information.

The Secretary read the preamble, as follows:

Whereas it appears from the records of the General Land Office that W. H. Tibbits did in good faith, on the 4th day of January, 1872, make homestead entry of the north-east quarter of section 21, township 9 north, range 11 east, in the State of Nebraska, and resided thereon for the full period of time required by existing statutes, and improved and cultivated the same; and Whereas it further appears that the said tract of land was patented to the Barnett, &c., Messrs. Bayer Railroad at a time subsequent to said home stead entry, and sold by said railroad company to other parties; and whereas it does appear that by act of March 2, 1889, all lands, except in the State of Missouri, were withdrawn from private entry; and it not being the real intent and purpose of said act of August 8, 1888, to compel said Title Trust to remove its land State of Missouri, in order to obtain the benefit of the said act;

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It authorizes W. H. Tibbitts, or his legal representatives, to locate 160 acres of any of the public lands of the United States subject to homestead entry, or to other entry, at $1.25 per acre.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Committee on Public Lands report to strike out the preamble. The question is on agreeing to the amendment striking out the preamble.

The amendment was agreed to.

JOHN McMAHAN.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 4871) for the relief of John McMahan.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It directs the President to revoke so much of general orders, headquarters Department of West Virginia, of April 24, 1861, as relates to and directs the dismissal from the Army of Maj. John McMahan, of the Second Regiment West Virginia Cavalry, and to grant him an honorable discharge as of that date.

Mr. SHERMAN. There is a very full report made by the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. BATE), and also a House report. It is a clear case of injustice done during the war.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SEATON NORMAN.

Mr. VOORHEES. I ask the Senate to take up the bill (S. 2772) for the relief of Seaton Norman.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It authorizes the President to nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint Seaton Norman an assistant surgeon in the Marine Hospital Service, that being the rank held by him on the 1st day of July, 1870, when he resigned his position under a misapprehension of his rights in the premises.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DABNEY, SIMMONS & CO.

Mr. GRAY. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to consider the bill (H. R. 669) for the relief of Dabney, Simmons & Co.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to examine the claim of Dabney, Simmons & Co., of Boston, Mass., for expenses incurred by them in the testing of 104 cases of opium condemned by the Government, and to repay to them the expense of the reexamination of all of the cases which upon such reexamination were found to contain the standard amount of morphine.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DISTRICT STREET RAILROADS.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask unanimous consent to call up the joint resolution (H. R. 108) extending the time in which certain street rail roads, compelled by act of Congress, approved August 1, 1887, to change their motive power from horse power to mechanical power, for one year.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution, which had been reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment in line 9, after the word "Provided," to strike out:

"And within thirty days from the passage of this act said Metropolitan Railroad Company shall increase its service to such an extent that it will be able to carry for any of its passengers to stand up. And no rate shall be collected for any passenger in any of its cars until furnished a seat thereon. Provided, That overhead wires may be used in propelling the cars by electricity, as a power provided by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia."

And to insert:

"If so fast as the cars now building are equipped with storage batteries they shall be placed on the road. And provided further, That pending the change the present equipment of the road shall be put, kept, and maintained in good condition."

Mr. HALE. Let me ask the Senator from Michigan what company this is?

Mr. McMILLAN. It is the Metropolitan Company. There are two companies who accepted the terms of that law, the Washington and Georgetown Company and the Metropolitan Company. The one company adopted the cable system and the other has adopted the storage-battery system. As we all know as to the storage-battery system there has been some delay in getting the patents that were supposed to be suitable for running these cars. The result has been that they are not able to comply with the law on the 1st of June. I have myself examined the plant which they have erected on the other side of the 1st street bridge in Georgetown, and I am satisfied from the large expenditure of money that they have made it will be a delay of only a short time. Still we have extended the time one year.

Mr. HALE. I hope that the Senator, exercising as he does a sort of supervision over these companies, which all of us are very glad that he shall exercise, will look to it a little hereafter that this company furnish better accommodations for the public than they are doing now. This company have practically outraged the public during this entire season. They have withdrawn their open cars and have obliged the public to be confined in hot, unhealthy, and unwholesome box cars, so that every sensible man who wants to come to the Capitol has either to take another route or wait, as I have done some times, for half a dozen box cars to pass before finding one open car. It is an unreasonable thing that these companies should trifle with the public as they do. They impose upon the people here constantly, and this company, particularly, this year has been the chief of the shammers in this regard.

I hope the Senator will look to it hereafter and see that the public has good accommodations on this road.

Mr. McMILLAN. The following provision is proposed to be inserted by the committee in the latter part of the joint resolution:

"That so fast as the cars now building are equipped with storage batteries they shall be placed on the road."

These are the new cars. It is an entire new equipment that they are going to put on the line.

And provided further, That pending the change the present equipment of the road shall be put, kept, and maintained in good condition.

I had that put in specially to cover the same point the Senator has made.

Mr. HALE. It is not a matter of much personal importance to us now, because we are to start very soon, and we shall not use this road; but if it were otherwise, I should not want them to keep their present equipment. I should want them to change it. I should want them to furnish cars such as would make it comfortable and healthy to the public to ride in. But it is not a matter of much concern to us now, personally, on account of the limited time we shall be here.

Mr. GORMAN. I wish to say to the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia in regard to this joint resolution that I have no doubt the time ought to be extended under the circumstances, but the joint resolution as it came from the other House provided that this road might use overhead wires. That has been stricken out by the recommendation of the Committee on the District of Columbia. I trust we shall have it understood that if in conference this overhead business is insisted upon by the conferee branch, we shall have full notice of it when it comes back here for I never could consent myself to overhead wires on that line.

Mr. McMILLAN. I think I was perfectly safe in making that pledge.

Mr. HALE. I join the Senator from Maryland. If there is any doubt about that let us have a good notice when it comes back.

Mr. McMILLAN. The Committee on the District of Columbia of the Senate were unanimous that that provision should be stricken out.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, I have found out from long experience that it is utterly useless to attempt to put any limitations upon these railroad companies which they do not accept. Here is an extension of time of one year provided for these companies after they have had two years in which to comply with an act of Congress as to changing their street-car facilities they are for transportation in this District.

Some time ago I introduced a resolution inquiring why the Commissioners of the District of Columbia do not carry out the law. They replied that they are in violation of the law these companies had until the end of the present month to comply with the statute. Some of them have attempted to comply, and a good many of them have not. There are three roads in this District that have not made a single endeavor to comply with the act of Congress. If they did not comply in the two years, which was a very liberal time given them, the Commission as were ordered then to make these changes in their roads and to pursue the remedy that Congress gave them to enforce the payment. Under the construction of the law which the Commissioners placed upon the act they did not conceive it their duty to adopt these coercive measures until the time had expired, which was the 1st of the present month.

The president or chairman of the Board addressed me a letter in which he called my attention to the fact that it was impossible for some of these companies to comply with the law, stating that some of them had complied with it and others were in the process of complying with it. I replied to him that it was within my personal knowledge that some of them had made not a single movement towards complying with it and absolutely ignored the act of Congress. Not one of them in this District has complied with that law. The Metropolitan road has partly done so, and the Belt line has done a little work, but very little, and possibly one other company; and the rest of them have absolutely trampled the act of Congress under foot.

Mr. COCKRELL. And they have not paved between the tracks.

Mr. VEST. As my colleague says, they have not complied with the act in paving between the tracks and bringing the rails down to a level with the adjacent paving. I am not much in the habit of traveling in private carriages, but I do know from personal experience that there are railroad tracks down in this city with the old-fashioned T rails projecting an inch and an inch and a quarter above the surface, and no attempt is made to remedy it. There is not a city in the United States that would submit to this sort of thing for an hour.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri will please suspend. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business, which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 5533) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask the Senator from Maryland to allow the pending resolution to be disposed of.

Mr. GORMAN. I yield for that purpose.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maryland yields, and the Senator from Missouri will proceed.

Mr. VEST. I understand the joint resolution gives these companies another year, after they have had their two years and after some of them have not made a single attempt to comply with the law. As a matter of course the measure will pass, and at the end of the year they will not have done anything. I can safely predict that from our experience in the past. Then the Commissioners will come in, when a resolution is offered such as was adopted by the Senate, with the old stereotyped reply that there were great difficulties attending the change in the rails, and it was very expensive to make these alterations in transportation, and there will be another act passed extending the time another year. I do not know how long I shall be in the Senate, probably not much longer, but I think for natural reasons I shall never see any improvement in the condition of affairs here as to street railroads.

Mr. HALE. I should like to ask the Senator from Michigan what this road has actually done in the direction of this change which leads him to believe that during the next year they will carry it out and perfect it and adopt this as their motive power? What have they actually done?

Mr. McMILLAN. I have carefully examined that part of the subject. I find they have erected very large buildings for the purpose of supplying the storage batteries with power. They have put in magnificent engines and boilers, as good as I have ever seen anywhere. They spent some $275,000 upon the machinery necessary to supply these batteries with electricity. They have erected large buildings for storing the cars, and so as to put batteries in them when they are completed.

There are about thirty-five or forty new cars already built and completed, and we have provided here that just as fast as they have the machinery ready and everything in condition they shall run these cars. We have already seen cars on G street running with the storage battery. It was impossible for the Metropolitan Company to use at that time the cable, and they had to use some such power as this. There has been a great deal of delay in getting a patent that would supply the need. They think they have got it. They have spent this money, and I think they are acting in perfect good faith.

Mr. VEST. I did not apprehend that this matter would come up to-day. I have not time now to send to the document room and get the response of the Commissioners to my resolution, but I would be obliged to the chairman of the committee, presuming that he is entirely cognizant of all the facts, to state how many of these roads have made any attempt to comply with the act of Congress which we passed two years ago, as to changing their rails, and, when they declined to change the rails, as to changing their mode of transportation.

Mr. McMILLAN. I will state to the Senator that there are only two companies that availed themselves of the law which was passed, the Washington and Georgetown, and the Metropolitan Road. The other companies were not able to comply with the provisions of that law. The Senate committee has called the attention of the Commissioners to the resolution referred to by the Senator from Missouri, and I am sure that the Commissioners the importance of making the Metropolitan comply with all the regulations to which he has referred.

Mr. VEST. I will wait with some curiosity to see the result.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to strike out and insert.

The amendment was agreed to.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the joint resolution to be read a third time.

The joint resolution was read the third time and passed.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate request conference with the House of Representatives on the joint resolution and amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate. Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. HARRIS, and Mr. WOLCOTT were appointed.

ELLEN WILLIAMS.

Mr. CAREY. I ask the Senator from Maryland if he will yield to me that I may call up a bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Maryland yield to the Senator from Wyoming?

Mr. GORMAN. I will yield to the gentleman from Wyoming.

Mr. SAWYER. I wish to make a report from the Committee on Pensions.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Maryland yield to the Senator from Wisconsin?

Mr. GORMAN. I will yield for morning business.

Mr. SAWYER. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 12) granting a pension to Ellen Williams, to report it without amendment and submit a report thereon.

Mr. WOLCOTT. If I may beg the indulgence of the Senate a moment, the bill just reported is very brief, and is in favor of Miss Ellen Williams, who was a hospital nurse, a lady who is living in circumstances of very great poverty in Colorado, and it will take but a moment to pass it. If the Senate will listen to it I should like to have it passed. It is very short.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that the Senator from Maryland has yielded to the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] for the consideration of the bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill just reported go on the Calendar. The Senator from Colorado can call it up some other time.

Mr. WOLCOTT. If I may be pardoned a moment I will state that if the Senator from Missouri were as familiar as I am with the circumstances surrounding this applicant, he would not object—a woman who is seriously ill, doubtful of recovery, in great pecuniary need. I know of no case that could appeal to the magnanimous and generous heart of the Senator from Missouri, with the strength this would if he were familiar with the circumstances surrounding it. I am sure he would not object.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am not objecting at all.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. There is no objection. The question is whether the Senator from Maryland yields to the Senator from Colorado, he having yielded to the Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. GORMAN. I yield to the Senator from Wyoming for the consideration of the bill he wishes to call up.

EIGHT-THIRTY FIVE.

Mr. CAREY. I ask unanimous consent to read the bill (S. 1276) providing for the appointment and payment of the wages of laborers and mechanics employed on the construction of the

Mr. COCKRELL. That would be to pass an unconstitutional bill.

Mr. BERRY. Let that bill go over.

Mr. CAREY. Will the Senator from Missouri make a statement? The committee have reported a bill to the Senate to refer this matter to the Court of Claims. I don't think there will be any objection to the bill. It is a legitimate bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there any objection to the consideration of the bill?

Mr. GORMAN. I understand from Senator Williams that the bill will lead to debate. Therefore I object to its consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made, the bill can not be considered at this time.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on this day approved and signed the following bills:

An act (S. 1910) to establish an intermediate rate of pension between $30 and $72 per month; and

An act (S. 1333) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," approved June 10, A. D. 1889, by extending the privileges of the first section thereof to the port of Fernandina, Fla.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate numbered 23 to the bill (H. R. 6923) making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills and joint resolution; and they were thereupon signed by the President pro tempore:

A bill (H. R. 956) to correct the military record of Lieut. Cornelius McLean;

A bill (H. R. 2401) for the relief of Lydia A. Magill, administratrix;

A bill (H. R. 7624) making appropriations for the diplomatic and consular service of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893; and

A joint resolution (H. Res. 451) to continue the provisions of a joint resolution approved June 30, 1892, entitled "A joint resolution to provide temporarily for the expenditures of the Government."

FORTIFICATION APPROPRIATION BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The unfinished business will be proceeded with.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 8533) making appropriations for fortifications for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for prior years, and for other purposes, which had been reported from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments.

Mr. GORMAN. I ask that in the reading of the bill the amendments of the committee may be first considered.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maryland asks unanimous consent that the bill may be read as in Committee of the Whole, and that the amendments of the committee be acted upon in their order as they are reached in the reading of the bill. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I understood the Senator from Maryland to say that he would yield to have the short bill reported by the Senator from Wisconsin considered when the Senator from Wyoming was through. It will take but a moment.

Mr. GORMAN. I should be very glad to do so, but half a dozen other Senators around me desire to get up bills, and I can not yield. I think later in the day the Senator will have an opportunity to call up the bill.

Mr. WOLCOTT. The trouble is that I am called out of town this afternoon.

Mr. FRYE. The Senator from Colorado is going away.

Mr. MITCHELL. I suggest to the Senator from Maryland that he allow the bill to be called up and proceeded with until half past 2 o'clock.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I withdraw my request. I do not think I have any right to interfere with the public business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The appropriation bill will be read.

The Chief Clerk proceeded to read the bill. The first amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations was, on page 1, line 7, before the word "thousand," to strike out "five hundred," and insert "seven hundred and fifty;" so as to make the clause read:

Guns and mortar batteries. For construction of gun and mortar batteries, $750,000.

Mr. BERRY. I should like to have the Senator from Maryland explain what is the necessity for this large increase proposed in the bill.

Mr. GORMAN. We have been for the past four years engaged in fortifying the coast, and the construction of these gun and mortar batteries is considered by the Engineer Department and by the War Department as of the first importance. If we are to continue that work upon the scale on which it has been already inaugurated with the authority of law, we think that it is impossible for them to get along economically with less than $750,000 during the present fiscal year. The Chief of Engineers, the Secretary of War, and the General commanding the Army all concur in the statement that to continue the work economically there must be at least $750,000 appropriated. Guns and mortars are being constructed each year, and they are lying idle without being put in place or without carriages to put them on. If this matter is to go on, and the coast to be defended and prepared for defense, then we think that this appropriation is necessary.

Mr. BERRY. The House of Representatives, which it is supposed had at least all the estimates before them, all the information probably in regard to this matter from the officers of the Government that the Senate Committee had, appropriated $500,000. The Senate committee propose to raise that to $750,000. In the next paragraph an appropriation is made for the procurement of lands, or rights pertaining thereto. The House of Representatives appropriated the sum of $250,000, and the Senate committee propose to raise that to $500,000. There is a difference in those two items between the amount appropriated by the other House and that proposed by the Senate committee of a half million dollars.

It occurs to me that the House of Representatives in making these appropriations must have put in what they thought could be economically expended this year. I can not see the extreme necessity that now exists for raising the amount for these fortifications so as to include 100 per cent in one item and 50 per cent in the other item over and above that which was appropriated by the other House.

As I stated the other day in regard to another bill, it seems that during this session of Congress more than at any time since I have been here there has been a constant effort on the part of the various Senate committees to raise the amounts appropriated by the House of Representatives in every instance, to enlarge and swell the appropriations in almost every bill which comes here, and in almost every item of every bill.

I think that the appropriations made during the last Congress, which amounted to a billion dollars, were more than should have been appropriated for the two years. Unless we pay some regard and attention to the efforts that the House of Representatives is making to economize, I do not see how it will be possible to reduce the enormous expenditures that were made during those two years.

The Senator from Maryland says that the officers say that this increased amount is necessary. Mr. President, invariably in making estimates by the various officers of the Government, so far as I have been able to follow them, they always estimate the very largest possible amount, expecting Congress to cut it down.

I do not think that there is any pressing necessity for increasing these appropriations to the enormous extent that is proposed by the Senate committee. The Senate is thin, and I do not care to call for the yeas and nays on the amendment now, but I shall reserve the right to call them when the bill gets into the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Mr. TURPIN in the chair. The question is on agreeing to the amendment reported by the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 1, line 12, before the word "thousand," to strike out "two hundred and fifty" and insert "five hundred;" so as to make the clause read:

Stores for fortifications and sea-coast defenses. For the procurement of land, or right pertaining thereto, needed for the site, location, construction, or prosecution of work for fortifications and coast defenses, $300,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for "Armament of fortifications," on page 2, line 24, before the word "thousand," to strike out "fifteen" and insert "twenty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

For steel field guns of 3.2-inch caliber, $25,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 3, line 10, before the word "thousand," to strike out "thirty" and insert "thirty-five;" so as to make the clause read:

For carriages for six-inch breech-loading howitzers of 5-inch caliber, $35,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. There is a little error on page 3, line 12. There are two "r's" there in a word. One of them ought to be stricken out.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The correction will be made. The next amendment was, on page 3, line 18, before the word "thousand," to strike out "thirty" and insert "forty;" so as to make the clause read:

For powder for issue to service, $40,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

lieve that information comes from a reliable source. If it is not true, it can do the Postmaster-General and the Department no harm for him to state the facts to the House. If it is true, the House should know it.

Mr. DINGLEY. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will pardon me—

Mr. ENLOE. I will retain the floor for the present.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Tennessee yield to the gentleman from Maine [Mr. DINGLEY]?

Mr. ENLOE. Yes.

Mr. DINGLEY. I will suggest to the gentleman that the resolution seems to call for a great deal more than the information which the gentleman has suggested. It calls for all correspondence relative to railroads. Now, it seems to me that if the Department is called upon to furnish copies of all correspondence relating to mail service on railways—

Mr. ENLOE. On new railways.

Mr. DINGLEY. It will involve a very considerable amount of clerical labor. It seems to me if the gentleman gets simply the facts that he calls for, that will be sufficient. I merely make that suggestion.

Mr. ENLOE. The only reason for calling for the correspondence is to show whether or not there is any ground for the complaint of discrimination or violation of the statute. The correspondence on the subject would set out the facts in regard to the necessity for service up in the different lines of railroads, and it is necessary for the House to have that correspondence in order to show whether or not the Postmaster-General has discriminated. That is the reason I call for it, and it only embraces the new service on railroads. It does not apply to service established prior to the date named in the resolution.

Mr. DINGLEY. March 4, 1889?

Mr. ENLOE. Yes.

Mr. DINGLEY. Why does the gentleman fix that particular date? Why does he draw the line there?

Mr. ENLOE. Because that is the line of demarcation between this Administration and the past Administration.

Mr. DINGLEY. But the Government is a continuity. The same practices that have existed since March 4, 1889, existed before, in many respects.

Mr. ENLOE. I would not be able, and the House would not be able, to remedy the matter, even if we were to go back and find that some such practice had prevailed under a former Administration. I demand the previous question.

Mr. BINGHAM. If the gentleman will allow me, is not the gentleman himself a member of the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads?

Mr. ENLOE. No, sir; I am not.

Mr. BERGEN. I would like to ask the gentleman a question.

Mr. BINGHAM. I do not think there is any objection to it.

Mr. BERGEN. Would the gentleman from Tennessee think it fair to condemn this Administration if it were simply following a practice that had obtained in the previous Administration in regard to the compensation to railroads?

Mr. ENLOE. I do not know that it will develop any fact that will condemn the Administration; but I think there is good ground for complaint that in the exercise of his power the Postmaster-General has discriminated in favor of some railroads as against others, in disregard of the statute. That is the point.

Mr. BERGEN. Contrary to law, you think?

Mr. ENLOE. Contrary to law; and I want to know whether it is true or not. I demand the previous question.

The question was taken on ordering the previous question, and the Speaker announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. McDONALD. Division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 44, noes 18.

Mr. BERGEN and Mr. McDONALD. No quorum, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appoint the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. ENLOE] and the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. BERGEN] to act as tellers.

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 80, noes 9.

Mr. ENLOE. Mr. Speaker, I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 169, nays 3, not voting 156; as follows:

Mr. RICHARDSON with Mr. JOSEPH D. TAYLOR.

Mr. ALDERSON with Mr. ROBINSON of Pennsylvania.

Mr. COX of Tennessee with Mr. LOUD.

Mr. PEEL with Mr. WILSON of Washington.

Mr. CRAIG of Pennsylvania with Mr. PICKLER.

Mr. ALLEN with Mr. WILSON of Kentucky.

Mr. COWLES with Mr. BELKNAP.

Mr. HERBERT with Mr. BOUTELLE.

Mr. STODDALE with Mr. BRODERICK.

Mr. GEARY with Mr. SANFORD.

Mr. WILSON of Missouri with Mr. HUFF.

Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts with Mr. COGSWELL.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky with Mr. O'DONNELL.

Mr. PIERCE with Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR.

Mr. ABBOTT with Mr. BELDEN.

For this day:

Mr. CAMPBELL with Mr. WEYER.

Mr. BRUNNER with Mr. ENOCHS.

Mr. NORTON with Mr. STORER.

Mr. BULLOCK with Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois.

Mr. HATCH with Mr. ATKINSON.

Mr. CRAIN of Texas with Mr. LIND.

Mr. BELTZHOOVER with Mr. GRISWOLD.

On this vote:

Mr. BEEMAN with Mr. HARMER.

Mr. EDMUNDS with Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Illinois with Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois, for two days.

Mr. CRAWFORD with Mr. CLARK of Wyoming.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

The question was taken on the passage of the resolution; and the Speaker announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. McDONALD. The yeas and nays, Mr. Speaker.

The question was taken on ordering the yeas and nays.

The SPEAKER (after counting). Two gentlemen only have risen, not a sufficient number, and the yeas and nays are refused.

So the resolution was passed.

On motion of Mr. ENLOE, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was passed was laid on the table.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled the bill (H. R. 976) to correct the military record of Lieut. Cornelius McLean; when the Speaker signed the same.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. WOLVERTON, for two days, on account of important business.

To Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky, indefinitely, on account of death in his family.

CALL OF COMMITTEES FOR REPORTS.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will now call the committees for reports.

RELIEF OF CERTAIN VOLUNTEER AND REGULAR SOLDIERS OF THE LATE WAR AND THE MEXICAN WAR.

Mr. PATTON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported back favorably the bill (S. 3154) to amend section 9 of the act for the relief of certain volunteer and regular soldiers of the late war and the war with Mexico, passed March 2, 1890; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

INCREASED PENSION FOR DEAFNESS.

Mr. KRIBBS, from the Committee on Pensions, reported back with a favorable recommendation a bill (S. 349) to increase the rate of pension for certain cases of deafness; which was referred to the Private Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CATHEDRAL FOUNDATION, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. FELLOWS, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with a favorable recommendation a bill (H. R. 9417) to incorporate the Protestant Episcopal Foundation of the District of Columbia; which was referred to the Private Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

On motion of Mr. HEMPHILL, the Committee on the District of Columbia was discharged from further consideration of the bill (H. R. 7352) to pay John Pope Hodnett for services rendered as counsel to the Government in the investigation of the affairs of the District of Columbia, etc.; and it was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

ACADEMY AND GALLERY OF ART, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with a favorable recommendation a bill (H. R. 9006) to authorize the establishment of an academy and gallery of art in the District of Columbia; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

POST-OFFICE ACCOMMODATIONS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL also, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with a favorable recommendation a joint resolution (S. R. 88) to authorize the postmaster of the city of Washington to construct and maintain a platform in the alley in square 454; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

DEPENDENT CHILDREN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEMPHILL also, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with a favorable recommendation a bill (H. R. 5446) to provide for the care of dependent children in the District of Columbia.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, that bill has been returned from the Senate with amendments, and I ask that the House nonconcur and appoint a committee of conference.

The SPEAKER. The Chair can not interrupt the call for that purpose, but the bill can lie on the Speaker's table until later.

REGULATION OF STEAM VESSELS.

Mr. PATTERSON of Tennessee, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, reported back with a favorable recommendation the bill (S. 744) to amend an act to amend section 4400 of Title LII of the Revised Statutes of the United States concerning the regulation of steam vessels, approved August 7, 1882, and also to amend section 4414, Title LII, Revised Statutes, "Regulation of steam vessels;" which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

He also, from the same committee, reported back the bills, H. R. 403 and H. R. 234, on the same subject, with the recommendation that they lie on the table, and it was so ordered.

DR. THOMAS GALLAGHER.

Mr. ANDREW, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, submitted a report on the resolution to inquire into the cause of the arrest of Dr. Thomas Gallagher by the British Government, with an amendment; which was ordered to be printed.

DEPENDENT CHILDREN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a bill (H. R. 5446) to provide for the care of dependent children in the District of Columbia, with amendments of the Senate thereto.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the House nonconcur in the Senate amendments and agree to a conference.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

EXTENSION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am directed by the Committee on Appropriations to report the joint resolution which I send to the desk.

The joint resolution was read, as follows:

Joint resolution to continue provisions of a joint resolution approved June 30, 1892, entitled "A joint resolution to provide temporarily for the expenditures of the Government."

Resolved by the Senate, etc., That the provisions of the joint resolution, entitled "A joint resolution to provide temporarily for the expenditures of the Government," approved June 30, 1892, be, and the same are hereby, extended and continued in full force and effect to and including the 30th day of July, 1892.

The joint resolution was ordered to a third reading; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HOLMAN moved to reconsider the vote by which the joint resolution was passed, and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

RECOMMITTAL OF A BILL.

The SPEAKER. The Committee on Invalid Pensions ask that Senate bill 349, now on the House Calendar, be recommitted to that committee.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

SUNDRY CIVIL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am instructed by the Committee on Appropriations to report back the sundry civil appropriation bill with the report which I send to the desk.

The report was read, as follows:

Mr. HOLMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations submitted the following report to accompany House bill 539.

The Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred House bill 532 making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, together with the amendments of the Senate thereto, having considered the same, beg leave to report as follows:

They recommend that all of the amendments of the Senate be disagreed to.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, it is very obvious that so large a number of amendments, if considered seriatim, would occupy a great deal of time. There are three hundred and twelve amendments by the Senate. There are several of the amendments—eight or nine in number—which apply exclusively to the World's Fair. In view of this state of facts, and inasmuch as gentlemen will very naturally wish to discuss the amendments which refer to the Columbian Exposition, I ask consent that there be a non-concurrence in all of the Senate amendments except those concerning the World's Fair.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. I call the attention of my colleague on the committee [Mr. HOLMAN] to the fact that his motion as made asks for nonconcurrency in all the amendments.

Mr. HOLMAN. Yes, sir.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. That is not the form, as I understand, in which the gentleman wishes it put.

Mr. HOLMAN. The form in which the question is presented by the report is a general nonconcurrency; but inasmuch as

By Mr. SHIVELY: Petition of citizens of Nappanee, Ill., that paper-wrapped cigarettes shall be assessed and collected as internal-revenue tax $10 per thousand—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. TUCKER: Petition of George T. McClintic, postmaster at Covington, Va., for relief—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. WIKER: Affidavit for the relief of Henry Harmon, to accompany House bill—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. WISE: Petition of Sarah E. Higgins for the estate of Sarah E. Chadwick, deceased, late of New Kent County, Va., praying that her war claim be referred to the Court of Claims under the Bowman act—to the Committee on War Claims.

SENATE.

SATURDAY, July 16, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

GEORGE W. CLARK.

Mr. PADDOCK. I desire to enter a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill (S. 3325) granting an increase of pension to George W. Clark was passed yesterday evening. A committee amendment was inadvertently omitted from the bill in the hurry and pressure of the moment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Nebraska gives notice of the entry of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill indicated by him was passed, and asks that the same may be returned from the House of Representatives to the Senate; which order will be made, if there be no objection.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting, in response to a resolution of the 12th instant, a report from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs relative to the disposition of moneys appropriated to pay the scouts and soldiers of certain bands of Sioux Indians, etc.; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented a petition of the Second National Mining Congress of the United States in session at Helena, Mont. (transmitted by telegram from Francis G. Newlands, president), urging the defeat of House bill No. 561, known as the free lead ore bill, "as its passage would inevitably result in the closing down of numbers of our silver mines of which lead is the principal part, now being operated on a very narrow margin of profit, and the consequent throwing out of employment of thousands of hard-working miners whose very existence is dependent on the continuance of operations in these properties;" which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented resolutions of the Enterprise Pleasure Club of Yonkers, N. Y., and of the Emmet Club of Brockton, Mass., in regard to the imprisonment in England of Dr. Thomas Gallagher, and praying that steps be taken for his release; which were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. COKE, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1357) to compensate Elihu Root for services rendered by direction of the Attorney-General, reported it without amendment.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE, from the Committee on Fisheries, to whom was referred the amendment submitted by Mr. CAREY July 15, intended to be proposed to the general deficiency bill, reported it without amendment, and moved that it be referred to the Committee on Appropriations and printed; which was agreed to.

Mr. FRYE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8124) to extend the privileges of the transportation of dutiable merchandise without appraisement to the port of Dunkirk, N. Y., reported it without amendment.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3221) to provide for the adjustment and payment of the claim of Thomas Rhys Smith, for work done and materials furnished for the breakwater at Bar Harbor, Me., reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VILAS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 4827) to confer jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the heir of Hugh Washington, for his interest in the steamer Eastport, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. QUAY, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3301) for the erection of a public building at the city of East St. Louis, Ill., reported it without amendment.

Mr. BLACKBURN, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3395) to remit the penalties on gunboat No. 3, the Concord, and gunboat No. 4, the Bennington, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. STEWART. I am directed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3300) for the relief of the estate of Leander C. McLellan, deceased, to report it favorably without amendment.

Mr. SANDERS. I shall file a minority report in that matter. The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Montana gives notice that he will file the views of the minority in this case.

Mr. STEWART. If there is to be a minority report I ask leave to withdraw the report and refer the whole matter back to the Committee on Claims. If there is to be a difference of opinion we will examine it further. I ask leave to withdraw the report, and have the bill referred again to the Committee on Claims.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Nevada asks that the bill (S. 3300) for the relief of the estate of Leander C. McLellan, deceased, be recommitted to the Committee on Claims. The Chair hears no objection, and it is so ordered.

IMMIGRATION INVESTIGATION.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. CHANDLER on the 9th instant, reported it without amendment, and it was read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Immigration be empowered to investigate the workings of the laws of the United States relative to immigration from foreign countries and the importation of contract labor into the United States, and of the laws and prevailing methods of naturalization; the investigation to be conducted at such times and places as said committee may deem proper, during the present session or the recess of Congress, and the committee is hereby authorized, as a full committee or through subcommittees thereof, to send for and examine persons, books, and papers, and to administer oaths to witnesses; the expenses of the investigation to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask for the immediate consideration of the resolution.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. VOORHEES. I desire to offer an amendment to the resolution. In line 4, after the word "naturalization," I move to insert "since the year 1890;" so as to read:

That the Committee on Immigration be empowered to investigate the workings of the laws of the United States relative to immigration from foreign countries and the importation of contract labor into the United States, and of the laws and prevailing methods of naturalization, since the year 1890.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. That is, the amendment offered by the Senator from Indiana?

Mr. VOORHEES. Yes, sir. I will say to the Senator from Missouri that this amendment meets all the objection that has been made to the resolution by the Senator from New York [Mr. HILL] and others who are on the committee. I am a member of the committee myself, and this makes the resolution acceptable all around.

The amendment was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

AMELIA R. WEBSTER.

Mr. GALLINGER. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5019) for the relief of Amelia R. Webster, to report it favorably, without amendment, and I ask for its immediate consideration, the Senate having passed a similar bill at a higher rate. The Senate passed a bill allowing $30 a month. This bill allows $20, and the committee desire it to be passed as it has been sent from the other House.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $20 per month, the name of Amelia R. Webster, widow of the late Capt. John A. Webster, jr., United States Revenue Marine Service.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ACTIONS IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. VEST. I expect to leave the city in a very short time, and I ask the Senate to consider the bill I reported yesterday from the Committee on the Judiciary, which will give rise, I think, to no debate. It is House bill 8153.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that it now consider the bill (H. R. 8153) providing when plaintiff may sue as a poor person and when counsel shall be assigned by the court. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which was read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That any citizen of the United States, entitled to commence any suit or action in any court of the United States, may commence and prosecute to conclusion any such suit or action without being required to prepay fees or costs or give security therefor before or after bringing suit or action upon filing in said court a statement under oath, in writing, that, because of his poverty, he is unable to pay the costs of said suit or action which he is about to commence, or to give security for the same, and that he believes he is entitled to the redress he seeks by such suit or action, and setting forth briefly the nature of his alleged cause of action.

Sec. 2. That after any such suit or action shall have been brought, or that is now pending, the plaintiff may answer and avoid a demand for fees or security for costs, by filing a like affidavit, and willful false swearing in any affidavit provided for in this or the previous section shall be punishable as perjury in all other cases.

Sec. 3. That the officers of court shall issue, serve all process, and perform all duties in such cases, and witnesses shall attend as in other cases, and the plaintiff shall have the same remedies as are provided by law in other cases.

Sec. 4. That the court may request any attorney of the court to represent such poor person, if it deems the cause worthy of a trial, and may dismiss any such cause so brought under this act if it be made to appear that the allegation of poverty is untrue, or if said court be satisfied that the alleged cause of action is frivolous or malicious.

Sec. 5. That judgment may be rendered for costs at the conclusion of the suit as in other cases; Provided, That the United States shall not be liable for any of the cost thus incurred.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REMOVAL OF POLITICAL DISABILITIES.

Mr. TELLER. From the Committee on the Judiciary, I report back favorably the bill (S. 3415) for the removal of the political disabilities of William S. Walker, of Atlanta, Ga. I understand it is the custom to pass these bills promptly on being reported, and I ask that the bill be put on its passage.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. DANIEL. Is the bill open to amendment?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is open to amendment in the Senate.

Mr. DANIEL. I should like to offer an amendment to it. I move to add after the words "William S. Walker, of Atlanta, Ga.," the words "and all other persons." I think more than twenty-five years after the war it is time to have a general amnesty and wiping out of all disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment. I believe that is the sentiment of the Senate from my conversation with many gentlemen in it, and I think this would be a good time to adopt the provision.

Mr. TELLER. I think the Senator had better not move that amendment on this bill. It will probably bring up some discussion and end in postponing the bill.

Mr. DANIEL. If there is any objection to it, I do not wish to press the amendment.

Mr. TELLER. There will be objection to it, I am satisfied, and I think it had better come in as a separate bill. If the Senator will introduce a bill of that kind, as far as I am concerned I am willing to support it; but I think that this bill ought not to be encumbered with such a provision.

Mr. DANIEL. I have introduced a bill—

Mr. TELLER. I wish the Senator would withdraw the amendment and let the bill pass.

Mr. DANIEL. I will state that I have introduced a bill of the kind, and I heard such general expression of favor in regard to it, that I anticipated that there would be no objection to adopting the principle at any time. If there is objection by even one person, I shall not insist on the amendment; but unless there is objection, I should rather have a vote upon it.

Mr. PLATT. What is the suggestion of the Senator from Virginia?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the Senator from Virginia will be stated.

Mr. DANIEL. To a bill removing the political disabilities of a particular person I move a general amendment removing all political disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment.

Mr. PLATT. Let the amendment be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 7, after the word "Georgia," insert "and all other persons;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each House concurring therein), That all legal and political disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States by reason of participation in the late rebellion be, and they are hereby removed from William S. Walker, of Atlanta, Ga., and all other persons.

Mr. PLATT. I trust that the Senator from Virginia will not insist on his amendment. These cases have always been acted on separately, and each one of them presents a different state of facts. For instance, this officer was a quartermaster in the Army,

I believe, and before passing upon the question as to whether his disabilities should be removed we investigated the records, and found that his quartermaster's accounts were all right. So every case presents its own peculiar facts. There never has been any difficulty about removing the disabilities whenever any person has petitioned to have it done if there was a proper case made out. I should be very sorry to bring up the question this morning as to whether there ought to be a general removal of disabilities. At any rate it ought to be done by a general bill, not by an amendment on a particular bill. I hope the Senator from Virginia will withdraw the amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Virginia.

Mr. DANIEL. I will state to the Senator from Connecticut that if any one objects to this and does not want it done I shall not precipitate any discussion on it, because I think such discussions are very disagreeable and unprofitable. But unless there is manifest objection to the passage of the bill with this amendment, it seems to me that, twenty-five years having elapsed, it would be a good and reasonable thing to do.

Mr. PLATT. I object to the adoption of any such general provision upon the pending bill. I object to it.

Mr. DANIEL. Then I withdraw the amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment is withdrawn. The bill is in the Senate and open to amendment.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed (two-thirds of the Senators present voting in the affirmative).

WASHINGTON AND ARLINGTON RAILWAY.

Mr. McMILLAN. I introduce a bill, and I should like to call the attention of the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] to it. Some time ago the Senator from Maine introduced a resolution of inquiry as to the corporation called the Washington and Arlington Railway Company, which it was said had sold its charter, and there was some difficulty in regard to it. That matter has been investigated, and the result is the bill which I now introduce to amend the charter, and which will put the affairs of the company in better shape so far as the District is concerned. I introduce the bill, and ask its reference to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

The bill (S. 3448) to amend the charter of the Washington and Arlington Railway Company was read twice by its title.

Mr. HALE. I wish to say in reference to the bill just introduced by the Senator from Michigan, to which he called my attention, that I am very glad the committee of which he is chairman has given a faithful examination to that subject. The bill chartering the railroad company in the last Congress was pushed and forced and lobbied through here by constant importunities and by Senators being beset early and late to waive their objections and allow it to pass. After a time, as such things do, in good nature everybody yielded and the bill was passed, upon the statement made on the floor and in private that it was a great public need, that the corporators were men of property, that they meant to build the road, and that it would be opened within a comparatively short time. The upshot was that after we had yielded and allowed the bill to be passed, the men who had the charter, when Congress adjourned, declined to do anything whatever about building the road, sold the franchise outright which they had obtained from Congress, pocketed the money, and refused to move an inch.

I called the attention of the committee in the early part of the session to this subject, and as the Senator from Michigan has stated, they have investigated it and taken this matter in hand, have changed the form of the preceeding and introduced a new bill, and I am very glad it has been done.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to call the attention of the Committee on the District of Columbia to the fact that I have heard it stated that quite a large number of individual citizens here, employees in the Departments and others, took stock in this company and paid out their money for it with the expectation that the road would be constructed and completed in proper time and that in the end they would receive a dividend upon their stock—actual cash, not a mere speculation. In consideration of this fact I should like the committee to take it into account. I think there is no doubt of the fact that there are quite a large number of persons here in Washington ill able to lose their subscriptions who have subscribed and paid money into this enterprise.

Mr. McMILLAN. I will state to the Senator from Missouri that this bill is intended to protect those very people.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

RAILROAD TRACKS IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. McMILLAN. I introduce a joint resolution and ask for its immediate consideration.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The joint resolution (S. R. 100) to permit the railroads of the District to lay extra tracks to accommodate the traveling public during the Grand Army of the Republic encampment, was read the first time by its title and the second time at length, as follows:

Resolved, etc. That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to issue to any steam railroad in the said District a permit to lay and use, for a period not to exceed fifteen days in all, and not more than twice in any one calendar year, temporary tracks on streets adjacent to its passenger depot for the purpose of accommodating passengers and baggage coming to or leaving the city of Washington on special occasions when numbers of persons are expected to visit the said District of Columbia.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

There being no objection, the joint resolution was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to hear an explanation of this measure. To what roads does it apply: to the steam railroads or the street-car railroads?

Mr. McMILLAN. It relates to the steam railroads, the Baltimore and Potomac and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads. They will find it necessary to lay extra tracks during the encampment which is to meet and during the inauguration ceremonies.

Mr. COCKRELL. Where are these tracks to be laid?

Mr. McMILLAN. They are to be laid on the streets. As it is now, the Commissioners have no power to allow the railroad companies to lay extra tracks adjacent to the passenger depots. It is to enable them to bring extra trains down as near as possible to the passenger stations during the encampment. It is a matter of only a few days, and it is done to accommodate the public.

Mr. COCKRELL. Are the Commissioners to be authorized to give permission to lay tracks upon private property, or is it to be upon the streets, or where are these extra tracks to be laid?

Mr. McMILLAN. On the streets adjacent to the stations. It has been done heretofore, but the Commissioners have found that really they had no authority for giving the permission, and they ask this authority.

Mr. GORMAN. I should like to ask the chairman whether it would not be wise to confine this authority to the coming of the Grand Army of the Republic and to the next inauguration? It may be wise to do that, but to make a permanent provision of this kind might be considered equivalent to continuing the present inadequate facilities indefinitely.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection.

Mr. GORMAN. I suggest to the Senator that he limit the joint resolution up to and including the 1st of April, 1893.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to that amendment.

Mr. GORMAN. I make that suggestion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will the Senator from Maryland present his amendment so that it may be stated?

Mr. ALLISON. It can be done by a proviso:

Provided, That this authority shall cease on the 1st of April, 1893.

Mr. GORMAN. Yes; that will accomplish the purpose. I thank the Senator from Iowa.

Mr. ALLISON. That covers it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. Add to the joint resolution the following proviso:

Provided, That this authority shall cease on the 1st day of April, 1893.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Maryland.

Mr. CALL. I ask the Senator in charge of this measure whether the language is not general, and does not allow the Commissioners to permit the companies to lay tracks anywhere in any part of the city?

Mr. McMILLAN. No; it states that the track is to be laid on the street adjacent to the railroad station.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Maryland.

The amendment was agreed to.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 5446) to provide for the care of dependent children in the District of Columbia, and to create a board of children's guardians, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HEMPHILL, Mr. CADMUS, and Mr. POST managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 479) for the relief of Mrs. E. Trask;

A bill (S. 1279) for the correction of the military record of Wilhelm Spiegelberg;

A bill (S. 3201) to provide for holding terms of court in the district of Montana; and

A bill (S. 3447) to extend the privileges of the first and seventh sections of the act of June 10, 1880, to the ports of Bangor and Vanceboro, Me.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills and joint resolution: and they were thereupon signed by the President pro tempore:

A bill (S. 726) for the relief of P. B. Sinnott, late Indian agent at Grande Ronde Agency, State of Oregon;

A bill (S. 1129) for the recognition of Henry O. Kent as colonel of the Seventeenth New Hampshire Volunteers;

A bill (S. 1708) for the relief of Mrs. Sarah J. Waggoner;

A bill (S. 2018) granting a pension to Mary E. Law, widow of Capt. Richard L. Law, United States Navy;

A bill (S. 2519) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to sell certain lands in the city of Springfield and Commonwealth of Massachusetts;

A bill (H. R. 6323) making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes;

A bill (H. R. 9040) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes;

A bill (H. R. 9283) authorizing the Leonard Avenue Street Railway Company to lay tracks upon certain streets abutting United States military reservation in the city of Columbus, Ohio; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 56) to authorize the President to invite certain Governments to send delegates to the Pan-American Medical Congress.

BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 3449) granting a pension to Dora Sauer, widow of Peter Sauer, deceased; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. STEWART. I ask that the resolution reported from the Committee on Contingent Expenses instructing the Committee on Mines and Mining to report the average cost of the production of gold and silver bullion in the United States, and for other purposes, may be considered now.

Mr. HALE. Let us get through with the morning business first.

Mr. STEWART. That is practically morning business.

Mr. HALE. The resolution is on the Calendar.

Mr. STEWART. Yes; it was put on the Calendar, but resolutions of this character are usually considered when reported. It will take but a moment. I ask the Senate to proceed to its consideration now.

Mr. HALE. I do not object to the resolution, but morning business, which is the regular reports of committees etc., ought to be first concluded. We shall then reach the Calendar, and other things may be attended to. After morning business is concluded, I propose to call up the deficiency bill, after which I will yield to the Senator.

Mr. STEWART. All right.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The next order is the introduction of bills and joint resolutions. [A pause.] If there be no further bills and joint resolutions that order is closed. Concurrent and other resolutions are now in order. [A pause.] Is there further morning business?

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will call attention to the fact that upon the desk of the Presiding Officer there are a number of resolutions coming over from a previous day, which are really a part of the morning business.

Mr. HALE. Those, I think, can wait. Nobody desires to press them now.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Maine.

Mr. HALE. I move to proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 9284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HALE. I yield now to the Senator from Nevada.

INVESTIGATION BY COMMITTEE ON MINES AND MINING.

Mr. STEWART. The Senator from Maine yields to me to call up the resolution instructing the Committee on Mines and Mining to report the average cost of the production of gold and silver bullion in the United States, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be reported for information.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Mines and Mining be, and it is hereby, authorized and directed to investigate and report the average cost of the production of gold and silver bullion in the United States; and for that purpose the committee is hereby authorized to sit during the recess of the Senate, to employ a clerk, and the necessary expenses to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate, upon vouchers to be approved by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. SHERMAN. If the resolution is to pass, I should like to have the word "average" stricken out, so as to know what is the extreme cost.

Mr. STEWART. I will accept that amendment. I should like to say one word in explanation of the resolution.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 4, before the word "cost," it is proposed to strike out "average;" so as to read:

That the Committee on Mines and Mining be, and it is hereby, authorized and directed to investigate and report the cost of the production of gold and silver bullion in the United States, etc.

Mr. SHERMAN. I have no other objection to the resolution than the general objection which I have made two or three times. I do not approve myself, and I have generally declined to serve on committees during the recess, because in many cases they are matters which involve considerable expense without doing any good. While I have no doubt it will be very easy to ascertain the cost of mining silver, I would as soon take the Senator's word for it without this investigation. He knows all about that subject. It seems to me that these committees going around during the recess as a rule are not very useful.

Mr. STEWART. I will say to the Senator that there will be no other expense connected with this than the expense of a clerk. I will do the balance of the work myself.

Mr. SHERMAN. It necessitates the employment of a clerk, and to that extent increases the contingent expenses of the Senate. It is a personal matter to which I do not like to object. I merely wanted to state my general feeling, which is that committees, especially select committees, ought not to be authorized to sit during the recess. I can imagine that a standing committee, having much to do, might desire such an arrangement sometimes.

Mr. STEWART. This is a standing committee; it is no new committee.

Mr. SHERMAN. I do not care to say anything further about it; but I do not think it ought to be done.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment to the resolution proposed by the Senator from Ohio.

The amendment was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore subsequently said: A resolution passed by the Senate this morning, by an inadvertence, it is ascertained, read as a joint resolution. If there be no objection the words "by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled" will be stricken from the resolution, so that it will stand as a simple Senate resolution, it being a matter concerning one of the committees of the Senate. The Chair hears no objection, and that change will be made.

BRIGHTWOOD RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. McMILLAN. If the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] will yield to me, I should like to ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of House bill 8579.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan asks unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of a bill the title of which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (H. R. 8579) to incorporate the Petworth, Brightwood and Takoma Park Railway Company of the District of Columbia.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the bill will be considered as in Committee of the Whole. The Chair hears none.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be reported for information first. We can not tell whether we shall object or not until we hear what it is.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senator to the fact that the bill will be read at length as in Committee of the Whole, and of course be at any time subject to objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. That is what I wanted to understand.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is the rule.

Mr. COCKRELL. If we have that understanding it is all right.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the charter granted to the Brightwood Railway Company by an act of Congress approved October 18, 1887, be, and the same is, amended as follows:

"That within six months from the date of the approval of this act the said Brightwood Railway Company shall equip and operate its existing line with the overhead trolley system of electric motive power, and shall thereafter maintain the road in first class condition. That the road shall be supplied entirely with new cars of the most approved pattern, which shall be run as the public convenience shall require, but not less frequently than one car every fifteen minutes from each end of the line, between 5 o'clock a. m. and 12 o'clock midnight.

"Sec. 2. That within twelve months from the date of the approval of this act the said Brightwood Railway Company shall extend its tracks to the District line, as provided in the original charter of said company, and shall operate the new portion of the line in the same manner and under the same conditions as hereinbefore provided for the operation of those portions of the road already built. The said company shall also construct and maintain a branch line, beginning at a point to be located by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, west of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad track on Fifth street in Takoma Park; thence along Fifth street to Umatilla street; thence west along Umatilla street to and across Piney Branch Road, and thence to Brightwood avenue by such route as the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall approve. Said branch line shall be operated by the overhead trolley system, the cars used shall be first-class in every respect, and the schedule of the running of cars shall be subject to the approval of the District Commissioners, but cars shall be run as often as one every fifteen minutes between the hours of 5 o'clock a. m. and 12 o'clock midnight. Work on the said branch road shall be begun within two months and completed, with cars running thereon, within one year from the date of the approval of this act.

"Sec. 3. That in the event that the company should not be able to come to an agreement with the owner or owners of any land through which the said road may be located to pass, or upon which any necessary buildings may be required to be located, proceedings for the condemnation for the use of the company of so much of said land as may be required, not exceeding 100 feet in width, for its roadway, and of so much as may be necessary for buildings, etc., may be instituted in the usual way in the supreme court of the District of Columbia, under such rules and regulations as said court may prescribe for such purposes.

"Sec. 4. That any failure to comply with any of the provisions of this act shall work a forfeiture of the original charter of the said Brightwood Railway Company. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

"Sec. 5. That Congress reserves the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to hear some explanation of the difference between the House bill and this proposed substitute.

Mr. McMILLAN. The House bill is intended to grant a new charter to a new company because the old Brightwood Railroad Company was running its cars miserably. They were the poorest second-hand cars, and were being run about once every half hour. During part of the winter, when the people wanted to get into the city, the company did not run them at all. Therefore, it was proposed to grant a new charter, which would take away from the Brightwood company the charter which was given to them in 1888. The Committee on the District of Columbia thought it was better not to get into any lawsuit or any trouble with the old company and made this arrangement, which will compel the company chartered in 1888 to put its line in first-class condition and give the people who live out there rapid transit.

Mr. COCKRELL. Brightwood avenue is an extension of Seventh street.

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes. There is a great demand for this road, and many public meetings have been held by the people interested. This is intended to make the company do what they should have done long ago.

Mr. COCKRELL. On the extension of Seventh street was there not some underground system attempted to be carried out for some distance?

Mr. McMILLAN. The company spent $150,000 in trying the air system, which turned out to be a failure.

Mr. COCKRELL. How far did they construct that system?

Mr. McMILLAN. Only a short distance—about three-fourths of a mile.

Mr. COCKRELL. Was it the Brightwood company which did that work?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCKRELL. This bill is intended to compel the company to complete the road within a given time?

Mr. McMILLAN. The road has fallen into the hands of the bondholders, the stockholders having given up their stock, and this is to compel the bondholders to do what ought to have been done before.

Mr. COCKRELL. I see there is no provision here in relation to the rate of fare or for an exchange of tickets.

Mr. McMILLAN. This is a long run, and the rate of fare, 5 cents, is provided for in the original charter.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is that in the original charter?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes. The substitute proposed to amend the original charter, and it is provided for there.

Mr. COCKRELL. It was provided for in the bill as it came from the House. I did not know that that provision was in the old charter.

Mr. McMILLAN. It is in the old charter.

Mr. GORMAN. This road, as I understand, by its original charter was to run from a point beginning on Seventh street out to Brightwood, and the company was required to construct its track outside of the Seventh-street road on land that it was to acquire.

If I understand this bill, it will permit the extension of the road from Brightwood to the District line on that great avenue, one of the principal avenues leading out into Maryland. We acquired the road from the old turnpike company, and it has been remodeled by the Government, and will be damaged if this trolley system is to be allowed in the center of it. I suggest to the Senator this is a wide road and it will probably accommodate this railroad, but I should not like to see the trolley system permitted to be used in the center of that splendid drive. The road ought to be constructed under the same conditions as are provided for in the original charter, entirely off the roadway or to one side of it. I trust the Senator, on consideration, will agree to insert a provision that no part of that roadway shall be used in the construction of the extension.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to that.

Mr. GORMAN. I wish to say to the chairman of the committee in charge of this bill, that that roadway is the only great drive leading out from Brightwood to Maryland in that section of country, and it is one in which our people in Maryland have expended a great deal of money in making an extension 20 or 30 miles up into that delightful country. It is the only drive practically we have now for any distance outside of the city, which is not obstructed by railroads. If this railroad from Brightwood to the District line is to be permitted to occupy the center of that roadway with the trolley system, it will be a great nuisance.

I have no objection to the bill if the Senator will confine the company to one side of the roadway, and require them to put their tracks on the land to be acquired by the company.

Mr. McMILLAN. The road beyond Brightwood has been widened by the people owning property there some 15 or 18 feet, I have forgotten which. It is a very wide road. The company uses now a single track. The Commissioners can at any time change the tracks if they find they are injurious to the public in any way. So we did not put that provision in the substitute.

I have no objection to an amendment to compel the company when they do put in a double track to lay it on one side of the road.

Mr. GORMAN. I hope the Senator will prepare that amendment. He is familiar with the provisions of the bill, and I am not.

Mr. McMILLAN. In line 16 of section 2 of the amendment, after the words "trolley system," I move to insert:

And when the company lays its double tracks from Brightwood to Takoma Park said tracks shall be laid on one side of the said road.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SANDERS. I offer an amendment to the amendment of the committee.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. After the word "midnight," in line 16 of section 1 of the amendment of the committee, it is proposed to insert:

And said street railroad company shall arrange for the transfer of its passengers with any other street railroad which it may cross, or with which it connects in the District of Columbia for only one fare.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to that amendment.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended, so as to read: "A bill to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Brightwood Railway Company of the District of Columbia.'"

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate insist upon its amendment, and ask for a conference with the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate; and Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. HARRIS, and Mr. PERKINS were appointed.

BLACK RIVER BRIDGE, IN ARKANSAS.

Mr. BERRY. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of House bill 9144, the pending bill being informally laid aside for that purpose.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 9144) to establish a railroad bridge across the Black River, in Arkansas.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXTENSION OF CUSTOMS PRIVILEGES TO DULUTH, MINN.

Mr. WASHBURN. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Senate bill 3188.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 3188) to extend to Duluth, Minn., the privilege of immediate transportation of unappraised merchandise.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Commerce, with an amendment in line 3, after the words "provisions of," to insert "the first section;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the provisions of the first section of an act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," approved June 10, 1889, be, and the same are hereby, extended to the port of Duluth, Minn.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to extend to Duluth, Minn., the privileges of the first section of an act entitled 'An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes,' approved June 10, 1888."

ADJUSTMENT OF ACCOUNTS UNDER EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Mr. CAREY. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Senate bill 1276.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Wyoming asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 1276) providing for the adjustment and payment of the accounts of laborers and mechanics arising under the eight-hour law.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. SANDERS. Let it be read for information.

Mr. CAREY. As the committee has reported a substitute I suggest that the substitute only may be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That course will be followed in the absence of objection.

The Chief Clerk read the amendment reported by the Committee on Education and Labor, which was to strike out all after the enacting clause of the bill and insert:

That the statute of limitation shall not be interposed in any suit brought by any laborer, workman, or mechanic in the Court of Claims against the United States to recover wages claimed to be due him under the national eight-hour law: Provided, That such suits shall be commenced within three years from the passage of this act: And provided further, That any number of claimants may join in the same suit, and the court may find in favor of some and against some, as in law and equity may be right, and both the claimants and the United States shall have the right to appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, irrespective of the amount claimed.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move to amend the amendment in line 8 by striking out the words "three years" and inserting "one year;" so as to read:

Provided, That such suits shall be commenced within one year from the passage of this act.

Mr. CAREY. That is satisfactory.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

Mr. CALL. I understand that this bill is the old controversy in relation to the payment of a large amount of money for labor in excess of eight hours per day. It has been discussed before the Senate repeatedly, and has been, I believe, the subject of very decided differences of opinion. I should not suppose it is proper that such a bill should be passed under a rule which does not allow any discussion.

Mr. CAREY. If the Senator from Florida will permit me, the committee have not attempted to report a bill to adjust these accounts. They merely want to give the men who are now barred by the statute of limitations the right to go to the Court of Claims. It is not intended even to leave the title of the bill the same as that of the bill which has been here before. It is simply to remove the bar of the statute of limitations.

Mr. CALL. The Court of Claims has no authority whatever to give any judgment upon this subject unless Congress authorizes them to do so, and Congress in authorizing them to do so must affirm the propriety of the claims if the facts are as alleged by the claimants.

The question is whether Congress will authorize the taxation of the people of this country to the extent of a great many million dollars to pay for extra labor which has been done by a very limited proportion of the people. I think there are very grave grounds of objection to it in the fact of the general distress of the country, and that the taxation which will be levied upon the great mass of the people to pay these few beneficiaries of this law, will be a very great burden to them. For that reason I object to the consideration of the bill, unless we can have full discussion upon it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill, being objected to, goes over.

HENRY W. LEE.

Mr. VILAS. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Senate bill 2398.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2398) for the relief of Henry W. Lee. It proposes to direct the Secretary of the Interior to inquire into and determine what services were rendered by Henry W. Lee, now of Stevens Point, Wis., to the Winnebago Indians, or to any bands or families thereof, whether such services were rendered at the request of or under any agreement with or acceptance of such Indians, whether such services were of utility and value to such Indians, and deserving of compensation, and to fix upon the proper measure of the value of the same, not exceeding $10,000 and over and above any sums of money which may have been paid to Lee on account thereof; and if he shall determine that Lee is justly and equitably entitled to any such sum or compensation as he shall so fix, then to deduct the same from the accounts to be paid and distributed to the stray bands of Winnebagoes in Wisconsin, or to such of them as he shall find were justly answerable, in such yearly installments or portions as he shall think fit, and to pay the same to Lee in full discharge of all his claims.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SALE OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY AT PITTSBURG, PA.

Mr. QUAY. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the consideration of House bill 7454.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 7454) authorizing and directing the sale of certain property belonging to the United States situate in Pittsburg, Pa.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

INDIAN REGENTS OF EDUCATION.

Mr. PERKINS. On the 1st day of March I introduced the bill (S. 2412) to provide for the creation of a board of regents of education for the Indian and Oklahoma Territories, to define the powers, duties, and responsibilities of such board, and to provide for the purchase of certain lands from the Government of the United States, for the promotion of the industrial and academic education of Indians and others. The bill was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs. It has not been considered by that committee since its reference, I think. The bill was prepared by Rev. Dr. McVicker, who has been a missionary and educator of the Indians almost all his life. The bill was recommended by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and at the request of those gentlemen I introduced it. It is a bill drafted for the purpose which I have stated.

I have no personal interest in the measure, and it does not in any considerable degree affect the people whom I represent. Since the introduction of the bill some feeling has been manifested in opposition to it by those who desire to settle upon the unoccupied Cherokee Outlet, who believe that that section of country should be open to settlement. They have thought that some provisions of the bill were inimical in some way to their interests; that it might in some way retard the opening of that section of country to settlement, and might in some way be construed as unfavorable to the legislation which is pending to ratify the agreement with the Cherokee Indians.

I have been in favor of that legislation from the first. For many years, in fact, I have contended in Congress that the Cherokee Outlet ought to be open to the homesteaders of the country under the provisions of the homestead law; and I would not offer any measure in Congress which tended in any way to embarrass that proposed legislation.

In view of the opposition which has been manifested to this bill and because of the fact I have stated, that I introduced it in the first place at the request of the officers and persons whom I have named, and because my constituency has no considerable interest in it—although I believe in many respects it is a wise measure and in the end would result in good to the people of Oklahoma Territory as well as to the colored people and Indians who might in time avail themselves of the benefits of the law—I am in view of the circumstances I have stated, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Indian Affairs be discharged from the further consideration of the bill and that it may be indefinitely postponed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Kansas asks unanimous consent that the Committee on Indian Affairs be discharged from the further consideration of the bill named by him. Is there objection?

Mr. PLATT. Mr. President, I believe I find myself the only member of the Committee on Indian Affairs in the Chamber at this time, and I do not like, finding myself in that position, to consent for the Committee on Indian Affairs that this bill, which has been referred to that committee, and which, although it has never been formally considered, has been a matter of considerable discussion before the committee, should be taken away in this summary manner and indefinitely postponed. It seems to me a very strange request.

This is a bill which looks to providing a fund for Indian education in Oklahoma Territory. While there is a great deal in the bill which I should myself criticize, I do not think the committee should be discharged from the consideration of the subject, and I feel bound to enter an objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. I hope, then, the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS] will have the formal motion entered, so that the Committee on Indian Affairs will not waste their time in considering a bill which the Senate will probably never act upon favorably under any circumstances.

Mr. PERKINS. If in order, then, I move to discharge the Committee on Indian Affairs from the further consideration of the bill, and that it be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. PLATT. Let that motion go on the Calendar, if it is a proper motion to go on the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The unanimous consent asked by the Senator from Kansas being objected to, the Senator enters a motion that the Committee on Indian Affairs be discharged from the further consideration of the bill, which motion, under the rules, will go to the Calendar under the objection made to its present consideration by the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT].

MARYLAND AND WASHINGTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. HARRIS. I ask for the consideration at this time of House bill 4667.

There being no objection, the bill (H. R. 4667) to incorporate the Maryland and Washington Railway Company was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. SANDERS. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk, to come in as sections 23 and 24, which will require the renumbering of the last two sections of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Montana will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to insert as new sections the following:

SEC. 23. That said corporation shall not have or issue any greater number of shares of stock than the nominal value of such shares shall equal the actual and necessary cost of the construction of such railroad, which sum shall first be ascertained and authorized upon petition therefor to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, under such rules and regulations as the chief justice and judges thereof shall prescribe efficient to limit the stock of such corporation in the aggregate to the actual and necessary cost thereof.

SEC. 24. That if it shall be desired by such corporation to issue bonds upon its said property, secured by mortgage or otherwise, upon petition therefor to said court, setting forth the necessity thereof and the amount of stock issued and outstanding, it may and shall be lawful for such court, or the chief justice or justices thereof, as the case may be, or one of them, upon public notice to be prescribed by the rules of the court, to permit the issuance of such bonds and mortgage if desired. Provided, however, That an amount of stock equal to the bonds so issued shall be first canceled.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Montana [Mr. SANDERS].

Mr. HARRIS. This bill provides that the company shall not issue stock beyond 10 per cent of the actual cost of construction, equipment, and condemnation. It does not provide for the issue of bonds at all, and I do not quite see the necessity for such an amendment as the Senator from Montana suggests. The bill seems to be remarkably well guarded in all respects. I should not favor authorizing the issuance of stock beyond the actual cost of construction, equipment, and the matter of condemnation of the right of way, which is a part of the cost of the roadway of course. Beyond that point I should not favor the issuance of stock.

Mr. FRYE. Will the Senator allow me?

Mr. HARRIS. Yes.

Mr. FRYE. As I heard the amendment read, it did not provide for the equipment as well as construction; but if the amendment is adopted at all, clearly it ought to cover the equipment as well as the construction of the road.

Mr. HARRIS. Of course, but I am inclined to think the Sen-

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, at the beginning of page 51 to insert:

Relief of George T. Larkin: To reimburse George T. Larkin, late deputy marshal, eastern district of Tennessee, for expenses incurred in his defense in the State and Federal courts on an indictment for killing in self-defense a citizen of said State while resisting arrest, and in full compensation of all claims on account thereof, $692.55.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 51, after line 7, to insert:

Relief of Allen R. English: To pay Allen R. English for services rendered under appointment of the court in defending certain Indians charged with crime at the October term, 1889, of the first judicial district court of the Territory of Arizona, $800.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 51, after line 21, to insert:

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 52, after line 13, to insert:

For payment to the widow of the Hon. Preston B. Plumb, deceased, late a Senator of the United States from the State of Kansas, $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 52, after line 16, to insert:

To pay ex-Senator Alexander McDonald, under Senate resolution of March 3, 1891, $6,502.29.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 52, after line 20, to insert:

To reimburse the Official Reporter of the Senate for moneys paid by him during the present session for clerical hire and extra clerical services, $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 52, after line 23, to insert:

To pay clerks to Senators and per diem clerks to committees retained in the service of the Senate during the recess of the Fifty-first Congress, under resolution of the Senate of September 30, 1890, $21,600.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 53, after line 3, to insert:

For one month's extra pay to regular officers and employees of the Senate, who were borne upon its annual or session roll for the whole of the second session of the Fifty-first Congress and who were not provided for and paid under the clause in the general deficiency bill, being the act approved March 3, 1891, giving one month's extra pay to the officers and employees of the House and Senate borne on the annual and session rolls both on the 1st day of October, 1890, and the 31 day of March, 1891, $2,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary.

Mr. HALE. After the word "thousand," in line 14, I move to insert "five hundred and eighty-five;" so as to read, $2,585.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 53, after line 14, to insert:

To pay Isaac Hamburger, clerk to the Committee to Examine the Several Branches of the Civil Service, for eight days' services, from December 18 to 25, inclusive, 1891, $48.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 53, after line 18, to insert:

To pay William H. H. Hart, in full compensation for his claim for services as janitor under the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate during fiscal years 1887 and 1888, $517.50.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 53, after line 23, to insert:

For contingent expenses, namely:

For miscellaneous items, exclusive of labor, $2,000.

For expenses of inquiries and investigations ordered by the Senate, $2,000.

For services in cleaning, repairing, and varnishing furniture, $156.42.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 54, under the head of "House of Representatives," after line 7, to insert:

To pay to the widows and legal representatives of deceased members of the House, $5,000.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HALE. I move to insert, after line 9:

For payment to contestants and contestees in election cases, $1,000.

Mr. COCKRELL. That is put in at the request of members of the other House?

Mr. HALE. Yes.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, on page 55, line 18, to strike out the name of "Frank T. Doyle" and insert "Frank F. Doyle;" so as to make the clause read:

To Frank F. Doyle, $24.25.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations for "judgments, United States courts," on page 57, line 9, after the number "243," to insert "and Senate Executive Document numbered —;" and in line 10, after the blank, to strike out "eleven thousand six hundred and sixty-five dollars and thirty-three" and insert "thirteen thousand nine hundred and fifty-seven dollars and forty-three;" so as to make the clause read:

For payment of the final judgments and decrees, including costs of suit, which have been rendered under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1857, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," certified to Congress at its present session by the Attorney-General in House Executive Documents numbered 9 and 243 and Senate Executive Document numbered —, $13,957.43 cents, together with such additional sum as may be necessary to pay interest on the respective judgments, at the rate of 1 per cent per annum from the date thereof until the time this appropriation is made.

Mr. HALE. I move to fill the blank in line 10 with "one hundred and thirty-six."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in the appropriations "for payment of judgments of the Court of Claims," on page 62, after line 4, to insert:

To the Michigan Central Railroad Company, $1,521
 To William S. Rosecrans, $45.60;
 To the Alabama Great Southern Railroad Company, $4,313.61, and interest on this judgment from February 13, 1890, to January 18, 1892, $335.58;

Mr. HALE. In line 5, on page 71, the name should be "Lloyd" instead of "Floyd;" so as to read "Lloyd Bankson."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That correction will be made.
 Mr. HALE. At the end of the amendment, after line 10, I move to insert the following additional claims:

To Amasa A. Redfield, receiver and assignee of William Mitchell, $15,046.38;
 To A. J. Houston, $88.80;
 To Stephen M. Dickey, $220;
 To Henry D. Fitzgerald, $24.25;
 To Samuel Henry, $382.15;
 To John W. Payne, $478.50;
 To Charles L. Smathers, $107.67.

Mr. COCKRELL. Those judgments were reported since?

Mr. HALE. Yes.

Mr. COCKRELL. They are the same kind of judgments as the others?

Mr. HALE. Yes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Maine to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.
 The amendment as amended was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations was, on page 71, line 10, to increase the total amount of the appropriations "for payment of judgments of the Court of Claims" from "$97,228.78" to "$399,635.87."

Mr. COCKRELL. That must be amended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The footing will have to be changed.

Mr. COCKRELL. It must be amended by adding to it the amount contained in the amendment to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That will be included. The Clerks will change the footing in the absence of objection.

Mr. HALE. The true total, if the Clerks will make the change, and I call the attention of the Senate to it, will be $407,049.87.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The total will be corrected, so as to read "$407,049.87," and the amendment of the committee as amended will be agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 22, on page 75.

Mr. HARRIS. I wish to ask the Senator in charge of the bill if the appropriation for fees of district attorneys of the United States courts in the item just read, or any other lump item, includes a balance due Henry W. McCorry, late district attorney for West Tennessee. I am aware of the fact that there is an unpaid balance of $1,360 or $1,400.

Mr. HALE. It does include it.

Mr. HARRIS. It does include it in one of these lump sums?

Mr. HALE. Yes.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on Appropriations in section 2, was, under the head of "Navy Department claims allowed by the Fourth Auditor and Second Comptroller," on page 83, to strike out the clause from line 16 to line 22, inclusive, in the following words:

That hereafter officers serving on receiving ships, training and practice ships, when not cruising, shall be considered as on shore duty, and entitled to shore-duty pay, and the accounting officers of the Treasury are prohibited from allowing credit to any disbursing officers of the Navy who may allow or pay such officers other than shore-duty pay while so serving.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, on page 85, after line 16, to insert:

For relief of sufferers by wreck of the Huron, $150.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to line 5, on page 86.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. JAMES KERR, its Clerk, returned to the Senate, in compliance with its request, the bill (S. 3325) granting an increase of pension to George W. Clark.

The message also announced that the House insisted on its amendment to the bill (S. 2174) to amend section 736 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, agreed to the conference; asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. GOODNIGHT, Mr. BUCHANAN of Virginia, and Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey managers at the conference on the part of the House.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the President pro tempore:

A bill (H. R. 4871) for the relief of John McMahon;

A bill (H. R. 5396) for the relief of W. H. Howard;

A bill (H. R. 6792) granting to the county of Mariposa, in the State of California, the right of way for a free wagon road or turnpike across the Yosemite National Park in said State; and

A bill (H. R. 7093) making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

ALLEYS IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 5419) "to prevent the building of houses along certain alleys in the city of Washington, and for other purposes," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate and agree to the same amended to read as follows:

"That from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful to erect or place a dwelling house on or along any alley in the District of Columbia, where such alley is less than 30 feet wide and is not supplied with sewerage, water mains, and light: Provided, That no dwelling house hereafter erected or placed in any alley shall in any case be located less than 20 feet back clear of the center line of such alley, so as to give at least a 50-foot roadway and 5 feet on each side of such roadway clear for a walk or footway, and that it shall be unlawful to erect or place a dwelling house in or along any alley which does not run straight to and open at right angles upon one of the public streets bordering the square in which such alley is located, with at least one exit 15 feet in the clear.

"Sec. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed."

Amend the title to read:

"An act regulating the construction of buildings along alleyways in the District of Columbia."

And that the Senate agree to the same.

E. O. WOLCOTT,

JAMES McMILLAN,

CHAS. J. FAULKNER,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

JNO. J. HEMPHILL,

JNO. T. HEARD,

A. C. HARMER,

Managers on the part of the House.

The report was concurred in.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 3871) to provide for the opening of alleys in the District of Columbia, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate, and agree to the same, amended as follows:

To section 1 of the Senate amendment add, after the words "necessary for the public health," the words:

"Provided, That in the opening, extension, widening, or straightening of an alley it shall be lawful to close any original alley, or part of an original alley, the fee of which is in the United States, which may thereby become useless or unnecessary, and that it shall also, in like manner, be lawful to close any other alleys or parts of alleys, the title thereto to revert to the person or persons who dedicated the same for alley purposes, or to their assigns."

In section 3 of the Senate amendment, line 8, after the word "less," insert the words "per square foot;" also in line 9 after the word "value," insert the words "per square foot."

In section 5 of the Senate amendment, in line 11, after the word "and," insert the following: "in case of failure to pay the amount so appropriated."

Insert to stand as section 9 in the Senate amendment the following:

"If any moneys from the sale of land in which the United States is interested shall remain after carrying out the provisions of the preceding sections of this act such moneys shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia."

Change the numbering so that section 9, in the Senate amendment, shall stand as section 10.

And that the Senate agree to the same.

E. O. WOLCOTT,

JAMES McMILLAN,

CHAS. J. FAULKNER,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

JNO. J. HEMPHILL,

JNO. T. HEARD,

A. C. HARMER,

Managers on the part of the House.

The report was concurred in.

the late war; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION OF THE POLICE COURT IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. BOATNER, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported back favorably the bill (S. 3011) to amend "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1891; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

ADMISSION OF THE INDIAN TERRITORY AS A STATE.

Mr. ROCKWELL, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported back favorably a resolution in lieu of the resolution of inquiry relative to the admission of the Indian Territory as a State; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

The original resolution was laid on the table.

DONATION FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES, HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Mr. TERRY. Before the gentleman from Texas [Mr. SAYERS] moves to adjourn I ask unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill to which I am satisfied there will be no objection.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 5039) to authorize sale of lot 8, block 23, city of Hot Springs, by school directors thereof, and use of proceeds for school purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., That the directors of the school district of the city of Hot Springs, Ark., are hereby authorized to sell and convey, at private or public sale, lot 8 in block 23 on Ouachita avenue in said city, as shown by the survey and plat of the United States Commissioners for Hot Springs, heretofore designated and set apart by the Secretary of the Interior as site for school-house, under act approved June 16, 1880, and to apply the proceeds of such sale for the benefit of common schools of said city.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been unanimously reported. The lot to which the bill refers has already been given by the United States to the school district of Hot Springs. It was one of several little lots donated for school sites. The school district commissioners have found an opportunity to buy a building for a schoolhouse cheaper than they could put up one; and on account of the location being such that they do not now want to erect a building on this lot, they ask the Government to permit them to sell it and use the money for school purposes.

Mr. BAILEY. The bill carries no charge upon the Treasury?

Mr. TERRY. None at all.

There being no objection, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill; which was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. TERRY, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

BRIG RUSSELL.

Mr. MANSUR, from the Committee on Claims, reported back the spoilation claim of the brig Russell, and moved its reference to the Committee on Appropriations; which was agreed to.

And then, on motion of Mr. SAYERS (at 5 o'clock and 15 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned until Monday next.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, private bills and resolutions were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House, as follows:

By Mr. CUMMINGS, from the Committee on the Library: A joint resolution (S. R. 93) granting permission to exhibit in the Capitol the portrait of Gen. Thomas, painted by Caroline L. Ransom. (Report No. 1923.)

By Mr. COBB of Missouri, from the Committee on War Claims: A resolution to refer to the Court of Claims the bill (H. R. 3779) for the relief of John Dieters. (Report No. 1924.)

SENATE.

MONDAY, July 18, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Saturday last was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, recommending that authority be given to the accounting officers of the Treasury to audit and allow the claim of James W. Schenck, as requested in a letter of Secretary Folger dated July 11, 1892, directed to the chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations; which was ordered to be printed, and, with the accompanying document, referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Director of the Geological Survey, transmitting, in response to a resolution of the 15th instant, certain information in regard to the officers and employees connected with that survey; which was read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] to the communication which has just been read. The recollection of the Chair is that it is transmitted to the Senate in response to a resolution introduced by the Senator from Colorado.

Mr. WOLCOTT. The resolution in response to which the communication was sent to the Senate was introduced by the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. CARY]. In his absence, I move that it lie on the table for the present.

Mr. ALLISON. And be printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The communication, with the accompanying papers, will lie on the table and be printed.

CONFIRMATION OF APPROPRIATION BILL.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the action of the House of Representatives disagreeing to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 8533) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the amendment thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes, and requesting a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon.

Mr. GORMAN. I move that the Senate insist upon its amendments and agree to the conference asked by the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent the President pro tempore was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. GORMAN, Mr. STANFORD, and Mr. ALLISON were appointed.

Mr. MORGAN. I rise to inquire whether the introduction of bills is in order?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The introduction of bills is not yet reached. Reports of committees are still in order. Are there further reports of committees?

Mr. FAULKNER. Of course the Chair understands that the bill was objected to within the proper time and under the rules of the Senate? It was read for information with the privilege of objecting to it afterwards?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that under the practice of the Senate bills which are considered by unanimous consent during the morning hour can be objected to at any time before their passage.

HARRIETT W. SHACKLETT.

Mr. PEPPER. I am instructed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5719) for the relief of Harriett W. Shacklett, to report it favorably without amendment; and inasmuch as it is one of exceptional merit and the claimant is very old, somewhere in the neighborhood of 80 years, and very much in need of the amount for which the bill makes appropriation, and inasmuch, further, as the other House has passed the bill, I ask for its immediate consideration.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to pay to Harriett W. Shacklett, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $597, which sum shall be taken and accepted and receipted for in full satisfaction of her claim, as found by the Court of Claims.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the bill was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FRENCH SPOILIATION CLAIMS.

Mr. HISCOCK. I ask unanimous consent to call up for present consideration Order of Business 733.

Mr. MITCHELL. I hope the Senator from New York will allow me to submit a report.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The regular order of business being reports of committees, the Senator from Oregon rises to submit a report.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am instructed by the Committee on Claims to report a resolution, and I ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas in the judgment of this committee all French spoliation claims reported from the Court of Claims should in the first instance undergo investigation in and report from this committee; and

Whereas, the following order of the Senate was made June 27 last:

Ordered, That the Committee on Appropriations be discharged from further consideration of the following French spoliation claims favorably reported by the Court of Claims, and that they be referred to the Committee on Claims:

"Brig Confidence, Thomas Manning, master; Fifty-second Congress, first session. S. Mis. Doc. No. 5, page 17.

"Schooner Eliza, Thomas Poulson; idem, page 25.

"Snow Fanny, Garret Barry; idem, page 26.

"Sloop Federal George, George Hussey; idem, page 30.

"Schooner Hannah, Philip Bessom; idem, page 34.

"Brig Hope, Church; idem, page 35.

"Schooner Lucy, Lewis Holmes; idem, page 43.

"Ship Patapasco, William Hill; idem, page 47.

"Schooner Thankful, William Ward; idem, page 53.

"Ship Betsey, Josiah Obeir; idem, page 4.

"Ship Jane, John Wallace; idem, page 10.

"Ship Theresa, Philip Brum; S. Mis. Doc. No. 22.

"Brig Yorick, William Moodle; S. Mis. Doc. 77.

"Schooner Betsey, John Murphy; S. Mis. Doc. 90."

And whereas the claims included in such order did not reach your committee in time to be considered and included in the report on bills theretofore pending in such committee and reported to the Senate June 29 last, and your committee have been unable for want of time to make investigation thereof since that date; and

Whereas all such claims have been incorporated in the deficiency bill now pending in the Senate, by the Committee on Appropriations:

It is the judgment of your committee that while such claims should not ordinarily be included in such deficiency bill until after examination and report from this committee, in order that no invidious distinctions as to investigation and report at this session may be made as to claimants, your committee are willing, under the circumstances, that the same shall be considered in the Senate as a proper amendment to such deficiency bill on such statements as to their proper investigation by that committee as the Committee on Appropriations may feel warranted in making, and for such action of the Senate as may be deemed advisable. And

Resolved, That it is the recommendation of the Committee on Claims that there be excepted from the claims so considered in connection with the deficiency bill all those which are presented by insurance companies or the assignees of insurance companies as claims for insurance, and that all the claims for insurance which were included in the report of this committee submitted on the 29th of June, 1892, should be withdrawn from the deficiency bill and the Senate and re-referred to the Committee on Claims for further consideration.

Mr. ALLISON. Mr. President—

Mr. HALE. The resolution is all right.

Mr. ALLISON. I know it is all right, except in one thing. It states that these insurance cases should be withdrawn from the bill. They have already been withdrawn.

Mr. HALE. I so stated to the Senate.

Mr. ALLISON. They are not in the bill. Then it states that these insurance claims should be re-referred to the Committee on Claims. That may mean very little or it may mean a great deal. I do not think the insurance companies should be paid at all, and therefore if the Committee on Claims is to examine that question I want it to examine it with reference to the peculiar obligation of the United States to pay those claims.

Mr. MITCHELL. I will state to the Senator from Iowa that is the very purpose of the motion to recommend them. When the report was made from the Committee on Claims on the 25th of June there was a bare majority of the committee present. Several members of the committee were absent necessarily from the Senate at that time, as the conventions were running. We were pressed to get the report into the Senate, and felt compelled to take action. There was a difference of opinion among the members of the committee then present as to whether the insurance claims should be paid. With a full committee to-day it was the opinion of all the members of the committee unanimously that inasmuch as there is a difference of opinion among the members of the committee and also in the Senate all the claims should be withdrawn from the Senate and recommended to the committee, so that they may undergo careful investigation.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon asks that the resolution reported by him from the Committee on Claims be adopted by the Senate.

The resolution was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 3450) granting a pension to Mrs. Mary Murry; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (S. 3451) to revive and amend and extend the act of Congress of August 15, 1876, to encourage and promote telegraphic communication between America and Asia, across the Pacific Ocean, from the western shores of the United States to the Hawaiian Islands, to Japan, and China; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. FAULKNER introduced a bill (S. 3452) fixing the time for holding the circuit and district courts in the district of West Virginia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. VEST (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3453) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the sale of title of the United States in lot 3 in square south of square 990," approved March 3, 1891; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 101) directing the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to authorize and permit the construction of certain pits or vaults in the public alleys of the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. SHERMAN, it was

Ordered, That the papers in the case of Philip Hawk be withdrawn from the files of the Senate, no action having been taken thereon.

DIRECT TAX SALE IN FERNANDINA, FLA.

Mr. CALL submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to communicate to the Senate the names of the persons who were the owners of property in Fernandina, Fla., at the time of the direct-tax sale under the act of Congress in 1863-'65, so far as the same appears in the records of the Treasury Department.

ARBITRATION LABOR COMMISSION.

Mr. CALL. I give notice that to-morrow morning I shall ask the indulgence of the Senate to call up the resolution introduced by the Senator from Indiana [Mr. Voorhees] on the 12th instant, for the purpose of submitting some remarks upon it.

EMPLOYMENT OF PINKERTON MEN.

Mr. PEPPER. I desire to call up a resolution which was reported a few days ago from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate in relation to the employment of Pinkerton men.

Mr. HALE. I suggest to the Senator that if that resolution is called up, it will give rise to some debate. I desire that the Senate shall go on and finish the deficiency appropriation bill in order that we may get it into conference.

Mr. PEPPER. I am perfectly willing that it be laid over temporarily until we dispose of the appropriation bill to which the Senator refers.

DEFICIENCY APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. HALE. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the deficiency appropriation bill.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 9284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes.

Mr. HALE. Now, Mr. President, if the Secretary will return to page 113, which we have reached, and will read the remainder of the amendment, as we go along I shall have the insurance claims struck out under the order made by the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The pending question, as the Chair understands, is the motion of the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL], which probably was disposed of by the passage of the resolution this morning.

Mr. HALE. The Senator from Oregon, I know, withdraws that now, because the Senate adopted the rule of action given by the Senator's resolution.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair so understands. The reading of the amendment will proceed.

The Secretary proceeded to read the amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations, beginning at line 1, on page 113, as follows:

On the brig Albert, Robert Gray, master, namely:

Esther H. Buchanan, administratrix of the estate of William B. Buchanan,

Mr. HALE. That is right.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] to the committee's amendment.

Mr. MITCHELL. I simply wish to put this question to the Senator from Maine: Every one of these cases has been passed upon by the Court of Claims. The Court of Claims is functus officio so far as these cases are concerned. Now it is proposed by this amendment to have something done in reference to these very cases by that same court before any payments are made. How are you going to do it? How are you going to get hold of such jurisdiction?

Mr. HALE. This is not my project. I am trying to put the amendment in shape so as to carry out the intention of Senators who are not satisfied with this amendment. I want to change it, and, as has been discoverable from the debate, the intention is in accordance with these words. How practicable that is I do not know. It is open to the objection suggested by the Senator from Oregon, and yet I do not think it is an insuperable objection. Then I think there also should be inserted "hereafter awards shall be made on behalf of those parties," so that the court may settle the matter at the time when they hear the case. That will make the bill and the rule of action of the court symmetrical hereafter.

Mr. HIGGINS. I have no objection to that. I think it would be well.

Mr. HALE. Then, after the word "bankrupts," in line 10, I move to strike out the word "the," and after the word "shall," to insert "hereafter," so as to read: "hereafter the awards shall." We do not award the court awards.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator withdraw the amendment last reported?

Mr. HALE. No; I want that adopted.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Then the question is on that amendment.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment now proposed by the Senator from Maine will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 10, after the word "bankrupts," it is proposed to strike out "the," and after the word "shall" to insert "hereafter," so as to read:

Awards shall hereafter be made on behalf of the next of kin, instead of to voluntary assignees or to assignees in bankruptcy.

Mr. HIGGINS. That is all right.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. I offer the amendment which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 25, after line 8, it is proposed to insert:

That the Metropolitan Railroad Company is hereby required to repair the bridge across Rock Creek at P street, in the District of Columbia, at a cost of not exceeding $15,000, said repairs to make the bridge sufficiently strong to allow the passage of storage-battery cars of the said company, and to be made under the direction of the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and in accordance with plans and specifications to be prepared by him.

Mr. HALE. Let me ask the Senator if we have not already provided for that in another bill?

Mr. McMILLAN. A similar provision was stricken out of the District appropriation bill.

Mr. HALE. We inserted it in another bill?

Mr. McMILLAN. It was in the District appropriation bill, but afterwards stricken out.

Mr. HALE. Taken out in conference?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes.

Mr. HALE. Then I think it ought to go in this bill.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. McMILLAN. I offer another amendment, which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to insert, under the head of "District of Columbia, health department," on page 17, after line 2:

For five garbage inspectors, at a salary of $900 each, $4,500, for fiscal year 1893.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. VOORHEES. If in order I desire to offer the amendment which I send to the desk, and to be heard for a moment upon it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Indiana will be stated.

Mr. VOORHEES. I offer it to come in on page 87, after line 18. It is "Under the Treasury Department, miscellaneous." I did not know of any other better place for it.

The SECRETARY. On page 87, after the word "dollars," in line 18, it is proposed to insert:

Authority is hereby granted for the payment of $750 to St. Julien B. Dapray for special and legal services rendered to the board of control and management, Government exhibit, World's Columbian Exposition, to be held at Chicago, Ill., 1892 and 1893, from monies appropriated.

I have in my hand an elaborate statement made by Edwin Willets, chairman of the board of control of the Government exhibit mentioned in the amendment, which is introduced as follows:

Respectfully forwarded with expression of the opinion that Mr. Dapray should be compensated for the services rendered to the board of management of the Government exhibit.

CHARLES DODD.

It comes here with the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury. I understand that Mr. Dapray is a lawyer of high ability. This is labor which he did not seek; it sought him because of his legal requirements. I have the highest authority for stating that he labored late and early. It was extra work, it is true, he sometimes working until midnight. Although he is a salary officer, I have here the opinion of the Solicitor of the Treasury, which I shall ask to have read.

Mr. Dapray has not sought this in any roundabout way. The Secretary of the Treasury indorses the claim, but the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, for good and satisfactory reasons to himself, has not had it inserted in the bill. I repeat, however, that I have the opinion of the Solicitor of the Treasury here, which, as I say, I shall ask to have read. I think it is a case of very strong equity which ought to be provided for. I lend the paper to the Secretary's desk to be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The letter referred to will be read.

Mr. VOORHEES. Before the Secretary commences the reading I will state further that this money has already been appropriated for. This amendment does not look to an appropriation. This claim was allowed through all the officials up to a certain point, when a clerk in the Treasury Department failed to initial it, perhaps, in proper form, and thereby it failed. Otherwise it would have been paid at the proper time. The merest trifling technicality kept its payment from being made at the proper time, as recommended by the Secretary of the Treasury. I do not think that advantage ought to be taken of a hard-working officer like this in that way.

I know that Mr. Dapray is better known on the other side of the Chamber than he is to me, and his position is one to warrant all I have said of him. I do not think he should be deprived of what he has earned by hard work by so trifling a technicality as has been interposed in this case.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The letter will be read, unless there be objection.

The Secretary read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY
Washington, D. C., January 11, 1891.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose certain papers received from Mr. St. Julien B. Dapray, chief of the law and contract division, Office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department, relating to his account for $750 for extra services in connection with the contract for the exhibit of the Navy Department at the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893.

In a communication herewith addressed to the Solicitor, Mr. Dapray says: "I would respectfully request that your opinion be heard to the legality of such a payment being made to me from the special appropriations under the control of the board, after a full and careful consideration of the question, be rendered in an official communication addressed to Hon. A. B. Nettleton, as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury."

Without being hypercritical or ceremonious as to the propriety of the communication addressed directly to the Solicitor of the Treasury by the claimant, it is assumed that this course was taken with the knowledge and approval of Assistant Secretary Nettleton, and reply is made accordingly.

It appears that the service rendered by Mr. Dapray was after the regular office hours, and did not in any way interfere with the proper discharge of his duties as an officer in the Office of the Supervising Architect. Besides, it does not appear that said board is technically within the jurisdiction, or is a part, of any Executive Department.

It appears that in April, 1891, Lieut. E. B. Taussar, United States Navy, assistant to Capt. Richard W. Meade, United States Navy, representative of the Navy Department, on said board, and Mr. E. T. Dickler, Secretary of the board, requested Mr. Dapray to render certain special legal services to facilitate the adoption of a procedure, prepare legal forms, etc., in connection with the conduct of the public business with which, and for which, was charged by law.

No question is raised as to the legality of this employment.

By decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Congress v. United States, 21 How. 453, a person holding two compatible offices, or many payments under the Government is not precluded from receiving the salary of both, anything in the general laws prohibiting double compensation, and prohibition in those laws extends to every case where the duties are of a different character, and compensation is claimed are performed without a restriction, and are authorized by law. 10 Op. A. G. 508, 509, 510, 511, 12 Op. A. G. 123, 124.

In the case of the United States v. Saunders, 124 U. S. 127, 128, 8 Supr. Ct. of the United States held:

"We are of the opinion that taking the sections 1563, 1564, and 1565 together the purpose of this legislation was to prevent a person from holding two offices or appointments for which the law provides an independent salary, or way of salary or otherwise which is intended to compensate him for services which, as such officer, he may be called upon to perform. It is not intended to provide compensation, additional allowance, or pay for services performed in connection with the duties of him either by act of Congress, or by act of the board of directors, or Department or in any other mode, added to or connected with the regular duties of the place which he holds; but that they have no application to the case of two distinct offices, places, or employments, each of which had its own duties and its own compensation, which offices may both be held by one person at the same time. In the latter case he is, in the eye of the law, two officers, or holds two places, or appointments, the functions of which are separate and distinct and according to all the decisions, he is in such case entitled to receive the two compensations." See also 110 U. S. 68, 19 Court of Claims, 46 (Meigs's case), and 130 U. S. 439. Authorities in support of this principle might be further multiplied.

I am of the opinion that the claim of Mr. Dapray falls clearly within the above decisions and opinions, and that he may, therefore, be lawfully paid for the said special service. The papers submitted are herewith referred.

Very respectfully,

HON. A. B. NETTLETON,
Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

F. A. REEVE, Acting Solicitor.

Mr. HALE. The committee looked into this case and rejected it. In the first place, it did not appear before the committee and does not appear by this letter, which I am very glad has been read, that any remarkable or extensive service was rendered any way. Here is this man employed by the Government to give his time, for which he gets a large pay.

Mr. GEORGE. How much?

Mr. HALE. Eight dollars a day, twice the amount, I venture to say, that he could get in any private employment. He deals with the form of contracts and gives his advice and suggestions with the little immaterial matters that come up in the Supervising Architect's office, but if any important matter comes up it goes to the Solicitor or to the Attorney-General, each one of whom is giving his days and nights to important questions and asks no extra pay for it.

The reading of the communication shows that the only thing that is claimed for is that there was a contract made by the Navy Department about its exhibition at Chicago, and somebody, not the Secretary, not the Assistant Secretary, nobody having the responsibility about it in any enlarged sense, asked this man to prepare an opinion about that one thing. I venture to say that the Senator from Indiana, who is a good lawyer, or any other good lawyer, would have taken that whole question and in one hour would have given an opinion. There is not a committee of this body which deals with questions of this kind that does not, through the lawyers upon the committee, render opinions and give advice that is taken upon important matters of the law here every day of the meeting of committees, and nobody comes in and asks extra pay. There ought to be a stop to these things. The Chicago Exposition deals with the branches of the Government, and it is the business of the officers of the different branches of the Government to do the writing that is necessary, to furnish opinions upon law questions as a part of the work of their Department.

As to the ingenious argument which has been made at the end of the letter, that this case comes outside of the general proposition which all of us assent to, that a man shall not have extra compensation when he is a salaried employe of the Government, I leave that to men who have more imagination than I have. There is nothing in it.

The committee has examined the case and rejected it. I know how good-natured the Senator from Indiana is. I know how he feels in this matter. He is desirous that this man should have his pay because he is large-hearted and generous. Claimants and applicants and leeches apply to him because he is large-hearted and generous. He comes here, as he has a right to do, and urges these claims. I wish sometimes that he would not do this, but I find no fault with him because I know how generous he is. However, the committee having examined this case and rejected it, I am constrained to make a point of order that it is not reported by a committee nor a regular estimate, and it increases the appropriations on the bill.

Mr. VOORHEES. The Senator will allow me to say a single word?

Mr. HALE. Certainly.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The point of order is withdrawn for the purpose of allowing the Senator from Indiana to be heard?

Mr. HALE. Certainly.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, I know that it is difficult to differ successfully from the committee on this floor, but supported by the Secretary of the Treasury, who is a good lawyer, and by the Solicitor of the Treasury, I ventured to do so. The Senator does me far more than justice or injustice, one or the other, perhaps both, in attributing to my kindness of heart that I would support a claim that did not commend itself to my best judgment. I believe this man has been called upon to do work entirely outside of his official duties, and has gone forward and done it, and I belong to a class of people who believe in paying such debts. I do not believe in sponging. I do not believe that the Government is reduced to the necessity of sponging its way to get its work done outside of the proper compensation.

I believe this man ought to have the $750 here proposed to pay him. The Secretary of the Treasury thinks so. The Solicitor of the Treasury thinks so. As I said awhile ago, I have been informed by responsible parties that it was very severe work which he did, lasting often late into the night. I have here a mass of information on the subject which I did not choose to detain the Senate by having read. Here is a very lengthy and a very full communication embracing other official papers, communicated to the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations by Edwin Willits, chairman of this Board of Exhibit at the World's Fair, on which, as I have already said, is the following indorsement:

Respectfully forwarded with expression of the opinion that Mr. Dapray should be compensated for the services rendered to the board of management of the Government exhibit.

CHARLES FOSTER, Secretary.

It seems to me this claim comes here too respectfully supported to be thrown on simply the slender ground of my generosity. I seem to be, as it were, handicapped on questions of this kind. I certainly do not pose in that attitude here. This is no generosity. If this man has done this work, the naked legal question is whether he ought to be paid for it. If he did it as part of his official duties of course he ought not to be paid for it. Who is the best judge of whether he did it by reason of his official duties or outside? I take it the head of the Department ought to have some respect shown to him. I know Secretary Foster. He is not a man whose sympathies would betray him, even if mine would. Secretary Foster coolly and deliberately looks into this question and puts his official indorsement upon it, and it does seem to me that it would be only respectful to the Department to concur in his view of it.

The Senator from Maine says that the committee have looked into this matter and rejected it. That is true, but they reported it before the opinion of the Solicitor was before them. The opinion of the Solicitor is for the first time here. It was not before the Committee on Appropriations. I will do that committee the justice to believe that if they can find it legal to pay a man for work of this kind they would do it. I will do them the justice to believe that they would not pinch a Government employe out of extra labor without paying him for it. That is the reason why I submitted the opinion of the Solicitor, to show that there was no legal point to be made against this little item of appropriation. I have already stated that it was once almost through. If the initial had not failed to be put in right by a negligent clerk at one time it would have been paid.

The Senator from Maine has complimented me as belonging to a class of generous people; but, sir, I am not moved by any consideration of that kind at all. I am moved by the consideration of paying a man for work which he has done, and which his official superiors say he ought to be paid for—the Secretary of the Treasury, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, the Solicitor of the Treasury. The chairman of the board of management and control of this exhibit strongly indorses his labors. The excellence of their character, the equity of this claim, as well as the law, are beyond assault. If the Senator from Maine makes a point of order—I never did understand the rules of order on questions of this kind, but of course that will be submitted to the Chair, who knows all about that point.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, only one word. The Committee on Appropriations does not seek to sponge on the employes of the Government. It gives them, as in this case, liberal salaries and believes the Government is entitled to their services. The Senator does not know how many cases of this kind the committee has constantly before it. In every Department, in almost every division and Bureau, somebody is coming in for extra pay for something that he does, and it is the easiest thing in the world for them to get a certification of their superiors. It is difficult for a Secretary or Assistant Secretary to say "no" to a man who comes forward with an entire argument submitted and a personal claim. I have no doubt that if anybody should ask the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to this case he would say, "I do not know anything about it; it was presented to me, and I signed it; I did not want to refuse it." The committees of the Senate have to look into all these things, and it is a growing evil. The committee simply did not believe that this was a case that had so much merit as to make it an exception, and therefore I must insist upon the point of order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment proposed adds a new item of appropriation to the bill. The Chair understands that it is not to carry out the provisions of any existing law passed by the Senate at the present session, and that it is not moved by direction of a standing or select committee of the Senate or proposed in the regular estimate.

Mr. VOORHEES. One moment. The language of the amendment is that authority be given to pay. I understand the money has been appropriated. Now, I may be misinformed. I do not pretend to be very intelligent upon that point, but it is my information from the Treasury Department that the money has been

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio will state his privileged motion.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate do now adjourn. If the pending motion shall fail, the antioption bill will be the unfinished business at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio moves that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. SAWYER. I ask the Senator to withdraw that motion to allow me to substitute a motion for an executive session.

Mr. SHERMAN. With great pleasure.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion of the Senator from Ohio is withdrawn. The Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. SAWYER] moves that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. BUTLER. I trust that motion will not be pressed now.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Debate is not in order.

Mr. BUTLER. I am not debating.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Wisconsin that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. BUTLER. Upon that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BLACKBURN. What is the motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Wisconsin that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. If he were here, I should vote "yea."

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I am sure he would not care whether I voted or not on a motion to go into executive session, and I vote "nay."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. MCPHERSON], who is absent, and I therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. HUNTON], and therefore withhold my vote.

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. HISCOCK. Is the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] recorded as voting?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He is not recorded.

Mr. HISCOCK. I am paired with that Senator, and withhold my vote.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE. I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON] and withhold my vote.

Mr. COLQUITT. I wish to announce that I am paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON].

Mr. FAULKNER (after having voted in the negative). I voted not noticing that the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY], with whom I am paired is absent. I therefore withdraw my vote.

Mr. COLQUITT. I am at liberty to vote, as I am assured that the Senator from Iowa [Mr. WILSON], with whom I am paired, would vote as I do if he were present. I vote "nay."

Mr. FAULKNER. I am informed by the Senator who has charge of the bill which was taken up for consideration by the Senate, that the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. QUAY], with whom I am paired, would, if present, vote for the bill. I therefore feel at liberty to cast my vote on this question. I vote "nay."

Mr. VOORHEES (after having voted in the affirmative). I did not know there was any question of the antioption bill being involved. If there is I change my vote. I voted "yea," and I now vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN (after having voted in the negative). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], and not knowing how he would vote on this question, if present, I withdraw my vote.

Mr. PASCO. I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. If he were present, I should vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 19, nays 32; as follows:

So the motion was not agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question recurs on the motion of the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] to proceed to the consideration of House bill 3572.

Mr. CULLOM. Mr. President, we have been spending a good deal of time here without any good results, and it is almost night. There are several Senators, I think, who desire to speak on what is known as the antioption bill, but are not quite prepared to do it to-day. I suggest that by unanimous consent, in order to avoid any further wrangle about this question, the suggestion of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL] be acceded to, and that we take up House bills on the Calendar and dispose of them, if we can, this afternoon, the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. BATE] first being allowed to pass his little bill, to which there will be no objection. I think we shall do wisely if we agree to this suggestion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of Senators to the fact that a motion to proceed to the consideration of a bill is not debatable.

Mr. CULLOM. I know that.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Illinois, as the Chair understands, was asking unanimous consent—

Mr. CULLOM. Yes, to make this request, so that we may have order, and at the same time do business.

Mr. BLACKBURN (to Mr. CULLOM). You are right.

Mr. CULLOM. I think it is the right thing to do.

Mr. BUTLER. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry. I suppose that is in order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from South Carolina rises to a parliamentary inquiry, which he will state.

Mr. BUTLER. My inquiry is this: If the motion of the Senator from Illinois prevails—

Mr. CULLOM. I have not made any motion. I made a suggestion.

Mr. BUTLER. If we accede to the suggestion of the Senator from Illinois by unanimous consent, how do we that leave the antioption bill?

Mr. BLACKBURN. It does not displace it.

Mr. CULLOM. Not at all. I am not seeking to displace that bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will state the parliamentary condition as the Chair understands it. The pending bill is what is known as the antioption bill. Pending the consideration of that bill, the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill the title of which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 3572) for the relief of Rich and M. Edwards, of Cleveland, Tenn.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The result of which motion, if it should prevail, would be to displace the antioption bill and make this bill the pending business.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope that no motion will be made which will in any way involve the displacement of the antioption bill.

Mr. ALDRICH. I hope this discussion will be in order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Discussion is not in order except by unanimous consent.

Mr. ALDRICH. And that the proceedings of the Senate will be in order.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I ask unanimous consent—

Mr. ALDRICH. I call for the regular order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Senators will be in order.

Mr. BUTLER. I yield to the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. BLACKBURN. I trust the request of the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM] will be acceded to, and that by unanimous agreement we may go on with the House bills on the Calendar, which are unobjectionable and favorably reported, without displacing what is known as the antioption bill, but leave it with all its rights of way as unfinished business.

Mr. MORGAN. I object, Mr. President, to going on with the cases from the House unobjectionable.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Regular order!

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The regular order is the next tion of the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] that the Senate proceed to the consideration of House bill 3572, the title of which has been stated. Is the Senate ready for the question? [Putting the question.] The ayes appear to have it.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Yes, let us have the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, Will the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill, the title of which has been stated?

Mr. VOORHEES. Does that involve the displacement of what is known as the antioption bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It does. Under the rules of the Senate it would displace the antioption bill as the unfinished business.

Mr. BATE. But has it not been agreed to by the Senate—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Debate is not in order.

Mr. BATE. I was rising to a parliamentary inquiry. Has it not been agreed that the antioption bill shall go over until 2 o'clock to-morrow?

Mr. ALDRICH, Mr. WASHBURN, and others. Regular order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that a request was made that the antioption bill go over until 2 o'clock to-morrow, and objection was made. So that the pending question is as stated, that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill, the title of which has been stated, on which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. HARRIS. I want to ask unanimous consent to talk just one-half minute.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee asks unanimous consent of the Senate that he be permitted to address the Senate. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HARRIS. The bill which my colleague has asked the consideration of is for the relief of a man, who I chance to know is about 80 years of age, an old soldier, needy and dependent. I should be exceedingly glad to have the unanimous consent of the Senate to consider the bill and pass it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the motion—

Mr. WASHBURN. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry, which is, if the effect of this motion will be to displace the antioption bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator can only address the Senate by unanimous consent at this time. The Chair did not understand the inquiry of the Senator.

Mr. ALDRICH. Regular order!

Mr. HARRIS. I asked unanimous consent. I did not want to submit a motion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] was recognized by the Chair and was understood to rise to a parliamentary inquiry, which the Chair did not understand. Will the Senator repeat his inquiry?

Mr. WASHBURN. I ask unanimous consent that the bill of the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. BATE] may be taken up.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Minnesota asks unanimous consent—

Mr. WASHBURN. Without displacing the antioption bill. The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that.

Mr. SHERMAN. That can not be done.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Minnesota asks unanimous consent of the Senate that, pending the unfinished business, it be temporarily laid aside, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill the title of which will be again stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 3572) for the relief of Richard M. Edwards, of Cleveland, Tenn.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to Richard M. Edwards, late captain and commissary of subsistence, the pay and allowance of a captain of cavalry from June 30, 1862, to November 2, 1863.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. WASHBURN. Now, Mr. President, I call for the regular order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senate resumes the consideration of the bill—

Mr. HISCOCK. Pending the regular order, I ask unanimous consent that it be temporarily laid aside, and that Order of Business 733 be taken up for consideration.

Mr. WASHBURN. I object.

Mr. COCKRELL. I hope that will not be done. We shall not be able to pass that bill this evening. We certainly should have some order and system in the transaction of business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Senators will be seated until the Chair states the unanimous consent desired by the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK]. The Senator from New York asks unanimous consent that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of a bill the title of which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill S. 2454 for the application of the accretions of the Caracas awards of 1868 to the new awards made in 1889 and 1890.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COCKRELL. There is.

Mr. WASHBURN. I shall have to object to the consideration of that bill, but I will state—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made, the bill can not be considered at this time.

Mr. WASHBURN. After the antioption bill has been read through, I shall yield for the consideration of unobjectioned cases on the Calendar for the balance of the day.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Minnesota yield to the Senator from Colorado?

Mr. COCKRELL. I hope the Senator from Minnesota will then ask that the unobjectioned House bills on the Calendar may be taken up in their order and disposed of.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] is entitled to the floor. Does he yield to the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT]?

Mr. WASHBURN. For what purpose?

Mr. WOLCOTT. Mr. President, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will recognize the Senator from Colorado if the Senator from Minnesota yields the floor to him for that purpose.

Mr. WASHBURN. I call for the regular order.

Mr. WOLCOTT. The Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] is now in his seat. May I be recognized without the permission of any other Senator, Mr. President? [Laughter.]

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] on the pending bill.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I ask for information, if it is in order, to move to pass to the consideration of another order of business?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is in order.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Order of Business 722, being the bill S. 812 granting a pension to Ellen Williams, a hospital nurse, who is in great poverty and suffering. It is a bill which would appeal to the magnanimity and generosity of every Senator here and of infinitely more importance.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senator from Colorado to the fact that debate is not in order.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will state the pending question. The Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT] moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill S. 812 granting a pension to Ellen Williams.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Which motion is not debatable.

Mr. BUTLER. I simply desire to say that I object. I suppose that I can go that far.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This is not a request for unanimous consent, but a motion that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill, which motion is not debatable.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I did not ask the consent of the Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. PADDOCK. I ask for unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill named by the Senator from Colorado.

Mr. WASHBURN. I object, and call for the regular order.

Mr. PADDOCK. And that the regular order may be laid aside informally.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made to the request, the question reverts on the motion of the Senator from Colorado that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill named, upon which motion debate is not in order.

Mr. GALLINGER. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER].

Mr. GALLINGER. Acknowledging my ignorance, very likely, of the rules of this body, I desire to make this inquiry: A bill having been taken up by vote of the Senate, is it competent to antagonize it by a motion to take up another bill, and so continue with the Calendar, and absolutely obstruct the consideration of that bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Such a motion is in order under the rules of the Senate.

Mr. GALLINGER. I am very glad to learn the fact. It is very extraordinary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question recurs on the motion of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT].

Mr. WOLCOTT. I hope the Senator from New Hampshire will withdraw the remark about antagonizing the bill. I am not antagonizing it.

Mr. PADDOCK. That is the effect of the Senator's course.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Debate is not in order on the pending question. [Putting the question.] The yeas seem to have it.

Mr. WOLCOTT and Mr. BLACKBURN called for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]; but after consulting his colleague [Mr. HANSBROUGH] I feel at liberty to vote on this question. I vote "nay."

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. HUNTON], who is absent to-day on account of sickness. He requested me to observe my pair in all matters, so I withhold my vote.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GEORGE. I desire to ask the junior Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL] how his colleague [Mr. DOLPH] would vote on this question if present?

Mr. MITCHELL. My impression is that my colleague, if present, would vote "nay" upon this particular question. He is in favor of the antioption bill, as I understand.

Mr. GEORGE. Then the Senator thinks I would be authorized to vote?

Mr. WASHBURN. The Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH] authorized me to pair him in favor of the bill.

Mr. GEORGE. Then, as I agree with him on this question, I vote "nay."

Mr. WOLCOTT. My colleague [Mr. TELLER] is absent from the Chamber through illness. If present he would vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 20, nays 41; as follows:

So the motion was not agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill resumes its place upon the Calendar without prejudice, in the absence of objection.

Mr. HISCOCK (at 4 o'clock and 40 minutes p. m.). There are several Senators who desire to speak upon the antioption bill, and I have no doubt they will be prepared to do so to-morrow. Therefore, I move that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. WASHBURN. If the Senator will withdraw that motion, I will suggest that the antioption bill be now read, and then I will make a motion to adjourn.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The motion is not debatable.

Mr. WASHBURN. I shall be willing to consent to an ad-jourment as soon as the antioption bill is read. I hope the motion will be voted down.

Mr. ALDRICH. Is a motion to adjourn debatable, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is not. The question recurs on the motion of the Senator from New York that the Senate do now adjourn. [Putting the question.] The yeas appear to have it.

Mr. HISCOCK. I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. BUTLER. Let us have the bill read. We can make that much progress this afternoon.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The yeas and nays are demanded on the pending question, which is the motion of the Senator from New York that the Senate do now adjourn.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

Mr. SHOUP (when the name of Mr. DUBOIS was called). My colleague [Mr. DUBOIS] is absent from the Chamber to-day on account of sickness.

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I announce again that I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON].

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. PLATT. I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. HUNTON].

The result was announced—yeas 20, nays 37; as follows:

YEAS—20.

Aldrich,	Carlisle,	Gray,	Sanders,
Bate,	Cockrell,	Harris,	Sawyer,
Blackburn,	Coke,	Hiscock,	Vest,

Dolph,	Hunton,	Platt,	Warren,
Dubois,	Jones, Nev.	Power,	Wilson.
Gallinger,	Kenna,	Quay,

So the Senate refused to adjourn.

Mr. GRAY (at 4 o'clock and 45 minutes p. m.). I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. WASHBURN. I call for the yeas and nays on that motion.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CARLISLE (when his name was called). I am paired on this question with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I again announce my pair with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS].

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I announce my pair with the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON].

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. HUNTON].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GRAY. I wish to announce that I am paired with the Senator from Idaho [Mr. DUBOIS].

The result was announced—yeas 15, nays 34; as follows:

YEAS—15.

Aldrich,	Coke,	Hiscock,	Vest,
Bate,	Cullom,	Palmer,	White,
Brice,	Dixon,	Pugh,	Wolcott.

Davis,	Hill,	Platt,	Warren,
Dobbin,	Hoar,	Power,	Wilson,
Dubois,	Hunt,	Quay,
Felt,

So the motion was rejected.

DEALING IN OPTIONS AND FUTURES.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senate resumes the consideration of the pending business, being the antioption bill, so called.

Mr. BUTLER. I call for the reading of the bill.

Mr. WHITE (at 4 o'clock and 53 minutes p. m.). I move that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. WASHBURN. I ask for the yeas and nays on that motion.

Mr. CULLOM. Let the vote be first taken without the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Minnesota withdraw the demand for the yeas and nays?

Mr. WASHBURN. I withdraw the demand for the yeas and nays for the present.

Mr. WHITE. I renew the demand.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] moves that the Senate do now adjourn.

The Secretary will call the roll.

Mr. WHITE. I will withdraw my motion, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The yeas and nays having been ordered, the motion can only be withdrawn by unanimous consent.

Mr. WHITE. I ask unanimous consent.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WASHBURN. It is very evident that the Senate is not prepared to go on with the discussion of the bill to-night. I therefore move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Minnesota moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. BUTLER. Before that motion is put, Mr. President, if the Senator will yield for one moment, I should like to have an understanding that to-morrow morning after the regular routine business this bill will be taken up for consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pending the motion to proceed to the consideration of executive business, the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the pending measure, which is the bill (H. R. 7815), defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes, be made the order at the conclusion of the routine morning business to-morrow. Is there objection?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I appeal to the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] in behalf of a bill I wish to have taken up to-morrow after the conclusion of the routine business. On several occasions, owing to the sickness of the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, I have been prevented from calling up a bill which very strongly affects my State. It is a bill affecting a large number of people in my State, for the passage of which I have been impeded, and for a hearing of which I have been struggling, and have been delayed on at least half a dozen occasions. I think, owing to the ill-health, or some other such cause, of the chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senate from Washington to the fact that a request for unanimous consent is akin to a motion to proceed to the consideration of another bill, and can only proceed by unanimous consent. Is there objection?

Mr. ALDRICH. I object.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made, the Senator from Washington can not proceed. Is there objection to the request for unanimous consent made by the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER]?

Mr. ALDRICH. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. BUTLER. Objection is quite unnecessary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pending the motion to proceed to the consideration of executive business, the Senator from South Carolina asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the pending bill, known as the antioption bill, shall be the order at the conclusion of the routine morning business to-morrow. Is there objection?

Mr. ALDRICH. I entered an objection something ago.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made, the unanimous request is denied. The question recurs on the motion of the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, July 18, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer by the Rev. J. H. CUTHBERT, D. D.

The Journal of Saturday's proceedings was read and approved.

CONFERENCE ON FORTIFICATION BILL.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the gentleman from Massachusetts, Gen. COGSWELL, be indefinitely excused on account of sickness. I wish also to suggest to the Chair that the gentleman from Massachusetts is one of the members on the part of the House upon the fortification appropriation bill, and that the other member of the subcommittee on that bill is the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. GROUT].

The SPEAKER. Without objection, indefinite leave of absence will be granted to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. COGSWELL] on account of sickness. The Chair hears no objection. The Chair appoints as one of the conferees on the fortification appropriation bill the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. GROUT], in lieu of the gentleman from Massachusetts.

BUSINESS OF COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Mr. BLOUNT. I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Foreign Affairs have leave to sit during the sessions of the House.

There being no objection, leave was granted.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER laid before the House Senate bills and a joint resolution of the following titles, which were severally read twice, and referred as stated:

A bill (S. 3325) granting an increase of pension to George W. Clark—to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (S. 2398) for the relief of Henry W. Lee—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

A bill (S. 2772) for the relief of Seaton Norman—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

A bill (S. 3416) regulating licenses in the District of Columbia, and imposing penalties for engaging in any trade, business, or profession without having first obtained a license therefor—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

A bill (S. 3068) to amend an act entitled "An act for the relief of W. H. Tibbitts," approved August 8, 1888—to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

A bill (S. 1940) granting a pension to Helen A. Patterson—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

A bill (S. 3188) to extend to Duluth, Minn., the privileges of the first section of an act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," approved June 10, 1888—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Joint resolution (S. R. 100) to permit the railroads of the District of Columbia to lay extra tracks to accommodate the traveling public during the Grand Army of the Republic encampment—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

WILLIAM S. WALKER.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the bill (S. 2416) to remove the political disabilities of William S. Walker, of Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. I ask unanimous consent that this bill be now considered. It is for the relief of an old general in the Confederate army.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of both Houses concurring), That all legal and political disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States by reason of participation in the late rebellion be, and they are hereby, removed from William S. Walker, of Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, this gentleman was an officer—

Several MEMBERS. No objection.

There being no objection, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill; which was read three times, and passed (two-thirds voting in favor thereof).

JOHN A. LYNCH.

Mr. HARE. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (S. 64) for the relief of John A. Lynch.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That in accordance with the judgment of the Court of Claims the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to pay to John A. Lynch, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $115,366 in full and complete satisfaction for services rendered and expenses incurred and defrayed by him, the said John A. Lynch, to and for the United States at Cincinnati in the State of Ohio, in the years 1861 and 1862.

Mr. KILGORE. I ask for the reading of the report.

The SPEAKER. The report, which is of a documentary nature, is long. Perhaps the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HARE] can state the substance of it.

Mr. KILGORE. I presume the gentleman can state the facts of the case. I think the House ought to have some information in regard to it.

Mr. HARE. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides compensation for services rendered by the claimant in Cincinnati in 1861 in organizing and equipping troops under the direction of Gen. Fremont. The understanding was that he should be commissioned as a captain and quartermaster in the United States military service; and he was in November, 1862, so commissioned, but not with rank covering the time during which these services had been rendered. The Court of Claims has found that if he had been actually commissioned as a captain and quartermaster at that time the amount of compensation and allowances to which he would have been entitled would have been $2,600. The exact figures are given in the report. But inasmuch as he made no claim for greater compensation than one thousand two hundred odd dollars they limit his right of recovery to that sum, and, deducting a credit of $125, they report in his favor to the amount of $1,477.93.

Mr. KILGORE. Does the gentleman state that this matter has been passed upon by the Court of Claims?

Mr. HARE. Oh, yes.

Mr. KILGORE. And the amount claimed in the bill is the amount ascertained by the court?

Mr. HARE. Yes, sir.

Mr. KILGORE. I will not object.

Mr. BUSHNELL. Let me ask the gentleman why it is that this claim was not paid before? It seems to have slept some thirty years.

Mr. HARE. I am unable to answer the gentleman's question. It has been pending here before several Congresses, and has been favorably reported more than once. It was not reached, however, for consideration on the Calendar in any previous Congress.

Mr. BUSHNELL. How did it come before the Court of Claims?

Mr. HARE. By a petition filed some years ago. I do not remember precisely when.

Mr. BUSHNELL. Not by a special act?

Mr. HARE. Oh, no.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. WATSON. I object.

ARCHIBALD C. LEGG.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 8986) to carry out the findings of the Court of Claims in the case of Archibald C. Legg, deceased, ex. The United States.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read, subject to objection.

The bill was read at length.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. REED. Let the report be read before consent is given.

The SPEAKER. The report will be read, subject to objection.

The report was read at length.

Mr. REED. Why does not this come under the head of what are known as the 4th of July claims?

Mr. DE ARMOND. I did not understand the question of the gentleman from Maine.

Mr. REED. Why has not this been passed upon by the Quartermaster-General in the usual method prescribed for the consideration of these so-called 4th of July claims?

Mr. DE ARMOND. I can only say in reply to the gentleman from Maine that this gentleman, Mr. Legg, died during the war. But why the claim was not presented and passed upon in the manner he suggests I do not know. Nor do I know that it was not so passed upon, and can not give the information.

It seems to have been presented here years ago and referred to the Court of Claims and passed upon by that body. If anything is to be allowed the claimant it seems to be most reasonable that $75 a head should be given for these fourteen mules.

Mr. REED. As I understand it, the Government has passed a law by which all claims of this character may be investigated and passed upon by the Quartermaster's Department, and we used to pay, on the ascertainment of the result of the Quartermaster's examination, such claims as were recommended by him. This seems to be a case of that character, and I do not see why it was not so adjudicated. It is now thirty years of age—

Mr. BOATNER. I will say to the gentleman from Maine that I had a resolution referred by the last Congress directing an investigation of this character, and the Quartermaster refused to conduct the investigation because there was no appropriation. He refused to execute the order of the House.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. WATSON. I object.

ARCHIE ST. CLAIR AND CHARLES E. ROGERS.

Mr. QUACKENBUSH. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 5869) for the relief of Archie St. Clair and Charles E. Rogers.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read, subject to objection.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sums herein named, respectively, to the parties herein named, in full of all damages sustained by them by reason of the colliding of the United States steam tug Ordinance with the canal boat A. C. Chandler, in the New York Harbor, on June 29, 1887, the United States local inspectors of steam vessels having reported that such collision was due entirely to fault on the part of the Ordinance, namely: To Archie St. Clair, of New York City, for damages to his canal boat A. C. Chandler, $1,100, and to Charles E. Rogers & Co., of New York City, for damages to lumber then on board said canal boat, $114, all of which papers of proof are at the Third Auditor's Office on file and subject to perusal.

There being no objection, the bill was considered, and ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. QUACKENBUSH, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

CITY OF RALEIGH, N. C.

Mr. BUNN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 9270) for the relief of the city of Raleigh, N. C.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read subject to objection.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to the city of Raleigh, State of North Carolina, the sum of $134 66, the same being one-third of the cost of paving the streets in front of the United States post-office building in said city.

There being no objection, the bill was considered, and ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. BUNN, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

THE CHEROKEE STRIP.

Mr. SIMPSON. I offer the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk, and ask unanimous consent for its present consideration.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution, after which the Chair will ask if there be objection to its consideration.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Rules be, and is hereby, authorized to bring in a rule setting a day before the adjournment of this session for the consideration of the bill H. R. 9190, reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs, known as the Ped bill, for the opening of the Cherokee Strip.

Mr. SIMPSON. I ask unanimous consent that I may be allowed five minutes in which to make a statement in regard to this bill.

Mr. DINGLEY. The right to object is reserved, of course.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Kansas [Mr. SIMPSON] asks unanimous consent that he may be allowed to make a statement for five minutes, before the question of unanimous consent for the consideration of the resolution is submitted. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Kansas is recognized.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill of very great importance. There are people gathered along the southern border of Kansas from all parts of the United States. Many of them have been waiting more than a year for the opening of this territory. The Commissioners appointed have agreed with the Indians, have reported to the President, and the President has furnished the House with this treaty. This bill involves the opening of nearly 5,000,000 acres of the very best land in the United States, and I doubt if it is equaled in the whole world. The people of this country are demanding this land for their homes. They await the action of this House.

The bill involves the appropriation of some $8,000,000, but it is not an appropriation that will be any loss to the people of the United States. The bill fixes the price of the land, part of it at $2.50 per acre and part of it at $1.50 per acre. This will result in a gain to the Government of $2,500,000 or $3,000,000 above what the Government will pay for it, and it will be a profitable investment for the people of the United States, so that it is merely loaning the money and not appropriating it.

I understand of course, with the large appropriations the Democratic party has already made, that they may hesitate about appropriating this money, but yet it occurs to me that after you have appropriated such immense sums for building battle ships, tion is sustained what effect will it have upon the antioption bill at 2 o'clock to-morrow?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will have no effect upon it, because at 2 o'clock to-morrow the unfinished business under the rules will be laid before the Senate.

Mr. GEORGE. The special order would have no precedence over it?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It would not displace it.

Mr. PLATT. I think the Senator from Washington is entitled to the courtesy which he asks of the Senate. This is a bill in which he and his people are very much interested. The chairman of the committee [Mr. DAWES] asked him to postpone its consideration several times on account of illness and he complied with the request, and has been forced into what now appears to be the last of the session. I think he ought to have an opportunity to have the bill considered.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Connecticut will please suspend. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

Mr. WASHBURN. Mr. President—

Mr. PLATT. Will the Senator from Minnesota allow the unfinished business to be laid aside long enough to get a vote on the motion of the Senator from Washington?

Mr. WASHBURN. I will do so.

Mr. PEPPER. I wish to say in reference to the motion of the Senator from Washington that I feel like opposing it for the reason that I have asked leave two or three different times to call up a resolution that had come over from a previous day. Finally it was taken up, and I gave way, at the request of other Senators, and the time was occupied until the morning hour had expired. I should like very much, indeed, if any such courtesies are to be extended, that I may be permitted to call up that resolution to-morrow morning during the morning hour.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands the Senator from Minnesota to yield to the Senator from Washington, that a vote may be taken upon the motion made by him?

Mr. WASHBURN. I do.

Mr. ALLEN. I wish to appeal for an instant to the Senator from Kansas.

Mr. CULLOM (to Mr. ALLEN). There will be no objection to your motion, I think.

Mr. ALLEN. Very well; I submit the motion.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President—

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Minnesota, who is recognized as entitled to the floor, yield to the Senator from Florida, who has addressed the Chair?

Mr. WASHBURN. I do.

Mr. CALL. I desire to state that I gave notice that this morning at the conclusion of the morning hour I would address the Senate upon a resolution I formerly introduced and upon that of the Senator from Indiana [Mr. VOORHEES], in relation to the labor troubles. I desire now to renew the notice that to-morrow morning I desire to submit some remarks on the resolution before the Senate. I give notice that at the conclusion of the routine business, I shall ask the Senate to indulge me in a few remarks. I ask that the Senate Committee on the Judiciary may be discharged from the further consideration of the resolution referred to them, and that it may be printed and lie on the table.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Washington [Mr. ALLEN] that the bill (S. 3056) giving consent of Congress to the removal by the Legislature of the State of Washington of the restrictions upon the power of alienation of a portion of the lands in the Puyallup Indian Reservation, upon certain conditions therein contained, be made a special order for half past 12 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. MORGAN. I desire to ask whether that would displace the business which goes over until to-morrow from to-day?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair would construe the rule that the resolution introduced by the Senator from Alabama, having received consideration in the morning hour, will be placed upon the Calendar subject to motion.

Mr. WARREN. Mr. President, I do not wish to antagonize the bill that is sought to be made a special order, but I have given notice that I wish to occupy a little time to-morrow morning at the close of the routine business. I ask that the bill may not displace the notice I have given.

Mr. ALLEN. I think it will take but a very short time to dispose of the bill I wish to have set down for consideration to-morrow.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Washington. [Putting the question.] The ayes seem to have it. The ayes have it, and the motion is agreed to, two-thirds, as required by the rule, having voted in favor thereof.

RIOT AT HOMESTEAD, PA.

Mr. CALL. I ask the indulgence of the Senator from Minnesota a moment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Minnesota yield to the Senator from Florida?

Mr. WASHBURN. Yes, sir.

Mr. CALL. I introduced a resolution sometime since, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. I ask that the committee be discharged from its consideration, and that it be printed and lie upon the table.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Florida asks that the resolution referred to the Committee on the Judiciary on the 7th day of July be withdrawn from the committee, and lie upon the table.

Mr. PLATT. Let the resolution be reported.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A resolution, by Mr. CALL, denning the crime of treason and providing for the arrest, indictment, and trial of all persons armed and in the service of the Pinkertons, engaged in the recent attack on the people of the United States at the battle of Homestead.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Florida?

Mr. PLATT. Why does the Senator wish to withdraw the resolution from the Committee on the Judiciary? Is it simply in order that he may make some remarks upon it?

Mr. CALL. First, because I want to have it printed, and second, because I wish to submit some observations to the Senate upon it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection. The resolution is withdrawn from the committee, and will be printed and lie on the table.

DEALING IN OPTIONS AND FUTURES.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read at length, as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I know of no more important question than the resolution which was before the Senate until 2 o'clock, and in the middle of the debate upon which this bill was announced as the regular order. I move that the consideration of the resolution of the Senator from Alabama be continued.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Colorado moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a resolution which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A resolution, by Mr. MORGAN, directing the Committee on Finance to report to the Senate a bill to give to all paper money issued directly by the United States as a legal tender for dues, and to all standard silver dollars of the United States, the full legal-tender effect that is given by law to coins of gold.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT].

Mr. WOLCOTT. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. WASHBURN. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator will state it.

Mr. WASHBURN. What would be the effect of the adoption of the motion on the pending measure?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It would displace the pending measure.

Mr. COCKRELL (to Mr. WASHBURN). It would kill your bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Secretary will call the roll on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Colorado.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BERRY (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER].

Mr. CALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR]. I do not know how he would vote. I should vote "nay" if he were here.

Mr. DAVIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TURPIE]. I understand the Senator from Indiana would vote with me on this question, and I vote "nay."

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH]. I submit to his colleague [Mr. MITCHELL] whether I would be at liberty to vote on this question.

Mr. MITCHELL. My colleague [Mr. DOLPH] would vote against the pending motion, the anti-option bill being before the Senate.

Mr. GEORGE. I vote "nay."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. HIGGINS (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON], but I assume that he would be opposed to the present consideration of the resolution of the Senator from Alabama, and therefore I vote "nay."

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. On this question I feel at liberty to vote, and I vote "nay."

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR].

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. CALL. Taking it for granted that the Senator from Vermont [Mr. PROCTOR] would vote "nay," I will vote. I vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 7, nays 50; as follows:

YEAS—7.

Brice, Gibson, La.	Gibson, Md. Hiscock,	Sanders, Vest, NAYS—50.	Walcott,
Aldrich,	Dixon,	Jones, Ark.	Ransom,

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 16th instant approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 547) for the relief of Lieut. Col. Charles G. Sawtelle, deputy quartermaster-general United States Army;

An act (S. 3273) authorizing the St. Joseph's Church in the parish of East Baton Rouge, in the State of Louisiana, to use the land quitclaimed to it by the United States for school purposes; and

An act (S. 3299) to amend section 7 of the act approved June 22, 1888, entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Missouri River at or near the city of Omaha, Neb.," and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the President had on this day approved and signed the following act and joint resolution:

An act (S. 1741) to vest the title of public square 1102, in the city of Washington, D. C., in the trustees of the Fourth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, and for other purposes; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 76) to authorize the President to invite certain governments to send delegates to the Pan-American Medical Congress.

CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS—VETO MESSAGE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, and, on motion of Mr. VEST, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate:

I return herewith, without my approval, the bill (Senate 2729) entitled: "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to establish circuit courts of appeals, and to define and regulate in certain cases the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and for other purposes.'"

The original act to which this amendment is proposed, constituting an intermediate court of appeals, had for its object the relief of the Supreme Court by limiting the cases which might be brought up for hearing in that court. The first section of the bill under consideration allows appeals in criminal cases where the sentence imposes no imprisonment and the fine is as much as one thousand dollars. The effect of this provision will be to bring to the Supreme Court many cases that, in my opinion, should be finally determined in the intermediate appellate court; and so, in part, to defeat the general purpose of Congress in constituting the intermediate court. But this objection would not alone have sufficient weight in my mind to induce me to return the bill. Section 3 of the bill is as follows:

"That no appeal shall hereafter be allowed from judgments of the Court of Claims in cases under the act of March 3, 1891, entitled 'An act to provide for the adjudication and payment of claims arising from Indian depredations' except where the adjudication involves the construction or application of the Constitution, or the validity or construction of a treaty or the constitutionality of a law of the United States: Provided, however, That upon such appeal it shall be competent for the Supreme Court to require, by certiorari or otherwise, the whole case to be certified for its review and determination upon the facts as well as the law."

I am advised by the Attorney-General that under the Indian depredations act eight thousand cases, involving an aggregate of damages claimed of about thirty millions of dollars, have already been filed.

A number of these cases involve as much as $100,000 each; while a few involve as much as a half million dollars each, and one something over a million of dollars. The damages which may be awarded in these cases by the Court of Claims are to be paid out of the trust fund of the Indians held by the United States, or, if there are no such funds, out of the Treasury of the United States. The law referring these cases to the Court of Claims has had no judicial interpretation and many novel and difficult questions are likely to arise. It is quite a startling proposition and a very novel one, I think, that there shall be absolutely no opportunity for the review in an appellate court in cases involving such large amounts, of questions involving the construction of the statute under which the court is proceeding, or those various questions of law, many of them new, which necessarily arise in such cases. Neither the claimants, the Indians nor the Government of the United States should be absolutely denied opportunity to bring their exceptions to review by some appellate tribunal. I would not suggest that an appeal should be allowed in all cases. Some limitation as to amount would be reasonable, and, perhaps, some discretion might be lodged in the Supreme Court as to granting appeals. The limitations, however, imposed by the section I have quoted are so severe and unreasonable in my judgment that I have felt compelled to return the bill to the Senate with a view to its reconsideration.

BENJ. HARRISON.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 19, 1892.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 9580) to ratify and approve an act of the Legislature of the Territory of Oklahoma, providing for the funding of county indebtedness in said Territory, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Territories.

The bill (H. R. 9584) to provide for the improvement of the outer bar of Brunswick, Ga., was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The bill (H. R. 9592) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to obtain plans and specifications for public buildings to be erected under the supervision of the Treasury Department, and providing for local supervision of the construction of the same, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds; and

The bill (H. R. 9286) to create the California debris commission and regulate hydraulic mining in the State of California, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

COMMITTEE ON IMMIGRATION.

Mr. CHANDLER submitted the following resolution: which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Committee on Immigration be enlarged by the addition of two Senators thereto, making eleven the number of the full committee.

Mr. CULLOM subsequently said: In pursuance of the resolution adopted by the Senate a little while ago, increasing the membership of the Committee on Immigration, I ask consent that the Chair appoint the two additional members.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CHANDLER in the chair). It will be so ordered if no objection is made. The Chair hears none. The additional members of the Committee on Immigration will consist of Messrs. HISCOCK and GRAY.

RETAIL PRICES AND WAGES.

Mr. WASHBURN. I yield to the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH] to submit a report.

Mr. ALDRICH. I submit the report of the Committee on Finance, acting under instruction of the resolution of the Senate of March 3, 1891, in reference to retail prices and wages.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be received, and printed, and lie upon the table.

Mr. ALDRICH. I ask the Senator from Minnesota to yield that I may submit a motion to print 20,000 extra copies of the report without the appendices. I ask that that motion be referred to the Committee on Printing.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is moved by the Senator from Rhode Island that there be printed 20,000 copies of the report just made by him from the Committee on Finance, without the appendices.

Mr. COCKRELL. What report is that?

Mr. ALDRICH. The report on retail prices and wages.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is there any minority report with it?

Mr. ALDRICH. No; it is the unanimous report of the committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to print extra copies will be referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. CARLISLE. Do I understand the Senator from Rhode ments agreed to to-day be printed in the body of the bill in italics, that all the amendments which have been offered to the bill to-day, and all amendments thus far offered and not agreed to, be printed at the end of the bill. I think that will accomplish the object which the Senator from Minnesota has in view.

Mr. WASHBURN. That will cover the case exactly.

Mr. ALLISON. If the amendments could be printed in the order of their being offered they could be taken up in that way, when we come to consider the bill, or they might be printed in the order in which they come in the bill.

Mr. PADDOCK. I should like to inquire of the Senator if the amendments printed to-day are to be printed in italics? I understood they were to be printed in ordinary type.

Mr. WASHBURN. No, in ordinary type.

Mr. ALLISON. In italics: the original text of the bill must be preserved as the bill came from the House.

Mr. WASHBURN. The amendments adopted will be printed in italics.

Mr. PADDOCK. I understand that the amendments offered and not acted upon are to be printed at the end of the bill.

Mr. ALLISON. At the end of the bill, and in ordinary type.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair understands that the bill as it came from the House is to be reprinted, having in italics the amendments this day adopted; and that following that text are to be the amendments which have been offered to-day in the order of their place in the bill.

Mr. WASHBURN. Following the bill.

Mr. GEORGE. Except the amendment I have offered, being a substitute for the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Except the substitute of the Senator from Mississippi, which will be printed separately.

Mr. ALLISON. That may as well be printed with the rest.

Mr. GEORGE. Printed with the other amendments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the close of the bill.

Mr. GEORGE. I have no objection to having my amendment printed in that way.

Mr. KENNA. Are there any pending amendments except those offered to-day?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are no pending amendments.

Mr. MANDERSON. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. WASHBURN. Will the Senator withdraw that motion for a moment?

Mr. MANDERSON. I withdraw it.

Mr. DANIEL. I gave notice of an amendment to come in at the end of this bill proposing to repeal the tax of 10 per cent upon the State banks. I ask that it be printed with the bill. I have not formally offered it, but only gave notice of it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia requests that an amendment intended to be proposed by him may be printed with the bill. The Chair hears no objection, and it will be so ordered.

Add as a new section the following:
"SEC. 17. All acts and parts of acts imposing any tax on the circulation of State banks are hereby repealed."

Mr. WASHBURN. I move that when the Senate adjourn to-day it be to meet to-morrow at 11 o'clock a. m.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is moved by the Senator from Minnesota that when the Senate adjourn to-day it be until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. HISCOCK. I hope that will not be done. There are some very important committee meetings which Senators must attend to-morrow.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion is not debatable. The question is on the motion made by the Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WASHBURN. On the statement of the Senator from New York that there are important committee meetings to be held to-morrow, I withdraw the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion is withdrawn.

SATURDAY BANK HALF-HOLIDAY.

Mr. WHITE. I ask unanimous consent to call up at this time Senate bill 3718. It is a District of Columbia bill about holidays. I will state, so that Senators may be informed in regard to it. It was up yesterday, and an objection was made to it on account of the terms of the bill. The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] has agreed to an amendment which removes the objection I had to it, and leaves the bill, I think, entirely without objection. I should like to have it acted on.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 3718) making Saturday a half-holiday where banks and bankers so elect.

Mr. WHITE. I send up certain amendments which I desire to have reported.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment submitted by the Senator from Louisiana will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 12, after the word "Sunday," it proposed to insert "without reference to whether any of said banks or trust companies do or do not close as aforesaid;" so as to read:

That it shall be lawful for trust companies, banks, and bankers in the city of Washington to close their doors for business at 12 o'clock noon on each and every Saturday in the year, and every Saturday in the year after 12 o'clock noon shall be a legal half holiday so far as regards the presenting for the payment or acceptance and the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, bank checks, drafts, promissory notes, and other negotiable paper, and for these purposes shall be treated and considered as the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, without reference to whether any of said banks or trust companies do or do not close as aforesaid.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. WHITE. I offer a second amendment which I send to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment offered by the Senator from Louisiana will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 36, after the word "day," it is proposed to strike out all down to and including the word "day" in line 39, as follows:

And provided further, That in construing this section every half holiday Saturday shall, until 12 o'clock noon, be deemed a secular business day.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. WHITE, the title was amended so as to read: "A bill making Saturday a half-holiday for banking and trust company purposes in the District of Columbia."

CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILLS ON THE CALENDAR.

Mr. CULLOM. I ask leave to call up House bill 4827.

Mr. COCKRELL. There are about twenty-five House bills on the Calendar to which there is no objection, and I insist that the Senator shall ask unanimous consent to take up unobjected House bills and pass them all. We can do it in thirty minutes.

Mr. CULLOM. I have not troubled the Senate very much with requests of this nature.

Mr. COCKRELL. There are quite a number of unobjected House bills which may be passed in thirty minutes.

Mr. CULLOM. If the Senator objects, I will withdraw my request.

Mr. WASHBURN. I now ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of unobjected House bills on the Calendar.

Mr. PADDOCK. I hope that motion will prevail.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] asks unanimous consent that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of House bills on the Calendar unobjected to.

Mr. PADDOCK. Under Rule VIII.

Mr. COCKRELL. Certainly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under Rule VIII. The Chair hears no objection, and that will be the order. The Secretary will report the first House bill on the Calendar, subject to objection.

MEMORIAL ADDRESSES ON THE LATE SENATOR BARBOUR.

Mr. DANIEL. I ask leave simply to make a statement. A few days ago I gave notice that on Friday next I should offer resolutions in memory of the late Senator John S. Barbour and would call them up at 2 o'clock on that day. In deference to the convenience of some Senators who are compelled to be absent on that day who had expected to participate, and in deference to the wishes of other friends I shall not offer the resolutions on that day, but have thought it best, in view of all the circumstances by which we are surrounded, to allow the matter to go over until the next session of Congress.

SALES OF PROPERTY UNDER COURT DECREES.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will report the first House bill on the Calendar, subject to objection.

The bill (H. R. 5816) to regulate the manner in which property shall be sold under orders and decrees of any United States court was announced as first in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is on the amendment heretofore offered by the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER], which will be read.

THE SECRETARY. It is proposed to add as a new section the following:

Sec. 4. That a writ or order in any of the United States shall be received by any officer of the United States, or of any State or Territory, in payment of any judgment or decree of any court, for the enforcement or collection whereof process of execution shall be in the hands of such officer, when such legal order or money is tendered in payment of such decree, or in payment for any property that he shall sell under such process, or under any order, decree, or judgment of such court.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment.

MR. PLATT. That amendment can not pass without discussion, and I understood the agreement was to pass unobjected House bills. That bill had better go over.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill being objected to goes over, retaining its place on the Calendar. The next bill will be reported.

WASHINGTON AND GREAT FALLS ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

The bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company was announced as next in order.

MR. COCKRELL. The Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN] had that bill passed over. Let it pass over now without prejudice.

MR. HARRIS. I hope the Senator will not ask to have that bill passed over. It is a bill which should be acted on promptly.

MR. McMILLAN. It is a very important bill and should be acted on.

MR. COCKRELL. Very well.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill is before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole, and will be read at length.

MR. McMILLAN. I have some amendments to propose in addition to those which appear in the bill as reported by the committee, and I ask permission to offer them as the reading of the bill proceeds and the committee amendments are being acted upon.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears no objection, and that course will be pursued.

The Secretary proceeded to read the bill.

The first amendment reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia was, in section 1, on page 3, line 43, after the words "Secretary of War" to insert:

For the safety of travel on said Canal road, and before commencing to run its cars on said elevated railway, and subject to the inspection and approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the said company shall, at its own expense, construct a substantial masonry wall between said Canal road and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal throughout the entire distance on said road occupied by said elevated railway; and the said company, also at its own expense and within the same time and subject to the same approval and acceptance, shall pave the said portion of said road with granite blocks in the best manner.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 4, section 1, line 68, after the word "road," to strike out:

To the land of the said aqueduct pertaining to the receiving reservoir; thence through said land to a point on the land of said aqueduct near the westerly foot of Dalecarlia Hill; thence westwardly on a route exterior to the land of the United States pertaining to the Conduit road.

So as to read:

Thence westwardly on a route exterior to and on the south side of the land of the United States pertaining to the Conduit road to Cabin John Creek, with the privilege of crossing the Conduit road between the receiving reservoir and said creek, once and no more; returning thence along the same line, by return tracks to the place of beginning, with the privilege of constructing a branch line, with a single or double track, from the Conduit road lands south to Chain bridge, on land to be acquired by the corporation.

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. In line 73, section 1, page 4, I move to strike out the words "with the privilege of crossing the Conduit road between the receiving reservoir and said creek, once and no more."

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed. The next amendment of the Committee on the District of Columbia was, on page 4, section 1, line 80, after the word "road," to insert:

And there shall never be more than one double track on or over the Canal road, and all acts or parts of acts granting the use of the surface of the Canal road, or any part thereof, for laying railway tracks thereon and operating cars thereon are hereby repealed.

So as to read:

Provided, That there shall be but one railway parallel to and near the Conduit road and there shall never be more than one double track on or over the Canal road, and all acts or parts of acts granting the use of the surface of the Canal road, or any part thereof, for laying railway tracks thereon and operating cars thereon are hereby repealed.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, on page 4, section 1, line 86, after the word "railway," to strike out "chartered by Congress;" in line 91, page 4, after the word "companies," to insert "respecting railways parallel to and near the conduit road, whether in the District of Columbia or in Maryland;" and in line 94, page 5, after the words "Secretary of War," to insert "and matter in dispute between the companies respecting railways on the Canal road shall be determined upon the application of either road to any court in the District of Columbia having competent jurisdiction;" so as to read:

And wherever the route specified in this act is parallel with or coincides with the route of any other railway the two companies shall maintain and use but one set of double tracks, and any violation of this provision by the said Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company shall operate as a repeal of this charter; and matters of dispute between the companies respecting railways parallel to and near the Conduit road, whether in the District of Columbia or in Maryland shall be referred to and determined by the Secretary of War and matter in dispute between the companies respecting railways on the Canal road shall be determined upon the application of either road to any court in the District of Columbia having competent jurisdiction.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, page 5, line 98, after the word "said" to insert "Washington and Great Falls;" so as to read:

The inner rail of said Washington and Great Falls Railway shall not at any place on the line of said railway be less than 50 feet from the middle of the paved portion of the Conduit road.

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. On page 5, line 99, before the word "feet," I move to strike out "fifty" and insert "one hundred."

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

THE SECRETARY. On page 5, line 99, before the word "feet," it is proposed to strike out "fifty" and insert "one hundred;" so as to read:

The inner rail of said Washington and Great Falls Railway shall not at any place on the line of said railway be less than 100 feet from the middle of the paved portion of the Conduit road.

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. On page 5, line 102, after the words "United States," I move to strike out "or the Washington Aqueduct;" and in line 103, after the word "works," to insert "or the Washington Aqueduct;" so as to read:

Wherever the said railway shall run over or across any of the lands of the United States or any of the accessory works, or the Washington Aqueduct, as provided in this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee on the District of Columbia was, on page 5, line 108, section 1, after the word "acceptance," to insert "in writing," so as to read:

And no work shall be done on said railway on any of said lands until after such approval and acceptance in writing.

The amendment was agreed to.

MR. McMILLAN. On page 7, line 147, after the word "the," I move to strike out "streams that flow under the Washington Aqueduct through culverts numbers 118 to 24, inclusive, on such of the;" and in line 150, to strike out "lands" and insert "land;" so as to read:

And the said Washington and Great Falls Railway may cross the projections of the United States land, etc.

Then, on page 7, line 150, I move to strike out the words "said culverts and also at," and in line 152 after the word "reservoir," I move to strike out the following words:

As the Secretary of War may approve, and may also cross such of the northward projections of said lands near the stones marked W. A. 2, B. W. A. 3, B. W. A. 64 and W. A. 84, on the plats of the land of said aqueduct, as the said Secretary may approve.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. It will be necessary for the Senator from Michigan to reduce his amendments to writing and have them acted upon separately.

MR. COCKRELL. They are all part of the same sentence, and to be stated intelligently they ought to be grouped together.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendments will be taken down by the Secretary, and the question will be taken on all the proposed changes together.

MR. COCKRELL. In line 147, section 1, after the word "the," at the end of the line, commencing with the word "streams," strike out down to the word "the," in line 148; in line 150, change the word "lands" to "land," and after the word "at," strike out "said culverts and also at;" then, in line 152, after the word "reservoir," beginning with the word "as," strike out down to and including the word "approve," in line 156.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will read the clause as it will read if amended as proposed by the Senator from Missouri.

THE SECRETARY. As proposed to be amended the clause will read:

And the said Washington and Great Falls Railway may cross the projections of the United States land at a point on the south side of the conduit road just west of the distributing reservoir, and the provisions of section 15 of the act of Congress approved February 28, 1881, entitled "An act to incorporate the Washington and Arlington Railway Company of the District of Columbia," etc.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee on the District of Columbia was, on page 7, line 161, section 1, before the word "control," to insert "shall," so as to read:

Shall control and govern all the privileges granted by this act, etc.

Mr. COCKRELL. On page 8, line 177, after the words "District of Columbia," I move to strike out "or across the Conduit road;" so as to read:

And the said Washington and Great Falls Railway Company shall, where its tracks run on or across any street or road which is under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, or across any other road outside of the District of Columbia, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. McMILLAN. On page 11, section 2, in lines 4 and 5, I move to strike out "not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1,000,000" and insert "but not to exceed the actual cost of said road."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

Mr. HAWLEY. I understand the chairman of the committee proposes to limit the capital to the actual cost of the road. I am very glad to hear that amendment proposed, because I have been intending to say something upon that very question. These companies ought not to be at liberty to make a capital running into the millions and tax the people to secure dividends on such excessive capitalization.

There is a defect in that, for who shall say how much a road is to cost. I have not thought of that in reference to this bill alone, but in reference to others. Is there not some tribunal that will give a reasonable hearing upon the statement of what would be a reasonable expenditure? It should be fixed in some such way.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to the Senator proposing to this amendment such a provision.

Mr. HAWLEY. All these companies should go to the courts in the District for a reasonable and liberal accounting.

Mr. SANDERS. In pursuance of the suggestion made by the chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia [Mr. McMILLAN] I have prepared an amendment which carries out the views suggested by him, and to some extent the views suggested by the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY], which I had intended to propose as an addition to section 2.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will state that the Senate is now acting on the amendments of the committee.

Mr. SANDERS. I am aware of that. I am only making this suggestion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 11, in line 4, after the word "stockholders," it is proposed to strike out "not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1,000,000" and insert "but not to exceed the actual cost of said road."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to hearing the amendment proposed by the Senator from Montana.

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to have it read at least.

Mr. McMILLAN. I should like to hear it read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment submitted by the Senator from Michigan, which has just been reported.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HISCOCK. I desire to inquire whether it is desirable that, as the bill does make provision as to the fixed charges of the road, the stocks and bonds should not be beyond the actual cost of the road?

Mr. McMILLAN. The idea I think is right in this case.

Mr. HISCOCK. I think that is true. Is there anything in the bill with respect to bonding the road?

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes, there is. The bonds and stock must not exceed the cost of the road.

Mr. HISCOCK. I suggest a very sure way to protect the public in cases of that kind, and that is a provision that no bonds shall be issued until the stock subscribed for has been actually paid in. That has been found a very efficacious way.

Mr. McMILLAN. The Senator may propose that amendment. This provides when one-fourth of the capital stock is paid in they may issue bonds.

Mr. HISCOCK. That means that there will never be but a fourth of the stock paid in.

Mr. COCKRELL. To an amount not exceeding the balance of stock unpaid.

Mr. HISCOCK. In other words, that waters the stock three-fourths.

Mr. COCKRELL. Not at all.

Mr. HISCOCK. Oh, yes; it waters it three-fourths. I do not desire to make any argument against it, but of course all railroads where they are—

Mr. McMILLAN. This provides that 50 per cent of the subscriptions shall be paid at once.

Mr. HISCOCK. And provides that the road shall not be bonded until 25 per cent has been paid in. Even if there is a provision that 50 per cent shall be paid in, as a matter of course they will then bond it, and the stock is watered on the road carries 50 per cent more than has been actually paid in on the stock.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will again state that the question is on the motion to amend made by the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN].

Mr. HISCOCK. I do not desire to offer an amendment, but I only desire to point out the trouble with these charters in view of what has been said by the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY]. For the purpose of paying dividends and interest upon bonds the companies should not be stock at a large amount or bonded at a larger amount than the road will cost in the aggregate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 11, line 4, after the word "stockholders," it is proposed to strike out "not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1,000,000," and insert "but not to exceed the actual cost of said road."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SANDERS. Now, I ask that the amendment I proposed be read. The chairman of the committee desires to have it read.

Mr. McMILLAN. I desire to have it read.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to add to section 2, the following:

But the foregoing provisions of this section are subject to the provision that said corporation shall not have or issue any greater number of shares of stock than that the nominal value of such shares shall equal the actual and necessary cost of the construction and equipment of such railroad, which sum shall first be ascertained and authorized upon petition therefor to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, under such rules and regulations as the chief justice and judges thereof shall prescribe, efficient to limit the stock of such corporation in the aggregate to the actual and necessary cost thereof; and when it shall be desired by such corporation to raise a loan upon its said property, secured by mortgage or otherwise, upon petition therefor to said court, setting forth the necessity therefor and the amount of stock issued and outstanding, it may and shall be lawful for such court, or the chief justice or justices thereof, as the case may be or one of them, upon public notice, to be prescribed by the rules of the court, to permit the issuance of such bonds and mortgage if desired. Provided, however, That an amount of such stock equal to the bonds so issued shall be first encashed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment has been read for information. The question is on agreeing to the amendment moved by the Senator from Michigan.

Mr. SANDERS. I shall press the amendment when we get through with the amendments proposed by the committee, but I do not wish to urge it now against the judgment of the Senator from Michigan.

Mr. McMILLAN. I suggest that the amendment which I offered be acted upon. We can take up that amendment afterwards.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN].

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued.

The next amendment was, in section 2, before the words "per cent," on page 11, line 9, to strike out "ten" and insert "fifty;" in the same line, after the words "and the," to strike out "balance" and insert "remainder;" in line 12, before the words "per cent," to strike out "ten" and insert "fifty;" and on page 12, line 13, after the word "the," to strike out "balance" and insert "remainder;" so as to read:

That the capital stock of said company shall be $500,000, divided into shares of $100 each, which capital stock may be increased from time to time upon a majority vote of the stockholders, not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1,000,000. The said company shall require the subscribers to the capital stock to pay in cash, to the treasurer appointed by the incorporators, the amounts severally subscribed by them, as follows, to wit: 50 per cent at the time of subscribing, and the remainder at such times and in such amounts as the board of directors shall require, and no subscription shall be deemed valid unless the 50 per cent thereof shall be paid at the time of subscribing, the remainder of said subscription to be paid at such times and in such amounts as the board of directors may require, as hereinbefore provided.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was continued to the bottom of page 13.

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to call the attention of the chairman of the committee to line 16, page 13, which seems to me does not conform to an amendment heretofore made. In line 9, on page 11, the sum required to be paid at the time of subscribing was stricken out and an amendment providing for the payment of 50 per cent was made. That the unities may be maintained, the same change should be made in line 16, page 13.

Mr. McMILLAN. That is right.

Mr. SANDERS. I move that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana proposes an amendment, which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. On page 13, line 16, after the word "subscribing" it is proposed to strike out "ten" and insert "fifty;" so as to read:

That every subscriber shall pay, at the time of subscribing, 50 per cent of the amount by him subscribed to the treasurer appointed by the corporators, or his subscription shall be void.

The amendment was agreed to.

The Secretary resumed and concluded the reading of the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

Mr. SANDERS. At the end of section 2 I move as an addition thereto the following:

But this section is subject to the provision that said corporation shall not have or issue any greater number of shares of stock than at the nominal value of such shares shall equal the actual and necessary cost of the construction and equipment of such railroad, which sum shall first be ascertained and authorized upon petition therefor to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, under such rules and regulations as the chief justice and judges thereof shall prescribe efficient to limit the stock of such corporation in the aggregate to the actual and necessary cost thereof.

That it shall be desired by such corporation to issue bonds upon its said property, secured by mortgage or otherwise, upon petition therefor to said court, setting forth the necessity thereof and the amount of stock issued and outstanding, it may and shall be lawful for such court, or the chief justice or justices thereof as the case may be, or one of them, upon public notice, to be prescribed by the rules of the court, to permit the issuance of such bonds and mortgage if desired: Provided, however, That an amount of such stock equal to the bonds so issued shall be first canceled and adjudged annulled.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Montana.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to the amendment, Mr. President.

The amendment was agreed to.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move that the Senate request a conference with the House of Representatives upon the bill and amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent the Presiding Officer was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. HARRIS, and Mr. PERKINS were appointed.

DECLARATIONS IN PENSION CLAIMS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The next House bill on the Calendar will be proceeded with.

The bill (H. R. 2713) in relation to the execution of declarations and other papers in pension claims was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That declarations of pension claimants shall be made before a court of record, or before some officer thereof having custody of its seal, or before some officer who, under the laws of his State, city, or county, has authority to administer oaths for general purposes; and said officers are hereby fully authorized and empowered to administer and certify any oath or affirmation relating to any pension or application therefor: Provided, That where such declarations or other papers are executed before an officer authorized as above but not required by the laws of his State to have and use a seal to authenticate his official acts, he shall file in the Pension Bureau a certificate of his official character, showing his official signature and term of office, certified by a clerk of a court of record or other proper officer of the State as to the genuineness thereof; and when said certificate has been filed in the Bureau of Pensions his own certificate will be recognized during his term of office.

SEC. 2. That the Commissioner of Pensions may accept declarations and other papers of claimants residing in foreign countries made before a United States minister or consul or other consular officer, or before some officer of the country duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes, and whose official character and signature shall be duly authenticated by the certificate of a United States minister or consul or other consular officer, and declarations in claims of Indians may be made before a United States Indian agent.

SEC. 3. That any and all declarations or affidavits now on file in the Pension Bureau which are considered informal by reason of not having been executed in conformity to the laws heretofore in force covering such, and in which it is shown or may be hereafter shown by proper evidence that the same were executed by and before an officer who was duly authorized to administer oaths for general purposes at said date of execution, shall be accepted as formal as from date of filing such declarations or affidavits.

SEC. 4. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to some and disagreed to other amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7520) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, agreed to the amendment of the Senate numbered 177 to the bill with an amendment in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate, asked a conference with the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HOLMAN, Mr. SAYERS, and Mr. BINGHAM managers at the conference on the part of the House.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills: and they were thereupon signed by the President pro tempore:

A bill (H. R. 945) for the relief of Patrick Hyland;

A bill (H. R. 3572) for the relief of Richard M. Edwards, of Cleveland, Tenn.;

A bill (H. R. 3947) to establish weather-bureau stations on Middle and Thunder Bay Islands in Lake Huron;

A bill (H. R. 5119) regulating the construction of buildings along alleyways in the District of Columbia; and

A bill (H. R. 3114) to establish a railroad bridge across the Black River in Arkansas.

MARY ISABELLA HUTCHISON.

Mr. HUNTON. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of House bill—

Mr. COCKRELL. I must object to that. We are proceeding under a unanimous consent agreement, and let us go on for awhile.

Mr. HARRIS. We are taking up House bills in their order.

Mr. COCKRELL. We are taking House bills in their order on the Calendar.

Mr. HUNTON. The bill I wish to call up will take but a minute.

Mr. COCKRELL. There are a dozen that will take but a minute.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The next House bill on the Calendar will be proceeded with.

The bill (H. R. 5377) granting a pension to Mary Isabella Hutchison was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Mary Isabella Hutchison, sister of William Hutchison, late of Company A, One hundred and third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, deceased, at the rate of $18 per month, to be paid to her legal guardian or person legally appointed to have the charge of her person and estate.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DELIVERY OF ICE ON SUNDAY.

The bill (H. R. 8367) regulating the delivery and sale of ice within the District of Columbia on the Sabbath day, commonly known as Sunday, was announced as the next House bill on the Calendar.

Mr. HARRIS. Let that bill go over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Being objected to, the bill will be passed over without prejudice, retaining its place on the Calendar.

SAVANNAH RIVER BRIDGE.

The bill (H. R. 7720) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Savannah River was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Commerce with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 2, line 21, before the word "built," to insert "commenced or;" so as to read:

And until said plan and location of the bridge are approved by the Secretary of War the bridge shall not be commenced or built.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 44, after the word "same," to strike out:

And all the rights conferred by this act shall be forfeited upon said failure, and Congress shall have power to do any and all things necessary to secure the free navigation of said river.

And insert:

And shall thereupon institute proceedings in the circuit court of the United States in and for the district in which any part of said bridge may be located for the recovery of the cost thereof.

So as to read:

And if upon reasonable notice to said company, its successors or assigns, to make such change or improvements, the said company fails to do so, the Secretary of War shall have authority to make the same, and shall thereupon, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 3, line 8, after the word "and," to strike out "they" and insert "it;" and in line 11, after the word "telegraph," to insert "and telephonic;" so as to make the section read:

That any bridge built under this act and subject to its limitations shall be a lawful structure, and shall be recognized and known as a post-route, upon which also no higher charge shall be made for the transmission over the same of the mails, the troops and munitions of war of the United States, or passengers or freight over said bridge than the rate per mile paid for the transportation over the railroads or public highways leading to said bridge,

States as the guardian, constituted by its own laws, of the rights and interests of these people.

Therefore the committee reported a bill which will accomplish, if it shall be enacted, every public purpose sought by the Senator from Washington and by the bill which he introduced, and which will prevent in the execution of the public purpose for public interests the injustice and iniquity, which the committee believe lie behind the bill introduced by the distinguished Senator, and now moved to be substituted for the bill of the committee.

As has been well stated by the distinguished Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT], the question which is presented to the Senate is not a question of difference between the Committee on Indian Affairs and the Senator from Washington in respect to a public interest. There is no circumstance of the public interest, in my belief and in the belief of the committee, which will not be perfectly subserved by the enactment of the bill as reported.

Mr. President, I dislike to weary the Senate with protracted details, but I think it very important that the simple facts of this case should be exhibited to this body, and it can be done without very great elaboration.

Attached to Executive Document No. 34 of the Senate of this session is a map which exhibits the Puyallup Indian Reservation as it now exists, and also discloses the fact that it lies in juxtaposition to the city of Tacoma and stretches around the bay known as Commencement Bay, upon which that city is situated. This land becoming the property of the Indians in 1857, under a treaty with the United States, has remained their home from that time to this. But meantime a city, and now a great city, has risen up on the waters of Puget Sound, and it has happened that these Indians have attained to the advantage which has often followed the persistent holding of land by individuals in this country, that by settlement and the development of civilization their land has become very valuable. Let me observe that the precise object, as it seems to me, of the guardianship of Congress was to protect the Indians in securing to them the value of their lands which might accrue by their own steadfast holding of them.

It is said by the Senator from Washington that the situation of this reservation obstructs the entrance into Tacoma of railroads and of public highways; that it would be convenient, perhaps, to build out upon it street-car lines; and that therefore it is desired to enable the Indians to sell it. Granted. The committee's bill provides for selling the land. There is no difference between us in respect to that feature. But let us observe where the point is. It has already been indicated by the Senator from Connecticut, and perhaps fully enough stated. I desire, however, to repeat only briefly. In order to understand that, it is desirable to notice precisely the terms of the treaty under which these Indians hold their lands. It is the treaty of December 23, 1854, and I read from the Statutes, page 1133, only so much as relates to this point. Speaking of the power of the President in relation to these lands, the treaty reads:

And he may further, at his discretion, cause the whole or any portion of the lands hereby reserved, or of such other land as may be selected in lieu thereof, to be surveyed into lots, and assign the same to such individuals or families as are willing to avail themselves of the privilege, and will locate on the same as a permanent home, on the same terms and subject to the same regulations as are provided in the sixth article of the treaty with the Omahas, so far as the same may be applicable.

On page 1044 of the same volume will be found that provision, which reads:

And the President may, at any time, in his discretion, after such person or family has made a location on the land assigned for a permanent home, issue a patent to such person or family for such assigned land, conditioned that the tract shall not be aliened or leased for a longer term than two years; and shall be exempt from levy, sale, or forfeiture, which conditions shall continue in force until a State constitution, embracing such lands within its boundaries, shall have been formed and the Legislature of the State shall remove the restrictions.

To which is added:

No State Legislature shall remove the restrictions herein provided for without the consent of Congress.

Mr. MITCHELL. Will the Senator allow me to put a question right there?

Mr. VILAS. Certainly.

Mr. MITCHELL. I desire to submit this inquiry to the Senator from Wisconsin, whether it has been considered at all by the committee or by the Senator from Wisconsin himself. From what the Senator has just read it seems that by the treaty of 1854 with these Indians, the President of the United States, in his discretion, is to have these lands surveyed and allot them to the Indians; and to subsequently issue to them patents under such conditions and restrictions as are to be found in the treaty with the Omahas. The provisions of that treaty were to this effect: That there should be a restriction of the right of alienation until such time as the Legislature of the State might remove the restrictions, but that the Legislature of the State should not remove the restrictions without the consent of Congress.

Now, my question is this: These things having proceeded, not under the enactment, but under these treaties, and the Indians having gone on and had the lands allotted to them, patents having been issued to them in pursuance of these provisions which delegated to the State the right to remove the restrictions, subject only to the permission of Congress, has Congress now the right to remove the restrictions? In view of all these treaty stipulations, contracts made in pursuance of treaty stipulations, and patents issued to them in pursuance of the treaty stipulations, all pointing to the fact that the State, after it should be organized under a State constitution, should have the right to remove the restrictions, subject only to the consent of Congress, has Congress, after all that has been done, the right to remove these restrictions or to prescribe the terms upon which the State shall remove the restrictions? In other words, all that has transpired is there anything left for Congress to do but to say to the State Legislature, "Yes, you can remove these restrictions," or "No, you can not"? Will Congress consent or will it not?

The Senator understands my point?

Mr. VILAS. Perfectly. Mr. President, that is not a new question, but one which was presented to the committee and carefully considered, and while I intended at a later point to address some observations to it, I am ready to answer the Senator's question now.

There must have been some reason why Congress reserved to itself concurrent power over these restrictions. It is more than a concurrent power with the State Legislature; it is a supervisory power. It simply provided, not that the Legislature of the State should have the power to remove the restrictions, but that they should not be removed until the Legislature of the State did it, and that the Legislature of the State should not do it except under the control of Congress, with the consent of Congress to its doing. Thus the action of two bodies became necessary—the action of the State Legislature, the local governing body, and the action of Congress, the Federal Legislature, and the natural guardian of the rights of the Indians.

Congress undoubtedly reserved the right to make this consent in order that it might keep the Legislature from doing what it deemed to be unjust. This power of Congress to impose qualifications or conditions arises from the simple principle that "the greater includes the less." If Congress has power to grant or to withhold consent, Congress has power to specify upon what conditions it is willing to grant its consent.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, may I interrupt the Senator?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Wisconsin yield?

Mr. VILAS. With pleasure.

Mr. ALLEN. If that be the fact, why were there not imported into the statute words of this character, Congress shall give consent upon such conditions as it sees proper? If Congress was to look into the conditions and determine the character of the conveyance, why did it not provide that it should remove the restrictions? In other words, did not Congress turn the whole matter over to the State to say, "When the time has ripened so that you think these restrictions shall be removed, remove them?"

Mr. VILAS. Mr. President, to ask why somebody who was writing an instrument forty years ago did not use other or different words to express his meaning, is to ask a question, it seems to me, not at all likely to elucidate the point under discussion.

If it be true as a simple principle of law in the interpretation of contracts and treaties, that a consent to be given by the National Legislature is a thing which may be given upon such conditions as that legislature chooses to impose, there was no occasion to use any other words. The language employed perfectly carries with it all that is necessary to the case.

Mr. President, just let me ask a moment's attention to the value of these lands. I have shown the title upon which they are held. I read from the communication of the Secretary of the Interior to the President under date of February 6 last, with which he transmits to the President the report of a commission which had been appointed under a law of Congress to examine into the value of these lands, among other things. The Secretary says:

As to the value of the lands, the plan adopted by the commission was a good one to obtain the average value of all the lands, and is no doubt approximately correct. But before any sale could be properly made of particular lots or parts of the reservation, a valuation should be made of each such particular tract or subdivision to be sold, for, as was stated in the instructions to the commission, some of the lands near the city are deemed worth $6,000 per acre. The water front alone has been estimated to be worth some millions of dollars.

"Wheresoever the carcass is," saith the old scripture, "there will the eagles be gathered together."

The Legislature of the State of Washington in 1890 passed a law giving its unconditional assent to these Indians dealing with property of such value as this as they might individually see fit each to do with his own. Thereupon "the eagles gathered together," and contracts were made by individuals for, I think, every tract of land held in severalty, at least for nearly all of the tracts held in severalty by those Indians.

Mr. ALLEN. Will the Senator permit me? This is the fact: Contracts I find, according to the report, were made for some 9,200 acres of this land at the average price of nearly $79 per acre, which, if carried out for the twelve thousand and odd acres, would realize to the Indians $1,000,000 for the portion they propose to sell.

Mr. VILAS. I should like to ask the Senator from Washington to state right there whether or not those contracts do not embrace nearly every subdivision of this reservation which this bill proposes to permit to be sold?

Mr. ALLEN. I will state that in the reservation there are 18,062 acres of land; they are within what are known as the "heavy black lines," which are exempt from alienation under both bills, fifty-two hundred and odd acres, 598 acres coming down nearest the city of Tacoma, known as the agency grant, which have never been allotted, and some forty-six hundred and odd acres, the quantity of land the Indian Department found, constituting the homes of the Indians of the Puyallup Reservation. That is the quantity reserved that is not subject to either one of the two bills—fifty-two hundred and odd acres.

Mr. VILAS. Of less than 13,000 acres which might become available for sale over 9,000 acres have been contracted, then, within these particular boundaries?

Mr. ALLEN. That is correct; according to a table I find 9,200 acres, I think.

Mr. SQUIRE. Mr. President, I should like to ask the Senator a question.

Mr. VILAS. In one moment. I desire to ask the Senator from Washington [Mr. ALLEN] one other question: Are not the lands so embraced within the contracts already made the lands lying in the northern portion of the reservation and along the shores of Commencement Bay, going clear down to the agency lands?

Mr. ALLEN. I will answer the Senator. The lands are the lands that lie above what are known as the State harbor line lands. All the lands of the State of Washington lying between ordinary low-water and ordinary high-water mark belong to the State of Washington. That conclusion has been reached both by the Interior Department and by the supreme court of the State of Washington, agreeably to what I understand to be the Federal decisions. As the tide rises and falls between 14 and 15 feet on the average in Commencement Bay there is a strip of land, varying in width, extending from a few rods in width at the lower part or entrance of the bay up about a half or three-quarters of a mile at the head of the bay, and lying between the Indians' lands and the deep water, or ordinary low tide. That is the land of the State. Then, as was suggested by the inquiry of the Senator, the lands lying just north come down close to the water on one portion of the reservation and extend into the hills on either side. Some of the lands are very valuable.

Mr. VILAS. The Senator from Washington has answered my question, but in answering it he has introduced another subject which the question did not relate to, and that is the question of the title of the lands in that reservation between high and low water mark, they being subject to tide flow.

The State of Washington claims those lands entirely, he says. I wish to ask the Senator from Washington whether those lands within the lines of high and low water mark do not constitute a portion of the 13,000 acres of land which we have been mentioning as being part of the acreage of the reservation subject to disposition?

Mr. ALLEN. No, they do not; because these lands are all embraced within the meander lines of the high-water mark.

Mr. VILAS. Does not the tide rise above the meander lines?

Mr. ALLEN. The meander line is the line marking ordinary high water.

Mr. VILAS. I will ask the Senator this: Does not the tide rise beyond the meander line, and does not the State claim the lands to the extent that the tide rises?

Mr. ALLEN. The State claims the land up to the line of high-water mark. The surveys now aim to follow the meander line of the ordinary high-water mark.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 7845) defining options and futures, imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

Mr. WASHBURN rose.

Mr. ALLEN. Will the Senator from Minnesota yield to me one moment? I wish to ask unanimous consent that after the routine business to-morrow this bill may be considered further.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request made by the Senator from Washington?

Mr. WARREN. I do not understand the request made by the Senator from Washington, but if it is in line of the agreement made yesterday, which takes from me the time I have asked, I shall feel compelled to object.

Mr. ALLEN. I ask that the consideration of the bill follow after the speech of the Senator from Wyoming to-morrow, instead of after the routine morning business.

Mr. HARRIS. I do not like to object to the request of the Senator from Washington, but I do think the morning hour ought to be devoted to the Calendar.

Mr. CULLOM. So do I.

Mr. HARRIS. And I do not think it ought to be consumed morning after morning by the consideration of bills that take hours to consider or by speechmaking. I think those things ought to come in after 2 o'clock. I will not interpose a formal objection, but I appeal to Senators to leave the morning hour to the Calendar.

Mr. PLATT. Let us dispose of this bill to-morrow morning.

Mr. HARRIS. I shall not object, but I regret that it is to be done.

Mr. MITCHELL. Of course my neighbor here, the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN], is able to speak for himself, but I want as his neighbor to put in a plea for him. He gave notice many days ago that he desired to address the Senate on an important matter which he has in charge and that time was fixed for yesterday. He was crowded out then, and again this morning.

Mr. PLATT. I understood the Senator from Washington to assent that the Senator from Wyoming should make his speech to-morrow morning.

Mr. MITCHELL. Yes; and I hope he will be permitted to go on to-morrow morning.

Mr. WARREN. I wish in this connection to renew my notice. I shall ask to-morrow, immediately after the morning business, the courtesy of the Senate for a few moments to present my views upon the bill which I called up this morning.

Mr. VILAS. I wish to interpose no objection to the earliest consideration of the bill the Senator from Washington has in charge, but I desire when it is heard to have the opportunity to present fully the views of the committee. It will not occupy perhaps a very long time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Wisconsin will be entitled to the floor when the consideration of the bill is resumed. The Senator from Washington asks that to-morrow morning, at the conclusion of the remarks of the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN], the bill that was under consideration at 2 o'clock be proceeded with. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

PETWORTH, BRIGHTWOOD AND TAKOMA PARK RAILWAY.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill H. R. 8573, "An act to incorporate the Petworth, Brightwood and Takoma Park Railway Company of the District of Columbia," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of Senate and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: On page 1 of the Senate amendment, strike out all after the word "midnight," in line 11, also strike out lines 12 and 13; and that the Senate agree to the same.

JAMES McMILLAN,

ISHAM G. HARRIS,

B. W. PERKINS,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

JNO. J. HEMPHILL,

JNO. T. HEARD,

P. S. POST,

Managers on the part of the House.

The report was concurred in.

DISTRICT STREET RAILROADS.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to joint resolution (H. Res. 108) "extending the time in which certain street railroads compelled by act of Congress approved August 6, 1890, to change their motive power from horse power to mechanical power, for one year," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate, and agree to the same amended to read as follows: "That the time within which the street railroad companies availing themselves of the privileges granted by the act making appropriations to provide for the government of the District of Columbia, and approved August 6, 1890, so far as it extends to the Metropolitan Railroad, is hereby extended for one year from the date of the passage of this act: Provided, That so fast as the cars now building are equipped with storage batteries they shall be placed on the road; And provided further, That pending the change the present equipment of the road shall be put, kept, and maintained in good condition; and any failure to comply with any of the foregoing requirements as to equipment shall render the said Metropolitan Railway Company liable to a fine of not exceeding as now proposed, it will be impossible to maintain order in that Territory.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Will the gentleman permit a question? It was difficult in the confusion to understand the exact terms of the bill as read from the desk. Does the bill as it now stands prohibit the introduction of beer into the Indian Territory?

Mr. CULBERSON. Yes, sir.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. The reason I ask the question is this: When on a visit to that section some time since, I saw whole trains laden with St. Louis beer going down to Texas. Will the passage of this bill cut off your supply?

Mr. CULBERSON. I can not hear the gentleman.

Mr. BUSHNELL. I wish to inquire of the gentleman from Texas whether under the provision now proposed there will not be much greater expense to the Government than if we leave the law as it is? Under this bill it will be necessary to send the marshal to the Indian Territory to arrest these offenders; and this officer, as well as the district attorney, will have to be paid 10 cents a mile as traveling expenses for attending to this business.

Mr. CULBERSON. The provision which the gentleman has in mind applies specially to the State of Wisconsin.

Mr. BUSHNELL. I am not quite satisfied with the propriety of this proposed change in the law.

The previous question was seconded; and under the operation thereof the amendment reported by the Committee on the Judiciary was agreed to.

The question being taken on ordering the bill as amended to a third reading, there were—ayes 120, noes 7.

Mr. BUSHNELL. No quorum.

Tellers were ordered; and Mr. BUSHNELL and Mr. CULBERSON were appointed.

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 167.

Mr. BUSHNELL. I will not insist on a further count.

So the bill was ordered to a third reading; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CULBERSON, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCOOK, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had insisted upon its amendments to the bill (H. R. 7520) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes, disagreed to by the House of Representatives, had asked for a conference with the House on the bill and amendments, and had appointed Mr. ALLISON, Mr. HALE, and Mr. GORMAN as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had passed without amendment bills of the following titles:

A bill (H. R. 4365) for the relief of Nell Fisher;

A bill (H. R. 1105) for the relief of Henry S. Cohn, late of the One hundred and sixth Ohio Volunteers.

A bill (H. R. 5377) granting a pension to Mary Isabella Hutchison.

A bill (H. R. 3496) for the relief of A. S. Leet, and a bill (H. R. 2713) in relation to the execution of declarations and other papers in pension claims.

It also announced that the Senate had passed with amendments the bill (H. R. 7720) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Savannah River, asked a conference with the House on the bill and amendments, and had appointed Mr. VEST, Mr. SAWYER, and Mr. CULLOM as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had passed with amendments the bill (H. R. 5941) to build a bridge across the Tennessee River between a point in Whitesburg precinct, in Madison County, and Morgan County, in the State of Alabama, asked a conference with the House on the bill and amendments, and had appointed Mr. VEST, Mr. SAWYER, and Mr. CULLOM as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had passed with amendment the bill (H. R. 8122) to prohibit the use of "one-horse" cars within the limits of the city of Washington after the 1st day of January, 1893, and for other purposes, asked a conference with the House on the bill and amendment, and had appointed Mr. McMILLAN, Mr. HARRIS, and Mr. PERKINS as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had passed with amendment the bill (H. R. 5957) to amend section 2 of an act approved May 14, 1880, being an act for the relief of settlers on public lands, asked a conference with the House on the bill and amendment, and had appointed Mr. PADDOCK, Mr. CAREY, and Mr. PASCO as the conferees on the part of the Senate.

A further message from the Senate, by Mr. PLATT, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed the bill (S. 3115) for the relief of Clement Reeves; in which concurrence of the House was requested.

It also announced that the Senate had passed the bill (S. 3418) making Saturday a half holiday for banking and trust company purposes in the District of Columbia in which concurrence of the House was requested.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (H. R. 1105) for the relief of Henry S. Cohn, late of the One hundred and sixth Ohio Volunteers;

A bill (H. R. 4365) for the relief of Nell Fisher;

A bill (H. R. 3496) for the relief of A. S. Leet; and

A bill (H. R. 5377) granting a pension to Mary Isabella Hutchison.

JURISDICTION OF POLICE COURT, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. CULBERSON. I now call up for consideration the bill (S. 3011) to amend "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1891, and yield to the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. BOATNER].

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That an act entitled "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1891, be amended as follows: Strike out all of section 2 of said act and in lieu thereof insert the following:

"SEC. 2. That prosecutions in the police court shall be on information by the proper prosecuting officer. In all prosecutions within the jurisdiction of said court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the accused would be entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by jury, unless the accused shall in open court expressly waive such trial by jury and request to be tried by the judge, in which case the trial shall be by such judge, and the judgment and sentence shall have the same force and effect in all respects as if the same had been entered and pronounced upon the verdict of a jury. In all cases where the accused would not by force of the Constitution of the United States be entitled to a trial by jury, the trial shall be by the court without a jury, unless in such of said last-named cases wherein the fine or penalty may be $50 or more, or imprisonment as punishment for the offense may be thirty days or more, the accused shall demand a trial by jury, in which case the trial shall be by jury. In all cases where the said court shall impose a fine it may, in default of the payment of the same, commit the defendant for such a term as the court thinks right and proper, not to exceed one year."

"SEC. 2. That section 1060 of the Revised Statutes relating to the District of Columbia be, and the same is hereby, amended so that said section shall read:

"SEC. 1060. The clerk and the deputy clerks, and such other officers of the court as may be assigned by the judges of the court for that purpose, shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations."

Mr. BOATNER. I ask that the report accompanying the bill be read, which fully explains it.

The report (by Mr. BOATNER) was read, as follows:

The Committee on the Judiciary, having had under consideration the bill (S. 3011) entitled "An act to amend an act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia, approved March 3, 1891," report:

The bill proposes to amend section 2 of said act in the following particular:

(1) To permit parties under prosecution in the police court of the District of Columbia to waive a trial by jury "in all prosecutions within the jurisdiction of said court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the accused would be entitled to a jury trial."

Under existing law the accused can not in such cases waive a trial by jury. (2) In all cases in which the accused would not, by the force of the Constitution, be entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by the court, unless in cases where the fine may be $50 or the imprisonment thirty days the accused may demand a jury trial and it shall be accorded.

Under the present law this class of cases must be tried by a jury and the accused waives it.

(3) In default of payment of fine and costs the court may commit the defendant for a term of imprisonment not to exceed one year. No means is provided by existing law for the enforcement of sentences of this kind.

(4) Section 1060 of the Revised Statutes relating to the District of Columbia is proposed to be amended so as to authorize the clerk, the deputy clerks, and such other officers as may be assigned by the court to administer oaths and affirmations.

The proposed amendment will facilitate the administration of justice and dispatch of business without impairing in any way the rights of persons under prosecution or depriving them of any proper means of defense, and the passage of the act is therefore recommended. The section of the act proposed to be amended is annexed as a part of this report.

"SEC. 2. That prosecutions in the police court shall be on information by the proper prosecuting officer. In all prosecutions within the jurisdiction of said court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the accused would be entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by jury. And also in all prosecutions in which such persons would not be by force of the Constitution of the United States entitled to a trial by jury, but in which the fine or penalty may be $50 or more, or imprisonment for thirty days or more, the trial shall be by jury unless the accused shall in open court, expressly waive such trial by jury and consent to a trial by the judge in which case the trial shall be by such judge, and the judgment and sentence shall have the same force and effect in all respects as if the same had been entered and pronounced on the verdict of a jury."

"In all cases not hereinbefore in this section provided for the trial shall be by a judge."

Mr. BOATNER. I ask the previous question on the bill.

The previous question was ordered, and the operation of which the bill was read a third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. BOATNER, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

LEGALIZING DEEDS AND RECORDS, INDIAN OFFICE.

Mr. CULBERSON. I now call up the bill (S. 1733) to legalize the deeds and other records of the Office of Indian Affairs, and to provide and authorize the use of a seal by said office, and yield to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BYNUM], who will explain the bill.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the recording of all deeds and papers heretofore made and done in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs be, and is hereby, continued, approved, and legalized; and said record heretofore made shall be deemed, taken, and held to be good and valid and shall have all the force and effect and be entitled to the same credit as if it had been made in pursuance of and in conformity to law. But shall have no effect whatever upon the validity or invalidity of the deed or paper so recorded, and shall be no evidence of constructive notice to any persons not actually knowing the contents.

Sec. 2. That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs is hereby empowered and directed to continue to make and keep a record of every deed executed by any Indian, his heirs, representatives, or assigns, which may require the approval of the President of the United States or of the Secretary of the Interior, whenever such approval shall have been given, and the deed so approved returned to said office.

Sec. 3. That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs shall cause a seal to be made and provided for the said office, with such device as the President of the United States shall approve, and copies of any public documents, records, books, maps, or papers belonging to or on the files of said office, authenticated by the seal and certified by the Commissioner thereof or by such officer as may, for the time being, be acting as or for such Commissioner, shall be evidence equally with the originals thereof.

Sec. 4. That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs shall have the custody of said seal, and shall furnish certified copies of any such records, books, maps, or papers belonging to or on the files of said office, to any person applying therefor who shall comply with the requirements of said office, upon the payment by such parties at the rate of 10 cents per hundred words, and $1 for copies of maps or plats, and the additional sum of 25 cents for the Commissioner's certificate of verification, with the seal of said office; and one of the employees of said office shall be designated by the Commissioner as the receiving clerk, who shall give bond in the sum of $1,000, and the amounts so received shall, under the direction of the Commissioner, be paid into the Treasury of the United States; but fees shall not be demanded for such authenticated copies as may be required by the officers of any branch of the Government or by any Indian who shall satisfy the Commissioner by satisfactory legal evidence that he or she is not able, by reason of poverty, to pay such fees, nor for such unverified copies as the Commissioner in his discretion may deem proper to furnish.

Mr. BYNUM. Mr. Speaker, the only effect of the bill now under consideration is to legalize certain records in the Indian Office, and to authorize and empower the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to have and use a seal in the authentication of copies of such records.

In many of the grants of lands to Indians between 1816 and 1867, the approval of the President or Commissioner of Indian Affairs was necessary in order to enable them to convey title. These deeds were submitted to the Indian Office, were approved by the proper authorities, and recorded; but in many instances the original deeds have been lost without being recorded in proper records of the State. Persons are now applying for certified copies of these deeds and the approvals of the same, and are informed that there is no provision of law by which they can be furnished; nor is there any law on the statute which legalizes the records in that office. This bill legalizes about 10,000 pages of the records of deeds, and authorizes, as I have said, a seal to be prepared and used by the Commissioner in the authentication of copies of the same. It is strongly recommended by the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. These deeds or copies of deeds are not made prima facie evidence under the provisions of this bill?

Mr. BYNUM. I will state to the gentleman that this does not in my judgment enlarge the powers of evidence as far as these papers are concerned, but simply legalizes the records of the deeds, and approvals of the conveyances, and enables the Commissioner to furnish certified copies under seal.

I demand the previous question.

The previous question was ordered, under the operation of which the bill was ordered to a third reading; and being read a third time, was passed.

On motion of Mr. BYNUM, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

SUITS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. CULBERSON. I will call up now Senate bill 1111, to amend the act of Congress approved March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," and yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. RAY].

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That in addition to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Court of Claims and the district and circuit courts of the United States by sections 1 and 2 of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," the Court of Claims shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine claims, to establish or enforce the rights of claimants to patents from the United States for lands to which the claimant may be entitled under any law or grant of the United States; and where the value of such claim does not exceed $5,000 the United States district courts shall have concurrent jurisdiction with said Court of Claims, and where the value exceeds $5,000 the circuit courts of the United States shall have concurrent jurisdiction with said Court of Claims: Provided, That no suit shall be maintained against the United States under this act unless the same shall have been brought within six years after the passage of this act if the right shall have heretofore accrued, or otherwise within six years after the right shall have accrued for which the suit is brought.

SEC. 2. That upon the filing in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office of a duly certified copy of any final judgment or decree establishing the right of a claimant to a patent for public land, a patent shall be issued in accordance with said judgment or decree.

Mr. DOCKERY. This appears to be a bill that ought to be explained with some particularity. It strikes down the bar of the statute of limitations, and opens up a new avenue for litigation and liability on the part of the Government.

Mr. RAY. Mr. Speaker, this Senate bill proposes to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to the hearing and determination of claims to establish the right of claimants to patents for land to which the claimant may be entitled, and also to enforce the right of claimants to patents from the United States to lands to which such claimants may be entitled under any law or grant of the United States and gives to the district courts of the United States concurrent jurisdiction in such matters with certain provisos, one of which is—

That no suit shall be maintained against the United States under this act unless the same shall have been brought within six years after the passage of this act, if the right shall have heretofore accrued, or otherwise within six years after the right shall have accrued for which the suit is brought; and all persons having an interest in the subject-matter of the controversy adverse to the plaintiff shall be made parties defendant.

Now, sir, the bill came from the Senate without two provisions which we added to it in the Committee on the Judiciary, and which were deemed advisable and necessary. One is a provision that a suit brought in the district court of the United States shall be brought within the jurisdiction where the lands, the title to which is in question, or some part thereof, shall be located, and a second amendment provides that all persons having an interest in the subject-matter of the controversy, adverse to the plaintiff, shall be made parties defendant. In other words, we regard it as wise and proper that when these matters come into the courts, a final ending shall be made of the disputed questions, and that all parties known to have an adverse interest shall be made parties and have an opportunity to present their claims and assert their rights. We also confine the jurisdiction of this class of cases when a suit is brought in the United States court to the district courts.

We are of the opinion that suits regarding disputed titles to lands should be within the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims of the United States, and that the district courts of the United States should also have jurisdiction of those questions, and that it should be possible, in those cases where the parties think it proper and best for claimants to go into the district courts of the United States, in the district where the land or some part is situated and have such questions of title settled. As the law now stands, as I understand it, they are compelled to come here to Washington to litigate these matters and settle them in the Interior Department, and when they come here the matters are not litigated in any legal or proper form, but more than half of these disputed questions are tried upon letters and affidavits, and in a manner that does not commend itself to the judgment of lawyers, or to the judgment of men of good common sense.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Do you mean to say that they are only litigated now in the Land Office?

Mr. RAY. I do not mean to say positively that they are litigated exclusively in that way, but too much so, and I think exclusively in the Interior Department.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. The United States courts have jurisdiction of these questions now, have they not?

Mr. RAY. No, they do not; and, as I understand it, no court has jurisdiction, and they are tried here in the Land Office in the Interior Department.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Is there any statute of limitations now?

Mr. RAY. I think not. None that I am aware of; there may be. I suppose the Department observes some limitation.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. This is an enlargement of the Tucker act, is it not, in one sense, giving the United States district courts larger jurisdiction?

Mr. RAY. Yes, sir; it is.

Mr. BOWERS. It is simply bringing this class of cases into line with ordinary cases at law.

Mr. RAY. It brings disputed land claims within the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, where they may be tried in a legal manner under legal forms, before a judge, and if necessary before a judge and jury.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Should not the United States circuit courts also have jurisdiction, as well as the district courts?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be printed as a document, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none, and that order is made.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House insisted upon its amendments to the bill (S. 111) to amend the act of Congress approved March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. CUTLERSON, Mr. GOODNIGHT, and Mr. RAY managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House insisted upon its amendments to the bill (S. 2137) to amend an act entitled "An act amending the pension law so as to remove the disability of those who, having participated in the rebellion, have since its termination enlisted in the Army of the United States and become disabled," approved March 3, 1887, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. MARTIN, Mr. HARRIES, and Mr. JOLLEY managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had passed the following bills, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 7213) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the appointment of receivers of national banks, and for other purposes," approved June 13, 1876; and

A bill (H. R. 9502) to authorize the Trinity River Navigation Company to open to navigation the Trinity River in the State of Texas.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills, and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 3310) for the relief of Jerome H. Biddle; and
A bill (H. R. 2713) in relation to the execution of declarations and other papers in pension claims.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. TURPIE, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (H. R. 2337) granting a pension to Stark Frazier;
A bill (H. R. 4800) granting a pension to James Smith;
A bill (H. R. 6106) granting a pension to Lydia M. Kennedy, sister of Abram Kennedy;

A bill (H. R. 2068) granting a pension to William H. Brewer;
A bill (H. R. 6561) granting a pension to Susanna Davis; and A bill (H. R. 2399) granting a pension to John Mercer.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7974) to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Tennessee River at or near Deposit, Ala., reported it without amendment.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (H. R. 3167) restoring the pension of Sallie M. Swigart;
A bill (H. R. 7235) granting a pension to Mary A. Slipp;
A bill (H. R. 7236) granting a pension to Julia S. Tompkins;
A bill (H. R. 3165) granting a pension to Orinda Leach;
A bill (H. R. 8241) granting a pension to William Oscar Stanley;

A bill (H. R. 7237) granting a pension to James W. Kirtley; and

A bill (H. R. 3170) granting a pension to Sarah A. Noble.

Mr. CULLOM. I am instructed by the Committee on Interstate Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9350) to promote the safety of employes and travelers upon railroads by compelling common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to equip their cars with automatic couplers and continuous brakes and their locomotives with driving-wheel brakes, and for other purposes, to report it with an amendment in the nature of a substitute for the House bill and recommending the passage of the substitute. In connection with that bill, I may ask leave later, possibly this afternoon, to file a report.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2337) for the relief of Jacob Kern, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2126) for the relief of Catharine E. Whitall, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. SANDERS. I am instructed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 594) for the relief of Ira L. Kimball, to report it adversely.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be indefinitely postponed, being adversely reported.

Mr. SANDERS. I ask that it be placed on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

Mr. BATE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2520) for the relief of Joseph C. Williams, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. KYFFE, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2150) for the relief of Mrs. Mary P. C. Dooper, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VILAS. I am instructed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 504) for the relief of Howard Lodge, No. 13, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Galatin, Tenn., to submit an adverse report thereon.

Mr. BATE. I ask that that bill may be placed on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

Mr. PALMER, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2798) for the relief of Peter Light, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7294) granting pensions to army nurses, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. DANIEL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 4993) for the relief of the heirs of John R. Trenton, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PADDOCK, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3255) granting a pension to Marion C. Gurney, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. BLODGETT, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5766) granting a pension to Miss Adda Poolger, of Lockport, N. Y., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

NATHANIEL LANG.

Mr. WALTHALL. I am directed by the Committee on Military Affairs to report favorably and without amendment the bill (H. R. 2570) for the relief of Nathaniel Lang.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate to put that bill upon its passage at this time, it being a House bill, and a plain case.

By unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to relieve and absolve Nathaniel Lang from the sentence adjudged against him by a court-martial on January 26, 1865, and to restore him as of that date to his rank as captain of Company F, One hundred and twenty-first Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

THOMAS C. ELLIS.

Mr. TURPIE. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions to report favorably, and without amendment, the bill (S. 2766) granting a pension to Thomas C. Ellis.

Mr. CAILL. I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of that bill. The case is well known to me. The man is very old, almost totally blind, and in very great need. I hope there will be no objection to its immediate consideration.

The being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension rolls the name of Thomas C. Ellis, a soldier of the Florida Seminole Indian war, and to grant him a pension of $20 per month.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ADMINISTRATION OF UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

Mr. QUAY. I am instructed by the Committee on the Library to report favorably the joint resolution (H. Res. 155) to authorize and direct the Secretary of State to affix the great seal of the United States to a certain document therein stated, and I ask that it be placed upon its passage.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution, which is a direction to the Secretary of State to affix the great seal of the United States to the document entitled "The Administration of the United States Government at the beginning of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America."

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. QUAY. In the same connection I report from the Committee on the Library, a concurrent resolution of the House of Representatives bearing upon the same subject, which I desire placed upon its passage.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.
The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That the sanction of Congress is hereby given to the acceptance by the President of the United States, from James D. McBride, for preservation in the archives of the executive department, of one copy of the "State edition" of a memorial entitled "The administrators of the United States Government at the beginning of the second century," also of one copy of the document entitled "The administration of the United States Government at the beginning of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America."

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to.

Mr. QUAY. I am also instructed to ask for the adoption of the order which I send to the desk in connection with the same subject.

The order was read and agreed to, as follows:

Ordered, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to affix the seal of the United States Senate to the document entitled "The administration of the United States Government at the beginning of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America."

ADMISSION OF NEW MEXICO.

Mr. CAREY. I am instructed by the Committee on Territories to report the bill (H. R. 7136) to enable the people of New Mexico to form a constitution and State government, and to be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, with amendments, and recommend its passage.

I am also instructed by the committee to state that it is not desired to ask for the consideration of the bill until the next session of Congress. At an early day in that session I shall ask for its consideration.

Mr. PLATT. I ought to say that this is not a unanimous report and that I have not been able to bring my mind to assent to it. There are various statistics and facts bearing upon the question whether New Mexico is entitled to admission which I have not been able to obtain, and which the committee has not been able to obtain. The Census Office and the Commissioner of Education are not prepared to furnish us with the data for which we ask.

I therefore ask permission if, on behalf of the minority of the committee, I should feel bound to oppose this bill at the next session, that I may at the commencement of the session file a minority report.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Permission will be granted in the absence of objection.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION REPORTS.

Mr. HAWLEY. On behalf of the Committee on Printing, I submit two reports upon concurrent resolutions for the printing of certain documents, and ask for their pre-ent consideration.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The first resolution reported by the Senator from Connecticut will be stated.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution, which was submitted by Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana, July 14, 1892, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed of the reports of the Smithsonian Institution and of the National Museum for the year ending June 30, 1891, in two octavo volumes, 19,000 extra copies, of which 3,000 shall be for the use of the Senate, 6,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, 7,000 copies for the use of the Smithsonian Institution, and 3,000 for the use of the National Museum.

Mr. HAWLEY. The committee directing me to report a number of amendments, which I ask the Secretary to read together, that they may be acted upon in gross.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chief Clerk will report the resolution as proposed to be amended by the committee.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to amend the resolution, so as to read:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed of the reports of the Smithsonian Institution and of the National Museum for the year ending June 30, 1891, in two octavo volumes, 19,000 extra copies, of which 1,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate, 2,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives, 5,000 copies for the use of the Smithsonian Institution, and 2,000 copies for the use of the National Museum.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendments to the resolution.

The amendments were agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

YORKTOWN MONUMENT PRESENTATION.

Mr. HAWLEY. I now ask for the consideration of the other concurrent resolution which I reported.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That there be printed 5,000 copies of the proceedings attendant upon the formal presen- tation of the monument at Yorktown, Va., of which 1,000 copies shall be for the Senate, 2,000 copies for the House, and 2,000 copies (each bound in full leather) to be forwarded by the Department of State to the French Government for distribution among the descendants of our French allies participating in the operations which resulted in the surrender of the force of Lord Cornwallis at that point.

REPORT OF MONETARY COMMISSION.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report favorably, with certain amendments, the concurrent resolution which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 20,000 copies of the report of the Monetary Commission created under the joint resolution of August 15, 1876, being Senate Report No. 703, second session Forty-fourth Congress; 20,000 for the use of the Senate and 10,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be reported as proposed to be amended.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to amend the resolution so as to read:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 30,000 copies of the report of the Monetary Commission created under the joint resolution of August 15, 1876, being Senate Report No. 703, second session Forty-fourth Congress; 10,000 for the use of the Senate and 20,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Do I understand that it is the report of the committee and not the accompanying documents which it is intended to print?

Mr. MANDERSON. Not the appendices and not the testimony, but the report proper of the committee, which is rather a small volume, for which there is a very great demand, and the edition is entirely exhausted.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas introduced a bill (S. 3465) to amend section 22 of an act entitled "An act to regulate commerce," approved February 4, 1887, and amended March 2, 1889, and to permit common carriers to allow reduced rates to persons traveling on missions of mercy or charity, and to commercial travelers, and other persons habitually traveling from point to point on any legitimate business; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3466) to remove the charge of desertion against William Cooper; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3467) granting a pension to John W. Bennett; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

TEMPORARY ERECTION OF OVERHEAD WIRES IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. McMILLAN. I introduce a joint resolution, which I ask unanimous consent to have immediately considered.

The joint resolution (S. R. 103) giving authority for the erection of overhead wires for the illumination of the city of Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic during September, 1892, was read the first time by its title, and the second time at length, as follows:

Whereas it is proposed during the approaching reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic to make provisions for the suitable illumination of the streets, avenues, and public grounds, which illumination can not be effected unless additional overhead wires for electrical purposes are temporarily strung; and

Whereas the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are prohibited by existing law from authorizing any overhead wires for electrical purposes to be strung on or over any street or avenue of the said city; Therefore

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to permit the committee on illumination of the citizen's executive committee for the entertainment of the twenty-sixth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic to stretch suitable conductors with sufficient supports, whenever necessary for the purpose of effecting the said illumination; Provided, That the said conductors shall not be used for the conveying of electrical currents after September 25, 1892, and shall with their supports be fully and entirely removed from the streets and avenues of the said city of Washington on or before November 1, 1892; Provided further, That the stretching and removing of the said wires shall be under the supervision of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, who shall see that the provisions of this resolution are enforced; that all needless precautions are taken for the protection of the public; and that the pavement of any street, avenue, or alley disturbed in as good condition as before entering up in the work herein authorized; Provided further, That no expense or damage on account of, or due to the stretching, operation, or removing of the said temporary overhead conductors shall be incurred by the United States or the District of Columbia.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

desertion from the record of Patriek Larkin, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

DISTRICT MEDICAL SOCIETY.

Mr. GALLINGER. On the 12th day of April last a resolution was sent to the Committee on the District of Columbia, asking that committee to inquire and report "whether the medical society in said District admits to its membership colored physicians or physicians who have been or may be teachers in the medical school of Howard University, being in all respects otherwise qualified, or makes any distinction in its membership by reason of color or official relation to said university.

The committee have investigated the matter committed to them, having taken testimony on both sides. I am instructed to make a report and ask that it be printed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will be so ordered.

MEDALS TO OFFICERS AND CREW OF THE BALTIMORE.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. Res. 80), authorizing the acceptance of medals presented to the officers and crew of the United States steamship Baltimore by the King of Sweden, to report it favorably without amendment, and as it is an act of courtesy by a friendly power to officers of the Navy of the United States, I ask that the joint resolution be read for immediate consideration.

The joint resolution was read, and, by unanimous consent, the Senate, as Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

NICARAGUAN MARITIME CANAL.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Foreign Relations to report a resolution, and I ask for the action of the Senate upon it.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Relations is directed to continue the investigation directed by resolution of the Senate of January 7, 1892, in respect to the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua, during the recess of the present Congress, with the same powers conferred by said resolution, and to report by bill or otherwise on or before the second Monday of the next session of the Senate.

Mr. COCKRELL. Has the resolution been to the Committee on Contingent Expenses? Does it not properly go to that committee?

Mr. SHERMAN. Early in the present session—

Mr. PADDOCK. Let the resolution be read again.

Mr. SHERMAN. I think it had better be read again. It is simply to continue the inquiry of the Committee on Foreign Relations as to the Nicaragua Canal during the recess, under a resolution which was adopted early in the present session, the committee concluding not to act upon the subject during the present session. It involves no expense, but it simply gives authority for the committee to meet during the recess and to make a report at the next session.

Mr. PADDOCK. It makes no charge on the contingent fund?

Mr. SHERMAN. It makes no charge on the contingent fund.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. TURPIE. I think it would be better to consider the resolution at a later day in the session.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Indiana object to its present consideration?

Mr. TURPIE. Yes, sir.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made.

Mr. SHERMAN. Does the Senator from Indiana object?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He does.

Mr. SHERMAN. Then the resolution goes on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Railway Company, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. HEARD, Mr. COBB of Alabama, and Mr. POST managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 6973) to authorize the Postmaster-General to provide mail service, and for other purposes; and

A bill (H. R. 9023) to grant the right of way to the Pensacola

Terminal Company through the lands of the naval reservation near Pensacola.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills and joint resolutions; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 2370) for the relief of Nathaniel Lang;

A bill (H. R. 5446) to provide for the care of dependent children in the District of Columbia and to create a board of children's guardians;

A bill (H. R. 5997) to amend section 2 of an act approved May 14, 1880, being "An act for the relief of settlers on public lands;"

A bill (H. R. 6991) to amend "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Tennessee River at or near Knoxville, Tenn.," approved August 9, 1888;

A joint resolution (H. Res. 102) requesting the loan of certain articles for the World's Columbian Exposition;

A joint resolution (H. Res. 108) extending the time in which certain street railroads compelled by act of Congress approved August 6, 1890, to change their motive power from horse-power to mechanical power for one year; and

A joint resolution (H. Res. 155) to authorize and direct the Secretary of State to affix the great seal of the United States to a certain document therein stated.

ROCK CREEK SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution: which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia be, and he is hereby, instructed to prepare plans, specifications, and estimates for converting Rock Creek, below the north line of Massachusetts avenue, into a closed sewer and filling in between the banks of the creek; also to prepare an estimate of the value to the Government of the land reclaimed by such work in excess of the probable judgment of condemnation, said report to be made at the beginning of the next session of Congress.

PUBLIC FOREST RESERVATIONS.

Mr. PADDOCK submitted the following resolution: which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That 5,000 copies of the bill S. 3225, entitled "A bill to provide for the establishment, protection, and administration of public forest reservations, and for other purposes," together with the written report of the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry accompanying the same, be printed and placed in the document room of the Senate for the use of Senators, 1,000 copies of which number shall be for distribution by the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

RETAIL PRICES AND WAGES.

Mr. CARLISLE. I submit a resolution, and ask that it be read and considered.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate, That 10,000 copies of the table showing "Retail prices of commodities in England in June, 1889, and September, 1891," prepared under the direction of a subcommittee of the Committee on Finance, be printed for the use of the Senate as a supplement to Report No. 1885 made by said Committee on Finance under the Senate resolution of March 3, 1891.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution? The Chair hears none, and the question is on agreeing to the same.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask the indulgence of the Senate to have the resolution read again. I did not hear it, but I have no doubt it is all right.

Mr. CARLISLE. I will state to the Senator what it provides for, if that will answer as well. The subcommittee made inquiry as to the retail prices in England of a large number of articles, something over 200 I believe, on the 1st of June, 1889, and on the 1st of September, 1891. The returns were made to the committee, and are printed in the large volume which accompanies the report.

The committee also ascertained the rates of wages in England in a large number of occupations during that time. The Statistician in his report to the subcommittee, which is printed as an appendix to the committee's report, alludes to both of these tables, but omits to publish the table showing the retail prices, publishing, however, the table which shows the rates of wages. The report as to England is not complete without the publication as a supplement to it of the table showing the retail prices as well as the table showing the rates of wages.

I looked over this report in the Statistician's office when it was in manuscript, or typewritten rather, and thought at that time the table showing the retail prices accompanied it because the sheets were loose and each table was on a separate sheet of paper, and when I came to the tables in my examination, of course they were laid to one side and not carefully examined. But on coming to examine the report in print I find that that table is omitted, and I simply ask the Senate to order the same number of that table printed as of the report itself, 10,000 copies.

Mr. SHERMAN. I now understand it. I am not a member of the subcommittee which reported these papers. I have no doubt what the Senator from Kentucky says is correct, and that the table ought to be published; but as the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON] and the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH] are not in their seats, I ask the Senator from Kentucky to let the resolution be passed over until they come in. I have no doubt it will be satisfactory as soon as they come in.

Mr. MANDERSON. I think the resolution should be referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. CARLISLE. Perhaps it is a matter of no importance, but I call the attention of the chairman of the Committee on Printing to the fact that the report as printed purports to be made in response to Senate resolution of March 3, 1892, whereas in fact it is in response to Senate resolution passed March 3, 1891.

Mr. MANDERSON. I think, beyond question, that the table which is referred to should be printed as a part of the report. It seems to be a part of the document. The only embarrassment there is about the passage of the resolution is the statute, which requires that in order to print matter by either House it must be within the limit of cost of $500. I ask the Senator from Kentucky whether he has made the necessary inquiry to find if this could be added to the number of 16,000 copies within the limit of $500?

Mr. CARLISLE. The Senate has ordered 16,000 copies of the report to be printed. I am not apprised as to the cost of printing those 16,000. Will the Senator inform me?

Mr. MANDERSON. It will be, as I recall, $480; within $20 of the limit of $500.

Mr. CARLISLE. That report, as printed, contains one hundred and twenty pages. This table covers about seven pages. I am not able, of course, to state what the cost will be.

Mr. MANDERSON. If the Senator will refer the resolution to the Committee on Printing we can make a speedy report upon it.

Mr. CARLISLE. I have no objection.

Mr. HARRIS. Let it be referred, and let the Senator from Nebraska report it back to-morrow, if possible.

Mr. MANDERSON. I will try to do so.

Mr. CARLISLE. It is an important table, and the report will be incomplete without it.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Printing.

HOUSE BILL REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 9023) to grant the right of way to the Pensacola Terminal Company through the lands of the naval reservation near Pensacola was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

RELATIONS BETWEEN EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYÉ.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day.

The CHIEF CLERK. A resolution, by Mr. PEPPER, instructing the Committee on the Judiciary to make certain inquiries in regard to the relations between employer and employé, and report the result of the same to the Senate.

Mr. PEPPER. Mr. President, I desire to make a very brief statement of the object and purport of the resolution. I shall not occupy more than five or ten minutes, if I am not interrupted.

Mr. GALLINGER. I ask for the reading of the resolution before the Senator from Kansas proceeds.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution, submitted by Mr. PEPPER on the 21st instant, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on the Judiciary be, and it is hereby, instructed to inquire and report—

First, Whether, in the present state of the law as it concerns the relations between employer and employé, the former enjoys the privilege of determining and enforcing the rate or amount of wages to be paid to the employee for work and labor to be performed.

Second, Whether, in case the first query is answered in the affirmative, the resulting condition is conducive to the good of society or tends to promote the general welfare.

Third, Whether, in case the second query is answered in the negative, Congress has jurisdiction over the subject-matter to the extent of providing remedial legislation.

Fourth, And, if the third query is answered in the affirmative, what legislation, if any, is necessary to afford proper relief.

Mr. PEPPER. Mr. President, it is not my purpose to discuss the subject-matter involved in the resolution, but simply to make a few brief statements concerning what is involved in it.

First, it is proposed that the Committee on the Judiciary shall simply examine the state of the law in relation to employer and employé. We have what we call the law of landlord and tenant, and we have many other double relations in the law, with which all lawyers are familiar. But in this case it is a new relation, or rather, it is the presentation of a new phase of an old relation that is submitted.

We have been having labor troubles, as we call them, for a long time; but we have been looking in the wrong direction for a solution of these troubles. The reason of it is that we have been accustomed to regard them as a contest between labor and capital. That is not the true statement of the situation. The working people of to-day in this country and all other countries have no sort of objection to the accumulation of property by individuals through their own labor and the exertion of their own personal efforts. They have no sort of jealousy against persons who are in the enjoyment of the comforts of this life. What they object to is what they regard as a usurpation upon the part of employers, a usurpation of the rights of the workman; and this that we now call "labor trouble" is simply a resistance to that oppression. It is a contest between two classes of citizens, therefore, the employer and the employé—one made up of a very few of the citizens, comparatively, and the other composed of a vast multitude of the toiling people.

Under the present state of the law the employer has the right, and he exercises the right—perhaps I ought to use the word privilege—he has the privilege, and he exercises the privilege of not only determining the rate and amount of wages to be paid to the employé, but he has and enjoys the privilege of dictating to the employé what rate and amount of wages he shall receive and accept. This seems to be an erroneous statement of the relation, simply because we have been accustomed to looking at it from a different standpoint. It is generally understood and agreed that the employer has a right—not simply a privilege but a right—to manage his own business in his own way. I do not propose to discuss that question, although that is not a truthful statement of it.

In that connection I wish to refer to a few statements made by representative newspaper writers. I gather them from Public Opinion. They are paragraphs from half a dozen different papers, perhaps, and they are marked. I will not take time to read them, simply stating what they are. They make the point that the employer or manager of any business has a perfect right to manage and conduct his business in his own way to please himself, and I shall have them incorporated with my remarks.

The extracts referred to are as follows:

[Harper's Weekly (Independents), July 16.]

It is a disgrace to the nation that the paternal discussion of the affair by the press and by legislators has complicated and obscured the real question at issue. The spirit of the demagogue, who is afraid lest voters of readers be made foes if he dare call murder and robbery by their right names, has been too manifest. The journal or the public man that approves the lawless mob of Homestead or its leaders insults the workmen of the nation by assuming that they are at heart robbers and murderers. No sympathy can be too deep for those and their families who are called to face the loss of life, blood, nor for the men who, in the sincere belief that they are asserting their own rights, destroy themselves in attacks on the rights of others. But personal sympathy with individual aids must not affect our judgment upon a crisis in which the order and the order of society are at stake.

[New York Independent (Independents), July 14.]

The rational mistake of the workmen at Homestead was not in refusing to accept the best terms the company owning the mills would concede; it was in striking in a body and leaving the mills silent at a great daily loss to the proprietors; it was in assuming to control property of which they owned not a single dollar's worth; in usurping the right of the legal owners to possess their own property at Homestead. If capital were to usurp a corresponding right over labor every right-thinking man would instantly condemn it. The employé has a right to the full product of his own labor. This must be maintained as a fundamental principle. Capital has a right to the full control of its own property. This too is a fundamental principle. Whenever either is denied, it is the supreme office of the law to vindicate the violated right.

[Boston Journal (Republicans), July 12.]

The function of the authorities now is not merely to prevent overt acts of violence, but to restore the property which has been jeopardized to its rightful owners. Other questions will have to wait until this is settled. Until access to the Carnegie works is free and unimpeded, and the rioters lay down their arms, it is only force which prevails, even though the method be temporarily quiet. Negotiation, and, if that be possible, arbitration, must come after, not before, the laws are vindicated.

[Baltimore Sun (Democrats), July 13.]

A day must come when the militia will have to be withdrawn, and the citizen soldier suffered to return to his family and his ordinary avocations. A day will shortly come when the unemployed workman will find it necessary either to remove from Homestead and seek work, and wages elsewhere, or else come to some terms with his former employer.

[Pittsburg Independent (Independents), July 12.]

The decision of the wages dispute will thus be left to pacific methods. In the end the workmen can hope for success from two sources, and only two. The first is that with the evident sympathy and aid from labor the whole community over, they may on the one hand be able to maintain their position, while the indisposition of labor generally to take work in the mills will make it difficult to run the works without them. The other possibility, though not a remote one is that which the great majority of the public would regard to be the final reaching of a point where the firm will consent to a joint hearing of the case with a view to a compromise, either by conference or arbitration.

[New York Press (Republicans), July 19.]

The wrong on the part of the workmen has been their interference to prevent the operation of the works. Under the law the company has the right to do as it pleases with its own property, and no one has any right to prevent it. The same law covers the manufactory that covers the home purchased by the workman. The managers of the Homestead works have the undoubted right under the law to employ whom they please at whatever rates of wages their employés are willing to accept.

[Pittsburg Commercial Appeal (Republicans), July 12.]

The only sensible and reasonable course is for the men to make a complete and final surrender of their property, leaving its future use and occupancy at the disposal of its owners.

Mr. WASHBURN. This is not a motion to adjourn. I will yield to the Senator from Montana when it is disposed of.

Mr. SANDERS. All right.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment offered by the Senator from New York to the motion made by the Senator from Minnesota. The amendment is that when the Senate adjourn to-day it be to meet on Monday next.

The amendment was rejected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question recurs on the motion made by the Senator from Minnesota, that when the Senate adjourn to-day it be to meet at 11 o'clock to-morrow.

The motion was not agreed to.

MARYLAND AND WASHINGTON RAILWAY.

Mr. SANDERS. I ask unanimous consent to call up the bill (H. R. 4667) to incorporate the Maryland and Washington Railway Company.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill.

Mr. SANDERS. The bill has been read and there was an amendment pending to it offered by myself. The Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] who has charge of the bill signified the other day his willingness, if I would withdraw the amendment which I had presented, to himself propose another amendment. With that action I will be content if I can have leave to withdraw the amendment which I offered.

Mr. HARRIS. My suggestion was that I would not object to it, but I will offer the amendment. I believe I have a memorandum of it here. It is to that part which limits the issuance of stock, that it shall be so modified as to provide that no greater amount of stock shall be issued than the actual cost of construction, equipment, and procuring the right of way.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Montana is withdrawn. The amendment moved by the Senator from Tennessee will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 12, line 2, strike out the word "and" and insert "the" before the word "amount;" after the word "amount" strike out "not to exceed 10 per cent;" and in line 3, strike out "over the" and insert "of the actual;" so as to read:

SEC. 12. That the said company is hereby authorized to issue its capital stock to the amount of the actual cost of construction, equipment, and purchase of right of way and ground necessary for its proper working.

Mr. HAWLEY. I should like to add to the provision these words:

Which sum shall first be ascertained and authorized upon petition therefor to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, under such rules and regulations as the chief justice and judges thereof shall prescribe, efficient to limit the stock of such corporation in the aggregate to the actual necessary cost thereof, and 10 per cent added.

Mr. HARRIS. I have no objection to the amendment being incorporated here and now, but I will state to the Senator that precisely the question involved was considered by a conference committee of the two Houses this evening, and with some slight modifications of phraseology the principle was incorporated by the unanimous action of the conference committee. This clause being amended, it will go to conference and the subject-matter will be considered. I have no objection, however, to the Senator's amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. The words "and 10 per cent added," should not be in.

Mr. HARRIS. No, not 10 per cent added.

Mr. CHANDLER. That has been left out.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment will be stated.

Mr. HAWLEY. I have read it. After the word "working," in line 4 of section 12, add what I have read.

Mr. FRYE. I should like an executive session. We might have one while the Senators are arranging the amendment.

Mr. HAWLEY. The Senator from Tennessee informs me that substantially this amendment is already contained in a proposed act, or do I understand that it will be done in conference?

Mr. HARRIS. Not in this bill, but the principle will be inserted when it goes into conference just as we have agreed to it in another bill.

Mr. HAWLEY. On the assurance that this is likely to be done, or is certain to be done, as has just been done in a previous conference, I will withdraw the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment to the amendment is withdrawn. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS].

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HARRIS. I move that the Senate request a conference with House of Representatives on the bill and amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Vice-President was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. HARRIS, Mr. McMILLAN, and Mr. PERKINS were appointed.

EL RENO, OKLA.

Mr. CAREY. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Order of Business 554, Senate bill 2829.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The title of the bill will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 2830) for the relief of the inhabitants of the town of El Reno, Okla.

Mr. BERRY. I object to taking up the bill at this hour of the evening.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made; and the question recurs on the motion of the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE] that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. HISCOCK. I wish the Senator from Maine would yield to me to call up a bill.

Mr. FRYE. If I yield to anyone I must yield to the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. PADDOCK], who came to me some time ago and made a similar request.

FORT RANDALL MILITARY RESERVATION.

Mr. PADDOCK. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the consideration of a bill which is of local concern.

Mr. FRYE. I yield to the Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. PADDOCK. That is very kind of the Senator. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Order of Business 805, being Senate bill 2931, in relation to a matter in my own State, which is approved by the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of War, and carries the unanimous report of the Committee on Public Lands in its favor.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2931) to provide for the survey and transfer of that part of the Fort Randall military reservation in the State of Nebraska to said State for school purposes.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands with an amendment to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the odd-numbered sections in the portion of the Fort Randall military reservation situated in the State of Nebraska, after the same shall have been surveyed as herein provided, may be selected by the State of Nebraska at any time within one year after the filing of the official plats of survey in the district land office as a part of the lands granted to said State as school indemnity for school lands lost in place under the provisions of "An act to provide for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union," approved February 9, 1867; Provided, That no existing lawful rights under any of the land laws of the United States providing for the disposition of the public lands shall be prejudiced by this act; And provided further, That said lands shall be accepted by said State of Nebraska in full satisfaction of lawful claims now existing, or that may hereafter arise, for school-land indemnity for a corresponding number of acres, upon assignment of the bases of the claims by description and selection in accordance with the regulations of the Interior Department within the period of limitation aforesaid; such selections to be equally distributed, so far as practicable, among the several townships.

SEC. 2. That the even-numbered sections, and all of the odd-numbered sections in said reservation not selected under the provisions of section 1 of this act, shall be open to settlement under the homestead law only.

SEC. 3. That the Secretary of the Interior be, and is hereby, authorized and directed to cause the lands embraced in that part of the said military reservation of Fort Randall in the State of Nebraska to be regularly surveyed by an extension of the public surveys over the unsurveyed portions of the same.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. PADDOCK, the title was amended so as to read: "A bill to provide for the survey and transfer of that part of the Fort Randall military reservation in the State of Nebraska to said State for school and other purposes."

IMMIGRATION AND CONTRACT LABOR LAWS.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of Senate bill 3240, Calendar No. 820.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 3240) to facilitate the enforcement of the immigration and contract labor laws of the United States.

The Secretary proceeded to read the bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. In line 8, of section 2, I move to strike out the words "oath or affirmation" and insert the word "declaration;" and in line 9, after the word "or," to insert the word "of."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 2, line 8, after the words "and the," it is proposed to strike out "oath or affirmation" and insert "declaration;" and in line 9, after the word "or," to insert the word "of;" so as to read:

Each list or manifest shall be verified by the signature and the declaration of the master or commanding officer or of the officer next below him in command, etc.

Mr. GORMAN. This is probably a proper bill, but I suggest to the Senator that at this hour of the evening, and with a thin Senate, it is hardly right to consider such a bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. If the Senator will allow me, I will state that this bill, although of some importance, is not a bill which involves any difference of opinion either in the House or Senate. It is unanimously agreed to by the Senate Committee on Immigration and by the House Committee on Immigration. Under those circumstances I hope the Senator will allow the bill to pass. It has been carefully examined by every member of the Senate committee and by every member of the House committee. It is a carefully prepared bill, which involves no controversy whatever with anyone as to anything in it.

Mr. HAWLEY. It occurs to me to ask whether the bill has been submitted to the commissioners of immigration or the owners of the great ships who are familiar with the subject; for, as I heard the long list of questions read, I could not help thinking how, by whom, and at what expenditure of time these questions should all be answered and these blanks all filled? I think some of the vessels would have to wait two or three weeks before they could get started.

Mr. CHANDLER. I desire to say to the Senator from Connecticut that the bill has been submitted to the steamship owners to whom he refers, and they have not made strenuous opposition to it. If, as the Senator says, it will take three or four weeks for them to make sufficient examination of a dozen immigrants to get started, I should like to ask him how long it will take us to examine them after they get over here. We examine five thousand in one day; and the Senator seems to think that it will take three weeks for them to get on board the ship.

Mr. HAWLEY. I am not making any special fight against the bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. I do not understand that the Senator is.

Mr. HAWLEY. Who fills out the blanks?

Mr. CHANDLER. The steamship companies are to bring a manifest of their passengers, just as they bring a manifest of their merchandise.

Mr. HAWLEY. With all these questions to be answered?

Mr. CHANDLER. They are to answer them, and the clerks on the docks will fill up the blanks. When the blanks are filled up, not more than thirty names on a blank, they are taken on board and the passengers go over them, and when the ship reaches the dock the papers are handed to the inspectors. It is the simplest process in the world. There is no difficulty in conforming to it; and, as I say, the steamship owners, while they do not care to do this, have made no strenuous opposition to it.

Mr. HAWLEY. The idea is a correct one. Looking at this matter some time ago, I thought it probably could be done by our consuls, and then we could be certain of the thoroughness of the returns they made. Of course that will involve some expenditure. I do not see why a consul, who takes great pains to examine and certify to a bill of lading, would not take as much pains with this.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the consideration of the bill?

Mr. CHANDLER. I no longer understand that the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN] objects.

Mr. HAWLEY. I make no objection.

Mr. GORMAN. I did not make a formal objection, but I saw that there was not a member of the committee on this side of the Chamber present, and at this hour of the evening I thought it was hardly proper to consider so important a bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. I make the suggestion that, if the Senator will allow the bill to be read through and allow one or two amendments to be adopted, I shall not ask to have the bill passed to-night.

Mr. GORMAN. I make no objection to that course being pursued.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], which has been read.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. CHANDLER. In section 2, line 9, I move to strike out the word "next" and insert "first or second;" and strike out the words "taken before" and insert the words "attested by."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 2, line 9, after the word "of-fer," it is proposed to strike out "next" and insert "first or second;" and in the same line, after the word "command," to strike out "taken before" and insert "attested by;" so as to read:

The list or manifest shall be verified by the signature and the declaration of the master or commanding officer or of the officer first or second below him in command, attested by the United States consul or consular agent at the port of departure, before the sailing of said vessel.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. CHANDLER. In section 3, line 3, after the word "make," I move to strike out "oath or affirmation" and insert "declaration;" so as to read, "and make declaration in like manner before said consul or consular agent."

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. CHANDLER. In section 8, line 5, before the word "kept," I move to strike out the words "placed, and" and insert "furnished to be;" and also in line 11, to strike out the word "placed" and insert "to be exposed to view."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 8, line 5, before the word "kept," it is proposed to strike out "placed, and" and insert "furnished to be;" and in line 11, strike out the word "placed" and insert "to be exposed to view;" so as to read:

SEC. 8. That all steamship or transportation companies, and other owners of vessels, regularly engaged in transporting alien immigrants to the United States, shall twice a year file a certificate with the Secretary of the Treasury that they have furnished to be kept conspicuously exposed to view in the office of each of their agents in foreign countries, authorized to sell emigrant tickets, a copy of the law of March 3, 1891, and of all subsequent laws of this country relative to immigration, printed in large letters, in the language of the country where the copy of the law is to be exposed to view, and that they have instructed their agents to call the attention thereto of persons contemplating emigration before selling tickets to them, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. CHANDLER. I move to strike out section 9.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to strike out section 9, as follows:

SEC. 9. That the temporary removal of alien immigrants prior to examination, provided for in section 8 of the act of March 3, 1891, shall be made in all cases of arrivals at the port of New York where the number of immigrants upon one vessel exceeds one hundred and fifty; and it shall be discretionary with the Commissioner of Immigration to examine a smaller number of immigrants on board the vessel.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. CHANDLER. In section 10, line 1, after the words "after the," I move to strike out "30th day of June, 1892," and insert "1st day of January, 1893."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 10, line 1, after the word "the," it is proposed to strike out "30th day of June, 1892," and insert "1st day of January, 1893;" so as to read:

SEC. 10. That after the 1st day of January, 1893, all exclusive privileges of exchanging money, transporting passengers or baggage, or keeping eating houses, and all other like privileges in connection with the Ellis Island immigrant station, shall be disposed of after public competition, subject to such conditions and limitations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.

The amendment was agreed to.

The reading of the bill was resumed.

Mr. CHANDLER. In section 11, line 3, before the word "days," I move to strike out "thirty" and insert "sixty."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 11, line 3, before the word "days," it is proposed to strike out "thirty" and insert "sixty;" so as to make the section read:

SEC. 11. That this act shall not apply to Chinese persons, and shall take effect as to vessels departing from foreign ports for ports within the United States after thirty days from the passage of this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The reading of the bill is concluded. The question recurs on the motion submitted by the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE] that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask the Senator from Maryland if he would prefer not to have this bill acted on to-night?

Mr. GORMAN. I think it had better go over, under the circumstances.

Mr. CHANDLER. What will be the position of the bill?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be returned to the Calendar without prejudice.

JAMES SMITH.

Mr. DUBOIS. I ask the Senator from Maine to yield to me

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair does not understand whether the suggestion of the Senator from New York contemplates taking up of the pending bill immediately after the reading of the Journal or not.

Mr. HISCOCK. My suggestion was that after the conclusion of the Senator's remarks we may then proceed with the business that we are accustomed to transact in the morning hour, by unanimous consent, or go to the Calendar, or anything else.

Mr. GEORGE. I shall be very much obliged to the Senate if it makes that kind of an arrangement.

Mr. CULLOM. The reason for the request is on account of the heat later in the day, I understand.

Mr. GEORGE. Yes, owing to the state of my health.

Mr. WASHBURN. I give notice that immediately after the routine business on Monday I shall move to take up the bill without any reference to the morning hour.

Mr. MITCHELL. I think unanimous consent should be given to the request of the Senator from Mississippi, without reference to the order of business in the morning hour.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair does not understand what the pending request is.

Mr. GEORGE. The pending request now, as amended by the suggestion of the Senator from New York (and I take his suggestion and amend my request in that way), is that immediately after the reading of the Journal on Monday morning the bill be taken up with a view of allowing me to address the Senate upon it, and after that—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair understood that to be the modified request, but also understood that objection was made to it.

Mr. CAREY. I did not object.

Mr. PUGIL. There was no objection made.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will state the request again. The request of the Senator from Mississippi is that the pending bill be taken up on Monday morning immediately after the reading of the Journal. Is there objection?

Mr. HISCOCK. And at the close of his remarks the morning hour will commence.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. And at the close of the remarks of the Senator from Mississippi the routine business may be received.

Mr. WASHBURN. Yes, the routine business, and after the routine business I shall move to proceed to the consideration of the pending bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. After the routine business the pending bill will be the unfinished business.

Mr. PLATT. No, that is not agreed to.

Mr. CULLOM. Let the request of the Senator from Mississippi be put by itself.

Mr. PLATT. The Senator from Minnesota gives notice that after the routine business has been completed he will move to continue the consideration of this bill, but there are numerous Senators here who want to get some time Monday for the business which is usually done in the morning hour.

Mr. CAREY. I wish to make this request to the Senate, that on Tuesday we take up the Calendar before 2 o'clock, after the routine business, and proceed with the Calendar from day to day until we have gone through with it. There are a number of bills on the Calendar—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will first submit the pending request. The request now is that the bill be taken up immediately after the reading of the Journal on Monday, and that the routine business be resumed after the remarks of the Senator from Mississippi.

Mr. COCKRELL. For the usual time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. For the usual time, during the morning hour.

Mr. COCKRELL. I hope that will be agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. CAREY. I ask unanimous consent (though it does not appear to be necessary, as it is the rule) that we proceed to the Calendar on Tuesday and each day thereafter, to be interfered with by appropriation bills only, until we have gone through with the Calendar under Rule VIII. That will only take up the time until 2 o'clock.

Mr. WASHBURN. I give notice that every day after the routine business, until Congress adjourns or this bill is acted upon, I shall move to take it up for consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair understands the request suggested by the Senator from Wyoming to be now the rule of the Senate, and that after the morning business the Calendar is in order until 2 o'clock.

Mr. CAREY. I am a young member of this body, and I dislike very much to object to bills when they are called up, but they run in on unanimous consent, and we can not consider the bills on the Calendar regularly. Two or three days ago we considered every House bill that was reported up to the 20th of this month, and it will not probably take over two or three hours to go through the Calendar and pass the bills on it that are unobjectionable.

Mr. CULLOM. The Senate bills?

Mr. CAREY. The Senate bills. It seems to me that we have done a very kind thing to the House bills, and I do not see why a little kindness should not be meted out to members of this body who are interested in getting the Senate bills off the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let me suggest to the Senator from Wyoming that what he asks is now the rule and order of the Senate: that as soon as the routine morning business is concluded the presentation of petitions, making of reports, introduction of bills, and so on, the Calendar is in order, to be taken up at the point reached when it was last under consideration. Now, all the Senator has to do is to insist upon that rule being enforced and to give notice of it. I have been trying to get it enforced for a long time, and I am glad that I am going to find some help now.

Mr. CAREY. If I had objected to the request for unanimous consent by any Senator it would have been looked upon as a very discourteous thing, and I want now in some way or other to get the consent of this body so that we shall not be compelled to object and do a discourteous thing.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair understands that the request of the Senator from Wyoming is merely that the rule of the Senate shall be observed.

Mr. WASHBURN. I do not want any unanimous consent—that is understood—that will deprive me of moving at any time to proceed to the consideration of the pending bill.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes, insisted upon its disagreement to the amendments numbered 18, 44, and 103, had receded from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate to the bill numbered 110 and agreed to the same; and had receded from its disagreement to the amendment numbered 78, and agreed to the same with an amendment, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate, agreed to conference asked for by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. SAYERS, Mr. HOLMAN, and Mr. DINGLEY, managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company.

The message further announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the House to the bill (S. 1498) for the establishment of additional aids to navigation in Tampa Bay, Florida.

The message also announced that the House had passed the joint resolution (S. R. 103) granting authority for the erection of overhead wires for the illumination of the city of Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic during September, 1892.

WASHINGTON AND GREAT FALLS ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. McHILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company, having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the first amendment of the Senate and agree to the same as amended by inserting, after the words "granite blocks," the words "or vitrified bricks;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 2, 3, 1 and 5. That the House recede from its disagreement to the sixth amendment of the Senate and agree to the same as amended to read as follows: "Respecting railways parallel to the Conduit road and affecting the same, whether in the District of Columbia or in Maryland;" and the Senate agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11, and agree to the same.

That the House recede from its disagreement to the twelfth amendment of the Senate and agree to the same as amended to read as follows: "Paragraph 1, after 'acceptance,' insert 'in writing,' also, in line 23 strike out 'interest' and insert 'interests,'" and that the Senate agree to the same."

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate numbered 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, and 18, and agree to the same.

from its disagreement to the nineteenth amendment of the Senate and agree to the same amended as follows: Page 7, line 1, strike out "and be," insert "and be," in line 11, and in line 12, and that the Senate agree to the same.

The House recede from its disagreement to the twentieth amendment of the Senate and agree to the same amended as follows: After "cost of" in the words "right of way, construction, equipment, station-houses and other buildings necessary to the operation of" and the Senate agree to the same.

The House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 21, 22, 23, and 24, and agree to the same.

The House recede from its disagreement to the twenty-fifth amendment of the Senate and agree to the same amended as follows: After the word "amended," insert amendment, add: "Provided, That if in the course of the construction and equipment of such railroad it should appear that the amount of stock authorized as provided herein should not be sufficient for the purposes desired, the said court may upon further petition and hearing authorize the issuing of such further stock as in its judgment may be deemed necessary to carry out the purposes of this act. And provided further, That such stock or bonds may be issued as the work progresses."

That the House recede from its disagreement to the twenty-sixth amendment of the Senate and agree to the same amended as follows: Page 12, line 5, strike out "ten," and insert "fifty;" also on page 14, line 21, after "construction," insert "nor shall it cross any steam railroad at grade."

JAMES McMILLAN.

B. W. PERKINS.

ISHAM C. HARRIS.

Moving on the part of the Senate.

JOHN T. HEARD.

J. E. COBB.

P. S. POST.

Moving on the part of the House.

The report was concurred in.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT BUFFALO, N. Y.

Mr. HISCOCK. I ask unanimous consent to call up for present consideration the bill (S. 3463) to fix the limit of cost of the United States post-office building at Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. FELTON. Will it create any discussion?

Mr. HISCOCK. No, it will not create any discussion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from New York?

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the Order of Business?

Mr. HISCOCK. Ten hundred and sixty-nine. The bill does not carry any appropriation, or anything of that kind.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

GEN. CULLUM'S WEST POINT MEMORIAL.

Mr. HAWLEY. I beg the Senate to take up a formal joint resolution making a grateful acknowledgement of the magnificent bequest of Gen. Cullum. It was suggested by the President in a brief message, and approved unanimously by the Committee on Military Affairs. It is a short resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The joint resolution will be read subject to objection.

The joint resolution (S. R. 103) relating to bequests made by the late Gen. Cullum was read, as follows:

Resolved, etc. That the Government of the United States makes grateful acknowledgment of the generous bequests to the Government and to the Academic Board of the United States Military Academy, contained in the will of the late Maj. Gen. George W. Cullum, amounting to more than $300,000, to be devoted to a memorial hall and the purchase of statues, paintings, tablets, and trophies appropriate thereto, and to the decennial publication of a biographical register of the officers and graduates of the Academy. No other monument can be erected to the memory of that true and gallant soldier and gentleman.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to ask the Senator if it would not be better in referring to this decennial publication to refer to it by the title that Gen. Cullum mentions in his will?

Mr. HAWLEY. Cullum's Biographical Register. I think that is the title.

Mr. COCKRELL. I have the title here in the report. I think that would be a grateful recognition, as he desires it to be named.

Mr. HAWLEY. Very good; that is all right; put in the words.

Mr. COCKRELL. In line 10, after the word "of," I move to strike out "a" and insert "Gen. Cullum's;" after the word "the," at the end of line 11, to insert "United States Military," and after "Academy," in line 12, to insert "at West Point, N. Y.," so as to read:

Tablets and trophies appropriated there to and to the decennial publication of Gen. Cullum's Biographical Register of the officers and graduates of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

The amendment was agreed to.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EXTENSION OF NORTH CAPITOL STREET.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask unanimous consent to call up the bill (S. 2557) to extend North Capitol street to the Soldiers' Home.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the Calendar number?

Mr. McMILLAN. No. 687. It was passed over the other day, just to find out something about the cemetery business. It has all been fixed.

Mr. COCKRELL. That bill is away back on the Calendar.

Mr. McMILLAN. It is a short bill, and will take but a moment.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think the Senator ought to remember very distinctly that that bill met with very zealous opposition on the part of my colleague.

Mr. McMILLAN. Let me explain to the Senator—

Mr. COCKRELL. I can not consent to have the bill taken up unless my colleague is here.

Mr. McMILLAN. The Senator's colleague has given his assent to the measure in the form which it now is, and so has the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY], and so have the trustees. It has all been fixed, and is satisfactory to them.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will state to the Senator from Michigan that when the bill was before the Senate on a previous occasion sundry amendments were adopted, and the clerks find it difficult to adjust the amendments which he now proposes to those amendments.

Mr. McMILLAN. I move to reconsider the action of the Senate agreeing to the amendments heretofore.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendments will be reconsidered.

Mr. McMILLAN. I will state that the bill as it is now proposed is entirely satisfactory to the cemetery people, to the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], and the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY], who objected to it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Unless there be objection, the amendments already adopted will be reconsidered, and the amendments now proposed by the Senator from Michigan will be stated.

Mr. COCKRELL. Now let the amendments be proposed with the text standing in the bill. My colleague is not here. He was here a moment ago.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendments are reconsidered without objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. With the understanding and the assurance, as a matter of course, that if it is not entirely satisfactory to my colleague a motion will be made to reconsider the action of the Senate.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have his positive assurance that it is satisfactory to him in the form in which it will be presented.

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not dispute that, but I simply want to reserve to my colleague the right to reconsider should he not be satisfied.

Mr. VEST entered the Chamber.

Mr. COCKRELL. My colleague is now present.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will first be read in its original form.

The Secretary read the bill; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendments now submitted by the Senator from Michigan will be stated in their order.

The SECRETARY. In line 4, before the word "grade," insert the words "open and;" in line 6, after the word "condemn," strike out the words "any land not donated that" and insert "in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of land in the District of Columbia, such of the lands of the Prospect Hill Cemetery and of Annie E. Barbour as;" in line 10, before the word "street," strike out "this" and insert "said;" and in the same line, after the word "street," strike out "and the sum of $25,000 is hereby appropriated for the same" and insert "and to carry out the provisions of this act the amount of money necessary to pay the judgment of condemnation, the cost of grading, and the cost of building a retaining wall along the line of the land of said cemetery, if in the judgment of the said Commission as such a wall shall be deemed necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated;" so as to make the bill read:

Resolved, etc. That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby directed to open and grade North Capitol street from T street to the Soldiers' Home, and are hereby authorized and directed to condemn, in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of land in the District of Columbia, such lands of the Prospect Hill Cemetery and of Annie E. Barbour as may be necessary for the extension of said street; and to carry out the provisions of this act the amount of money necessary to pay the judgment of condemnation, the cost of grading, and the cost of building a retaining wall along the line of said cemetery, if in the judgment of the said Commissioners as such a wall shall be deemed necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. TURPIE. I object to the further consideration of the bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. I wish to say to the Senator from Michigan in this connection that I think there ought to be a limit on the amount to be paid for the condemnation of property. I do not believe that there will be a particle of injury done to that portion of it. There will be an absolute benefit and advantage and a large enhancement of the selling price of the property, and the people of this District and of the United States ought not to be made to pay for improvements which largely enhance private property.

The PRESIDENTING OFFICER. Being objected to, the bill goes over and will take its place on the Calendar.

CHARLES T. GARRARD.

Mr. CULLOM. I ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 2932) for the relief of Charles T. Garrard.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to remove the charge of desertion appearing on the records of the Adjutant-General United States Army against Charles T. Garrard, late quartermaster-sergeant Sixth Regiment United States Cavalry.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. COCKRELL. As a matter of simple justice to the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. HANSBROUGH], who is not here, and as it is a House bill which I asked to have passed over, and will only take a moment, I ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 6793) to provide for semi-annual statements by foreign corporations doing business in the District of Columbia. I understand it is an important matter and should be passed. It will only take a moment. The Senator from North Dakota was anxious to have the bill passed and I asked that it should go over.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment, in section 2, line 5, after the word "District," to add the following proviso:

Provided, That fraternal beneficiary associations or societies doing business on the lodge plan and paying death benefits be exempted from the provisions of this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

CAPT. EDWARD WHEELER.

Mr. SQUIRE. I ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 3213) authorizing the Secretary of War to correct the military record of Capt. Edward Wheeler, Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. The preamble recites that Capt. Edward Wheeler, Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers, was dismissed from the military service of the United States by an erroneous order dated September 4, 1862, while absent from his command sick, and reinstated December 24, 1862, upon the discovery that an error had been committed. The bill directs the Secretary of War to revoke the order dismissing the officer and to correct his military record to show a continuous service covering the period named.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The preamble was agreed to.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT WALLA WALLA, WASH.

Mr. ALLEN. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (S. 1137) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Walla Walla, in the State of Washington.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ESTATE OF JOHN ROACH.

Mr. MITCHELL. I ask the Senate to proceed to the consideration of Order of Business 799, the bill (S. 457) for the relief of the assignees or legal representatives of John Roach, deceased to pay balance due on the United States steamer Dolphin.

Mr. COCKRELL. Pending that, I move that the Senate adjourn. It is too late in the evening to consider that bill. It might lead to some discussion.

Mr. SANDERS. I do not know as to the objection to that bill, but I wish to call up a bill that I am satisfied will not lead to discussion.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am almost sure the bill the Senator from Oregon desires to call up will lead to a little discussion.

Mr. MITCHELL. It was reported unanimously from the Committee on Claims after very careful consideration.

The PRESIDENTING OFFICER. The bill called up by the Senator from Oregon will be read by title.

The SECRETARY. A bill (S. 457) for the relief of the assignees or legal representatives of John Roach, deceased, to pay balance due on the United States steamer Dolphin.

Mr. COCKRELL. I must insist on my motion to adjourn. I want time to look over that bill. I must object to it. The bill will retain its place on the Calendar.

Mr. MITCHELL. All right.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it retain its place on the Calendar. It will be reached very soon in regular order.

The PRESIDENTING OFFICER. The bill will retain its place on the Calendar.

ADOLPH LOSCHMIDT.

Mr. SAWYER and others addressed the Chair.

Mr. SANDERS. I ask the Senator from Missouri to withdraw his motion to a Journal that an unobjected bill may be considered.

Mr. COCKRELL. I withdraw the motion for the present.

The PRESIDENTING OFFICER. The Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. SAWYER] has been recognized.

Mr. SAWYER. I ask unanimous consent to proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 1131) for the relief of Adolph Loschmidt.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with an amendment, in line 4, after the word "and," to strike out the remainder of the bill in the following words:

The records of the Adjutant-General's Office so as to show Adolph Loschmidt, late private in Company G, Sixty-first Regiment Indiana Volunteers, as honorably discharged from the service of the United States, and to issue to said Adolph Loschmidt an honorable discharge.

And insert:

And correct the military record of Adolph Loschmidt, late a mustered in Company G, Sixty-first Regiment Indiana Volunteers, afterwards Thirty-ninth Regiment Indiana Volunteers, and late a private in the Eighth Battery Indiana Light Artillery, and remove the charge of desertion. That said Adolph Loschmidt was and is the identical Adolph Smith described in various companies and battery, and absented himself from his said company on November 5, 1862, without any proper leave or authority, and on March 25, 1863, enlisted in said Eighth Battery Indiana Light Artillery, served faithfully, and was honorably discharged July 10, 1865, and to issue to said Adolph Loschmidt a certificate of such record and service.

So as to make the bill read:

That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to amend and correct the military record of Adolph Loschmidt, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SALARIES OF REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS.

Mr. ALLISON. I move that the Senate adjourn.

Mr. SANDERS. I have a bill here to abolish an office and save some money that I desire to have passed.

Mr. WARREN. I desire to call up the bill (S. 1720) to amend section 2237 of the Revised Statutes, in relation to the salaries of registers and receivers of United States land offices.

Mr. SANDERS. Unfortunately the Senator from Iowa is recognized. I am trying to get him to withdraw his motion to adjourn.

Mr. ALLISON. Very well.

The PRESIDENTING OFFICER. The Chair has recognized the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN].

Mr. COCKRELL. Pending that, as the bill the Senator from Wyoming wishes to call up would lead to discussion, I move that the Senate adjourn. There is no quorum present.

The PRESIDENTING OFFICER. It is moved by the Senator from Missouri that the Senate do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and at 6 o'clock and 50 minutes p. m. the Senate adjourned until Monday, July 25, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

CONFIRMATION.

Ex officio nomination confirmed by the Senate July 22, 1892.

CONSUL.

Adam Everly, of Pennsylvania, to be consul of the United States at Birmingham.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SATURDAY, July 23, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer by Rev. J. H. CUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

SURRENDER OF LAND PATENTS TO INDIANS.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting a draft of an amendment to section 2 of the act of October 19, 1888, entitled "An act authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to accept the surrender of and cancel land patents to Indians in certain cases;" which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH BOWDEN.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (H. R. 5829) granting a pension to Elizabeth Bowden, with a Senate amendment.

Mr. WILSON of Missouri. I move that the Senate amendment be concurred in.

The motion was agreed to.

JOSEPH WACKERLY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (H. R. 4833) to correct the military record of Joseph Wackerly, with a Senate amendment.

Mr. WEADOCK. Mr. Speaker, I move that the amendment be concurred in.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the amendment of the Senate be concurred in.

The motion was agreed to.

MICHAEL KEEFE, DECEASED.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (H. R. 1084) to remove the charge of desertion now standing against Michael Keefe, deceased, with a Senate amendment.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House disagree to the Senate amendment, and agree to the conference asked. The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER announced as conferees on the part of the House Mr. ROCKWELL, Mr. PATTON, and Mr. BOWERS.

HEIR OF HUGH WORTHINGTON.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (H. R. 4827) to confer jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the heirs of Hugh Worthington for his interest in the steamer Eastport, with a Senate amendment.

Mr. SMITH of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House concur in the Senate amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

GEORGE W. BARR.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (H. R. 4113) to grant an honorable discharge to George W. Barr, from the Army, with a Senate amendment.

Mr. HOOKER of New York. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House concur in the Senate amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORT OF MONETARY COMMISSION.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following Senate concurrent resolution: which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed 30,000 copies of the report proper of the Monetary Commission created under the joint resolution of August 15, 1876, being Senate report No. 703, second session Forty-fourth Congress, 10,000 for the use of the Senate and 20,000 for the use of the House of Representatives.

REPORTS OF SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION AND NATIONAL MUSEUM.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following Senate concurrent resolution: which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed the reports of the Smithsonian Institution and of the National Museum for the year ending June 30, 1891, in two octavo volumes, 10,000 extra copies of which 1,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate, 2,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives, 5,000 copies for the use of the Smithsonian Institution, and 2,000 copies for the use of the National Museum.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House Senate bills of the following titles; which were severally read a first and second time, and referred as indicated below:

A bill (S. 2766) granting a pension to Thomas C. Ellis—to the Committee on Pensions.

A bill (S. 3301) for the erection of a public building at the city of East St. Louis, Ill.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

ILLUMINATION OF WASHINGTON DURING GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the Senate joint resolution (S. R. 104) giving authority for the erection of overhead wires for the illumination of the city of Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, during September, 1892.

Mr. HEARD. Mr. Speaker, at the request of the Commissioners of the District, I ask unanimous consent of the House that this resolution be now considered.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution, after which the Chair will ask if there be objection.

The joint resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas it is proposed during the approaching reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic to make provision for the suitable illumination of the streets, avenues, and public grounds, which illumination can not be effected unless additional overhead wires, for electrical purposes, are temporarily strung; and

Whereas the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are prohibited by existing law from authorizing any overhead wires for electrical purposes to be strung on or over any street or avenue of the said city; Therefore,

*Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized to permit the committee on illumination of the citizens' executive committee for the entertainment of the twenty-sixth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, to stretch suitable conductors, with sufficient supports, wherever necessary, for the purpose of effecting the said illumination: Provided, That the said conductors shall not be used for the conveying of electrical currents after September 27, 1892, and shall, with their supports, be fully and entirely removed from the streets and avenues of the said city of Washington on or before November 1, 1892; Provided further, That the stretching and removing of the said wires shall be under the supervision of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, who shall see that the provisions of this resolution are enforced, that all needful precautions are taken for the protection of the public, and that the pavement of any street, avenue, or alley disturbed is replaced in as good condition as before entering upon the work herein authorized; Provided further, That no expense or damage on account of, or due to the stretching, operation, or removing of the said temporary overhead conductors shall be incurred by the United States or the District of Columbia.*

Mr. HEARD. As the reading of the resolution shows, the object is simply to authorize the Commissioners to grant permission to the committee on entertainment of the Grand Army of the Republic encampment to stretch wires across the avenues for the purpose of illuminating the city during the said encampment, to be removed immediately after, at the expense of this committee, without any expense to the United States or the District.

Mr. SIMPSON. Reserving the right to object, I desire to ask the gentleman from Missouri whether this involves any expense to the District?

Mr. HEARD. Not a dollar.

Mr. SIMPSON. It is to be done by the committee?

Mr. HEARD. Yes; by the committee of citizens; that is all.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution. [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The joint resolution was ordered to a third reading; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HEARD, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the joint resolution was agreed to was laid on the table.

BLUE MOUNTAIN IRRIGATION AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (S. 3048) granting to the Blue Mountain Irrigation and Improvement Company a right of way for reservoir and canals through the Umatilla Indian Reservation in the State of Oregon.

The SPEAKER. This bill will be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. HERMANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that it be considered at the present time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Oregon asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of this bill.

Mr. DOCKERY. What is it?

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the title of the bill.

The title was again reported.

Mr. DOCKERY. I think that had better go to the committee.

Mr. SIMPSON. To save time, I will call for the regular order.

Mr. HERMANN. Maybe the gentleman from Kansas will permit me to make a brief explanation of the bill.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Subsequently

Mr. HERMANN said: Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate bill which has just been laid before the House be permitted to lie on the Speaker's table for the present.

There was no objection and it was so ordered.

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW PAPERS.

Mr. SMITH of Illinois, by unanimous consent, obtained leave to withdraw from the files of the House the evidence and papers

This bill was introduced in the House by the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CABLE] at the request of an association of public-spirited citizens of this District who desire to establish an association for the encouragement and promotion of art. The measure asks no appropriation, and simply proposes to grant to these people an act of incorporation. If any further explanation is desired, I ask the gentleman from Illinois to give it. In view of the fact that there was no opposition to the bill in committee, and also on account of the character of the bill, and by reason of the fact that the District Committee will not in all probability have another day during this session, I ask that the bill be now considered.

The bill was read.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of this bill?

Mr. ENLOE. Upon the assurance of gentlemen here that it will not take any time, or that if it does the bill will be withdrawn, I do not object; otherwise I should.

There being no objection, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill; which was read three times, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CABLE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

SENATE BILLS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House Senate bills of the following titles; which were severally read a first and second time, and referred as indicated below:

A bill (S. 2454) for the application of the accretions of the Caracas awards of 1868 to the new awards made in 1889 and 1890—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

A bill (S. 2931) to provide for the survey and transfer of that part of the Fort Randall military reservation, in the State of South Dakota, for school and other purposes—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

A bill (S. 2799) to provide for the dedication of the statue erected to the memory of the Marquis Marie Jean Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier de Lafayette, a major-general in the Army of the United States—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. PLATT, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed bills and joint resolutions of the following titles: in which concurrence of the House was requested:

A bill (S. 3463) to fix the limit of cost of the United States post-office building at Buffalo, N. Y.;

A bill (S. 3213) authorizing the Secretary of War to correct the military record of Capt. Edward Wheeler, Fifty-sixth New York Volunteers;

A bill (S. 1137) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Walla Walla, in the State of Washington;

A bill (S. 1131) for the relief of Adolph Loschmidt; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 103) relating to bequests made by the late Gen. Cullum.

It also announced that the Senate had passed with amendment the bill (H. R. 6793) to provide for semiannual statements by foreign corporations doing business in the District of Columbia; in which the concurrence of the House was requested.

It also announced that the Senate had passed without amendment the bill (H. R. 2932) for the relief of Charles T. Garrard.

It also announced that the Senate had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is the call of committees for reports.

The committees were then called in their regular order.

ADVERSE REPORT.

Mr. BROOKSHIRE, from the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, submitted the following adverse report:

The Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, to whom was referred a certain memorial (and evidence) with reference to a proposed "pneumatic postal communication" at Philadelphia, Pa., have considered said memorial and evidence and do not think the same sufficient to warrant an investigation by a committee of the House of Representatives, and request to be discharged from the consideration of the above matter and that this report do lie upon the Speaker's table.

The SPEAKER. In the absence of objection the memorial will lie on the table and the committee will be discharged from its further consideration.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

MICHAEL KEEFE, DECEASED.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to submit a conference report on the bill (H. R. 1084) to remove the charge of desertion now standing against Michael Keefe, deceased.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the statement accompanying the report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Statement to accompany conference report on H. R. 1084.

The House agrees to Senate amendment which fixes the date for the honorable discharge of the beneficiary named in the bill with an amendment that no pay or emoluments shall inure to the beneficiary on account of the passage of the act.

The conference report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. ROCKWELL, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the special order fixed for to-day.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That Monday, July 25, next immediately after the call of committees for reports, be set apart for the consideration of the resolution reported from the Special Committee on the Investigation of the Pension Office; this order not to interfere with revenue or appropriation bills or conference reports.

Mr. MEREDITH. Mr. Speaker, the Committee on the District of Columbia was called just now. I do not see the chairman of the committee in his seat, but I would like to have an opportunity for that committee to call up its business to-day.

The SPEAKER. By order of the House to-day is set apart for the consideration of the resolution reported from the special committee to investigate the Pension Office.

Mr. MEREDITH. I move to pass that resolution by for the present. There are District matters which ought to be considered to-day, this being the only day at our disposal, and the matter in connection with the Pension Office can be just as well considered to-morrow.

The SPEAKER. But the Chair could not entertain that motion except by unanimous consent, this order being fixed by the House.

Mr. MEREDITH. Then I ask unanimous consent to pass it by for the present, and let its consideration be taken up to-morrow.

Mr. WHEELER of Michigan and Mr. ENLOE objected.

Mr. DALZELL. Mr. Chairman, I wish to call up a privileged matter, to which I think there will be no objection, and which will occupy but a very few minutes. I refer to a resolution introduced on Saturday a week ago by myself and sent to the Ways and Means Committee, but not yet reported—a resolution of inquiry addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. ENLOE. That can go over until to-morrow. It is not pressing.

Mr. BURROWS. It will take but a moment to dispose of it.

Mr. ENLOE. It is not so urgent that it can not wait.

Mr. DALZELL. It will not take any time, I can assure the gentleman.

Mr. ENLOE. I must object, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DALZELL. Let it be acted upon now. It will take but a moment.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read, after which the Chair will ask for objection.

The resolution, relating to the taxes paid by national-banking associations to the United States and to States and municipalities and losses by holders of national bank notes, as compared with losses by holders of State bank notes by reason of failure of such banks, under the act of March 26, 1867, was read at length.

Mr. DALZELL. I move the adoption of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. That motion can only be entertained by unanimous consent at this time, there being a privileged matter before the House for its consideration.

Mr. DALZELL. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the resolution. This is a privileged matter, I will state, under the rules.

The SPEAKER. It is not privileged as against a special order, which assigned to-day to the resolution proposed by the Select Committee Investigating the Pension Office. It could only be entertained by unanimous consent.

Mr. BYNUM. I object.

Mr. DALZELL. I will withdraw the resolution for the present.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The following reports of committees were handed in at the Clerk's desk, referred to their appropriate Calendars, and otherwise disposed of as indicated below:

RETIRED LIST FOR ENLISTED MEN AND APPOINTED PETTY OFFICERS OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY.

Mr. MEYER, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported back with amendments the bill (H. R. 290) to authorize a retired list for enlisted men and appointed petty officers of the United States Navy who have served for a period of thirty years or upwards; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

PORT BROWN MILITARY RESERVATION.

Mr. OUTHWAITE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported back, in the nature of a substitute for resolution relative to the purchase of Port Brown military reservation, the bill (H. R. 9649) to provide for the purchase of the Fort Brown military reservation, Texas, and to extinguish all claims for the use and occupation of said reservation; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

The original resolution was laid on the table.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT THE CITY OF PLATTSBROUGH, NEBR.

Mr. TARSNEY, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, reported back with an amendment the bill (H. R. 3616) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Plattsburgh, Nebr., and for other purposes; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

DAMAGES DONE TO PLANTED OYSTERS AND OYSTER BEDS IN RARITAN BAY.

Mr. FOWLER, from the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 8532) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to appoint commissioners to estimate damages done to planted oysters and oyster beds in Raritan Bay and adjoining waters in New York and New Jersey and to make compensation therefor; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

TEMPORARY GOVERNMENT FOR THE TERRITORY OF OKLAHOMA, ETC.

Mr. TERRY, from the Committee on Territories, reported back, in the nature of a substitute for House bill 6929 the bill (H. R. 9652) to amend "An act to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Oklahoma and to enlarge the jurisdiction of the United States court in the Indian Territory, and for other purposes," approved May 2, 1890; which was read a first and second time, referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Platt, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had agreed to the report of the committee of conference; had further insisted upon its amendments numbered 124, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 177, 308, 309, 310, and 311, disagreed to by the House of Representatives; had disagreed to the amendment of the House to the amendment of the Senate numbered 177; asked a further conference with the House on the bill and amendments, and had appointed Mr. ALLISON, Mr. HALE, and Mr. GORMAN as conferees on the part of the Senate.

It also announced that the Senate had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 1084) to remove the charge of desertion now standing against Michael Keefe, deceased.

It also announced that the Senate had passed the following concurrent resolution; in which the concurrence of the House was requested:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That permission is hereby granted to the ladies of Washington to give a reception in the rotunda of the Capitol, September 19, 1892, to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief Corps, and all other visiting organizations who may attend the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in September next.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (H. R. 4827) to confer jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of the heir of Hugh Worthington, for his interest in the steam-railroad Eastport;

A bill (H. R. 5684) to authorize the Denison and Northern Railway Company to construct and operate a railway through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes;

A bill (H. R. 9923) to grant the right of way to the Pensacola Terminal Company through the lands of the naval reservation near Pensacola;

A bill (S. 1498) for the establishment of additional aids to navigation in Tampa Bay, Florida; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 104) giving authority for the erection of overhead wires for the illumination of the city of Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, during September, 1892.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message from the President, by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had approved and signed bills and joint resolutions of the following titles:

On July 25, 1892:

An act (H. R. 9283) authorizing the Leonard Avenue Street Railway Company to lay tracks up in certain streets abutting United States military reservation in the city of Columbus, Ohio;

An act (H. R. 649) for the allowance of certain claims reported by the accounting officers of the United States Treasury Department;

An act (H. R. 4874) for the relief of John McMahon;

An act (H. R. 5719) for the relief of Harriet W. Shacklett; and

An act (H. R. 669) for the relief of Dabney, Simmons & Co.

On July 22, 1892:

An act (H. R. 5119) regulating the construction of building along alleyways in the District of Columbia;

An act (H. R. 5019) for the relief of Amelia R. Webster;

An act (H. R. 3947) to establish Weather Bureau stations on Middle and Thunler Bay Islands, in Lake Huron;

An act (H. R. 3971) to provide for the opening of alleys in the District of Columbia; and Joint resolution (H. Res. 108) extending the time in which certain street railroads compelled by the act of Congress approved August 6, 1890, to change the motive power from horse power to mechanical power for one year.

On July 23, 1892:

An act (H. R. 7154) authorizing and directing the sale of certain property belonging to the United States situate in Pittsburgh, Pa.;

An act (H. R. 402) to establish a division line between lands of the United States and the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad Company;

An act (H. R. 8533) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes;

An act (H. R. 945) for the relief of Patrick Hyland;

An act (H. R. 9144) to establish a railroad bridge across the Black River, in Arkansas;

An act (H. R. 3572) for the relief of Richard M. Edwards, of Cleveland, Tenn.;

An act (H. R. 9322) granting a pension to Joseph J. Granberry;

Joint resolution (H. Res. 102) requesting the loan of certain articles for the World's Columbian Exposition; and Joint resolution (H. Res. 155) to authorize and direct the Secretary of State to affix the great seal of the United States to a certain document therein stated.

On July 25, 1892:

An act (H. R. 5377) granting a pension to Mary Isabella Hutchison.

INVESTIGATION OF THE PENSION BUREAU.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution submitted by the committee appointed to investigate the Pension Office.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That it is the judgment of the House that Commissioner of Pensions Green B. Raum should be removed from office by the President for the following reasons:

1. Because he has demonstrated his unfitness to supervise and govern a large number of employes on account of his hasty temper, strong prejudices, and unreasonable animosity, which impel his action in matters of the gravest consequence, as evidenced in the cases of Engle, Howard, Taylor, Jennings, Renaud, Hayward, Payne, De Arnaud, Peyton, and others, and his pursuit of Hon. GEORGE W. COOPER, following upon an unsuccessful attempt to injure his reputation.

2. Because he has prostituted his office for the purposes of private gain.

3. Because he has prostituted his office for political purposes, using the same as a political machine, notably in the matter of furnishing the Congressional facilities of the Pension Office to one J. G. Dunbar, a private citizen of Indiana, at one time a candidate for Congress against Hon. GEORGE W. COOPER.

Resolved, That it is the judgment of the House that Harvey G. Ellis and Dr. J. W. Little should be dismissed, for the reason that they refused to answer legitimate and proper questions put to them by the committee.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Michigan [Mr. WHEELER] is recognized.

Mr. ENLOE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make some arrangements with gentlemen on the other side with regard to the time that is to be consumed in the debate on this resolution. I suggest to gentlemen representing the minority, that we fix upon two hours on a side for the debate. Will that be agreeable?

Mr. HENDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, if I may be allowed a single remark, I am unwilling now to fix upon any time when a vote shall be taken on these resolutions. I think the better way is to go on with the discussion for a time at least, and see what time will be necessary for a fair and proper discussion of these resolutions.

Mr. ENLOE. I think I anticipate the difficulty that is in the gentleman's mind, Mr. Speaker, and I will say to him that this

So further proceedings under the call were dispensed with.

On motion of Mr. CASTLE, Mr. HARRIES was excused on account of sickness.

On motion of Mr. SIMPSON, Mr. BAKER was excused on account of sickness.

The result of the vote was then announced as above recorded.

Mr. CAMPBELL. It is evident that no business can be transacted to-day, and I move that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. SAYERS. Mr. Speaker, I understand a motion to adjourn is now pending.

The SPEAKER. There is pending a motion of the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. ENLOE] that the House take a recess; and pending that a motion to adjourn is in order.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I make that motion.

The question was taken; and on a division there were—ayes 43, noes 68.

So the House refused to adjourn.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I ask the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were not ordered.

The SPEAKER. The question now recurs on the motion of the gentleman from Tennessee that the House take a recess until to-morrow morning at half past 10 o'clock; on which motion the yeas and nays have been ordered, and the Clerk will call the roll.

Mr. SAYERS. Mr. Speaker, would a motion to adjourn be in order?

The SPEAKER. It would not be in order. The motion has just been voted down. Of course the motion could be entertained by unanimous consent.

Mr. SAYERS. I ask consent to make that motion.

There being no objection, the motion was considered and agreed to; and accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 20 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

BILLS, MEMORIALS, AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. O'NEILL of Missouri: A bill (H. R. 9650) for the protection of persons performing work and labor upon or furnishing materials for public works—to the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department.

By Mr. MEREDITH: A bill (H. R. 9651) to amend the charter of the Washington and Arlington Railroad Company—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

By Mr. WILLIAMS of North Carolina: A bill (H. R. 9665) for the relief of William Remmel—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, the following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk and referred as follows:

By Mr. BRANCH: Paper in regard to the matters of fact as found in regard to the brig Russell—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. CHIPMAN: Medical evidence in the claim of Patrick Culhan, to accompany bill for relief—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, certificate, etc., to accompany bill for the relief of Julia C. Sharpe—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Detroit Stone Cutters' Union, relative to the use of convict labor on Detroit public buildings—to the Committee on Labor.

Also, petition of the International Machinist Association, No. 82, against the use of convict-labor stone in public buildings at Detroit—to the Committee on Labor.

Also, resolutions of the International Association of Machinists against the use of prison-cut stone in the new public buildings at Detroit, Mich.—to the Committee on Labor.

Also, petition of Orlando B. Wheeler, for the enforcement of the metric system of weights and measures—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

Also, petition of Florence Nightingale Association, No. 1, American Federation of Labor 5462, against closing the World's Fair on Sunday—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. CLOVER: Petition of 250 citizens of Wisefield, Kans., and vicinity, against any legislation by Congress in regard to opening or closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, or in any manner committing the Government of the United States to a recognition of any form of religious belief—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. CROSBY: Petition of the Labor Protective Union of Holyoke, Mass., in favor of keeping the World's Columbian Exposition open on Sundays—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. DICERSON: Papers to accompany the bill for lowering the height of a bridge to be constructed across the Ohio River at Cincinnati, Ohio, and Covington, Ky., by the Rapid Transit Bridge Company—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. DIXON: Preamble and resolution of the Portland Federated Trades Assembly, denouncing employment of Pinkertons and asking Congressional investigation of troubles in Coeur d'Alene Shoshone County, Idaho—to the Committee on Labor.

By Mr. GANTZ: Petition of citizens of Darke County, Ohio, praying for legislation to close the World's Fair on Sunday—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. WILSON of Missouri: Petition of surviving soldiers and widows of the Mexican war from the Seventh Congressional district of Missouri, praying for relief—to the Committee on Pensions.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, July 26, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Vice-President being absent, the President pro tempore took the chair.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in response to a resolution of the 18th instant, relative to the names of persons who were owners of property in Ferdinandina, Fla., at the time of the direct-tax sale; which was ordered to lie on the table.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had, on the 23d instant, approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 726) for the relief of P. E. Simnett, late Indian agent at Grande Ronde Agency, State of Oregon;

An act (S. 1918) to amend sections 2139, 2140, and 2141 touching the sale of intoxicants in the Indian country, and for other purposes;

An act (S. 2549) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to sell certain lands in the city of Springfield and Commonwealth of Massachusetts;

An act (S. 2968) to provide for a May term of the district court of the United States for the eastern district of South Carolina;

An act (S. 3011) to amend "An act to define the jurisdiction of the police court of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1891; and

An act (S. 3406) to accept a bequest made by Gen. George W. Cullum for the erection of a memorial hall at West Point, N. Y., and to carry the terms and conditions of the same into execution.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. QUAY. Mr. President, it is important that the pending nomination of a justice of the Supreme Court should be disposed of. For that purpose, and for that purpose only, I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented a resolution of the American Association L. A. No. 5521, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in regard to the imprisonment in England of Dr. Thomas Gallagher, and praying that steps be taken for his release; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. SANDERS presented a petition of citizens of Wolf Creek, Mont., praying for the imposition of a tax upon dealers in articles to be delivered in the future, such as are covered by the bill now pending in the Senate; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. PEFFER presented a petition of citizens of Osage County, Kans., praying for the prohibition of the sale of liquor at the Soldiers' Home at Leavenworth, Kans.; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of 42 citizens of Concordia, Kans., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. ALLEN presented a petition of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of the city of Tacoma, Wash., praying for an insertion in the clause making appropriation for the Columbian Exposition of a provision preventing the sale of intoxicating drinks within the limits of the Fair; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the grand encampment of Indian war veterans, held on the 15th day of June, 1892, at Vancouver, Wash., praying for the extension of the bounty-land law for services in the Indian wars, in force prior to the 3d of March, 1855, to the 1st day of December, 1857, and that provision be made for the payment of the balance of the Indian war debt as awarded by Commissioners Grover, Ingalls, and Smith, and also for the payment of pensions to all those who participated in those wars, and to their widows and orphans; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of the Washington State Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, praying for the election of the President, Vice-President, and United States Senators by a direct vote of the people; which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. PETTIGREW presented the petition of Mrs. D. M. Colton, and other citizens of Hudson, S. Dak., praying for the passage of legislation prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and importation of cigarettes in the United States; which was ordered to lie on the table.

REDEMPTION OF NATIONAL-BANK NOTES.

Mr. SHERMAN. There are two bills which I am directed by the Committee on Finance to report, relating to national banks. They are House bills, which are precisely similar to bills that have already received the favorable consideration of the Finance Committee and also of the Treasury Department. As these bills are not, I believe, objected to by anybody, and yet are of considerable importance, I ask that they be read, and if there is no objection to them I should like to have them acted upon at this time.

Mr. CULLOM. I will inquire of the Senator if one of them is the bill to which I called his attention some days ago?

Mr. SHERMAN. It is.

Mr. CULLOM. I hope it will be passed.

Mr. SHERMAN. Both bills have passed the other House and both have received the sanction of the Committee on Finance. They are both important, and I think no one will object to them.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Ohio submits favorable reports from the Committee on Finance, which will be received.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6183) to amend the national-bank act in providing for the redemption of national-bank notes stolen from or lost by banks of issue, to report it without amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Ohio asks unanimous consent that the bill be now considered.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It provides that the provisions of the Revised Statutes of the United States for the redemption of national-bank notes shall apply to all national-bank notes that have been or may be issued to or received by any national bank, notwithstanding such notes may have been lost by or stolen from the bank and put in circulation without the signature or upon the forged signature of the president or vice-president and cashier.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

RECEIVERS OF NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Finance to report back favorably the bill (H. R. 7213) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the appointment of receivers of national banks, and for other purposes," approved June 30, 1876.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Ohio asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill be now considered. Is there objection?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PROMOTION IN THE MARINE CORPS.

Mr. CHANDLER. I report back favorably from the Committee on Naval Affairs the bill (H. R. 9022) to provide for the examination of certain officers of the Marine Corps, and to regulate promotion therein, and I ask for its present consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. HARRIS. Is it a Senate bill?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is a House bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It provides that hereafter promotions to every grade of commissioned officers in the Marine Corps below the grade of commandant shall be made in the same manner and under the same conditions as now are or may hereafter be prescribed, in pursuance of law, for commissioned officers of the Army. Examining boards to determine the fitness of officers of the Marine Corps for promotion shall in all cases consist of not less than five officers, three of whom shall, if practicable, be officers of the Marine Corps, senior to the officer to be examined, and two of whom shall be medical officers of the Navy.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

AGREEMENT WITH CHEROKEE NATION.

Mr. PLATT. I am directed by the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2870) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Cherokee Nation of Indians of the Indian Territory, to make appropriation for carrying out the same, and for other purposes, to submit a report thereon and recommend its passage with amendments.

This is a very important bill. It is to ratify the agreement made for the purchase of the Cherokee Outlet. If the ratification does not take place by the 14th of March, 1893, it fails. Therefore I will ask the unanimous consent of the Senate —

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President —

Mr. PLATT. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill be made a special order for the second Monday in December next.

Mr. VOORHEES. I have no objection to that. I want to say, however, that committees have been reporting here this morning, commencing with the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] and then the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. CHANDLER], passing bills at the expense of the proper treatment of the Calendar. There are Senators here who have waited for the last ten days regularly every day to get a chance to have bills on the Calendar passed, bills that have had the consideration of committees, and have been on the Calendar for months, and instead of the Calendar having its proper time it has been crowded out by action on measures just such as we have seen here this morning. I have never been known to object to the consideration of anyone's bill in this body, and I have been here a good many years. I never did, and I would not now if the Senator from Connecticut was pressing action for his bill at this time, but there being no request for the consideration of a bill before the Senate, I give notice that unless the Calendar has a fair chance I shall object to this consideration of bills that are for the first time reported by committees.

Mr. PLATT. I do not ask for the present consideration of the bill.

Mr. VOORHEES. I know the Senator does not.

Mr. PLATT. I simply ask that an order be made that the bill be considered on the second Monday of December next.

Mr. VOORHEES. That is right.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. At what hour.

Mr. PLATT. Two o'clock.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Connecticut asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill (S. 2870) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Cherokee Nation of Indians of the Indian Territory, to make appropriation for carrying out the same, and for other purposes, be made the special order of the Senate for consideration on the second Monday of December next at 2 o'clock. Is there objection?

Mr. PERKINS. I do not object to the request, and I only regret that the bill can not be considered at an earlier date because of the very great importance of this measure to the people who live in that vast area of country. I hope it can be considered at the very earliest date possible.

Mr. MORGAN. I understand the Senator from Connecticut has submitted a report this morning in favor of the bill. I do not know that I shall object to that report, at least I shall not put in a minority report upon it, but I wish to say that the disbursement of so large a sum of money as is covered by this bill among the Cherokee Indians is a very severe temptation to the sin of authority in that nation, and I am not willing to act upon this case until the Cherokee Legislature have passed a law for the distribution of the money after it has been paid over, so that Congress may scrutinize that law and see whether it is likely to carry the money to the right places or whether it is probable or possible that speculators among the Indians and elsewhere shall line their pockets at the expense of this fund.

I merely wish to say that I hope the Cherokee Nation, through its Legislature, will make a provision of law under which the money, when received by them, shall be distributed into the hands of the Cherokees individually, or in such manner as they see proper, so that we may know exactly what they are going to do with it before we vote it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the request made by the Senator from Connecticut? The Chair hears none, and the special order is entered.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7095) granting an increase of pension to Addison M. Copen, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3412) to amend the charter of the Washington and Arlington Railroad Company, to report it with amendments, and I ask for its present consideration.

The bill was read as proposed to be amended by the committee.

Mr. VEST. It is impossible for us to tell where the train is to run from the reading at the desk. I object to the consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Being objected to, the bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. VEST. I want to look into the bill, and I intend to look at every one of the railroad bills for this District from now on as long as I am in the Senate.

Mr. PASCO, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 709) for the relief of the Potomac Steamboat Company, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3888) for the relief of Samuel Howard, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL. I am directed by the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6262) fixing the fees of jurors and witnesses in the United States courts in certain States and Territories, to report it without amendment.

I desire to state that this bill is substantially similar to Senate bill No. 1842, which passed the Senate some time since. The bill is very short; it occupies a page; it is a House bill, and I ask for its present consideration. It is reported unanimously from the Committee on the Judiciary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon asks the unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of the bill.

Mr. VOORHEES. I object.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made, the bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. VOORHEES. It is in the interest of the Calendar that I object.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2639) granting a pension to Catharine W. Tennis, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I am instructed by the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 106) authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition to bring to this country foreign laborers for the purpose of preparing for and making their exhibits, to report it with amendments, and I ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The joint resolution was read.

Mr. VEST. Has the joint resolution been modified?

Mr. PETTIGREW. Yes, sir. I think it will cover the objection which the Senator from Missouri raised to it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. CARLISLE. Does the Senator from South Dakota answer that the joint resolution has been modified?

Mr. VOORHEES. Let it go over, so that we may understand it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Being objected to, the joint resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. CULLOM. May I be allowed to say a word before it gets out of the control of the Senate?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. By unanimous consent, the Senator from Illinois will proceed.

Mr. CULLOM. I think some such measure as this is very important, if the scope and plan that has been mapped out by the World's Columbian Exposition managers is carried out; and whatever is passed at all will have to be acted upon very soon.

Mr. CARLISLE. The Senator will allow me to say that I have no objection to a proper law upon that subject, but the joint resolution as read seems to provide no guaranty whatever that these laborers will not remain here continuously after the Exposition is over.

Mr. CULLOM. I understand that the chairman of the select committee has some amendments which he desires to have agreed to, which will probably remove all objection.

Mr. HARRIS. Let the joint resolution go over until to-morrow, and we can look at it.

Mr. VEST. I object to further debate. It has gone over.

Mr. SHERMAN. I think if it goes over until to-morrow every Senator will see the necessity of passing the joint resolution, and also of amending it.

Mr. CULLOM. I have no objection to its going over, provided we can get it acted upon in time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The joint resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. CULLOM, from the Committee on Interstate Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3368) to create a national highway commission, and to prescribe its duties, reported it with an amendment.

BANKING STATEMENTS.

Mr. SHERMAN. I report a resolution from the Committee on Finance, which I ask to have read.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to report to the Senate at the earliest day practicable—

First. The yearly and aggregate amount of taxes collected from each source by the United States from national banks since 1863.

Second. The amount of taxes collected each year since 1863 from each source from State banks or banking associations and savings banks.

Third. The amount of outstanding circulating notes of State banks and banking associations and savings banks each year since 1830.

Fourth. The number and names of State banks, banking institutions or savings banks that have suspended or failed since 1830 and the loss severally of stockholders, noteholders, and other creditors of said banks.

Fifth. The number and names of national banks that have suspended or failed, and the loss severally to stockholders, noteholders, and other creditors of each of such banks.

Sixth. The distribution by States and sections of State banks and national banks, banking associations, and savings banks, showing the capital and circulation of each system of banking in each State since 1830.

Seventh. The rates of exchange on New York and the current value of the circulating notes of State and national banks as between the State where issued and the city of New York from 1830.

Eighth. The prevailing rates of interest in State banks, banking associations, savings banks, and national banks since 1830, and the legal rates of interest prescribed or authorized by the respective States for the same period.

Ninth. The net earnings or profits each year since 1863 of national banks authorized by States.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask for the present consideration of the resolution. It calls for a comprehensive statement of our national banks since 1863, and of savings banks and State banks since 1830.

Mr. CHANDLER. From whom?

Mr. SHERMAN. From the Secretary of the Treasury.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to have just a short explanation of the resolution. I did not hear the first part. What information does it call for?

Mr. SHERMAN. It calls for information from the Secretary of the Treasury giving a comprehensive statement in regard to the circulation, rates of interest, profit and loss, losses by individuals, etc., of the State banking system and savings banks from 1830, and the national banking system from 1863. It is a resolution the Committee on Finance thought proper to present, so that the Secretary of the Treasury may give the information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. SANDERS introduced a bill (S. 3475) to provide for the construction of a public building at Miles City, Mont.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 109) for the payment of an account to W. F. Niederlinghaus, contractor for furnishing beef to the Indians; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

SELECT COMMITTEE ON RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

Mr. ALLEN. I submit a resolution, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Select Committee on Relations with Canada be authorized to continue its investigations, with all the duties and powers authorized by the resolutions of the Senate relating to that committee of July 31, 1888; December 6, 1888; December 4, 1889; September 23, 1890, and February 14, 1891, during the coming recess, and report to the next session of the Senate; the expenses of such investigations to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Washington asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the resolution be now considered.

Mr. VOORHEES. I object.

Mr. HARRIS. The resolution has to go to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. ALLEN. Then I ask for its reference.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. CHANDLER. I submit a resolution, and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas the Grand Trunk Railway Company, a Canadian corporation having its executive offices in the city of Montreal and its head offices in the city of London, is the owner of upwards of 1,000 miles of railways, more than 1,200 miles of which lines are located in the United States traversing in the West the States of Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois, and in the East the States of New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine, and owning and operating the International and Suspension bridges over the Niagara River connecting Canada with the State of New York, and also the railway tunnel under the St. Clair River connecting Canada with the State of Michigan, thus bringing the lines of this corporation in connection not only with the States above mentioned, but with all the commercial centers of the United States; and

Whereas said corporation has enjoyed in the past and still continues to enjoy the privileges to solicit and to carry on business, not alone in the interest of its American lines, but more especially in the interest of its Canadian them up, a potato at a time, but I do not see how that logically proves that the price was increased by the tariff.

Mr. PALMER. It increased the price. It absolutely increased the price.

Mr. HISCOCK. Were there foreign potatoes there?

Mr. PALMER. Foreign potatoes were brought from Canada, from Manitoba.

Mr. HISCOCK. My recollection is that those potatoes came from Europe. I think they were imported from Europe during that time.

Mr. PALMER. Oh, they were.

Mr. HISCOCK. Not from Canada.

Mr. PALMER. The tariff, then, took bread out of the mouths of these hungry people, and made them pay an extra price.

Mr. HISCOCK. I remember the discussion we had here when it was insisted that the effect of the tariff was to increase the price to the extent of the tariff upon all of the goods produced in this country of the same class and character, the same articles, and some one up on this side asked a question of the other side, whether that rule applied to potatoes, and I think it was disputed then.

Mr. PALMER. I speak of a fact within my knowledge. That after all brings me to my principal objection to this delusive doctrine of protection. It is a fraud. It is a sham. It promises what no legislation can ever achieve. It is an attempt, by taking hold by legislation of the vast interests involved in our foreign commerce as well as our domestic production and commerce, to control these mighty conditions; and the result has been that no public good has been produced. My observation is that it has enabled particular persons to accumulate large fortunes. It has no doubt benefited many; but as a fact it is not in the power of human legislation to fulfill the promises of the protection party. Therefore I take it that the Democratic doctrine that tariffs shall be levied for revenue only furnishes the only solid, sensible ground for the imposition of tariff duties upon imports, because we have seen that these efforts are fallacious. I shall not trouble the Senate now with an attempt to show the particular conditions and circumstances all over the country where the protection policy has failed. It is a signal, outrageous, shameful failure. The only surprising thing to my mind is that men still talk about it as having in it any element of good. Is this country of ours, with 65,000,000 inhabitants, which has just commenced its career practically of the commercial domination of the world, to still consent to wear the shackles of childhood?

I tell you, Mr. President, in my judgment the remedy for our condition is not to attempt to build a Chinese wall around us and secure a little two-penny protection for some two-penny interest as compared with the whole product of the country.

That is not the policy of a great nation like ours. It is that we look abroad over the world with our 65,000,000 inhabitants, with resources that have no example in history. No country in the world has the resources of this, and instead of adopting this timid policy, let us seek the commerce of the world. Let us have the largest freedom of trade, the largest freedom of industry. I venture to say that that will be the solution of this trouble very soon. The old policies that existed years ago are passing away with the old men and with the wolves, and the bears, and the Indians, and new policies are being inaugurated based upon the present condition of this magnificent continent which the North Americans will at no distant day dominate.

Mr. HISCOCK. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that the resolution was taken up for debate only. It will lie on the table. The Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 7815) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the motion of the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK].

Mr. DAVIS. I hope the Senator from New York will withdraw that motion for a few moments.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator yield to the request of the Senator from Minnesota?

Mr. HISCOCK. I yield.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the report of the second committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate numbered 18, 44, 78, and 109 to the bill (H. R. 9284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 8122) to prohibit the use of one-horse cars within the limits of the city of Washington, after the 1st day of January, 1893, and for other purposes.

The message further announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 7730) reserving from entry certain lands in Oklahoma, and for other purposes; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 267) for the preservation of the public peace and the protection of property within the District of Columbia.

ONE-HORSE CARS IN WASHINGTON.

Mr. Mc MILLAN submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 8122) an "Act to prohibit the use of one-horse cars within the limits of the city of Washington, after the 1st day of January, 1893, and for other purposes," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate and agree to the same.

JAMES McMILLAN,

R. W. PERKINS,

ISHAM C. HARRIS,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

JNO. T. HEARD,

J. E. COBB,

P. S. POST,

Managers on the part of the House.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The report requires no action on the part of the Senate.

BUILDING STONE ON PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. PETTIGREW submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the House to the bill (S. 1273) "to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone under the placer-mining laws," having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the House and agree to the same.

WM. M. STEWART,

R. F. PETTIGREW,

WM. B. BATE,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

THO. C. McRAE,

J. W. BAILEY,

Managers on the part of the House.

The report was concurred in.

PENSIONS TO ARMY NURSES.

Mr. DAVIS. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7294) granting pension to army nurses.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on Pensions with an amendment, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That all women employed by the Surgeon-General of the Army as nurses, under contract or otherwise, during the late war of the rebellion, or who were employed as nurses during such period by authority which is recognized by the War Department, and who rendered actual service as nurses in attendance upon the sick or wounded in any regimental, post, camp or general hospital of the armies of the United States for a period of six months or more, and who were honorably relieved from such service, or who, prior to the completion of such term of service, were disabled in such service and honorably relieved by reason of such disability, and who are now or may hereafter be unable to earn a support, shall, upon making due proof of the fact according to such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may provide, be placed upon the list of pensioners of the United States and be entitled to receive a pension of $12 per month, and such pension shall commence from the date of the filing of the application in the Pension Office after the passage of this act: Provided, That no person shall receive more than one pension for the same period.

SEC. 2. That no fee, compensation, or allowance shall be paid to, received, or accepted by any agent, attorney, or other person instrumental in the prosecution of any claim for pension under this act; and any person who may make any claim upon any applicant for any fee, compensation, or allowance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding $500, or imprisoned at hard labor not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court; and it shall be the duty of the Interior and War Departments to render all proper aid to applicants under this act.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Committee on Pensions in the nature of a substitute.

Mr. BERRY. Does that propose to pay a pension of $12 a month to nurses during the late war? Does it apply to all nurses?

Mr. DAVIS. No; it grants a pension to all nurses who, under contract or authority from the office of the Surgeon-General or other recognized military authority, served for six months and were honorably discharged. It also grants a pension to those who did not serve so long, but were disabled in the course of duty. It confers this pension only upon those who are in need and dependent upon their own exertions for support.

Mr. BERRY. First, do I understand the Senator to say that all those who were employed by the Surgeon-General and had been honorably discharged are to get a pension absolutely whether they are disabled or not? Is it a service pension to that class?

Mr. DAVIS. It is not a service pension. They must be dependent upon their own exertions for support.

Mr. BERRY. If I understand the Senator's statement, the difference between those who served for six months and those who served for a less time—

Mr. DAVIS. Those who served less than six months can only get a pension in case they became disabled in the service.

Mr. BERRY. How as to the others?

Mr. DAVIS. They must have served six months and be dependent upon their own exertions for a livelihood.

Mr. BERRY. If they are dependent they get the pension whether disabled or not. Is that correct?

Mr. DAVIS. Certainly.

Mr. BERRY. Do I understand the Senator to say they get the pension whether disabled or not?

Mr. DAVIS. The persons who served six months and are dependent upon their own exertions for support get $12 a month whether disabled or not.

Mr. BERRY. Then it is a service pension to those who are unable to make a living?

Mr. DAVIS. The Senator's abstract curiosity having been satisfied, I suppose it is.

Mr. BERRY. At $12 a month?

Mr. DAVIS. Yes, sir.

Mr. CULLOM. The bill passed the Senate once before.

Mr. DAVIS. The same bill passed the Senate two years ago.

Mr. BERRY. Is this a House bill?

Mr. PADDOCK. Yes, and the substitute reported is more carefully guarded than was the bill as it came from the House.

Mr. GALLINGER. The bill reported is a substitute for the bill as it came from the House, which is the same bill that passed the Senate in the last Congress.

Mr. BERRY. I can not help what passed in the last Congress, so far as my own vote goes. There are a great many bills which passed the Senate and the other House, too, during the last Congress for which I was not responsible.

It seems to me a strange proceeding that these persons, who are not soldiers, should be put upon the pension roll at $12 a month, while the old soldiers who served long before these services occurred were only put on the pension roll at $8 a month. That is one thing that I can not understand about it.

It seems to me also that there can be no justice in placing persons upon the pension roll who were not soldiers, but were simply nurses during the late war. I can not see by what rule of justice or equity a claimant can be put upon the pension roll and continued there to increase the enormous pension list which we already have.

Something over two years ago when the bill which the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS] had in charge passed, I stated that, in my opinion, if that bill became a law, inside of three years the cost of pensions to this Government would be $150,000,000 a year, and within five years it would reach the enormous sum of $200,000,000 annually. When I made that statement the Senator from Minnesota ridiculed the idea, and said that it could not amount to any such sum, that it would never (as I remember his speech) reach $150,000,000. Yet to-day it has reached $150,000,000, and the present Commissioner of Pensions boasts that he has been putting pensioners on the rolls at the rate of one for every twenty-two seconds during the last year, as I remember the statement, and there is not a Senator on this floor who doubts that within the next two years it will go to the sum of $200,000,000 annually.

Not satisfied with this, they are seeking to increase that list now by attaching to it persons who were not soldiers; who were simply nurses during the war. How far that principle may extend, as to what numbers may be able to prove that they acted in the capacity of nurses—and this bill applies to some I understand who were not appointed by the Surgeon-General—no man can tell and no one can know.

The proposition is to place these nurses on the roll at $12 a month, and I apprehend that if the Republican party is continued in power and we have the same Pension Committee we have now when these nurses are placed on the roll the effort will be made to increase these pensions from $12 to $15 a month.

I know, Mr. President, it is said that it is not popular to speak against any class of pensions which any individual may come before Congress and ask, but it seems to me that there ought to be some limit, there ought to be some time when this expense is to be discontinued, and we ought not to be adding additional classes year by year until the pension list is almost bankrupting the country in which we live. Senators know to what extent it is going, but what the end will be no man can tell unless a check is put on this system somewhere.

I am opposed to pensioning army nurses. These ladies, it may be true, did many acts of kindness, and Senators can make an appeal for them with great sympathy, but there is no precedent in the past for pensioning them, and I venture to say that there is no country in the world where any, save and except those who were actual soldiers, are ever put upon the pension roll. I, for one, am opposed to the bill.

Mr. GRAY. I do not exactly understand the ground upon which this bill is advocated, or why army nurses should be selected out of a great number of worthy women, noble women, in this country who are daily making their business in life that of ministering to the sickness and distress of humanity.

If I understand the rationale, the raison d'être of the pension law and the pension system of the country, it is that the soldiers who performed service in the Army, taking their lives in their hands, risking life and limb, have performed an extraordinary service, which the country properly recognizes by protecting them from want by moderate pensions where they are disabled or where, in case of service pension, they have become old or where they are unable to support themselves. But the duty and service performed by an army nurse differs in no respect from that performed daily by the worthy women in our hospitals who are day and night ministering to the sick, disabled, and wounded who need their kind and womanly ministrations. The service of a nurse in an army hospital does not differ in peril from the services of women to-day who in this city and in every city of the land are performing like services; and the great body of trained nurses in this country have just as much ground for appeal to the American people to pension them when they become unable to earn their living, or are disabled from any cause, as these worthy women who are now sought to be placed on the pension rolls of the country. I do not depreciate their patriotism nor detract at all from what is due to them on account of the services they have rendered; but they stand apart from every reason that is urged in favor of a pension.

I see no reason why the labor of the country, why the woman who works for her living at her sewing machine early and late should contribute any portion of her earnings, however small, to support her sister who has done a service no more worthy and no more deserving of regard than that which she herself is performing. It is different with the pension of a soldier.

I know how many things go to the support of an application of this kind. It appeals to the chivalry and appeals to the gallantry of the men of the country, and we are all willing to do a kindness for these people; but we are doing it not out of our pockets, but out of the pockets of the American people. We are trustees here of an express trust, and have no right to dissipate in this way the fund with the protection of which we are charged, however small the item may be.

I therefore am opposed to the passage of this bill, however unpopular such a position may be. Although the amount of money may be small, it is opening up a line of conduct in regard to the pension business which will plague us in the future. I agree with what the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BERRY] has said.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I had sincerely hoped that the necessity would not devolve upon me of saying anything in support of this measure. It is known to some that I rise to address the Senate with great reluctance on all occasions; and inasmuch as session after session since I have had the honor to hold the very onerous position of chairman of the Committee on Pensions we have been passing individual bill after individual bill, putting these women on the pension roll by name in each special case without objection; and especially considering that this same bill passed the Senate two sessions ago after much discussion, I had hoped not to hear the character of objections which have been advanced against it.

Mr. President, those who have had opportunity to know are fully aware that there is a vast difference, inappreciative to the Senator from Delaware, between the services which nurses in civil life perform in city hospitals and the services of those women who followed our Army into the field, who were the very angels of battle and desolation. The services of those two classes of women can not be for a moment compared. In civil life the whole ranks of womanhood are drafted upon to render that care, but in the Army they were "like angel visits, few and far between." They were implored by those in the front to come and render their service of benefaction and care. They did not do it in the bosom of peace; it was done sometimes under fire, in hospital tents, under every disadvantage, rendering to the sick and wounded soldiers those ministrations of mercy which come from none but women's hands; and not only to the soldier of one side, but to the soldier of both indiscriminately. In the hospitals he was clad in the blue and he who was clad in the gray received their ministering care.

to look upon the most marvelous nation which has existed since creation's dawn. The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. OUTHWAITE] says that it is a mere private corporation asking this aid. He overlooks the fact that the National Commission created by Congress is urging this appropriation that the Exposition may be all that the people of this country demand it shall be.

Some gentleman says: "How about the Constitution?" As to the constitutional question I will say, let the gentlemen thus solicitous settle that question when they vote for river and harbor bills, and for other enterprises which are not recognized specifically by name in the Constitution. There may be questions of that kind raised here by some gentlemen, but I am not going to argue them. The clause of the Constitution providing for the expenditure of public moneys for the general welfare of the United States is sufficiently broad to include this great undertaking. This House, the Senate, and the President evidently so construed it when the law was passed establishing the National Commission and appropriating money therefor. The Exposition being a public enterprise and for the benefit of the whole people, is clearly within the scope of the Constitution and not within its inhibition.

It is insisted that Chicago will receive benefit from the World's Fair. This is conceded. The same applies to the improvement of every river and harbor and every public work in the country. The people living in the vicinity where public improvements are made receive largest benefits. This, however, does not render it improper on that account to make the improvement. The legitimate purpose of any expenditure of public money is that it be primarily for the benefit of the people. That individuals or municipalities may reap incidental benefits can not be urged against it. To do so would defeat every public improvement.

It hardly be seriously contended that the great Exposition to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the New World and display the achievements, present great power, and future illimitable possibilities of this modern Hercules among nations is not chiefly for the public welfare of our country. That conceded and other considerations must influence gentlemen in denying Government aid at this time.

It has been clearly shown that Chicago has done more than she agreed. Few cities could or would have done as much. More than ten millions have been provided. Illinois has appropriated $800,000. Much of this, probably about one-third, comes out of the taxpayers of Chicago. Now, to carry on the preparations on the scale prescribed by the Federal Commission and to meet the reasonable and just expectations of the most progressive of peoples, even more than these large sums raised by Chicago and Illinois is absolutely demanded to insure such success as alone would comport with our dignity and greatness.

It is sincerely to be hoped, Mr. Speaker, that gentlemen will rise above questions of mere local consideration and vote the assistance so imperatively demanded, that this Exposition may truly display the greatness of our great country.

Mr. BINGHAM. I yield ten minutes to the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. BOATNER].

Mr. BOATNER. Mr. Speaker, I understand the objections to this appropriation are twofold: First, that we have no power under the Constitution to appropriate money for purposes of this kind; next that if we have constitutional power, we ought not to exercise it. I propose, Mr. Speaker, to discuss these two questions in their inverse order. The argument made by gentlemen who cite the declarations of members from Illinois and Chicago in the last Congress that Chicago would not ask any additional appropriation, but would be perfectly satisfied if the Government would pay the expense of its own exhibits, would be overwhelmingly sufficient as a reason why we should not vote this appropriation if this were a Chicago fair. But, Mr. Speaker, it is not a Chicago fair. This is not a question which affects the local interests of the city of Chicago, or even of the State of Illinois. It is an international exhibition, to which the Government of the United States has invited the nations of the world.

It is an exhibit to which the nations of the world have been invited by the President of the United States, acting pursuant to the authorization given to him in a special act of Congress, and for this reason, sir, the Congress of the United States can not shirk its duty in respect to this international exhibit, because of the fact that some members in this House from the city of Chicago declared on this floor that that city would ask no additional aid from the General Government. Considering as I do that the national honor is concerned in this matter, and that it shall be the greatest international exhibit of the age, which it was intended to be, and which gentlemen opposing it here on this floor say they want it to be, I, sir, feel it to be a duty on my part, and the duty of this Congress, to give to its assistance all of the aid that is necessary.

Again, sir, something has been said about the politics of the situation. The delegates from the States of the gentlemen who are here opposing this proposition voted in the city of Chicago, in the formation of a national Democratic platform, in favor of a declaration that Congress should extend whatever aid may be necessary to make this international exhibit a success. So that even from a party standpoint the party is committed to it. In my judgment it ought to be treated as a nonpartisan question, one in which the Democratic party should do its duty to the whole country by promoting and carrying to a successful conclusion a celebration, an international exhibit in which all parts of the country are equally interested. That is all I desired to say upon that particular branch of the subject, and I will now address myself to the question of the constitutional power of Congress to make this appropriation.

Mr. Speaker, many Democrats, I regret to say, are as much afraid of what is known as the general-welfare clause of the Constitution as a moon-eyed horse is of a stampon the roadside. They do not want to talk about it, or admit that there is any force or effect in it. They do not want to admit that the language means anything or is entitled to any force in the determination of the powers which exist in Congress under the Constitution. I am not one of them, and take the Constitution as it is, not as some think it ought to have been, and propose to give effect to every line and sentence it contains. The fact is, that the article in which it is to be found, the taxing clause, was originally reported without these words. It originally read:

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises to pay the debts and provide for the common defense of the United States.

That article was amended so as to read:

Sec. 8. The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.

And then follow, Mr. Speaker, the paragraphs of section 8 enumerating the powers conferred on the General Government specifically. It was insisted for a long time, and is now contended by some political writers, that the power of appropriation is limited under the Constitution to the execution of those powers which are specially conferred on the Congress of the United States. But as stated by Mr. Madison, in referring to this article of the Constitution, if that be the correct construction, it absolutely eliminates the potent words which were added to the article by the framers of the instrument themselves. If such construction is to be adopted, all of the meaning, force, and effect of the words "and general welfare of the United States" placed in the article by the founders of the Government are removed.

It is argued on the other hand that this is an independent grant of power. If that contention were correct, the other grants of power would be entirely unnecessary; because this grant would embrace all enumerated powers and Congress would have the authority to enact such legislation in that line as it thought would provide for the common defense and general welfare. It seems to me, sir, that the true and proper construction of the words is that they were designated as a limitation or direction of the taxing power—a limitation of the taxing power which carries with it the power of appropriation—"to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States," and a direction of the taxing and appropriation power to the same objects and purposes.

Giving it this construction we reach the intention of the framers of the instrument themselves, to confer on the Congress the power to deal with the immense number of questions which it was foreseen would arise, and which are not covered by the express grants contained in the succeeding paragraphs of the Constitution, but which do provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.

Mr. BAILEY. Will the gentleman allow me to ask him a question?

Mr. BOATNER. Certainly.

Mr. BAILEY. I desire to ask this question of the gentleman from Louisiana: Conceding that the power to appropriate the public moneys is as unlimited as he asserts, how will he answer this point, that this is not an appropriation but a loan; or rather it makes the United States a stockholder in this Illinois corporation?

Mr. BOATNER. Well, Mr. Speaker, I have not contended or argued that the power of taxation is unlimited, or that the power of appropriation is unlimited.

Mr. BAILEY. I say, unlimited, as you argue.

Mr. BOATNER. I say that no authority for appropriation is to be found, except in the taxing clause of the Constitution, and that the taxing clause of the Constitution imposes the same limitation upon the power of appropriation as it does upon the power of taxation. As we have no power to levy taxes except to pay the debts and to provide for the common defense and the general welfare of the United States, so we have no power to appropriate the money thus levied except for the same purposes; and the limitation in the Constitution to which I call the gentleman's attention is a limitation addressed to legislative discretion and to the consciences of the legislators. The question then, under my construction, would be whether the object of this appropriation is one which provides for the general welfare of the United States. If it is, why, it is a legitimate and proper subject of legislative appropriation. If it is not, then the limitation in the Constitution would prevent us from making any appropriation in its aid.

Now, answering the question of the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BAILEY], I say that it is an elementary rule of construction that the greater always includes the less, and as we have the unquestioned power under the Constitution to make an absolute donation of any amount of public money which we see proper to this enterprise, and to this Exposition at Chicago, we have for the same reason the right to give aid upon any terms which we may dictate. We have the right to loan upon terms; we have the right to give upon terms, or we have the right to appropriate outright.

Now, my friend from Alabama [Mr. OATES], in an argument which he addressed to this House a few days ago, has placed this appropriation upon the line and the level of the demand of certain of our fellow citizens, who desire the Government to open a general mortgage office and loan money upon all the real estate in the United States, and a great pawnshop to loan money upon all the corn, oats, wheat, cotton, etc., which may be presented; and he says that if we make this appropriation to the World's Fair at Chicago, we will be unable to answer the demands of those who advocate these measures, because, he says, if we have the authority to loan to the Chicago Exposition without security, we have, for a stronger reason, the authority to loan to the farmer upon the security of his products.

Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that the gentleman has entirely ignored the essential difference which is created by this limitation of power in the Constitution, or it seems to have escaped his attention; and that is, that the United States may raise money by taxation, in order that it may pay the debts and provide for the common defense and the general welfare of the United States; and the limitation is that this money shall be appropriated to those objects of public utility which promote and provide for the general welfare; the dividing line being, does the proposed appropriation address itself to the promotion of individual gain and profit, or is it a matter of public concern, not intended to put money into the pockets of individuals? If the former, under the limitation upon the taxing and appropriating power, we can not give the aid; if the latter, it is not only our right but our duty to do so.

Therefore, as this Exposition is a matter of national and international importance; as we have invited the nations of the world to come and see the advances which we have made in science, art, manufacture, and agriculture; as we have invited them to bring to us the evidences of their advances in the same lines; as it is in the promotion of commercial intercourse and the general interchange of commodities between other nations and our own country, it is not a private matter, it is not for private and individual gain, but is one of those objects of public concern, in providing for which we provide for the general welfare of the United States.

In the brief time allowed me it is impossible to discuss so important a question freely or as I should like to do. The State which I have the honor to represent in part has for years asked legislation on the broad lines I have indicated, and it has been granted. But for the beneficent legislation of Congress in granting us appropriations to assist us in preventing disastrous floods, large areas of my State and the Mississippi Valley would be unfit for human habitation. We have found the power to protect that great valley from the ravages of the floods which would otherwise destroy it, and I can not adopt a rule of construction as applicable to Chicago which would be destructive if applied to the Mississippi.

[Here the hammer fell.]

Mr. BINGHAM. I yield three minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. O'NEILL].

Mr. O'NEILL of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, the constitutional question which has been referred to by the gentleman who last addressed the House need not be raised at all. Congress has voted aid, both in the way of loans and in the way of gifts, to such expositions as this. The parties who were managing the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition supposed Congress had given a million and a half of dollars to that enterprise; but through the interposition of Mr. SPRINGER, a member from Illinois, there were words incorporated into the act which were afterward construed by the Supreme Court of the United States to mean that the million and a half was a loan and that it must be paid back.

Next we appropriated $1,000,000 to the Exposition at New Orleans. I am quite sure that the wording of that act was "a loan," and yet it has turned out to be a gift. You have heard of no one endeavoring to have that money paid back. No officer of the Government and no member of Congress has volunteered to go into the Supreme Court of the United States to test the question, and so we have made both a loan and a gift, practically; and I do not doubt the power of this House to make this a gift. I proposed that it should be a loan, and I am sorry to say that but few members voted for my amendment. The Centennial Board of Finance, which was the body of men that made that Exposition the great success that it was, came here, session after session, until within a few years past, and asked Congress to repay the million and a half to that Centennial Board of Finance. They did not give it up until at last they became satisfied that Congress would not do it. The affairs of the Centennial Board of Finance were wound up a few weeks ago by act of Congress and by the signature of the President.

Now, the State of Illinois is to be congratulated upon the fact that the entire membership from that State favors this appropriation. Upon the vote the State of Pennsylvania at that time showed five members against it, and it had a great effect upon carrying the Springer amendment. I voted that this Exposition should be in New York, not because I felt any sting at the action of Mr. SPRINGER years ago in this House, but because it was nearer to Philadelphia. It would have been within 90 miles of the city of Philadelphia, within two hours' ride by two great railroad lines, and because of that Philadelphia would have profited indirectly by its being held in New York. I may say at last I am happy it went to Chicago; that it went to an enterprising, courageous people, who will make it a success; and to day I am ready to vote the money, to make it a gift, as I can not have incorporated in the bill that it shall be a loan. I hope that this House will stand by the Senate amendment.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message from the President, by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had approved and signed bills and joint resolutions of the following titles:

On July 25, 1892:

An act (H. R. 5997) to amend section 2 of an act approved May 14, 1880, being "An act for the relief of settlers on public lands";

An act (H. R. 8579) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Brightwood Railway Company of the District of Columbia";

An act (H. R. 5446) to provide for the care of dependent children in the District of Columbia, and to create a board of children's guardians;

An act (H. R. 1105) for the relief of Henry S. Cohn, late of the One hundred and sixth Ohio Volunteers;

An act (H. R. 3496) for the relief of A. S. Lee;

An act (H. R. 2370) for the relief of Nathaniel Lang;

An act (H. R. 3310) for the relief of Jerome H. Biddle;

An act (H. R. 5091) to amend an act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Tennessee River, approved August 9, 1888;

Joint resolution (H. Res. 80) authorizing the acceptance of medals presented to the officers and crew of the United States steamship Baltimore by the King of Sweden;

An act (H. R. 9324) to enforce reciprocal commercial relations between the United States and Canada, and for other purposes;

An act (H. R. 2100) for the relief of Julius C. Zanone, only heir of John B. Zanone, late of Mound City, in Pulaski County, Ill., deceased;

An act (H. R. 6073) to authorize the Postmaster-General to provide mail service, and for other purposes; and

An act (H. R. 6142) for the relief of J. D. King.

[NOTE.—The following bill having been presented to the President on the 12th instant, and not having been returned by him to the House of Congress in which it originated within the ten days prescribed by the Constitution, has become a law without his approval.]

An act (H. R. 1239) for the relief of the Mobile and Girard Railroad Company.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (H. R. 6183) to amend the national-bank act in providing for the redemption of national-bank notes stolen from or lost by banks of issue; and

A bill (H. R. 9622) to provide for the examination of certain officers of the Marine Corps and to regulate promotions therein.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCook, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses mittee on Agriculture and Forestry accompanying the same, be printed and placed in the document room of the Senate for the use of the Senators, 1,000 copies of which number shall be for distribution by the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE SITE.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, reported the following resolution: which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be, and is hereby, authorized to sit during the coming recess for the performance of any and all duties devolving upon it under the law, and for the purpose of continuing investigation under concurrent resolution of March 9, 1892, with a view to the selection of a site for the Government Printing Office and to make report thereon, and to employ a stenographer, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

CLERK FOR SENATOR VANCE.

Mr. JONES of Nevada. I am instructed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate to report the following resolution:

Resolved, That authority is hereby given to ZIMMON B. VANCE, a Senator from North Carolina, to employ a clerk during the recess of the Senate; and the Secretary of the Senate is hereby authorized and directed to pay such clerk the usual per diem compensation out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

I ask for the immediate consideration of the resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Nevada reports the resolution?

Mr. PADDOCK. Yes, it is an original resolution.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to in am. con.

COMMITTEE ON TERRITORIES.

Mr. JONES of Nevada, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. PLATT on the 21st instant, reported it without amendment, and asked for its present consideration:

Resolved, That the Committee on Territories, or any subcommittee thereof appointed for the purpose, are hereby authorized during the recess of Congress to visit the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, and Oklahoma for the purpose of obtaining information with regard to the resources, population, and condition of said Territories, and as to the propriety of the admission of the same as States, and that the expenses of said committee be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that be printed and lie over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection being made, the resolution will go over.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Mr. JONES of Nevada. I am directed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred a resolution submitted by the Senator from Montana [Mr. POWER] and reported from the Committee to Examine the Several Branches of the Civil Service, to report it with a substitute, and recommend the passage of the substitute.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The substitute will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That a select committee of five Senators be appointed by the President of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to investigate the operations of the United States Geological Survey, the efficiency and utility of such Survey, together with the progress made and economy observed in its work; that said committee is authorized to sit during the sessions and the approaching recess of the Senate; may employ a clerk and a stenographer, send for persons and papers, and administer oaths, the expenses of such investigation to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that be printed so that we can see exactly the scope of it. It can be called up in the morning.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be printed and go over.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I ask the Senator from Missouri if he has any special objection to the resolution respecting the Geological Survey.

Mr. COCKRELL. I can not tell exactly until I see the scope of the resolution. It can be printed and brought back here in a short time.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I am compelled to go away to-day, and that is the reason why I ask.

Mr. COCKRELL. We can have a special order made to have it printed and brought back in a few hours from the Government Printing Office. The Secretary can have the printing made special and have it sent to the office, and it will be immediately brought back, so that we can see what it is, and it can be called up at any time.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The request for immediate printing will be complied with, and the resolution will lie on the table for the present.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3477) to provide for doing away with certain grade crossings on the lines of the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad in the city of Washington, D. C., and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 3478) relating to the registration of trade-marks; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3479) to amend the patent laws; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. WARREN introduced a bill (S. 3480) providing for the construction of an administration building for army purposes at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

NAVAL REVIEW IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 3476) to change the date of the naval review in New York Harbor; which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. HALE. I ask that the bill may be put upon its passage.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read at length for information.

The bill was read the second time at length, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That section 8 of the act of Congress of April 25, 1830, providing for the naval rendezvous and review in Hampton Roads, and in New York Harbor, in April, 1833, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

That the President is hereby empowered and directed to extend to foreign nations an invitation to send ships of war to join the United States Navy in rendezvous at Hampton Roads, in April, 1893, and proceed thence, at such time during the month of May or June, as may be designated by the Secretary of the Navy, to New York Harbor to hold a review.

Mr. SHERMAN. As this is a bill just introduced, I should like to have it explained.

Mr. HALE. I propose to explain it. The only opportunity of passing it is in this way. The provision in the original act is in these words:

That the President is hereby empowered and directed to hold a naval review in New York Harbor, in April, 1833, and to extend to foreign nations an invitation to send ships of war to join the United States Navy in rendezvous at Hampton Roads and proceed thence to said review.

The Secretary of the Navy upon examining this law is doubtful whether under the language he could hold any review except in April, which of course is not a good time so far as the season and the weather go. The whole thing ought to be reversed, that is, the review held at Hampton Roads, as provided here, with the rendezvous of ships and foreign ships, and then proceed to New York and have the review part held later, in the discretion of the Secretary, in May or in June. This is only to me a difficulty. The Secretary of the Navy is in favor of it and has written a letter to that effect, and the only opportunity of doing it is in this way. It might go until next winter but the invitations to be given, as in all such cases, are formal and exact to foreign nations, and therefore the bill should pass at the present time if at all.

Mr. CHANDLER. I understand the bill changes only one word, from "April" to "May," in the old law.

Mr. HALE. That is all. It simply gives the discretion which the Secretary finds is not confided to him by the law.

Mr. ALLISON. I do not know that I shall oppose the bill, but the law providing for the naval review in April was intended to so arrange the whole disposition of this affair as not to interfere with the opening of the Exposition on the first day of May. If the bill introduced by the Senator from Maine shall pass as an amendment to the law it seems to divide the Exposition during the months of May and June, having one part of it going on in Chicago and another part of it going on in the neighborhood of New York City. I do not know whether that is wise or not. Certainly this is the first time I have heard of the proposition.

Mr. HALE. That has been taken into consideration by the Navy Department. Of course, whenever the review is held, the distinguished visitors and persons participating in it will go to Chicago and be present at the opening of the Fair there and for some time afterwards. This is not intended in any way to interfere with that. The ships will be here and remain on the coast through April and May, and after Chicago has been visited and attended to, then the formal technical review can be held in the month of May. Possibly the Secretary might do this without the change, but the Senator will see that the language of the law might forbid that.

That the President is hereby empowered and directed to hold a naval review in New York Harbor in April, 1893.

A Secretary might take the discretion of saying that it would be a nominal review, and as the ships were there he would hold the real review, the real spectacle, the real pageant later; but to save any difficulty of that kind, this amendment of the law is introduced, not to interfere in any way with the Exposition at Chicago, but to join with it and to go with it.

Mr. ALLISON. That may be true, but this is a matter which seems to me requires some little attention and consideration. I do not know but that it is all right, but it seems to me that it is to extend the naval review into parts at least of two months.

Mr. SHERMAN. I know very well that when the measure was adopted the word "April" was put in purposely and with the express design to confine this naval display to that month. Therefore, I think it would not be right to pass the bill until the President of the Columbian Exposition, who, I believe, is in the city, or at least he has been here recently, and the Senators from that State can be consulted. My impression is, that this would not be keeping good faith with the general managers of the Exposition, who expect to have the whole of the time between the 1st of May and the 1st of October, without any competition with the naval review, which was to be in April specifically by the terms of the law. I should like to have the opinions of the Senators from Illinois.

Mr. HALE. Of course, this is a matter which can be done only by unanimous consent. I conferred with what members of the Naval Committee I could find upon the floor, and they all said it was a proper thing, so that the bill has the informal indorsement of the Naval Committee. But it can only be done by unanimous consent. The bill may lie on the table for the present, and I am not certain that I shall call it up again, because if there be any such objection as the Senator from Ohio suggests, nobody wants to make any friction or get up any difference between these two features.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will lie on the table.

DISTRICT BRIDGES.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 110) conferring the control of the bridges in the District of Columbia on the Commissioners of the District of Columbia; which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. McMILLAN. I ask for the immediate consideration of the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was read the second time at length, as follows:

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. That the control of bridges in the District of Columbia is hereby conferred on the Commissioners of the District of Columbia; and they are hereby required to make such proper regulations as they may deem necessary for the safety of the public using said bridges, and for the lighting and the police control of the same.

SEC. 2. That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Mr. VEST. Does the joint resolution come from the Committee on the District of Columbia?

Mr. McMILLAN. A similar measure was introduced here some six weeks ago and passed the Senate as an amendment to the District appropriation bill. By some mistake it was left out, and I am introducing it again.

Mr. VEST. Does the Senator say that it has passed the Senate?

Mr. McMILLAN. It passed the Senate as an amendment to the District appropriation bill, but by an error it was left out. It is simply to give the District Commissioners the control of the bridges. For instance, in the case of a long bridge like that over the Eastern Branch, where now, under the old law, a hundred years old, passengers are compelled to cross by walking their teams, they can trot slowly if the Commissioners allow them to do so, and the same way in regard to some of the other bridges, bridges half a mile long, where all the teams are obliged to walk. This is to give them power to go at a more rapid rate of speed. The engineers of the District say the bridges are perfectly safe, and it is quite proper, they say, that the Commissioners should have this power.

Mr. VEST. Then, as I understand the joint resolution, it simply goes to the control of the bridges and not as to any change in structure?

Mr. McMILLAN. No, just the control of the bridges; that is all. It has nothing to do with the construction of the bridges.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there is no objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution, it is before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. COCKRELL. I doubt whether the bridge under which the water main across Rock Creek passes ought to be placed under the Commissioners. I think that ought to be left under the Engineer Corps, as it has been for so long, which has charge of all the water works. I move an amendment.

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to the amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. What is the name of that bridge?

Mr. McMILLAN. The Aqueduct bridge, the bridge down on Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move to insert "except the Aqueduct bridge across Rock Creek."

Mr. McMILLAN. I have no objection to that.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

Mr. McMILLAN. You might call it the Pennsylvania avenue bridge across Rock Creek. I think that would be the proper way to describe it.

Mr. ALLISON. As I understand the joint resolution it merely places the control of these bridges in the hands of the District Commissioners.

Mr. McMILLAN. Yes.

Mr. ALLISON. I do not see why this bridge should be excepted from that control.

Mr. COCKRELL. The water main is not under the control of the District Commissioners. That is under the Engineer Corps, and not the Commissioners. It is a separate officer entirely who has charge of it.

Mr. ALLISON. So I understand.

Mr. COCKRELL. Therefore the Commissioners ought not to be able to do as they please with the bridge resting upon that great main.

Mr. VOORHEES. I rise to inquire under what rule we are proceeding now in the consideration of this business.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. By the unanimous consent of the Senate.

Mr. VOORHEES. I withdraw all unanimous consent so far as I am concerned, pursuant to the notice I gave. Measures can not come here just from a committee and get the full consideration of the Senate while this record lies here with the work of months, passed by committees of this body, who have the right of way, and for that Calendar I intend to assert the right of way.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made to the present consideration of the joint resolution, and it will be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

DISTRICT CORPORATIONS.

Mr. GORMAN submitted the following resolutions; which were referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved. That a select committee of five Senators be appointed by the President of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to ascertain and report to the Senate the amount of the capital stock, bonds, and other evidences of debt issued by each and every incorporated company in the District of Columbia; the amount actually paid for said stock and bonds; the amount and value of the property acquired by each of said companies; the amount of gross receipts and expenditures by said corporations for each year during the past ten years; the dividends paid to stockholders during the same period, and the amount and disposition of any surplus fund; the amount of taxes paid each year; and to further ascertain and report what, if any, additional tax should be levied and collected from said corporations, and what further provisions should be made for the better regulation and control of said corporations.

Resolved. That said committee or any subcommittee thereof shall have authority to send for persons and papers, administer oaths to witnesses, and take testimony during the present session or during the approaching recess of Congress, and to employ a clerk and stenographer; the expense of the investigation to be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

ELLIS ISLAND IMMIGRANT STATION.

Mr. PROCTOR. I submit a resolution and ask to have it lie over. I may wish to call it up to-morrow in order to submit some remarks upon it.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved. That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and is hereby, directed to send to the Senate a statement as to the operations of the Department at Ellis Island in receiving immigrants from foreign countries, and the condition and suitability of the buildings and other accommodations there for said service.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask that the resolution may go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will go over as requested by the Senator from Vermont [Mr. Proctor]. The resolution will lie on the table for the present.

COMMITTEE SERVICE.

Mr. BATE. I ask to be relieved from further service upon the Committee on Mines and Mining.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tennessee asks to be excused from further service upon the Committee on Mines and Mining. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the Senator from Tennessee is excused.

Mr. BATE. I ask that the Chair may fill the vacancy, and I beg leave to suggest to the Chair that the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH] be substituted. I have the permission of the chairman to make the request.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tennessee asks leave that the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH] assume the place vacated by him upon the Committee on Mines and Mining. The Chair hears no objection, and the substitution will be made.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the amendment to the Senate to the bill (H. R. 6793) to provide for semiannual statements by foreign corporations doing business in the District of Columbia.

The message also announced that the House had disagreed to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7294) granting pensions to army nurses, agreed to the conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and had appointed Mr. MARTIN, Mr. BUTLER, and Mr. JOLLEY managers at the conference on the part of the House.

The message further announced that the House had passed the following bills: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 8507) to put in force in the Indian Territory and Oklahoma Territory the law of the State of Arkansas entitled "An act to regulate the rates of charges for the carriage of passengers by railroads," approved April 4, 1887; and

A bill (H. R. 9175) to put in force in the Indian Territory and Oklahoma Territory certain laws of the State of Arkansas.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 6183) to amend the national-bank act in providing for the redemption of national-bank notes stolen from or lost by banks of issue;

A bill (H. R. 9022) to provide for the examination of certain officers of the Marine Corps, and to regulate promotion therein;

A bill (H. R. 9172) to incorporate the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway Company; and

A bill (H. R. 9284) making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and for prior years, and for other purposes.

FOREIGN EXHIBITORS AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the joint resolution (S. R. 105) authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition to bring to this country foreign laborers for the purpose of preparing for and making their exhibits. I have an amendment which I shall offer which I think will meet all objections to the measure.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, I object to its consideration now.

Mr. HAWLEY. I wish the Senator would kindly hear what is to be said about the measure. It is quite impossible for us to invite foreigners here and not permit them to bring their own peculiar workmen with them to put up their own exhibits. It is very unkind.

Mr. VOORHEES. I will hear the Senator.

Mr. HAWLEY. I have stated substantially the reason why the joint resolution should be passed.

Mr. VOORHEES. We have all worked through this session of Congress. The result of our labors is on this Calendar. Senators coming here from committees, morning after morning, get up and ask that the fresh work they bring in shall be considered and have the right of way over the results of the labors of the entire session. If other Senators are willing to sit by and see it done, very contrary to my usual custom here I do not intend to do so. It is not fair, it is not considerate, it is not just, it is almost impolite.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I wish to say in reply to the Senator from Indiana that I know of no instance where I have reported a bill that was not of general interest and of no personal interest whatever to me, and asked the consideration of it under the circumstances stated by the Senator from Indiana.

Mr. VOORHEES. If the Senator from South Dakota thinks that I have any reference to him personally, he could not possibly make a graver mistake. This objection of mine does not relate to individuals, whether they are large or small. It is to a rule of conduct that is set up here not merely by him, but by dozens of others. It called forth my objection yesterday, and the attempt of the Senator to consider it personal is futile, and I might say something stronger.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Mr. President—

Mr. VOORHEES. I object to the consideration of the joint resolution.

Mr. PETTIGREW. Mr. President, this resolution—

Mr. VOORHEES. I object to debate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made.

Mr. HAWLEY. I appeal to the Senator from Indiana, inasmuch as he has made his statement, whether he will not kindly hear the other side for a few moments?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Indiana withdraw his objection?

Mr. VOORHEES. Yes.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I conceive it almost impossible to conduct the World's Fair unless this joint resolution is passed. Under the contract-labor law of this country and the Chinese-exclusion act no skilled laborers from foreign countries can be brought in for the purpose of preparing and conducting the exhibits. Such labor can not be secured in this country. We shall have exhibitors from Egypt, Persia, Turkey, India, Japan, and China, as well as from all the other countries of the world, making exhibits of their peculiar workmanship and manufacture. Unless this resolution is passed, it seems to me that we strike a fatal blow at the success of this Fair, and it is of such great importance, although this session is nearly over, as to warrant the immediate consideration of this resolution by the Senate. I therefore shall move to take up the joint resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from South Dakota that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, a single word. I want to call the attention of the Senate to the fact as to the appeal of the Senator just now, that if there was an emergency, the Senate has been in session I do not know how long—and I shall not stop to count up, but many months—and every consideration pointed out by the honorable Senator from South Dakota has been present to his mind, or might have been, or ought to have been, months ago, and there is no need for anyone to come forward in the closing hours and say if this is not done and if that is not done something dreadful will happen. We have been here for the consideration of these things long before to-day, and while we have been at work on other matters on this Calendar the Senator from South Dakota had full notice months ago, so far as the exigencies and demands of the World's Fair are concerned. I shall ask for the yeas and nays on this motion.

Mr. CULLOM. If the Senator will allow me to say a word—I think he is a fair-minded man—

Mr. VOORHEES. I try to be, but the line has to be drawn somewhere.

Mr. CULLOM. It so happens that those in authority in connection with the Exposition sent resolutions similar to the one just introduced to my colleague, I think to the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARRASSEL], and to myself, but for some unaccountable reason they were not received. Hence it was that the attention of the chairman of the committee and of ourselves failed to be called to this subject until very recently, the managers of the Exposition supposing that we had attended to it.

I hope under the circumstances, and in view of the great importance of this subject, the Senator will yield and allow the joint resolution to pass.

Mr. VOORHEES. It would be difficult for the Senator from Illinois to appeal to me on any question in vain. I withdraw my objection.

Mr. CULLOM. I am very much obliged to the Senator.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The objection being withdrawn, the joint resolution is before the Senate.

Mr. PADDOCK. I hope after this joint resolution is disposed of there will be unanimous consent that the Calendar may be proceeded with.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution (S. R. 106) authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition to bring to this country foreign laborers for the purpose of preparing for and making their exhibits.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I offer an amendment, to come in at the end of the joint resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to add to the joint resolution the following proviso:

Provided, however, That no alien shall, by virtue of this act, enter the United States under contract to perform labor, except by express permission, naming such alien, of the Secretary of the Treasury; and any such alien who may remain in the United States for more than one year after the close of said Exposition shall thereafter be subject to all the processes and penalties applicable to aliens coming in violation of the alien contract labor laws aforesaid.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. Has the committee any further amendments?

Mr. PETTIGREW. I have another amendment which I wish to offer.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 4, after "eighty-five," it is proposed to insert "prohibiting the importation of foreigners under contract to perform labor, and the acts of Congress prohibiting the coming of Chinese persons into the United States, and the acts amendatory of these acts," so as to read:

That the act of Congress approved February 26, 1885, prohibiting the importation of foreigners under contract to perform labor, and the acts of Congress prohibiting the coming of Chinese persons into the United States, and the acts amendatory of these acts, and the acts amendatory thereof, shall not be so construed, etc.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I have another amendment which will remedy that.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think there is too much in that amendment already, as the Senator will see if he will have it read again.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I ask that the amendment be again read.

The CHIEF CLERK. As proposed to be amended, the clause reads:

"That the act of Congress approved February 25, 1855, prohibiting the importation of foreigners under contract to perform labor, and the acts of Congress prohibiting the coming of Chinese persons into the United States, and the acts amendatory of these acts, and the acts amendatory thereof, shall not be so construed, etc."

Mr. COCKRELL. Strike out the words "and the acts amendatory thereof."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The clause proposed to be amended by the Senator from Missouri will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to amend the clause so as to read:

"That the act of Congress approved February 25, 1855, prohibiting the importation of foreigners under contract to perform labor, and the acts of Congress prohibiting the coming of Chinese persons into the United States, and the acts amendatory of these acts, shall not be so construed, etc."

Mr. CHANDLER. Have the committee amendments been agreed to?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments will be considered as agreed to if there be no objection. The Chair hears none; and they are agreed to.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I have another amendment, but it relates to striking out a portion of the preamble.

Mr. COCKRELL. That does not come up yet. We are not on the preamble at present.

Mr. CHANDLER. I understand the committee amendments have been agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. They have been agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move, in line 8, after the word "holder," to insert "who is a citizen of a foreign nation."

Mr. PETTIGREW. I accept that amendment.

Mr. SHERMAN. Let it be read first.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 2, line 8, after the word "holder," it is proposed to insert the words "who is a citizen of a foreign nation;" so as to read:

"Shall not be so construed nor shall anything therein operate to prevent, hinder, or in anywise restrict any foreign exhibitor, representative, or citizen of a foreign nation, or the holder who is a citizen of a foreign nation, of any concession or privilege from the World's Columbian Exposition, etc."

Mr. CULLOM. That is right, I think.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. In line 11, after the word "of," I move to insert "their respective."

Mr. CULLOM. That is right.

Mr. COCKRELL. We do not want an Englishman to come here and hire a Chinaman.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. On page 3, line 11, before the word "foreign," it is proposed to insert "their respective;" so as to read:

"From bringing into the United States under contract, such mechanics, artisans, agents, or other employes, natives of their respective foreign countries, etc."

The amendment was agreed to.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

Mr. HAWLEY. Mr. President, this joint resolution is undoubtedly necessary in the condition of our statutes, in order that those invited to come here from abroad to exhibit, may bring with them the proper workmen and servants. Those persons who are brought with them are really a part of the exhibit, as much so as the goods they bring with them.

This is an occasion of fraternity among the nations, a mutual comparison of their progress in civilization, and an increase of the good feeling which ought to prevail between them.

The joint resolution is necessary, but I am sure that posterity will not read with pride a resolution which grants to workmen gracious permission to come here, and I tell them they must get out within a year afterwards.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the preamble.

Mr. PETTIGREW. I move to amend the preamble.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to strike out the fourth and fifth paragraphs of the preamble, except the word "Therefore."

Mr. COCKRELL. I confess I do not understand the condition in which the preamble is left.

Mr. CHANDLER. I would say that there have been two prints of the joint resolution. Difficulty has grown out of the fact that some lines of the preamble had been transferred to the second page. As I understand the motion of the Senator from South Dakota, the chairman of the committee, it is to strike out the fourth and fifth clauses of the preamble.

Mr. SHERMAN. It had better be read as it stands.

Mr. COCKRELL. I understand it is to strike out the fourth and fifth clauses.

Mr. PETTIGREW. The fourth and fifth clauses of the preamble.

Mr. CHANDLER. Except the word "Therefore."

Mr. SHERMAN. Let the preamble be read as it stands.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The preamble will be read as it now stands.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Whereas under and in pursuance of the act approved April 25, A. D. 1890 the President of the United States has invited the governments and citizens of foreign nations to participate in the international exhibition authorized by the act above recited; and

Whereas the invitations so extended have been accepted by the several nations, and space for installing foreign exhibits has been applied for and duly apportioned, and concessions and privileges granted by the Exposition management to the citizens and subjects of foreign nations; and

Whereas for the purpose of securing the production upon the Exposition grounds of scenes illustrative of the architecture, dress, habits, and modes of life, occupation, industries, means of locomotion and transportation, amusements, entertainments, etc., of the natives of foreign countries, it has been necessary for the World's Columbian Exposition to grant concessions and privileges to certain firms and corporations conceding the right to make such productions; Therefore, etc.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the preamble as amended.

The preamble as amended was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. COCKRELL, the title was amended so as to read: "A joint resolution authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition to bring to this country foreign laborers from their respective countries for the purpose of preparing for and making their exhibits."

HIGHWAYS IN ARID REGIONS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Calendar is now in order. The first bill on the Calendar will be stated.

Mr. SHERMAN. What is the general order—House bills?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Calendar is in regular order under Rule VIII. The first bill will be stated.

The bill (S. 3071) reserving easements for common highways in the arid States and Territories was announced as first in order.

Mr. SANDERS. This bill was reported from the Committee on Public Lands and was before the Senate the other day and read. It was reported with amendments. It led to some discussion, but I do not think it met with any opposition. If it shall seem to lead to any discussion now, I shall not ask that it be pressed.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is the bill of any special importance just now?

Mr. SANDERS. No further than that according to the terms of the bill, so far as settlements shall progress, it will afford opportunity for looking up streams and also for preventing the laying out of roads during the vacation of Congress. I am willing it shall go over.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think the bill had better go over without prejudice.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over.

JAMES L. TOWNSEND.

Mr. HAWLEY. I ask leave to call up a bill which went over without prejudice during my accidental absence one day two or three weeks ago. It is Order of Business 631, Senate bill 2298.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2298) for the relief of James L. Townsend. It proposes to correct the military record of James L. Townsend, late captain of Company B, Fourteenth Connecticut Volunteers, and to grant him an honorable discharge as of said company and regiment.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

IMMIGRATION AND CONTRACT-LABOR LAWS.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask the Senate to take up at this time Order of Business 820, being the bill (S. 3240) to facilitate the enforcement of the immigration and contract-labor laws of the United States.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, if a man be not consistent in this world what shall he be? If he does not take care of his own record, who will? Pursuant to what I have heretofore said, I adhere to the Calendar. I know that my reputation for amiability and concession is so great that every Senator in this body presumes that I will yield, but I can not do so.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made, and the next bill on the Calendar in order will be stated.

MASONS' RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

The bill (S. 2946) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Masonic Mutual Relief Association of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1869, was announced as next in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider it.

Mr. SANDERS. Unless there is some urgency for the present consideration of this bill to be stated here, I shall object to its consideration. If there is any urgency, I will withdraw the objection to hear what it is.

Mr. McMILLAN. In the absence of the Senator in charge of this bill, I can only say that this is a local matter of some importance. "This association desires the law changed in one or two respects—first, to allow any member of the association, whether he happens to be a member of the board of directors or not, to hold the office of secretary; and second, to allow the company to pay to beneficiaries not to exceed $1,000, instead of $1,800 as at present.

Mr. SANDERS. Are those the only changes?

Mr. McMILLAN. Those are the only changes involved, as I understand.

Mr. SANDERS. We have spent a great deal of time within the last three weeks dealing with local corporations in the District of Columbia, and I suppose every Senator feels the pressure for the consideration mentioned by the Senator from Indiana [Mr. VOORHEES].

A number of years ago the Congress of the United States assumed to pass a general law applicable to corporations, their creation, and the conduct of their business in the District of Columbia, which may or may not have been wide enough for the purposes for which corporations are desirable here. The law is found in volume 16 of the United States Statutes at Large, and was passed twenty-two years ago. If it is desired to change that law, that is well; if it is desired to repeal it, that is well; but why every time it is desired that some new right shall be granted to a corporation they shall come here and ask legislation of us, to the exclusion of public business that is of consequence to the country at large, I can not see, and I do not approve of that condition of affairs.

This law was passed not merely to provide for railroad corporations, but for manufacturing corporations, for benevolent corporations, and for every form of corporate existence which has grown up in recent years. I regret to say, very much, in my own judgment, contrary to what the public interests require.

I do not believe that it is wise to incorporate any body of men except for the fulfillment of a public function, but I am importuned to withdraw this objection because the matter is a small one, and therefore of no consequence; and yielding to the weight of that appeal, I withdraw the objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia will be stated.

The first amendment was, after the word "section," at the end of line 46, to insert "and by adding a proviso;" so as to read:

Also in section 5, by striking out the words "eight hundred" before the word "dollars" at the end of the section, and by adding a proviso, so that the section shall read.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in line 61, after the word "dollars," to insert:

Provided, That nothing contained in this act shall be construed to impair the obligations of the Masonic Mutual Relief Association existing at the time of the approval of this act to pay to the persons mentioned in this section an amount not exceeding $1,800.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

HUDSON RIVER BRIDGE.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Order of Business 716, being the bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. HISCOCK. I object to the consideration of that bill.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I move to proceed to the consideration of the bill notwithstanding the objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Kentucky moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill, the title of which will be stated.

Mr. HISCOCK. Mr. President—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The motion is not debatable. The title of the bill will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey.

Mr. BLACKBURN. The Senator from New York will have his opportunity to debate if the Senate shall determine to take up the bill.

Mr. HISCOCK. I had a distinct understanding that this bill should not be taken up in the absence of the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE].

Mr. BLACKBURN. On the contrary, the distinct understanding was that the bill would be taken up at the earliest possible moment, and notice to that effect was served by me on the Senator from New York a month ago.

Mr. HISCOCK. I am not talking about the Senator from New York. I am talking about the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE].

Mr. GORMAN. I ask—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Debate can only proceed by unanimous consent.

Mr. GORMAN. I wish to make a statement in regard to this bill, with the consent of the Senate.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I have already objected to any debate on the motion; but I do not want to preclude any statement the Senator may wish to make unless it be in the nature of debate.

Mr. HARRIS. If debate is not to be general, I object to any debate. It must be free to all or to none.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Kentucky to proceed to the consideration of the bill, the title of which has been stated. [Putting the question.] The ayes appear to have it.

Mr. HISCOCK. I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GALLINGER (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Texas [Mr. MILLS].

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. I do not know how he would vote on this question if present. I believe the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GALLINGER] announced a pair with some Senator on this side of the Chamber. If agreeable to him, I suggest that we transfer our pairs and vote.

Mr. GALLINGER. I have an impression that I should prefer the pair to stand for to-day.

Mr. HARRIS. Then I announce my pair with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL].

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. Not knowing how he would vote if present, I withhold my vote.

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

Mr. PUGH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR].

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the junior Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER], and therefore withhold my vote. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WARREN (when his name was called). Has the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GORDON] voted?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. He is not recorded.

Mr. WARREN. Then I withhold my vote, as I am paired with that Senator.

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. BEERY. I am paired generally with the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER], but being informed by his colleague [Mr. WOLCOTT] that he would vote "yea" if present, I vote "yea."

Mr. DAVIS. I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. TIERCE].

Mr. PUGH. I transfer my pair with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] to the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER] and vote "yea."

Mr. WALTHALL. I transfer my pair with the junior Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON] to the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA], and I vote "yea."

Mr. GORMAN. I have a general pair with the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE], but on this question I have voted because the Senator from Maine left a memorandum with me when he left the city to the effect that his understanding was that this bill would not be taken up at this session. He being the chairman of the committee which reported the bill adversely, I have taken the liberty of voting "nay" on this proposition.

Mr. HARRIS. Being paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] and the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN] being paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE], we have agreed to transfer our respective pairs and record our votes. I vote "yea."

Mr. McMILLAN. I vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 28, nays 20; as follows:

YEAS—28.

Allen,	Cockrell,	Hansbrough,	Pettigrew,
Bate,	Coke,	Harris,	Pugh,

So the motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey.

Mr. CULLOM. Mr. President, I am a little surprised at this bill coming up, not that I wish by that remark to impute any desire to take any advantage or any wrongdoing on the part of the Senator from Kentucky, who moves that it be taken up, but for the reason that the chairman of the Committee on Commerce, who has been known to be very positively against the passage of this bill during the present session, left the city, I am sure, with the belief that it would not be taken up.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Will the Senator permit me a moment?

Mr. CULLOM. Yes.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Through abundant caution I took occasion to advise both the Senator from Maine, the chairman of the Committee on Commerce, and the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK], that this bill would be taken up, or at least that I should make the effort to take the vote of the Senate upon it.

Mr. CULLOM. Mr. President, as I said in the outset, I disclaim any possible suggestion that the Senator has taken advantage of the absence of the chairman of the committee; but having the honor of sitting near by that Senator when he is in his seat, I got the impression from him by frequently asking him from time to time about the bill, that he had no expectation that it would come up during the present session. I know he felt a very great interest in the defeat of the bill which has just been read, during this session of Congress.

Mr. President, I shall not undertake to argue the merits of the two bills, but simply to give a history of the controversy which has been going on, for the present session at least, in reference to the pending bill.

To begin back of that, I think it was about two years ago that the Congress of the United States passed a bill chartering another company to build a bridge over the Hudson River some 2 or 3 miles distant from the proposed location of this bridge, if it should be built. The parties interested in the other charter have been at work very earnestly, I think, trying, in the first place, to secure such a bridge as would be approved by the Secretary of War under the provisions of the act. In the effort to do that almost a year's time was consumed, and I do not know but more, before such plans of the bridge as were presented to the Secretary of War were made satisfactory to him and secured his approval. The time in which that was required to be done ran almost up to the beginning of the present session of Congress, probably within three or four months of the time when this session of Congress began.

Then this bill came in, providing for chartering another company. The Committee on Commerce had a hearing upon the subject early in the session, and almost unanimously, if I recollect rightly, the committee decided that such a charter should not be granted at this time. After that action was taken by the committee adverse to the bill, time passed on, and not very long ago a new movement was made in favor of this bill, and it was asked of the committee that another hearing should be given. Then a full hearing was given to all those, I think, who desired to be heard, and the committee again decided adversely to the bill. Consent, I think, was given that the bill should be reported back adversely, and on request it went on the Calendar. And we find it here to-day.

So far as I am concerned, I believe it would be impracticable to build both these bridges at this time. Either of the bridges, as I recollect the testimony, will cost from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000, a very large sum of money. Possibly they may include the right of way, but either of these bridges will cost a vast sum of money. I think the testimony shows that perhaps two of them at this time would not be sufficiently sustained to justify their construction.

So the committee determined that it would not be right, after the parties getting the first charter should have succeeded in getting their plans approved and ready to go to work, and to raise the money necessary for the construction of the first bridge, that the Congress of the United States should rush in so soon after that and, in view of the great expense to both, charter another company. On that ground, the Committee on Commerce decided that this charter should not be given at this time.

So far as I am concerned, I have no interest as to which one of these bridges shall be built. I should be glad in the interest of commerce if both of them were built, but I do not believe, with the testimony before me, that both of them can be built at this time; and I think it would be unfair to the first parties, who are in the midst of raising the money, to charter the other company and thereby embarrass the first company before they raise the money or have had a reasonable time within which to raise it.

So I am opposed to the bill, as I was in committee, and I shall vote against it in the Senate. If subsequently it shall be a certain that the first company can not raise the money, or if it shall be ascertained that both bridges are needed, I shall be willing to charter them both. Until that time arrives, however, I think we should not do it. I merely suggest these facts briefly as my reason for opposing the bill at this time.

Mr. GORMAN. Mr. President, in view of the statement of the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM], as well as that of the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN], as to the agreement about the consideration of this bill, my statement in regard to the understanding of the Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE] was possibly a little too broad. I have sent for the memorandum which he left with his clerk for me when he left the city, without my being able to see him. Here is the memorandum:

I hope you will not allow the New York bridge bill to come up in my absence, as I wish to address the Senate at length on the same. I do not suppose its friends will try to have it considered at this session.

Therefore, when I stated that he had an understanding that the bill would not be taken up, I probably made that too strong. He expressed the hope that it would not come up in his absence, as he desired to address the Senate at length upon the bill, being opposed to its passage.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I should like to ask the Senator from Maryland if the chairman of the committee has not gone home to be absent for the rest of the session?

Mr. GORMAN. So I understand.

Mr. CULLOM. I am prepared to say that the Senator's wife was taken ill, and while he did not expect on the night before last to leave the city, yesterday morning, on account of the extreme heat and the condition of Mrs. Frye, who was taken ill, the Senator determined to depart from the city with her immediately. He does not expect to return, because he supposes the Senate will very soon adjourn.

Mr. VEST. There is a certain amendment to this bill which was offered by the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA], who is detained from the Senate by sickness, which should be placed upon the bill, and I therefore now offer the amendment, which is in the nature of a substitute.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] will be stated.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to strike out all after the enacting clause of the bill, and insert:

That the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies, incorporated by the States of New York and New Jersey and existing under the laws of said States, are hereby authorized to construct, operate, and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City, in the county and State of New York, and the State of New Jersey, subject to the laws of said States, respectively, upon the following terms, limitations, and conditions:

First. That said bridge shall be located at such point in the said city between sixty-fifth street and Seventy-second street and at such point north of the southern line of the township of Union, in the county of Hudson, State of New Jersey, as shall be selected by the Secretary of War upon such examinations, hearings, and reports as he shall hereafter prescribe.

Second. That the companies may lay upon or over such bridge railroad tracks for the use of railroads, and locate, construct, and maintain such connections as are necessary and proper with railroads at the ends of said bridge or approaches thereto; Provided, That any railroad on either side of said river shall be permitted to connect their tracks with said bridge tracks, its approaches and connections, and shall have equal right of transit for their rolling stock, cars, passengers, and freight upon equal and equitable terms, and if a dispute as to the equality or equity of the terms shall arise, it shall be submitted to and decided by the Interstate Commerce Commissioners of the United States, under such rules and regulations as they may prescribe.

Third. That any bridge built under the authority of this act shall be constructed at such elevation as the Secretary of War shall approve and require. Provided, however, That it shall afford under any conditions of load or temperature a minimum clear headway above high water of spring tides of not less than 150 feet; and all the plans and specifications, with the necessary drawings, of said bridge shall be submitted to him for approval, and before such approval the construction shall not be begun; and should any change be made in said plans during the progress of construction such changed plans shall be submitted to him and approved by him before made; and the said bridge shall be constructed with a single span over the entire river between towers or piers located between the shore and the established pierhead lines in either State, and no pier or other obstruction to navigation of a temporary or permanent character shall be constructed in the river between said towers or piers.

Fourth. The companies operating under this law shall maintain on the bridge, at their own expense, from sunset to sunrise, such lights and signals as the United States Light-House Board may prescribe.

Fifth. The company or companies availing themselves of the privileges of this act shall not charge a higher rate of toll than authorized by the laws of the States of New York and New Jersey.

Sixth. That said company or companies shall be subject to the interstate-commerce laws and to all amendments thereof, and when such bridge is constructed under the provisions of this act it shall be a lawful military and post road and a lawful structure.

Seventh. The company or companies availing themselves of the privileges of this act shall file an acceptance of its terms with the Secretary of War, and shall submit to the Secretary of War, within one year after the passage of this act, for examination and approval, drawings showing plan and location of the bridge; and the construction of said bridge shall be commenced within one year after the location and plans have been approved by the Secretary of War, and completed within four years from said date; otherwise this act shall be null and void.

Eighth. The right to amend, alter, modify, or repeal this act is hereby reserved, and nothing herein shall be construed as a repeal or interference with any right to build a bridge across the Hudson River heretofore granted by Congress to any company or bind this or any other Congress not to extend or renew the same.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HARRIS in the chair). The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST].

Mr. HISCOCK. Mr. President, I had hoped this bill would not be pressed at this session for reasons which I will state; and it perhaps is proper—I feel quite sure it is—that I should call the attention of the Senate to the history of this measure.

The bill was presented to the last Congress substantially in the same form as we have it here, and certainly without any influence on my part, without any argument being made on my part, the Committee on Commerce reported unanimously against it. They investigated the measure and concluded that it ought not to have the sanction of that committee before the Senate. At this session of Congress a bill substantially in the form of this, at least for the same purpose, was again presented to that committee, and again after very careful consideration, as I was informed, the bill was reported adversely. Then, or some time after that, this bill was introduced by the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. President, I do not question the power and the right and the duty even under certain circumstances of the distinguished Senator from Kentucky to present a bill and champion a measure affecting the rights of the two States of New Jersey and New York, the Senators from those two States not caring to introduce the measure, or at least not introducing the measure. I may supplement that by saying here to-day that this bill is pressed in the absence of both Senators from New Jersey and of my distinguished colleague [Mr. HILL].

Mr. BLACKBURN. Will the Senator permit me to ask a question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from New York yield to the Senator from Kentucky?

Mr. HISCOCK. I do.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Does not the Senator from New York know, by referring to the bill which I hold in my hand, that it was introduced by me upon the 18th day of March of this year, when his colleague was not in the Senate and had not been here, at that colleague's request?

Mr. HISCOCK. I have no knowledge that it was introduced at my colleague's request.

Mr. BLACKBURN. The Senator has the knowledge now.

Mr. HISCOCK. My colleague was a Senator then, I think, and I know that he is a member of this body now, and is not here.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Is he in favor of this bill or not?

Mr. HISCOCK. I do not know.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Does not the Senator know that his colleague appeared before the Senate Committee on Commerce and made an argument in favor of this bill?

Mr. HISCOCK. I do not know whether he is in favor of it or not. That is my statement.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I know that the Senator's colleague appeared before the Committee on Commerce of the Senate, and made an argument in favor of this bill.

Mr. HISCOCK. Whether he is in favor of this bill at the present time or not I do not know.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I will inform the Senator that he is.

Mr. HISCOCK. I desire to say, however, in respect to my distinguished colleague, in reference to his support of any measure here or elsewhere, those who differ with him most radically have never believed that he needed upon any question to speak by proxy, but they believe that he is always able to voice his own sentiments and support the measures that he is in favor of.

Neither of the Senators from New Jersey are here. I am authorized to say of one that he is opposed to the bill.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Will the Senator allow me to say just there, that I have the authority of the other Senator from New Jersey to say that he is warmly in favor of it?

Mr. HISCOCK. If we go into that question, I must say again that New Jersey is not so far from here but that upon a measure of this kind if the Senator from New Jersey was very warmly in favor of it, he would be very likely to be present.

I do not claim, Mr. President, that it is unusual; no, I will withdraw that remark—I do not claim that it is inappropriate for the Senator from the State of Kentucky to take charge of legislation which affects the city of New York and Jersey City, and the States of New Jersey and New York. I am not arguing against that; and I suppose that some time, believing that the Senators from Kentucky do not know about the bridges in Kentucky or what bridges should be built, in the absence of the distinguished Senator who has charge of this measure and of his distinguished colleague, I shall stand here upon the floor and advocate a measure affecting the commerce of that great State in their absence.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Will the Senator allow me a moment?

Mr. HISCOCK. Not questioning the propriety—

Mr. BLACKBURN. Will the Senator allow me a word?

Mr. HISCOCK. Yes, sir.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Simply to say that if the time shall come when Kentucky can not take care of her own interests, and needs the assistance of the Senator from New York, I trust it will come speedily; otherwise he will likely not be here.

Mr. HISCOCK. Well, Mr. President, I regret that my friend from Kentucky should say that it was necessary to banish me from this honorable body, and I regret that the Senator from Kentucky should feel that it is necessary to institute a comparison between himself and myself and between himself and his colleague and myself and my colleague about our capacity to represent our respective States. I am surprised that this discussion should run in that direction, that there should be this interest, this feeling in respect to this measure. I do not understand it.

Mr. President, I said that it seemed to me proper that I should state the surroundings of this measure. Let me go a little further. In 1890—July 11, 1890, I think it was—Congress passed a law incorporating a bridge company to build a bridge across the Hudson River within about two miles of where this bridge is proposed to be located. That company was organized. I think I am justified in saying that the gentlemen who were at the head of that enterprise were distinguished as men of energy, of wealth, and of very high character.

The president of the company is Jordan L. Mott, who is also president of the J. L. Mott Iron Works. The vice-president is Edward F. C. Young, who is also president of the First National Bank of Jersey City, N. J., the leading financial institution of that State. The treasurer of the company is Charles J. Canda, ex-Treasurer of the United States at New York, and president of the Canda Stock Car Company. The following are the members of the board of directors: James Andrews, Thomas F. Ryan, William Brookfield, and Samuel Rea. The following are among the incorporators and stockholders: John King McManahan, of Pittsburg; Garrett A. Hobart, of Paterson, N. J., leading citizens of those places; F. W. Roebbling, who, with his father, constructed the Brooklyn Bridge; Henry Flad, of St. Louis, Mo., a member of the Mississippi River Commission and a civil engineer of eminence; Gustav Lindenthal, a prominent civil engineer; A. G. Dickinson, William E. Shunk, chief of engineers for the Intercontinental Railway; Philip E. Chapin, Malcolm Graham, and Charles F. MacLean, of New York.

That company organized by the election of officers and a subscription of $1,000,000 to the capital stock, 5 per cent of which was paid in. They have completed the plans of their bridge; they have been furnished to the War Department, and this was done within six months after the passage of the act. Extensive hearings were held by the Board of Engineers in New York, the plans modified in accordance with their report, and finally approved by the Secretary of War.

An action was brought in relation to the condemnation of land, and it was decided; and the representatives of the company are now in Berlin, Vienna, London, and Paris, negotiating bonds to build that bridge. None of the stock has ever been offered for sale outside of the organization.

Immediately that enterprise was launched under the circumstances I have stated, this second enterprise is started—why I do not undertake to say—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will please suspend. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, the title of which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. Wolcott] that the bill and the pending amendments be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I move that the pending measure be laid aside temporarily until the bill on which the Senator from New York was addressing the Senate may be completed.

Mr. HISCOCK. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is made.

DEALING IN OPTIONS AND FUTURES.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

Mr. COKE. Mr. President, I propose to detain the Senate just long enough to make a brief presentation of the reasons for my vote on this bill and the amendments proposed to it.

The pending bill is claimed by its advocates to be fully justified as a constitutional measure by the first clause of section 8, Article I, of the Constitution, which is in these words:

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.

In the debate on the oleomargarine bill in 1886, I gave with some elaboration my reasons for opposing the use of the taxing power of the Government for any other purpose than that of raising revenue, and my opinions have undergone no change since that time. The avowed purpose of that bill was to hamper, obstruct, and, if practicable, destroy the manufacture of oleomargarine, a pure, healthful, and nutritious article of food desired by our people, because an economical substitute for butter, in order that the butter-making industry should have no competition for its products in our markets.

I held then, as I hold now in respect to the pending bill sent here from the House, in which there is to be found no single provision under which anybody will claim that enough revenue will be raised to pay 10 per cent of the expense of enforcing it, and which is the taxing power solely for the purpose of destroying what is admitted to be a great evil existing in some of the States, that it was a plain and palpable misuse and perversion of the great power to "lay and collect" taxes, vested by the Constitution in the Congress for the sole purpose of raising revenue for the support of the Government. When the oleomargarine bill was reported from the House, it provided simply for taxing to death—out of existence—the manufacture of oleomargarine; but was amended in the Senate so that it does produce a little revenue, perhaps $1,000,000 annually, and that comes out of the poor people of the country who are not able to buy gilt-edge butter.

It will be remembered that when this bill passed all sorts of devices were being resorted to by the Secretary of the Treasury to get out in circulation among the people a surplus of revenue then locked up in the Treasury, amounting to $150,000,000 or thereabouts. The taxing powers of the Government were used, of course, not to raise revenue, of which we had at that time an embarrassing surplus, but for the protection of butter-makers against competition by destroying the manufacture of oleomargarine. The bill now before the Senate imposes a tax on "options and futures" dealers, which it is admitted by all and denied by none will destroy and extirpate the business in the United States without producing one dollar of revenue. The taxing power was not vested in Congress for any such purpose; and such use of it would be a perversion so clear and manifest from its original design as to show an unmistakable disregard of constitutional obligation.

The framers and advocates of this bill do not claim or pretend that Congress possesses, under the taxing clause, the constitutional power to deal directly with this subject and prohibit the "options and futures" business; but, in order to accomplish the same purpose indirectly, desire to exercise the taxing power granted to Congress not for this, but for an entirely different purpose. This bill is constitutional solely on the ground that its object and purpose is to raise revenue. On any other hypothesis it is utterly unconstitutional. It is a fact of common and public notoriety, one known of all men who have ever read the bill, that it will destroy the very subject-matter proposed to be taxed, making the collection of revenue under it impossible.

We all know this to be the natural and reasonable and inevi-

itable result of the bill if it becomes a law. To place such an enactment on our statute book, claiming it to be a revenue measure, will in my judgment be to perpetrate a legislative fraud, to recrd a legislative falsehood. Our Federal Government is one of granted, enumerated, and limited powers. He who would claim Federal jurisdiction over a subject must be able to put his finger on the clause of the Constitution containing the grant of power over it, or must show that its exercise is necessary and proper in order to effectuate a granted power. This is a principle repeatedly announced by Chief Justice Marshall in construing and applying the Constitution. As a rule of construction it is nowhere questioned. Justice Matthews, in delivering the opinion of the court in Barber vs. Crowley, and Soon Hing vs. Crowley (113 United States Reports), says:

When we consider the nature and theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they did not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power.

This utterance of the organ of the Supreme Court of the United States is based on the universally admitted fact that specific grants of power, limited to well-defined subjects-matter, the aggregate whole covering the entire field of Federal action, leaving nothing pertinent to the national welfare unearned for or unprovided for, are plainly made and set forth in our Constitution. There is no room left for the action of arbitrary power; for by express provision of the tenth amendment to the Constitution "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Powers not granted in the Constitution but exercised by Congress can not be otherwise than invasions of the reserved rights of the States; and such is the character of the proposed exercise of power in the pending House bill. Under the power to "lay and collect taxes," it proceeds to lay the taxes in such mode as to destroy utterly the power to collect them, and to establish irresistibly the conclusion that the object of the bill is to destroy the subject-matter of the proposed tax and not to collect revenue.

Thus to pervert the great taxing power, granted solely to raise revenue for the support of the Government, and make of it an engine of destruction to be used at the will of Congress, would be a naked usurpation and exercise of arbitrary power and change this Government from a constitutional one to a government of Congressional majorities. For it must be remembered that the taxing power vested in Congress is universal, and reaches every citizen and all his property, subject only to the limitation that it shall be exercised only for the support of the Government and shall be uniform throughout the United States. If this great all-pervading power can be perverted as proposed by the House bill for purposes of destruction, not to raise revenue, in this instance, why may it not be used in the same way in any or all other instances?

If Congress possesses the power to tax out of existence one business, it equally possesses the power to destroy all or any other by taxation. Under this construction of the Constitution, the great mass of powers not delegated to the National Government nor prohibited to the States, but expressly reserved by the tenth amendment to the States respectively or to the people, commonly known as the police powers of the States, will be held solely by the sufferance and at the will of Congress.

If the power to lay and collect taxes may be perverted as proposed in this bill from its purpose as a revenue-raising power, to the accomplishment of objects foreign to and not embraced in its scope or design, the other great grants of power to Congress in section 8, Article I, of the Constitution, may be similarly employed, thus covering the entire field of governmental agency, including as well the powers reserved to the States and the people as those granted by the Constitution to Congress. No more complete revolution can be brought about in our Government than can be accomplished through this method. I hold, Mr. President, that Congress can not constitutionally do through indirect means that which can not constitutionally be done directly; in other words, that under the pretext of executing its powers Congress can not deal with subjects lying outside of its jurisdiction. In McCulloch vs. Maryland, 4 Wheat., Chief Justice Marshall, discussing the powers of Congress, said:

Should Congress, in the execution of its powers, adopt measures which are prohibited by the Constitution, or should Congress, under the pretext of executing its powers, pass laws for the accomplishment of objects not intrusted to the Government, it would become the painful duty of this tribunal, should a case requiring such a decision come before it, to say that such an act was not the law of the land.

The Supreme Court of the United States have repeatedly held that the State statutes intended as an indirect means of invading Federal jurisdiction, will be inquired into as to motive and design and held of no effect, though apparently constitutional on professions, in commerce, in manufactures, and in transportation. The power of the State, as to the mode, form, and extent of taxation, is unlimited, where the subjects to which it applies are within her jurisdiction.

In support of this the learned commentator cites the case of McCullough vs. Maryland, 4 Wheaton, 428; also the case of the State tax on foreign bonds, 45 Wallace, 319.

In the case of the Pacific Insurance Company vs. Soule (7 Wallace, 443) the court, opinion by Justice Swayne, said:

Where the power of taxation exercised by Congress is warranted by the Constitution as to mode and subject it is necessarily unlimited in its nature. Congress may prescribe the basis, fix the rates, and require payment as it may deem proper. Within the limits of the Constitution it is supreme in its action. No power of supervision or control is lodged in either of the other departments of the Government.

And further on in the same case the court says:

The taxing power is given in the most comprehensive terms. The only limitations imposed are: That direct taxes, including the capitation tax, shall be apportioned; that duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform; and that no duty shall be imposed upon articles exported from any State. With these exceptions, the exercise of the power is in all respects unfettered.

The distinguished Senators from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] and from New York [Mr. HISCOCK] deny that the decision of the court in the case of the Veazie Bank vs. Fenno, 8 Wallace, goes to the extent of sustaining the doctrine for which I am contending. Let us see how this is. That was a case where an act of Congress—that of July 13, 1866—provided that every national banking association, State bank, or State banking association, should pay a tax of 10 per cent of the amounts of the notes of any State bank or State banking association paid out by them after the 1st day of August, 1866; and the first question before the court was as to whether this was a direct tax within the meaning of that clause of the Constitution which requires that "direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States, according to their respective numbers." The court held it was not. The next question for the court was, whether it was a tax on a franchise granted by a State which Congress, upon any principle exempting the reserved powers of the States from impairment by taxation, must be held to have no authority to collect. This question the court disposed of by holding that the tax in that particular case was not laid on the franchise of the bank, but on property created or contracts issued under the franchise or power to issue bank bills, and that as such this property was a proper subject of Federal taxation.

The next and only remaining question in the case, and the one in reference to which the ruling was made, which is now invoked in support of the constitutionality of the pending bill, was this: It was insisted by the counsel attacking the constitutionality of the act that the tax was excessive, and so excessive as to indicate a purpose on the part of Congress to destroy the franchise of the bank, and was for that reason unconstitutional. In other words, that it was a perversion of the power of Congress. This objection was met by the court, and overruled by the court on two very distinct and entirely different grounds, having no connection with or relation to each other. And right here I must be permitted to remark that in his reference to this case, and in his statement as to what was before the court, and what was decided by the court, the distinguished Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE], generally so entirely fair and frank, was scarcely wholly free from disingenuity. I have too high an opinion, however, and cherish the friendship of the Senator too highly to think for one moment on account of this one seeming departure to classify my friend with those described by Hume when he says: "Persons entirely disingenuous, who do not believe the opinions they defend."

The Senator, in his speech analyzing this case, and stating what was decided, said—I quote from his speech:

There has been some question raised about the case of Veazie vs. Fenno, as bearing upon this issue. It is said, why, did you not impose a tax of 10 per cent upon State banks upon their circulation, and did not the Supreme Court declare that valid? That case is cited as authority now. It is always that way. It has been that way since the foundation of the Government. If ever a decision is made in any way looking toward the destruction of the lawful powers of the States, arguments have always come up to pervert, to extend, to vitiate, and to amplify in order that there may be authority for a stretch of power and thus take some further liberty from the people. Now, what was the Veazie vs. Fenno case?

Here I call attention to what the Senator from Louisiana declared was that case, and I undertake to say that while he stated one branch of the case correctly he entirely omitted to state the other ground upon which the act was held to be valid. What was that case? The Senator said:

I know nothing which can throw more light upon a case than the brief of counsel.

I will say right here that I think the decision of the court throws more light on a case than the brief of counsel, so far as that is concerned.

In the discussion of that case there was no statement by counsel that the question involved was the perversion of the taxing power. The attack made upon the statute was this: That this statute was unconstitutional because it taxed a State corporation.

When that went to the court what did it say? The Constitution has lodged in Congress the power to regulate currency. In the exercise of that power Congress has authority to wipe out a State corporation by taxation. True the court, arguendo, said that it was either a tax or a prohibition. If a prohibition, the constitutionality authority lying back of the statute was found—where? In the clause delegating to Congress the power to regulate the currency. If a tax, it was not illegal, because Congress had the power to use the taxing power to prohibit that which it had the right to prohibit under another provision of the Constitution.

The case does not cover the question now here. It does not intimate the power to surreptitiously use the taxing power which is here presented. It is true the court, arguendo by the Chief Justice, made use of expressions which may be misconstrued and which are now used to support the contention that Congress has, by pretending to tax, the power to destroy every limitation found in the Constitution. This case does not so decide. It seems to me that ends this contention.

Now, Mr. President, any person, either lawyer or layman, reading the above, would unquestionably conclude that the only contention before the court was that the act under consideration was unconstitutional, to use the language of the Senator, "because it taxed a State corporation," and that the act was held to be constitutional because the Constitution had lodged in Congress the power to regulate the currency, and that in the exercise of that power Congress had authority to wipe out a State corporation by taxation. Very true; the court did decide all that; but that, Mr. President, was only one of the reasons, and this, too, the last one given by the court in support of the constitutionality of the statute then under consideration.

The honorable Senator overlooked the fact—not intentionally, but failed to notice it, all the same—that before passing to the decision cited by the Senator, the court had on other and entirely different grounds sustained the constitutionality of the act. This is made plain by a reference to page 518 of the opinion, and to this I attract the special attention of the distinguished Senator and the Senate. I quote now, not from the brief of counsel, but from the opinion of the court. Says Chief Justice Chase:

It is insisted, however, that the tax in the case before us is excessive, and so excessive as to indicate a purpose on the part of Congress to destroy the franchise of the bank, and is, therefore, beyond the constitutional power of Congress.

That was the question before the court? The question was not solely, as stated by the Senator from Louisiana, as to whether Congress had the power to tax a State corporation, but the contention was that the tax on those bank notes was not only excessive but so excessive as to indicate a purpose on the part of Congress to destroy the franchise of the bank, and for that reason it was beyond the constitutional power of Congress. Then Chief Justice Chase further says:

The first answer to this is that the judicial can not prescribe to the legislative department of the Government limitations upon the exercise of its acknowledged powers. The power to tax may be exercised oppressively upon persons, but the responsibility of the Legislature is not to the courts, but to the people by whom its members are elected. So if a particular tax bears heavily upon a corporation, or a class of corporations, it can not, for that reason only, be pronounced contrary to the Constitution.

And then the court, after stating the above and passing from this decision, used the following language:

But there is another answer.

The court had already given one answer why that act was constitutional, placing it upon certain specific grounds that had no connection whatever with the banking system of the States; and then the Chief Justice says:

But there is another answer which vindicates equally the wisdom and the power of Congress.

And then follows that portion of the opinion cited, or referred to by the distinguished Senator from Louisiana, showing clearly, and beyond the possibility of successful contradiction, that the constitutionality of the act was sustained, not upon one ground alone, but upon two separate and distinct grounds.

The Senator from New York also dismissed the Veazie Bank case with still less ceremony than did the honorable Senator from Louisiana. Little more than a wave of the hand was vouchsafed from that distinguished source. On my calling his attention to it in the hope of eliciting the views of the distinguished Senator as to what precisely the court did decide in that case, I was met with this vague and unsatisfactory answer:

I have read that case. We have all read it. I must say to the Senator from Oregon we are all familiar with that case. I do not understand it as he does.

And with no elucidation or statement I was left and the Senator was left, in utter and absolute ignorance of just how the Senator from New York does understand that case.

And right here, Mr. President, before passing from considering that portion of the speech of the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] relating to the Veazie Bank case, I must be permitted to place that Senator on the witness stand in support of the doctrine, as to the right to prohibit any particular thing, that Congress has the power to employ the taxing power for some other purpose than that of raising revenue, or, in other words, to use the taxing power in order to prohibit. I quote a sentence from the Senator's speech. In reciting what he understood the court decided in that case, and after declaring that the court said, arguendo, that it was either a prohibition or a tax, he says:

If a tax, it was not illegal, because Congress had the power to use the taxing power to prohibit, that which it had the right to prohibit under another provision of the Constitution.

In this view, therefore, if my distinguished friend from Mississippi is right, that Congress under the commercial power may prohibit options and futures, then it is clear the taxing power may be employed to tax them out of existence.

Judge Cooley, in his work on Constitutional Limitations, in discussing the powers of Congress under the taxation clause of the Constitution, page 484, says:

Strong as is the language employed to characterize the taxing power in some of the cases which have considered this subject, subsequent events have demonstrated that it was by no means extravagant. An enormous national debt has not only made imposts necessary which in some cases reach seven hundred percent of the original cost of the articles upon which they are imposed, but the systems of State banking which were in force when the necessity for contracting that debt first arose have been literally taxed out of existence by burdens avowedly imposed for that very purpose.

And in support of this view the distinguished commentator cites the case of the Veazie Bank, 8 Wallace;

If Congress has the constitutional power, as the Supreme Court of the United States has held it has, to employ the taxing power of the Constitution to support and uphold the national-banking system of the country, even to the extent of crushing out the life of State-bank issues, then it would seem to follow necessarily that that same power could be not only constitutionally but properly and appropriately invoked to provide for the general welfare of the United States by laying burdensome excises on the business of options and futures, which all here seem to agree in denouncing as inimical in their influence and threatening imminently in the highest degree to that general welfare.

If Congress may constitutionally impose imposts—a customs tax—at a rate far beyond that required for revenue, and not for the purpose of revenue, but to promote the general welfare of the United States by taxing to death foreign importations, which come in competition with the products of our own country, in order to protect American manufacturers and American labor, as the Supreme Court of the United States has held it constitutionally can do, then I invoke in the name of that same Constitution the power and the right to lay an excise tax on a business that has grown up in this country, which strikes a deathblow in its pernicious effects at the great agricultural industries of this country; which is daily and hourly inflicting fatal stabs at the general prosperity of the country; which, in its very nature, assails with deadly effect the general welfare of the United States, and a business which no Senator on this floor, of any political party, has the courage to rise in his place and defend.

If Congress can, constitutionally, as it has done, throttle the great trust cobra; if it can, through the instrumentality of the taxing power, as it has done, protect the people of this country from the gigantic frauds perpetrated on them by the manufacture and sale of oleoma-garine; if it can by virtue of the taxing power promote the general welfare of the United States by laying prohibitory duties on foreign importations, then I invoke that same constitutional power in aid of the interests of 25,000,000 of people interested in agriculture in this country and whose interests constitute so important a factor in the general welfare of the United States.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 26th instant approved and signed the following act and joint resolution:

An act (S. 1793) to legalize the deed and other records of the Office of Indian Affairs, and to provide and authorize the use of a seal by said office; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 194) giving authority for the erection of overhead wires for the illumination of the city of Washington during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic during September, 1892.

The message also announced that the President had on this day approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 620) to amend an act entitled "An act to promote the administration of justice in the Army," approved October 1, 1890;

An act (S. 621) to provide for the collection, custody, and arrangement of the military records of the American revolution and the war of 1812;

An act (S. 828) to furnish the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association at Gettysburg, Pa., with specimens of arms, accoutrements, etc., used by the armies in the battle of Gettysburg for exhibition and preservation at the Gettysburg Museum;

An act (S. 1039) to define the grade of certain medical officers of the Army, and for other purposes;

An act (S. 1239) amending the act of October 1, 1890, entitled "An act to provide for the examination of certain officers of the Army, and to regulate promotions therein;

An act (S. 1295) to authorize the construction of jetties, piers, and breakwaters at private expense in the Gulf of Mexico at the mouth of Ropes Pass, in the State of Texas;

An act (S. 2476) to amend the Articles of War, and for other purposes;

An act (S. 3154) to amend section 9 of the act for the relief of certain volunteer and regular soldiers of the late war and the war with Mexico passed March 2, 1889; and

An act (S. 1498) for the establishment of additional aids to navigation at Tampa Bay, Florida.

FRANCIS A. E. BRIOT.

Mr. SAWYER. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to consider at this time the bill (S. 1662) for the correction of the military record of Francis A. E. Briot. It is only a short bill, to remove a charge of desertion.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill, which had been reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with an amendment to add to the bill the words "to date March 24, 1892," so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That the Secretary of War be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to remove the charge of desertion now standing against the name of Francis A. E. Briot, late a private in Company G, Seventeenth Wisconsin Volunteers, and grant him an honorable discharge as member of said company and regiment, to date March 24, 1892.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

NATIONAL HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

Mr. CULLOM. I ask leave to call up the bill (S. 3365) to create a national highway commission and to prescribe its duties. The Committee on Interstate Commerce report a substitute, to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert what I ask to have read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CHANDLER in the chair). Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill? The Chair hears none, and it is before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole.

The amendment of the Committee on Interstate Commerce was to strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That a national highway commission, to be composed of two Senators, two members of the House of Representatives, and five citizens appointed by the President, be created for the purpose of general inquiry into the condition of highways in the United States, and means for their improvement, and especially the best method of securing a proper exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition of approved appliances for road-making, and of providing for public instruction in the art during the Exposition.

Sec. 2. That the Commission shall hold its first meeting at the office of the World's Columbian Commission, in Chicago, at noon on the 21st day of October, 1892, and shall make a preliminary report to Congress at the beginning of the next session, covering its recommendations respecting the Exposition and its general plan of inquiry and action.

Mr. GRAY. Is that bill before the Senate?

Mr. CULLOM. It is.

Mr. GRAY. By unanimous consent?

Mr. CULLOM. Yes, there is nothing objectionable in it.

Mr. GRAY. I did not understand the question. I thought the Senator asked to have it considered and that the question would be submitted to a vote of the Senate, or I should certainly have objected.

Mr. CULLOM. The bill proposes a mere committee of inquiry. It does not cost the Government a cent. There is no appropriation in it.

Mr. GRAY. I did not understand that the bill was taken up. I objected to its consideration.

Mr. CULLOM. I think the Senator had better allow it to pass.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Delaware object to the consideration of the bill?

Mr. GRAY. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair understands the Senator from Delaware to object to the further consideration of the bill.

Mr. CULLOM. I believe I have no right to move to proceed to its consideration at this time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Being objected to, the bill resumes its place on the Calendar?

CABLE BETWEEN SAN FRANCISCO AND HONOLULU.

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States; which

COMMITTEE ON TERRITORIES.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.
The Chief Clerk read the following resolution, submitted by Mr. PLATT July 21, 1892:

Resolved, That the Committee on Territories, or any subcommittee thereof appointed for the purpose, are hereby authorized during the recess of Congress to visit the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, and Oklahoma for the purpose of obtaining information with regard to the resources, population, and condition of said Territories, and as to the propriety of the admission of the same as States, and that the expenses of said committee be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS. Has that resolution been reported from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It has been.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

PRESIDENTIAL TERM.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, that order is closed, and the Calendar under Rule VIII is before the Senate.

The joint resolution (S. R. 62) proposing an amendment to the Constitution concerning the eligibility to the office of President was announced as the first business in order on the Calendar.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let that be passed over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be passed over without prejudice.

SUFFERERS BY WRECK OF UNITED STATES STEAMER DESPATCH.

The bill (S. 3138) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Despatch on Assateague Shoals, Virginia, was announced as next in order.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is there a report in that case?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. HALE May 20, 1892:

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3138) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamship Despatch on Assateague Shoals, Virginia, have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report it back with amendments and recommend its passage as amended.

This bill is exactly in line with the action of your committee in similar cases—notably, the Tallapoosa, Vandalia, Trenton, Nipsic, Huron, Onclida, Grandus, Washington, and Somers cases—in all of which the bills became enactments with the exception of the Tallapoosa measure now on the Senate Calendar.

In view of the above your committee feel that the relief prayed for and proposed in this bill should be granted.

Mr. COCKRELL. Before this bill is passed, I should like to make some inquiries in regard to the rule to determine the value of property lost. I see the bill makes no provision for any rule to determine it. In the Military Committee, in estimating the losses of officers and men in the Army, compensation for such losses is confined to such things as are actually necessary and proper for them in the service at the time. But the Senator who reported the bill is not present, and I ask that it may be passed over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be passed over without prejudice. The next bill will be stated.

HUDSON RIVER BRIDGE.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey.

Mr. HISCOCK. Is that bill up for consideration?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is reached in regular order on the Calendar.

Mr. HISCOCK. It is not the regular order. It goes over.

Mr. HARRIS. It is reached in the regular call of the Calendar.

Mr. HISCOCK. I object to its consideration.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made, and the bill goes over.

Mr. HISCOCK. I want it to go to the Calendar under Rule IX.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will go to the Calendar under Rule IX.

WASHINGTON AND GEORGETOWN RAILROAD COMPANY.

The bill (S. 3109) to amend the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 10, after the word "Bridge," to insert:

And provided further, That nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize this road or any other railroad, to make any use for railway purposes of the Aqueduct Bridge, or any portion thereof.

So as to make the section read:

That the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company is hereby authorized and required to change its tracks as follows: Commencing at M and High streets, in the city of Georgetown; thence west along M street to the Aqueduct Bridge; provided, That the terminal points hereby authorized shall be located, under the direction of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, so as not to interfere with access to the said Aqueduct Bridge; and provided further, That nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize this road, or any other railroad, to make any use for railway purposes of the Aqueduct Bridge, or any portion thereof.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 2, line 3, to change the date "1892" to "1893," so as to make the section read:

Sec. 2. That the changes hereby authorized and required shall be made and cars shall be operated on the extension of the line by December 1, 1893, and during the laying of said tracks the amount of street to be opened at any one time, and the closing of any cross streets, shall be subject to the orders of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia. Any damages to or changes in any underground conduits made necessary by reason of the construction of the road shall be made at the expense of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, to insert as a new section the following:

Sec. 3. That the construction of said railway on any street where there are or may be any mains, fixtures, or apparatus pertaining to the Washington Aqueduct shall be subject to such conditions as may be approved by the Secretary of War, which conditions must be obtained and be accepted in writing by said company before commencing any work on such street, and the operations of said company in respect of the safety of such mains, fixtures, or apparatus shall always be subject to the control and direction of the Secretary of War and subject to the right of the Secretary of War or other lawful public authority to interrupt the construction or use of said railway whenever necessary for the protection or repair of such mains, fixtures, or apparatus. The said company shall, before commencing work on said railway on such street, deposit with the Treasurer of the United States to the credit of the Washington Aqueduct such sum as the Secretary of War may consider necessary to defray all the expenses that may be incurred by the United States in connection with the inspection of the work of construction of said railway on such street and in making good any damages done by said company or its work or by any of its contracting agents to any of said mains, fixtures, or apparatus, and in completing, as the Secretary of War may deem necessary, any of the work that the said company may neglect or refuse to complete and that the Secretary of War may consider necessary for the safety of said mains, fixtures, or apparatus; and the said company shall also deposit as aforesaid such further sums for said purposes at such times as the Secretary of War may consider necessary; provided, That the said sums shall be disbursed like other moneys appropriated for the Washington Aqueduct, and that whatever shall remain of said deposits at the end of one year after the completion of said railway in such street shall be returned to said company on the order of the Secretary of War with an account of their disbursement in detail; and provided also, That disbursements of said deposits shall, except in case of emergency, be made only on the order of the Secretary of War. The exercise of the rights by this act granted are to terminate at the pleasure of the Secretary of War in case of persistent neglect by said company or by its successors to make the deposits or to comply with any of the conditions, requirements and regulations aforesaid.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, to insert as a new section the following:

Sec. 4. That Congress hereby reserves the right at any time to alter, amend, or repeal this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PUBLIC LANDS FOR PARK IN MINNESOTA.

Mr. MORGAN. I ask unanimous consent to report at this time, from the Committee on Public Lands, the bill (H. R. 222) to grant certain public lands to the State of Minnesota for perpetual use as a public park, without amendment. I will remark that this bill was formerly reported by me to the Senate, and on objection of the Senator from Minnesota it was recommitted. It is now found to be entirely satisfactory, and I again report it to the Senate and ask its immediate consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 222) to grant certain public lands to the State of Minnesota for perpetual use as a public park.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CORRECTION OF LAND RECORDS.

The joint resolution (S. R. 85) to correct a misnomer in the records of the General Land Office, and for other purposes, was announced as next in order.

Mr. MORGAN. There is some dispute about the propriety of that joint resolution, which induces me to ask that it may go over until December next. I want to see if the parties can not agree about it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will go over. Does the Senator desire it to retain its place on the Calendar?

Mr. MORGAN. Yes, sir.
The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will be so ordered.

POST TRADERSHIPS.

The bill (S. 3117) relating to post traderships was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Military Affairs with amendments, in line 3, after the word "that," to strike out "when a vacancy" and insert "where a vacancy now exists or hereafter;" and after the word "appointment," at the end of line 5, to strike out "shall thereupon terminate and the post tradership at that post shall cease" and insert "is hereby terminated;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc. That where a vacancy now exists or hereafter occurs in the position of post trader at any military post it shall not be filled, and the authority to make such appointment is hereby terminated.

The amendments were agreed to.

Mr. CAREY. I should like to ask the Senator from Vermont, who reported the bill, what the rule is in reference to these appointments? Are post traders appointed for a term or for an indefinite time?

Mr. PROCTOR. They are appointed, as I recollect, for a definite time.

Mr. CAREY. Then the passage of this bill will not necessarily displace anybody?

Mr. PROCTOR. It will not displace anybody who is now in that position. I wish to propose an amendment in the way of an additional proviso.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. At the end of the bill it is proposed to add:

Provided, That in the event of the death of a post trader, his personal representative shall be allowed by the Secretary of War a reasonable time in which to close the business.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

KENTUCKY AND INDIANA BRIDGE COMPANY.

The bill (S. 3067) granting the right of way to the Kentucky and Indiana Bridge Company on and across the grounds of the Louisville and Portland Canal, the property of the Government of the United States, was announced as next in order on the Calendar.

Mr. SHERMAN. That bill is adversely reported.

Mr. VEST. This bill was reported adversely by the Committee on Commerce for the reason that a House bill on the same subject had been reported favorably. That bill passed the Senate, was signed by the President, and is now a law.

Mr. SHERMAN. Then this bill should be indefinitely postponed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be postponed indefinitely.

PURCHASE OF LIBRARY OF LATE GEORGE BANCROFT.

Mr. VOORHEES. I ask the Senate to consider at this time Order of Business 1011, being Senate bill 2410, which is favorably reported.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2410) to authorize the purchase of the library of historical manuscripts and printed books belonging to the estate of the late George Bancroft.

Mr. VOORHEES. I ask that the report be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. Voorhees July 19, 1892:

The Committee on the Library, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2410) to authorize the purchase of the library of historical manuscripts and printed books belonging to the estate of the late George Bancroft, submit the following report:

The late George Bancroft by his will gives the Government the first option to purchase his collection of historical papers and documents.

An examination of the library results in finding that there are about 30,000 pieces in all, some 14,900 volumes of books and manuscripts and over 5,000 pamphlets.

The collection is particularly desirable for the national use, for, as would be presumed, it consists of the materials for writing the history of the United States—the working tools of the historian of the country. From the issue of the first volume of his work to the death of Bancroft one-half a century elapsed. With great industry, exceptional opportunities, knowledge to select and the aid procured of foreign governments he accumulated a mass of historical material which it would seem a patriotic duty to render accessible to students and authors, and so far as possible prevent from dispersion or destruction such a body of annals of the nation.

Bancroft's books abound in marginal annotations by his own hand or that of a secretary. The process of production and revision is exhibited in many volumes of different editions of the History.

Of very great interest are the volumes of the original papers of the committee of correspondence (1773), the engine which drew the colonies together in the scheme of opposition to Great Britain—documents pronounced by students to be scarcely inferior in interest to the Declaration of Independence—many of them the productions of humble men, farmers, and mechanics, and others bearing the names of men whose monuments stand in the sculpture gallery of the Capitol.

Samuel Adams, one of the leading spirits of the Revolution, constantly in receipt of letters of vital importance to the cause of independence, was at the time of his death in possession not only of letters but of a large number of drafts of his own papers and documents, and so much of this collection as had been preserved fortunately passed into Bancroft's hands at an early date, and by him had been arranged in chronological order and bound in nine folio volumes, containing in all about 1,300 pieces. These papers exhibit the discontent at the time of the stamp act, controversies with the colonial governors, relate to the Boston massacre, the destruction of the tea, and the establishment of a Congress.

They are abundant in items such as are sought greedily by the private collectors of the country, many pieces having an auction value of hundreds of dollars each.

The breaking and dispersion of a collection so valuable in detail and so important in its continuity should not be permitted. There are other collections of documents and papers, and the Revolutionary patriots represented include Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, the Adamises, John Hancock, Warren, Prescott, Putnam, Lee, and others too numerous to mention. A most useful and important part of the collection may be generally entitled "transcribed documents." These are the gatherings of copies of papers in the archives of Europe, and public and private collections at home. They are arranged in chronological order, mostly in excellent bindings in folio and quarto volumes. They are convenient of reference and of perpetual value.

There are some 150 volumes of such papers. Bancroft and his agents were often accorded special privileges. The labor of research and the selection of pieces by a man of Bancroft's knowledge lends the collection especial value.

Among later papers is the unpublished History of Polk's Administration, comprised in 21 quarto volumes, typewritten, and with Bancroft's revision. The library of books is rich in colonial and Revolutionary history, State and local history. A large number of interesting pamphlets have been gathered in volumes. Authors collaterally essential to the writer of history are abundantly represented.

The contents of the estate of Mr. Bancroft offer the entire collection of historical manuscripts, books, and pamphlets for $75,000.

Mr. A. K. Spofford, the Librarian of Congress, has made himself familiar with the library and commends its acquisition. His experience and great knowledge and conservative action in regard to library purchases lend great weight to his endorsement of the proposed purchase.

The Government is by no means rich in original Revolutionary papers. Private demand and at high prices is rapidly absorbing scarce material. Sooner or later the National Library will be called upon to gather original papers. Delay must reduce the material and increase its cost. The possession of a department of historical manuscripts in the Library of Congress is likely to induce gifts and bequests, as is the case with foreign museums.

Mr. Joseph F. Sadin, of New York, has been for twenty-five years associated with the sale and purchase of rare and valuable Americana. He has carefully examined the Bancroft collection, and considers the price asked a reasonable valuation.

George Bancroft was born in 1800. After graduation at Harvard he received the polish of a European education, and with particular reference to the department of history.

He served the United States Government at various periods. In 1838 he was collector of the port of Boston, under Van Buren. Under Polk he was Secretary of the Navy, and succeeded in establishing the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He exerted his power for the benefit of the Washington Observatory. While Secretary of the Navy he gave orders to take possession of California in the event of war with Mexico, and as Secretary of War pro tempore ordered the march into Texas. From 1846 to 1849 he was minister to Great Britain, and obtained liberal concessions in connection with the navigation laws. In 1867 he served as minister to Prussia, and later to the German Confederation, and in that period acted for the United States in settling the Northwest boundary question with Great Britain. From Germany he obtained a treaty allowing the individual the right of expatriation, and Great Britain then followed Germany.

From 1834 to 1882 he published and revised the History of the United States and the History of the Formation of the Constitution. He was the author of numerous orations and at the request of both Houses of Congress delivered the memorial address on Abraham Lincoln.

A plea for the Constitution "Wounded in the House of its Guardians" is also his work.

Edward Everett says of his History of the United States that—
"As far as it goes it does such justice to its noble subject as to supersede the necessity of any further work of the same kind. * * * and will unquestionably be forever regarded both as an American and an English classic."

In a letter written to Gen. James Grant Wilson, Bancroft says:
"I was trained to look up on life here as a season for labor. * * * I know the time for my release will soon come. Conscious of being near the shore of eternity, I await without impatience and without dread the beckoning of the hand which will summon me to rest."

He made his will and gave the Government the opportunity to secure the results of his labors as a collector of material for the history of his own country.

The Government would be unwise in not preserving a monument to the industry of a man of letters, enriching his life with the very words and records of deeds out of which arose the fabric of American Independence.

Your committee recommend the passage of the bill.

Mr. GRAY. I should like to ask the Senator from Indiana if there is any amount named in the bill?

Mr. VOORHEES. Yes, $75,000; and it is a very moderate amount, as the Librarian of Congress and other very experienced book men of the country believe.

Mr. SANDERS. I did not hear the Senator's statement.

Mr. VOORHEES. The amount agreed upon is $75,000, which is extremely moderate, in my judgment. It is the amount fixed, however, by Mr. Spofford, the Librarian of Congress, who is very experienced upon these subjects, and in that estimate his judgment is sustained by book men of large experience, and my own judgment is that it is a very moderate price. I have examined the entire collection. We are purchasing a collection of very great value on very moderate terms.

Mr. SANDERS. I do not disagree with the Senator from Indiana, but I am constrained to make a single observation. We have a vast mass of historical and parliamentary documents, which are indexed, and we have pending in the Senate a bill him, and he goes and ventures and ventures, ventures until his whole credit and stock are gone as margins.

You may visit hundreds of cities, towns, villages, and hamlets in Indiana and adjoining States in that region of which I have spoken as being tributary to Chicago, and in every one of them you will find some victim of this business of dealing in options and futures. In every business street of such city, town, village, or hamlet you will find the commercial bones of the broken bankrupts, whitening and bleaching from the effects of that ruin which has overtaken them.

It is not only destructive of the persons engaged in interstate commerce; it is also destructive very largely of the farmers, a class specially interested in this bill, even from a more extended view.

I have known many a farmer in its very toils, one to whom cards would be no kind of temptation, who would not be at all tempted by the green cloth, by the roulette, by the rouge et noir. But such a one, visiting Chicago out of curiosity or for any social or public purpose, as many gatherings are held there, is approached with talk about wheat, invisible wheat; talk about corn, invisible corn; and talk about oats, impalpable oats. He has always been familiar with these products, having, indeed, been engaged perhaps somewhat in the business of buying and selling them at home. He is deluded and snared and finally takes one option, and then another, and then another, until the old plantation acres, forest, fountain, improvements, home, homestead, are all swallowed up in this whirlpool of bankruptcy and destruction.

Sir, there is not a more disastrous, more ruinous practice to legitimate inter-state commerce, more disastrous or ruinous to agriculture, both directly and indirectly, than that practice, made penal and denounced by this bill.

I have heard from gentlemen who live in the Southern portion of our country that during the palmiest days of what was called the "peculiar institution," slavery, persons who bred slaves for the market or persons who made a business of buying and selling men and women, although they might accumulate large wealth in that business, although they might accumulate much money, and could have a certain standing among their neighbors and in the business community where they resided, still there was as to such persons always a certain social disparagement, a brand fixed upon them by honor, by conscience; a brand I think very creditable to the society which tolerated that institution. These men were permitted to transact their business. Their contracts were regarded as legal, but they themselves were stigmatized as engaged in an illicit traffic.

Now, sir, all traffic is not legitimate although the law may allow it. The gambling in farm products is not honorable although the law may have allowed and winked at it. The gambling deal is not really a business transaction at all, and I believe that in a quarter of a century from now the same odium and disfavor will attach to the gambling speculator in human food and to the gambling speculator in farm products as formerly attached to the slave-trader and the slave-breeder of the South.

Men will wonder that such practices were ever tolerated? Twenty-five years from now, in my judgment, men will whisper as they say: "Why, it is true these practices did produce enormous evils, but they arose very shortly after the close of the great civil war; our people were too much engaged in healing the wounds of war, in restoring the abraded business relations which that convulsion had brought upon us, and in seeking new avenues of intercourse and a new status of trade and of labor; our people were too busy to attend to what might be deemed the smaller moralities of the market. But in 1892, after public attention had been called to this subject, there was very short shrift made of the gamblers in human food. We passed a law absolutely prohibiting it. They were visited with an overthrow irrecoverable."

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills: and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (S. 1273) to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone under the placer-mining laws;

A bill (H. R. 3156) to correct the military record of James Corridan, Fourth United States Infantry;

A bill (H. R. 4385) to pension Nathan Falkner, of Saline County, Ark.;

A bill (H. R. 4667) to incorporate the Maryland and Washington Railway Company;

A bill (H. R. 4808) for the relief of James H. Willey.

A bill (H. R. 5095) granting an increase of pension to Addison M. Copen; and

A bill (H. R. 7974) to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Tennessee River at or near Deposit, Ala.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following concurrent resolution from the House of Representatives: which was read:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives declare their respective Houses adjourned without day on Saturday, July 30, 1892, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Mr. ALLISON. It is usual to refer such a resolution to a committee of this body. I think, under the circumstances, however, it is not necessary to make a reference at this time, as the chief impediment now in the way of final adjournment is the passage of the sundry civil appropriation bill. When that bill shall have been passed I take it that the two Houses can adjourn within a very brief period; but until that bill shall have been passed it seems to me that it would be unwise to take action respecting an adjournment, as it is impossible to adjourn until that bill is passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will lie on the table.

Mr. ALLISON subsequently said: After consultation with the members of the Committee on Appropriations I will move that the resolution respecting final adjournment be referred to that committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none, and it is so referred.

HEIRS OF JOHN R. TREUTLEN.

Mr. HUNTON. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 4903) for the relief of the heirs of John R. Treutlen.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes pay to the heirs of John R. Treutlen, late an employé in the House of Representatives, $33,333, being the difference in the salaries paid to laborers and that paid to messengers, which latter office he filled from the 7th day of April, 1881, to the 17th day of December, 1881, performing all the duties of messenger and receiving only the pay of laborer.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

FOREST RESERVATIONS.

Mr. FELTON. I ask unanimous consent to take from the table the resolution reported this morning from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, relating to the investigation of forest reservations in California.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to, as follows:

Whereas under the provisions of the act of Congress approved October 1, 1890, certain lands in the State of California were made forest reservations;

And whereas there were included in said reservation several thousand acres of land upon which homestead, preemption, and other settlers had entered and made homes and extensive improvements; and

Whereas said lands referred to are to a very small extent, if any, timber lands; but, on the contrary, have been and can be cultivated; therefore,

Resolved, That a committee consisting of three Senators be appointed to investigate the matter of the reservation of said lands and report to the Senate what action ought to be taken to protect the rights of any bona fide settler who may be included in said reservation.

That said committee be authorized to sit during their recess, to send for persons and papers, and do all things necessary to a full investigation of the merits of the case;

That the necessary expenses incurred in this investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the United States Senate;

That the said committee shall make a full report at the second session of the Fifty-second Congress.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In pursuance of the resolution just passed, the Chair appoints as members of the committee the Senator from California [Mr. FELTON], the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. KYLE], and the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN].

DISTRICT CORPORATIONS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT appointed Mr. GORMAN, Mr. McMICHAEL, Mr. ALLISON, Mr. CULLOM, and Mr. BRICE as the members of the select committee to investigate and report as to the capital stock, bonds, and other evidences of debt of incorporated companies in the District of Columbia, etc.

PORTRAIT OF GEN. GEORGE H. THOMAS.

Mr. VOORHEES. I ask leave to call up for present consideration the bill (S. 680) to authorize the purchase of Lawrie's picture of Gen. George H. Thomas.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. MANDERSON. Mr. President, it has never been my good fortune to see this portrait of Gen. Thomas painted by Mr. Lawrie. I presume, from the affirmative action taken by the Committee on the Library, that it is a work of great merit. I am aware of the fact, however, that in the Capitol, and I think in the room of the Committee on the Library, there is a portrait of Gen. George H. Thomas, painted by a Kentucky soldier, a comrade and companion of Gen. Thomas, who was not only a most excellent soldier but a great artist. It was his misfortune after he had painted this picture to become totally blind by reason of a wound received in battle while serving under Gen. Thomas.

That picture, painted from life, is a most lifelike portrait of that distinguished soldier. My impression is that the Senate of the United States twice, and I think the other House once, passed a bill or bills providing for the purchase of that picture. I should like to ask the Senator from Indiana at this time why it is that that picture seems to have "gone glimmering," and I to be heard of no more, while the Government is now about to purchase a picture by another artist of this celebrated Union soldier?

Mr. VOORHEES. I will answer as nearly as I can. I have great sympathy for Mr. Price, who painted the picture alluded to by the Senator from Nebraska. He has always insisted upon a price, however, which I thought was beyond its merits. He has insisted on five or six thousand dollars, and would have—

Mr. BLACKBURN. No, I beg the Senator's pardon.

Mr. VOORHEES. I have been on that committee all the time and I have talked with Mr. Price over and over about it.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I am sure that Gen. Price, when here himself, told me, and I communicated the fact in more than one interview to the Senator from Indiana, that $2,500 would be satisfactory.

Mr. VOORHEES. That has certainly escaped my recollection. The Senator from Kentucky of course is correct. That picture, however, is not equal to the other as a work of art. There is in the great career of Gen. George H. Thomas enough to justify the purchase of more than one portrait of him—several more than one. He was one of the great historic figures that towered up during the war of the rebellion—a man of Southern birth, a Virginian, with strong sympathies and ties for his State, who cast his lot with the Union cause and distinguished himself at every step he took.

This is no bar to the purchase of Gen. Price's picture—the gentleman whom the Senator from Nebraska alludes to. He is a blind man, it is true, and I repeat I have every sympathy for him, and I would under proper circumstances be willing to make that purchase; but I think, in securing at least one, Lawrie's should be the first.

I have in my hand the following letter from Maj. Gen. Howard:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE EAST,
Governors Island, N. Y., June 2, 1892.

MY DEAR SIR: I understand that you have just introduced a bill for the purchase by the Government of a portrait of Gen. George H. Thomas. The portrait was painted by Alexander Lawrie, esq.

Just before the painting was completed I visited Mr. Lawrie's studio with Gen. William D. Whipple, then the adjutant-general of the division. We enjoyed our inspection of the portrait very much. It appeared to me to be as true a likeness as any I had seen, and gave markedly the peculiar characteristics of our noble and beloved general.

I am glad you have this matter in hand, and hope there will be no objection to the passage of your bill.

Very truly, yours,

OLIVER O. HOWARD,
Major-General, United States Army.

HON. DANIEL W. VOORHEES,
United States Senator, Washington, D. C.

I read that for the purpose of showing that we have not proceeded in any careless way. Gen. Howard knew Gen. Thomas intimately, long and well.

The artist in this case is one of the best trained and most distinguished artists in the profession. I have here a biography of him in brief, showing where he pursued his studies and in what other works he has distinguished himself.

I am doing only what I conceive to be my duty, Mr. President. The Committee on the Library, in looking over the portraits made of Gen. Thomas, thought this was the best and that it could be secured at a reasonable rate.

There is another portrait I should like to speak well of, and that is the one painted by Miss Ransom. I have great respect for her.

I have discussed this question often with artists and with their friends. The great difficulty about artists is that they are prone to ask more than the Government is willing to give. I am not ready to say that they ask more than their work is worth. I have no right to thus depreciate their estimate of their own work. But this Government is a bear on the market in works of art. We do not profess to pay large prices. Paintings are brought here with the expectation of getting $10,000 for a work. They get down to $5,000, and then down to $3,000, or a little below that perhaps, and then we buy them.

I think in honor to the memory of Gen. Thomas it would be well to secure this painting. More than that I can not say. I produce here a brother officer who served with Gen. Thomas, certifying to the correctness and value and merit of this painting. In doing this I only repeat what I said when I rose, that I do not disparage the work of the unfortunate man in whom the Senator from Nebraska and the Senator from Kentucky are interested and in whom I am interested. The price had escaped my recollection until the Senator from Kentucky mentioned it. I shall be perfectly willing at the next session to purchase that portrait also. Two oil paintings of a man like Gen. George H. Thomas are a very slight tribute to his transcendent merits and abilities. One should be placed in this Capitol for the young and rising generation to look on as they pass through as an example of manly merit; another by all means should be put in the War Office, which his services so greatly honored in his lifetime.

So I wish to assure the Senator from Nebraska that I am in no sense antagonizing the painting by Mr. Price. I would gladly have it. It is a work of fidelity, without being a great painting. I have no doubt of its being a work of fidelity. It is a plain work, but a good, strong work, and the Government ought to have it.

Mr. MANDERSON. I wish simply to make a suggestion to the Senator from Indiana, and to put him in possession of certain facts of which he does not know.

As I have said, Gen. Price was the colonel of a Kentucky regiment, and served with great distinction during the war in the Army of the Cumberland, commanded in the greater part of its eventful history by Gen. Thomas. This is, I think, the only portrait (unless another that is now in the capital of the State of Tennessee is an exception) painted from Gen. Thomas in his lifetime. He gave the sittings to this comrade of his. I am not a sufficient judge of art to know whether it is a great painting or not, but certainly, as the Senator from Indiana has said, it is one that is painted with great fidelity. It is a most excellent likeness of Gen. Thomas.

It was my fortune to serve with that great Virginian for nearly four years: I saw him almost daily, and I never have seen a picture of Gen. Thomas so lifelike as the one by Gen. Price. Its merit was such that years ago, immediately after the termination of the war, the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, instituted in Nashville by Gen. Thomas himself, passed a resolution recommending to Congress that it purchase this most excellent portrait of the old chief and commander of the Army of the Cumberland. If the Senator from Indiana has ever known that fact I am sure he must have forgotten it, and perhaps the mention of it now will recall it to his mind. I think I stated to him in private conversation years ago that this was the fact and that the Society of the Army of the Cumberland had made the recommendation that this portrait of a soldier by a soldier should be possessed by this country.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, my relations with Gen. Thomas commenced in 1862 and I served with him, under his command, for two years of the war. I saw him almost daily.

I have examined these portraits with the most earnest desire to satisfy myself as to which represents I think one of the greatest men the country has produced, certainly a man whose moral qualities were unsurpassed. I knew Col. Price, too. I have no doubt that the most accurate representation of George H. Thomas as we saw him from day to day is in the portrait of Gen. Price. It attempts simply to delineate the man as he appeared to his friends and comrades from day to day. I think it is deficient in artistic style, and yet I regret to say it, because it is as artistic as the man was himself. He was remarkable for the plainness of his manners and his dress, and I must say that when I saw the picture of Gen. Thomas in the rooms of the Committee on the Library I was impressed with its representation of the George H. Thomas we saw from day to day.

I was called upon then to examine the very magnificent picture by Miss Ransom. It is an admirable painting, far superior, I think, to that by Gen. Price in artistic execution. It is George H. Thomas the hero or not as he was to those who saw him from day to day, but as he was in the realization of an artist of very rare excellence. It is a heroic portrait. Without claiming at all to be an artist or a judge of artistic works, I found it almost impossible to avoid expressing my preference for that picture. There was so much that was attractive in its style and in its excellence of execution that I hesitated, but yet I must say it was not the man I knew.

Now, in regard to the portrait proposed to be purchased in the pending bill, I think that is excellent also, but I must confess that if the task of making this purchase was conferred upon me, I would buy the picture of the great soldier, the true man, the devoted patriot: I would take the one that exhibits him as I saw him day by day and week by week, on the march and in battle and elsewhere. It is a reproduction of the man; not the man on dress parade or review, but the man as we saw him. That is my summary of these pictures.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Mr. President, I am indebted to the essary to be made to the thirteenth section in order to make it consistent with the striking out of the twelfth section and make it complete can be made, after that I will move to adjourn.

Mr. HISCOCK. Before the Senator does that, I would like to say—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL] is entitled to the floor. Other Senators are speaking within the time of the Senator from Virginia.

Mr. DANIEL. Does the Senator from Minnesota say he wishes to move to adjourn?

Mr. WASHBURN. I was going to make a motion to adjourn if agreeable.

Mr. DANIEL. Very well.

Mr. WASHBURN. If it is not agreeable, I will not make the motion.

Mr. DANIEL. I have no objection.

Mr. WASHBURN. But before I make a motion to adjourn I should like to have the thirteenth section completed by some trifling amendments in order to make it consistent. Those amendments have been sent to the desk, and I ask that they be stated, and adopted.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments will be stated in their order.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 13, line 5, after the word "revenue" strike out the word "either;" so as to read:

Whenever any contract or agreement for the sale and future delivery of any of the articles mentioned in section 3 of this act shall be made, and the making thereof shall not be reported to the collector of internal revenue, as required by section 9, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHIEF CLERK. In the same section, line 6, after the word "nine," strike out all down to and including the word "act," in line 10, the words to be stricken out being as follows:

Or as required by section 12 of this act, or if it shall have been reported to the said collector as a contract or agreement of the nature and character mentioned in and authorized to be made under a certificate issued pursuant to the provisions of section 12 of this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHIEF CLERK. Section 12, when numbered, should precede section 10 and be numbered 10; section 10 should be numbered 11; the section now numbered 11 should be numbered 12; the section now numbered 14 should be numbered 13; the section now numbered 15 should be numbered 14, and the one numbered 16 should be section 15.

Mr. HARRIS. That is not an amendment.

Mr. ALLISON. It is a mere memorandum for the clerks to arrange the sections of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The change proposed is not contemplated by the rules as one to be made by the clerks. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. There is a further amendment which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 13, line 62, after the word "made," strike out the comma; so as to read:

Or agreement so made by said party.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. WASHBURN. Mr. President—

Mr. HISCOCK. I ask the Senator from Minnesota to yield to me that I may call up for present consideration a bill on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Minnesota yield to the Senator from New York?

Mr. WASHBURN. I will yield if it will take no time.

Mr. HISCOCK. It will take but a moment.

Mr. COCKRELL. I am very sorry to announce to the Chair that in my opinion there is no quorum present.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The roll will be called.

Mr. HARRIS. In order to avoid a roll call, I move that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. HISCOCK. Before that motion is put I desire to make an inquiry in regard to the bill. Will the bill as now amended be printed so that we may have it before us in the morning?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will not be printed unless so ordered by the Senate.

Mr. HISCOCK. I ask unanimous consent that there be another print of the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. There can be no order of the Senate until a roll call develops a quorum. To avoid a roll call, I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 5 o'clock and 5 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Friday, July 20, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, July 28, 1892.

The House met at 11 o'clock a. m. Prayer by Rev. J. H. CUTHBERT, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read.

CORRECTIONS.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to correct the RECORD in one particular.

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of privilege.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection the Journal will be approved.

Mr. CUTHWAITE. Does the Journal show that the resolution in relation to sending for absent members was adopted as amended in pursuance of the suggestion which I made and which was accepted by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BINGHAM]?

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that the Journal does not show the passage of the resolution at all. The resolution was passed.

Mr. CUTHWAITE. I was under the impression myself that it was not declared by the Chair to have passed, that while the division was being taken and before the tellers had reported some other motion was made and voted upon.

The SPEAKER. It appears from the RECORD that the resolution was agreed to:

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will appoint as tellers the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BINGHAM] and the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BAILEY].

The House again divided; and the tellers reported—ayes 65, noes 25. So the resolution was agreed to.

The Journal will be corrected in accordance with the RECORD, so as to show that the resolution was agreed to.

Mr. CUTHWAITE. It was agreed to, then, as amended pursuant to my suggestion?

The SPEAKER. Of course. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BINGHAM] accepted the amendment of the gentleman from Ohio that the resolution should not apply to members who were excused on account of sickness in their families.

CABLE CONNECTION WITH THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President; which was read, ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee on Commerce:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith, with its accompanying, a report from the Secretary of the Navy of the results of the survey made pursuant to the act of March 2, 1891, to enable the President to cause careful sounding to be made between San Francisco Cal., and Honolulu, in the Kingdom of the Hawaiian Islands, for the purpose of determining the practicability of laying a telegraphic cable between those points.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27, 1892.

(The papers above referred to accompany my message to the Senate.)

JOHN OSBORNE.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting a copy of the findings of the court in the case of John Osborne, deceased, vs. The United States; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims.

MASONIC MUTUAL RELIEF ASSOCIATION, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a bill (S. 2946) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Masonic Mutual Relief Association of the District of Columbia, approved March 3; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

JAMES L. TOWNSEND.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a bill (S. 2298) for the relief of James E. Townsend; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

FOREIGN LABOR FOR PREPARATION OF FOREIGN EXHIBITS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the joint resolution (S. R. 106) authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's Columbian Exposition to bring to this country foreign laborers from their respective countries for the purpose of preparing for and making their exhibits; which was referred to the Committee on Labor.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. WEADOCK, for one week, on account of illness.

To Mr. FETHAN, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. MOSES, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. WHITING, for ten days, on account of sickness in his family.

To Mr. WALKER, on account of sickness from excessive heat.

LEAVE TO PRINT.

Mr. BROSIUS, by unanimous consent, obtained leave to extend in the RECORD some remarks on the resolution reported by the Select Committee to Investigate the Pension Office.

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW PAPERS.

Mr. CHIPMAN, by unanimous consent, obtained leave to withdraw from the files of the House the papers in the case of the claim of Henry K. Sawyer without leaving copies.

SWEARING IN OF A MEMBER.

Mr. SAYERS. I send to the desk the credentials of Hon. E. L. Antony, Representative-elect from the Ninth Congressional district of Texas, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. ROGER Q. MILLS. I ask that Mr. Antony be now sworn in.

The credentials having been read, Mr. Antony came forward and was duly qualified by taking the oath prescribed by law.

LANDS VALUABLE FOR BUILDING STONE.

Mr. McRAE. I rise to a privileged question. I send to the desk a conference report on Senate bill No. 1273.

Mr. DINGLEY. Is not the House already acting upon a conference report as unfinished business?

The SPEAKER. No; there is no conference report now pending on the sundry civil bill; the conference committee has been discharged. The question under consideration is upon the amendments not in conference.

Mr. DINGLEY. All right.

The report submitted by Mr. McRAE was read, as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the House to the bill (S. 1273) to authorize the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone under the placer mining laws having met, after full and free conference have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its disagreement to the amendments of the House and agree to the same.

THO. C. McRAE,

J. W. BAILEY,

Managers on the part of the House.

WM. M. STEWART,

R. F. PETTIGREW,

WM. B. BATE,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

The report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. McRAE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

PENSIONS.

Mr. MARTIN. I rise to a privileged question, and send to the desk a conference report.

The Clerk read as follows:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 2137) to amend an act entitled "An act amending the pension law so as to remove the disability of those who having participated in the rebellion, have since its termination enlisted in the armies of the United States and become disabled," approved March 3, 1877, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its amendments.

A. N. MARTIN,

W. H. HARRIES,

JOHN L. JOLLEY,

Managers on the part of the House.

A. S. PADDOCK,

DAVID TURPIE,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

The statement of the House conferees was read, as follows:

The managers on behalf of the House, in the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the accompanying bill (S. 2137), submit the following statement to accompany the conference report herewith submitted, to wit: The bill itself is one to repeal that portion of the present pension law which prevents persons who served in the Confederate service and who subsequently enlisted in the United States Navy from receiving the benefits of the pension law as relates to such service in the Navy. The amendment of the House to the bill was to repeal the statute which prohibits persons who served in the Confederate service from receiving appointments in the Army or Navy of the United States, which matter, under the rules of the Senate, requires consideration by the Committee on Military Affairs, and of which the Senate Committee on Pensions has no jurisdiction.

The Senate conferees have no objection, per se, to the matter embodied in the House amendment when coming through its proper committees but can not assume jurisdiction for the said reasons.

Therefore the managers on behalf of the House recommend that the House recede from the amendment and let pass the bill as it originally passed the Senate.

The report of the committee of conference was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. MARTIN, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

PRINTING EULOGIES ON HON. F. B. SPINOLA.

Mr. McKAIG. I rise to present a privileged report from the Committee on Printing.

The Clerk read as follows:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, July 13, 1891.

Mr. COCKRAN submitted the following, which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That there be printed of the eulogies delivered in Congress upon the Hon. Francis B.

Spinola, late a Representative from the State of New York, 8,000 copies, of which number 2,000 shall be delivered to the Senators and Representatives from the State of New York, which shall include 50 copies to be bound in full morocco to be delivered to the family of the deceased; and of those remaining, 2,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate and 4,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives; and the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to have engraved and printed a portrait of said Francis B. Spinola to accompany said eulogies.

The report of the committee recommending the adoption of the resolution was read.

Mr. DOCKERY. I desire to ask the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. McKAIG) whether this resolution is not a departure from time-honored custom in respect to the printing of eulogies? If I caught the reading of the resolution aught it provides for the distribution of a certain number of these eulogies to the Senators and Members from the State of New York. This is the first time within my knowledge that any such provision has been made. I think we had better adhere to what has been the uniform practice in the distribution of eulogies among Senators and Representatives. Doubtless members will be ready in this case, as they have been in former cases, to share their quotas with members from the State especially interested.

Mr. WASHINGTON. Or to make exchanges.

Mr. DOCKERY. I suggest that the gentleman from Maryland amend the resolution in that respect.

Mr. McKAIG. This resolution was sent to our committee in this form. In reporting it without amendment we had no intention to deprive members of the House of any of these eulogies which may according to the customary method of distribution belong to them.

Mr. DOCKERY. I ask the gentleman to accept an amendment striking out that portion of the resolution which provides for distributing a certain number to Senators and Representatives from the State of New York.

Mr. McKAIG. I am willing to accept that amendment.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Maryland will please indicate his amendment.

Mr. WASHINGTON. I suggest that the resolution be withdrawn until it can be properly amended.

The SPEAKER. It will have to be amended in several respects.

Mr. DOCKERY. I suggest that the gentleman withdraw it temporarily until it can be put in proper shape.

The SPEAKER. What is the wish of the gentleman from Maryland?

Mr. McKAIG. I do not see the necessity of withdrawing the resolution for the purpose of amending it, because it can be amended right here on its face by striking out the provision assigning 2,000 copies to Senators and Representatives from New York, so as to allow the 8,000 copies to be distributed pro rata.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman will examine the resolution he will find that it will require several amendments in order to accomplish that.

Mr. DINGLEY. Is this a privileged resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Chair understands that it is.

Mr. DINGLEY. Is it not simply to print eulogies? I do not understand that that relates to the business of the House.

Mr. McKAIG. I withdraw the resolution for the present.

Mr. DINGLEY. I object to anything except what comes in regular order.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is withdrawn.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCook, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had passed bills of the following titles; in which concurrence of the House was requested:

A bill (S. 1692) for the correction of the military record of Francis A. E. Briot;

A bill (S. 2379) for the relief of William R. Steinmetz;

A bill (S. 3368) to create a national highway commission and to prescribe its duties;

A bill (S. 1698) granting an increase of pension to Harrison De F. Young;

A bill (S. 342) granting a pension to Ellen Williams;

A bill (S. 3396) granting a pension to Col. William H. Browne;

A bill (S. 3253) granting a pension to Martha R. Hitchcock;

A bill (S. 1541) granting a pension to C. G. McKnight;

A bill (S. 3265) granting a pension to Marion C. Gurney;

A bill (S. 3150) granting a pension to Mrs. Mary Murry;

A bill (S. 3337) granting a pension to Sarah C. Holland;

A bill (S. 2648) granting a pension to Augustus G. Cary;

A bill (S. 2639) granting a pension to Catharine W. Tennis;

A bill (S. 3240) to facilitate the enforcement of the immigration and contract labor laws of the United States;

A bill (S. 2578) granting the use of certain lands in Wallawalla County, State of Washington, to the city of Wallawalla, for the purpose of a public park;

A bill (S. 2798) for the relief of Peter Light; third reading and passed may be reconsidered in order that I may move its indefinite postponement.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Oregon? The Chair hears none, and the votes are reconsidered.

Mr. MITCHELL. I move that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

The motion was agreed to.

WASHINGTON AND ARLINGTON RAILROAD.

Mr. HARRIS. In February, 1891, Congress granted a charter to the Washington and Arlington Railroad Company, giving a certain route from the Sixth-street depot, northwest, to the Aqueduct bridge, and along the Canal road from the Aqueduct bridge, up the river to a point opposite the Three Sisters, with authority to construct a bridge at the Three Sisters. They have a charter from Virginia also running to Arlington. Under that charter the company have proceeded to grade and to lay quite a good deal of track. At the present session of Congress the chairman of the District Committee and myself and some other members examined the route, and decided that we could not afford to allow any track to be laid on the Canal road, it being too narrow and too confined, and we have repealed so much of the charter as gave them the authority to construct that bridge and lay that track. It leaves the parties with that link missing.

The committee has reported a bill (S. 3448) to amend the charter of the Washington and Arlington Railroad Company, recognizing their old track from the Sixth-street depot to and along Virginia avenue to G street northwest, and with G street to the river, and authorizing them to cross thereby by ferry and connect with their work on the other side. If this bill can be passed to-day, I am assured it will become a law and relieve them from their embarrassment. I think it vitally important that it should be passed at once, and ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to continue its consideration. The bill has been read and the amendments agreed to. That is its status.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. GALLINGER. During the present session—

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from New Hampshire will suspend. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill indicated by the Senator from Tennessee?

Mr. GALLINGER. I desire to make an observation which may lead to an objection on my part. During the present session a bill has likewise been reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia to incorporate the Washington, Fairfax and Alexandria Railway Company, the incorporators being men of large means and entirely reliable in every way. That bill is on the Calendar and has had, I think, some consideration; at least the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER] undertook to get consideration for it.

The bill as amended, which the Senator from Tennessee wishes to call up, robs these incorporators of their right of way and practically obliterates them. They are men representing means. The other corporation is bankrupt; it is not able to-day to pay its office rent. I insist that if any corporation is to be given the right of way across the Three Sisters it should be the corporation which represents men of means and ability. I therefore must object to the present consideration of the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President—

Mr. COCKRELL. The Senator from New Hampshire is entirely mistaken in his supposition.

Mr. HARRIS. The routes of the two companies I understand do not conflict; but if we are to elect as between the two companies to-day we should consider the fact that in 1891 we improvidently granted to the Washington and Arlington Railroad Company a charter under which it has already expended many thousands of dollars.

Mr. COCKRELL. Subscribed by poor people here.

Mr. HARRIS. Subscribed by a large number of departmental employes living upon meager salaries. Many thousand dollars have been already expended. We have deemed it absolutely necessary to deprive them of this link in their line, which renders the work and the money they have put into the enterprise already utterly valueless. I say we owe it to them to give them this connection just so far as it is possible to do so without injury to the public. For that reason, and that reason only, I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to consider at this time the bill; and when the other bill is under consideration I shall have no objection to it. I have never objected to its consideration or its passage. If the gentlemen desire the charter referred to, I am in favor of giving it to them.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. GALLINGER. Very likely if I could believe, as the Senator from Tennessee does, that this road would be constructed, and that it would preserve and protect the rights of innocent holders of stock. I might entertain a different opinion from what I now do. I do not, however, view the matter in that light, and I therefore must insist on my objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made.

Mr. HARRIS. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill.

Mr. SHERMAN. I hope the Senator will not insist upon that at this time.

Mr. HARRIS. Very well, I shall not press the motion at this moment. There is a reason why I should not.

RELATIONS OF GOLD AND SILVER.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day.

The CHIEF CLERK. "A resolution by Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana, requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to report to the Senate certain information relative to the payment of customs duties and the currency system of the United States."

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. I ask leave to amend the resolution. At the end of line 2, add: "On the first Monday in December next;" so as to read:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby requested to report to the Senate on the first Monday in December next.

In line 11, in the second paragraph of the resolution, strike out the words "at the present time."

In line 20, in the third paragraph, strike out the words, "during the last three months" and insert:

What amount of bonds has been sold under the act entitled "An act to provide for redemption of specie payments," approved January 14, 1875, and what amount of gold and silver coin has been accumulated in the Treasury from the sale of said bonds; what amount of United States notes has been redeemed and reissued and what amount of said notes now probably remains in existence, and how much gold and silver remains in the Treasury from the sale of bonds for redemption purposes.

And in line 32, after the word "ratio," in the sixth paragraph, strike out the words "and conforming it to the market value of the two metals."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be so modified. The question is upon agreeing to the resolution as modified.

Mr. GIBSON of Louisiana. Mr. President, this is a resolution of inquiry. We are to hold an international conference or convention at Berlin for the purpose of considering the adoption of a bimetallic standard upon an international ratio. In the event that that convention should arrive at a satisfactory result between the leading nations of the world it will probably terminate the disparity between the gold coin and silver coin and bring both silver and gold into circulation and into use again among the leading nations of the world as standards of value as well as mediums of exchange. If that convention, however, should fail, which I think likely from the experience we have had in the last year, the Government will then be confronted with the question whether it may be possible to adopt a bimetallic standard—that is, establish a ratio between gold and silver coin—which will enable the Government of the United States and the people of the United States to preserve the parity between the two metals. We should then be in the situation that we were when the Government was first established under the administration of George Washington, when, on the advice of Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson, a mint was established and a ratio fixed between the two coins, conforming the ratio to their relative market or intrinsic value.

I do not propose to discuss this resolution at the present time, because it does not present any salient points for discussion. It merely asks the Secretary of the Treasury for certain information which we have already scattered about in different reports, but we desire it in a compact form, so that we may be able, in the discussion of the question which will arise then, to proceed with all the facts before us. All the elements of the problem to be solved will be then in our possession.

It is true that the fifth clause of the resolution requests the Secretary of the Treasury to suggest a plan of his own, a ratio between gold and silver in order to preserve a substantial equivalency between the coins of the two metals.

That is not generally customary in resolutions dealing with financial issues in either House of Congress, but the Secretary of the Treasury, whenever these questions are under consideration, is invited by the committee having the subject in charge to give his views; and I do not think any Senator will find fault if we invite the present Secretary of the Treasury to inform us not only what the situation is in the United States in relation to our metal currency, but also to give us any scheme, or plan, or suggestion he may have in order that we may solve this great question.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read as modified.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby requested to report to the Senate, on the first Monday in December next:

First, What proportion of the excise duties and internal revenue taxes, received within the last twelve months have been paid each month in gold coin, in standard silver dollars, in silver certificates, in United States notes, commonly called "greenbacks," in legal-tender Treasury notes issued under the act approved July 14, 1890, national bank notes, and gold certificates.

Second, The amount of gold coin and gold certificates in the Treasury of the United States, the amount of gold and of gold certificates held by the banks of the United States, and the total amount of gold coin in this country.

Third, Whether, under the act approved July 14, 1890, the Secretary of the Treasury has redeemed the notes issued thereunder for the purchase of silver bullion with gold coin or silver coin; what amount of said notes has already been redeemed in gold and silver coin respectively; what amount of bonds has been sold under the act entitled "An act to provide for redemption of specie payment," approved January 14, 1875, and what amount of gold and silver coin has been accumulated in the Treasury from the sale of said bonds; what amount of United States notes has been redeemed and reissued; and what amount of said notes now probably remains in existence, and how much gold or silver remains in the Treasury from the sale of bonds for redemption purposes.

Fourth, To report, as far as may be practicable, the amounts of gold and silver, respectively, held by the Bank of France, the Bank of Germany, and the Bank of England.

Fifth, To report what ratio should, in his judgment, be established between gold and silver in order to preserve a substantial equivalency between the coins of the two metals in the United States.

Sixth, Whether or not the bimetallic system adopted under the Administration of President Washington, and re-adjusted and maintained under the Administration of President Jackson, might again be established upon a stable basis by correcting the ratio either by increasing the metal in the silver unit or by decreasing the metal in the gold unit or by dividing the disparity between the two units and standards of value.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution as modified.

The resolution as modified was agreed to.

DISTRICT STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Mr. ALLISON. Some time ago the Senator from Delaware [Mr. HIGGINS] submitted a resolution relative to the proportional expenditure for streets, etc., in the District of Columbia, which resolution was referred to the Committee on Appropriations. The Commissioners of the District of Columbia, I believe, have already taken notice of this resolution and have prepared an answer to it, which I think is of some value. The Committee on Appropriations some time ago authorized me to report the resolution favorably, but in the multitude of other affairs pressing upon me I neglected to do so. I now report the resolution from that committee, and I am able to say that within a day or two the information sought for will be furnished.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution submitted by Mr. HIGGINS March 15, 1892, as follows:

Whereas for the last three fiscal years, 1889, 1890, and 1891, the aggregate sum of $3,654,262.45 has been appropriated by Congress for the improvement of the streets, avenues, alleys, etc., of the District of Columbia, to wit:

1. For work on sundry streets, avenues, etc.	$2,000,000.00
2. For repairs to concrete pavements, etc.	400,000.00
3. For grading streets, alleys, and roads, etc.	50,000.00
4. For current work of repairs of streets, avenues, and alleys.	120,000.00
5. For current work of repairs on county roads and suburban streets.	155,000.00
6. For constructing county roads and suburban streets, etc.	991,102.45
7. For condemnation of streets, roads, and alleys.	20,000.00
8. For permit work on alleys, sidewalks, and sewers, etc.	280,000.00
9. For the contingent expenses of the parking commission.	54,000.00

Aggregating, as above stated, 3,654,262.45

And whereas in the appropriation and expenditure thereof six sectional divisions of the District have been recognized, to wit: Each of the four quarters of the city of Washington, the city of Georgetown, and the county outside of said cities; and

Whereas it appears that portions of said items of appropriation have been expended for miscellaneous incidental expenses, not expressly specified in said appropriations; and

Whereas much complaint has been made of the partial and inequitable apportionment and distribution of said expenditures under said appropriations; Therefore,

It is resolved, That the District Commissioners are hereby respectfully requested to furnish the United States Senate with a statement of the amount or portion of said aggregate sum of $3,654,262.45 expended in each of said six divisions, and the amount thereof remaining unexpended; and showing in detail the amount thereof expended for the specific improvements contemplated by the said appropriations respectively, exclusive of incidental expenses, but giving separately the amount of each class of incidental expenses paid out of said appropriations including those for inspection, wagon repairs, horseshoeing, forage, etc. Also the amount thereof paid for sewerage and of item second the amount for resurfacing and for minor repairs respectively, so as to show precisely how much of said aggregate sum of $3,654,262.45 has actually been expended in each of said six divisions, and for what specific purpose.

Mr. ALLISON. I ask for the present consideration of the resolution.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

MRS. LAURA E. SKEELS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no further morning business, that order is closed, and the Calendar under Rule VII is in order.

Mr. QUAY. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of Order of Business H28, being House bill 1742, a pension bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (H. R. 1742) for the relief of Mrs. Laura E. Skeels. It proposes to pay to Mrs. Laura E. Skeels the accrued pension which was due her mother, Mrs. Nancy M. Elmendorf, under pension certificate 18943, after deducting the amount already paid under section 4718, Revised Statutes, as reimbursed for funeral expenses.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MATTHEW S. PRIEST.

Mr. SHERMAN. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of Senate bill 1597.

Mr. MITCHELL. I shall not object to this bill, but after this I give notice that I shall insist on going on with the Calendar of unbusinessed cases.

Mr. SHERMAN. This is a little bill reported by the Senator himself.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 1597) for the relief of Matthew S. Priest.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Claims with amendments.

The first amendment was, in section 1, line 3, after the words "sum of," to strike out "six hundred" and insert "two hundred and seventy-five;" and in line 8, before the word "day," to strike out "twenty-seventh" and insert "seventeenth;" so as to make the section read:

That the sum of $75 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated to compensate Matthew S. Priest for services rendered by him for the Government of the United States from the 16th day of March 1861 to the 17th day of August 1861 as cozier of the steamers Silver Wave and Moberg on in passing the batteries of Vicksburg, Warrenton and Grand Gulf and for repairing steamers.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was to strike out section 2, as follows:

Sec. 2. That the sum hereby appropriated is made immediately available.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

TIMBER-CULTURE LAWS.

Mr. MANDELSON. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Senate bill 2564.

There being no objection, the bill (S. 2564) to amend section 6 of the act approved March 3, 1891, entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," was considered as in the Committee of the Whole. It proposes to amend section 6 of an act approved March 3, 1891, entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," so as to read:

SEC. 6. That section 6 of the act of September 2, 1890, entitled "An act to amend section 6 of the act of March 3, 1891, entitled 'An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes,' and for other purposes," be and the same is hereby amended so as to read:

SEC. 204. Nothing in this chapter or in this act shall be construed as to prevent any person who is the owner or tenant in fee of the benefits of section 2180 from paying the minimum price for the quantity of land so entered at any time after the expiration of fourteen calendar months from the date of such entry, and obtaining a patent therefor upon the expiration of settlement and of residence and cultivation for such period or between months; and the provisions of this section shall apply to lands on the ceded portion of the Sioux Reservation by an act approved March 2, 1891, in Santa Barbara and in the State of Texas, and shall not relate said States to any payments now required by law.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

APPOINTMENTS IN STAFF CORPS OF THE ARMY.

Mr. PROCTOR. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of Senate bill 2013.

There being no objection, the bill (S. 2013) providing that appointments in staff corps be made from the line of the Army, was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It provides that all vacancies in the grade of major in the Adjutant-General's, Inspector-General's, and Judge-Advocate-General's, and Pay Corps of the Army shall be filled by selection from the captains of the line of the Army, and all vacancies in the grade of captain in the Quartermaster's and Commissary Departments shall be filled by selection from first lieutenants of the line of the Army.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MARY A. SWIFT.

Mr. DAVIS. I ask unanimous consent that Order of Business No. 841, being the bill (S. 3922) for the relief of Mary A. Swift, be now considered.

ago. This House was instructed by the gentleman from Indiana in debate, page 6014 of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, and in colloquy with my colleague from Pennsylvania [Mr. O'NEILL] some weeks ago that Henry Winter Davis during the period of the war reported a disagreement with the Senate upon the sundry civil bill, moved that the House adhere, and the House did adhere, and then allowed the bill to fail. With the gentleman's long experience in legislation I say to him that that remark, to my mind, was purposely and deliberately uttered, and directly with a view to this very conclusion and result.

A further fact for the gentleman: The sundry civil bill was reported to the House March 21; the deficiency bill was reported to the House June 18; the sundry civil bill passed the House May 27; the deficiency bill passed the House a month later, June 27. The sundry civil bill passed the Senate July 14; the deficiency bill passed the Senate July 18. The proper legislative relation of the bills to each other continued up to that time.

Why then and there this change by shunting your deficiency bill ahead of your sundry civil bill? The conference was ordered on the sundry civil bill July 19; you ordered the conference on your deficiency bill July 19. The conferees agreed partially on the deficiency bill July 21; the conferees agreed partially on the sundry civil bill July 25. The deficiency bill was finally agreed upon July 26; the conferees reported to the House on the sundry civil bill July 26. I say to the gentleman, with his long training in legislative affairs that he deliberately uttered the remark referred to and prepared this House for the failure of the sundry civil bill should it be necessary to carry out his purposes by citing the precedent of Henry Winter Davis, and this is to be taken in connection with the further fact that deliberately you shunted the relation of the deficiency bill, which should have been the last bill, and placed it ahead of the sundry civil bill.

I yield the remainder of my time to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HOPKINS].

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from New York [Mr. CUMMINGS] in his speech this morning, after what the House has seen here for the last few days under his leadership, is a splendid illustration of the sayings of Shakespeare, that "The devil can quote scripture for his purpose," and "That one may smile and smile and be a villain."

Mr. CUMMINGS. You had better study the Scriptures a little.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. Everybody knows who has been present in the House during these proceedings that the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations [Mr. HOLMAN] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. CUMMINGS] are, more than any other men, responsible for the condition in which this Government finds itself to-day. Nearly a week ago the House agreed to the amendment proposed by the Senate to the sundry civil bill providing for the World's Fair by a good majority. By that vote they said that an appropriation should be made to carry on the National Exposition in the city of Chicago. The chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, in violation of all the precedents that we have had in this country, made a motion after that vote was taken that led to these dilatory proceedings, and under his action and under his advice this unprecedented condition of affairs has been reached.

What is the condition, Mr. Speaker? The great appropriation bill that takes care of the public printing, that takes care of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, that takes care of the Life-Saving Service and the soldiers' homes, and various other matters important in the affairs of the Government, has been tied up for nearly a week by the agency of the gentleman from Indiana, the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, and the gentleman from New York who has just addressed the House. They knew when they commenced their dilatory tactics or this system of filibustering, that on Saturday of last week the appropriations would expire. They knew as well as anybody can know anything that if this bill did not get through, the wheels of the Government, so far as these bureaus were concerned, would have to stop, and yet with a full knowledge of all these facts Mr. HOLMAN of Indiana has sat here day after day not only not protesting against these unprecedented tactics of his party associates, but actually aiding and encouraging them in it. The country will hold him and his party associates responsible.

[Here the hammer fell.]

Mr. HOLMAN. We could not anticipate that any gentleman on either side of the House would object to the usual resolution to extend the appropriations to carry on the business of the Government.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. You could be prepared for anything from what your side has been doing lately.

Mr. HOLMAN. I yield the remainder of my time to the gentleman from Tennessee.

Mr. BOWERS. You would not allow a vote on your own motion.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, let it not be forgotten that the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HOPKINS] who has just taken his seat is the man who has caused the wheels of this Government to stop for this day. [Derisive laughter from the Republican side.]

Sir, there is nothing new in this situation which should have caused him to prevent the passage of the resolution last week extending the appropriations. It has been the custom every Congress, at least of the seven of which I have been a member, during the long sessions, to extend the appropriation bills before the regular annual appropriation bills could be prepared and agreed upon. The capacity of statement of a proposition for which the gentleman from Maine [Mr. REED] is proverbial can not disguise this fact. The fact stands out that the Congress he organized, the Congress over which he presided, extended the appropriations by the consent of the whole House after the first day of August. Yet no fuss was made about and no objection made to it. It was then thought and conceded to be an eminently proper thing.

Mr. DOCKERY. This very bill did not pass the House until the 17th of August.

Mr. REED. But the appropriations were not extended in deference to filibusters.

Mr. McMILLIN. The appropriations were extended in the absence of appropriations. That is the vital point, and the only point here.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have stated that there is nothing new in this situation. The sundry civil bill provided appropriations for the Departments of the Government to which the gentleman from Illinois has referred with such pathos. It went to the Senate, and that body put an extraordinary, an unusual as well as an uncalled-for and unnecessary appropriation upon it. It came back here, and when the vote was taken on that proposition the appropriation was defeated by a decisive majority. Then there was a large reduction in the attendance of the membership of the House. On the second vote the majority was reversed.

Mr. BLANCHARD. After the lobby had got in its work.

Mr. McMILLIN. A motion to reconsider that vote was entered and has not yet been disposed of. Then the two Houses, being unable to agree, the usual resolution to extend the appropriations was brought in and objected to by a gentleman on the other side. There is where the responsibility rests.

Mr. REED. Will the gentleman allow me to interrupt him for a moment?

Mr. McMILLIN. I have but a very brief time.

Mr. REED. I merely wish to ask if the gentleman is correct in saying that there was a less vote on the Senate proposition on the last vote than on the first?

Mr. McMILLIN. I said the majority was reversed, and I think the total vote was less on the last vote than on the first.

Mr. REED. I understood the gentleman to say that there was a smaller vote.

Mr. McMILLIN. Now, Mr. Speaker, as my time is limited, I must state this case, so that the responsibility can rest where it belongs. The usual resolution was offered here last Saturday. It was attempted to be passed in the usual way. There never has been an objection to such a resolution. No man here, old or young, had ever seen opposition proposed to one; but the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HOPKINS] virtually said to the House, "You either give that $5,000,000 to the World's Fair, or you do not get any appropriation." And because he could not get the five millions, he stopped the other necessary appropriations. That is the situation here.

A MEMBER. That is true.

Mr. McMILLIN. That is true, and the country knows it.

Mr. BLANCHARD. And that is the argument of a highwayman.

Mr. McMILLIN. It was the power that he had; and the wheels of the Government were stopped because the gentleman from Illinois said that unless we gave an unusual, uncalled-for, unnecessary appropriation, hatched on as a rider in violation of precedent by the Senate of the United States, we should not have money to print that luminous, voluminous, and delightful document known as the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. [Laughter.]

Now, Mr. Speaker, suppose they had put the force bill upon this bill. [Derisive laughter upon the Republican side.] The gentleman from Illinois would have had the same capacity on Saturday to say, "If you do not pass the force bill you shall not have any appropriation." If they had put on a bill making an appropriation to build a railroad, he could with the same appropriateness have said, "You will build the railroad or you shall not have that appropriation." That is the situation here, and it can not be disguised. Now, why not in a business-like way meet this business situation? Why not make appropriations for a period until the two Houses can come together? That is what this resolution seeks. That is what the gentleman from Indiana is making an effort to do, and yet my friend from Illinois [Mr. HORTON] brings out Shakespeare in a most ludicrous way and quotes him on Judge HOLMAN. The truth is, the gentleman from Illinois has this morning all the melancholy madness of poetry without its inspiration. [Laughter.]

[Here the humor fell.]

The SPEAKER. The question is upon agreeing to the resolution of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] to suspend the rules and pass the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to (two-thirds voting in favor thereof).

SENATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER laid before the House bills and resolutions of the following titles: which were read a first and second time, and referred to their appropriate committees as indicated below:

A bill (S. 2955) granting an increase of pension to John Kinney—to the Committee on Pensions;

A bill (S. 3109) to amend the act incorporating the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company—to the Committee on the District of Columbia;

A bill (S. 2410) to authorize the purchase of the library of historical manuscripts and printed books belonging to the estate of the late George Bancroft—to the Committee on the Library;

A bill (S. 3117) relating to post traderships—to the Committee on Military Affairs;

A bill (S. 680) to authorize the purchase of Lawrie's and Price's portraits of Gen. George H. Thomas—to the Committee on the Library;

A bill (S. 2292) to accept and ratify an agreement made with the confederated tribes and bands of India occupying the Yakima Reservation, in the State of Washington, for the extinguishment of their title to so much of said reservation as is required for the use of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and to make the necessary appropriations for carrying out the same—to the Committee on Indian Affairs;

Joint resolution (S. R. 412) to print and bind 1,000 extra copies each of the Drill Regulations for Infantry, Cavalry, and Artillery—to the Committee on Military Affairs; and Concurrent resolution relative to printing 1,000 copies of the report of the survey made pursuant to the act of March 2, 1891—to the Committee on Printing.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE REPRESENTATIVE CRAIG.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. REILLY] has a resolution respecting the committee appointed to attend the funeral of the late Representative Craig, which resolution the Clerk will report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives is hereby authorized and directed to take charge of the funeral of the late Hon. Alexander K. Craig, and that all necessary expenses incurred thereby be paid out of the contingent funds of the House of Representatives, and that the disbursing officer of the Clerk of the House is hereby directed to pay the same upon the presentation of the proper voucher, approved by him.

The resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. REILLY, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCook, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment the bill (H. R. 1742) for the relief of Mrs. Laura E. Skeels.

It also announced that the Senate had passed bills and joint resolutions of the following titles: in which the concurrence of the House was requested:

A bill (S. 1557) to compensate Elihu Root for services rendered by direction of the Attorney-General;

A bill (S. 1597) for the relief of Mathew S. Priest;

A bill (S. 2128) for the relief of John S. Sammis;

A bill (S. 3013) providing that appointments in staff corps be made from the line of the Army;

A bill (S. 3026) to mark the birthplace of James Madison, fourth President of the United States;

A bill (S. 3042) to provide for leave of absence to certain members of the Grand Army of the Republic during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in the city of Washington, D. C., during the month of September, 1892, and for other purposes;

A bill (S. 2564) to amend section 6 of an act approved March 3, 1891, entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes";

Joint resolution (S. R. 113) providing for the printing of the Agricultural Report for 1892; and Joint resolution (S. R. 114) to continue provisions of a joint resolution approved Jan. 30, 1892, entitled "A joint resolution to provide temporarily for the expenditures of the Government."

It also announced that the Senate had passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Senate has heard with deep sensibility the announcement of the death of Hon. A. K. Craig, late a Representative from the State of Pennsylvania.

Resolved, That a committee of three Senators be appointed by the Vice-President to join the committee appointed on the part of the House of Representatives, to attend the funeral of the deceased.

Resolved, That the Secretary communicate these resolutions to the House of Representatives.

Resolved, That as an additional mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, the Senate do now adjourn.

And in compliance with the foregoing resolutions, the Vice-President had appointed as said committee Mr. CAMERON, Mr. CAREY, and Mr. GORMAN.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. KENDALL, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. CLOVER, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. COOMBS, for three days, on account of sickness.

To Mr. LOCKWOOD, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. CAUSEY, for two days, on account of sickness.

To Mr. PAGE of Rhode Island, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

To Mr. WINN, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. ANDREW, by unanimous consent, leave was granted to withdraw from the files of the House without leaving copies the papers in the case of Dabney, Simmons & Co.

On motion of Mr. ANDREW, unanimous consent was granted to withdraw from the files of the House papers in the case of Phillip T. Greely, without leaving copies of the same.

LEAVE TO PRINT.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. ENLOE] asks leave to extend in the Record his remarks on the report of the committee on the investigation of the Pension Office.

Mr. ATKINSON. I object to the extension of the remarks of Mr. ENLOE on the investigation of the Pension Office.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the gentleman from Pennsylvania that like leave was granted to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BROOKS].

Mr. ATKINSON. That being the case, I will withdraw my objection.

The SPEAKER. Is there further objection?

There was no objection.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCook, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment joint resolution (H. Res. 159) to continue the provisions of existing laws providing temporarily for the expenditures of the Government.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled a joint resolution and bill of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

Joint resolution (H. Res. 159) to continue the provisions of existing laws providing temporarily for the expenditures of the Government; and,

A bill (H. R. 7204) granting pensions to army nurses.

RECEPTION IN THE ROTUNDA OF THE CAPITOL DURING GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT.

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the resolution recommended by the Committee on Military Affairs which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Alabama moves to suspend the rules and pass the resolution, which the Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That permission is hereby granted to the ladies of Washington to give a reception in the Rotunda of the Capitol, September 14, 1892, to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Women's Relief Corps, and all other visiting organizations who may attend the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in September next.

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. There is an amendment which is sanctioned by the committee.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will have to incorporate it as part of his motion.

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. By unanimous consent that could be done.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman can include it in the motion.

It also announced that the Senate had passed the bill (S. 3314) for the relief of E. Darwin Gage, late lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and forty-eighth New York Infantry; in which the concurrence of the House was requested.

SUNDRY CIVIL APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. BINGHAM. I demand the regular order.
The SPEAKER. The regular order is the further consideration of the Senate amendments to the sundry civil appropriation bill. The gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] moves to reconsider the vote by which the House receded from its disagreement to the Senate amendments; and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BINGHAM] moves to lay that motion on the table, and on that demands the yeas and nays.

Mr. BUTLER. I move that the House do now adjourn, and pending that I move that when it adjourns it be to meet on Thursday next.

Mr. DINGLEY. Is that the decision of the caucus last night?

Mr. BAILEY. I move to amend the motion of the gentleman from Iowa by striking out Thursday and substituting Friday.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Would it be in order to substitute for all of these motions a motion that the House now adjourn?

The SPEAKER. There is pending a motion to adjourn.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I know, but it is tied up with several other motions. Has not the House the right to come directly to a vote on that motion?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the gentleman that unless the absence of a quorum is disclosed, the question would first come up on fixing the time to which the House should adjourn. Of course, if the want of a quorum should be disclosed, then the House would have the right to adjourn, or to order a call of the House.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. My inquiry is whether it is not in order to move, as a substitute for all pending motions, that the House do now adjourn?

The SPEAKER. The Chair thinks not. The question is on the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BAILEY].

Mr. DOCKERY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the House take a recess for fifteen minutes.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. What is the object of that?

The SPEAKER. Pending that the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. DOCKERY] asks unanimous consent to take a recess for fifteen minutes.

Mr. BROWN. What is the object of that?

The SPEAKER. The Chair is not informed.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Well, let it go.

The SPEAKER. Without objection, then, the House will take a recess for fifteen minutes.

Accordingly (at 11 o'clock and 15 minutes a. m.) the House took a recess until 11 o'clock and 30 minutes a. m.

The recess having expired, the Speaker resumed the chair.

Mr. BANKHEAD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that we take an informal recess for half an hour. I think it is quite likely we can accomplish more in that way than by continuing the proceedings.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Alabama asks unanimous consent that the House take a recess, preserving the existing status, for thirty minutes.

Mr. KILGORE. Does that vacate the motions which have been made?

The SPEAKER. It does not.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. It leaves everything in statu quo.

The SPEAKER. Yes. Is there objection to the request?

There was no objection.

Accordingly (at 11 o'clock and 30 minutes a. m.) the House took a further recess until 12 m.

The recess having expired, the Speaker resumed the chair.

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take a recess for one hour. As is known, efforts are being made to come to a conclusion, and those efforts will probably be furthered as much by taking a recess as by continuing in session.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. There is no objection to that. That is right.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. McMILLIN] asks unanimous consent to take a recess for one hour, matters to retain their present status. Without objection the Chair will declare the House in recess for one hour.

There was no objection.

Accordingly (at 12 o'clock and 1 minute p. m.) the House took a recess to 1 o'clock and 1 minute p. m.

The recess having expired, the Speaker resumed the chair.

The SPEAKER. The recess having expired, the House will resume its session. The Chair will state the question before the House exactly as it was at the time when the recess was taken by unanimous consent. The gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN] moves to reconsider the vote by which the House receded from its disagreement to the Senate amendments to the sundry civil bill. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BINGHAM] moves to lay that motion on the table, and on that demands the yeas and nays. Pending that the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. BUTLER] moves that the House do now adjourn, and that when it adjourns it adjourn to meet on Thursday next. The gentleman from Texas [Mr. BAILEY] moves to strike out Thursday and substitute Friday; so that the question for the House to determine is on the latter motion, that when the House adjourns to-day it adjourn to meet on Friday next.

The question being taken, the Speaker announced that the yeas seemed to have it.

On a division (demanded by Mr. KILGORE) there were—yeas 2, noes 72.

Mr. KILGORE. A quorum has not voted, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will appoint as tellers the gentleman from Texas [Mr. KILGORE] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BINGHAM].

Mr. LANHAM. Would it be in order to move a call of the House?

The SPEAKER. It would.

Mr. LANHAM. I move a call of the House.

A call of the House was ordered.

The Clerk proceeded to call the roll, when the following members failed to answer to their names:

Joint resolution (H. Res. 159) to continue the provisions of existing laws providing temporarily for the expenditures of the Government;

An act (H. R. 3156) to correct the military record of James Corridon, Fourth United States Infantry; and

An act (H. R. 2932) for the relief of Charles T. Garrard.

LEAVE TO PRINT TESTIMONY.

The SPEAKER. As the roll has been interrupted, the Chair will ask, in behalf of the committee investigating the charges made by Mr. WATSON, for leave to print the testimony taken in the case. Without objection the order will be made.

There was no objection.

CALL OF THE HOUSE.

The SPEAKER. The doors will be considered as closed without objection. The Clerk will now call the names of those gentlemen who failed to respond, and on this call excuses may be offered.

The roll was again called.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. TAYLOR] desires to be excused this day on account of sickness. The gentleman from Florida [Mr. BULLOCK] also requests indefinite leave of absence on account of sickness. Without objection these gentlemen will be excused.

There was no objection.

Mr. SMITH of Illinois. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. HENDERSON] left here a short time ago sick, and desires to be excused. He will return if necessary to make a quorum.

There was no objection.

Mr. BARWIG. Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. MILLER] is absent on account of sickness. I ask indefinite leave of absence for him on that account.

There was no objection.

Mr. BOATNER. Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. BLANCH-

ARD] is absent on important business in the city of New York. I ask that he be excused.

There was no objection.

Mr. MEYER. Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. PRICE] is absent in New York for the day on important business. I ask that he be excused for the day.

There was no objection.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. Speaker, my colleague [Mr. SEERLEY] is absent on the committee attending the funeral of Mr. Craig.

The SPEAKER. That is equivalent to an excuse.

Mr. PAGE of Maryland. I ask that my colleague [Mr. COMPTON] be excused on account of sickness.

There was no objection.

Mr. CAMINETTI. The gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. JOHNSON] took my place on the committee to attend the funeral of Mr. Craig. I ask that he be excused.

There was no objection.

Mr. LANHAM. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution, and ask the previous question upon it.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the resolution.

Mr. BOATNER. Will the gentleman from Texas yield a moment and permit me to request an order to print? It will only take a little time.

The SPEAKER. The order to print has been granted.

Mr. WHEELER of Alabama. Before that resolution is offered I would ask that members of committees having reports to make may be permitted to file them.

The SPEAKER. This is under a call of the House and the Chair can not entertain that request.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the condition of the public business imperatively demands the immediate presence of all absent members of the House. That the Speaker be, and he is hereby, authorized and requested to urge upon all absentees to return at once. That all leaves of absence heretofore granted are revoked. That if any absent member shall fail to return, or notify the Speaker that they are en route to the Capitol within the next two days, the Sergeant-at-Arms shall, in person or by deputy, proceed at once to the residence of such absent members and enforce their attendance, the expenses of the Sergeant-at-Arms and his deputies in such service to be paid out of the contingent fund of the House.

The previous question was ordered, and under the operation thereof the resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. LANHAM, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was passed was laid on the table.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution, and upon it I demand the previous question.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That except as to the revocation of leaves of absence and the arrest by the Sergeant-at-Arms of absent members of the House heretofore entered all further proceedings under the call of the House be, and the same are hereby, dispensed with.

The previous question was ordered; and under the operation thereof the resolution was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The question occurs on the motion of the gentleman from Texas, that when the House adjourns it be to meet on Friday next.

The question was taken; and the Speaker announced that the yeas seemed to have it.

Mr. BAILEY. Division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 7, noes 65.

Mr. BAILEY. No quorum, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I move that the House do now adjourn. I believe that motion is now in order.

The motion was agreed to; and accordingly at 1 o'clock and 31 minutes p. m. the House adjourned.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Under clause 2 of Rule XII, private bills were severally reported from committees, delivered to the Clerk, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House, as follows:

By Mr. ATKINSON, from the Committee on Claims: A bill (S. 3115) for the relief of Clement Reeves. (Report No. 2117.)

By Mr. WHEELER of Alabama, from the Committee on Military Affairs: A bill (H. R. 2119) for the relief of Bvt. Lieut. Col. J. Madison Cutts. (Report No. 2118.)

PRIVATE BILLS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills of the following titles were presented and referred as indicated below:

By Mr. GATE: A bill (H. R. 9938) for the relief of F. B. Toms and Sallie T. Harris—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. FUNSTON: A bill (H. R. 9939) to pension Thomas E. Rochester—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. GOODNIGHT: A bill (H. R. 9700) for the relief of A. and S. Floyd, of Bowling Green, Ky.—to the Committee on War Claims.

* * * to be equitably distributed among the Atlantic, Mexican, Gulf, and Pacific ports," and divides the steamships into four classes according to construction, speed, and tonnage, and provides that the rate of compensation for such services per mile shall not exceed $4 for the first class nor $2 for the second class by the shortest practicable route for each outward-bound voyage, nor $1 for third class, nor 65 cents for the fourth class for the actual number of miles required by the Post-Office Department to be traveled on each outward-bound voyage. In the Post-Office appropriation law for the fiscal year 1892 the amount for transportation of foreign mails was increased over the estimate of December 1, 1890, by $197,010. The amount which may be required to meet the contracts the Postmaster-General may make for the fiscal year 1892 and subsequent years will depend entirely upon the number of steamships so contracted with. It is safe to say that the amount for 1892 will exceed the appropriation and will increase from year to year for years to come, for there is no limit to the time when the Postmaster-General shall make contracts, the only limitation being as to the length of contract from the time made.

MINOR INDEFINITE MATTERS.

"An act to provide for the adjudication and payment of claims arising from Indian depredations," approved March 3, 1891, confers upon the Court of Claims jurisdiction to adjudicate such claims and render judgments therein against the United States, and the band or tribe of Indians committing the wrong, if identified, to be paid from annuities of Indians, if any, and if not, then by the United States. The estimate of the aggregate of such claims varies from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. The future alone will disclose for what amounts and during what years the Court of Claims may render judgments in such cases.

In the deficiency appropriation law of March 3, 1891, $1,291,655.37 was appropriated to pay the findings of the Court of Claims on the particular claims therein named for indemnity for spoiliations by the French prior to July 1, 1801. These were only a small part of the aggregate of all such claims.

The cost of the public buildings authorized to be erected by the Fifty-first Congress, as fixed and limited in the respective laws and the increase of cost made by the Fifty-first Congress on public buildings previously authorized over and above the limit of cost fixed in the original laws, amount to $17,046,635.51, and the appropriations made to $8,886,639.54, leaving $8,160,000 to be appropriated hereafter. This does not include the New York custom-house, authorized to be sold for not less than $1,000,000 and the proceeds appropriated to the construction of new buildings. The river and harbor appropriation law of the last Congress authorizes contracts to be made for the construction, etc., of the works at Galveston, Tex., St. Mary's River, Hay Lake Channel, Philadelphia and Baltimore, estimated to cost $16,122,979, and only appropriated $4,791,200, leaving $11,331,779 to be provided hereafter.

THE PENSION QUESTION.

Under the pension law of June 27, 1890, over 600,000 applications have been filed and hundreds are being filed daily. Many of these applications are by applicants or pensioners at low rates under the old law.

The actual expenditures from the Treasury for pensions for the years named have been as follows:

For 1885	$56,102,367.49	For 1888	$80,288,508.77
For 1886	65,404,861.03	For 1889	87,624,759.11
For 1887	75,029,191.79	For 1890	105,936,855.07

The appropriations for 1891 are $127,593,959.31 and for 1892 are $135,214,785.

Will there be a pension deficiency for 1892, and an increase in the aggregate amount of all the pensions for several years thereafter? Known facts answer yes.

The increases for several years past have been as follows: In 1889 over 1888, $7,336,270.34; 1890 over 1889, $19,512,076.05; 1891 over 1890, $20,856,501.27; and for 1892, according to the estimates submitted in December, 1890, and appropriated for the increase over 1891 is only $7,421,725.65.

No claims under the law of June 27, 1890, are included in that fiscal year. Three to four months of the fiscal year 1891 passed before the Pension Office was fairly organized for work on the claims under the new law. If the Pension Office shall dispose of the hundreds of thousands of pending claims with dispatch and promptness there will be a deficiency for 1892 and considerable increase for years to come under existing laws.

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The actual expenditures of the Post-Office Department, including revenues and cash from Treasury, have been as follows: For 1889, $36,543,803.68; for 1888, $51,004,743.80; for 1889, $62,317,119.36; for 1890, $66,254,517.81; and the appropriations are for 1891 $72,224,038.90, and for 1892 $77,907,722.61. The liabilities for 1893 and 1894 and subsequent years, by reason of new lines of railroads, new post-offices, and star-route service, free-delivery service, and the ocean mail service under the law before referred to, will be largely increased.

OFFICES CREATED; SALARIES INCREASED.

The Fifty-first Congress created 1,951 new specific offices, with specific salaries amounting to $2,359,715, and omitted or abolished 246 specific offices, with specific salaries amounting to $300,864.18, leaving 1,705 as the net increase of new specific offices, with specific salaries amounting to $2,058,850.82. It increased the salaries of 1,218 offices by $251,353.12 and reduced or decreased the salaries of 12 specific offices by $3,628.30, leaving 1,206 specific offices with a net increase of their salaries amounting to $217,724.82 annually. The salaries of the net increase in new specific offices and the net increase of salaries in specific offices will amount to the sum of $2,296,075.64.

It also appropriated the amount of $2,943,351.50 for new offices created by increase of appropriation or other law without specifying the number of such offices or the amount of each salary, and withheld or omitted appropriating $41,240 for offices without specifying the number or the salary of each, leaving a net increase of $2,904,111.50 annually. The aggregate of such new offices, salaries, and increase of salaries is an increase of $5,197,187.14 annually.

ESTIMATES FOR APPROPRIATIONS.

The Secretary of the Treasury will submit to the first and second regular sessions of the Fifty-second Congress in December, 1891 and 1892, respectively, his Book of Estimates of the amounts of all appropriations required for the administration of the Government under the existing laws for each of the fiscal years 1893 and 1894, respectively, and also all estimates for deficiencies for the fiscal years 1892 and 1893, respectively. The estimates of each Department for its entire service will be made out by such Department and submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, who will consolidate all the estimates and submit them in one book to Congress. These estimates will form the basis from which the House will make the various appropriation bills for the different Departments. The aggregate amount of the permanent annual appropriations for each year, though not specified or named in any annual appropriation law, will be charged to that session of Congress and be added to the aggregate appropriations of such session as I have before explained. It is safe to assume that these estimates by Republican officials for their own administration will be amply sufficient to cover all expenditures under existing laws without any deficiencies.

ACTUAL CONDITIONS.

Briefly stated, these are some of the actual conditions which will confront the Fifty-second and any subsequent Congresses.

We are hearing the advocates of a new party, a third party, a self-styled reform party, denouncing the Democratic as well as the Republican party for failures to redeem their pledges and as no longer fit to be trusted.

The Republican party during the past Fifty-first Congress had absolute control and power of the Executive and in both Houses of Congress. Their record shows the manner in which they have redeemed their pledges by the billion appropriations and extravagant legislation, creating new liabilities for the future and mortgages upon the labor of the country. What has the Democratic party done or omitted to do to justify such charges? Nothing. To the extent of our power, and consequently our responsibility, we have redeemed our pledges and kept inviolate our promises.

At no one time nor during any one Congress since March 4, 1801, has the Democratic party had control of Congress in both Houses and of the Executive. Our party had control only of the House during the Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Congresses, from March 4, 1875, to March 4, 1878; the Senate and Executive being Republican. During the Forty-sixth Congress, from March 4, 1879, to March 4, 1881, we had control of Congress in both Houses by small majorities, the Executive being Republican. During the Forty-seventh Congress, from March 4, 1881, to March 4, 1883, the Republican party had control of Congress and the Executive. During the Forty-eighth Congress, from March 4, 1883, to March 4, 1885, we had control of the House only, with a Republican Senate and Executive.

During the Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Congresses, from March 4, 1885, to March 4, 1887, we had control of the House and the Executive, with a Republican Senate. During the Fifty-first Congress, from March 4, 1889, to March 4, 1891, the Republican party had full control of the Congress and the Executive. During the Fifty-second Congress, from March 4, 1891, to March 4, 1893, we will control the House and have a Republican President and Senate. At no time, therefore, has the Democratic party had full power to enact any law. Any bill, whether originating in the House or Senate, must before it can become a law, be passed by each House and approved by the Executive or it vetoed, be passed over the veto by two-thirds of each House.

THE PEOPLE MUST CONSIDER.

Our Democratic House of the Fifty-second Congress has no power to enact law or to repeal, amend, or modify any existing law without the approval of the Republican Senate and Executive. The House has the exclusive right to originate all bills for raising revenue, but the Senate has the same rights of amendment as on other bills. The House exercises the right to originate the appropriation bills, but the Senate has full power of amendment and equal power with the House in passing all bills and if no agreement can be reached the bill fails.

The sovereign people as well as the Democratic members of the Fifty-second Congress should calmly and dispassionately consider and understand in advance the serious conditions growing out of the appropriations and laws of the billion Congress and the Republican control still of the Senate and of the Executive, which must be met and removed before any very great reductions can be made in the apparent aggregate of appropriations and the expenditures of the Government be reduced to that economical and legitimate basis demanded by the best interests of our Government and of the great masses of the people.

Notwithstanding the very serious obstacles confronting us, our Democratic House must and will, to the fullest possible extent of its powers, fearlessly reduce the appropriations to the lowest amount absolutely required for an economical and honest administration of our Government, and force into practical operation the true Jeffersonian Democratic principle of economy in the public expense that labor may be lightly burdened, and for every dollar of reductions made will be entitled to high praise and honor. The Democratic minority of the Senate will doubtless heartily and earnestly cooperate with the Democratic majority of the House in securing the enforcement of the cardinal principle of our party.

I know I shall gladly do so as a member of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, and if any Democratic Senator can do more than I can and will to secure reductions of expenditures, or will devote his time and labor more constantly and earnestly to the onerous duties of that committee, I will gladly surrender my place in it to him.

Sincerely yours,

F. M. COKKRELL.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The following bills from the House of Representatives were severally read twice by their titles, and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (H. R. 4196) to place upon the pension rolls of the United States the name of Thomas F. Sheldon, late captain Company A, One hundred and twenty-fifth New York Infantry.

A bill (H. R. 8230) for the relief of Louis G. Sanderson, of Craighead County, Ark.:

A bill (H. R. 6737) granting a pension to Duldell R. Bradford, Twenty-fourth Michigan Volunteers.

A bill (H. R. 8907) to increase the pension of John Malloy; and

A bill (H. R. 6233) granting a pension to Thomas T. Prather.

The bill (H. R. 5049) to remove the charge of desertion against Lucius L. Dyer, was read twice by its title and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 7520) making appropriations for various civil expenses for the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

A bill (S. 2321) granting a pension to Jonas Dyer, et al.

A bill (S. 2638) granting a pension to W. W. Haddock.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. ALLISON. I report back from the Committee on Appro-provisions the resolution of the House of Representatives providing for final adjournment with an amendment, to insert instead of "Saturday, July 30," "Friday, August 5;" and instead of "2 o'clock p. m.," "11 o'clock p. m."

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HAWLEY in the chair). The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In line 5, after the word "on," strike out "Saturday, July 30," and insert "Friday, August 5;" and in the last line, after the word "at," strike out "two" and insert "eleven;" so as to make the resolution read:

Resolved, That the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives declare their respective Houses adjourned without day on Friday, August 5, 1892, at 11 o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution is before the Senate, and the question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Committee on Appropriations.

The amendment was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. JAMES KERR, its Clerk, announced that the House had passed a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of three members of the House to join a similar committee on the part of the Senate to wait on the President of the United States and inform him that the two Houses of Congress are ready to adjourn and respectfully inquire if he had any further communication to make to them, and that Mr. McMULLIN, Mr. FELLOWS, and Mr. O'NEIL of Pennsylvania had been appointed the committee on the part of the House.

NOTIFICATION TO THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. ALLISON submitted the following resolution: which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee of two Senators be appointed on the part of the Senate to join such committee as may be appointed by the House of Representatives to wait on the President of the United States and inform him that unless he may have any further communication to make the two Houses are now ready to adjourn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER appointed Mr. ALLISON and Mr. GORMAN as the members of the committee on the part of the Senate.

THANKS TO THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I submit a resolution for which I ask the present consideration of the Senate.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are hereby tendered to Hon. LEVI P. MORGAN, Vice-President, for the dignified, impartial, and courteous manner with which he has presided over its deliberations during the present session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to unanimously.

THANKS TO THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, it gives me pleasure to offer the resolution which I send to the desk; and I ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are hereby tendered to Hon. CHARLES F. MANDERSON, President pro tempore of the Senate, for the dignified, impartial, and courteous manner with which he has presided over its deliberations during the present session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to unanimously.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 2612) granting a pension to Tendoy, chief of the Bannocks, Shoshones, and Sheepsters tribe of Indians, with an amendment, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 3325) granting an increase of pension to George W. Clark.

TENDOY.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 2612) granting a pension to Tendoy, chief of the Bannocks, Shoshones, and Sheepsters tribe of Indians.

The amendment of the House of Representatives was, in line 4, before the word "dollars," to strike out "thirty" and insert "fifteen."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on concurring in the amendment of the House of Representatives.

Mr. DUBOIS. I understand that it is too late to have the bill signed, and I ask that it lie on the table.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will lie on the table.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 1661) granting an increase of pension to John Hallam.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (H. R. 4255) to pension Samuel G. Briggs, of Hale County, Ala.; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the enrolled bill (S. 3325) granting an increase of pension to George W. Clark; and it was thereupon signed by the Vice-President.

SAMUEL G. BRIGGS.

Mr. MORGAN. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate to proceed to the consideration of House bill 4255.

Mr. CULLOM. What bill is that?

Mr. MORGAN. It is a bill just received from the House of Representatives to pension a very decrepit old man, who probably will be dead before December.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays the bill before the Senate.

The bill (H. R. 4255) to pension Samuel G. Briggs, of Hale County, Ala., was read the first time by its title.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read at length for information.

The bill was read the second time at length, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to place on the pension roll the name of Samuel G. Briggs, of Hale County, Ala., who served in the Florida war as a soldier in Capt. Henry Webb's Company, Col. Aeldin's regiment; and that the said Samuel G. Briggs be paid a pension under the provisions of the pension laws at the rate of $15 per month.

Mr. MORGAN. On further consideration, I move that the bill be referred to the Committee on Pensions.

The motion was agreed to.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had agreed to the amendment of the Senate to the House concurrent resolution fixing a time for adjournment without day.

NOTIFICATION TO THE PRESIDENT.

At 10 o'clock and 53 minutes p. m. Mr. ALLISON and Mr. GORMAN, of the joint committee appointed to wait upon the President of the United States and notify him that Congress was ready to adjourn, appeared at the bar of the Senate, and

Mr. ALLISON said: Mr. President, the committee on the part of the Senate, with a like committee on the part of the House, have waited upon the President and informed him that the two Houses were now ready to adjourn unless he had some further communication to make. The President informed the commit-

Mr. SAYERS. I will say to the gentleman from Missouri that Senator ALLISON said he would not agree to any such proposition.

Mr. O'NEILL of Missouri. I repeated his conversation with me.

Mr. HOLMAN. When we met in conference this afternoon I was informed that I misunderstood the Senator: that he meant simply the Senate would recede from its amendment in regard to the Capitol police force, but not from its opposition to the proposition of the gentleman from Missouri. The result was, not having been able to see him, that I held back this report for twenty minutes, until nearly 8 o'clock, when the gentleman from Missouri was present in his seat. After having treated the gentleman from Missouri with so much courtesy as he has been treated with in regard to this matter, having voted with him all along on this proposition—

Mr. O'NEILL of Missouri. Well, vote with me now.

Mr. HOLMAN (continuing). I repeat, having been treated with such courtesy, I think that he can afford to be a little more forbearing than his language has indicated him to be. [Cries of "Vote! Vote!"]

Several MEMBERS. Call the previous question.

Mr. HOLMAN. Now, it is not 9 o'clock yet, and if the House thinks proper to reject this report, and if you want to send me back for another conference on this matter, I am ready to obey the will of the House.

I demand the previous question on the report.

The previous question was ordered.

The question being taken on the adoption of the report, on a division, demanded by Mr. O'NEILL of Missouri, there were—ayes 169, noes 14.

So the report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. HOLMAN, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HEARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask unanimous consent to discharge the Committee on the District of Columbia from the further consideration of a Senate joint resolution numbered 100, in relation to providing temporary tracks by the railroads, adjacent to their stations, in this city during the Grand Army Encampment and ask to put it upon its passage. It is a matter of considerable importance—

Mr. BUTLER. I demand the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is the further consideration of the bills coming over from the Friday evening sessions.

THOMAS D. PRATHER.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the next bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 6236) granting a pension to Thomas D. Prather; reported from the Committee of the Whole with an amendment.

The amendment was considered and agreed to; and the bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

TEMPORARY RAILROAD TRACKS, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. Speaker, I called the regular order a few moments ago under a misapprehension, as I did not understand the bill that was to be considered. I withdraw that demand.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the House that there are a few Senate bills and resolutions which relate to the District of Columbia, and the Chair is informed by the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. HEARD] and by the Commissioners of the District that one relates to the preservation of the peace and good order in the District and the other the resolution called up by the gentleman from Missouri a few moments ago relates to temporary railroad tracks in the city during the Grand Army encampment.

The Chair will submit these resolutions for the consideration of the House so as to determine whether the House realizes the necessity for their passage.

The Clerk will read the title of the first resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Joint resolution (S. Res. 100) to permit the railroads of the District of Columbia to lay extra tracks to accommodate the traveling public during the Grand Army of the Republic encampment.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this resolution?

Mr. MEREDITH. I understand this is a bill to permit the railroads to lay their tracks in the streets of this city. I want to know whether I am correctly informed as to the purpose of this bill.

Mr. HEARD. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman understands the character of this bill and knows that it concerns the constituents of every man on this floor, and that it will be for their interest to have it passed. It will be impossible for the railroads coming into this city to take proper care of their patrons if it does not pass.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Is this the same thing which is done at inaugurations?

Mr. HEARD. Yes, exactly the same.

Mr. MEREDITH. My friend is a little too previous.

Mr. MARTIN. I demand the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Indiana demands the regular order.

Mr. MEREDITH. I did not intend to object, but I want to express my views upon the bill.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is demanded, which is equivalent to an objection, and which prevents the Chair from recognizing any gentleman to ask unanimous consent. The Chair would like to recognize the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. COBB] but can not do it when the regular order is demanded.

Mr. MARTIN. I did not understand the character of the bill for which unanimous consent was asked by the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. HEARD], but it has now been explained and I will withdraw the demand for the regular order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. COBB] has a resolution which he desires to present which affects the peace and good order of this city.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. Can not the other bill go through now?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Missouri [Mr. HEARD] can again present his resolution if the demand for the regular order is withdrawn. The Clerk will report the title of the bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

Joint resolution (S. R. 100) to permit the railroads of the District of Columbia to lay extra tracks to accommodate the traveling public during the Grand Army of the Republic encampment.

Mr. MEREDITH. Now, I want to be heard for a moment on that bill.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request for the present consideration of this resolution.

There was no objection.

Mr. MEREDITH. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to object to this resolution, but I want to say now, that my friend from Missouri [Mr. HEARD] who seems to fly off the handle, was a little too previous. I did not intend to object to this bill after my conversation with him this evening, because he and others had convinced me that it was a necessity; but I do want to say, sir, that when the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company asked for the privilege of coming into this city, Representatives upon this floor, week after week and month after month, sat down upon that bill which the people desired to have passed; not only the people of my district but the people of Georgia own desired that it should pass because it would come into this city.

It was fought not only in the District Committee for months by representatives of these railroads, but it was fought by representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad upon this floor, and I have not been enabled to get that permissive charter for that road to cross into the District of Columbia as yet. And, sir, when these roads come and ask for these privileges, I confess to you that I feel as if I ought to object; but when my friend, the chairman of the committee, talked to me this evening and showed me that it was necessary for the people who were coming here, I told him that I did not think that I would object.

Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa. This is not for the accommodation of the railroads, but for the accommodation of the people coming here to attend the encampment during September.

The Senate resolution was ordered to a third reading; and was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HEARD, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid upon the table.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. COBB of Alabama. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. Now, the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. COBB] desires to present a bill which the Chair hopes the House will hear, and then determine whether they will consider it. The Chair is informed that it affects the peace and good order of the District of Columbia.

Mr. CARUTH. I object to the consideration of that bill. I understand there is considerable objection to it.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I object to it, also.

The SPEAKER. Objection is made, and the Clerk will report the next bill on the Calendar.

LOUIS G. SANDERSON.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 8230) for the relief of Louis G. Sanderson of Craighead County, Ark.

The amendment recommended by the committee of the Whole was reported.

Mr. PICKLER. I would like to hear the report in this case read.

The report was read.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. There are five or six bills on the Calendar ahead of the one which the Clerk has read.

The SPEAKER. The point of order comes too late, because the House has entered upon the consideration of the bill.

Mr. BUTLER. Then let it go.

The amendment recommended by the committee was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

AMBROSE B. COULTON.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the next bill on the Calendar.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1878) to increase the pension of Ambrose B. Coulton.

The bill was ordered to a third reading; and was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCook, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 7529) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, and for other purposes.

It also announced that the Senate had agreed to the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 3134) for the relief of settlers upon certain lands in the States of North Dakota and South Dakota.

THOMAS COOPER.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (S. 323) granting a pension to Thomas Cooper.

The bill was ordered to be read a third time; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

MRS. ESTHER J. BOONE.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (S. 1033) granting a pension to Mrs. Esther J. Boone.

The bill was read.

Mr. PICKLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that while I am in favor of passing pension bills at all times, there is a resolution that has been passed by the Senate, and is now waiting the action of the House, a measure which the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BRYAN] undertook to pass here yesterday, which grants to the soldier employes in the Departments here leave of absence during the holding of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in September, and I am very desirous that it shall pass.

Mr. BUTLER. Regular order.

Mr. PICKLER. I think gentlemen ought to allow that resolution to be passed to grant the soldier employes leave of absence for a few days.

Mr. TUCKER. I shall object to that.

Mr. PICKLER. I call for the reading of the report on this bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has fifteen minutes if he desires to use it.

The report was read.

The bill was ordered to be read a third time, and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

JOHN A. DEAN.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (S. 2606) granting a pension to John A. Dean.

The bill was ordered to a third reading, and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

DELZELL R. BRADFORD.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 6737) granting a pension to Delzell R. Bradford, Twenty-fourth Michigan Volunteers, with amendments.

The amendments were severally agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and, being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. KILGORE. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. KILGORE. I understand that I was to have unanimous consent for the consideration of a little bill.

The SPEAKER. The regular order has been called for.

Mr. KILGORE. I ask to pretermitt the regular order for a minute, so that I may ask unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Iowa demands the regular order.

THOMAS F. SHELTON.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 4496) to place upon the pension rolls of the United States the name of Thomas F. Shelton, late captain of Company A, One hundred and twenty-fifth New York Infantry, with an amendment.

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the amendment will be considered as agreed to.

Mr. KILGORE. I demand a division on that amendment.

The SPEAKER. The House will be in order. Gentlemen will resume their seats, and business will be suspended until order is restored.

Mr. KILGORE. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the demand for a division.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

BERTHA TEST.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (S. 2165) granting a pension to Bertha Test.

The bill was ordered to a third reading; and it was accordingly read third time, and passed.

SUSAN T. SALISBURY.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 2034) for the relief of Susan T. Salisbury, with an amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

CHARLES H. BEHLE.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 6564) to remove the charge of desertion against Charles H. Behle.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

MARY HOLLIS.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 7375) granting a pension to Mary Hollis, with an amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and being engrossed, it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

SAMUEL S. ANDERSON.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 7099) granting an increase of pension to Samuel S. Anderson, with an amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. WARWICK, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills and joint resolutions of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (S. 3131) for the relief of settlers upon certain lands in the States of North Dakota and South Dakota;

A bill (S. 1878) to increase the pension of Ambrose B. Carlton;

A bill (S. 3293) for the relief of Henry Cozad;

A bill (S. 1033) granting a pension to Mrs. Esther J. Boone; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 100) to permit the railroads of the District of Columbia to lay extra tracks to accommodate the traveling public during the Grand Army of the Republic encampment.

WIDOW OF CAPT. GEORGE W. HAZZARD.

The next business reported from the Committee of the Whole was the bill (H. R. 8780) to restore to pension roll widow of the late Capt. George W. Hazzard, captain Company C, Fourth United States Artillery, with an amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Second Session.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE.

MONDAY, December 5, 1892.

The first Monday of December being the day prescribed by the Constitution of the United States for the annual meeting of Congress, the second session of the Fifty-second Congress commenced this day.

The Senate assembled in its Chamber at the Capitol.

The Vice-President of the United States Mr. LEVI P. MORTON, of the State of New York, took the chair and called the Senate to order at 12 o'clock noon.

PRAYER.

Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D., Chaplain to the Senate, offered the following prayer:

O God, we gather devoutly at Thy feet amid unnumbered mercies to us as individuals in our families and upon our land. Thy kind hand has led us during these months of separation. We thank Thee that we live. Remember very tenderly those who are sick. Grant them healing, if it please Thee, and prepare the dying for death.

We look to Thee as we come to these responsibilities, asking Thy guidance and Thy rich blessing. O God, the God of our fathers, in whom we have ever trusted, may we ever rely upon the Word of Thy promise and the abiding presence of Thy Spirit.

Bless our Government in all its departments, legislative, judicial, and executive. Remember very tenderly Thy servant, the President of the United States. We thank Thee for his faith and fortitude. We pray Thee sanctify to him and to his household Thy sore chastening. Touch our hearts in sympathy with suffering, and help us day by day to walk as the children of God ought to walk, conscious of our own mortality, with our faces ever set toward the heavenly city.

Bless abundantly, we pray Thee, these Thy servants, dwelling in each heart by Thy Spirit. Upon the other House of Congress pour very richly of heaven's benediction. Bless all the people of this land, O Lord, whose industries Thou hast so richly rewarded. Exalt us more and more in righteousness among the nations. Preserve to us our Sabbath and our sanctuaries. Continue to bless all the agencies employed to enlighten and educate and elevate this great nation, hastening the time when the reign of the Prince of Peace shall come and men shall learn war no more.

Guide us by Thy divine counsel. Have us in Thy holy keeping. Give unto us richly of Thy peace. A Father's benediction we crave from day to day, and we ask all in the name of Christ, who hath taught us when we pray to say: "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done upon earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, forever. Amen."

SENATOR FROM VERMONT.

Mr. MORRILL presented the credentials of REDFIELD PROCTOR, chosen by the Legislature of the State of Vermont a Senator from that State to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George F. Edmunds in the term ending March 3, 1893.

The credentials were read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator-elect will please come forward and take the oath of office.

Mr. PROCTOR was escorted to the Vice-President's desk by Mr. MORRILL, and the oath prescribed by law having been administered to him he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. MORRILL presented the credentials of REDFIELD PROCTOR, elected by the Legislature of the State of Vermont a Senator from that State for the term beginning March 4, 1893; which were read and ordered to be filed.

NOTIFICATION TO THE HOUSE.

Mr. SHERMAN submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled, and that the Senate is ready to proceed to business.

NOTIFICATION TO THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. HALE submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee consisting of two members be appointed, to join such committee as may be appointed by the House of Representatives, to wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of each House is assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

By unanimous consent, the Vice-President was authorized to appoint the committee on the part of the Senate; and Mr. HALE and Mr. GOBMAN were appointed.

HOOR OF MEETING.

Mr. MORRILL submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the hour of the daily meeting of the Senate be 12 o'clock noon, unless otherwise ordered.

RECESS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. What is the pleasure of the Senate?

Mr. SHERMAN. I think, under the circumstances, in view of the probability that the President's message will not come in to-day, that the Senate had better adjourn until to-morrow. I make that motion.

Mr. HARRIS. Does the Senator from Ohio think it is proper to adjourn until the committee has waited upon the President and we have received his answer?

Mr. SHERMAN. As we are practically assured, by information in the public prints, that no message will come in to-day, I thought it hardly worth while to go through the form of remaining in session.

Mr. HARRIS. I do not know that we can rely upon the information derived from the public prints. I suggest that we take a recess and allow the committee to wait upon the President and make its report.

Mr. SHERMAN. Very well; I will substitute that motion for the other. I move that the Senate take a recess until 1 o'clock.

The VICE-PRESIDENT (at 12 o'clock and 10 minutes p. m.). The Senator from Ohio moves that the Senate take a recess until 1 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to; and at the expiration of the recess (at 1 o'clock p. m.) the Senate resumed its session.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

At 1 o'clock and 2 minutes p. m., Mr. JAMES KERR, the Clerk of the House of Representatives, appeared below the bar of the Senate and delivered the following message:

Mr. President, I am directed by the House of Representatives to inform the Senate that a quorum of the House of Representatives has appeared and that the House is ready to proceed to business.

I am further directed to inform the Senate that the House has passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of three members be appointed on the part of the House, to join the committee appointed by the Senate, to wait on the President and inform him that a quorum of the two Houses has assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may have to make.

Resolved, That Mr. SPRINGER, Mr. FORNEY and Mr. O'NEILL of Pennsylvania be appointed such committee on the part of the House.

NOTIFICATION TO THE PRESIDENT.

At 1 o'clock and 30 minutes p. m., Mr. HALE and Mr. GOBMAN, the committee appointed in conjunction with a similar committee of the House of Representatives to wait upon the President of the United States, appeared below the bar, and

Mr. HALE said: Mr. President, the committee appointed by the Senate, in company with a similar committee of the House of Representatives, to wait upon the President of the United States, and inform him that a quorum of the two Houses of Congress has assembled, have attended to that duty, and the President was pleased to say that he would communicate to the two Houses by a message in writing at the opening of to-morrow's session.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and at 1 o'clock and 31 minutes p. m. the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Tuesday, December 6, 1892, at 12 o'clock m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, December 5, 1892.

This being the day designated by the Constitution for the annual meeting of Congress, the members of the House of Representatives assembled in their Hall for the second session of the Fifty-second Congress.

At 12 o'clock noon, the Speaker, Hon. CHARLES F. CRISP, a Representative from the State of Georgia, called the House to order.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we devoutly bless Thee that through Thy good providence so many of the members of this House are brought back to their places in safety and in health. Let Thy peace be theirs, the peace of God which passeth understanding, controlling their tempers and their tongues, keeping their minds and hearts in Thy knowledge and Thy love. Lift their thoughts and wills to a level with the high dignity of the position to which they have been called, and grant that they may be enabled to act wisely as they are summoned to enact laws and to adopt measures for the safety, honor, and welfare of this great nation. Protect them and their families from all perils to person, property, and reputation, and prosper them in all their ways: We humbly beg through Jesus Christ, our Saviour. Amen.

Mr. COCKRELL. I ask that the joint resolution be printed and referred to the Committee on Printing, and I hope the committee will take prompt action in reporting it back.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The joint resolution will be so referred.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. SHERMAN it was Ordered, That James Petty be allowed to withdraw his papers from the files of the Senate.

Mr. SHERMAN. If there are no further bills to be introduced—

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to offer a resolution.

Mr. PEPPER. And I.

Mr. SHERMAN. I withhold the motion, but I wish to move an executive session as soon as the morning business is concluded.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION REPORT.

Mr. COCKRELL submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That 23,000 copies of the ninth annual report of the United States Civil Service Commission with appendices be printed, of which 1,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate, 2,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives, and 20,000 copies for the use of the United States Civil Service Commission.

COMPENSATION OF LETTER-CARRIERS.

Mr. HOAR submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Postmaster-General be directed to inform the Senate of the facts, so far as known to his Department, affecting the claim of letter-carriers in cities which contain a population of 75,000 inhabitants to a larger compensation than they have received under the act of January 3, 1887, section 2; and, if in his opinion such letter-carriers are legally or in justice entitled to a compensation larger than they have received, to communicate to the Senate an estimate of the amount which will be necessary for the purpose.

KILLING OF FRANK RILEY.

Mr. MITCHELL submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That the President be and he hereby is requested, if not incompatible with the public interests, to transmit to the Senate, at his earliest convenience, copies of all correspondence on file in the Department of State, if any, relating to the alleged killing of Frank Riley, an American sailor of the United States steamship Newark, in Georgia Bay, in August or September last.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

Mr. PEPPER submitted the following resolution; which was ordered to lie on the table and be printed:

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Interstate Commerce, and it is hereby instructed to inquire and report as follows:

First. What is the separate and what the aggregate capitalization of the railroad corporations of the United States which are engaged in interstate commerce?

Second. What was the actual original cost of constructing and equipping said roads?

Third. What is the present value of the roads; that is, what would be the cost of building and stocking roads as good as they are and on the same lines at the present value of materials and labor?

Fourth. What is the average number of salaried officers employed and paid by the several railroad companies; what is the total amount of money paid such officers annually as salaries; what is the average yearly wages paid to locomotive engineers, firemen, and passenger conductors, and what is the average daily or monthly wages paid all other employees?

Fifth. What has been the general effect of the operation of the interstate-commerce law on the business, and the net earnings of the roads; has the cost of transportation been reduced; has the reduction, if any, been on through traffic or on local traffic; has the effect been uniform throughout the country?

Sixth. What has been the aggregate annual gross earnings and the aggregate net earnings of the roads during the last five years?

Seventh. What has been the average cost of moving passengers and freight on said roads during the last five years, computing by distance and weight?

Eighth. What is the actual and the relative cost of moving passengers and freight in different parts of the country, indicating the sections where such differences exist?

Ninth. During the estimate on the traffic of the last five years, and allowing an annual interest rate of 5 per cent on the actual present value of the roads, what would be equitable charges for carrying passengers and freight in the United States, said charges to be the same on all the roads?

Tenth. Would it be practicable to consolidate the interstate railroad business so as to establish and maintain uniform charges for carriage in all parts of the country and to fairly settle at one place all just differentials?

The committee will report as early as practicable. It may act by subcommittee of two or more of its members, may sit during sessions of the Senate, and it be found that any part of the information asked for by this resolution can not be procured without the use of money specially appropriated the committee will report that fact to the Senate, setting out what can not be so procured.

ADDITIONAL SENATE EMPLOYÉ.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That, until further ordered, the Sergeant-at-Arms is directed to employ one attendant in ladies' retiring room, Senate wing of the Capitol, at the rate of $120 per annum, said employé to be paid from the miscellaneous items of the contingent fund of the Senate.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

Mr. VEST submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Whereas it has been charged by the public press that officials of the Government employed in the Census Bureau of the Interior Department have been guilty of gross misconduct for partisan purposes, and especially that the enumerators appointed to make the enrollment of population for the census of 1890 in the State of Missouri and elsewhere, did, under instructions from certain officers of the Bureau, make at the same time lists of voters for partisan use;

And also, that certain clerks and accountants employed in said Bureau were sent to the State of New York during the recent canvass to perform partisan service while drawing pay from the Government; Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on the Census is directed to investigate said charges, and to report by bill or otherwise; that said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer, the expenses to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Missouri ask for the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. HALE. Let it lie over for a day or two. I wish to examine it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will go over under the rule.

Mr. VEST. As a matter of course there is no objection to that course. However, I hope the Senator from Maine will permit me to say a few words before the resolution goes over.

Mr. HALE. Certainly; I withdraw the request for the present.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, I am not in the habit of offering sensational resolutions or submitting resolutions to the Senate without what I consider absolutely sufficient proof for the allegations contained in them. I have no disposition to rake up the debris of the late canvass for any purpose whatever; but during that canvass in my own State it was publicly charged and very generally believed by a majority of the people of the State that the Census Bureau had been used in 1890 for political purposes and that the result of that use had been made evident in the canvass of 1892. It was stated in the public press, and I hold in my hand one of these statements, over the name of Mr. Isaac Isaacs, the secretary of the Republican League of Missouri, that the enumerators in the different townships of the State in 1890 had been instructed by the chief enumerator of the State of Missouri, with the knowledge and consent of the Census Bureau, to make a political poll of the State for partisan purposes.

Without reading this statement at length, I will ask that it be made a portion of my remarks, for it is the basis of them.

The statement referred to is as follows:

The charges are made by Mr. Isaac Isaacs, of Kansas City, ex-secretary of the Missouri State League of Republican Clubs, and he states that he has ample documentary evidence of their truth. Mr. Isaacs left for Kansas City last night, but before his departure he furnished a Republic reporter with information that indicates that the census of 1890 was made the occasion both of booming Major Warner for the position to which he now aspires and for ascertaining the exact strength of the Administration in this State. That the census enumeration was put to a similar use in other States also appears probable from Mr. Isaacs's statement.

The use of the census for political purposes constitutes a serious offense against the civil-service act. Although the statements of Mr. Isaacs, which refer to what occurred in 1890, may appear to be ancient, they deal with matters which have never before come to light, and which are of peculiar importance at the present time, when their effect is felt in both the State and national campaign.

A CONFERENCE.

Chief Census Enumerator Brock was appointed in 1890. According to Mr. Isaacs, he was summoned shortly afterward to a conference at Washington with Maj. William Warner and Gen. John W. Noble. "Exactly what occurred at that conference," said Mr. Isaacs last night, "is of course known to the three gentlemen alone, but a great deal can be imagined from subsequent developments. It is evident that Maj. Warner had already been decided upon by the Administration as standard-bearer in Missouri, and that his nomination for governor was recognized even in Missouri. It is also apparent that the Administration was somewhat fearful of the situation in this State, and probably in others as well, for it is almost certain that the same tactics were pursued in other States as were subsequently made use of here as a result of the conference.

That those matters were discussed may be accepted as a fact. At any rate, it was decided at that conference that Brock should instruct his census enumerators here to make a thorough poll of the State while they were at work on the census returns. These enumerators were appointed by the postmasters in the State. These appointments were, of course, made under the civil-service act, and the polling of the State, being a political matter, was of course an offense against that act. To avoid the risk of refusal on the part of the enumerators to commit the crime, the postmasters were instructed to appoint only such as would have no scruples, and the scheme worked to perfection. Incidentally, I may state that the returns from the polling showed 45,000 doubtful Republicans in the State and 15,000 doubtful Democrats.

DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

"These men were furnished by Mr. Brock with regulation poll books, in which each man's name was put down, with his political faith directly opposite it. These poll-books were returned with the census blanks, and I am now in possession of several of them. I also have letters from Washington, directed to the chairman of the county committees of the State, informing them of what had been done and directing them what course to pursue in the premises. The letters I secured from the chairman of the Randolph County committee at Moberly, Mo., and the books and additional information from prominent attachés of the Interior Department.

"To make the offense even more grave," continued Mr. Isaacs, "these same census enumerators were instructed by Mr. Brock, through the postmasters, to let all Federal officeholders know that under no circumstances were they to allow the election at the primaries of any delegates to the State Republican convention, when they should be held, who were not enthusiastic for Maj. Warner. This was duly conveyed to every deputy marshal and officeholder in the State by the enumerators, and the result was the nomination of Maj. Warner and the defeat of the Filley forces. The effect of course was not so much felt in the large cities, where every Republican took an interest in the primaries, and Mr. Filley, you recollect, carried St. Louis. But in the smaller towns, where the primaries were left to be run by the postmasters, United States marshals, and the rest of the Federal employes, the end desired was easily accomplished. The result was that there were 235 Federal officeholders in the convention, all following instructions to defeat Filley and elect Warner at any cost.

"The Warner faction is now administering sugar-coated pills to Mr. Filley, but with what result will be seen at the coming elections."

Mr. Isaacs stated that he was prepared to submit the proof of his assertions at any time that he might be called upon, having documentary evidence right at hand. "They do not dare to deny their truth, though," said he, "because they are aware that the facts have been known to numerous people for the past two years."

Mr. Isaacs, in this statement, which was the result of a disagreement between himself and the authorities of the Republican party represented in the Republican League, stated emphatically and distinctly that he could produce the record proof of his statement that the enumerators engaged in taking the census in Missouri had been used for the purpose of taking a poll of the voters in order to ascertain the strength of the respective parties in the State.

It is well known that the Democrats of Missouri were very much astonished at the activity and aggressiveness which characterized the Republican party in the recent canvass. They had been in a moribund condition for nearly a quarter of a century, but for some reason which we could not see they exhibited in this canvass, from the beginning to the end, an aggressiveness which has been unparalleled in the history of that party in our State since 1865. It has transpired now through these statements of Mr. Isaacs that the poll made by the enumerators in 1890 satisfied the Republican leaders, and especially the candidate of the Republican party for governor, that a great change had taken place in the political sentiment of the people of my State, and that his party could succeed in the last canvass.

I have here furnished me by a Republican, a letter extremely significant in this connection, from the chairman of the Republican county committee of one of the large strong counties in the State, Macon County. As it is short I will read it, thus indicating the entire trend and object of this movement:

MACON, N. C., March 1, 1893.

My Dear Sir: Yours to hand. In reply would I say that I enclose blank application for Mr. Dinsmore to fill up and return to me. I can endorse his application. We are aware of the importance of the Macon vote in our next campaign, as on that we expect to overturn the Democracy in Macon County in our next campaign; and I want no forwarding errors that are true blue, and we want them to make a poll of the county and to take the names of all young men who will vote three years hence. Of course this poll is independent of the Government work.

I am truly yours,

J. W. PATTON,

Chairman County Republican Committee.

Mr. W. E. MURLIN, Admon., Mo.

I applied at the Census Bureau to ascertain whether this gentleman, Mr. Dinsmore, had been appointed an enumerator. I bian Exposition grounds; to restrict immigration by consular examinations, and to submit the proposed sixteenth amendment forbidding State Legislatures to unite state and church; which were referred to the Committee on Immigration.

He also presented the petition of W. Spratt Scott, of Claremore, Ind. T., praying that all future payments be made direct to the Cherokee people by and under the supervision of the Interior Department; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. CULLOM presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Decatur, Ill., praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. CAMERON, from the Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2739) for the relief of James Petty, submitted a report thereon, which was ordered to be printed, and asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Pensions; which was agreed to.

Mr. PEPPER, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 147) for the relief of Secor & Co., Perine, Secor & Co., and the executors of Zeno Secor, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was ordered to be printed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be indefinitely postponed if there be no objection.

Mr. GALLINGER. I ask that the bill be placed upon the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It will be so ordered, in the absence of objection.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1421) for the relief of Lewis D. Allen, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was ordered to be printed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be indefinitely postponed, if there be no objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. I ask that the bill may go on the Calendar until I can see the report. I am not familiar with the case, and I wish to look at it before it is disposed of.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

ADDITIONAL SENATE EMPLOYÉ.

Mr. PADDOCK. I am directed by the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted yesterday by the Senator from Michigan [Mr. McMILLAN], to report it favorably, and I ask for its immediate consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution, which was read, as follows:

Resolved, That, until further ordered, the Sergeant-at-Arms is directed to employ one attendant in ladies' retiring room, Senate wing of the Capitol, at the rate of $720 per annum, said employé to be paid from the miscellaneous items of the contingent fund of the Senate.

Mr. VEST. Does the resolution come from a committee?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It comes from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

Mr. PADDOCK. The resolution is reported by me from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate. It is not a new employment; it does not involve a new appointment; it is simply the continuance of the service which was performed during the last session by a colored attendant in the ladies' retiring room below.

The resolution was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. BLACKBURN introduced a bill (S. 3524) to incorporate the East End Electric Railway Company of the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

A bill (S. 3546) granting an increase of pension to Levi W. Dikeman; and

A bill (S. 3547) granting an increase of pension to James Gaulley.

Mr. PERKINS introduced the following bills; which were severally read twice by their titles, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (S. 3548) granting an honorable discharge to C. Fredrickson;

A bill (S. 3549) granting an honorable discharge to Henry B. Rizzer; and

A bill (S. 3550) granting an honorable discharge to St. Clair Watts.

Mr. CAMERON introduced a bill (S. 3551) granting a pension to L. H. Frink; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 3552) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of George J. Barnes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

AMENDMENT TO A BILL.

Mr. FELTON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill (S. 3378) to finally adjust and settle the claims of Arkansas and other States under the swamp-land grants, and for other purposes; which was ordered to be printed and lie on the table.

JAMES F. SIMMONS.

Mr. CALL. I submit a resolution and ask for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be, and they are hereby, instructed to inquire and report to the Senate the facts in relation to the trial, conviction, and sentence of James F. Simmons in the circuit court of the southern district of New York, under an indictment for a conspiracy to wreck the Sixth National Bank of New York City, and further to report by bill or otherwise whether any legislation, and if so, what, is necessary to prevent the punishment of innocent persons wrongfully accused of crime in the courts of the United States, and that the committee have the authority to send for persons and papers and to have the record of the case printed for the use of the committee and the Senate.

Mr. PLATT. I ask that the resolution lie over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will go over and be printed.

Mr. HOAR subsequently said: The Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] introduced a resolution providing for an investigation by the Judiciary Committee, and the resolution was laid over at the request of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT]. I ask the unanimous consent of the Senate that the resolution be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. The Senator from Florida can state to the committee the grounds upon which he desires to have the investigation ordered.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Massachusetts? The Chair hears none and the resolution is so referred.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.

The Chief Clerk proceeded to read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. VEST, providing for the investigation of alleged partisan work by census enumerators.

Mr. HALL. There is no necessity to read the resolution again. I suggest to the Senator from Missouri that if an investigation takes place and any money is spent, under the rules the resolution must be reported by the Committee on Contingent Expenses. Let it go there, and let that committee report it back.

Mr. VEST. The resolution must go, under the rules, to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be so referred, in the absence of objection.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

Mr. PEPPER. A resolution submitted yesterday by myself, proposing a certain investigation by the Committee on Interstate Commerce, I suppose will properly come up this morning.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution lies on the table, and can be called up.

Mr. PEPPER. I ask that it be taken from the table and considered.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. PEPPER, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Interstate Commerce be, and it is hereby, instructed to inquire and report as follows:

First. What is the separate and what the aggregate capitalization of the railroad corporations of the United States which are engaged in interstate commerce?

Second. What was the actual original cost of constructing and equipping said roads?

Third. What is the present value of the roads; that is, what would be the cost of building and stocking roads as good as they and on the same lines at the present value of materials and labor?

Fourth. What is the average number of salaried officers employed and paid by the several railroad companies; what is the total amount of money paid such officers annually as salaries; what is the average yearly wages paid locomotive engineers, firemen, and passenger conductors, and what is the average daily or monthly wages paid all other employees?

Fifth. What has been the general effect of the operation of the interstate-commerce law on the business and the net earnings of the roads; has the cost of transportation been reduced; has the reduction, if any, been on through traffic or on local traffic; has the effect been uniform throughout the country?

Sixth. What has been the aggregate annual gross earnings and the aggregate net earnings of the roads during the last five years?

Seventh. What has been the average cost of moving passengers and freight on said roads during the last five years, computing by distance and weight?

Eighth. What is the actual and the relative cost of moving passengers and freight in different parts of the country, indicating the sections where such differences exist?

Ninth. Basing the estimate on the traffic of the last five years, and allowing an annual interest rate of 5 per cent on the actual present value of the roads, what would be equitable charges for carrying passengers and freight in the United States, said charges to be the same on all the roads?

Tenth. Would it be practicable to consolidate the interstate-railroad business, so as to establish and maintain uniform charges for carriage in all parts of the country and to fairly settle at one price all just differentials?

The committee will report as early as practicable. It may act by subcommittee of two or more of its members, may sit during sessions of the Senate, and if it be found that any part of the information asked for by this resolution can not be procured without the use of money specially appropriated the committee will report that fact to the Senate, setting out what can not be so procured.

Mr. CULLOM. That is a pretty formidable resolution so far as imposing labor is concerned, and I think probably much of the information desired could be procured without the necessity of requiring the Committee on Interstate Commerce to take up the subject. I suggest to the distinguished Senator from Kansas that he allow the resolution, without adoption, to be referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce, and that committee will take up the subject and see what ought to be done with it. If the resolution should be adopted, directing the Committee on Interstate Commerce to make the investigation now, it could not do anything else during the present session. I think much of the information can be procured through the medium of the Interstate Commerce Commission. If, however, the resolution is allowed to be referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce, the committee will give it attention, and see what ought to be done in the premises, and report some time during the session, if that course is agreeable to the Senator from Kansas.

Mr. PEPPER. I have no objection to such a disposition of the resolution at this time, expecting, of course, that the Senator's statement that early and considerate action will be taken is sincerely made.

Mr. CULLOM. I make the statement in perfect good faith, and with confidence that the committee will take up the subject and consider it carefully.

Mr. PEPPER. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce, if there be no objection.

DEATH OF REPRESENTATIVES WARWICK AND McDONALD.

The message also conveyed to the Senate the intelligence of the death of Hon. John G. Warwick, late a Representative from the State of Ohio, and Hon. Edward F. McDonald, late a Representative from the State of New Jersey.

THE FIVE CIVILIZED TRIBES.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there is no further morning business that order is closed and the Calendar is in order.

Mr. VEST. I ask the Senate to take up the joint resolution I introduced yesterday in regard to the appointment of a commission to treat with the five civilized tribes.

There being no objection the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution (S. R. 117) authorizing the appointment of a commission to treat with the five civilized tribes of the Indian Territory, with a view of making agreements to induce them to take homesteads in severalty.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, with the permission of the Senate I shall make a few remarks in regard to this joint resolution, and as I understand that other Senators desire to be heard upon it, I will not ask its reference until they have an opportunity of discussing its merits.

I am very well aware, Mr. President, that it is an almost herculean task to change the existing order of things in what is

A memorial of M. R. Bruce and other citizens of Georgia;
 A memorial of J. W. Gaston and other citizens of Gastonburg, Ala.;
 A memorial of J. W. Moore and other citizens of Selma, Ala.;

 A memorial of H. Strickland, jr., and other citizens of Duluth, Ga.;
 A memorial of John B. Leech, jr., and other citizens of Memphis, Tenn.; and A memorial of the Norfolk and Portsmouth (Va.) Cotton Exchange.

The VICE-PRESIDENT presented a petition of the Chicago (Ill.) Women's Club praying for the repeal of the provision of the souvenir appropriation bill which requires that the Exposition be closed on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Kearsarge Association of Naval Veterans of Boston, Mass., praying for the transfer of the Revenue Marine Service to the Navy; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. HOAR presented the petition of George W. Lowther and other citizens of Boston, Mass., praying for the passage of legislation authorizing the management of the United States exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition to collect and compile for publication facts and statistics relative to the development of the people of African descent from 1863 to 1893, such information to form a part of the published report of the United States Government at the Exposition; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the petition of Seth C. Cary and other citizens of Gardner, Mass., praying for the submission of an amendment of the Constitution forbidding the enactment of any legislation by the States respecting an establishment of religion or making an appropriation of money for any sectarian purpose; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. SHERMAN presented petitions of the Journeymen Tailors' unions of Toledo, Delaware, Youngstown, Springfield, and Steubenville, all in the State of Ohio, praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented memorials of the Ministers' Union of Toledo, the Congregational and Methodist Episcopal churches of Ruggles, of Bertha Wolf and 39 other citizens of Creston, and the Ministers' Association of Findlay, all in the State of Ohio, remonstrating against a repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. VEST presented a petition of the Farmers' and Laborers' Union of Cole County, Mo., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Kansas City, Mo., praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. CULLOM presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Menmouth, Ill., and a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Quincy, Ill., praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a memorial of the Protestant churches of Toulon, Ill., remonstrating against a repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PADDOCK presented petitions of John Williams and 23 other citizens of Madison County and of J. H. Blodgett and 24 other citizens of Wayne County, in the State of Nebraska, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and now existing between the elevators, millers, and railroads at Minneapolis, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo., and praying for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill until such committee shall report; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. WILSON presented a petition of the Methodist, Baptist, and United Presbyterian Churches of Monroe, Iowa, praying for the passage of the antioption bill, for the passage of an act prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors at the World's Columbian Exposition, for the passage of an act restricting immigration, and for the submission to the people of an amendment to the Constitution forbidding State legislation to unite church and state; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the United and Reform Presbyterian Churches of Morning Sun, Iowa, remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BUTLER presented memorials of 20 citizens of Allendale, S. C., and of the Norfolk and Portsmouth (Va.) Cotton Exchange, remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. PEPPER presented the petition of J. A. Baras and 75 other citizens of McPherson County, and the petition of W. M. Tyler and 18 other citizens of Reno County, all in the State of Kansas, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain now existing between the elevators, millers, and railroads at Minneapolis, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo., and praying for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill until such committee shall report; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. WALTHALL presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Vicksburg, Miss., praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. GALLINGER. I present the petition of George Hill, jr., and 35 other citizens and business firms of Georgetown, D. C., praying for relief from what they claim to be encroachments upon their rights on the part of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company. These citizens claim that they have appealed to the officers of the road, who stop their cars on the narrow business street of Georgetown, and have been told if they do not like it they can move away; that they have applied to the police and have been refused relief; that they have applied to the District Commissioners and have been referred to the District attorney; that they have applied to the District attorney and he refers them to the courts and says the courts are open to them. Their appeal is a very earnest one. I know some of these gentlemen. I believe they are suffering an indignity which ought to be removed. I move that the petition be printed as a document and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. QUAY presented a memorial of the Ministers' Association of Myersdale, Berlin, and Salisbury, in the State of Pennsylvania, remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. McMULLAN presented a petition of citizens of Detroit, Mich., praying for the enactment of legislation to restrict or prohibit immigration; which was referred to the Committee on Immigration.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER BRIDGE ABOVE NEW ORLEANS.

Mr. VEST. I am instructed by the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2345) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at New Orleans, to report it back with amendments. I am also instructed by the committee to ask for the immediate consideration of the bill, for the reason that it is exceedingly important that it should be considered by the Senate and sent to the other House.

Mr. HARRIS. Let the bill be read at length, subject to objection.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments of the Committee on Commerce will be stated in their order.

The first amendment was in section 7, line 3, after the word "water" to insert "and with but two piers in the river," so as to read:

That the said bridge shall be made with three main and two contiguous spans between the river banks, as defined by a mean stage of water, and with but two piers in the river.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in section 3, line 4, after the word "channel," to strike out the words "or central;" so as to read: The length of the main channel span shall be at least 1,000 feet.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and pass d.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River above New Orleans."

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. BLACKBURN introduced a bill (S. 3553) for the relief of Lucy Ann Lee and Allen G. Lee; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. WILSON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3554) to refund to the State of Iowa the amounts paid by said State to the non-commissioned officers and enlisted men of the Second and Third Regiments of Iowa Volunteer Infantry, for gray uniforms charged to them by the United States mustering and disbursing officers, when they were mustered into the United States service in May and June, 1861, and afterwards ordered to be discarded and blue uniforms substituted therefor; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3555) for the relief of George W. Jones; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3556) granting an increase of pension to Mary E. Hazlip; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HAWLEY introduced a bill (S. 3557) granting a pension to William O. Lyman; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. RANSOM introduced a bill (S. 3558) to provide for the erection of a public building in the cities of Winston-Salem, N. C.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3559) for the relief of Merrick & Son; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3560) granting a pension to John E. Burnes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PEPPER. On Tuesday I had the honor to introduce a bill (S. 3545) for the relief of Charles Williamson, late assistant surgeon Twelfth Kansas State Militia. I think that it was referred by mistake to the Committee on Military Affairs, although I see the RECORD notes it to have been referred to the Committee on Pensions. If it was not referred to the Committee on Pensions, I ask that it be so referred.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill was referred to the Committee on Pensions, the Chair is informed.

Mr. PEPPER. I ask that the papers which I send to the desk be referred with the bill to the same committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The papers will be so referred.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 119) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to retain and cover into the Treasury certain moneys, etc.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

WAR CLAIM OF BALTIMORE.

Mr. GORMAN. I offer the following resolution, and ask for its present consideration:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, requested to transmit to the Senate all correspondence between the Third Auditor of the Treasury and the mayor of Baltimore relating to the claim of the city of Baltimore for advances in the War of 1812 between the United States and Great Britain.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. SHERMAN. I suggest to the Senator from Maryland whether he had not better insert the word "copies." It is not usual to send the original papers.

Mr. GORMAN. I have no objection to that. I will modify the resolution by inserting the words "copies of" before the words "all correspondence."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution as modified.

The resolution as modified was agreed to.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After twenty-five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened.

DEATH OF REPRESENTATIVE WARWICK.

Mr. BRICE. Mr. President, I ask that the resolutions of the House of Representatives in regard to the death of my late colleague in that body be laid before the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate resolutions from the House of Representatives, which will be read.

The Secretary read the resolutions, as follows:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, December 6, 1892.

Resolved, That the House has heard with profound sorrow of the death of Hon. John G. Warwick, late a Representative from the State of Ohio.

Resolved, That the Clerk be directed to communicate a copy of these resolutions to the Senate.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect to his memory the House do now adjourn.

Mr. BRICE. Mr. President, I offer the resolutions which I send to the desk.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolutions will be read.

The Secretary read the resolutions, as follows:

Resolved, That the Senate has heard with deep regret the announcement of the death of the Hon. John G. Warwick, late a Representative from the State of Ohio.

Resolved, That the Secretary communicate this resolution to the House of Representatives.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. BRICE. Mr. President, at some future time I shall ask that a day be fixed when appropriate tributes may be paid to the memory and services of my late colleague in the other House.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolutions submitted by the Senator from Ohio.

The resolutions were agreed to unanimously; and (at 1 o'clock and 2 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until Monday, December 12, 1892, at 12 o'clock meridian.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. VILAS. I am directed by the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 3894) to confer jurisdiction upon the Court of Claims to hear and determine the claim of David Ryan against the United States, to submit an adverse report thereon.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill go on the Calendar until we can have an opportunity to look at it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar with the adverse report of the committee.

Mr. DAVES, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3146) authorizing the removal of the Indians of the Papago or Gila Bend Reservation in Maricopa County, Ariz., to the Papago Reservation in Pima County, or to one of the Pima and Maricopa Reservations known as the Gila River and Salt River Indian Reservations, reported it with amendments.

Mr. McPHERSON, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8769) to provide for the sale of navy-yard lands in the city of Brooklyn, reported it without amendment.

BILL RECOMMENDED.

Mr. PEPPER. A week ago to-day, by direction of the Committee on Claims, I presented an adverse report on the bill (S. 1447) for the relief of Seor & Co., Perine, Seor & Co., and the executors of Zeno Seor. The bill was placed on the Calendar with the adverse report. Upon further consideration I ask that the report, the bill, and the accompanying papers may be re-committed to the committee for further consideration.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be re-committed if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. VEST introduced a bill (S. 3582) for the relief of Robert McGee; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Select Committee on Indian Depredations.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3583) to place John F. Adams on the pension roll; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a bill (S. 3584) to prohibit the interment of bodies in Graceland Cemetery, in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3585) to amend and modify section 3480 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. PERKINS. I am not quite sure whether the bill should be referred to the Committee on Pensions or the Judiciary Committee. It proposes to amend a section of the statutes which confers certain rights upon the soldiers of the Indian and Mexican wars in regard to bounty-land warrants. I think perhaps it should be referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 3586) to establish a military post at or near the city of Grand Forks, in Grand Forks

County, in the State of North Dakota; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PADDOCK introduced a bill (S. 3587) to amend section 1514 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in relation to the appointment of cadets at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, in the State of Maryland; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill (S. 3588) to amend an act entitled "An act to perfect the organization of the United States," which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3589) to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate commerce," approved October 3, 1887; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Internal Commerce.

MRS. DORA MARSHALL.

Mr. DAVES submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay out of the miscellaneous items of the contingent fund of the Senate to Mrs. Dora Marshall, widow of James H. Marshall, clerk of a messenger of the United States Senate, the sum of $120 being for a month equal to six months' salary at the rate per annum allowed by law to the messenger aforesaid, said sum to be considered as including the funeral expenses and all allowances.

SAFETY OF MITZEROTT HALL.

Mr. HAWLEY. I submit a resolution which I wish to have adopted now. I think when it is read there will be no objection to it.

The resolution was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to, as follows:

Whereas many complaints have been publicly made concerning the safety of Mitzerott Hall;

Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be, and it is hereby is, instructed to report to the Senate whatever information it may have received relating to that subject.

COMMITTEE ON IMMIGRATION.

Mr. CHANDLER submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Committee on Immigration be authorized to continue during the present session the inquiries directed by resolution of the Senate of July 16, 1892, with all the powers conferred by said resolution.

COMMITTEE ON FAILED NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. CHANDLER submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Committee on Failed National Banks be authorized to continue during the present session the inquiries directed by resolutions of the Senate of June 2, 1892, and July 19, 1892, with all the powers conferred by said resolutions.

CIVIL-SERVICE POSITIONS.

Mr. DANIEL. Yesterday I submitted a resolution calling for information from the Civil Service Commission, and requested that it might lay on the table. I ask now that the resolution be taken up and passed. I will state that I have consulted the chairman of the committee on the subject and he said he does not desire to have the resolution referred, and has no objection to it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will be read.

The resolution was read, and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Civil Service Commission be, and it is hereby, requested to furnish the Senate with a succinct statement of the positions in the Government service now embraced under civil-service regulations, including their number and kind and of the methods and application of examination, the said statement also to specify the quota of each State, whether filled or vacant, and what positions in number and kind are open to appointment outside of civil-service regulations, with their number and kind, the design of this resolution being to procure in a compact form information for the use of those desiring to enter the service of the Government.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. Towles, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 353) to amend and enlarge the act approved June 18, 1878, entitled "An act to provide for the distribution of the awards made under the convention between the United States of America and the Republic of Mexico, concluded on the 23d day of July, 1868;" and

A bill (S. 606) to amend and enlarge the act approved June 18, 1878, entitled "An act to provide for the distribution of the awards made under the convention between the United States of America and the Republic of Mexico, concluded on the 23d day of July, 1868."

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (S. 159) terminating the reduction in the number of the Engineer Corps of the Navy;

A bill (S. 1910) for the relief of R. B. Woodson; and A bill (S. 2612) granting a pension to Tendo, chief of the Ban-nocks, Shoshones, and Sheepsters tribe of Indians.

WILLIAM MCGARRAHAN—VETO MESSAGE.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business?
If not, that order is closed.

Mr. TELLER. I ask that the special order be laid before the Senate.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The special order will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (S. 1968) to submit to the Court of Private Land Claims, established by an act of Congress approved March 3, 1891, the title of William McGarrahan to the Rancho Panoche Grande, in the State of California, and for other purposes.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is, Shall the bill pass, the objections of the President of the United States to the contrary notwithstanding? Is the Senate ready for the question?
[A pause.] The roll will be called by the Secretary.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. McPHERSON. Let the bill be read.

Mr. PASCO. What is the question before the Senate?

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to inquire what bill is being voted upon.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The title of the bill will be read.
The title of the bill was again read.

Mr. HOAR. I think the bill on its passage should be read.

Mr. SANDERS. I should like to have the bill explained.

Mr. PLATT. Let the Senator ask unanimous consent. The roll call was commenced, but that may be waived for the present.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. No response had been made. The Senator from Montana is entitled to the floor.

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. President, the bill involves liability for a large sum of money, and I think that before voting upon it, if it is not too late, somebody in charge of it ought to state on what grounds of public justice or liability the bill stands. I do not myself know enough about it to justify me in voting for it, and there are some circumstances connected with it that seem to me to make it improper that a bill which probably will visit upon the United States a liability for a number of million dollars should be passed without some explanation that will satisfy the public judgment.

The bill was passed, I believe, at the last session of the Senate without observation by anybody, without any calling of yeas and nays, and the message of the President may very appropriately be entitled to such consideration as to call for a statement of the reasons upon which the liability of the Government stands for so considerable a sum of money. If anybody in charge of the bill or familiar with the circumstances can give us any explanation
I shall be glad.

I understand that the bill contemplates a grant of public land, practically a new grant of public lands never before made; and that it provides by legislation for vesting, so far as there is authority in the United States to so vest it, a very valuable mine in the beneficiary of the bill; but inasmuch as that mine has heretofore been granted away under laws of the United States to persons entitled to it by virtue of the laws of the United States, and therefore as the United States can not fulfill the obligations which the bill imposes, the United States proposes to step in and give to the beneficiary of the bill an amount equal to the proceeds of that mine taken out of it by the owners heretofore, or liable to be taken out of it by the owners of it hereafter.

I understand, as I read the bill, that it is an attempt legislatively to assert a liability of the United States for a tort and to compensate in damages for that tort; that the United States shall legislatively respond in damages for the tort so committed; and the worst of the proposition is the character of the tort alleged.
It is, that coordinate and coequal branches of the Government, not subordinate to the legislative department, but its equal, have perpetrated a wrong upon this beneficiary; that the Supreme Court of the United States has made a decision with reference to the disposition of certain property and with reference to the ascertainment of certain rights which is wrong; that the executive department of the Government has granted the title to this property to individuals not entitled to it, and therefore it is proposed by this legislation to place upon the Supreme Court of the United States and upon the executive department of the Government the imputation of wrongdoing and to respond legislatively in damages therefor. If I comprehend the significance of the bill it has no foundation that is not based upon that abstract proposition of liability.

For one I am unwilling in any official vote cast to place upon either one of those Departments of the Government an imputation so grave as that. I do not pretend that in the administration of human affairs divine and absolute justice can always be done; but everybody must submit to those tribunals and authorities that the wit and wisdom of man have devised for the determination of individual rights.

But I have another objection to the bill, if I understand it rightly. The foundation upon which it is based (and I do not stop to inquire whether that foundation is a fact or not) is a petition filed by a former citizen of Mexico, resident in Alta California, then a province of Mexico, for a grant of land, to the end that he might pursue "the beautiful industry of agriculture;" and all subsequent events upon which this pyramid of literature and this struggle are based rest upon that application and the events and circumstances that followed with reference to it.

If it be true that that petition was filed, of which I suppose there is no doubt, and that grant was made, of which I suppose there is doubt, I want to submit a proposition which no person can deny, that by virtue of that grant no right under any combination of circumstances vested in that grantee the ownership of mines or the right to pursue the exploitation of mining upon the premises granted. It had been decided in Mexico, and in all civilized countries, for that matter, I think I may say, at the time that this circumstance occurred, and it has been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States time and time again, once in the case of the United States vs. Castillero, 2
Black's Reports, page 17, and in a dozen cases, I believe, of our State courts, following this most well-considered opinion, that a grant of Mexican lands by Mexico did not carry with it a right to the mines thereon, but that two titles were recognized in the lands, one a mining title and the other an agricultural title; that the mining title could not be obtained except upon specific and definite application therefor, and that a grant of lands for agricultural uses, or without specifying for what use they were granted, did not carry with it a grant of the land for the purpose of mining nor any interest in the mines thereon.

The question as to the validity of this grant occupies the literature of our executive, judicial, and legislative departments,
I think it is no exaggeration to say, to the extent of 5,000 pages.
Many years ago, in this Capitol, my attention was called to it as then a very remarkable case, and I have followed it only casually and as a matter of public interest from that time to this.

I was somewhat surprised that when this bill came up nobody arose to explain its provisions or vindicate the justice of the enactment. At least on two occasions, by the Supreme Court of the United States, by a unanimous decision in each case, this grant has been declared to be invalid. Imputations of the gravest character upon the integrity of the original claim and upon the processes by which it was sought to be confirmed are found in every page of its history. I do not desire myself to recite them; indeed, I am not sufficiently familiar with them to give, with the exactness that I could desire, every detail, if it were useful so to do.

But I rest this case upon the proposition that, having been examined by the executive department it has been rejected, and having been examined by the judicial department it has been declared invalid and fraudulent; and that if both of those departments should have declared it to be a valid grant it still would not have formed the remotest justification for such legislation as is provided in the bill now before the Senate.

I think, therefore, we should be grateful to the President that he has recalled our attention to this legislation, that we may proceed to inquire why if that grant had been originally a valid one and had conveyed to a three or four leagues of land involved to the grantee or his assigns, what right or authority it would have vested in him to this most remarkable and phenomenal mine that exists upon it, and why as a matter of fact the United States should respond in damages for a tort perpetrated by the Supreme Court and by the executive department of the Government, why the Congress of the United States should put the stain of indelicity or ignorance upon those two great tribunals of our Government, coequal with us, and who in respect of these matters have given it a more painstaking investigation, with better facilities for ascertaining the truth than we can hope to have before us, for if that patent had been issued for this piece of ground there would have remained in the United States the mine thereon; and it would have been just as competent for the United States to have granted that mine to some other person in fee simple under our law of 1866 as it was to grant it when, by virtue of the decision of the Supreme Court, the land involved in this bill became a part of the public domain and was entered by various parties.

Now, I say that this legislation is not unprecedented, so far as the mere proposition is concerned to refer it to the Court of Claims. Further than that, it is an imputation upon the Supreme Court and upon the executive department, it has embarrassed and annoyed public officers and delayed the public business since 1855, and that it prescribes arbitrary rules of evidence there could be no objection, but these are adequate.

I say this case has been before the Supreme Court, and is relege, and W. P. McNary, pastor of the Union Presbyterian Church at that place. I move that the memorial be referred to the Select Committee on the Quadro-Centennial.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. COCKRELL. I also present a petition of the Interstate Convention of Cattlemen, praying for the establishment of a bureau of information and statistics in live stock, with an explanation of the proposed system, and letters of indorsement from over thirty States. I apprehend that the petition should be referred to the select committee of which my colleague [Mr. VEST] is chairman.

Mr. VEST. Yes, a bill on the subject is pending.

Mr. COCKRELL. I move that the petition be referred to the Select Committee on the Transportation and Sale of Meat Products.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. VEST presented a petition of citizens of Tarkio, Mo., praying for the passage of legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. QUAY presented petitions of the United Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal Churches of Prospect, Pa., and of the United Presbyterian Church of Mount Nebo, Pa., praying for legislation to close the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors thereat, for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill, for the restriction of immigration, and for the submission of the proposed sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PADDUCK presented the petition of J. A. Co-by and other citizens of Benkelman, Nebr., and of 100 members of the United Presbyterian Church of Parks, Nebr., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill, and for adequate legislation restricting immigration, etc.; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the Federation of Labor Unions of Washington, D. C., praying for the passage of House bill 8537, providing for an effective eight-hour law for workmen; which was referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. SANDERS presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union, of Great Falls, Mont., praying for the passage of House bill 8535, prohibiting smuggling into the United States under the guise of wearing apparel; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. HISCOCK presented a memorial of the New York Mercantile Exchange, remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented the petition of Thomas B. Keel and 58 other citizens of New York, praying for the passage of legislation authorizing the publication of certain statistics relating to the labor product and intellectual development of people of African descent residing in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. HISCOCK. I present three memorials of citizens of New York, bankers and business men of New York City, remonstrating against the passage of Senate bill 2626, providing for the construction of a bridge across the Hudson River between that city and the State of New Jersey, and I ask that the memorials be printed in the RECORD. I make this request because a petition on the same question was printed in the RECORD a few days ago.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request made by the Senator from New York?

Mr. HARRIS. There is.

Mr. HISCOCK. I state that I ask that the memorials printed in the RECORD for the reason that a petition on the other side of the question was allowed to be printed in the RECORD.

Mr. PLATT. I thought the petition to which the Senator refers was not allowed to be printed in the RECORD.

Mr. HARRIS. I know of none of those general petitions that have been allowed to be printed in the RECORD, and certainly none of them would have been allowed if my attention had been called to it. I object to encumbering the RECORD with petitions on any subject.

Mr. HISCOCK. I withdraw the request.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The petition to which the Senator from New York refers was not printed in the RECORD. Objection was made to that, and it was ordered printed as a document.

Mr. HISCOCK. Very well; let the memorials be printed as a document.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The memorials will lie on the table and be printed as a document.

Mr. SHERMAN presented a petition of the First Presbyterian Church of Toledo, Ohio, and a petition of 285 citizens of Ohio, praying Congress not to repeal the law closing the World's Columbian Fair on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. ALLEN presented the petition of O. O. Wright and 60 other citizens of Douglas County, Wash., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. CULLOM presented a petition of the Ladies' Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Congregation of Henderson, Ill., praying for the passage of legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, and that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. FRYE presented a petition of 23 citizens of Piscataquis County, Me., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. BATE presented a memorial of the Memphis (Tenn.) Cotton Exchange, remonstrating against the action taken by that exchange on the 16th of November, in opposition to the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill, and praying for the passage of that or some similar measure; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. BRICE presented a petition of the State Grange of Delaware, Ohio, and a petition of the Farmers' Institute of Leontia, Ohio, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Unions of Tiffin, Findlay, Youngstown, Delaware, Zanesville, and Toledo, all in the State of Ohio, praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented memorials of the Preachers' Union of Toledo, Ohio, of L. M. Hoffman and 30 other citizens of Newton Falls, Ohio, of W. F. McCauley and other members of the Christian Endeavor Union and of the Ministerial Association of Findlay, Ohio, remonstrating against the passage of any legislation authorizing the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of citizens of Hamilton County, Ohio, remonstrating against the passage of any legislation authorizing the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; the sale of intoxicating liquors thereat; praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill, and advocating the submission of the proposed sixteenth amendment to unite church and state; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. TELLER presented a petition of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of Colorado Springs, Colo., praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MORRILL presented the petition of Willis Roberts, of Strafford, Vt., praying to be allowed a pension as a dependent father; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PERKINS presented a petition of the heirs of Miguel Salinas, deceased, of Kansas, praying to be reimbursed for rents and houses and other property appropriated by the Government for the use of the United States Army; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas presented a memorial of citizens of Monticello, Ark., remonstrating against any further consideration of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. WHITE presented a petition of members of the city council and various commercial bodies of the city of New Orleans, La., praying for the passage of legislation placing the Nicaragua Canal solely and exclusively under the control of the Government; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. HARRIS presented a petition of citizens of Shelby County, Tenn., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. TURPIE, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6737) granting a pension to Delia R. Bradford, Twenty-fourth Michigan Volunteers, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. FRYE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3533) to amend sections 4188 and 4189, Revised Statutes, for the grant of safety to navigation, reported adversely thereon, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (H. R. 8966) establishing a fog signal at Tibbets Point, Lake Ontario, New York; and

A bill (S. 3510) to amend section 4347 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

Mr. VOORHEES, from the Committee on the Library, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2089) to purchase the portrait of Daniel D. Tompkins, late Vice-President of the United States, painted by Jarvis in 1812, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. McPHERSON, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, submitted a report to accompany the bill (H. R. 8760) providing for the sale of navy-yard lands in the city of Brooklyn, heretofore reported by him.

WILLIAM H. TAYLOR.

Mr. TURPIE. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6024) for the relief of William H. Taylor, to report it without amendment. The bill is one of great merit, and as there is a present emergency for its passage, I ask the courtesy of the Senate for its present consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension roll, at the rate of $12 per month, the name of William H. Taylor, a crippled and dependent son of Uriah Taylor, deceased, late a member of Company A, Forty-ninth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, during the late civil war, and who died from disease contracted in said war while in line of duty soon after the close of the war in 1865.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EULOGIES ON THE LATE REPRESENTATIVE SPINDA.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the following concurrent resolution of the House of Representatives, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That there be printed the eulogies delivered in Congress upon the Hon. Francis B. Spinda, late a Representative from the State of New York; 8,000 copies, which shall include 500 copies to be bound in full morocco, to be delivered to the family of the deceased; and of those remaining, 2,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate and 5,500 copies for the use of the House of Representatives; and the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to have engraved and printed a portrait of the said Francis B. Spinda to accompany said eulogies.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION REPORT.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred a concurrent resolution of the Senate to print copies of the ninth annual report of the United States Civil Service Commission, to report it without amendment; and I ask for its present consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the concurrent resolution; which was read as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That 23,000 copies of the ninth annual report of the United States Civil Service Commission with appendices be printed, of which 1,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate, 2,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives, and 20,000 copies for the use of the United States Civil Service Commission.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the resolution be read again.

Mr. MANDERSON. The resolution is exactly as it was introduced by the Senator from Missouri. There is no change proposed by the committee and the number is the same as is provided for in the general printing bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. Very well.

The resolution was agreed to.

REPORT ON IMMIGRATION.

Mr. MANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the following concurrent resolution, submitted by Mr. CHANDLER on the 12th instant, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Public Printer be, and he is hereby directed to print, within the page 12000 additional copies of the report of Immigration Commissioner H. J. Schuchert, contained in Part I, House Executive Document No. 255 first session Fifty-first Congress, pages 263 to 323, in folio; 2,000 to be for the use of the Treasury Department, 2,000 for the use of the House Committee on Immigration, 2,000 for the use of the Senate Committee on Immigration, 2,000 for the use of the Senate, and 1,000 for the use of the House.

MRS. DORA MARSHALL.

Mr. PADDOCK, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the following resolution, submitted yesterday by Mr. DAWES, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to pay out of the miscellaneous items of the contingent fund of the Senate to Mrs. Dora Marshall, widow of James H. Marshall, deceased, late a messenger of the United States Senate, the sum of $750, being an amount equal to six months' salary at the rate per annum allowed by law to the messenger aforesaid, said sum to be considered as including the funeral expenses and all allowances.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. CARLISLE introduced a bill (S. 3590) for the benefit of Mrs. Anna C. Supplee, of Harrison, Ohio; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. CAMERON introduced a bill (S. 3591) to authorize the allowance of commutation for quarters to officers of the Navy on shore duty; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3592) to provide an American register for the steamer Oceano, of Philadelphia, Pa.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3593) granting a pension to Veronica McGuire; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3594) to confirm title to lots 13 and 14, in square 959, in Washington, D. C.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. CASEY introduced a bill (S. 3595) to amend an act entitled "An act for the relief of settlers upon certain lands in the States of North Dakota and South Dakota," approved August 5, 1882; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. POWER introduced a bill (S. 3596) to provide for the examination and classification of certain mineral lands in the States of Montana and Idaho; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. PROCTOR introduced a bill (S. 3597) to establish companies of the Hospital Corps, United States Army, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3598) to discontinue the Signal Corps and devolve the duties thereof upon other branches of the Army; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. PUGH (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3599) for the relief of John A. Rollings, and James Giffillan; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Also, petition of the heirs of J. A. Hatton, deceased, late of Randolph County, W. Va., praying that his war claim be referred to the Court of Claims, under the Bowman act—to the Committee on War Claims.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SATURDAY, December 17, 1892.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Thursday was read and approved.

STATE AND TERRITORIAL SOLDIERS' HOMES.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting estimate of deficiency in the appropriation for State or Territorial homes for disabled soldiers and sailors for fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, submitted by the Secretary of War; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

QUARANTINE SERVICE DEFICIENCY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting estimate of deficiency in the appropriation for quarantine service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

OFFICERS' QUARTERS, PORT ROYAL, S. C.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting copy of communication from the Secretary of the Navy, relating to the necessity of an additional appropriation for construction of officers' quarters at Port Royal, S. C.; which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

DRY DOCK, PUGET SOUND, WASHINGTON.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting an estimate of appropriation for construction of the dry dock, Puget Sound, Washington, submitted by the Secretary of the Navy; which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

G. T. LARKIN.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting communication from the Attorney-General in reference to the expenses of G. T. Larkin, late deputy marshal, eastern district of Tennessee; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF MATHEMATICS, WEST POINT.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting extract from the proceedings of the Academic Board, United States Military Academy, concerning the appointment of associate professor of mathematics at that institution; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

ST. MARYS FALLS CANAL, MICHIGAN.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting copy of the report of Col. O. M. Poe, Corps of Engineers, relating to commerce passing St. Marys Falls Canal, Michigan; which was referred to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

FRENCH SPOILIATION CLAIM.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting copy of the findings of the court in the French spoliation claim arising out of the seizure of the brig Horatio; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

D. K. TENNY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House communication from the Court of Claims, transmitting copy of the findings of the court in the case of D. K. Tenny vs. The United States; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims.

SENATE RESOLUTIONS REFERRED.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House resolutions of the Senate providing for the printing of 23,000 copies of the ninth annual report of the United States Civil Service Commission and 12,000 additional copies of the report of Immigrant Commissioner H. J. Schulteis; which were severally referred to the Committee on Printing.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted, as follows:

To Mr. WASHINGTON, indefinitely, on account of important business.

To Mr. COOLIDGE, until the 22d instant, on account of important business.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills and joint resolution of the following titles; when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (S. 869) to provide an American register for the large Sea Bird, of Perth Amboy, N. J.;

A bill (S. 1647) to authorize the Alabama Grand Trunk Railroad Company to bridge across the Tallapoosa and Coosa Rivers;

A bill (S. 1956) to make Punta Gorda a suburb of entry;

A bill (S. 2451) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to reconvey to Lucius U. Maltby and Louise W. Maltby, his wife, Margaret Elizabeth Lucas, and the Sea Girt Land Improvement Company a piece of land selected as a site for the Swan Inlet light station, New Jersey, but found to be unsuitable for the purpose of said station;

A bill (S. 3188) to extend to Duluth, Minn., the privilege of the first section of an act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods; and for other purposes," approved June 10, 1890;

A bill (H. R. 6024) for the relief of William H. Taylor; and Joint resolution (S. R. 73) authorizing the Secretary of War to receive for instruction at the Military Academy at West Point Francisco Aleantara, of Venezuela.

MRS. MARTHA STIFF.

Mr. FORNEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Private Calendar a resolution agreed to by the Committee on War Claims.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the bill (H. R. 8430) for the relief of Mrs. Martha Stiff, of Cherokee County, Ala., now pending in the House, together with all the accompanying papers, be, and the same is hereby referred to the Court of Claims, in pursuance of the provisions of an act approved March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States," to find and report to the House the facts bearing upon the merits of the claim and all other facts contemplated by the provisions of said act.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, I think that would better come up in the regular way.

Mr. FORNEY. It is simply a resolution to refer the matter to the Court of Claims. There is no money in it.

Mr. BURROWS. I understand that.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Michigan objects.

NIMROD J. SMITH.

Mr. CRAWFORD. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 6753) for the relief of Nimrod J. Smith, ex-chief of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians.

The bill was read, as follows:

Whereas Nimrod J. Smith was duly elected principal chief of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians on the 8th day of July, 1889, in accordance with the constitution of the general council of said Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians; and

Whereas the said Nimrod J. Smith duly qualified and entered upon the duties of the principal chief on the 8th day of July, 1889, and served in that capacity until the 5th day of October, 1891; and

Whereas the constitution and by-laws of the general council of the said Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians fixes the salary of principal chief at $500 per annum; and

Whereas the general council in October, 1886, passed upon and allowed the claims of the said Nimrod J. Smith for six years' service as principal chief, amounting to $3,000, and authorized the same to be paid out of any funds placed to the credit of said Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians in the Treasury of the United States. Therefore,

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to pay Nimrod J. Smith $3,000, out of any funds in the Treasury, or otherwise available, set apart for the use and benefit of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, in compensation for six years' service as principal chief of said Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians.

With an amendment as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That said Nimrod J. Smith, on payment of the sum so appropriated, shall execute a release in full of all claims whatsoever against said band of Cherokee Indians up to the date of the passage of this act.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this date?

Mr. KILGORE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire why it is that the Cherokee Indians can not settle their own matters with this gentleman, if he was their principal chief, and why the salary can not be paid to him by the consent of the Cherokee Indians?

Mr. CRAWFORD. That is just what we propose to do—to take the amount out of their own funds.

Mr. KILGORE. Why do not they agree to it without coming to Congress?

Mr. CRAWFORD. They have no control of the fund except by a vote of Congress. It is entirely under the control of Congress.

Mr. KILGORE. Does this relate to the North Carolina Cherokee Indians?

Mr. CRAWFORD. Entirely. This is a trust fund set apart and placed to the credit of these Indians in the Treasury of the United States.

Mr. KILGORE. Do they consent to this legislation?

Mr. CRAWFORD. Certainly, by an act of their council.

Mr. KILGORE. Then I do not object to it.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There was no objection.

The amendment recommended by the committee was agreed to.

The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time; and being engrossed, was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CRAWFORD, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

TIMBER-CULTURE LAWS.

Mr. PICKLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask for the immediate consideration of the bill (H. R. 7691) to amend an act entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes."

The bill was read for information.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill?

Mr. OUTHWAITE. Has that bill been reported favorably by any committee of the House?

Mr. PICKLER. Yes.

Mr. AMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I object.

FORTIFICATIONS APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported a bill (H. R. 9923) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, I desire to give notice that I will call that bill up on the 5th day of January.

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, if it is necessary, I wish to reserve all points of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Michigan [Mr. BURROWS] reserves all points of order on the bill.

INCOME TAX.

Mr. OTIS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk, and I ask unanimous consent for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Ways and Means are hereby instructed to consider and report back to the House at an early date House bill 720, referred to said committee March 14, 1892, being "A bill to equalize the burdens of taxation by creating graduated income tax."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. SPRINGER. I object to it.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the committees for reports.

DISTINGUISHING FLAGS AND SYMBOLS ON UNITED STATES VESSELS.

Mr. COOMBS, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, reported back with an amendment the bill (H. R. 9803) for the protection of distinguishing flags and symbols used on vessels of the United States; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS OF ERIE, PA.

Mr. AMERMAN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, reported back with an amendment the bill (H. R. 9826) granting rights and privileges to the board of water commissioners of the city of Erie, Pa.; which was referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

LOCATION OF LAND SCRIP BY ACTUAL SETTLERS.

Mr. McRAE, from the Committee on the Public Lands, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 9411) supplementary to the act of Congress approved January 28, 1879, entitled "An act defining the manner in which certain land scrip may be assigned and located or applied by actual settlers, and providing for the issue of patents in the name of the locator or his legal representatives;" which was referred to the Union Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

FINAL ADJUSTMENT AND SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS OF ARKANSAS AND OTHER STATES.

Mr. McRAE, from the Committee on the Public Lands, reported back with amendments the bill (H. R. 9972) to finally adjust and settle the claims of Arkansas and other States under the swamp-land grants, and for other purposes.

The bill and amendments were ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER.

Mr. GEARY, from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, reported back, as a substitute for the bill H. R. 9905, a bill (H. R. 9939) for the construction and maintenance of a bridge across the St. Lawrence River; which was ordered to be printed.

MASONIC MUTUAL RELIEF ASSOCIATION OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HEARD, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with an amendment the bill (S. 2943) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Masonic Mutual Relief Association of the District of Columbia," approved March 3, 1864; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

CAPITOL, NORTH O STREET AND SOUTH WASHINGTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. HEARD, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported back with an amendment the bill (S. 2852) to change the name of the Capitol, North O Street and South Washington Railway Company; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

The call of committees for reports was concluded.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The SPEAKER. The morning hour begins at twenty-two minutes past 12 o'clock.

APPOINTMENTS, RESIGNATIONS, ETC., IN THE CENSUS OFFICE.

Mr. ALDERSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a privileged question. I desire to call up a resolution, which is entitled to consideration. It is a resolution introduced by myself on June 6.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will send up the resolution.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio that this bill be considered in the House as in Committee of the Whole?

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I yield five minutes to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HOLMAN].

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I hardly think I ought to occupy much time on this question, for my memory is not very fresh in regard to the facts of the transaction. But I may state that some years ago there was made on an appropriation bill—perhaps the sundry civil bill, and perhaps it was in the Forty-eighth Congress, though I am not certain as to that—an appropriation of $160,000 to pay for the lands occupied by the Government at Fort Brown, Tex. It was late in the session when the measure passed, and it was not carefully examined; indeed, it underwent no examination at all at the time it passed the House. I was then a member of the Committee on Appropriations. Soon afterward my attention was called to the fact that it was obvious the appropriation was unreasonably large; that the property was worth a comparatively small sum, and that $40,000 or $50,000 would be fully up to the value of the property and the amount due for occupation from 1847.

Accordingly, at the very next session of Congress, after the making of that appropriation of $160,000, an investigation was set on foot. I believe that in three successive Congresses the subject has been investigated, and that the Committee on Military Affairs in each Congress has uniformly reached the conclusion that an appropriation of the amount I have just stated was entirely unwarranted and unjustifiable; that an appropriation of $50,000, including the amount due for occupation of the ground since the time of the Mexican war, would be very ample.

As I have said, there have been three reports to this effect by the Committee on Military Affairs in three different Congresses. I myself examined the subject very carefully some years ago and reached the conclusion that the amount which should be paid was comparatively small. The bill proposing to appropriate $50,000, and annulling the balance of the judgment was originally reported, I believe, three Congresses ago. I think this bill is a proper one and ought to become a law.

I wish to state further the very important fact that the Secretary of War has not paid out this money. It is very true that the title of the land was in dispute for some two or three years; but since the title has been adjusted the Secretary of War has declined to order the payment of this money—I presume upon the grounds expressed in the reports heretofore made, although I am not certain about that fact. At any rate the money has never been paid, although the appropriation was made many years ago.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I move the previous question.

Mr. CULBERSON. Before the gentleman presses the demand for the previous question I wish to ask him whether this bill covers the claims of the owners of the land for use and occupation.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. This bill is intended to make full payment for the title of the land, if the parties can give a good title, and also for the occupation.

Mr. CULBERSON. My understanding was that the claim for use and occupation was more than $50,000, the ground having been occupied ever since the Mexican war.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. Well, the bill, as I have said, covers the claim for occupation as well as compensation for the title. The language is—

That the sum of $50,000 be appropriated out of any money in the Treasury, etc., to enable the Secretary of War to obtain a good and valid title and extinguish all claims for the use and occupancy of said reservation.

The previous question was ordered; and under the operation thereof the bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. OUTHWAITE, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

NUMBER AND EXPENSES OF SIGNAL CORPS.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. The bill (H. R. 9896) to reduce the number of officers in and the expenses of the Signal Corps of the Army has not been reported from the committee; but I ask unanimous consent that I be now permitted to report it and call it up for action.

The SPEAKER. After the bill has been read the gentleman's request will be put to the House.

The bill was read.

Mr. PICKLER. I object.

The SPEAKER. This bill, not having been heretofore reported, can not be considered now without unanimous consent; and the gentleman from South Dakota [Mr. PICKLER] objects.

MUSTER AND PAY OF OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I call up the bill (H. R. 6649) to extend the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces.

The SPEAKER. This bill is on the Union Calendar.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered in the House as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. KILGORE. I object.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I move, then, that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union. Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts in the chair, and proceeded to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 6649) to extend the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces, approved June 1, 1887, as amended by an act approved February 5, 1887, be, and the same are hereby, revived and extended for a period of three years from the 3d day of June, 1892.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. Mr. Speaker, this bill is designed simply to extend the limitations of an act passed heretofore, and which was in force for a period of five years, I believe. On the 3d of February, 1887, an act to provide for the muster out and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces was approved. The first section of said act was amended on the 3d of February, 1887. The second section of that act remains as follows:

That the heirs or legal representatives of any officer whose muster into the service has been or shall be amended hereby shall be entitled to receive the arrears of pay due such officer, and the pension, if any, authorized by law, for the grade into which such officer is mustered under the provisions of this act.

The fourth section remains as follows:

That the pay and allowances of a rank or grade paid to and received by any military or naval officer in good faith for services actually performed by such officer in such rank or grade during the war of the rebellion shall not be charged to or recovered back from any such officer because of any defect in the title of such officer to the office, rank, or grade in which such services were actually so performed.

The act expired by limitation on the 3d day of June, 1892; and it appears that there are still outstanding many claims as just as are those which have been already adjudicated and in many instances have been paid under the law cited. This arises from the fact that persons interested had not heard of the existence of the law giving them relief. Applications are now being made and presented to the Department for its action by those who have recently become acquainted with these conditions.

The claims yet to be presented are as just and meritorious as those which have been already passed upon, and for that reason the committee are of opinion that the act should be extended and the Government not take advantage of the statute of limitations as to this portion of the officers, when it has already recognized claims similar to these and adjudicated and paid them to other officers.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Does the gentleman state that that is the only thing the extension will cover? Is that all that is in it?

Mr. OUTHWAITE. That is all that is in it. It is simply to extend these provisions of that law.

Unless some gentlemen wishes to discuss the bill I will ask unanimous consent to close debate upon it.

There was no objection.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I move that the committee rise and report the bill to the House with a favorable recommendation.

The motion was agreed to.

The committee accordingly rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. O'NEIL of Massachusetts reported that the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union having had under consideration the bill (H. R. 6649) had directed him to report it back with a favorable recommendation.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Let us have the report read.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I had intended calling the previous question; but I have no objection to the report being read if the gentleman wishes it.

The report (by Mr. ROCKWELL) was read, as follows:

The Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6649) to extend the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces, submit the following:

On February 3, 1887, an act to provide for the muster out and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces was approved.

The first section of said act was amended February 3, 1887. The second section remains as follows:

That the heirs or legal representatives of any officer whose muster into the service has been or shall be amended hereby, shall be entitled to receive the arrears of pay due such officer, and the pension, if any, authorized by law for the grade into which such officer is mustered under the provisions of this act.

The fourth section remains as follows:

That the pay and allowance of a rank or grade paid to and received by any

Mr. DINGLEY. And it can not be repaid, having been covered into the Treasury.

Mr. CAUSEY. It can not be paid for that reason.

Mr. DINGLEY. Is the amount covered by the bill the amount of the fine?

Mr. CAUSEY. The amount of $400 is retained by the Treasury out of the total amount of the fine.

Mr. DOCKERY. Has it been reported by a committee of the House?

Mr. CAUSEY. Yes, sir; favorably.

There being no objection, the bill was considered, ordered to a third reading; and, being read the third time, was passed.

On motion of Mr. CAUSEY, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid upon the table.

CITADEL ACADEMY, CHARLESTON, S. C.

Mr. BRAWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (S. 2981) for the relief of the Citadel Academy, of Charleston, S. C.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to relieve the Citadel Academy of the State of South Carolina, at Charleston, S. C., from all money responsibility for so much of the ordnance and ordnance stores issued to said Citadel Academy under its bond dated May 8, 1891, as was destroyed by fire on March 14, 1892.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. BELTZHOVER. May I inquire of the gentleman from South Carolina the amount of value involved in this proposition?

Mr. BRAWLEY. I think it is only a few hundred dollars, though I am not able to state the exact amount. There were some guns loaned by the General Government to the Citadel Academy for the use of the students, which were destroyed by fire. I am not able, however, to state the exact amount.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. Has the gentleman no means of informing the House of the amount covered by the bill?

Mr. BRAWLEY. I have not, sir, except what is set forth in the report. I do not think it will exceed a thousand dollars, though.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. I think we ought to have some knowledge as to the amount involved.

Mr. BRAWLEY. It would be safe to state that it would not exceed a thousand dollars. These were old guns which were loaned to the students and destroyed by fire in the academy. It is precisely similar to a bill passed at this session for the relief of the University of Missouri.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. Is there any report from the Department upon it?

Mr. BRAWLEY. I have in my hand the report of the committee, which will explain the matter.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. I hope it will be read.

The report (by Mr. BUNN) was read, as follows:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2981) for the relief of the Citadel Academy, Charleston, S. C., beg leave to report:

Your committee have carefully considered the same and adopt the Senate report, which is as follows:

"The Committee on Military Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2981) for the relief of the Citadel Academy, of Charleston, S. C., having considered the same, report as follows:

"On the 14th of March last the Citadel Academy of the State of South Carolina, at Charleston, was partially destroyed by fire, and among other property consumed were certain arms and equipments issued by the War Department to that institution under existing laws. The fire occurred without fault on the part of the officers of the academy, and there was no insurance on the articles referred to.

"This bill authorizes the Secretary of War to relieve the academy from all money responsibility for the articles destroyed under its bond, dated May 8, 1891.

"The bill is in the form of an act passed at the present session of Congress for the relief of the University of Missouri, the facts in that case being substantially the same as in this.

"Your committee attach hereto a communication from the War Department in relation to this subject, and recommend the passage of the bill."

ORDNANCE OFFICE, WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., April 21, 1891.

SIR: I have the honor to return herewith a letter from the superintendent of the South Carolina Military Academy and the affidavits which accompanied it. Some time ago an effort was made to relieve one of the colleges from responsibility for arms destroyed by fire. The Chief of Ordnance recommended that this should be done, and his recommendation was approved by the Secretary of War. It was discovered subsequently, however, that relief could not thus be given, and that the only method of obtaining it was by act of Congress. I enclose a copy of an act recently passed for a similar purpose, with the name of the college and dates changed to correspond with the case referred to by Mr. Coward.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

CHARLES SHALEK.

Captain, Ordnance Department, U. S. A., Acting Chief of Ordnance.
Hon. M. C. BROWDER,
United States Senate.

There being no objection, the bill was considered, ordered to a third reading; and, being read the third time, was passed.

On motion of Mr. BRAWLEY, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid upon the table.

THOMAS CHAMBERS.

Mr. STEPHENSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (S. 1095) for the relief of Thomas Chambers.

The bill was read, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to Thomas Chambers, of Mackinac Island, Mich., the sum of $3,000, in full compensation for the additional expenses incurred by him in carrying the Canada mails, as contractor on route numbered 2443, from South Ste. Marie, Mich., to Mackinac, Mich., from July 1, 1875, to June 30, 1879, inclusive, he having contracted to carry United States mail only.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this bill?

Mr. DOCKERY. Mr. Speaker, let us have the report read, subject to objection.

The report (by Mr. BYRNS) was read, as follows:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1095) for the relief of Thomas Chambers, beg leave to report the same with the recommendation that it do pass.

A similar bill was favorably reported by your committee in the Fifty-first Congress, and has also passed the Senate this session, and report No. 9, made by Senator McMILLAN, from the Committee on Post Offices and Post-Roads, so fully sets forth the facts that your committee adopts the same and makes it a part of this report.

Your committee further recommends that H. R. 2148 lie upon the table.

[Senate Report No. 9, Fifty-second Congress, first session.]

A bill similar to this under consideration was introduced at the first session of the Fifty-first Congress and received a unanimously favorable report from this committee. That report is now adopted by your committee, and is as follows:

"This is a bill to reimburse Thomas Chambers, of Mackinac Island, Mich., for losses sustained by him as contractor on mail route No. 2443, from Mackinac to South Ste. Marie, Mich., for the four years ending June 30, 1879.

"In response to the invitation of the Post Office Department, made in October, 1874, for bids for carrying the mail on this route the claimant filed his proposal in conformity with the departmental instructions, and his bid of $1,655 was accepted. The contract was completed and at the designated time he entered upon the service. In the course of events the weight of his mail matter was largely increased by foreign mail put up at Windsor, Canada, in through pouches, to be delivered on the border at South Ste. Marie, and it was incumbent upon the United States to transport this mail in pursuance of a postal arrangement concluded subsequent to the execution of the contract between this claimant and the Department. There was nothing in the invitation to bid nor in the contract itself contemplating this extra service.

"The Department avers that the claimant made oath that in bidding for the work he did so with full knowledge of the distance of the route, weight of mail to be carried, and all the particulars in reference to the route and service. He was obliged to do this under the terms prescribed, nevertheless he did it with the full knowledge of the facts, knowledge derived from experience in carrying the mail over this same route as subcontractor or employee when there was but one pouch to carry, when its weight was light, and it could be transported with the use of dogs or one saddle horse.

"Again, the Department refers to certain stipulations contained in the contract as to 'celerity, certainty, and security, using the word security as it may be necessary to transport the whole of said mail, whatever may be its size, weight, or contents during the term of the contract.' These again are the usual and formal stipulations, but in enumerating them the Department concedes that the contract contained no clause relative to carrying foreign mail; that it was not until 1883 that such clauses were inserted in contracts. Plainly no such extra service was contemplated by either party to this contract, and especially by the party of the second part.

"This man made his bid in good faith. His practical experience convinced him that he could fulfill his obligation without loss to himself or injury to his bondsmen. His estimate was based upon the cost of employing a team and one horse to carry one pouch. He knew that there could be no other increase. It came, but not by reason of any circumstance that he could have foreseen. It came in the form of foreign mail, not contemplated by the terms of the contract, as the Post Office Department admits; and it tripled his service, his expenses, his responsibility.

"In the opinion of the committee this case does not involve a mere question of technicality. It is one of equity and justice. Even by the terms of the contract the Department did not hold an advantage whereby it could demand this extra service for which there was no adequate compensation.

"If the Department, as it is assumed, has not the power to reimburse this man, it is the imperative duty of Congress to do it.

"The bill is reported favorably, with a recommendation that it do pass."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I hope if the bill comes before the House, it will be with the understanding that there shall be an explanation of it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. BUTLER. I would like to have a little explanation of this bill before action is taken thereon. I have some views in regard to it, but would like to hear from those in favor of the bill first. I do not wish to yield the floor, but if some gentleman can explain the point of this bill, I would like to hear the explanation, and I will yield time for that purpose.

The SPEAKER. The bill is before the House. The gentleman from Iowa [Mr. BUTLER] has the floor, and can yield time if he wishes to.

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, I understand the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. BYRNS] made the report in this case, but is not present. I will say to the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. BUTLER] that if he listened to the reading of the report he would be fully advised as to the nature of the claim. The gentleman will observe that the last House passed this bill, and that it has also passed the Senate in the present Congress. It has now unanimously reported by the Committee on Claims of this House. It will be seen therefore that the bill has passed both bodies at different times.

The gentleman will observe, if he listened to the report, that this contract was for carrying the mails at a time when they were of a domestic character entirely and required only one horse and one man for their transportation. Subsequently, after the contract was let and the contractor entered upon the performance of the duties involved, the mails were heavily increased by the addition of Canadian mails, so that he was obliged to triple the expense incurred by him in carrying the mails, thereby incurring a loss of about $3,000 actually expended to carry out his contract. This bill, which has passed the Senate and been reported unanimously by the committee in this House, is to reimburse him. It was also reported unanimously in the last Congress, as I understand, by the Committee on Claims.

MR. OATES. Would it not be a rather dangerous precedent to establish if we should pass this bill? Do you not suppose there are a great many contractors who lose money by their contracts, and could they not with equal propriety come here and ask to be reimbursed for their losses?

MR. BURROWS. I do not think it would be dangerous. We could consider each case by itself.

MR. OATES. Is there any precedent already established?

MR. BURROWS. I do not know and have no interest in knowing whether there is any precedent or not. If this man's services were increased by the obligations imposed upon him subsequent to the making of the contract, so that he is really out the $3,000, it seems to me, as a matter of equity, as the committee say in their report, he ought to be reimbursed.

MR. OATES. But is it not simply a case of a bad contract on his part, which he asks Congress to make good?

MR. BURROWS. No. When he made the contract he supposed there were no mails to be carried except our domestic mails. Subsequently the service was increased by these foreign mails.

MR. OATES. His compensation ought to have been increased then.

MR. BURROWS. That is what this bill is for.

MR. OATES. But the increase ought to have been made by the Department, and not here.

MR. BUTLER. Mr. Speaker, this bill is one the particulars of which I understand something about, and I wished to get the explanation in order that I might be sure that it was the case that I have in mind. This foreign mail which is said to have been increased under this contract was increased by an arrangement with Canada in 1873, whereby the mail from Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, was carried over this route from Sault Ste. Marie to Mackinac. That was in 1873. This man Chambers made his contract in 1875, two years later, it being a contract for four years, whereby he was to carry the mail from Sault Ste. Marie, via Stephensburg and St. Ignace, to Mackinac, a distance of 66 miles, three times a week, the route being numbered 12387; but the next year, the 14th day of July, 1876, the contract was so changed that the mail, instead of going over the whole line during the time that navigation was open, only went from St. Ignace, Mich., to Mackinac, a distance of 6 miles.

The Department then reduced the amount that was to be paid in the sum of $761.36. The original contract was $1,675. This reduction of the amount of work to be done made a reduction in the price, and he received after that $913.61. He was paid one month's extra pay on account of the reduction. Now that was the mail that he carried. He carried this during the four years of his contract, and then the next man who took it, who was Hawkins Taylor, of Washington, took the contract for carrying the same mail at $23.64 less than the other man had been carrying it for during the four years.

And now he comes here, after another contractor carried it for four years for less than he did, and asks to be reimbursed for money he claims to have expended in excess of his contract.

MR. DOCKERY. Do I understand the gentleman from Iowa to say that the present contractor carried this mail for $23.64 less than the claimant in this case?

MR. BUTLER. I can not say anything about the present contractors. I know that the party, Thomas Chambers, had a contract to carry the mail from 1875 to 1879, and that his successor, Hawkins Taylor, carried it from 1879 to 1883 for $23.64 less annually than Thomas Chambers carried it. It was a moderate mail, and the only material increase was an increase made two years before this Chambers had this contract at all.

MR. DOCKERY. Then the succeeding contractor in fact carried the mail for less than the beneficiary in this bill?

MR. BUTLER. Yes; for less than Chambers carried it.

MR. HEARD. Less than this man absolutely received.

MR. BUTLER. Yes; and there is no reason whatever why he should be paid this increased compensation. I know the route very well, having been over it, and it is simply because of that fact that my attention was first called to it. There is no report from the Post-Office Department concerning it. They do not recommend its payment, and because there was no such recommendation I looked up the case and found the facts as I have stated. There is no justification for the claim, and this man ought not to receive one single dollar; and further than that, he was paid one month's salary more than he contracted for.

MR. DOCKERY. That seems to be clear.

The question was taken on ordering the bill to be read the third time, and the Speaker announced that the "noes" seemed to have it.

MR. STEPHENSON. Division.

The House divided, and there were—ayes 21, noes 60.

MR. STEPHENSON. No quorum.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Michigan [Mr. STEPHENSON] makes the point that no quorum has voted. The Chair will appoint as tellers the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. STEPHENSON] and the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. BUTLER].

The House again divided, and before the result was announced.

MR. STEPHENSON said: Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the point of no quorum, and ask that the bill go over until some other time.

The SPEAKER. The point of no quorum being withdrawn, the "noes" have it, and the House refuses to allow the bill to be read the third time.

LATE ENSIGN D. F. TERRELL.

MR. HOOKER of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I ask for the present consideration of the bill which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The bill was read, as follows:

A bill (S. 570) to provide for the removal of the remains of the late Ensign D. F. Terrell, United States Navy, from Sitka, Alaska, to his home in the State of Mississippi.

Enacted. That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized to make such arrangements as he may deem necessary and proper for the removal from Sitka, Alaska, to Crystal Springs, Copiah County, Miss., of the remains of the late Ensign D. F. Terrell, United States Navy, who died on board the United States steamer Pinta at Sitka, Alaska, on the 15th of April, 1891; and such expense as may be necessarily incurred thereby shall be paid out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated upon duly certified bills therefor.

MR. HOOKER of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, the report accompanying this bill is a unanimous report from the Committee on Naval Affairs.

MR. BURROWS. It is all right.

MR. HOLMAN. I think, Mr. Speaker, that the report ought to be read.

MR. HOOKER of Mississippi. Very well, let it be read.

MR. HOLMAN. I have no objection to the bill.

The report (by Mr. PAGE of Maryland) was read, as follows:

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 570) providing for the removal of the remains of the late Ensign D. F. Terrell, United States Navy, from Sitka, Alaska, to his home in the State of Mississippi, have had the same under consideration and beg leave to report it back and recommend its passage, for the reasons stated in the report from the Committee on Naval Affairs in the Senate of the United States and the letter of the Secretary of the Navy, dated the 23d day of February, 1892, herewith appended.

(Senate Report No. 277, Fifty-second Congress, first session.)

The Committee on Naval Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 570) providing for the removal of the remains of the late Ensign D. F. Terrell, United States Navy, from Sitka, Alaska, to his home in the State of Mississippi, have had the same under consideration and beg leave to report it back and recommend its passage, your committee concurring in the view held by the Secretary of the Navy in this case, as per letter of the 23d of February, 1892 herewith appended.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, Washington, February 27, 1892.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the instant, enclosing a copy of Senate bill No. 570, to provide for the removal of the remains of the late Ensign D. F. Terrell, United States Navy, from Sitka, Alaska, to his home in the State of Mississippi, and requesting the opinion of this Department as to the propriety of the bill, I have the honor to state that while, under the provisions of the Act of the 1st of February, 1862, the funeral expenses of a naval officer who dies in the United States can not be allowed, it would seem that, in view of the great distance of the ports of Alaska from any other ports of the United States, and of the long sea voyage which must be made in returning from Sitka, the port at which Ensign Terrell died, the case is not substantially different from that of an officer who dies while on duty in a foreign port.

Very respectfully,

B. F. TRACY, Secretary of the Navy.

HON. M. C. BUTLER.

Committee on Naval Affairs, United States Senate.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Mississippi?

MR. BEED. I would like to ask the gentleman from Mississippi if there is any provision by which the body of an American officer dying abroad can be brought to the United States?

MR. HOOKER of Mississippi. There is a statute on that subject to-day. The remains of an officer are allowed to be brought from abroad, but as Alaska is a Territory, though very distant from the United States, that statute would not apply in this case. This officer was buried in the ice and mountains, and we

W. Robinson and 38 other citizens of Bourbon County; of D. N. Caldwell and 19 other citizens of Sumner County; of A. Birnie and 19 other citizens of Crawford County; of J. M. Johnson and 21 other citizens of Bourbon County; of William Bailey and 20 other citizens of Butler County; of J. McAllister and 40 other citizens of Sedgwick County; of C. M. Garrison and 19 other citizens of Sedgwick County; of A. H. McKee and 22 other citizens of Sedgwick County; of W. Ives and 18 other citizens of Montgomery County; of J. A. Friend and 43 other citizens of Sedgwick County; of Charles Baldwin and 19 other citizens of Lafayette County; of Jno. W. Summers and other citizens of Chautauqua County, all in the State of Kansas, and of A. A. Liggett and 23 other citizens of Pettis County, Mo., praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill until such committee shall report; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented the petition of E. H. Lamb and other citizens of Chautauqua County, Kans., praying for the passage of legislation regulating speculations in fictitious farm products; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. COKE. I present four petitions, numerously signed by citizens of Texas, exactly like those presented and explained by the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

The petitions praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and now existing between the elevators, millers, and railroads at Minneapolis, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo., and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill until such committee shall report, were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, as follows:

Petition of Peter J. O'Neil and 18 other citizens, of Worth, Tex.;

Petition of W. W. Morse and 17 other citizens, of San Antonio, Tex.;

Petition of J. W. McInnis and 24 other citizens, of Denison, Tex.; and Petition of W. C. Arthur and 22 other citizens, of Sabine County, Tex.

Mr. COKE presented petitions of Joseph Wilson and other citizens of Jacksonville; of George H. Unges and other citizens of Dennison Springs; of J. H. Sillimen and other citizens of Necheville, and of J. N. Singletary and other citizens of Palestine, all in the State of Texas, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. BATE presented the petition of Marion D. Thomas and 24 other citizens of Union County, Tenn., praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented a petition of sundry citizens of Shelby County, Tenn., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. MILLS presented petitions of Claude M. Starnes and 20 other citizens of San Antonio; of Charles H. Redferr and 21 other citizens of Dallas; of H. C. Hogen and 23 other citizens of Grayson, all in the State of Texas, praying for the appointment of a committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented a memorial of 74 citizens of McKinney, Tex., remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of 55 citizens of McLendon County, Tex., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. WALTHALL presented memorials of J. H. Turner and other citizens of Belzoni; of W. R. Rife and other citizens of Columbus; of R. V. Powers and other citizens of Yazoo County; and of W. H. Madden and other citizens of Tehula, all in the State of Mississippi, remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the legislative committee of the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, of Washington, D. C., praying for the early passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented petitions of citizens of Copiah County; of citizens of Claiborne County; of citizens of Flora; of citizens of Utica, and of citizens of Rankin County, all in the State of Mississippi, praying for the postponement of the consideration of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill until the present cotton crop is marketed; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented petitions of citizens of Macon, Miss., and of citizens of Pelahatchee, Miss., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. TURPLE presented petitions of Westby M. McCutchen and 20 other citizens of Peru; of D. C. Cunningham and 20 other citizens of Evansville; of John C. Strong and 16 other citizens of Lafayette; of Charles Coppy and 24 other citizens of Knox County; of John S. Frick and 20 other citizens of Dubois County, and of Z. T. Graham and 26 other citizens of Albany, all in the State of Indiana, praying for the appointment of a committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill until such committee shall report; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented a petition of the Pastors' Club, of Albany, Ind., praying that no action be taken towards repealing the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadricentennial (Select).

Heals presented memorials of South Bend Lodge, No. 212, of South Bend, Ind., and of Falls City Lodge, No. 94, of New Albany, Ind., of the International Association of Machinists, remonstrating against the Government requiring machinists in charge of Government work at West Troy, N. Y., to run two or more machines; which were referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. PERKINS. I present a large number of petitions of citizens of Kansas of the character presented by the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES].

I desire to say it is somewhat significant that all these petitions come to me from the city of St. Louis, Mo.

The petitions, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and now existing between the elevators, millers, and railroads at Minneapolis, Minn., and St. Louis, Mo., and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill until such committee shall report, were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, as follows:

Petition of George Reed and 17 other citizens of Sumner County, Kans.;

Petition of W. W. Dillard and 20 other citizens of Bourbon County, Kans.;

Petition of James Anderson and 17 other citizens of Coffey County, Kans.;

Petition of Mr. Knoff, of Leavenworth, Kans.;

Petition of J. T. Linburne and 33 other citizens of Topeka, Kans.;

Petition of Marian Henderson and 17 other citizens of Jackson County, Kans.;

Petition of J. J. Osler and 21 other citizens of Sedgwick County, Kans.;

Petition of W. P. Smart and 22 other citizens of Mason County, Ky.;

Petition of Thomas H. Franklin and 23 other citizens of Lawrence, Kans.;

Petition of T. B. Johnson and 23 other citizens of Shawnee County, Kans.;

Petition of R. D. Holly and 19 other citizens of Sedgwick County, Kans.;

Petition of Levy Benton and 19 other citizens of Sedgwick County, Kans.;

Petition of K. D. Doyle and 22 other citizens of Sedgwick County, Kans.;

Petition of C. P. Neff and 20 other citizens of Sedgwick County, Kans.;

Petition of H. C. Rollins and 23 other citizens of Woodson County, Kans.;

Petition of William Riley and 19 other citizens of Woodson County, Kans.;

Petition of J. B. Gillard and 22 other citizens of Montgomery County, Kans.;

Petition of W. S. Evans and 21 other citizens of Montgomery County, Kans.;

Petition of Clark Bailey and 20 other citizens of Coffey County, Kans.;

Petition of A. G. Allen and 17 other citizens of Crawford County, Kans.;

Petition of C. G. Lane and 21 other citizens of Crawford County, Kans.;

Petition of J. N. Fricky and 19 other citizens of Sumner County, Kans.;

Petition of F. Golche and 19 other citizens of Labetta County, Kans.;

Petition of F. J. Kenyon and 42 other citizens of Bourbon County, Kans.:

Petition of H. M. Logan and 17 other citizens of Butler County, Kans.:

Petition of B. E. Bradley and 20 other citizens of Crawford County, Kans.; and Petition of William H. Ranson and 20 other citizens of Sedgewick County, Kans.

Mr. PERKINS presented the petition of Andrew J. Arnett, of Earlinton, Kans., praying that he may be granted an increase of pension: which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HANSBROUGH presented petitions of H. J. Rae and 23 other citizens of Cass County; of C. B. Rice and 23 other citizens of Cass County; and of P. A. Richardson and 23 other citizens of Richland County, all in the State of North Dakota, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. SAWYER presented petitions of Henry C. Wachter and 10 other citizens of Wisconsin, and of the congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Clinton, Wis., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a memorial of the Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee, Wis., remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. MITCHELL presented a petition of citizens of the State of Oregon, praying for an extension of time for final entry and payment for lands embraced in the forfeiture act of September 29, 1890, and before that time granted to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and lying in the State of Oregon, to all those persons who were at the time of the passage of such forfeiture act and who now are entitled to purchase the same: which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also presented a memorial of citizens of Pleasant Home, Oregon, remonstrating against a commitment of the United States Government to a union of religion and the state, by the passage of any legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented the petition of Robert Williams, sergeant of ordnance, United States Army, of Vancouver Barracks, Washington, praying for the passage of legislation authorizing his appointment as a second lieutenant of infantry in the Army and his retirement as of that grade: which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I present sundry petitions in printed form, with printed indorsements on the back, each of them in about the same language. They are the petitions of J. W. Chamblee and 21 other citizens of Jefferson County; of R. D. Logan and 20 other citizens of Benton County; and of W. M. Bailey and 21 other citizens of Jackson County, all in the State of Arkansas, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill until such committee shall report.

I move that the petitions be referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas presented the petition of Amanda Ellington, of Magazine, Ark., widow of Capt. William J. Ellington, who served as chief of scouts with the Third Division, Seventh Army Corps, praying that a special pension act be passed in her behalf; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CALL presented a petition of citizens of Escambia, Fla., members of the medical profession, praying that an appropriation of $33,983 be made to assist in defraying the expenses of the Pan-American Medical Congress, to be held in Washington, D. C., September 5, 6, 7 and 8, 1891; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. HALE presented a petition of Central Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, of Foxcroft, Me., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the Maine State Board of Trade, praying for the passage of legislation providing for the consolidation of second, third, and fourth class mail matter under the second-class rating; which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. ALDRICH presented a petition of citizens of Rhode Island of African descent, praying for equal recognition with white citizens in the World's Columbian Exposition; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Baptist churches of Newport, R. I., praying for the passage of legislation closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 16th instant approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 1661) granting an increase of pension to John Hallam; An act (S. 1591) terminating the reduction in the numbers of the Engineer Corps of the Navy; and

An act (S. 1940) for the relief of R. B. Woodson. The message also announced that the President had yesterday approved and signed the act (S. 2612) granting a pension to Tendo, chief of the Bannecks, Shoshones, and Sheepcater tribes of Indians.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 119) conferring the control of the bridges in the District of Columbia on the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PASCO, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3316) to restore the Fort Jupiter military reservation, in the State of Florida, to entry, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. HARRIS, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9758), to amend the charter of the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Company of the District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 119) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to retain and cover into the Treasury certain moneys, etc., reported it without amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. There was a joint resolution to the same effect, passed by the House of Representatives, which was a few minutes ago referred to the Committee on Appropriations. If there is no objection I should be glad to have that reference canceled and the joint resolution lie on the table.

Mr. HALE. The reference was made at my suggestion. I have no objection to the course proposed by the Senator from Arkansas.

Mr. PLATT. There is no objection to that, but I desire to say, as one member of the Committee on Indian Affairs, I do not concur in the report which has been made by the Senator from Arkansas upon the joint resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The House joint resolution will be recalled from the Committee on Appropriations and lie on the table, if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3337) for the relief of M. P. Dady, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment:

A bill (H. R. 9487) to amend an act approved April 22, 1890, authorizing the Natchitoches Cane River Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across Cane River, in Louisiana;

A bill (H. R. 8602) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Mobile River by the Chicago, Mobile and Gulf Ports Railroad Company;

A bill (H. R. 9488) to amend an act approved March 2, 1891, authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Red River, Louisiana, by the Rapides Bridge Company, limited; and

A bill (H. R. 5752) to amend an act approved August 6, 1888, entitled "An act to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Alabama River."

SAFETY OF METZGEROTT HALL.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, who were instructed by resolution to report to the Senate whatever information they may have received relating to complaints made concerning the safety of Metzgerott Hall, submitted a report thereon, which was ordered to be printed.

LANDS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. GALLINGER. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6644) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the sale of title of the United States in lot 3 in square south of square 990," approved March 3, 1891, to report it favorably, without amendment. Inasmuch as the bill is very brief and a similar Senate bill is on the Calendar reported by the same committee, I ask for the immediate consideration of the bill.

After reading, the Senate, by unanimous consent, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to amend the act by adding the following proviso:

Provided, That the conveyance authorized and directed by this act shall be quietclaim and relinquishment only of any title that the United States may have in and to said lot, and that in no event shall the United States be liable for any costs, expenses, damages, or taxes in relation to said lot, and that the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to so quietclaim, release, and convey the title of the United States in said lot to the said Baker & Sampson upon the payment into the Treasury by them of $3,300.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. GALLINGER. I move that the bill (S. 3153) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the sale of title of the United States in lot 3 in square south of square 990," approved March 3, 1891, be taken from the Calendar and indefinitely postponed. The motion was agreed to.

PAY OF EMPLOYÉS.

Mr. DAWES. I am instructed by the Committee on Appropriations, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. Res. 179) to pay the officers and employés of the Senate and House of Representatives their respective salaries for the month of December, 1892, on the 21st day of said month, to report it favorably, without amendment, and I ask for its present consideration.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

HOLIDAY RECESS.

Mr. DAWES. I am instructed by the Committee on Appropriations to report favorably the concurrent resolution of the House of Representatives providing for a holiday recess, and I ask for its present consideration.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be read.

The concurrent resolution was read, as follows:

IN THE HOUSE, December 15, 1892.

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That when the two Houses adjourn on Thursday, December 22, they will stand adjourned until Wednesday, January 4, 1893.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. SHERMAN. Let it go over for to-day.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection being made, the concurrent resolution will go over.

REPORT ON LABOR IN EUROPE.

Mr. CHANDLER, from the Committee on Immigration, reported the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be directed to transmit to the Senate the report on the condition of labor in Europe recently made by Mr. Walter T. Griffin, United States commercial agent at Limoges, France.

JOHN MALLOY.

Mr. SAWYER. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8907) to increase the pension of John Malloy, to report it without amendment, and I ask unanimous consent that it may be now considered.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to increase the pension of John Malloy, late a seaman on the sloop-of-war Preble, in the war with Mexico, from $8 to $45 per month.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SENATE PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

Mr. HOAR. I am directed by the Committee on Privileges and Elections, who were instructed to cause to be prepared for the use of the Senate a new edition of the book entitled "Senate Election Cases," with an addition in regard to the privileges of the Senate, to report that they have complied with the order of the Senate, and the same is offered to the Senate for its acceptance. I suppose the document will lie on the table and be printed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HARRIS in the Chair). It will be so ordered.

Mr. HOAR submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That there be printed and bound, in addition to the usual number, 3,100 copies of the compilation entitled "Senate Privileges and Elections" prepared by the Committee on Privileges and Elections under resolution of the Senate passed February 28, 1891, of which 1,500 copies shall be for the use of the Senate and 1,500 copies for the use of the House of Representatives and 100 for the clerk and printer.

REPORT OF COMMISSIONER OF FISH AND FISHERIES.

Mr. LANDERSON, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the following concurrent resolution, submitted by him on the 13th instant, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the report of the Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, covering the operations of the Commission for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, be printed; and that there be printed 5,000 extra copies of said report, for the use of the Senate, 1,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, and 100 for the use of the Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries. The illustrations to be obtained by the Public Printer under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3640) granting a pension to Eliza A. Fiske; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3641) granting a pension to Sarah M. Phillips; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3642) granting a pension to Honora Breslin; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CAREY introduced a bill (S. 3643) to provide for the disposal of the Fort Bridger abandoned military reservation in the State of Wyoming; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HANSBROUGH introduced a bill (S. 3644) for the relief of the families of certain Indian policemen who were killed during the engagement at Sitting Bull's camp, on Grand River, December 15, 1890, and for the relief of Alexander Middle, who was wounded in said engagement; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3645) granting medals to certain Indian policemen of the Standing Rock Agency, N. Dak.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 121) directing the Secretary of War to investigate the subject of raft-towing on the Great Lakes and their connecting waters; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

REGENTS OF SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

Mr. MORRILL. I introduce a joint resolution and ask for its present consideration.

The joint resolution (S. R. 123) to fill vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution was read the first time by its title and the second time at length, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives, etc., That the vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution of the class other than members of Congress, shall be filled by the reappointment of James B. Angell, of Michigan, whose term of office expires on January 19, 1892.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. VEST. What is the measure?

Mr. MORRILL. It is a joint resolution providing for the reappointment of President Angell to the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the joint resolution.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. In this connection the Chair appoints the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY] to fill the vacancy on the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution caused by the death of the late Senator Gibson of Louisiana.

HERBERT CUSHMAN.

Mr. PALMER. I move that the vote by which the bill (S. 1754) for the relief of Herbert Cushman was indefinitely postponed be reconsidered with a view to its recommitment to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The motion to reconsider was agreed to by unanimous consent. The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be recommitted in the absence of objection.

COUNT OF ELECTORAL VOTES.

Mr. TELLER. I submit a concurrent resolution for reference to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The concurrent resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That the two Houses of Congress shall assemble in the Hall of the House of Representatives on Wednesday, the 8th day of February, 1893, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, pursuant to the requirement of the Constitution and laws relating to the election of President and Vice-President of the United States, and the President of the Senate shall be the presiding officer; that two persons be appointed tellers on the part of the Senate, and two on the part of the House of Representatives, to make a list of the votes as they shall be declared; that the result shall be delivered to the President of the Senate, who shall announce the state of the vote and the persons elected, to the two Houses assembled as aforesaid, which shall be deemed a declaration of the persons elected President and Vice-President of the United States; and, together with a list of the votes, be entered on the journals of the two Houses.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to state that after examining the statutes it seems to me that the statute executes itself. But this was the course pursued four years ago, and I thought it better to introduce the resolution and have it referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, so as to take the opinion of the committee upon the subject.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to say to the Senator from Colorado, the chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, that the provision of the Constitution that each House may prescribe the rules of its own proceeding has been sometimes thought to prevent Congress from enacting by law provisions for the direction of either House as to the time or mode of its proceeding without the special assent of that particular House in the particular Congress. Without suggesting for a moment that that is a sound view, the committee four years ago thought it the safer way, in a matter of such transcendent importance, to avoid that question by having the provisions of the statute also made a joint rule of the two Houses.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The concurrent resolution will be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

MRS. MARY A. MERRITT.

Mr. DAVIS submitted the following resolution: which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to pay, out of the miscellaneous items of the contingent fund of the Senate, to Mrs. Mary A. Merritt, widow of John G. Merritt, deceased, late a messenger acting as assistant door-keeper of the United States Senate, the sum of $300, being an amount equal to six months' salary at the rate per annum allowed by law to the aforesaid messenger acting as assistant door-keeper, said sum to be considered as including the funeral expenses and all allowances.

HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Mr. DAWES submitted the following resolution: which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Committee on Indian Affairs have authority for the employment of a stenographer to report the hearing before said committee on the 16th instant relative to payment of Indian depredation claims; also that said committee be authorized to employ a stenographer to report hearings before said committee whenever the committee shall so order; the expense of such employment to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

INDIAN DEPREDAATION CLAIMS.

Mr. FAULKNER. I submit a resolution, and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Attorney-General be, and he is hereby, directed to report to the Senate the total number of Indian depredation claims already filed in the Court of Claims, with the total amount claimed therein; the number of cases claimed as entitled to priority of consideration and the amount claimed therein; the number to which such consideration has been given and the amount claimed therein; and the number and amount of proceeded with immediately after the routine business to-morrow morning. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

SALE OF NAVY-YARD LANDS IN BROOKLYN.

Mr. McPHERSON. Mr. President—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Massachusetts yield to the Senator from New Jersey?

Mr. HOAR. Let my motion be considered as having been informally waived.

Mr. McPHERSON. I wish to ask for the immediate consideration of House bill 8760, Order of Business 1153, a bill which will only take the time necessary to read it. It is a short but an important bill.

Mr. HOAR. Let the bill be read for information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The title of the bill will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A bill (H. R. 8760) to provide for the sale of navy-yard lands in the city of Brooklyn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey asks unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill, the title of which has been read, be now considered. Is there objection?

Mr. HOAR. I desire to have the bill read at length for information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be read at length, subject to objection.

The Secretary read the bill, and, by unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SALE OF LANDS NEAR FORT MIFFLIN.

Mr. HOAR. I now move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the Senate the unfinished business, which is the bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes, pending which the Senator from Massachusetts moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Mr. CAMERON. With the consent of the Senator from Massachusetts, I ask that the Senate take up at this time a bill which has come from the House of Representatives, with amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Massachusetts yield to the Senator from Pennsylvania?

Mr. CAMERON. The bill will take but a moment.

Mr. HOAR. Very well.

Mr. CAMERON. I ask that the amendments of the House of Representatives to Senate bill 3298 may be laid before the Senate, and that the amendments made by the House of Representatives be concurred in.

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 3298) authorizing the sale of land in the vicinity of Fort Mifflin on the River Delaware.

The amendments of the House of Representatives were, in line 1, after the words "Secretary of War," to insert "and the Secretary of the Navy;" in the same line, after the word "being," to strike out "is" and insert "are;" in line 3, to strike out the word "himself" and insert "themselves;" and in line 13, after the words "Secretary of War," to insert "the Secretary of the Navy."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Pennsylvania that the Senate concur in the amendments of the House of Representatives.

The motion was agreed to.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. HOAR. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After seven minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened.

DEALING IN "OPTIONS" AND "FUTURES."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumes the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling such products to obtain license, and for other purposes. The pending question is upon the amendment proposed by the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL], to strike out section 19.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I move that the pending bill be laid aside, and that the Senate proceed at this time to the consideration of the bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill indicated by him.

Mr. WASHBURN. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry. If the motion of the Senator from Kentucky prevails, do I understand that the antioption bill would lose its place on the Calendar as unfinished business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If the motion of the Senator from Kentucky prevails it would displace the unfinished business.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Before making the motion, I wish ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to the consideration of the bill I have indicated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky asks the unanimous consent of the Senate that the bill indicated by him be now considered, the unfinished business being informally laid aside.

Mr. FRYE. I object.

Mr. BLACKBURN. Then I withdraw my motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill 2626.

Mr. FRYE. I hope the Senator from Kentucky will withhold the motion until after the holiday recess.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I should like to know upon what ground that request is based.

Mr. FRYE. I have just received.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair indulges this colloquy by unanimous consent. The question pending is not a debatable one.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I understand it, sir, and I do not desire to debate it.

Mr. FRYE. I have a telegram dated December 19—

Mr. BLACKBURN. I object to any debate unless we are to be heard on both sides.

Mr. WASHBURN. I call for the regular order, and demand the yeas and nays upon the motion of the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. BLACKBURN. I second that call.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BATE. I have just come into the Chamber. Will the Chair let us know what we are to vote on?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 2626) to authorize the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across the Hudson River between New York City and the State of New Jersey. The question is, Will the Senate agree to the motion, upon which the yeas and nays have been ordered? The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. VEST (when Mr. COCKRELL'S name was called). My colleague [Mr. COCKRELL] is absent on account of affliction in his family. He is paired with the Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALBISON].

Mr. BERRY (when Mr. IRBY'S name was called). The Senator from South Carolina [Mr. IRBY] requested me to state that he was necessarily compelled to be at home, and I understood him to say that he is in favor of the antioption bill, and would vote against the pending motion.

Mr. PALMER (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. KYLE]. I understand that if he were present he would vote "nay" and I should vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. I am not aware of his opinion on the bridge bill, and I withhold my vote.

Mr. DUBOIS (when Mr. SHOTT'S name was called). My colleague [Mr. SHOTT] is absent, having been appointed by the Vice-President a member of the committee to attend the funeral of the late Senator Gibson, of Louisiana.

Mr. WALTHALL (when his name was called). I am paired on this question with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. DIXON], who is absent on account of illness in his family. If he were present, I should vote "nay."

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. CONGER]. I do not know how he would vote on the pending motion, and I therefore withhold my vote.

The roll call is concluded.

Mr. CAMERON. I am paired with the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BARTER]. Not knowing how he would vote, I withhold my vote.

Mr. HILL (after having voted in the affirmative). I am paired with the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. JEBB] on the anti-option bill. I am told that the effect of the pending motion is to displace the anti-option bill. I have no desire to do that. Possibly I ought to withdraw my vote, and not vote at all upon this question. I think I will withdraw my vote under the circumstances.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York withdraws his vote.

Mr. WILSON. I am informed that the Senator from Georgia [Mr. CONQUEST], if present, would vote "nay." I will therefore vote "aye."

The result was announced yeas—43, nays 41, as follows:

YEAS—43.
Albion,	Gibson,	Mills,	Vilas.
Blanchard,	Gray,	Senders,
Booth,	Harris,	Stewart,

So the motion was not agreed to.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL] to strike out section 10.

Mr. FRYE and Mr. MORGAN. Let it be read.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will read the amendment.

The Secretary read the section proposed to be stricken from the bill.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. President, I have no embarrassment in regard to my position on this measure. During my canvass for Senator in Illinois I was asked publicly by a body which claimed to represent the farmers of Illinois whether I would vote for a bill like this, and by a public letter, or a letter which was published, and in speeches made in various parts of the State I said no.

The option clause, the first section of the bill, is in itself satisfactory and comprehensive to my mind than the statute of Illinois on the same subject. We have in that State a well considered statute which covers all and much more than the first section of this bill. The statute of Illinois does not attempt to define options, but it is assumed in the statute that the word "option" is one that has a known legal signification, and dealing in options is prohibited and is punished in addition by adequate fines and penalties.

I therefore said to those who asked me that there being a law in the State, a careful, well-considered statute, nothing more could be gained by mere legislation. It was said to me by gentlemen who differed with me that the law of Illinois was not thoroughly enforced. I admitted that to be true, and I said, and say here, it is not wise to enact laws simply to be disregarded. I apprehend that this proposed law would like that be disregarded, if it were free from any constitutional objection.

I regret, Mr. President, this disposition on the part of the people, for it is with them, and a disposition which I believe by their representatives in the States and in Congress, to multiply criminal or penal statutes. It may be said, and some contradictory, too, to say it, that the enactment of a law which public opinion will not sustain and enforce is of itself demoralizing. The example of the disregard of law is of itself an evil; it is demoralizing. Legislation, in my judgment, to be wise must be but the mere expression of the public will and supported by the public conscience.

If we are to believe the reports we have through the press, option dealing is regarded in most of the large cities as absolutely free from offense. I regret that it is so, but it is the case; and while that state of public sentiment exists it seems to me to be unwise to multiply mere formal declarations, frequently declarations or claims made by the people without understanding them very clearly; and frequently laws of that sort are passed in the States and in Congress from a mere suspicion that they are demanded by the people when really they are not.

In view of a section of the pending bill to which I will refer, I regret that the definition of options in the bill is so imperfect and unsatisfactory. The twelfth section of the bill provides—

That neither the payment of the taxes hereinafter provided nor the collection thereof by the collector of internal revenue under this act shall be held to exempt any person as partner, copartner, or corporation from any penalty or punishment now or hereafter provided by the laws of any State or Territory for making, transferring, or assigning contracts or agreements such as are hereinafter defined as "options," or "futures," or contracts or agreements, or in any manner to authorize the making, transferring, or assigning of such contracts or agreements, within any State, Territory, or locality contrary to the law of such State, Territory, or locality; nor shall the payment of the taxes imposed by this act be held to exempt any State, Territory, or municipality from placing a tax or duty on the same trade, transaction, or business for State, Territory, municipal or other purposes.

I supposed that the options defined by the first section of the bill were transactions condemned by the laws of Illinois, and I was inclined to oppose the bill upon the ground that this exception destroyed its uniformity. If the bill receives the construction contended for by those who favor it, the section I have read does destroy its uniformity, because its effect would be to take out of the operation of the bill all the States in which options are forbidden, as in many of the States, or futures, which are forbidden I believe by the laws of but one of the States of the Union. I am inclined to think from a very cursory examination that in the State of Georgia there is or was a law forbidding transactions in futures.

But in examining this bill more carefully I am inclined to think that the options of the bill are not the options of the courts and the Legislatures. I am inclined to believe that the options of the bill are a harmless transaction which has never been made the subject of judicial or legislative discussion or reprehension. For the purpose of making myself understood, I will read the first section:

That for the purposes of this act the word "options" shall be understood to mean any contract or agreement whereby a party thereto, or any party for whom or in whose behalf such contract or agreement is made, acquires the right or privilege, but is not thereby obligated, to deliver to another or others, at a future time, or within a designated period, any of the articles mentioned in section 3 of this act.

As I suppose contracts precisely such as are defined in this section are unknown in commerce it would be valueless; it would do no harm and no good. I know of no instance in which such contracts have been made. The options of the books and the law are contracts for the sale and delivery of articles at a future time with an express or implied agreement that particular articles are not to be delivered according to the contract, but that the differences between values at the two periods, the time of the sale and the time of the supposed delivery, are to be adjusted by the parties. Those are the options of the text-books.

In this case nothing more is necessary. I suppose, to convict a party that a contract or agreement shall be produced whereby a party thereto, or any party for whom or in whose behalf such contract or agreement is made, acquires the right or privilege, but is not thereby obligated to deliver to another or others, at a future time or within a designated period, any of the articles, which are named in section 3. I suppose the essential element of options is entirely wanting in the definition of options furnished by the bill for its own purposes. The essential element of an option, whether the contract is in the form of a privilege or in any other of the forms recognized in trade, is that there shall be an agreement or understanding, either expressed in the contract or implied outside of the contract, that the differences in value shall be adjusted between the parties at the time fixed or at some time to be agreed upon.

If there was an indictment under this section and a contract was shown in evidence whereby in addition to the privileges the party was obliged to deliver, I suppose that would satisfy the requirement of the proposed statute and would necessarily meet the charge of a violation of this bill if enacted into law. It seems to me therefore that the section is of itself without meaning, and I am quite sure it is not covered by any of the statutes of any of the States in which options are defined or punished.

I wish to state, in addition, that options, as understood, are contrary to the laws of all the States, and if the bill did, in fact, define options, it might be said that it would have no operation in any State, because in every State, I believe, if there are any exceptions I do not know what the exception is, option contracts, wager contracts, are forbidden; I do not mean by statutes, but the courts have held them to be wager contracts, contrary to public policy and public morality; and in every instance the courts have refused to enforce them. I think that is the law of all the States in the Union.

If, then, the first section did in fact define the options to which I refer, options within the meaning of the laws or the wager contract which is condemned by laws and by judicial decisions,

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, December 21, 1892.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

REPORT OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the sixth annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission: which, on motion of Mr. CULLOM, was, with the accompanying papers, ordered to lie on the table, and be printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. SHERMAN presented the petition of Charles A. Hawkins and 24 other citizens of Toledo, Ohio, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antiopion bill until such committee shall report; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented petitions of Twin Valley Grange No. 657, Patrons of Husbandry, of El Dorado Grange Patrons of Husbandry, and of Pomona Grange No. 64, Patrons of Husbandry, all in the State of Ohio, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antiopion bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. BATE presented the petition of M. E. Spurgin and other citizens of Hilton, Tenn., and the petition of C. L. Wall and other citizens of Fayette County, Tenn., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antiopion bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. MORGAN. I present a memorial of the General Assembly of the State of Alabama, and ask that it be read.

The memorial was read, as follows:

Joint memorial to Congress in reference to construction of Nicaragua Canal.

The joint memorial of the senate and house of representatives of the State of Alabama in General Assembly convened to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in their assembled session, respectfully shows unto your honorable bodies:

First. That the construction of the Nicaragua Canal would greatly benefit the State of Alabama by opening up new markets for her agricultural products, notably cotton, and for her mineral products, particularly iron, steel, and coal. That it would increase her sales of lumber and ship stores, and by making the Gulf of Mexico the highway for the trade and commerce of the world, would stimulate the growth of her Gulf ports and the development of all her resources.

Second. That the entire Mississippi Valley, including the lake ports, would feel the beneficial influence of practically another mouth to the great river opening into the Pacific Ocean.

Third. That the Atlantic seacoast will reap benefit by the shortening of the distances to our Pacific coasts and to the East, enabling it better to compete with Europe for the Pacific Ocean trade, and stimulating its ship-building and shipping interests.

Fourth. That our Pacific coast States would find every industry and source of prosperity stimulated by lower freights and closer connection with the Central and Eastern States, so that it is said herein that our whole country is interested in the construction of this great highway for the commerce of the world.

Fifth. That the strategic importance of this canal is such that the Government of the United States should secure its absolute control.

Sixth. That the Canal Company having expended some $6,000,000, estimates the entire cost of construction of the canal at $100,000,000 and seeks the aid of the United States Government in raising the sum.

Seventh. That judging from the revenue accruing to the Suez Canal it would be safe to expect this greater work to pay a good dividend on the amount invested.

Eighth. For these reasons, your memorialists earnestly urge that such measures be adopted as will in your wisdom, best secure the speedy construction of this canal and its control by the United States Government.

Resolved, That the governor of this State be requested to furnish a copy of this memorial to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

J. C. COMPTON,
President of the Senate.

Approved December 3, 1892.

THOMAS G. JONES, Governor,
FRANCIS L. PETTUS,

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

I hereby certify that the above is a true copy of the original papers now on file in my office.

J. D. BARRON,
Secretary of State.

Mr. MORGAN. In the same connection I present a memorial upon the same subject by Mr. George L. Converse, of Ohio; Edward F. Cragin, of Illinois; R. L. Edwards, of New York; and T. J. Odendahl, of Louisiana, a committee appointed by the convention which recently met in New Orleans, composed of 700 delegates from about 38 States of the Union, earnestly urging upon Congress the passage of the bill to aid in the construction of the Nicaragua canal. The memorial, under the rules of the Senate, I believe I have no right to read, and thus place it upon the records of the Senate. I move that this memorial and the one which has just been read be printed together as a document, and laid upon the table.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS presented a petition unanimously signed by citizens of Shelby County, Tenn., praying for the passage of the antiopion bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. HILSCOCK presented the petition of Frederick Heyl and 41 other citizens of Chautauque, N. Y., praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antiopion bill until such committee shall report; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented a petition of the board of aldermen of Buffalo, N. Y., praying Congress to direct the Government Board of Engineers to prepare plans for the extension of the breakwater at Buffalo Harbor to Stony Point, and report thereon as speedily as possible; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented the petition of T. J. Yost and 154 other citizens of Altamont, N. Y., praying that Congress rescind its former action in regard to the sale of intoxicating liquors on the grounds of the World's Columbian Exposition as not to infringe upon existing laws of Illinois; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial Subject.

Mr. PROCTOR presented the memorial of P. J. Boardman and other citizens of Norwich, Vt., remonstrating against repealing the provision requiring that the World's Columbian Exposition be closed on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial Subject.

Mr. McPHERSON presented a petition of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society, praying for the enactment of legislation to prohibit gambling in foot-ped acts; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. QUAY presented memorials of the Center Presbyterian Church of New Park of the Christ Lutheran Congregation of York; of the Lutheran Evangelical Congregation of York, and of the Church of God Congregation of Columbia, all in the State of Pennsylvania, remonstrating against the passage of any legislation repealing the provisions of the act closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. FELTON presented a petition of the Afro-American citizens of the State of California, praying for the passage of legislation authorizing the board of management and control of the United States Government exhibit of the World's Columbian Exposition to collect statistics, etc., concerning the colored race; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. TURPIE, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5012) to increase the pension of Thomas Elnow, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VILAS, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3028) for the relief of William P. Dunwoody, submitted an adverse report thereon: which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2594) for the adjustment of the rights of the Indians and Indian tribes to lands owned or occupied by them in the Indian Territory, and for other arrangements, with a view to the creation of a State embracing such Territory, reported it with amendments.

Mr. MORGAN. As a member of the Committee on Indian Affairs I dissent from the report just made. The bill itself, prepared and introduced by the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. BERRY], is admirably adapted to carry out the purposes which he has in view, but it provides for a commission to go to the five civilized tribes and negotiate with them for a release of their lands to the United States. I do not believe that the Legislatures of those different tribes have that power, nor do I believe that it is practicable under their organic law, or under treaties, or under the legislation of the United States to assemble in those five tribes any body of citizen Indians who have the right to make the concessions in the broad way in which they are proposed to be made through the agency of this commission.

Nevertheless, I believe that there is connected with the patents we have issued to those tribes as tribes for the lands a trust in behalf of the citizens of the respective nations or tribes, and the question remains as to who shall execute that trust. Inasmuch as it is a function of supreme sovereign power to execute the trust, I believe that the Government of the United States ought to execute it by the legislation of Congress, I will say, out of hand. The Legislatures of the respective tribes, I think, have not the power to execute it, nor do I think it is consistent with the nature of the trust itself that they should execute it, nor do I believe that they can execute it peacefully.

I believe that the Government of the United States ought now to pass laws for the proper distribution amongst the Indians of their domain, having respect, delicate respect, to every equity that has arisen out of former transactions, occupancy, etc. I believe that if we were to pass a just law it would be accepted by the Indians quietly, peacefully, and gratefully, and that we should avoid thereby those strife and contentions which I am very much afraid will be aroused if we send a commission there to treat with any supposed legislative body or any supposed authorized body of citizens for the acquisition of this Territory.

So I enter my protest against the passage of the bill in its present form, and at the proper time when the bill is up for consideration I hope I shall be able to offer an amendment in the line of my remarks.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1218) to amend the act entitled "An act to incorporate the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua," approved February 20, 1889, to report it with amendments and to submit a written report.

I am also directed to ask that the report made on this subject by the same committee on the 10th of January, 1891, be printed as a part of the report now submitted. Within a few days I will furnish to the clerk a report upon the amendments proposed by the committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Ohio desire to have the printing withheld until the additional matter is furnished?

Mr. SHERMAN. Yes. In a day or two I will hand it to the Secretary. I give notice that at as early a day as practicable in the business of the Senate I shall seek to secure action upon and the passage of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. STEWART, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1353) for the relief of Morgan Everts, asked to be discharged from its further consideration, and that it be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs; which was agreed to.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

Mr. VANCE, from the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, to whom was referred the resolution submitted by Mr. VEST on the 6th instant, reported it without amendment, and it was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to, as follows:

Whereas it has been charged by the public press that officials of the Government employed in the Census Bureau of the Interior Department have been guilty of gross misconduct for partisan purposes, and especially that the enumerators appointed to make the enrollment of population for the census of 1890 in the State of Missouri and elsewhere, did under instructions from certain officers of the Bureau, make at the same time lists of voters for partisan use;

And also, that certain clerks and accountants employed in said Bureau were sent to the State of New York during the recent canvass to perform partisan service while drawing pay from the Government: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on the Census is directed to investigate said charges, and to report by bill or otherwise; that said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer, the expenses to be paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CATHEDRAL FOUNDATION.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9417) to incorporate the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia, to report it favorably, without amendment. I ask that it take the place of Senate bill 3391 now on the Calendar, and that the Senate bill be indefinitely postponed. This being a House bill, and as there are some reasons why it should pass at an early day, I ask permission to have it considered now.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read for information.

The bill was read; and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. COCKRELL. I should like to ask the Senator who reported the bill if it may not be a little too latitudinarian in its construction. It is, as I understand, an exact copy of Senate bill 3391, which has been reported heretofore and is on the Calendar.

Mr. McMILLAN. It is an exact copy of that bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. The language of the bill is that the persons named—

Are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate by the name of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia, with power to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, and have perpetual succession; to acquire, take, by devise, bequest, or otherwise hold, purchase, encumber, and convey such real and personal estate as shall be required for the purposes of its incorporation.

Would not that enable the corporation to acquire real estate and invest its funds in that way, and then turn around and sell the real estate, and continue to acquire and to convey such property at will at a pleasure? It seems to me it is a pretty wide authority to give to any corporation.

Mr. McMILLAN. That is not the purpose. There are certain parties in the district now who are ready to turn over to this corporation a large amount of property, and it is intended of course that they shall own and control the property. The intention is to hold it, just the same as property is held by other institutions here.

Mr. COCKRELL. When the bill was up at the last session I had an amendment prepared, which would limit the holding of real estate simply to that which might be necessary for the purposes of the corporation, so far as holding it is concerned.

Mr. McMILLAN. There is no objection to an amendment of that kind, if the Senator will present it.

Mr. COCKRELL. I heard the bill was coming up and I looked for the amendment, but I can not find the exact amendment which I proposed at the time.

Mr. FAULKNER. I ask the Senator from Missouri whether the legal construction of the language used in the bill is not that the only property that can be acquired by this corporation is for the purpose of carrying out the objects and purposes of its creation, and if that is not a limitation?

Mr. COCKRELL. Then why acquire the right to sell it. If it acquires it for that purpose and holds it there would be no objection to the bill, but the bill provides that it may acquire it and change it. It may change property back and forth just as it pleases in the matter of investing funds in real estate or anything else.

Mr. FAULKNER. I suggest to the Senator from Missouri whether that is not the legal right by reason of its being a corporation created with power to hold real estate? Would it not have power to sell any property it may acquire? That is simply an enlargement of what would be the usual expression, perhaps, in the charter of a corporation. It certainly would not affect the legal right of the corporation itself to dispose of property it might acquire.

The importance of the passage of the bill is owing to the fact that this property has been acquired and the conveyance is to pass from the vendors to the corporation this week. So unless this bill is passed a trust will have to intervene and the conveyance be made to a trustee instead of being made directly to the corporation. The conveyance is to be made this week under the terms of the contract.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Are there amendments to the bill as in Committee of the Whole?

Mr. COCKRELL. I simply desire to put myself on record as saying that I think it is an exceedingly dangerous bill; but I do not intend to oppose its passage any further than to record my vote against it.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill (S. 3391) to incorporate the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia will be indefinitely postponed.

REPORT ON FOREIGN STREETS AND HIGHWAYS.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report back the concurrent resolution providing for printing the consular report relating to streets and highways in foreign countries, and I ask for its present consideration. There are certain blanks that I will move to fill.

The concurrent resolution submitted by Mr. MANDERSON on the 15th instant was read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That there be printed — thousand copies of the special consular report relating to streets and highways in foreign countries, heretofore published by the Department of State, of which — thousand copies shall be for the use of the Senate and — thousand copies for the use of the House of Representatives.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. MANDERSON. I wish to state that this work, which is one of the consular reports published by the State Department, was issued in somewhat limited number by the Department of State. The demand for it has been very great, indeed. In response to applications made by myself to the State Department for copies of this report, I was informed by the Secretary of State that their edition is entirely exhausted; and he says further in his letter:

In reply to that portion of your communication wherein you ask my opinion as to whether Congress should not order a special edition of this work, I would say that in view of the great interest now being manifested throughout the country in regard to good highways and the fact that this work contains the world's experience in road building, it would be hard to overestimate the good which would result from a proper general distribution thereof, a distribution which, owing to the limited amount appropriated for the publication of consular reports, this Department can not make.

In view of these facts I move to fill the blanks as they occur, so that the whole number printed shall be 12,000 copies, 1,000 for the Senate and 8,000 for the House of Representatives.

Mr. COCKRELL. In view of the importance of the document and the demand for it, I move to make the number 15,000 copies, 5,000 for the Senate and 10,000 for the House of Representatives. I do not think that is an excessive number.

Mr. MANDERSON. I do not object to that amendment.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think it is a book that ought to be published and sent broadcast over the country. There is very great demand for it.

Mr. SHERMAN. My own impression is that a large number ought to be printed. There are 300,000 copies of the Agricultural Report printed, and I have had more letters in regard to this than the Agricultural Report.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think it ought to be liberally printed, and I have no objection to the Senator from Ohio amending my proposed amendment, and making the number 10,000 and 20,000.

Mr. SHERMAN. I think about 20,000 or 25,000 copies should be printed.

Mr. COCKRELL. I suggest 10,000 copies for the Senate and 20,000 copies for the House.

Mr. MANDERSON. I do not object to the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The Chief Clerk read the concurrent resolution, as proposed to be amended, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That there be printed 30,000 copies of the special consular report relating to streets and highways in foreign countries, heretofore published by the Department of State, of which 10,000 copies shall be for the use of the Senate and 20,000 copies for the use of the House of Representatives.

The amendment was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (S. 3646) to remove the charge of desertion against Alfred Rebsamen; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 3647) for the relief of William Martin; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. FELTON introduced a bill (S. 3648) for the improvement of San Pedro Bay; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. CALL introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 125) to suspend approvals of lists of public lands to States or corporations until the further action of Congress; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. McPHERSON introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 126) authorizing and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to suspend all purchases of silver bullion as provided in the act of July 14, 1890; which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. McPHERSON. I ask that the joint resolution be read at length. It is very short.

The joint resolution was read the second time at length, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby is, authorized and directed to suspend, until otherwise ordered by Congress, all purchases of silver bullion as provided in the first section of the act of July 14, 1890, entitled "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes."

Mr. McPHERSON. I desire that the joint resolution may be printed and laid upon the table, to be called up at some future time by myself, after the holiday recess.

The joint resolution was ordered to lie on the table.

CHANGE OF REFERENCE.

Mr. TELLER. Yesterday I introduced a bill (S. 3634) to provide for building and maintaining an Indian industrial school at Unalakleet, Alaska, which I intended to have referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, but it appears to have been referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. I ask that an order may be made discharging the Committee on Military Affairs from the further consideration of the bill, and that it be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PLATT in the chair). That order will be made in the absence of objection.

UNLAWFUL DISPOSITION OF PUBLIC LAND.

Mr. CALL submitted the following resolution; which was ordered to lie on the table and be printed:

Resolved, That it be, and is hereby, referred to a special committee of five Senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, to inquire and report to the Senate whether there have been approvals of land by the Secretary of the Interior to States or railroad corporations in violation of the acts of Congress, and to report by bill or otherwise the measures necessary for the opening of such land to the use and occupation of citizens of the United States under the homestead laws and for the protection of actual settlers on said land.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the concurrent resolution of the Senate to print the report of the Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, and extra copies of the same.

The message also announced that the House had passed the following bills: in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 1484) for the relief of Mary A. Lewis;

A bill (H. R. 8915) granting an increase of pension to Joseph Coffman; and

A bill (H. R. 9649) to provide for the purchase of Fort Brown, Texas.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message further announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (H. R. 6644) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the sale of title of the United States in lot 3 in square south of square 990," approved March 3, 1891;

A bill (H. R. 8760) to provide for the sale of navy-yard lands in the city of Brooklyn; and

A bill (H. R. 8907) to increase the pension of John Malloy.

DELEZELL R. BRADFORD.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate to consider the bill (H. R. 6737) granting a pension to Delezell R. Bradford, Twenty-fourth Michigan Volunteers. The bill has been passed by the other House and reported favorably by the Senate committee, and I may say that unless it is passed immediately it will do the beneficiary no good.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension roll, subject to the provisions and limitations of the pension law of June 27, 1890, the name of Delzell R. Bradford, late a private in the Twenty-fourth Regiment of Michigan Volunteers.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the report be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the report submitted by Mr. TURPIE December 15, 1902, as follows:

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6777) granting a pension to Delzell R. Bradford, have had the same under consideration, and report:

From the facts stated in the House report on this case, which is hereby approved and made a part of this report, your committee believe this to be a meritorious measure and recommend its passage by the bill.

[House Report No. 1872, Fifty-second Congress, first session.]

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6777) granting a pension to Delzell R. Bradford, have had the same under consideration and submit the following report:

As shown by the records of the Adjutant-General's Office, the soldier enlisted March 25, 1865, as a private, unassigned, in the Twenty-fourth Regiment Michigan Volunteers, and was honorably discharged June 21, 1865. He filed application for pension September 5, 1890, under the act of June 7, 1890, alleging illness and general disability. The claim was rejected August 9, 1891, on the ground that the claimant was not in the United States service ninety days, therefore not entitled to pension under the provisions of said act.

The claimant alleges that the records of the Adjutant-General's Office are in error in giving the date of his enlistment as March 27, 1865, and that the date should be corrected to read March 17, 1865. In proof thereof he files a certificate from the adjutant-general of Michigan as follows:

MILITARY DEPARTMENT, MICHIGAN,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Lansing, October 20, 1901.

I certify that it appears from official records on file in this office, that private Delzell R. Bradford, company unassigned, Twenty-fourth Regiment Michigan Infantry, enlisted on the 17th day of March, 1865, at Grand Rapids, Mich., and was duly mustered into the service of the United States for the term of one year. Mustered out at Detroit, June 21, 1865.

J. S. FARRAR,
Adjutant-General of Michigan.

C. W. ROBERTSON,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

In an affidavit dated November 25, 1891, the claimant testified that he enlisted on the 17th day of March, 1865, and knows this because he remembers that it was on St. Patrick's day that he enlisted at Grand Rapids, Mich. On the next day, the 18th day of March, he went to Jackson, Mich., from there he went to Camp Butler, near Springfield, Ill., where he was taken sick with typhoid pneumonia, and was given a sick leave. When he got able he was discharged at Detroit, June 21, 1865.

Charles Hochkiss testifies as follows:

I am well and personally acquainted with Delzell R. Bradford prior to his enlistment into the Army. I remember very distinctly the fact that on St. Patrick's day, March 17, 1865, he was, with many of my other friends, taken on the city of Grand Rapids, and that time he had on the uniform of a soldier. He then informed me that he had enlisted into the United States Army, and I then, very naively, told him that his claims were true, from the fact that he had on the uniform. I do not think that was on March 17, 1865, because of its being St. Patrick's day. I am quite firmly of the opinion that he had been assigned to the Twenty-fourth Regiment Infantry.

George M. Buck, circuit judge, Kalamazoo, Mich., says, after examining the evidence:

It seems to me that the proof is ample to show that the record at Washington is wrong, and the record at Lansing is right, and much as the two would be in case of equal age and value, and the proof on this case is clear, in fact, the general conclusion contradicts the report at Washington.

Coming to the question of his enlistment, since he was discharged, he must have been in the service for ninety days, and he cannot have been in the service for ninety days, and he cannot have been in the service for ninety days, and he cannot have been in the service for ninety days.

George S. Wood and Nellie B. Wood testify that they are well acquainted with the claimant, that he is in poor health, and that he is suffering with lung and bowel trouble and rheumatism and piles. They know him to be unable to perform manual labor, and that he is destitute of means, and is dependent on others who are not legally bound for his support.

George W. Hamilton and E. A. Hamilton testify that they are well acquainted with the claimant and know that he is in destitute circumstances, and is now dependent upon the charity of others not bound for his support, that he is unable to do any kind of manual labor whatever.

Chris Bussey, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, in attesting the correctness of record of the claimant, says:

The requirement is made by the records of the War Department, and the record of the claimant is not in the records of the War Department, and the record of the claimant is not in the records of the War Department, and the record of the claimant is not in the records of the War Department.

The inability of the claimant to earn his living by manual labor by reason of physical disabilities having been fully and satisfactorily proved, the only question to be determined by the committee is as to the date of the soldier's enlistment.

After amending the bill in line 5 by striking out of the word "laws" the letter "s", and inserting the letter "t" after the word "of June 27, 1890," your committee recommend the passage of the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

HOLIDAY RECESS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. According to the unanimous agreement made yesterday, the Chair lays before the Senate the bill (S. 1958) to submit to the Court of Private Land Claims, established by an act of Congress approved March 3, 1891, the title of William McGarraghan to the Rancho Pameche Grande, in the State of California, and for other purposes; upon which the Senator from Virginia [Mr. HUNTON] is entitled to the floor.

Mr. DAWES. I ask the Senator from Virginia to yield to me to call up a resolution.

Mr. HARRIS. Before proceeding with the bill which has been laid before the Senate, I think the concurrent resolution for the holiday adjournment should be disposed of. Whatever the Senate proposes to do with it ought to be done this morning.

Mr. DAWES. That is the resolution I rose to call up.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the concurrent resolution of the House of Representatives, which will be read.

The concurrent resolution was read and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That when the two Houses adjourn on Thursday, December 22, they will stand adjourned until Wednesday, January 4, 1903.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Mr. PADDOCK. I desire to make an appeal to the Senator from Virginia to allow me a moment to call up a bill for present consideration.

Mr. HUNTON. I will yield to the Senator from Nebraska, provided his bill provokes no discussion, and with the understanding that if it shall provoke discussion he will withdraw it.

Mr. PADDOCK. Certainly. It is a bill which was considered on the day prior to the adjournment of the last session, was read at length, and laid aside at the request of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. COCKRELL], who, I think, is now satisfied as to its provisions. As I am to leave the Senate to-day or to-morrow, to be absent on some matters of considerable personal concern to myself, until perhaps the month of February, there would perhaps be no chance for me to bring the measure to the attention of the Senate before the close of the session. I desire, therefore, the indulgence of the Senate for its present consideration. It is Calendar No. 174, Senate bill 1674.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 1674) incorporating the Society of American Florists.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read.

Mr. PADDOCK. The bill has heretofore been read at length.

Mr. SHERMAN. I think the bill should be read now, as some time has passed since it was last under consideration.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be read.

The Secretary read the bill.

Mr. MILLS. I suggest to the Senator from Nebraska that in all these acts of incorporation the Government retains the right to alter or amend the charter, and I think such a provision should be inserted in this bill.

Mr. PADDOCK. There is no objection to such an amendment, and I shall very cheerfully accept it.

Mr. MILLS. I hope the Senator will have that amendment inserted, and then I shall have no objection to the bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. I suggest that there be added to the bill the words:

"That the Secretary of the Interior, upon receipt of this act in whole or in part,

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments reported by the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry will first be stated.

The amendments reported by the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry were, in line 19, to strike out the name "Joseph C. Vaughan" and insert "John C. Vaughan;" in line 24, after the word "horticulture," to strike out "and for the benefit of its members, and the public in general;" in line 25, after the word "organized," to insert "to adopt a constitution and to make by-laws, and to insist it with law;" and after the words "donated out of the end of the profits," to strike out "the proceeds made in other sections of the United States, to adopt a constitution, and to make by-laws, and to insist it with law," and insert "be granted an act of Congress or Territory, or State, or that all property so held, and the proceeds thereof, shall be held and used solely for the purpose set forth in this act;" so as to make the bill read:

In it enact, etc. That James Dean, of Bay Ridge, in the State of New York; William A. Stewart, Michael H. Norton, and Patrick Welch, of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts; Edward G. Hall, of Richmond, in the State of Virginia; John N. May, of Summit, in the State of New Jersey; William R. Smith, John Sudd, and Benjamin Burfee, of Washington, in the District of Columbia; Myron A. Hunt, of Terre Haute, in the State of Indiana; John H. Lee, Joseph T. Anthony, and John C. Vaughan, of the State of Illinois; Robert Craig, Edwin Lonsdale, and John Burton, of Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania; Alexander Johnston, of Pittsburgh, in the State of Pennsylvania; John M. Jordan, of St. Louis, in the State of Missouri; John T. Felt, of Day, in the State of Iowa; Charles W. Hoyt, of Neshaminy, in the State of New Hampshire; William Falconer, of Glen Cove, and Daniel B. Long, of Buffalo, both in the State of New York, and Albert Mandel, of Short Hills, in the State of New Jersey, their associates and successors, are hereby created a body corporate and politic, by the name of The Society of American Florists, for the elevation and advancement of horticulture in all its branches, to increase and diffuse the knowledge thereof, and for kindred purposes in the interest of horticulture. Said association is authorized to adopt a constitution and to make by-laws not inconsistent with law, to hold

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3525) to authorize the construction of bridges across the Hiwassee, the Tennessee, and the Clinch Rivers, in the State of Tennessee, reported it with amendments.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6798) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Warrior River by the Montgomery, Tuscaloosa and Memphis Railway Company, reported it with amendments.

Mr. WARREN, from the Select Committee on Woman Suffrage, to whom the subject was referred, submitted a report thereon, accompanied by a joint resolution (S. R. 129), proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, extending the right of suffrage to women; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. VANCE subsequently said: I ask leave to submit the views of the minority of the Committee on Woman Suffrage on the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution extending the right of suffrage to women, in order that it may be printed with the report of the majority of the committee which was submitted this morning.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PLATT in the chair). The views of the minority will be received and printed with the report of the majority of the committee.

Mr. HARRIS, from the Committee on Epidemic Diseases, submitted a report to accompany the bill (S. 2707) granting additional quarantine powers, and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service, heretofore reported by him.

WATER WORKS IN ERIE, PA.

Mr. QUAY. I am instructed by the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds to report back favorably, with amendments, the bill (H. R. 9826) granting certain rights and privileges to the commissioners of water works in the city of Erie, Pa. If there is no objection, I ask that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill at this time.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be read for information.

After reading, the Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the bill as in Committee of the Whole.

The first amendment of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds was, in line 8, after the word "across," to insert "the land belonging to the United States or;" so as to read:

That the commissioners of water works in the city of Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania, be, and they are hereby, granted the right to lay, extend, and maintain their intake pipe from their present pumping station at the foot of Chestnut street, at Erie, Pa., across the Bay of Presque Isle to the peninsula, thence across the land belonging to the United States on the peninsula to the shore of Lake Erie, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in line 15, after the word "also," to insert "the use of;" in the same line, after the word "land," to insert "belonging to the United States;" and in line 16, after the word "crossing," to strike out the words "and the use of same;" so as to read:

Also the use of such land belonging to the United States as may be required for a road, or roads, to and from the main land to place of crossing; all according to such plans and specifications as may be approved by the Secretary of War, and such plans shall be executed under his direction and supervision.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was to add the following additional section:

SEC. 2. The right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby reserved.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. QUAY. I move that the Senate request a conference with the House of Representatives on the bill and amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

By unanimous consent, the Vice-President was authorized to appoint the conferees on the part of the Senate, and Mr. QUAY, Mr. MORRILL, and Mr. VEST were appointed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. FRYE introduced a bill (S. 3659) authorizing the appointment of a commission to make a settlement of the claims growing out of the issue of bonds by the United States to aid in the construction of certain railroads and to secure to the United States payment of all indebtedness of certain railroad companies therein mentioned; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Select Committee on the President's Message transmitting the Report of the Pacific Railway Commission.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 131) giving the views of Congress on the construction of the swamp land act, approved September 28, 1850; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

USE OF STREETS IN WASHINGTON.

Mr. GORMAN. I introduce a joint resolution and ask unanimous consent for its present consideration.

The joint resolution (S. R. 128) to authorize the Secretary of War to grant permits for the use of reservations and public spaces in the city of Washington, and for other purposes, was read the first time by its title and the second time at length, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives, etc., That the Secretary of War is hereby authorized to grant permits to the executive committee on inaugural ceremonies for the use of any reservation, or other public space, in the city of Washington, on occasion of the inauguration of the President-elect on the 4th day of March, 1893, which in his opinion will inflict no serious or permanent injury upon such reservation or public space; and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia may designate for such and other purposes such streets, avenues, and sidewalks in the District as they may deem proper and necessary therefor.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

There being no objection, the joint resolution was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. HOAR. Let the joint resolution be read again.

The joint resolution was again read.

Mr. GORMAN. I will state to the Senator from Massachusetts that by the appropriation act of 1890 special provision was made that no seats or structures of any kind should be erected upon the streets in this city without the consent of Congress.

He also presented petitions of J. D. Adams and 17 other citizens of Marion; of Garret M. Walrod and 17 other citizens of Marion County; of S. A. Billeys and 16 other citizens of Worcker; of Christian Low and 20 other citizens of Virgo; of W. B. King and 17 other citizens of Lafayette County; of Nicolaus Roussel and 21 other citizens of Randolph; of J. R. Henderson and 21 other citizens of Vincennes, and of Charles W. Tritt and 19 other citizens of Randolph, all in the State of Indiana, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and now existing between the elevators, millers, and railroads at Minneapolis, Minn., and at St. Louis, Mo., and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill until such committee shall report; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. BERRY presented a memorial of citizens of the Cherokee Nation residing or having improvements in what is known as the Cherokee Outlet, remonstrating against the ratification of the Cherokee agreement until their rights in that Territory are properly provided for; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. ALLISON presented the petition of T. Thorson and other citizens of Winneshiek County, Iowa, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented petitions of the Journeymen Tailors' Unions of Ottumwa, Des Moines, Fort Dodge, Cedar Rapids, and Burlington, all in the State of Iowa, praying for the passage of House bill 8535, limiting the free entry or wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented the memorial of J. Wesley Brown, of Emery, S. Dak., remonstrating against the importation of tea and coffee into the United States as being unwholesome beverages; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented the petition of J. Wesley Brown, of Emery, S. Dak., praying for the passage of a law making persons committing perjury in Federal courts and before registers and receivers of United States land offices responsible in damages to the party injured by the same, and also allowing the prosecuting party one-half of all money collected as fines or forfeiture in such cases; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also presented a joint resolution of the Legislature of Iowa, a petition of citizens of Polk County, Iowa, and the petition of W. W. Blair and other citizens of Lamoni, Iowa, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch antioption bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented memorials of Bruna Vista Grange, No. 514, Patrons of Husbandry, of Murphy, of four churches of Keokuk, of the Presbyterian Synod of Burlington, and of the Presbyterian Church of Keokuk, representing 2,500 members, all in the State of Iowa, remonstrating against the repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. DOLPH, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3568) providing for the establishment and enforcement of rules and regulations for the use and navigation of United States canals and similar works of navigation, and for other purposes, reported it with amendments.

Mr. COKE, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9824) to amend "An act to promote the construction of a safe deep-water harbor on the coast of Texas," approved February 9, 1891, reported it with an amendment.

Mr. VEST, from the Committee on Commerce, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9930) for the construction and maintenance of a bridge across the St. Lawrence River, reported it with an amendment.

RAFT-TOWING ON THE GREAT LAKES.

Mr. FRYE. I am instructed by the Committee on Commerce to report back favorably, without amendment, the joint resolution (S. R. 124) directing the Secretary of War to investigate the subject of raft-towing on the Great Lakes and their connecting waters. I was requested by the committee to ask immediate consideration, as the commission should be appointed before the spring opens.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the joint resolution be read for information, then, subject to objection.

Mr. FRYE. It is very simple.

After reading, the Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the joint resolution as in Committee of the Whole. It directs the Secretary of War to appoint a board, to consist of three officers of the Engineer Corps of the Army, to investigate the subject of raft-towing on the Great Lakes and their connecting waters, and to report to Congress as to what restrictions, if any, should be placed upon the size and manner of constructing and towing rafts upon the Great Lakes and their connecting waters.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HOAR presented a petition of merchants and other business men of Boston, Mass., praying for the passage of legislation repealing the present law for the purchase of silver bullion by the Treasury, commonly known as the Sherman act of 1890; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. HANSBROUGH, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2265) for the removal of snow and ice from the sidewalks, crosswalks, and gutters in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and for other purposes, reported it with amendments and submitted a report thereon.

SATURDAY BANK HALF HOLIDAY.

Mr. McMILLAN. I am directed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. R. 136) to amend an act entitled "An act making Saturday a half holiday for banking and trust companies in the District of Columbia," approved December 22, 1892, to report it with an amendment in the nature of a substitute and to ask for its immediate consideration, as it is a matter of importance to the District.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be read for information, if there be no objection.

Mr. COCKRELL. Has it just been reported?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It has just been reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. McMILLAN. It refers to an act which was passed by the Senate at the last session and became a law in December. The act did not cover Georgetown or Anacostia. It is an amendment to that act so as to cover those two parts of the District.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The proposed substitute to the joint resolution will be read, if there be no objection.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Committee on the District of Columbia report to strike out all after the resolving clause and insert:

"That section 1 of the act of Congress, approved December 22, 1892, entitled 'An act making Saturday a half-holiday for banking and trust company purposes in the District of Columbia,' be, and it is hereby, amended so as to read as follows:

"SECTION 1. That every Saturday which under existing laws shall not become a legal holiday in its entirety, in the District of Columbia, shall thereon be a legal holiday, from 12 o'clock at noon, for all purposes respecting the presentation for payment or acceptance of, or the protesting or giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, bank checks, drafts, promissory notes, and all commercial paper whatsoever, whether made in or beyond the said District, or whether made before or after the passage of this act, and all such bills of exchange, bank checks, drafts, promissory notes, and commercial paper which otherwise would be due and payable, or presentable for acceptance or payment, in said District, on such day of holiday Saturday, shall, to wit, be due and payable, or presentable for acceptance or payment on the secular or business-day next succeeding that day. That any acceptance or payment thereof with interest thereon to said date when the said bills or interest made on such half-holiday Saturday before 12 o'clock noon shall be lawful.

And all bills of exchange, bank checks, drafts, promissory notes, and commercial paper whatsoever, which, but for existing law, would be due and payable, or presentable for acceptance or payment, in said District, on any day which is a full legal holiday, or on Sunday, shall thereon be payable, or presentable for acceptance or payment, on the secular or business-day next succeeding, and all acts and parts of acts so far as inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there be no objection, the joint resolution is before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. HOAR. I should like to inquire how the joint resolution comes up at this time.

Mr. McMILLAN. It is a report made by the Committee on the District of Columbia, relating to the former act which was passed by the Senate at the last session. It is requested by all the bankers here and it covers the whole District, giving a half-holiday to the banks. The act did not cover Georgetown or Anacostia, and the proposed amendment of it covers all the banks of the District. It also provides for all classes of commercial paper and secures against some inaccuracies which were found in the present law when an attempt was made to put it into operation.

Mr. HOAR. I wish the Senator would allow the joint resolution to remain pending until Monday, or if it has any advantage by being reported now he can withdraw the report and it can be made just as well at another time.

Mr. McMILLAN. The only objection is that to-morrow is Saturday, and the joint resolution ought to be passed at once.

Mr. HOAR. It is a serious subject, affecting the time of the maturity of negotiable paper, and I should like to have an opportunity to glance at it before it is passed. The Senator can bring it up later in the day, perhaps.

Mr. McMILLAN. All right, I have no objection.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be laid aside informally.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 3686) for the relief James B. McElhose; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HUNTON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3687) for the relief of Thomas H. G. Todd; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Resolved, That the Commissioner of Education be directed to transmit a copy of the latest report of Dr. Sheldon Jackson on the introduction of domesticated reindeer into Alaska.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the joint resolution (S. R. 123) to fill vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to the amendment of the Senate to the joint resolution (H. Res. 166) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to cover back into the Treasury $48,800 of the appropriation to Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.

The message further announced that the House had passed a bill (H. R. 9923) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

PROPOSED SUSPENSION OF IMMIGRATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. HILL, as follows:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the Senate be directed to transmit to the honorable the Secretary of State a copy of Senate bill No. 3513, now pending in this body, entitled "A bill for the suspension of immigration for one year," and that the Secretary of State be, and is hereby, respectfully requested to inform the Senate at his earliest convenience whether the provisions of the said bill absolutely suspending immigration for the period of one year are in conflict with any treaties now existing between the United States and any foreign countries; and, if so, with what countries, and any further information which he may deem necessary for the information of the Senate in relation to the propriety of the enactment of the said bill in its present form.

Mr. CHANDLER. Mr. President, there is no objection to the adoption of the resolution. Immediately after the bill referred to therein was taken up for consideration by the Committee on Immigration the questions suggested by the resolution were asked informally of the Secretary of State, and he is now ready to reply to them. Therefore I hope that the resolution may be passed, although I see that the Senator from New York [Mr. HILL] is absent. I desire to say that upon consultation with the Senator from Ohio [Mr. SHERMAN] it is thought the resolution ought to have certain verbal changes which I send to the desk and move as amendments to the resolution.

Mr. CARLISLE. The Senator from New York [Mr. HILL] is necessarily absent this morning, and requested me to have the resolution passed over without losing its place until he should return; but I have examined the amendments suggested by the Senator from New Hampshire, and I am satisfied that with those amendments, if the Senator from New York were here, he would desire to have the resolution passed, so I do not ask to have it go over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to amend the resolution so as to read:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to transmit to the Secretary of State a copy of Senate bill numbered 3513, now pending in this body, entitled "A bill for the suspension of immigration for one year," and that the Secretary of State be, and is hereby, respectfully requested to inform the Senate, whether the provisions of the said bill absolutely suspending immigration for the period of one year are in conflict with any treaties now existing between the United States and any foreign countries; and, if so, with what countries, and any further information which he may deem necessary for the information of the Senate in relation to the propriety of the enactment of the said bill in its present form.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendments submitted by the Senator from New Hampshire.

The amendments were agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

HOUSE BILL REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 9923) making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

ADDITIONAL QUARANTINE POWERS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, pursuant to the agreement already reached, the Chair lays before the Senate the bill (S. 2707) granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service.

Mr. QUAY. I rose to move that when the Senate adjourns to-day it adjourn to meet on Monday next. I make that motion.

Mr. CHANDLER. I desire unanimous consent to remind the Senator from Pennsylvania that to-day and to-morrow have been assigned as a special order to consider the quarantine bills. It may be that we shall not need to-morrow and that at the close of to-day we can adjourn until Monday, but until it is entirely certain that we shall get through with this subject, as we do not wish to displace the unfinished business next week, I hope the Senator will withdraw the motion, renewing it later in the day if there be occasion for it.

Mr. QUAY. Upon the suggestion of the Senator from New Hampshire I will withdraw the motion.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The motion is withdrawn.

Mr. MITCHELL. I desire to inquire whether the special orders for to-day and to-morrow are to commence immediately after the morning business. If otherwise, I ask that we proceed with the Calendar until 2 o'clock.

Mr. CHANDLER. The consideration of the bills is to commence after the routine morning business.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The agreement will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the order adopted on the 4th instant, as follows:

Ordered, That on Friday next, after the routine business of the morning hour is transacted, and on Saturday, if necessary, bills on the Calendar reported by the Committees on Epidemic Diseases, and Immigration having relation to the danger of the introduction of cholera into this country during the present year shall be the special orders and have exclusive consideration on those days, without otherwise displacing the present unfinished business.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 2707) granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service, which had been reported from the Committee on Epidemic Diseases with amendments.

The first amendment was in section 1, line 3, before the word "vessel," to insert the word "other," so as to read:

That it shall be unlawful for any merchant ship or other vessel from any foreign port, etc.

Mr. DOLPH. I should like to ask the Senator in charge of the bill if that would not subject the vessels of our Navy returning from foreign ports to the quarantine regulations of the States?

Mr. HARRIS. I did not hear the question of the Senator from Oregon.

Mr. DOLPH. If the amendment inserting the word "other," in line 3 of the first section, is adopted, would it not subject one of our naval vessels arriving after a cruise from a foreign port to State quarantine regulations?

Mr. HARRIS. I think it affects all vessels sailing from a foreign port to the port of this country, whether they be our own or those of foreign countries.

Mr. CHANDLER. That is the present law, I understand. Our naval vessels are expected, when coming from a foreign port or any infected port, to comply with the State quarantine regulations.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 1, line 4, after the word "port," to insert "or place;" so as to read:

"Section 1. That no immigrant for any merchant ship or other vessel from any foreign port or place touching any port of the United States except in accordance with the provisions of this act and with such rules and regulations of State and municipal health authorities as may be made in pursuance of or consistent with this act.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. WHITE. I wish to ask the chairman of the committee, through the Vice-President, whether we are now simply acting upon the committee amendments?

Mr. HARRIS. Yes.

Mr. WHITE. And whether other amendments will be excluded if not offered now?

Mr. HARRIS. Other amendments will be in order in Committee of the Whole and in the Senate after the bill shall have been reported from the committee.

The next amendment of the Committee on Epidemic Diseases was, in section 3, line 26, after the word "another," to strike out "which" and insert "and;" in the same line, after the word "when," to insert "said rules and regulations have been," and after the word "secretary," at the end of line 27, to insert "they;" so as to read:

"The Marine Hospital Service shall report the facts to the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall, if in his judgment it is necessary and proper, order said Marine Hospital Service to make such additional rules and regulations as are necessary to prevent the introduction of such diseases into the United States from foreign countries, or into one State from another, and when said rules and regulations have been so made and approved by the Secretary, they shall be promulgated by the Marine Hospital Service and enforced by the sanitary authorities of the States and municipalities, where the State or municipal health authorities will undertake to execute and enforce them; but if the State or municipal authorities shall fail or refuse to enforce said rules and regulations the President may detail an officer or appoint a proper person for that purpose.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was to insert as a new section the following:

"Sec. 6. That on the arrival of an infected vessel at any port not provided with proper facilities for treatment of the same, the Marine Hospital Service may detain said vessel, at its own expense, to the nearest national or other quarantine station where accommodations and appliances are provided for the necessary disinfection and treatment of the vessel, passengers, and cargo; and after treatment of any infected vessel at a national quarantine station, and after certificate shall have been given by the United States quarantine officer at said station that the vessel, cargo and passengers are clean and all free from infectious disease, or danger of conveying the same, said vessel shall be admitted to entry to any port of the United States named within the certificate. But at any ports where sufficient quarantine provision has been made by State or local authorities the Marine Hospital Service may direct vessels bound for said ports to undergo quarantine at said State or local station.

The amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The next committee amendment will be stated.

Mr. PLATT. Was the last amendment agreed to, Mr. President?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It was agreed to.

Mr. PLATT. I do not think I quite understand it; but I do not know that it is important that I should.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be again read.

Mr. PLATT. I do not ask to have it read, but I should like to know what the last clause of the section means? It reads:

"But at any ports where sufficient quarantine provision has been made by State or local authorities the Marine Hospital Service may direct vessels bound for said ports to undergo quarantine at said State or local station.

Suppose the authorities will not take them?

Mr. HARRIS. It simply refers to the plant necessary to treat an infected vessel by disinfecting the vessel and its cargo, and where a State quarantine happens to be nearer the port of entry than another quarantine. If that State quarantine is equipped with such plant, that is the Marine Hospital Service authority to send the vessel to that quarantine for treatment.

The next amendment of the Committee on Epidemic Diseases was to insert as a new section the following:

"Sec. 7. That whenever it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the President that by reason of the existence of cholera or yellow fever in a foreign country there is serious danger of the introduction of the same into the United States, and that notwithstanding the quarantine disease this danger is so increased by immigration that a suspension of the same is demanded in the interest of the public health, the President shall have power to suspend immigration from such countries or places and for such period of time as he may deem necessary.

Mr. CHANDLER. I ask the Senator from Tennessee to allow that amendment to pass over without being voted upon until after I shall have submitted some remarks upon the bill.

Mr. HARRIS. I have no objection to complying with the request of the Senator.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be passed over for the present.

Mr. HARRIS. In section 2, line 11, after the word "satisfied," I move to insert the word "that;" so as to read:

"To be satisfied that the matters and things therein stated are true.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. In line 20 of the same section, after the word "of," I move to insert "furnishing information and." These are amendments suggested by the Marine Hospital Service and the Secretary of the Treasury.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 2, line 20, after the word "of," it is proposed to insert "furnishing information and;" so as to read:

"The President, in his discretion, is authorized to detail any medical officer of the Government to serve in the office of the command at any foreign port for the purpose of furnishing information as to the nature of the inspection, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. In section 3, line 33, after the word "exists," I move to insert "or from which the President has reason to believe that infected articles of merchandise are being shipped."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. In section 3, line 33, after the word "exists," it is proposed to insert "or from which the President has reason to believe that infected articles of merchandise are being shipped;" so as to read:

"The Marine Hospital Service shall make such rules and regulations as are authorized by the laws of the United States and necessary to be observed by vessels at the port of departure and on the voyage, where such vessels sail from any foreign port or place at which contagious or infectious diseases exist, or from which the President has reason to believe that infected articles of merchandise are being shipped to any port or place in the United States, to secure the best sanitary condition of such vessel, her cargo, passengers, and crew.

The amendment was agreed to.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. SHERMAN. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business. It will take but a few minutes.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened.

COMMITTEE SERVICE.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON] wishes to be excused from further service upon the Committee on Epidemic Diseases, and asks that the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] be appointed in his stead.

Mr. HARRIS. I ask that the Chair fill the vacancy.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That order will be made.

ADDITIONAL QUARANTINE POWERS.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2767) granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service.

Mr. HARRIS. In section 2, I move to strike out the word "and," being the last word in line 33. I see the word is repeated.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. CHANDLER. Mr. President, it is my duty and privilege to support this bill (S. 2767) granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service. It has been reported by the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], who has for many years given the subjects of quarantine and of epidemic diseases his close attention as chairman of the Committee on Epidemic Diseases. I had occasion to serve during the Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth Congresses as a member of that committee, and retired in the present Congress in order that my colleague [Mr. GALLINGER], who, I believe, is the only physician in this body, might appropriately have a place upon it. I have had abundant opportunity to notice the intelligence and fidelity which the Senator from Tennessee has brought to the preparation of measures to be acted upon by Congress concerning quarantine and the exclusion of infectious diseases either seeking to enter from foreign countries into this country or to pass from State to State, and I take it for granted that the details of this bill which has been submitted by him are in the most wise and judicious.

I am in favor of every possible step which can be devised for the protection of this country from cholera during the coming season. All the powers of the State governments should be put in motion to prevent its introduction, and all the powers of the National Government should be exerted for the same purpose. To be specific, I believe that the Treasury Department should, without a day's delay, promulgate rules and regulations prescribing the quarantine methods to be adopted to prevent the introduction of disease by sea, which rules and regulations should govern the immigrants for a certain period on the other side of the water before they take ship, should prescribe the regimen to be adopted and the precautions to be resorted to on shipboard during the voyage, and should also provide the sanitary measures to tained by said vessel in collision with the United States steamer Chicago; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a communication from the Secretary of Agriculture, submitting report of the operations of the Bureau of Animal Industry for the year 1892; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS, WASHINGTON.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a certified copy of the final ascertainment of the electors for President and Vice-President of the State of Washington; which was laid upon the table.

REFERENCE OF SENATE BILLS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House Senate bills; which were severally read twice, and referred as indicated, namely:

A bill (S. 1664) for the relief of Lister Noble—to the Committee on War Claims.

A bill (S. 1933) concerning testimony in criminal cases or proceedings based upon or growing out of alleged violations of an act entitled "An act to regulate commerce," approved February 4, 1887, as amended March 2, 1889, and February 10, 1891—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

A bill (S. 3382) to authorize a corrected patent to be issued for the donation land claim of Wheelock Simmons and wife—to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

A bill (S. 3537) for the relief of M. P. Deady—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Joint resolution (S. R. 124) directing the Secretary of War to investigate the subject of raft-towing on the Great Lakes and their connecting waters—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

WETMORE & BROTHER.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the bill (S. 29) for the relief of Wetmore & Brother, of St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. COBB of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of this bill.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be read, after which the Chair will ask if there be objection.

The bill was read at length.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. COBB of Missouri. I will ask that the report be read.

The SPEAKER. There is no House report accompanying the bill.

Mr. COBB of Missouri. I ask that the Senate report be read.

The Senate report was read at length.

Mr. KILGORE. I would like to make some inquiry in regard to this bill. This is a Senate bill, I understand?

The SPEAKER. It is.

Mr. KILGORE. Has it been considered by a committee of the House?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Missouri can answer the question.

Mr. COBB of Missouri. It has not been reported by a House committee; but the amount being small and it having been passed unanimously by the Senate, I deem it unnecessary that such action should be taken, in view of the insignificance of the amount involved. It carries only $200.

Mr. KILGORE. I object to its consideration because it has not been considered by a House committee.

Mr. COBB of Missouri. It is a very small matter.

Mr. KILGORE. I do not know anything of the merits of the case, but I think that all of these bills should go through the regular channel.

The SPEAKER. Objection is made, and the bill will be referred to the Committee on Claims.

CLAIMS OF THE CHOCTAW AND CHICKASAW INDIANS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the Senate amendment to the joint resolution (H. Res. 166) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to cover back into the Treasury the sum of $45,000 of the appropriations for the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.

Mr. PEEL. I ask for the reading of the Senate amendment, with a view of moving concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The Senate amendment will be read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Add the following proviso:

Provided, however, That neither the passage of the original act of appropriation to pay the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes of Indians for their interest in the lands of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservation, dated March 3, 1891, nor of this joint resolution shall be held in any way to commit the Government to the payment of any further sum to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians for any alleged interest in the remainder of the lands situated in what is commonly known and called the leased district."

Mr. PEEL. I move to concur in the Senate amendment. It simply provides that this, as well as preceding legislation on the subject, shall not establish a precedent for other appropriations of a similar character.

The Senate amendment was concurred in.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows: To Mr. ELLIS, for five days, on account of important business. To Mr. DOAN, indefinitely, on account of sickness in his family. Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave of absence for one week from Monday next.

The SPEAKER. Without objection, this request will be granted.

There was no objection.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. JOHNSON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. For what purpose do the gentleman ask? Mr. JOHNSON of Indiana. I ask unanimous consent to introduce the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk and for its reading, and that it be then referred to the Committee on Printing, which is the appropriate committee.

The SPEAKER. The resolution can be referred. The Chair understands that the gentleman desires to have it read.

Mr. JOHNSON of Indiana. I ask unanimous consent to have it read.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Indiana [Mr. JOHNSON] asks unanimous consent to have the resolution read for reference.

Mr. RICHARDSON. I object.

Mr. JOHNSON of Indiana. The gentleman need not object to this—

Mr. RICHARDSON. Let it be referred under the rules.

The SPEAKER. Objection is made.

Mr. JOHNSON of Indiana. This is a resolution to which I want to call the attention of the House by having it read; that is all.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Let it take the regular course.

BOARD OF REGENTS, SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The Chair understands that the gentleman from New York [Mr. CUMMINGS] has a resolution respecting the filling of a vacancy in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to report back a resolution to fill a vacancy in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution. It is from the Committee on the Library. I ask for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the title of the resolution.

The Clerk read as follows:

Joint resolution (S. R. 123) to fill vacancy in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from New York [Mr. CUMMINGS] asks unanimous consent for the consideration of this resolution, and the Clerk will read it, after which the Chair will ask if there be objection.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, etc. That the vacancy in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution, in the class other than members of Congress, be filled by the reappointment of James B. Angell, of Michigan, whose term of office expires January 19, 1893.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of this resolution?

Mr. HOLMAN. I did not understand its purport.

Mr. CUMMINGS. If the Clerk will read the report, it will be satisfactory to the gentleman, I think.

The SPEAKER. This is a joint resolution providing for the filling of a vacancy in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution. The Clerk will again report it, so that the House will understand it.

The Clerk again read the resolution.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the consideration of the resolution?

Mr. DINGLEY. Do I understand from the gentleman from New York that an amendment to the resolution is proposed?

Mr. CUMMINGS. No amendment whatever. This is the original Senate joint resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection.

The resolution was ordered to a third reading and was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. CUMMINGS, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

MUSTER AND PAY OF CERTAIN MEMBERS OF THE VOLUNTEER FORCES.

The SPEAKER. On the 17th of December last there was before the House the bill (H. R. 6649), called up by the Committee on Military Affairs, the Chair believes. By unanimous consent, the vote upon it was postponed until January 6, 1893, it appearing on the vote then taken that there was no quorum. Now, the Clerk will report the bill, so that the House will know what it is.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 6699) to extend the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces.

Reit-ended, &c. That the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces, approved June 1 1881 as amended by an act approved February 5, 1887, be, and the same are hereby, revived and extended for a period of three years from the 31 day of June, 1892.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I have discovered a clerical error in the bill, and I ask unanimous consent to change the word "four," in line 5 of the printed bill, to the word "third," and the word "fifth," in line 6, to the word "third."

Mr. McMILLIN. Mr. Speaker, how does this bill come before the House?

The SPEAKER. On the 17th of December last this bill was before the House. Under the operation of the previous question it was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and it was accordingly engrossed and read a third time; and on the question, Shall the bill pass? the ayes were 70 and the noes 5, whereupon the gentleman from Texas [Mr. LONG] made the point of no quorum. Tellers were appointed, and pending the discharge of their duty the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. OUTHWAITE] made the following request:

Mr. Speaker, it appears that there is not a quorum present, and I ask unanimous consent that this bill go over until the 6th day of January, to be voted upon immediately after the first morning hour.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio that the consideration of the pending bill go over until January 6, immediately after the first morning hour.

And there was no objection. That is the way in which the bill comes before the House now.

Mr. KILGORE. I want to make a point of order upon this.

Mr. McMILLIN. Have we entered upon the first morning hour?

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not think the committees have been called.

Mr. McMILLIN. Then it would not be in order until that is done.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will direct the Clerk to call the committees.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. It makes no difference about that.

Mr. McMILLIN. The only difference is, that if we get into consideration in the morning hour it might not be concluded in the hour, and that would be the difference.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. Mr. Speaker, I believe I am entitled to be recognized to make a privileged motion.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the standing and select committees for reports.

The Clerk proceeded to call the committees for reports.

POST TRADERSHIPS.

Mr. OUTHWAITE, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported back favorably the bill (S. 317) relating to post traderships; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

BIG HORN SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

Mr. PICKLER, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported back favorably the bill (S. 3317) extending the time for the construction of the Big Horn Southern Railroad through the Crow Indian Reservation; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

BRIDGES ACROSS THE HIWASSEE, THE TENNESSEE, AND THE CLINCH RIVERS, TENNESSEE.

Mr. GEARY, from the Committee on Commerce, reported back favorably the bill (H. R. 10015) to authorize the construction of bridges across the Hiwassee, the Tennessee, and the Clinch Rivers, in the State of Tennessee; which was referred to the House Calendar, and, with the accompanying report, ordered to be printed.

The call of committees was resumed and concluded.

MUSTER AND PAY OF CERTAIN OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN OF THE VOLUNTEER FORCES.

The SPEAKER. This completes the call of the standing and select committees. Now, under the order, the House will consider the bill referred to by the gentleman from Ohio, which the Clerk will again report.

Mr. KILGORE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to assail the validity of the order heretofore made by the House in relation to that bill with a point of order. When the agreement was concurred in by the House the statement was made in that connection that there was no quorum present; and if there was no quorum present, it was not competent for the House to enter into any agreement or make any order which would be binding upon any subsequent session of this body.

The SPEAKER. "There was not a quorum voting." [Laughter.]

Mr. REED. I hope the gentleman from Texas [Mr. KILGORE] understands the distinction. It is a perfectly legal one.

Mr. KILGORE. I think the order read that there "was no quorum present."

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the gentleman from Texas that the vote was taken on a division and it appeared that there was no quorum voting. The point was made, whereupon tellers were ordered, and just at that stage this agreement was made.

Mr. KILGORE. The statement is made by the gentleman from Ohio himself that he was satisfied that there was no quorum present, and for that reason asked that the further consideration of the bill be postponed without prejudice.

The SPEAKER. The trouble is, that although the gentleman from Ohio might be satisfied, it does not follow that there was not a quorum present.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. There is nothing to indicate that the House was satisfied.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will again report the bill, so that the House may understand it.

The bill was again read.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I move the previous question on the passage of the bill.

Mr. HOLMAN. I hope the gentleman will permit the report to be read.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. The report was read when the bill was up before, and I do not know whether the order permits any debate. The order is that the vote shall be taken at this time.

Mr. McMILLIN. I will state to the gentleman while the order does not in strictness permit of debate, the report might be read by unanimous consent.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I have no objection whatever to that.

Mr. McMILLIN. I would suggest that.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. Mr. Speaker, can it be read without unanimous consent?

A MEMBER. It is submitted "without objection." The report can be read if there be no objection.

The SPEAKER. The previous question had been ordered, and the Chair does not think it can be read, because the terms of the order is that the vote shall be taken.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. I understand the order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. OUTHWAITE] had requested the correction of clerical errors as to dates. Without objection these corrections will be made. [After a pause.] The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered. The question now is, Shall the bill pass?

The question was taken, and the bill was passed.

On motion of Mr. OUTHWAITE, a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed was laid on the table.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering business on the Private Calendar.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MARTIN. I desire to inquire whether the first thing in order is not the taking of a vote on the bill which was under consideration when the House adjourned?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BELTZHOVER] and the House that there are pending certain pension bills reported to the House from the Committee of the Whole at the Friday evening sessions, upon each one of which bills the previous question has been ordered to its final passage, and under the practice of the House that operates to make those bills in order immediately after the reading of the Journal. Therefore the vote must first be taken on those bills, although under the rules of the House generally it is in order on Friday, immediately after the first morning hour, to make a motion to go into Committee of the Whole for the consideration of business on the Private Calendar.

If the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. MARTIN] had waived the point by not calling attention to it, the Chair might not have brought it to the attention of the House, because his mind would not have been directed to it; but as the gentleman from Indiana makes the point, the Chair thinks that those bills on which the previous question has been ordered to their final passage have priority and are properly in order at this time.

Mr. BELTZHOVER. I hope the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. MARTIN] will give way.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the first bill.

Wheeling, held at St. Clairsville, Ohio, December 20, 1892, against the repeal of the Sunday-closing law the first session of the Fifty-second Congress for the World's Columbian Exposition—to the Select Committee on the Columbian Exposition.

By Mr. SCOTT: Petition of the State Grange of Illinois, Patrons of Husbandry, for the passage of the pure-food bill—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, petition by the same body, for free postal delivery in rural districts—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, petition by the same body, for Government control of railroads—to the Committee on Railroads and Canals.

Also, petition by the same body, in favor of the National Government issuing the money of the people, and for other reforms—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

SENATE.

SATURDAY, January 7, 1893.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate communications from the Secretary of State, transmitting, in pursuance of the provisions of the act of Congress approved February 3, 1887, certified copies of the final ascertainment of the electors for President and Vice-President appointed in the States of Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, and Minnesota at the elections held therein on the 8th of November, 1892, as certified to him by the governors of those States; which, with the accompanying papers, were ordered to lie on the table.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting a letter from the adjutant-general of the State of Maryland suggesting the passage of a law providing for an encampment of 100,000 United States and State troops to be held at Chicago on the occasion of the World's Columbian Exposition; which, on motion of Mr. SHERMAN, was, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select), and ordered to be printed.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 3d instant approved and signed the act (S. 1675) granting increase of pension to soldiers of the Mexican war in certain cases.

The message also announced that the President had on the 6th instant approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 2381) for the relief of the Citadel Academy of Charleston, S. C.; and

An act (S. 3298) authorizing the sale of land in the vicinity of Fort Mifflin, on the river Delaware.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. SHERMAN presented the petition of James Cutler and 46 other citizens of Richwood, Ohio, praying for the immediate repeal of the act of July 14, 1890, directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of Buck Creek Grange, No. 750, Patrons of Husbandry, of Ohio, praying for the early passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented memorials of 71 citizens of Antrim, Ohio; of a union meeting of Christian people of Van Wert, Ohio; of the Methodist Churches of New Concord, Ohio, and of the Presbyterian Church of Savannah, Ohio, remonstrating against any repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. McMILLAN presented a petition of citizens of Washington and Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, praying Congress to grant the use of the Aqueduct bridge on the Clearinghouse; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. KYLE presented petitions of Rev. Eugene A. Johnson and 24 others; of Rev. William A. Credit and 70 others; of Rev. Francis J. Grinkle and 72 others, and of George W. Cook and 76 others, all citizens of the District of Columbia, praying for the passage of a bill authorizing the board of management of the United States Government exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition to collect and publish certain facts relating to the industrial, moral, and educational development of the American negro during the last thirty years, etc.; which were referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

He also presented memorials of B. M. Hiebey and 20 other citizens of Minnehaha County, S. Dak.; of J. M. Spensley and 21 other citizens of Clay County, S. Dak.; of John Clark and 16 other citizens of Minnehaha County, S. Dak.; of K. Westerhuis and 22 other citizens of Clay County, S. Dak.; of J. H. Hooker and 23 other citizens of McCook County, S. Dak.; of M. H. Payne and 23 other citizens of Cass County, N. Dak.; of A. B. Parker and 23 other citizens of Union County, S. Dak.; of J. J. Duffack and 21 other citizens of Yankton County, S. Dak.; of Peter Karsen and 23 other citizens of Clay County, S. Dak.; of J. J. Michaels and sundry other citizens of Rich Center, S. Dak., and of J. L. Monks and 21 other citizens of Watertown, S. Dak., praying for the appointment of a committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the anti-option bill until such committee reports; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented the petition of Tom O'Hara and other citizens of De Smet, S. Dak., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. HARRIS presented the petition of M. Broderick and other citizens of Tennessee, and the petition of J. H. Pitt and other citizens of Carroll County, Tenn., praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. HOAR. I present resolutions of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, desiring that there be no obstructions to the advantages now enjoyed by Canadian railroads in the commerce between New England and the Northwest. The resolutions are in the nature of a petition, and I move that they be referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HOAR presented a resolution adopted by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting held January 3, 1893, praying for the repeal of the Sherman silver act, so called; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. QUAY presented resolutions of the Pennsylvania Peace Society and of the executive committee of the Universal Peace Society, favoring the repeal of the law prohibiting the coming of Chinese into the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. CULLOM presented petitions of farmers and laborers of Johnson County; of Farmers of Franklin County, and of J. M. Martin and other citizens of Clay County, all in the State of Illinois, praying for the appointment of a committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill until such committee shall report; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. CAMERON presented a petition of the Board of Trade of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for the passage of legislation providing Government aid in the construction of the Nicaragua Canal; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the Maritime Exchange of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for the passage of a Federal quarantine law; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented the petition of William Ledyard Edsforth, of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for relief as the original inventor and owner of patents granted by the United States for improvements in fire extinguishers; which was referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also presented a petition of the Board of Trade of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for the adoption of certain amendments to the interstate-commerce law; which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

He also presented a petition of the Chinese Equal Rights League of Philadelphia, Pa., praying for the repeal of the Chinese restriction law; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. COCKRELL presented the memorial of J. C. Thornton, secretary of the Johnson Sabbath School Association of Warrenburg, Mo., remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis, Mo., remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. COCKRELL. I present a memorial of members of the confederated Kaskaskia, Peoria, Wea, and Piankeshaw Indians, and a memorial of members of the Peoria and Miami Indians, all of the Quapaw Agency, in the Indian Territory, remonstrating against the passage of the bill (S. 3939) to provide for the allotment of lands among the several Indian tribes in the Quapaw Agency, in the Indian Territory, and for the sale of surplus lands of such tribes; and for the creation of the county of Cayuga, in the Territory of Oklahoma, and for other purposes.

That bill is upon the Calendar, and I ask that the memorials may be laid on the table with other papers protesting against the passage of the bill referred to.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. QUAY, from the Committee on the Library, to whom was referred the bill (S. 1425) to provide for the erection of a monument to Maj. Gen. Nathaniel Greene on the battlefield of the battle of Guilford Court-House, N. C., fought March 15, 1781, and for other purposes, reported it with amendments, and submitted a report thereon.

COLUMBIAN UNIVERSITY.

Mr. HIGGINS. I am instructed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3623) to amend the act of March 3, 1873, for the relief of the Columbian University, in the District of Columbia, to report it without amendment, and I ask for its present consideration.

The bill was read, and, there being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration. It proposes to so amend the act that hereafter the treasurer and secretary of the Columbian University need not be one person nor a member of the trustees of the corporation, but the trustees and overseers, in convention assembled, shall annually elect by ballot two suitable persons from among the trustees or not, as they may deem proper, one to be treasurer and the other secretary of the corporation and of the board of trustees.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bills:

A bill (S. 317) granting an increase of pension to John M. Roberts;

A bill (S. 2592) granting an increase of pension to William C. Tarkenton;

A bill (S. 2999) for the relief of George W. McKinney; and

A bill (S. 3314) for the relief of E. Darwin Gage, late lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and forty-eighth New York Infantry.

The message also announced that the House had passed the bill (S. 1303) to increase the pension of Mrs. S. A. Farquharson, with an amendment; in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate.

The message further announced that the House had passed the following bills, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 1318) granting a pension to Martha A. Harris;

A bill (H. R. 2077) for the relief of William B. Price;

A bill (H. R. 2592) for the relief of Andrew B. Knapp;

A bill (H. R. 2912) to pension John T. Fleenor;

A bill (H. R. 3713) for increase of pension of Francis P. Gardner;

A bill (H. R. 4047) granting a pension to Ellen Hewett;

A bill (H. R. 4329) granting a pension to Thomas S. Kennedy;

A bill (H. R. 4916) granting a pension to Thomas Tucker, of Battery A, Fourth United States Artillery;

A bill (H. R. 6272) to pension Susan S. Murphy;

A bill (H. R. 7234) granting a pension to Mary Millard;

A bill (H. R. 7238) granting a pension to Amanda Atherton;

A bill (H. R. 7713) granting a pension to Benajah Morgan, late private in captain Burn's company, Third Regiment, Third Brigade of Mounted Volunteers in the Black Hawk war;

A bill (H. R. 8498) to pension Sophia Kagwaich;

A bill (H. R. 8574) granting an honorable discharge to James C. Jennings;

A bill (H. R. 8921) granting a pension to the widow of James A. Kelly;

A bill (H. R. 8969) to grant a pension to Lydia Bollman, a dependent sister;

A bill (H. R. 9215) granting a pension to Eliza Holmes;

A bill (H. R. 9229) granting a pension to Mrs. Caroline Hardee Dyall, widow of James R. Dyall, veteran of the Florida war, 1836;

A bill (H. R. 9233) to grant a pension to Harriet Cota; and

A bill (H. R. 9599) granting a pension to Cornelius Day.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (S. 2187) granting a pension to Margaret M. Rice;

A bill (S. 2593) granting an increase of pension to Samuel M. Campbell;

A bill (S. 1786) granting a pension to Mrs. Jennie Gray;

A bill (S. 1831) to admit free of duty the wreckage of the ships Trenton and Vandalia, presented by the United States to the King of Samoa;

A bill (S. 3448) granting to the Blue Mountain Irrigation and Improvement Company a right of way for reservoir and canals through the Umatilla Indian Reservation in the State of Oregon;

A joint resolution (S. R. 123) to fill vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution; and

A joint resolution (H. Res. 166) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to cover back into the Treasury $48,800 of the appropriation to Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. VANCE introduced a bill (S. 3699) to incorporate the Tabernacle Society of the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3691) regulating the employment of certain persons in manufactories, workshops, and stores in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. PLATT. I introduce a bill to provide a temporary government for Alaska, and for other purposes, and I ask the indulgence of the Senate to say a single word.

The present government of Alaska is very crude in many respects, inefficient, and altogether abnormal in our history and policy. That there ought to be an improvement upon that government is undoubted. This bill has been prepared at the Department of the Interior and upon consultation with the present governor of Alaska; and while in many respects it is a great improvement upon the present law for the government of Alaska, it has some features in it which I do not think I am in favor of. With that declaration I introduce the bill.

The bill (S. 3702) to provide a temporary government for Alaska, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 3683) granting a pension to Fred S. Chamberlain; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (S. 3691) for the relief of certain purchasers of public lands within the limits of Congressional land grant; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

TREATY WITH INDIANS OF OREGON.

Mr. MITCHELL. I submit a resolution and ask for its present consideration.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to transmit to the Senate a copy of a treaty negotiated by Joel Palmer, then superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Territory of Oregon on or about the 10th day of August, 1855, with the various Indian tribes inhabiting the coast of Oregon from the Columbia River to the California line, consisting of Tillamook, Clatsop Bay, Chinook, Toke, Chinook, Clatsop, and Lower Chinook Indians, and where, if they, it is alleged, ceded all the country claimed by them between the country theretofore ceded by various other treaties and the Pacific Ocean, estimated to contain 500,000 acres of land, and by the terms of which it is alleged there was a reservation of a tract of country on the coast within the limits of the coast reservation established by the President, estimated to contain 750,000 acres; and that the Secretary of the Interior be further directed to advise the Senate whether such treaty was ever transmitted to the Senate for ratification; also whether the United States, if said treaty was not ratified, has acted upon the terms stipulated therein and received the benefits of the cession therein provided; and if so, whether said Indians were ever paid the amounts stipulated in such treaty to be paid to them for and on account of the lands so ceded, and if so, when were such payments made; and further that he advise the Senate fully whether such treaty became operative and whether the terms thereof or any of them have been enforced against the Indians, or the stipulations therein complied with by the United States.

Mr. PLATT. To what treaty does the resolution refer?

Mr. MITCHELL. The treaty of 1855.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think the resolution had better be printed so that we may examine it. There are certain questions asked as to whether certain obligations were assumed. I do not think the Secretary of the Interior or any Cabinet officer has a right to bind the United States by his opinion. I think the resolution ought probably to be amended so as simply to state what was done, and not to ask whether we were bound.

Mr. MITCHELL. The resolution simply calls for information. First, it asks that a copy of the treaty, if one was made at the time designated, be transmitted to the Senate. Second, although the resolution is somewhat lengthy, it simply calls for information as to what, if anything, has been done under the treaty. That is all. I have no particular objection to letting the resolution go over and be printed, if the Senator from Missouri desires that course.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let it be printed and we can then look at it.

Mr. MITCHELL. All right; let the resolution go over and be printed, to be called up to-morrow morning.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The resolution will go over and be printed.

SATURDAY BANK HALF HOLIDAY.

Mr. McMILLAN. I should like to call up the joint resolution (S. R. 130) to amend an act entitled "An act making Saturday a half holiday for banking and trust companies in the District of Columbia," approved December 22, 1892, reported by me yesterday from the Committee on the District of Columbia with an amendment in the nature of a substitute. It went over yesterday on the objection of the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR].

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the joint resolution.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The substitute reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia was read at length yesterday. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee.

Mr. HOAR. I have examined the joint resolution since it went over. It is only intended, as I understand from reading it and from the assurance of members of the committee who reported it, to extend to Georgetown and Annapolis, in the District of Columbia, the provisions of the act passed in December, which applies to banks and other like institutions in Washington. I think after this measure shall become a law it would be safe for all holders of negotiable paper and persons desiring to enforce all other contracts which require an act to be performed at a bank on a given day, the indorsers of promissory notes or the makers of conditional contracts, to have the acts necessary for holding persons with whom they have contracted performed on both days. I think it is exceedingly doubtful whether the courts would hold that an act of Congress merely establishing a legal holiday would operate to create a new obligation on the part of an indorser of negotiable paper. I shall not in regard to a measure which is so convenient interpose any objection or insist on any amendment, but simply make the suggestion that in my judgment it would be safe for such persons to have the tender or demand made on both days.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment reported by the Committee on the District of Columbia, striking out all after the resolving clause and inserting a substitute.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PLATT. Perhaps no other member of the Senate will agree with me in what I am about to say with reference to this measure, but I do not see any necessity for it. I am not going to oppose its passage. I know we have been making holidays for every conceivable reason, but I do not see any reason at all for making a half holiday in the District of Columbia simply for banks and trust companies. If Saturday were a half holiday so that business closed here at 12 o'clock that would be another thing, but the banks open at 9 and close at 3 in the afternoon. I think, and I do not see any particular necessity for this measure which authorizes them to close at 12 on Saturday. Their hours are not late. Business goes on upon Saturday afternoon, we have no half holiday as to general business, and such a measure seems to me quite unnecessary. But, as I said, I am not going to oppose the passage of the joint resolution. I wanted simply to express my views on the subject.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The joint resolution was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The following bills, this day received from the House of Representatives, were severally read twice by their titles, and referred to the Committee on Pensions:

A bill (H. R. 1318) granting a pension to Martha A. Harris;

A bill (H. R. 2342) to pension John T. Egan;

A bill (H. R. 3713) for increase of pension of Francis P. Gardner;

A bill (H. R. 1947) granting a pension to Ellen Howart;

A bill (H. R. 6320) granting a pension to Thomas S. Kennedy;

A bill (H. R. 1946) granting a pension to Thomas Fennell, of Battery A, Fourth United States Artillery;

A bill (H. R. 6272) to pension Susan A. Kelly;

A bill (H. R. 7231) granting a pension to Miss Milner;

A bill (H. R. 7238) granting a pension to Amanda M. Mott;

A bill (H. R. 7513) granting a pension to Benjamin McLaughlin, private in Captain Barn's company, Third Regiment, Third Brigade of Mounted Volunteers in the Black Hawk war;

A bill (H. R. 8488) to pension Sophia Kugwaleh;

A bill (H. R. 8924) granting a pension to the widow of James A. Kelly;

A bill (H. R. 8962) to grant a pension to Lydia Bollman, a dependent sister;

A bill (H. R. 9215) granting a pension to Eliza Holmes;

A bill (H. R. 9220) granting a pension to Mrs. Caroline Hardee Dyall, widow of James R. Dyall, veteran of the Florida war 1896;

A bill (H. R. 9233) to grant a pension to Harriet Cotar and

A bill (H. R. 9590) granting a pension to Charles Day.

The following bills were severally read twice by their titles, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs:

A bill (H. R. 2077) for the relief of William B. Prier;

A bill (H. R. 2392) for the relief of Andrew B. Knapp;

A bill (H. R. 6649) to extend the provisions of an act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer force; and

A bill (H. R. 5574) granting an honorable discharge to James C. Jennings.

ADDITIONAL QUARANTINE POWERS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is there further morning business? If not, that order is closed and the Chair lays before the Senate the regular order, which is the bill (S. 2707) granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill; the pending question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. VEST, in line 1, of section 7, after the word "service" to insert, "shall immediately after this act takes effect examine the quarantine regulations of all State and municipal boards of health in the execution and enforcement of the laws and regulations of such boards and in the execution and enforcement of the laws and regulations made by the Secretary of the Treasury."

That the Marine Hospital Service, which, immediately after this act takes effect, examine the quarantine regulations of all State and municipal boards of health, and shall cooperate with said State and municipal boards of health in the execution and enforcement of the laws and regulations of such boards and in the execution and enforcement of the laws and regulations made by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. HARRIS. There is no objection to the amendment of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST].

The amendment was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question now is on agreeing to the amendment of the committee to insert an additional section as section 7.

Mr. WOLCOTT. This measure is a most important one, and the Senate seems to be quite thin. I suggest that there is no quorum present. Let the roll be called.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The roll will be called by the Secretary.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

Berry,	Dodge,	M. McLean,	Sawyer,
Blackburn,	Dyer,	McPherson,	Sherman,
Cull,	George,	Mills,	Squire,
Cameron,	Gibson,	Mitchell,	Stewart,
Carlisle,	Hansbrough,	Morgan,	Teller,
Chandler,	Harris,	Morris,	Vanderpool,
Cockrell,	Hazen,	Palmer,	Vest,
Cole,	Hoar,	Patten,	Wadsworth,
Cullum,	Loomis,	Platt,	Wells,
Daniel,	Jones of Ark.	Prentiss,	Wilson,
Dawes,	Kyle,	Quay,	Wood,

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Forty-four Senators have responded to their names. A quorum is present. The question remains on agreeing to the amendment of the committee's reportings, after 7.

Mr. HARRIS. In section 3, line 23, after the word "State," to conform that part of the section to certain amendments suggested by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], I move to strike out the words "from and to" and insert "from Territory of the District of Columbia from another State or Territory of the District of Columbia," so as to read:

Are not sufficient to prevent the introduction of such diseases into the United States, or into one State or Territory or the District of Columbia from another State or Territory or the District of Columbia, the Secretary of the Treasury shall, in his judgment, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. TELLER. I do not know what stage the bill is in, but I wish to make a correction in an amendment as we find it printed in the bill on our tables. I moved yesterday an amendment to section 3, on page 5, which does not seem to be printed in the bill as it is in the RECORD. I moved to amend in lines 38 and 39 in the present bill, so as to read in this way:

But if the State or municipal authorities shall fail or refuse to enforce said rules and regulations, the President shall execute and enforce the same, and may detail officers or appoint proper persons for that purpose.

As it reads in the printed amendment, it is simply that the President may "appoint officers for that purpose." It is correctly printed in the RECORD, but not in the bill as it is reprinted.

Mr. CHANDLER. It says "detail" in the bill.

Mr. TELLER. The Secretary will find in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD this morning on page 408 the exact words of the amendment as I proposed it.

Mr. HARRIS. Does not the Senator from Colorado think, as the language appears in the bill, it accomplishes his object perfectly? It seems to me it does.

Mr. TELLER. I suppose the committee desires to have it in the power of the President not only to appoint persons but to detail officers.

Mr. CHANDLER. The bill so reads.

Mr. TELLER. It does not in the print I have.

Mr. CHANDLER. It does in the print I have.

Mr. TELLER. In the copy I have it reads that the President "may appoint officers."

Mr. CHANDLER. "May detail or appoint officers."

Mr. HARRIS. It reads:

The President shall execute and enforce the same and may detail or appoint officers for that purpose.

Mr. TELLER. I overlooked the word "detail."

Mr. HARRIS. The word "detail" remains in the bill.

Mr. TELLER. If it means that the President may detail or appoint officers, it is all right. The bill, as printed, does not give the amendment exactly in the language in which I offered it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Committee on Epidemic Diseases, to insert as a new section, section 7.

Mr. PLATT. Let the section be reported as it now stands.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The section will be read.

The Secretary read as follows:

SEC. 7. That whenever it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the President that by reason of the existence of cholera or yellow fever in a foreign country, there is serious danger of the introduction of the same into the United States, and that notwithstanding the quarantine defense this danger is so increased by immigration that a suspension of the same is demanded in the interest of the public health, the President shall have power to suspend immigration from such countries or places as he shall designate and for such period of time as he may deem necessary.

Mr. KYLE. I move to amend in line 3 of the section by striking out the words "yellow fever," and inserting "other infectious or contagious diseases."

I will state my reasons for doing this. I notice section 8, at the close of the bill, repeals the old law in regard to contagious diseases, and by this morning's Post I notice there are 600 cases of typhus fever in Old Mexico. The same may occur upon the Canadian border, and I think by striking out the words "yellow fever" and substituting "other infectious diseases," the essential part of the old law proposed to be repealed by section 8 will be retained.

Mr. WHITE. I should like to ask the chairman of the committee in charge of the bill whether the power given under section 7 to the President is not a simple reiteration of the power given to the Secretary of the Treasury under previous provisions of the bill?

Mr. HARRIS. I do not think it is.

Mr. WHITE. A previous provision of the bill says that the Secretary may frame such rules and regulations as to detention in all respects, as to the prevention of diseases in all respects, and that such rules and regulations, when promulgated by him, shall have the effect of law. Now, have you not lodged in the Secretary of the Treasury under the previous provisions of the bill, if it means anything, all the power which you lodge here? Where is the limitation upon the power of the Secretary of the Treasury stated in the previous provision of the bill?

Mr. HARRIS. The Senator will allow me to suggest that the rules and regulations which the Secretary of the Treasury may make are in respect to vessels, passengers, crews, and cargo, which are sailing to this country, which are coming. The power given to the President is, in case of an exigency which in his opinion demands it, to prevent the coming at all. That is the difference, as it appears to me.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. KYLE], to the amendment of the committee inserting a new section as section 7, which will be reported.

The SECRETARY. In section 7, after the words "cholera or," in line 3, it is proposed to strike out "yellow fever" and insert "other infectious or contagious diseases;" so as to read:

That whenever it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the President that by reason of the existence of cholera or other infectious diseases in a foreign country, etc.

Mr. WHITE. With the greatest deference to the distinguished Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], I think that he states a distinction without a difference. The admission is that the previous sections of the bill give to the Secretary of Treasury full power to make all such rules and regulations as he may deem best as to the coming of vessels, as to the time of detention, and as to what shall be done to them after they get here; in other words, the fullest and most plenary power to prevent the coming into the United States of any person whom his regulations may choose to exclude. Under the terms of the previous sections the exercise of this power to make regulations is not exhausted by calling the power into being at one time. It is a lodgment in the Secretary of the Treasury of a continuous power, a power coeternous and coexisting with his official function. Now, is not that all the power given in this section?

But the Senator says the distinction is this, that one is the power given to the President to prevent them from coming, the other is the power given to the Secretary of the Treasury to prevent them from coming in. Is not that a distinction without a difference? Where is the distinction between the two? If the Secretary of the Treasury promulgates his regulations, saying that nobody shall come in, is not that a regulation saying that nobody shall come unless it is to be supposed that a man knowing he can not come in is going to come? The power of the President in suspending immigration can not go any further than preventing immigrants from coming in; his authority is not extraterritorial; he can not prevent a man from being guilty of the act of folly of shipping for this country, if he pleases, with the knowledge that he can not come in.

Mr. HARRIS. Will the Senator from Louisiana allow me to suggest, that I must have been unfortunate in my expression or be unfortunate enough not to have understood what I said. The difference, as I conceive it to be, is this: The Secretary of the Treasury makes rules and regulations under which persons may come in. The power given to the President is, in case of such exigency as may possibly arise, to say they shall not come at all. The difference is between being authorized to come in under certain circumstances, and not being authorized to come at all.

Mr. WHITE. Mr. President, the explanation of the distinguished Senator reads the provision out of the bill, for the very elementary conception of the quarantine power is that it contains within itself ex vi terminum the power to disinfect, the power to detain for a particular time, or the power to prevent coming in for as long a time as may be considered necessary. When you use the expression "quarantine," it is used as understood by civilized nations, and in every quarantine in the United States where it is considered proper that the party should not come in, the regulation goes, saying he shall not come in for three months or for forty days, or for six months, or he shall not come in for the time necessary to protect the public health.

Therefore, if the rules and regulations which the Secretary of the Treasury is to make under the previous provisions of this bill do not include the power to make rules and regulations as to quarantine, as commonly and at all times understood, then the previous provisions of the bill mean nothing, and you have lodged in the Secretary of the Treasury no power whatever.

I say this power ought to be lodged somewhere. If it be lodged at all, it ought not to be lodged in two places. If you confide it to the Secretary of the Treasury, then why go on and reconfide the same power in the President? If you do not wish to confide the power to the Secretary, then insert in your bill a provision confiding it to the President.

Mr. HOAR. I should like to inquire of the Senator from Louisiana if he extends his argument so far that he conceives that a municipality or a State, under the quarantine powers which are now exercised or which are conceded to it by this bill, would have the power to pass a quarantine regulation which should prohibit for one year or three years all immigration from Europe to the ports of that State?

Mr. WHITE. I will answer the Senator by saying that the quarantine regulations of my State, which have been in existence for a great many years and which have been declared constitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States after an elaborate examination, give the health officer power to detain a vessel six months with everybody on it, if he pleases.

Mr. HOAR. That is not quite my question.

Mr. WHITE. My argument is that the power to quarantine effect; which was read twice, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 3696) for the relief of Brig. Gen. John R. Brooke, United States Army; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 3697) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of Wade H. Newman; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. QUAY introduced a bill (S. 3698) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Olivia Betton; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. GALLINGER introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 133) instructing the Secretary of War to cause an examination to be made of the piers of the Aqueduct bridge, and the District Commissioners to furnish a statement of expenditures on account of said bridge, since it became the joint property of the United States and the District of Columbia; which was read twice, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

REPORT ON CATTLE DISEASES.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring therein), That there be printed of the special report on the diseases of cattle and cattle feeding, prepared by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture, 100,000 copies, of which number 30,000 shall be for the use of the Senate, 60,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, and 10,000 to be distributed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

REPORT ON SHEEP INDUSTRY.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring therein), That there be printed of the special report on the sheep industry of the United States, prepared by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture, 35,000 copies, of which number 10,000 shall be for the use of the Senate, 20,000 for the use of the House of Representatives, and 5,000 for distribution by the Secretary of Agriculture.

OBSERVATIONS OF NAVAL OBSERVATORY.

Mr. MANDERSON submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring therein), That the annual volumes of the observations of the Naval Observatory, commonly known as the "Washington Observations," for the years 1889, 1890, 1891, and 1892, be printed, and that 1,500 additional copies of each volume be printed, of which 500 shall be for the use of the Senate, 700 for the use of the House, and 300 for the use of the Naval Observatory; and, furthermore, that 1,200 separate copies of each of the astronomical appendices, and 1,000 separate copies of the meteorological and magnetic observations, extracted from each of the above volumes be printed for the use of the Naval Observatory.

TREATY WITH INDIANS OF OREGON.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a resolution coming over from a previous day, which will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution submitted by Mr. MITCHELL on the 7th instant, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to transmit to the Senate a copy of a treaty negotiated by Joel Palmer, then superintendent of Indian affairs for the Territory of Oregon, on or about the 11th day of August, 1855, with the various Indian tribes inhabiting the coast of Oregon from the Columbia River to the California line, consisting of Tillamook, Coos Bay, Coquille, Too-too-to-hey, Chero, Siuslaw, Clatsop, and Lower Umpqua Indians, and whereby they, it is alleged, ceded all the country claimed by them between the country theretofore ceded by various other treaties and the Pacific Ocean, estimated to contain 5,000,000 acres of land, and by the terms of which it is alleged there was a reservation of a tract of country on the coast within the limits of the coast reservation established by the President, estimated to contain 750,000 acres; and that the Secretary of the Interior be further directed to advise the Senate whether such treaty was ever transmitted to the Senate for ratification, also whether the United States, if said treaty was not ratified, has acted upon the terms stipulated therein and received the benefits of the cession therein provided; and if so, whether said Indians were ever paid the amounts stipulated in such treaty to be paid to them for and on account of the lands so ceded, and if so, when were such payments made; and further that he advise the Senate fully whether such treaty became operative and whether the terms thereof or any of them have been enforced against the Indians, or the stipulations therein complied with by the United States.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had on the 7th instant approved and signed the joint resolution (S. R. 112) to print and bind 2,000 extra copies each of the Drill Regulations for Infantry, Cavalry, and Artillery.

The message also announced that the President had on this day approved and signed the joint resolution (S. R. 123) to fill vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

ADDITIONAL QUARANTINE POWERS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate the quarantine bill.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2707) granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The pending question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], which will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 4, line 1, before the words "Marine Hospital," insert "Supervising Surgeon-General of the:" so as to read:

That it shall be the duty of the Supervising Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital Service, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, to perform all the duties in respect to quarantine and quarantine regulations, etc.

COINAGE OF SILVER.

Mr. McPHERSON. Mr. President, in accordance with the notice previously given, I desire to call up Senate joint resolution 126, which I had the honor to introduce a few days ago, and I ask that it be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Chair lays the joint resolution before the Senate. It will be read.

The joint resolution (S. R. 126) authorizing and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to suspend all purchases of silver bullion, as provided in the act of July 11, 1890, was read, as follows:

Resolved, etc., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to suspend, until otherwise ordered by Congress, all purchases of silver bullion as provided in the first section of the act of July 11, 1890, entitled "An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes."

Mr. McPHERSON. Mr. President, I ask to have read what I send to the desk.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

We denounce the Republican legislation known as the Sherman act of 1890 as a cowardly makeshift, fraught with possibilities of danger in the future which should make all of its supporters, as well as its author, anxious for its speedy repeal. We hold to the use of gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discriminating against either metal or charge for minting, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic exchangeable value, or be adjusted through international agreement or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in the payment of debts; and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of farmers and laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and a fluctuating currency.

Mr. McPHERSON. Mr. President, this is the proclamation of the Democratic party in national convention assembled in June last in the city of Chicago. That convention was composed of delegates representing every State, every hamlet in the American Union, and the convention almost unanimously, and without division, voted down every amendment that had for its object to bind the national Democracy to the support of a different policy. The delegates there assembled seemed not to be oblivious to the fact that a crisis, fraught with great distress and danger to the Republic, had been reached in the financial affairs of the Government, and they enjoined upon those temporarily intrusted with leadership in legislation and in administration, that the perils which threatened us demanded the prompt and speedy repeal of the Sherman act. That in the coinage of both gold and silver the dollar unit of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value.

And to make this command still more emphatic, we insist (say they) upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of farmers and laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and a fluctuating currency.

Assuming as we must, I think, that to the Democratic national convention, constituted as it is, and to it alone, belongs the right to determine, define, and proclaim the faith and policy of the party at least to those citizens who give to it their allegiance—is it not also fair to assume that neither Democratic President, Senator, or Representative in Congress will arrogate to himself absolute liberty of judgment and action—even to the extent of nullifying the pledges made by party to people—on a subject so vital to them as a possible violent change in their entire monetary system? It was upon the strength of this pledge, made in national convention, that gave to Mr. Cleveland more than one hundred electoral votes, not one of which he could have received without it. And now that the Democratic party is soon to be in absolute control of the legislative and executive departments of this great Government in all its branches, the people, alarmed at the present situation, demand to know when and in what mode this pledge is to be fulfilled.

In obedience to this command, and in apparent fulfillment of this pledge, the distinguished Senator from New York [Mr. HILL] introduced a bill to repeal the Sherman act of 1890. As a foil to this bill, the distinguished Senator from Nevada [Mr. SHERMAN] again vaults into the arena with all his old-time vigor for the dollar of the daddies and open mints. As the direct, responsible representative, we assume, of the new party the distinguished Senator has done so much to create, and while defiantly dangling a his belt the bleeding scalps of a goodly number of an old-fashioned American Statesmen, he gives notice that preceding the repeal of the Sherman law provision by law must be made for the free, unlimited coinage of the standard silver dollar.

The Sherman act (so called) which we seek to repeal was a masterpiece of contrivance (receiving in this Chamber only Republican support), invented and intended to hold the silver-producing States in the West, then wavering in their allegiance, firmly in the Republican column. The public interest was thus sacrificed to partisan advantage. Its all-sufficient justification was found in the perpetuation of the rule of the Republican party, notwithstanding it was plainly apparent to every reflecting mind that under the operation of this law, if long enough continued, once in currency must be silver, and silver only. It was further apparent to the people that no relief from this incubus was possible except by the united action of both Houses of Congress and the concurrence of the Executive.

The American people were thus bound hand and foot to the terms of the definite alliance made between the Republican party, to which party many had given their allegiance, and the mine-owner, under and by virtue of which alliance the people were made to take all the risks, to bear all the losses, while the mine-owner gets all the profits.

Is it any wonder then that the people now begin to see with clearer vision the aims and intentions, the object and purpose of each political party, and are engaged in new and more earnest efforts over policies that are irreconcilable, over measures that are inherently and inevitably in conflict.

But more, if permitted to diverge a moment from the line of my argument to give additional reasons why the people recently denied to the Republican party the support they had so long accorded to it and turned for relief to the Democratic party.

The people had seen the Republican party make also a definite alliance with the manufacturing and corporation classes, to the injury of all other classes, and more recently they had seen this alliance renewed and strengthened.

And it had been further agreed, as a part of the bond between the Republican party and its mercenary allies, that as the first expressions of popular wrath would be felt in the popular branch, appropriations for subsidies would be made part of the permanent annual expenditures, in order that a Democratic House might not take from the corporations the people's forced contributions.

The people had seen the virtues of popular government; and they then beheld the vices of a government by an oligarchy of money.

They had seen the elections, once pure, become matters of annual bargain between the candidates and their supporters, and money poured into the elections in rolling streams of gold—money, the only and one thought, from the pious cabinet minister to the poorest wretch whose vote he buys.

They had seen individuals and giant corporations given sanction to oppose the people, and they had seen these beneficiaries of Republican favor return at each succeeding election with millions more for fresh riot.

The Democratic people in national convention declared their abhorrence of all these evils existing in the Government and made it the duty and the mission of those intrusted with the responsibility of making their laws to stamp out these evils. Especially and expressly did they enjoin upon their servants in Congress, "that in the coinage of both gold and silver, the dollar unit of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, and that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin;" that the cowardly makeshift known as the Sherman law must be repealed.

Mr. President, gold and silver are something more than mere commodities; they are the only monetary metals, and as such are distinguished from all other metals and all other commodities.

In the international monetary conference which met in Paris in 1881, the Hon. William M. Evarts, then a delegate for the United States, voicing the sentiment and contention of the people of the United States in that conference, spoke, not precisely in words but in substance, as follows:

"Since the days of barter, both gold and silver have been used as money by civilized nations upon some accepted relative ratio of value. There has been no single period in history in which their united strength was more than adequate for the unfolding process of society in the interchange of the products of the world, by providing ther for an intrinsic money with which to measure values. If to this we add the wide expanse of credit in the developed commerce of the world, which finally rests upon the intrinsic money of the world, it will be found impossible for the volume of both the metals that the bounty of nature could yield to the urgent labor of man to perform the task. This credit is almost without a figure a vast globe, and this service of the precious metals to sustain it—that of an Atlas upon whom the whole fabric rests. All attempts to find a permanent enduring support for domestic circulation and for participation in commerce, upon less than the broad basis, the united strength, firmness, and fixity of the two metals which should make one money out of the two metals for all the world is a vain hope and invites disaster."

This I believe to be the opinion and firm conviction of a large majority of the people of the United States; in other words, the people are bimetallicists. The number of people in this country who will advocate monometallism either in gold or silver, or who will approve legislation that will tend to drive or drift us to monometallism of either gold or silver is infinitesimal. Neither the "gold bugs" nor the "silver barons" (so called) would consent to a policy which they force will tend to suppress one-half the intrinsic money of the State. All concede that with both metals acting in harmonious relationship as money its use has often been found too narrow; with but one it may be positively unsafe.

What then are the essential features of a bimetallic system of currency which our people favor and advocate to the fullest extent consistent with the safety of the finances?

First, "An open mint ready to coin any quantity of either gold or silver which may be brought to it."

Second, "The right on the part of the debtor to discharge his liabilities, at his option, in either of the two metals at a ratio fixed by law."

Under this true definition of bimetallicism neither the United States nor any state in Europe can be said to have a bimetallic system of currency, while prior to 1871 the United States and nearly all the great states of Europe were bimetallic states, such as England and Portugal.

BIMETALLISM ABANDONED.

Germany was the first to break loose from the great group of states which had used silver and adopt a gold standard, and the United States, in 1873, joined Germany and other states of Europe in destroying the relation which had theretofore subsisted between the white and the yellow metal. The Scandinavian states followed the lead of Germany and discarded silver, while the states of the Latin Union, unable to absorb in their circulation the surplus silver of Germany without the loss of their gold, closed their mints against silver. The fall of silver was easy to foresee. It was inevitable. The mischief was already done. The die completely cast.

To prohibit in ten great states, first in civilization, in finance, and commerce, the minage of a metal which had hitherto enjoyed like mint privileges with gold and to expect this metal would maintain its former value in the face of the most unequalled silver production would be inconsistent and absurd.

The effect of the demonetization of silver by Germany was threefold: it not only overloaded a market more than supplied, but also a cessation of the demand for fresh silver, and the increased demand for gold.

Moreover, the public mind in Europe now seems to be undergoing a change not unfavorable to silver. "Other European nations, jealous of the growing financial power and commercial progress of England, where a monetary system based upon the gold standard had been long in use and had satisfied all the requirements of that country, sought for some advantage by which, without too great loss, to change their money standards." Germany succeeded, and as to other great states the purpose seems not to have been entirely abandoned.

This declaration seems to be justified in the views expressed and the votes cast by the European delegates in the several international monetary conferences which met in Paris in 1867, 1875, 1881, and 1892. It is further apparent in their persistent hungry demand for gold to strengthen their gold reserves.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES.

In view of the fact that the United States had invited two and recently called for a third international monetary congress, I will refer briefly to this subject. It will be remembered the conference of 1867 recommended a gold standard, and the legislation of Germany in 1871 was strictly in line with the recommendations of that Congress. The conference of 1875 was called at the urgent request of the United States. The invitation was freely responded to by all the important states except Germany; but though the delegates were present in the body, they were absent in spirit. Our invitation was accepted more in a spirit of courtesy than born of a desire to establish a fixity of ratio between gold and silver and such mint regulations as would make one

Mr. CALL. I have no objection to an adjournment at this time.

Mr. SAWYER. I will ask the Senator to change that to a motion for an executive session.

Mr. TELLER. I have no objection to an executive session.

Mr. HARRIS. Allow me, before either motion is put, to say that I do not think it probable that we have a quorum here at this time, so that we shall probably not be able to dispose of the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] this evening. Feeling that it is very important that Congress shall dispose of this matter in whatever way it proposes to dispose of it, I think it very important that this bill, or something containing powers such as this bill confers, should be passed very promptly.

I shall ask the Senate to-morrow morning immediately after the routine morning business to continue the consideration of the bill at least up to 2 o'clock. I shall go no further than 2 o'clock at this time. If the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN] objects, then I shall not interfere with him; but I am very anxious to come to a final vote upon the pending measure at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. TELLER. The McGarrahan case was made the special order for to-morrow after the routine morning business, but to accommodate the pending bill, if I can have an order for the consideration of the McGarrahan case for Wednesday morning, instead of to-morrow morning, after the routine morning business, I shall not object. Preparatory to making the arrangement proposed by the Senator from Tennessee, because this seems to be a bill of national importance, I ask that the McGarrahan bill may be taken up on Wednesday morning immediately after the conclusion of the routine morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER]?

Mr. HARRIS. I am greatly obliged to the Senator from Colorado, and hope there will be no objection to his request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears no objection to the request of the Senator from Colorado, and it is granted.

Mr. HARRIS. I now ask unanimous consent that immediately after the routine business to-morrow morning the Senate proceed to the consideration of the pending bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Tennessee? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. WASHBURN. I give notice to Senators that I shall call up the antiopion bill at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. HARRIS. My request extends only to the morning hour at present. I do not know what I shall ask to-morrow.

Mr. WASHBURN. I hope the Senator will not ask anything further to-morrow.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. SAWYER. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After five minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 5 o'clock and 10 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Tuesday, January 10, 1893, at 12 o'clock m.

NOMINATIONS.

Executive nominations received by the Senate January 9, 1893.

PROMOTIONS IN THE ARMY.

Pay Department.

Lieut. Col. Charles M. Terrell, deputy paymaster-general, to be assistant paymaster-general with the rank of colonel, January 6, 1893, vice Gibson, retired from active service.

Maj. James P. Canby, paymaster, to be deputy paymaster-general with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, January 6, 1893, vice Terrell, promoted.

Subsistence Department.

First Lieut. Guy Howard, Twelfth Infantry, to be commissary of subsistence with the rank of captain, January 7, 1893, vice Woodruff, promoted.

CONFIRMATION.

Executive nomination confirmed by the Senate January 9, 1893.

FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

Henry Clay Evans, of Tennessee, to be First Assistant Postmaster-General.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, January 9, 1893.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Saturday last was read and approved.

EXPENSES OF COMMITTEE ON AWARDS, WORLD'S COLUMBIAN COMMISSION.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting, with a favorable recommendation, an estimate of appropriation submitted by a president of the World's Columbian Exposition for the expenses of the committee on awards of the World's Columbian Exposition, which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

MILITARY ENCAMPMENT AT CHICAGO.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, with inclosures, relating to the passage of an act by Congress to provide for an encampment of 100,000 United States and State troops to be held at Chicago on the occasion of the World's Columbian Exposition, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FINDINGS OF COURT OF CLAIMS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House copies of the findings of the Court of Claims in the following named cases, which were severally referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed:

A. M. Carmell and George Leonhart vs. The United States; and Betty A. Aldrich vs. The United States.

RELIEF OF COLUMBIAN UNIVERSITY, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a bill (S. 3623) to amend the act of March 3, 1873, "for the relief of the Columbian University in the District of Columbia."

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that that bill be taken up and considered at this time.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to a third reading; and it was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HEMPHILL moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows: To Mr. WHITING, indefinitely, on account of illness.

To Mr. JOHNSON of North Dakota, for two weeks, on account of important business.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. OHLLIGER, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (S. 317) granting an increase of pension to John M. Roberts;

A bill (S. 2592) granting an increase of pension to William C. Tarkington;

A bill (S. 2990) for the relief of George W. McKinney; and

A bill (S. 3311) for the relief of E. Darwin Gage, late lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and forty-eighth New York Infantry.

BRIDGES ACROSS THE HIAWASSEE, TENNESSEE, AND CLINCH.

Mr. EVERETT. Mr. Speaker, on Saturday last I asked the House to consider the bill (H. R. 1001) to authorize the construction of bridges across the Hiawassee, Tennessee, and Clinch Rivers. It is drawn up in the usual form of bridge bills and has the approval of the Secretary of War. My friend from Kansas [Mr. ORIS, under a misapprehension of one of its provisions] objected to the consideration of the bill. He now withdraws his objection, and I ask unanimous consent that the bill be put upon its passage.

The SPEAKER. This bill was read in full on Saturday, but objection was made by the gentleman from Kansas [Mr. ORIS] to its consideration. The Chair is informed that the gentleman withdraws the objection. Is there further objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

Mr. TAYLOR of Illinois. Has the bill been reported from a committee?

The SPEAKER. It has.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be engrossed

Mr. DOCKERY. I desire to call the attention of the gentleman from New Jersey to the fact that there is no session remaining hour to-day, this being District day.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. The gentleman begs the question; that is the very point I am raising.

specifically but urgently praying that Congress will promptly enact such conservative legislation as shall secure the speedy construction of the Nicaragua Canal, under the control of the Government of the United States and with such provisions as will obtain the completion of this beneficent work at the lowest possible cost, thereby securing cheap tolls to our producers and merchants. The petitioners further pray that the Government of the United States shall consider and comply with the unanimous demand of our fellow citizens all over the Republic in securing an interoceanic highway through Nicaragua in the interest of our general welfare, industrially, commercially, and as a means of national defense. They state that no subject presented at this time to the American people is of greater moment to their prosperity, and with their unanimous approval and urgent request they respectfully represent that Congress should act promptly and decisively in obtaining "an American canal under American control."

I desire to have unanimous consent to have the petition printed in the RECORD. It is not voluminous. It does not embrace over a paragraph.

Mr. SHERMAN. I have no objection to having the petition printed as a document, but we have agreed on both sides to object to the printing of petitions in the RECORD. The Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS] objects on the other side and I think I shall have to take the privilege of objecting on this side.

Mr. FELTON. I would not make the request, but the petition is signed by a half dozen prominent associations of California on a subject in which they have a deep interest. If Senators on the other side fail to object I am very sorry that the Senator from Ohio does so.

Mr. SHERMAN. I will say to the Senator from California that I have no objection to the petition being printed as a document, and in that form it is much better to be distributed, but to print petitions in the RECORD is to increase the cost of printing to an untold amount. Probably the cost of printing in the RECORD would be twenty times as much as if printed in the form of a document, and to print it in document form will answer every purpose.

Mr. FELTON. I do not think it would receive any consideration if printed in the form of a document, and unless distributed it would be unnecessary. Therefore I will not ask that the petition be printed as a document. I move that it lie on the table, the bill having been reported.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. QUAY presented a memorial of the Evangelical Lutheran, the Presbyterian, and other churches of Duncannon, Pa.; a memorial of the Central Presbyterian Church of Mercer County, Pa.; a memorial of the Mount Zion Lutheran Church of York, Pa., and a memorial of a number of citizens and churches of Elgin, Ill., remonstrating against any repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. WASHBURN presented a memorial of the commissioners of the sinking fund of the city of New York, remonstrating against the erection of a bridge over the Hudson River with approaches at or about Seventieth street in that city; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented a memorial of the Presbyterian Synod of Minnesota, remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented petitions of the State Grange of Minnesota; of 38 citizens of Nicolet County, and of 29 citizens of Sibley County, all in the State of Minnesota, praying for the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. TELLER presented a petition of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of La Junta, Colo., praying for the closing of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. MORGAN presented a memorial of 42 citizens of Selma, Ala., and vicinity, remonstrating against the passage of the Washburn-Hatch anti-option bill; which was ordered to lie on the table.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. BLODGETT, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 9433) granting a pension to Mrs. Ann Mercer Slaughter, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. VILAS, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 1795) to increase the pension of A. J. Copenhagen, late a soldier in the Mexican war, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8038) granting a pension to William M. Watson, of Walker County, Ga., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. STEWART, from the Committee on Mines and Mining, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 9286) to create the California Débris Commission and regulate hydraulic mining in the State of California, reported it with amendments.

Mr. MILLS, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5676) for the relief of R. L. Jennings, late postmaster at Marshall, Tex., reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7633) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Kickapoo Indians in Oklahoma Territory, and to make appropriations for carrying the same into effect, reported it with an amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3329) to increase the area of the Northern Cheyenne or Tongue River Indian Reservation, Montana, and to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to settle the claims of bona fide settlers within the present reservation and the addition thereto, and to make appropriation for that purpose, reported it without amendment.

Mr. DANIEL, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 651) for the relief of Aaron Van Camp and V. P. Chapin & Co., submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 2243) for the relief of W. C. Piper, of Moscow, Idaho, submitted an adverse report thereon; which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3570) granting an increase of pension to Charles A. Lang, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

JOSIAH PICKETT.

Mr. SAWYER. I am directed by the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3544) for the relief of Josiah Pickett, to report it with an amendment.

Mr. HOAR. I ask that the bill may be considered now. It is very short.

Mr. SAWYER. I hope the bill will be considered at this time.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The amendment of the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads was, in line 7, before the word "satisfied," to strike out the word "reasonably;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Postmaster-General be directed to settle the account of Josiah Pickett, of Worcester, Mass., formerly postmaster at that place, by crediting to said Josiah Pickett all such sums received by him as interest on public moneys deposited as the Postmaster-General shall be satisfied have been applied by said Josiah Pickett for public purposes in connection with his office as postmaster aforesaid.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

WILLIAM J. AND JOSEPH M. CORNELL.

Mr. DOLPH. By direction of the Committee on Public Lands, I report back with amendments the bill (S. 3549) for the relief of William J. Cornell and Joseph M. Cornell, the only amendment being a change in the spelling of the name. It is an important private bill, will only occupy the time of reading, and I ask for its present consideration.

Mr. SHERMAN. Let it be read for information.

After reading, the Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the bill as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to appropriate $800, $400 of which shall be paid to William J. Cornell, on account of an overpayment of that sum to the receiver of the United States land office at Lagrange, Oregon, on land entry numbered 4298, for the south half of section 27, township 3 north, of range 39 east, and $400 thereof to Joseph M. Cornell, on account of an overpayment by him of that sum to the receiver, on land entry numbered 4292, for the north half of section 27, township 3 north, range 39 east, these entries having been made under the third section of the act of September 29, 1890, and the parties having been, by mistake of the officers of the land office, required to pay $2.50 per acre instead of the legal price thereof, namely, $1.25 cents per acre.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendments of the Committee on Public Lands will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. In lines 6 and 11 change the spelling of the name from "Cornell" to "Carnell."

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 9 strike out the word "north" and insert the word "south" so as to read "south half."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. DOLPH. The amendments merely correct mistakes made in printing.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were encauried in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill for the relief of William J. Carnell and Joseph M. Carnell."

PRINTING OF PURE-FOOD BILL.

Mr. MANDERSON. I am directed by the Committee on Printing to report a Senate resolution, and I ask for its present consideration.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolution; which was read, as follows:

Resolved, That 500 copies of Senate bill No. 1 be printed as reported by the Committee on Agriculture of the House for the use of the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. MANDERSON. This is a reprint of what is known as the pure-food bill. The printing is desired by the committee.

The resolution was agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill (S. 3699) for the relief of John Bryson; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill (S. 3700) for the relief of Arthur C. Heffenger; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 3701) granting a pension to Franklin A. Stoddard; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3702) granting to the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company the use of certain lands at Chickasha Station, and for a "Y" in the Chickasaw Nation, Indian Territory; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. VOORHEES introduced a bill (S. 3703) for the relief of John Spicer; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PEPPER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3704) to amend an act entitled, "An act to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Oklahoma, to enlarge the jurisdiction of the United States court in the Indian Territory, and for other purposes," approved May 2, 1890; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (S. 3705) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Wichita and affiliated bands of Indians in Oklahoma Territory and to make appropriations for carrying the same into effect; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. BERRY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the Indian appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. McMILLAN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the District appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. QUAY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the sundry civil appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS D. ALLEN.

Mr. COCKRELL. When the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL], chairman of the Committee on Claims, reported adversely the bill (S. 1421) for the relief of Lewis D. Allen, I asked that it might be placed on the Calendar until I could examine the report. I ask now that the bill be indefinitely postponed, as the committee recommended. I have examined the report. I wish simply to rid the Calendar of the bill.

Mr. MITCHELL. I will state to the Senator from Missouri that there are two bills in the interest of this same claimant, both reported adversely, I think.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think the other bill has already been postponed indefinitely.

Mr. MITCHELL. Perhaps so.

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not find the other bill on the Calendar. This is the only one I find.

Mr. MITCHELL. I think the other bill was perhaps indefinitely postponed.

Mr. COCKRELL. I do not think any one asked to have the other bill placed on the Calendar.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be postponed indefinitely, if there be no objection.

J. C. IRWIN & CO. AND OTHERS.

Mr. COCKRELL. The bill (S. 21) for the relief of J. C. Irwin & Co. and C. A. Perry & Co. was reported adversely on the 27th of January, 1892, from the Committee on Claims by the senior Senator from Kansas [Mr. PEPPER], and was placed on the Calendar. I have conversed with him, and he makes no objection to my request that the bill and adverse report be recommitted to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PEPPER. The Senator from Missouri called my attention to this particular case and suggested that some other and further evidence bearing upon the matter of the claim would be presented. Upon that account I think that the bill should be recommitted to the committee. I have no objection to the course suggested.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Missouri moves that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Claims.

The motion was agreed to.

ADDITIONAL QUARANTINE POWERS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. If there is no further morning business, that order is closed, and the Chair lays before the Senate the regular order.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 2797) granting additional quarantine power and imposing additional duties upon the Marine Hospital Service, the pending question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. WHITE, to add to the last section of the bill the following:

All the provisions of this act shall expire on the 1st day of January, 1895.

Mr. GALLINGER. The Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] has the floor, I understand. Does he wish to proceed now?

Mr. CALL. I will yield the floor to the Senator from New Hampshire if he desires to make some observations at this time.

Mr. GALLINGER. Mr. President, there can be no doubt in the mind of any Senator as to the importance of the legislation contemplated by the bill under consideration. It is but proper, however, that I should say, as a member of the Committee on Epidemic Diseases which reported the bill, that it had not a very thorough consideration in committee, and it was understood that each member of the committee might express on the floor his own judgment as to the proposed legislation, and vote as his conscience might dictate.

I have been greatly interested in reading the discussion of this bill during my enforced absence from the Senate. I was yesterday interested in hearing the assurances from the lips of the distinguished Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], the chairman of the Committee on Epidemic Diseases, that in his judgment this legislation was constitutional. I was reminded during his speech of the fact that when the bill to establish a national sanitarium for the treatment of pulmonary diseases was before the same committee, the Senator from Tennessee and the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE] were both very clearly of the opinion that the proposed legislation in that bill was unconstitutional, and those Senators so reported to the Senate; but the bill now under consideration, the provisions of which not only authorize the use of public money with which to extirpate cholera and yellow fever, but also smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, and chickenpox, as well—for it covers all forms of contagious and epidemic diseases—is constitutional.

I do not quarrel with the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Epidemic Diseases as to the view he takes of this bill, but simply wish to suggest to him that he ought to reverse the views he announced on the bill to establish a national sanitarium.

Tuberculosis has destroyed in this country during the last twenty years a hundred times more people than cholera and yellow fever combined, and hence, in my judgment, has a superior claim for legislation by Congress.

After the bills relating to quarantine and immigration have been considered, I propose to ask action upon the sanitarium bill, which stands adversely reported by the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. President, in reading the discussions on this question in this Chamber last week, I was very much surprised to find that some severe animadversions were indulged in concerning the Supervisor-General of the Marine Hospital Service. I desire simply, in a single word, to say that from my personal and professional acquaintance with that gentleman he should be shielded from any personal attack on this floor. He is a man who stands high in his profession, a man who is recognized the country over, and perhaps the world over, as a distinguished sanitarian. It strikes me that it was proper that that officer should be interested in legislation such as is now before the Senate, and that he might properly, whether he did or not, come to the Capitol

I read in the reports here that, in consequence of the war established by Russia and Germany, the country is in a worst imprisonment to which it has not been subjected for centuries of worse than that prescribed by the laws of the country itself there. It is not a question of the rights of the people, but allow such a condition of things to continue, and the people are worthy of an enlightened people, and the country should exist as did exist in the past. But the people are not the people refuse to be ruled by the government, and the people feel that the people are not the people, and the people are with this deadly war, and the people are not the people.

public opinion, of this country demands some legislation, the most thorough and complete, to attain the end required by modern science.

But these considerations, Mr. President, it seems are not pertinent to the occasion. The general opinion seems to be that there is no time, unless we adopt this bill, in which other provisions could be made. While, therefore, I desire and I think it would be far better to have a system in which intelligent medical opinion of the different States outside of the Marine Hospital Service should be required to be made use of by the President in connection with it, while I think there should be a provision in this bill that in every State there should be one place, one port, where baggage and persons from infected countries must land, and there complete arrangements be made for their isolation, detention, and disinfection, the shortest possible time being required for that, so that commerce may be as free as possible from unnecessary obstruction—while I am of that opinion, and would, if time were allowed, introduce amendments to this bill or a substitute for it, I shall give the bill my support.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SHOUR in the chair). The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE], which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. At the end of the bill it is proposed to insert:

All the provisions of this act shall expire on the 1st day of January, 1895.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I desire simply to say in respect to the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana, that if this bill shall be passed and shall be found to be defective in any respect, the Senator from Louisiana, as well as all other Senators, knows that Congress may amend it and repeal it at any hour of any session it may choose. It is not entirely as experimental as many Senators seem to think it, for, if Senators will look at the act approved June 2, 1879, they will find that on that day an act was approved which contains every power contained in this bill; indeed, the bill which is now pending was taken from that act, the only difference being in substance that that act conferred these powers upon the National Board of Health, which then existed and which still exists in the statute, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, while this bill drops the National Board of Health out of view, and proposes to repeal the act which created it.

The only other exception to be found as between that act and the pending bill is the section which gives the President the power in cases of emergency to suspend immigration temporarily. That act expired by its own limitation, for it was amended just before its passage by a provision that the act should expire in four years from the date of its approval. It was in force for four years, from 1879 to 1883, and under its provisions the yellow fever which occurred in 1879 was promptly stamped out; there was no further importation, and the country was freed for those years from imported contagion.

Mr. BUTLER. May I ask the Senator from Tennessee if that act went as far as the pending bill in the direction of establishing national quarantine?

Mr. HARRIS. Absolutely.

Mr. BUTLER. As far as this measure?

Mr. HARRIS. Absolutely. The Senator will find it on page 5, of the twenty-first volume, of the Statutes at Large.

Mr. BUTLER. The act expired by its own limitation?

Mr. HARRIS. It expired by its own limitation, but was in force for four years, and was enforced for four years; and so far as the sanitarians of the country generally are concerned it was universally approved.

That is all I desire to say. Let us have a vote upon the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE].

Mr. WHITE. On that I call for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CALL (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH]. If he were present, I should vote "yea."

Mr. HOAR (when his name was called). I have a pair with the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH], but he and I agree upon this question, and I have his permission to vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. HARRIS. I desire to state that the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH] before leaving the Chamber told me he was paired with the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR], but he and the Senator from Massachusetts agree, and the Senator from Alabama asked me to pair him with any one on the other side. I asked the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] to pair with him, which he agreed to do.

Mr. CALL. I have announced my pair.

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. I am not aware of his sentiments on this question. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. RANSOM (when his name was called). The Senator from Maine [Mr. FRYE] has just reminded me of my pair with his colleague [Mr. HALE]. If the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] were present he would vote "nay," and I should vote "yea."

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. If he were present, I should vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. BERRY. My colleague [Mr. JONES of Arkansas] is paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK]. I do not know how either of them would vote.

Mr. DANIEL (after having voted in the affirmative). I am paired with the Senator from Washington [Mr. SQUIRE]. I therefore withdraw my vote.

Mr. MORGAN (after having voted in the affirmative). Finding that the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. DAWES] has not voted, I withdrew my vote.

Mr. COCKRELL. I desire to announce that my colleague [Mr. VEST] is necessarily detained on business from the Chamber to-day and is paired with the junior Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS] on general questions. But I understand they would both vote the same way on this question, and therefore they ought not to be paired.

Mr. HARRIS. Both are against the amendment?

Mr. COCKRELL. They would both vote against the pending amendment, but I have not been able to procure a pair for my colleague, and as it would not change the result I simply announce the fact.

Mr. DANIEL. If necessary to make a quorum I feel at liberty to vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum has voted.

The result was announced—yeas 13, nays 33, as follows:

YEAS—13.
Blackett.	Gibson.	Palmer.	White.
Harber.	Gorman.	Platt.
Geddes.	Gray.	Vance.
	Mills.	Vilas.
NAYS—33.
Aldrich.	Dubois.	McMillan.	Stewart.
Allen.	Edison.	McPherson.	Stockbridge.
Berry.	Frye.	Mitchell.	Teller.
Cameron.	Hansbrough.	Post.	Walthall.
Chandler.	Harris.	Pettigrew.	Washburn.
Cockrell.	Higgin.	Proctor.	Wolcott.
Cole.	Horn.	Sawyer.
Dixon.	Hamlin.	Sherman.
Dodge.	Hely.	Shoup.
NOT VOTING—11.
Allen.	Davis.	Ryle.	Sanborn.
Bates.	Dwight.	Manly.	Squire.
Bridgman.	Farquhar.	Morgan.	Stanford.
Crane.	Garmon.	McRill.	Turpie.
Cull.	Hale.	Pallock.	Vest.
Craw.	Hawley.	Pasco.	Voarhes.
Crisley.	Hill.	Perkins.	Warren.
Cushman.	Hiscock.	Powers.	Wilson.
Cushman.	Jones Ark.	Pugh.
Culver.	Jones Nev.	Quay.
Daniel.	Kenna.	Ransom.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. HARRIS. The last section, section 8, of the proposed act repeals the act which created the National Board of Health. I have a note from the secretary of the National Board of Health asking me to have that section amended so as to authorize him "to turn over to such officer as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury for that purpose all books, papers, records, furniture, and other property belonging to said Board now in his charge." I think the amendment eminently proper, and I offer it to section 8, so as to authorize the secretary of the Board to turn the property over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The SECRETARY. At the end of the last section of the bill it is proposed to add:

The secretary of the National Board of Health is hereby authorized, and directed to turn over to such officer as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury for that purpose, all books, papers, records, furniture, and other property belonging to said Board now in his charge and contained in the Army Medical Museum.

Mr. WHITE. I ask the chairman of the committee whether there is no change by implication of an admission that that officer is continued in the discharge of his functions up to this time?

There was a claim referred to the Committee on Claims on behalf of this officer claiming that for all these years he has been in the service and in the employ of the Government and asking an appropriation to pay him.

Mr. COCKRELL. Was not that claim reported adversely by the Committee on Claims?

Mr. WHITE. Yes; but if we adopt this provision may there not be an implication resulting from it? I only ask it as a question. It strikes me so.

Mr. HARRIS. I do not think it possible that there can be. The amendment simply authorizes him to turn over the property in his custody, and we have either to authorize him to turn it over to such officer as the Secretary of the Treasury may designate to receive it or he continues in the custody of it.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is there anything that he has belonging to the Government?

Mr. HARRIS. Oh, yes; the furniture of the National Board of Health, and all the books, papers, and records.

Mr. COCKRELL. I remember very distinctly the report of the Committee on Claims, and I thought it was an excellent report, made by the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS]. I should be very sorry to give this claimant, cormorant as he is, any ground for basing another claim against the Government.

Mr. VILAS. I suggest to the chairman of the committee in charge of the bill that he could avoid the criticism which has been suggested by the Senator from Louisiana, by omitting any words in respect of the person in whose alleged charge the furniture or property of the Government has been, and simply provide by the amendment that this board shall take charge of all property formerly in the custody of the National Board of Health.

Mr. HARRIS. Let the Secretary send the amendment to the Senator from Wisconsin, and I will ask him to formulate it. My object, and my only object, is to allow that officer to rid himself of the custody of property which is not being used.

Mr. GALLINGER. I have two or three amendments to offer to the phraseology of the bill. Will the Senator from Tennessee permit me to offer them while the amendment is being modified?

Mr. HARRIS. Certainly; while the Senator from Wisconsin is modifying or preparing the amendment the Senator from New Hampshire may proceed.

Mr. GALLINGER. I am satisfied the chairman of the committee will accept the amendments. They merely change the phraseology. I move to strike out in section 2, line 1, the words, "all vessels at foreign ports" and insert "any vessel at any foreign port." In line 9 of the same section the singular form is used and the plural form in line 1 ought to be singular, I think.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FRYE in the chair). The Senator from New Hampshire offers an amendment, which will be reported.

The SECRETARY. In line 1, section 2, strike out after the word "that" the words "all vessels at foreign ports," and insert "any vessel at any foreign port;" so as to read:

That any vessel at any foreign port clearing for any port or place in the United States shall be required to obtain from the consul, vice-consul, or other consular officer of the United States at the port of departure, or from the medical officer where such officer has been detailed by the President for that purpose, a bill of health, in duplicate, etc.

Mr. HARRIS. I think the amendment accomplishes precisely the object which is already accomplished by the language in the section. I have no objection to changing the phraseology.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. GALLINGER. In section 3, line 24, I move to strike out the words "from another" and insert the words "or Territory or the District of Columbia from another State or Territory or the District of Columbia;" so as to conform to the phraseology used throughout the bill except in this one instance.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary informs the Chair that that amendment has already been adopted and is in the bill.

Mr. GALLINGER. Then it is all right.

Mr. VILAS. I think what I propose will probably meet the wishes of the Senator from Tennessee. I move to add at the end of the last section of the bill the following:

And the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to obtain possession of any property, furniture, books, papers, or records belonging to the United States which are not now in the possession of an officer of the United States under the Treasury Department which were formerly in the use of the National Board of Health or any officer or employee thereof.

Mr. HARRIS. I wish to call the attention of the Senator from Wisconsin to the fact that the language he has employed authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to obtain the possession of any property not now in the possession of an officer of the United States.

Mr. VILAS. Under the Treasury Department.

Mr. HARRIS. Under the Treasury Department. The National Board of Health was, I think, under the Treasury Department, and until we pass this or some other bill repealing the act which created the National Board of Health the matter of doubt is whether the office does not exist.

Mr. VILAS. To strike out the word "now" would relieve that difficulty.

Mr. HARRIS. I simply call the Senator's attention to the fact so that he may accomplish his object certainly.

Mr. VILAS. I will change it in that respect.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator from Tennessee accept the amendment proposed by the Senator from Wisconsin?

Mr. HARRIS. I have no objection to it, sir.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. If there be no further amendment as in Committee of the Whole let the bill be reported to the Senate.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

Mr. GRAY. I move in line 9, of section 3, to strike out the words "and into one State from another," and wherever that phrase occurs as qualifying or defining the jurisdiction of this national quarantine service.

I believe it would be quite sufficient in this tentative step that we are taking to confine the quarantine service and the cooperation of the Federal authorities with the State authorities to the quarantine of foreign vessels at our seaports, where hitherto all quarantine has been confined. I think that we are not prepared, without some such limitation as that proposed by the Senator from Louisiana to enlarge the jurisdiction of the Federal quarantine to the extent of giving authority to establish quarantine at any point in the United States whatsoever. I think the States are quite capable of taking charge of the quarantine of their own territory much better than they are on the seaboard where they are exposed to the foreign commerce of the country, which is exclusively under the jurisdiction and regulation of the Federal Government.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair informs the Senator from Delaware that in line 9 the words in print "from another" have been stricken out and that in the present form it reads:

And into one State or Territory or the District of Columbia from another State or Territory or the District of Columbia.

Mr. GRAY. I do not quite understand what it would mean with those words stricken out. Let the Secretary read the clause as it stands.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will read the clause as it now stands in the bill.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

And in the execution and enforcement of the rules and regulations made by the Secretary of the Treasury to prevent the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States from foreign countries and into one State or Territory or the District of Columbia from another State or Territory or the District of Columbia.

Mr. GRAY. Then I move to strike out the language after the word "countries" and ending with the word "another" in line 9, because the language read means the same, and is the same enlargement of the quarantine jurisdiction proposed to be conferred upon the Federal authority at which I was aiming when I proposed the amendment.

Mr. HARRIS. The precise point of the amendment of the Senator from Delaware seems to me to be, and I suppose that is what he means to limit Congressional regulation of commerce in respect to quarantine to foreign commerce alone and to exclude any Congressional regulation of State commerce in this respect.

Mr. GRAY. As to interstate commerce.

Mr. HARRIS. Yes, as to interstate commerce. That is the object of the amendment. I think it would cripple very much and destroy to a very great extent the uniformity of quarantine regulations. It is a question of course for every Senator to decide for himself. I think it strips the bill of very important powers and duties, and I shall vote against the amendment myself.

Mr. PLATT. The object of the amendment, I understand, is to prohibit the General Government from taking any measures to prevent the spread of a contagious or infectious disease from one State to another.

Mr. HARRIS. That is the object.

Mr. PLATT. Then I wish to vote against the amendment. The bill commits quite enough of the power of dealing with contagious and infectious diseases to the States. It makes the Government subordinate in all instances to State authorities, to State quarantine, to State regulations. I think there had better be in the bill some power on the part of the Government not to prevent the spread of disease from one State to another, if it should effect a lodgment. It is already expressly given, if I am not mistaken, in the statute of 1860 passed by Congress. This would seem to be going back upon what Congress has already done in that respect and would be a virtual repeal of the act of 1860.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY].

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. VILAS. I have not the bill before me, but I understand it is the seventh section which contains a provision giving the President authority, in his discretion, to suspend all immigration.

Mr. HARRIS. That is the section.

Mr. VILAS. And that section has been adopted?

Mr. HARRIS. Yes, as in Committee of the Whole and in the Senate.

Mr. VILAS. I wish to move to strike out of that section the word "immigration," and to insert instead "all passenger travel, but not immigration alone."

The point to the amendment which I wish to make is this: It may become necessary, in the opinion of the President, to take so violent a remedy as to prohibit the access to our shores of people from foreign lands lest they should bring here the seeds of cholera. If it be so, and the Senate be willing to invest him with that great authority, I think it ought not to be an authority which discriminates in the manner in which the word "immigration" operates a discrimination. They come in as immigrants who are poor, and who are unable to come in the general position upon the ship of first-class or second-class travelers; but they who come as immigrants, and who are necessarily classed under that term, are the friends, the relatives often of the very best people whom we have in our land, so far as faithful citizenship, good service as citizens, usefulness in the development of the country are concerned. I am unwilling that it should be decreed to prevent the friends and relatives of people who have been sent for to join their pioneer friends in this country from coming into the United States unless it shall also be provided that the exigency which shall forbid them shall be sufficient to forbid all.

Mr. HARRIS. I have no objection whatever to the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin. However, the amendment is not strictly in order at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will consider the amendment inserting section 7 as open.

Mr. HARRIS. I was going to ask unanimous consent that the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin may be considered, and I certainly have no objection to it.

Mr. McPHERSON. Let it be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Section 7, as an amendment, will be considered open, and the Senator from Wisconsin has offered to it an amendment, which will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 7, line 10, it is proposed to strike out the word "immigration" and insert in lieu thereof the words "all passenger travel, but not immigration alone," so as to read:

The President shall have power to suspend all passenger travel, but not immigration alone, from such countries or places as he shall designate and for such period of time as he may deem necessary.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin.

Mr. PASCO. I call the attention of the Senator from Wisconsin to line 7, and ask whether it is not proper that there should be a modification there also, as the word "immigration" occurs at that place?

Mr. VILAS. I think it would be sufficient (and I intended to make that motion) to simply strike out "immigration" there and insert "passenger travel."

Mr. HARRIS. Let the section be read as proposed to be amended.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 7, line 7, it is further proposed to strike out the word "immigration" and insert "passenger travel," so as to read:

Sec. 7. That whenever it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the President that by reason of the existence of cholera or other infectious or contagious diseases in a foreign country there is serious danger of the introduction of the same into the United States, and that notwithstanding the quarantine defense this danger is so increased by passenger travel that a suspension of the same is demanded in the interest of the public health, the President shall have power to suspend all passenger travel, but not immigration alone, from such countries or places as he shall designate and for such period of time as he may deem necessary.

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest that the amendment be modified by leaving out the words "but not immigration alone," which seem to me to be wholly unnecessary.

Mr. VILAS. As it would read without those words it would be the greater power conferred on the President which would include the less, and I desire to be specific.

Mr. HARRIS. I simply desired to call the attention of the Senator to the point.

Mr. CHANDLER. I understand the Senator from Wisconsin to state distinctly that he is not willing the President in any exigency shall suspend immigration alone, but that if he finds there is any danger from immigration of any kind he shall then suspend all passenger travel if he suspends any. That is the object of the Senator, I understand.

Mr. PALMER. I had supposed, in examining the language of the bill, that something more would be necessary in order to protect the public interest than the mere restriction upon passenger travel. I had supposed that some stronger word, such a term as to prohibit intercourse or to use means to prevent the transmission of disease from abroad would be proper subjects of prohibition. I had myself proposed to introduce the word "non-intercourse," as being a more satisfactory term.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Chair will lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain a license, and for other purposes.

Mr. HARRIS. I wish to appeal to the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. WASHBURN]. I think we shall get through in half an hour, but it may run an hour. I will ask that he give me an hour, and I will promise not to seek any further indulgence this morning.

Mr. WASHBURN. Agreed.

Mr. HARRIS. An hour if necessary.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair hears no objection to laying the unfinished business aside informally. The question recurs on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS].

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, my objection, and the only objection, to the pending bill is the fact that it tends to place within the grasp of the Federal Government very extraordinary powers, and a class of powers the extent of which has not yet been measured and which have never heretofore been exercised by Federal authority. I am always reluctant to increase the domain of Federal power unless some clear exigency or necessity demands it. The exigency which is supposed to justify a total embargo upon immigration, to wit, the apprehension of the invasion of contagious diseases, is sufficient in the opinion of some Senators and in my opinion to justify this extraordinary power of the entire suspension of immigration.

But I do not believe that the immigration interests, so to speak, are so overwhelming, so great that they should subordinate every interest of the native-born or resident citizen of the United States, and that there can be no possible discrimination between the immigrant who comes here to settle and make his home and those who happen to be abroad and wish to return to their native home. I believe that a suspension of immigration, if that would in any way meet the exigency, is not so great a hardship upon those who are prevented from seeking a new home in this country that it could not be justified, but I do believe that we can discriminate wisely between those who come on that account and those who already have a vested interest in citizenship and home in this country, to whom this country already belongs. I think we are not doing any injustice to those who are ambitious of citizenship in this country if we ask them to pause a little until what we may think a threatened danger has passed away.

I see no great injustice in the discrimination. The people who are designated as immigrants, worthy people, people who have in the past and present contributed and are contributing to develop the wealth of the country, nevertheless come for their own benefit; they come for the improvement of their own condition; and they are not so absolutely necessary to the health and wealth of this country that we should feel we were under bond even in so grave an emergency as a threatened contagion of cholera not to interfere with their rights.

Mr. MILLS. I wish to ask my friend if he thinks the cholera would be less destructive if it were brought here by a native-born citizen who had some vested rights in this country?

Mr. GRAY. Not at all. The Senator from Texas only makes a suggestion which may or may not come to be realized. If there is danger from any passenger class, then I say, with the power to suspend it, the Congress of the United States can exercise their unquestioned authority to lay an embargo upon all passenger traffic; there is no doubt about that; but if, in the opinion of those who have considered the question, we can avert a threatened danger or deal with it successfully by a discriminating embargo, I see no injustice in discriminating in favor of our own citizens and our own people as against those who intend become citizens and to make their home among us. A qualified, provisional, temporary embargo of immigration I think will work no very great wrong if not carried to excess. Whether that discretion ought to be in the President of the United States at all is quite another question.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS].

Mr. VILAS. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. IRBY (when his name was called). I am paired on this vote with the senior Senator from Maryland [Mr. GORMAN]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I again announce my pair with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. FELTON. I am paired with the Senator from Ohio [Mr. BRICE]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

Mr. VOORHEES. I desire to announce (and I may as well announce it now for the future votes) that my colleague [Mr. TURPIE] is paired with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS]. Both Senators are absent, and I make the announcement so that it may be understood why they are not voting.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas. I am paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK], but I will vote to make a quorum. I vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 17, nays 27, as follows:

YEAS—17.

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. PALMER. If it be in order, I move to amend the bill, in line 7, section 7, by striking out, after the word "by," the word "immigration," and inserting the words "the introduction of persons or property from such country;" in line 8, before the word "same," to insert "the right to introduce;" and in line 10, to strike out the words "suspend immigration," and insert "prohibit the introduction of persons and property."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are three amendments offered by the Senator from Illinois to the same section, all of which will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 7, line 7, after the word "by," it is proposed to strike out "immigration" and insert "the introduction of persons or property from such country;" in line 8, before the word "same," to insert "the right to introduce;" and in line 10, to strike out the words "suspend immigration" and insert "prohibit the introduction of persons and property;" so as to read:

That whenever it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the President that by reason of the existence of cholera or yellow fever or other infectious or contagious diseases in a foreign country there is serious danger of the introduction of the same into the United States, and that notwithstanding the quarantine defense this danger is so increased by the introduction of persons or property from such country, that a suspension of the right to introduce the same is demanded in the interest of the public health, the President shall have power to prohibit the introduction of persons and property from such countries or places as he shall designate and for such period of time as he may deem necessary.

Mr. HOAR. I suggest to the Senator from Illinois to insert the words "in whole or in part," after the word "prohibit."

Mr. PALMER. I have no objection to any words that will be more comprehensive.

Mr. HOAR. I suggest an amendment to the Senator's amendment by adding the words "in whole or in part," so that the President may make a partial as well as a total prohibition. For instance, he may desire to prohibit a particular kind of property, like rags, coming into the country, which he has the power to do now.

Mr. PALMER. I am satisfied with the suggestion of the Senator from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois accepts the amendment offered by the Senator from Massachusetts, and the amendment will be so modified.

Mr. McPHERSON. Let the amendment be reported as it will then appear.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment as modified will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to amend so as to read:

Sec. 7. That whenever it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the President that by reason of the existence of cholera or yellow fever or other infectious or contagious diseases in a foreign country there is serious danger of the introduction of the same into the United States, and that notwithstanding the quarantine defense this danger is so increased by the introduction of persons or property from such country, that a suspension of the right to introduce the same is demanded in the interest of the public health, the President shall have power to prohibit, in whole or in part, the introduction of persons and property from such countries or places as he shall designate and for such period of time as he may deem necessary.

Mr. CHANDLER. I hope the amendments will be adopted. It seems to me that they solve the difficulty which has been raised by the motion of the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS].

In deference to the judgment of the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. HARRIS], the chairman of the committee, I was about to move that the authority of the President to suspend immigration should also be extended to all other classes of travelers, but with the provision that the suspension might be made either wholly or partially. A discretion to do an act of this kind in a great emergency certainly ought to have the authority coupled with it to act either in whole or in part according to the exigency.

It seems to me now that the amendment proposed by the Senator from Illinois exactly meets the case. I think the power now exists on the part of the Executive to keep out infectious property; but there is no harm in adopting the amendment in this form, and certainly there can be no objection, if the power is given to the President, in whole or in part, to exclude that which will bring cholera to these shores, to provide that he may, if the exigency demands, exclude all other passenger travel as well as immigration.

Mr. HARRIS. The amendment of the Senator from Illinois, as modified at the suggestion of the Senator from Massachusetts, is entirely satisfactory to me.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendments of the Senator from Illinois to the amendment of the committee to insert section 7, will be treated as one amendment if there be no objection. The Chair hears none; and the question is on the amendment, as modified.

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question recurs on the amendment to insert section 7 as amended.

Mr. VILAS. I understand the yeas and nays have been called for on the adoption of section 7.

Mr. CHANDLER. Section 7 has been adopted, has it not?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair stated that it would be considered open.

Mr. CHANDLER. As excepted from the order of the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That was the understanding of the Chair. On this question the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS] demands the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I again announce my pair with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

So the amendment as amended was agreed to.

Mr. MORGAN. I offer an amendment, which I send to the desk, to come in at the end of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to add as a new section:

Nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to authorize the United States, or any officer thereof on its behalf, to take into its ownership or control for quarantine purposes, any place in any State and to exercise therein exclusive jurisdiction without the consent of such State.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, I have offered that amendment for the purpose of reconciling some of the apparent conflicts of jurisdiction between the State governments and the Federal Government, which seem to be presented in the bill, and which, I am afraid, will lead to lawsuits and injunctions at a time when we want absolute certainty in our proceedings.

Mr. CHANDLER. Will the Senator allow me to inquire whether he means to prevent buildings from being taken possession of, and land as well?

Mr. MORGAN. You could not take possession of a building without taking possession of the land as well.

Mr. CHANDLER. I understand; but you can take possession of land without taking possession of a building.

Mr. MORGAN. If there was no building on it, you certainly could.

Mr. CHANDLER. I would go along with the Senator in a willingness not to have this act construed to authorize any State buildings or any of the paraphernalia of a State, which had been prepared for quarantine purposes, being taken possession of there by the greater power of the National Government; but I should not be willing to put the United States where it could not anywhere on the seacoast go upon a vacant piece of land and establish there a national quarantine.

Mr. MORGAN. There is not a vacant piece of ground in any State in this Union in the sense in which the Senator speaks. The ground in every State of this Union is owned by some individual, by the State, or by the United States. Therefore, there is no vacant place; there is no place in the United States to-day where there is not an ownership of the land.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to ask the Senator if he means—I heard his amendment read imperfectly, perhaps—to prohibit the National Government, in case of emergency, from getting a quarantine ground anywhere on the seashore of a State when the State Legislature is not in session?

Mr. MORGAN. The State Legislature, Mr. President, could provide in advance, if it was necessary to provide, for the Government of the United States to be admitted in all cases of emergency to establish quarantine buildings, quarantine stations, or even to occupy the stations of the State. That ought to be the law of the State; but I can not alter the Constitution of the United States, which prohibits the Government of the United States from acquiring ownership or taking the occupation of any piece of land in any State without the consent of the Legislature. The plain injunction is there in the Constitution, in Article I, clause 17, and we are running right over it.

Mr. CHANDLER. Why not leave it, then, on the Constitution?

Mr. MORGAN. I want to put in that express qualification so as to show that we had the Constitution in our eye, in contemplation, at the time we enacted this law, and to show that it was not the purpose of Congress to break down that provision of the Constitution, and without this qualification, I think it would be very clear that such was the purpose—and to prevent lawsuits and injunctions, as I said before, at a time when there may be very great public emergency for quarantine regulations on the part of the United States.

Mr. President, there is no use in trying to disguise the fact that this is a bill of subvention for the benefit of the State governments. It is a bill to take off the State authorities and localities the expenses of quarantine, and I think where the quarantine is leveled against the introduction of a pest from abroad, that that is a good purpose, it is a rightful purpose, and I think there are many particulars in which the State authorities and the United States authorities can cooperate. Even in the matter of making regulation, I think it is altogether practicable where the regulation itself does not necessarily carry with it the exclusive right of legislation, the exclusive right of making laws to control the place in the State where the quarantine buildings are located, where the quarantine is made effectual.

I think we had better, while we are making this emergent legislation, have some regard to our powers and duties. I very much hope, if this bill shall go to another part of the Congress of the United States, that they will, at all events, take this subject into consideration and see that there is no unseemly and improper conflict created by the bill itself between the State authorities and the Federal authorities. If we get up a question of that kind we are going to have trouble about it, and more than we have had oftentimes in the United States, particularly in respect of interstate prohibitions upon migration, immigration, etc.; we shall have the shotgun quarantine. Do we not remember how the banks of the Mississippi River, and other rivers also and the railroads, have been frequently picketed by men with shotguns in their hands to prevent the coming and going of trains and mails and everything of that sort?

Is our experience on that subject so indefinite or so very smooth as that we do not remember the trials and troubles we have had upon this question in the United States? When we come to deal with the right of a man to take his goods or his family from one State to another, and from an infected country to one that is not infected, we have as between him and the community to which he is going, a very serious conflict. We ought not to permit that conflict to go into the legislation of the country; we ought to try to smoothe it out; we ought to try to so provide as that the United States Government can exercise rightful, proper, constitutional authority within the borders of a State, which can always be done and always will be done by the State inviting or accepting our assistance in this way of raising money to enforce a quarantine. There is no difficulty about getting authority for the United States Government to assist in a quarantine when you carry the money along to pay the expenses.

The doctors may disagree, and probably will become a little strenuous and pragmatical about their respective professional authority and dignity, and the like of that. They are always quarreling with each other. It is part of the business of the profession, I believe, to understate, undervalue, and quarrel with each other in their opinions, etc. Perhaps that is all right, but it is not very convenient, and it is not a very useful thing in an epidemic; it produces strife and contention. I have seen it in my State, when the doctors were almost by the ears, some contending that one party had the right to control; others that another party had the right to control; and the king of terrors seems to have no power at all unless he has got a doctor for a leader in some way or other.

I believe that our duty is to provide, as far as our constitutional authority can possibly go, for the prevention of the introduction of these epidemics. It is a peculiarly binding and obligatory duty at this time. In view of the great World's Fair we are to hold in Chicago, we ought to provide a system of laws here which will give an assurance to the world that we will protect the health of this country against an introduction of cholera or yellow fever or anything else in such a way as to become disastrous. If we do not do that we shall have to rely entirely upon our own people for the support of the enormous expenditures in connection with that great exhibition.

So I fully concur in the whole measure if we can only keep the Government of the United States and the State governments out of conflict; and I believe the adoption of my amendment as the last clause in this bill, showing what our purpose and intent is, will better enable the two governments, the State governments and the Federal Government, to reconcile their difficulties and disputes with each other. That is my whole purpose in offering the amendment.

Mr. DOLPH. Mr. President, the constitutional provision to which the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] has reference I suppose is subdivision 17 of section 8 of Article I. Section 8 provides that Congress shall have the power to lay and collect taxes, etc., and then, passing to the seventeenth subdivision, it provides that—

The Congress shall have power to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district, not exceeding ten square miles, as may, by decision of particular State and the concurrence of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings.

It is the custom of the General Government, in providing for the purchase of land for these particular purposes, to require as a precedent to the expenditure of money that the consent of the Legislature shall be obtained. There is no objection to that; but it does not follow that the United States can not lease or occupy property or even buy property and use it for special purposes, as I understand, of the States, without the consent of the Legislature.

Mr. MORGAN. I do not deny that.

Mr. DOLPH. The only question is the question of the exercise of exclusive jurisdiction to legislate.

Mr. MORGAN. That is the point in the case.

Mr. DOLPH. And exclusive judicial jurisdiction. I do not understand that there is anything in the bill before the Senate which would prevent the United States occupying, with the consent of the owner, real property, land alone, or the land with the improvements, for the purpose of carrying out quarantine regulations. If the United States undertook to exercise exclusive judicial or legislative jurisdiction over the land without the consent of the State Legislature, then the question would arise; but if we are going to make any great expenditure for the purchase of land and the erection of large buildings, if it was practicable to do so, I should insist with the Senator from Alabama that we should first obtain the consent of the State. I do not think, however, that such a provision as he proposes is necessary to this bill. It might as well be put in any bill which authorizes certain acts to be done by the General Government for a general purpose. Certainly no officer, as specified in that amendment, could exercise this jurisdiction. The attempt to exercise the jurisdiction must be through the Congress of the United States or by the judicial department of the Government. I do not think the amendment is necessary to the bill.

Mr. MORGAN. My purpose is not to shut out the United States from the right to get the occupation of property within a State for the purposes of quarantine; but after having obtained it, from exercising therein exclusive jurisdiction. I think this bill does provide for an exercise of exclusive jurisdiction on the part of the officers of the Government of the United States. I think that under this bill, if an epidemic of cholera were prevailing in the city of New York, or was likely to prevail there, the Secretary of the Treasury could go and drive out the officers of the State of New York from the quarantine stations, take possession, and run them at his will and pleasure. That is the way I understand the bill.

Mr. CHANDLER. The Senator says the Constitution does not allow an officer to do so.

Mr. MORGAN. Oh, I am talking about the frame of this bill. I want to know whether the power is not given here to the Secretary of the Treasury to take possession of the quarantine stations and all the property devoted to quarantine purposes in the city of New York and put in operation there exclusively the power of the United States Government?

Mr. CHANDLER. I think the bill does, if that authority is to be deduced from the provision that the President shall take such steps as he deems necessary to keep the cholera out; but it is only to be inferred from that very broad language. Now, can we not trust the President of the United States under that clause not to take possession of Hoffman and Swinburne Islands?

Mr. MORGAN. I trust no President, I trust no man by putting in his possession a power which violates the Constitution of my country. I am sworn not to do that and I do not mean to do it. I had rather put a check upon his power and say that he, as well as myself, must act in accordance with the Constitution. This is the object of my amendment, and the Senate may vote upon it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the amendment submitted by the Senator from Alabama.

Mr. MORGAN. I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. VILAS. I ask that the amendment be again reported.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be again stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to add a new section at the end of the bill, as follows:

Nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to authorize the United States of any officer thereof in its behalf to take into its ownership or control for quarantine purposes any place in any State, and to exercise therein exclusive jurisdiction without the consent of such State.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CHANDLER (when Mr. CULLOM's name was called). I desire to announce that the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM] is detained from the Senate by illness.

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. PASCO (when his name was called). I again announce my pair with the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CASEY].

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER].

Mr. RANSOM (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE]. If he were present I should vote "yea."

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I again announce my pair with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GORDON. I am paired with the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN]. If he were here I should vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 19, nays 28; as follows:

So the amendment was rejected.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. HARRIS the title was amended so as to read: "A bill granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the Secretary of the Treasury and Marine Hospital Service, and for other purposes."

Mr. CHANDLER. I desire to say that I shall allow the next special order, being the bill for the suspension of immigration for one year, to lapse without asking to take it up at this time, but at an early day I hope to bring that bill before the Senate for its consideration.

DEALING IN OPTIONS AND FUTURES.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7815) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

Mr. WASHBURN. Before proceeding with the discussion of the bill, I ask for the adoption of the following order:

Resolved, That 2,000 extra copies of House bill 7815, a bill defining "options" and "futures," etc., be printed for the use of the Senate.

The order was agreed to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The pending amendment, which was offered by the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE], will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. At the end of section 2 it is proposed to strike out the following proviso:

Provided, however, That such contract or agreement shall not be made, settled for by delivery or settlement of differences, or by any other mode of performance or settlement in or upon any board of trade, produce, cotton, merchants, or other exchange, or other commercial association, or in any place or upon any premises where price quotations of such articles are announced, bulletined, or published, nor be subjected to the rules or regulations of any such board, exchange, or other commercial association.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is the Senate ready for the question?

Mr. WASHBURN. The yeas and nays have been ordered on that amendment.

Mr. VILAS. Mr. President, the Senate did me such honor in patiently listening to a long constitutional discussion when this bill was last under consideration, that I can not but feel some reluctance in again soliciting the favor of its hearing. But the subject to which I wish to address attention to-day, although kindred, is another than that which formed the subject of the remarks I had the honor to submit to the Senate a few days since.

It is necessary in order to the presentation of the constitutional objections to this measure that it should be demonstrated, if demonstrated it can be, that the substitute proposed by the minority of the Judiciary Committee, and particularly championed by the distinguished and able Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE], should also be shown to face the authority necessary in the Constitution for its enactment, and that what I feel I am obliged to address some objections is.

The substitute possesses, as I have submitted, at least one quality. It is open in its purposes, direct in its exercise of legislative authority, using no cloak or cover, and, upon the assumption of constitutionality, is, for the most part, legislation fully adapted to the purposed use of the power. It denounces directly and legal the methods of business it condemns, and provides appropriate criminal sanctions.

But when this is said, the end of commendation seems to me to be reached. I can not regard it as any less certain that the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several States no more authorizes the projected invasion of the constitutional rights of the people in their State governments than does the power to raise revenue for the support of the National Government.

The argument for reliance upon the commerce clause has been left substantially to the learned and distinguished Senator from Mississippi [Mr. CHANDLER]—it needs not be said it could be in no able hands—and it was presented with all the skill the case permitted. Yet, though his dialectics commanded admiration, it seemed to me the fallacy of the argument was generally felt, if not yet fully expounded. If I venture that attempt, I must, in fair justice, deal with it as he has made it; and, in doing so, may feel assured I encounter all that can be urged in support of that theory of authority.

I can not regard it necessary, however, to recapitulate and in detail discuss all that he so skillfully constructed, nor to pursue the same order that he adopted. Very much, indeed, of what has already been presented in opposition to the employment of the taxing power will be recognized by the Senate as addressing equal force against the authority claimed under the commerce clause, and due regard for this consideration demands abbreviation of what might otherwise have been proper to say if the commerce clause were alone invoked to support this legislation.

Divested of mere words, and stripped to the skin by a fair analysis, the entire substance of the learned Senator's contention seems to stand upon two prime assumptions:

1. Congress may directly interpose to suppress any domestic transactions sanctioned by the laws of a State and conducted by its own citizens wholly within its borders, although in no wise interstate or foreign dealing, not even amounting to commerce at all, if their indirect effect in some manner unfavorably influences, or, in his language, obstructs or restrains other transactions, whether by the same or other persons, which are, or might become, interstate or foreign commerce.

2. Congress may conclusively assert that any such domestic, intra-State transaction does unfavorably influence interstate or foreign commerce, conclusively declare it an obstruction to such commerce, and thus foreclosing inquiry of the fact by the courts invest itself with legislative power to denounce and suppress the domestic transaction which otherwise citizens of a State might rightfully engage in, protected and sustained by its laws.

Each and both of these propositions appear to me to be utterly untenable; indeed, distressingly subversive of all sound principles of constitutional interpretation.

The first commands first attention. And that there may be no chance for claim that I have overstated it, I read from his speech of last July—in which he submitted the supporting argument—some extracts to show that he maintains it in the full proportions. He argued, in connection, as he said, of the fact that—

Some persons have been misled as to the character of the amendment I propose, because it is supposed by them that these dealings in futures in New Orleans and in New York really constitute internal and domestic commerce in New York and Louisiana, respectively, and that it is the object of the amendment to regulate this alleged commerce—

Among other things, that—

They are not commerce in a constitutional sense, for there is no actual transfer of title to any property whatever. The contract is a mere personal contract to deliver at a future day or pay damages. There is in the contract nothing to give title to or interest in property, and there is no transfer of the property to the title of the buyer—no transportation of the thing from seller to buyer. Without such transfer or transportation there is no commerce. In Railroad Company v. Husen, 95 U. S., pages 495-475, it is said "transportation is essential to commerce."

As no title passes on these pretended sales, as the buyer gets nothing but the obligation or promise of the seller to deliver, at his option, cotton as the seller may select of twelve different grades, at any day within a named month, and a market is put up by either party as the cotton may rise or fall, it is evident that the value of such a contract depends upon the reliability of the seller, and the buyer can never get the cotton unless the seller is willing to deliver and he can not get damages for non-delivery unless the seller is willing and able to pay.

In all such cases the dealings are held not to be commerce in a constitutional sense.

I read that not to controvert it, but to show that the proposition of the learned and able Senator extends to the suppression of transactions within a State which he holds are not interstate or foreign commerce in any part; not commerce at all. And next, to the second supposed error, he answered:

A further conclusive answer to this view is that the amendment does not propose to regulate these dealings. The regulation proposed by the amendment is the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce in cotton, wheat, etc. What it does with these future dealings is to abolish them, to remove them.

This presents the question of the extent of the power of Congress to remove obstructions to or restraints on interstate and foreign commerce.

Thus the distinguished Senator made the purpose plain to abolish or remove any obstructive or restraining transactions carried on within a State by her citizens, although not in a proper constitutional sense the transactions of commerce, even domestic or internal.

Nor can it be disputed that the reasoning proffered to us in support of this power necessarily extends it to such a compass that whatever thing, of any nature, may interfere with the current of interstate or foreign commerce as it would otherwise flow, or, more exactly, whatever Congress shall declare to interfere, may be prohibited and abolished by virtue of the power "to regulate" such commerce.

And what is the course of reasoning adduced to the extraordinary proposition? The argument of the learned Senator is summary. He asserts, first, that Congress may remove physical obstructions from the navigable waters of the country; and this is well established by many decisions of the Supreme Court. I shall not dispute it, but only endeavor to explain its foundation and meaning by the language of the court. The case of The Daniel Ball, 10 Wall. 557, which he cites, declares, on page 563-564 of the report, the settled rule. When a navigable water, as a lake or river, is used, or susceptible of being used, in its ordinary condition as a highway of commerce, and forms in whole or in part, with connecting waters, "a continued highway over which commerce is or may be carried on with other States or foreign countries in the customary modes in which such commerce is conducted by water," it is a public navigable water of the United States and subject to "appropriate legislation" in the exercise of the commerce power of the Constitution. Upon which the court says:

The power which Congress has to regulate legislation for the protection or advancement of interstate or foreign commerce, and for that purpose the removal of obstructions to the convenient and safe navigation of all the navigable waters of the United States, whether that legislation consists in regulating the removal of obstructions to their use, in prescribing the form and equipment of vessels employed upon them, or in subjecting the vessels to inspection in case of call, to secure their proper construction and equipment. The power to regulate in this manner, this court said in Gibbs v. Paul, 10 Wall. 574, is a power to regulate the control for that purpose, and to that end, the safety of all navigable waters of the United States which are accessible from a State other than that in which they lie. For this purpose they are the public property of the nation and subject to all the requisite legislation of Congress.

Mr. BUTLER. Who delivered the opinion of the court?

Mr. VILAS. Mr. Justice Field.

Then the learned Senator adduces another authority in the following passage from his speech:

In the case of the United States v. Roberts, 12 Peters, page 72-74, Curtis, 634, the court upheld a suit for punishing as larceny the taking of goods belonging to a wrecked vessel above high-water mark, not property in course of transportation, but property belonging to the vessel.

There is no occasion to question these authorities, or the doctrine they enunciate, which is doubtless sound, and is to me satisfactory. But it will be observed that both deal with nothing but the means and implements of interstate and foreign commerce; the former with the water highways upon which it is borne, the latter with the vessels by which it is borne.

Nothing more is decided than that over the navigable waters of the United States, being "the public property of the nation," the Federal authority is paramount to State control, according to the original arrangement of the Constitution, and of course carries the power of appropriate legislation; and that it is for the Federal Government to denounce and punish that species of piracy, that outrage upon them who "go down to the sea in ships," which is known as wrecking. There is in them no pretext of relation to anything which is not, in physical fact, part of the transaction of interstate or foreign commerce, nor intimation of an extension of the power of Congress to anything beyond, merely because it may be a potential subject of commerce, or indirectly concern what may become a transaction of such commerce.

And so with this suggestion, that this power of regulation extends to acts done on land. Obviously this must be so, because both interstate and foreign commerce must be in part on land though the carriage be by water, and much of both may be wholly on land where the communication is not by water. Surely this requires no further attention.

These plain considerations, as it seems to me, entirely strip the argument of all aid from any of the cases which the learned and able Senator from Mississippi adduced to the support of the collateral propositions, not in fact contributory to the true point, yet adduced in a manner which seemed to bring them into relation with it as authorities upon which his proposition might rest.

The theory of the proposed substitution thus stands out as an isolated and independent assertion of constitutional power now for the first time brought before Congress as authority for legislation. Whatever else may be its merits or its faults, it is entitled to distinction for novelty and surely infringes upon no pre-emption of others. It is to be judged, therefore, by its own peculiar intrinsic weight and force.

Let the further argument be stated in the exact words of its distinguished proponent:

Now, as the power to remove obstructions to commerce is a part of the power to regulate commerce, being necessary and proper to enable Congress to regulate commerce, it is clear that this removal of obstructions extends denounce as crimes the transactions of a large and hitherto respected body of merchants and dealers in our land, and to stigmatize them as criminals?

Besides, sir, let me add now, in support of my intended motion, that I can not regard the evidence before us sufficient to establish the fact sought to be so declared in law. Assume it to be true, if you will, that this system of dealing in futures does operate to depreciate the price of the commodities in question. Does it follow thereby that interstate and foreign trade in them is obstructed? Generally speaking, the more the price of an article of common desire is lowered, the more extensive becomes its use and the more active the traffic in it. In what manner does that familiar rule find qualification in respect to these staples of husbandry which so largely feed and clothe mankind? No explanation has been vouchsafed us: and I doubt, in advance of it, if any be possible.

The distinguished Senator complains that none but members are admitted to trade in the chambers of commerce and exchanges of the country. But does this rule, quite necessary to their existence and affairs, abridge the rights of other citizens to trade when and where they will with one another? And without debating the merits or the faults of these organizations, can anyone who turns a fair observation on the tremendous accomplishments of our modern system of business, which so quickly gather every year the enormous products of our fields into the gigantic currents of our commerce to flow out in distributing streams to the consumers of the civilized world; who saw a year ago a crop of 600,000,000 bushels of wheat and 9,000,000 bales of cotton picked up in our country as by Titanian hands and spread before the eager wants of humanity more easily and swiftly than a third the quantity could be handled a generation ago, sincerely affirm that the commerce of the States, and with foreign countries, has been in truth obstructed and fettered by the usages of business during recent years?

Mr. President, the grave and serious character of the proposed legislation, the learning and dignity of the minority of the Judiciary Committee who reported this substitute, the skill and force of the learned Senator who has been its champion, and the necessary requirements of debate upon any question of constitutional interpretation will sufficiently justify me, I feel assured, in the protracted care with which I have sought to refute the claim of right to employ the power of the commerce clause for the purpose of this legislation.

I am well aware that the mere discussion of a legal question can interest but few except those whose minds have been turned by the habits of their lives to it. But I have made the argument with the conviction that, however short I may have come of demonstrating it, yet the power granted by that clause is utterly inadequate to the enactment of the proposed substitute.

And so, sir, I feel that both claims for authority in Congress to enact this law are utterly insupportable, and to do this thing which is asked of us will be to attempt a violation of the Constitution, an encroachment upon the rights of the States and the liberties of our countrymen at the sacrifice of the fidelity and duty which not only my oath exacts of me, but every intelligent conviction, every sentiment of public responsibility compels me to observe as sacredly as a priest should minister at the altar of God.

And now let me ask what necessity is upon us to do this deed? We do not stand confronted by any dire exigency, imminent in evil menace, and otherwise remediless; such as sometimes has seemed to offer warrant to patriots for extreme and doubtful measures lest the Republic should take some detriment. Here is no unforeseen contingency unprovided for in the constitutional arrangement of the powers of government, no casus omnisus in human forecast demanding extraordinary provision. So far from it, the power of the people to redress this evil, if evil it be, is ample, easy of exercise, in handy reach, much nearer to their use and wishes than we are.

No one can pretend to question the plenitude of right and power in the several State Legislatures to provide any measures, however vigorous, requisite to overmaster and correct any of the asserted injuries to the popular interests which it is professed inspire the promotion of this measure. We may bethink ourselves also of the fact—it ought to give cheek to our acceptance of the clamor so easily prepared to our ears—that in every State Legislature which assembles a large proportion of its membership is directly composed of intelligent farmers, besides other men very closely acquainted with and representative of the agricultural interests.

The Legislature of Illinois has but just convened. The Chamber of Commerce of Chicago, the largest grain market, I believe, in the world, and surely the largest speculative market, is the creature of that Legislature. If it be the child of evil we hear it decried in this Chamber, the hand of its creator may be now laid upon it. If the chambers of commerce or boards of trade of St. Paul and Minneapolis are the guilty visitors of wrong upon the farmers of Minnesota which the distinguished Senator from that State may leave us to infer, in the former city the sovereignty of his State is now assembled, clothed with plenary authority to suppress them.

In these legislative bodies the intelligence of the farming class, as well as its interests and strength, are abundantly exemplified by men of character and ability from its own very ranks. In the Legislature of Wisconsin, which conferred upon me the honor of a seat in this illustrious assemblage, one-third of its members, roundly speaking, forty-three of its one hundred and thirty-three Senators and assemblymen, were farmers by occupation, able men, worthy and well qualified to know and declare the wants of agriculture and provide the remedies its interests might demand. What is there in the composition of this body to justify claim of a better knowledge of or render it more sensitive to the needs of husbandry than the Legislatures of the States?

Sir, when the Legislature of a State recognizes the necessity of some measure of public importance which lies within the power of Congress to make provision for, there is an easy and familiar practice prevalent in the Union. They memorialize the legislature of the Federal sovereignty to take such step as they think prudent and requisite for the accomplishment of the ends they regard of public importance. Let us respect them as they respect us, and if, in the judgment of this body, in the State of Illinois, there is a great speculative grain market which ought to be attacked, let us deal with our fellow-sovereign, the State of Illinois in proper comity, and memorialize the body which possesses the power of that State to apply the proper remedy in the interests of the country.

Will it not be time enough, sir, for us to begin this violence upon the constitution and order of our Government when one State, at least, shall have shown the necessity for it by the failure of its legislation well applied to the end? or, I might add, by the failure or refusal to respond by the attempt at proper legislation to the rightful solicitations and representations of its sister States or of the Legislature of the Federal Union?

The remedy now proposed is a most drastic and perilous one. No man, it seems to me, can reflect upon its possible effects without a shudder of apprehension from the inevitable derangement it must work in the business transactions of our country, from the consequences of injury it is liable to inflict, especially upon our husbandmen themselves. It is one of the many advantages of our system that such an experiment as this may be tried by a single State, and its merits thus tested, without the entail upon all the country of the misfortunes of failure, if failure ensue, with the example of benefit to all, if success attend. This has been signally illustrated in many things; perhaps in none more notably than in the numerous reformations of the codes of law and practice which, by successive steps and many local failures, have now become almost universally accepted in some form by the several States.

So has it been with our system of public education, our reformatories and penal institutions, the enfranchisement of women from social bondage, and other measures of social and business advancement. What is there in this alleged reform of business methods to demand this sudden and revolutionary experiment, which may involve in its reckless adoption such evils to the entire body of our people?

Sir, the history of civilization well instructs us there is nothing more perilous, nothing more fraught with harmful results than the hasty crystallization in immoderate publication of the impulses of popular misconceptions. It is the peculiar peril of republics, always prone to storms like the freedom of the sea. In anxious guard against it the wisdom of our fathers established our plan of dual sovereignties, in which the States ought to play a useful part, like the many iron compartments of the modern ships that meet the storms of ocean with an assurance of security that has multiplied a thousand-fold its availability to trade and travel. Are we to overthrow all this upon such an occasion as is here presented?

But, sir, grievous as will be the injury inflicted by this law, if it shall become a law, upon the interests of business and especially, perhaps, to our husbandmen, and harsh and bitter as may be the visitation of such a condemnation upon those who have hitherto held high place in all the marts of trade in our great cities, all these are as trifles in comparison with the peril of the step to be taken across the lines of constitutional duty this body is solemnly charged to defend.

It may indeed be that this law you propose to enact shall speedily flee from the statute book pursued by a popular rage far beyond what is misconceived to urge its passage.

And while I do not undertake to declare any prophetic vision, nor to wield the thunderbolts of any class, I certainly invoke the attention of Senators in this Chamber to the fact that the business interests of this country have rested in satisfaction upon the belief that this law would never receive the indorsement of this body. If it shall happen that the result is contrary there may be awakened a spirit better worthy of consideration before it shall be stirred.

But if done, the fatal precedent will have been set, the barrier thrown down, the open breach of the great trust reposed by the Constitution avowed and complete.

Shall we be told that no real danger lurks in such a precedent? That its experiment, if harmful, will terminate with a repeal as easily as enactment?

Sir, that constitutes no answer. Repeal is the remedy of bad legislation. No remedy is adequate to the perverse and purposed injury of the Constitution. The precedent stands for invocation whenever any powerful and menacing interest may seek influence or illegal advantage; a lurking demon of disorder, ready to join in effectively when the cry of devils is raised against our institutions and social order has most need of angelic friends. What better could illustrate the base utility of a bad precedent than this very debate? What could have lent more strength to this demand for misuse of the taxing power than the production of one undeniable and successful instance of the like abuse by any preceding Congress? What has been more satisfactory than the clear and certain absence, which has been shown, of any such former evil doing?

Let us assume, Mr. President, that this deed which is set to us may be successfully perpetrated; that we may, declaring our purpose to impose a tax, put the millstone on the necks of the class of business for which this snare is devised; that the Supreme Court shall pull the blinding bandage down over the judicial countenance to hide not less its mantling shame than its vision of the outraged Constitution, and, in deference to its coordinate member of the Government, shall declare this act to lay only a heavy tax, whose oppression it was alone for the Legislature to weigh, the power to tax being a power to destroy, even the Constitution itself. What then, sir, must be the sentiments in the inmost hearts of all who do see what the court must refuse to see, who know that in real fact the breach is complete, the wall down, and the very citadel open to the worst enemies of liberty whenever they shall form for assault.

I shall presume to speak for no other, but for myself I may say, with immense sincerity, it will not comfort me that I valiantly strove against it. All my reading of the historic records of mankind will but serve to portray to the mind the fearful pictures of the future in store for that great frame work of liberty which we were taught in youth to love, in our years of manhood we have revered and obeyed, and in our days of highest trust and honor have solemnly sworn to support and defend.

Sir, this is to me no more contest of interests of a brief and temporary consequence; the ordinary struggle which may be expected to happen over one thing or another from Congress to Congress; which may leave its wounds, indeed, but upon men and things of the time only, to slip like all else which is of human individuality, into early oblivion.

This measure involves far more. I have shown you, sir, by a careful review of others of supposed likeness, that it is without precedent, that it must grievously injure the rights of the people to their local self-government, that it is in nature insidious, treacherous and of far more peril than an open defiance of the Constitution, subject to judicial redress.

It remains to add the harsh and note of danger, that of harkening to a cry outside, which gives resolution when judgment hangs inclining the other way; that through these walls which ought to impose a fearless and serene statesmanship the clibanarius ardor pro ca jubantium may come to penetrate, and so fiercely that the adamant of the Constitution melts before the fervent heat.

If that day, the historic precursor of republican decay, and so often followed by the roar of the conamine, be approaching, who can drink it too much to attribute to this measure a vast influence, possibly far-reaching and direful?

I am not but feel confident that evil day is not upon us, but that the exigency will be met here and now in this Chamber, and the friends of constitutional liberty will be numerous enough and strong enough for the emergency which is upon them.

Mr. MITCHELL. For my own information I should like to ask the Senator from Wisconsin a question at this time, if he has concluded his speech? Assuming that the Senator from Mississippi, Mr. GEORGE, is right in his contention, that the power to deal directly with this alleged evil exists by virtue of the clause in the Constitution which authorizes Congress to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several States, and that the Senator from Wisconsin is wrong in reference to that contention, would the Senator from Wisconsin then have any doubt as to the constitutional power on the part of Congress to deal with that evil by invoking the taxing power?

Mr. VILAS. If the power to do this thing exists in Congress under the commerce clause, it may be that the court would support it as they supported the levy of the 50 cents a head upon passengers in the celebrated head-money cases, not as an exertion of the power to tax, but as an exertion of the right to regulate commerce. But it would be an abuse of the power, because it would be done, not as it was there, professedly in regulation of commerce, for that act was an act relating to immigration, but it would be done in abuse of the power, in covert concealment of the true purpose. It seems to me that if the power were to be found to exist, the honest constitutional way is to exert it in accordance with the nature of the power which is asserted.

Mr. MITCHELL. But I understood the Senator to argue at length and with great ability the other day that in cases where Congress had the power by virtue of some constitutional provision to deal with any particular evil, then Congress had the right to invoke the taxing power.

Mr. VILAS. I think the Senator from Oregon must have misunderstood my argument. I argued that the instance, in which under the form of a tax a power had been exercised or exerted to suppress a certain line of transactions which Congress desired to interdict, was not supported by the court as an exercise of the power to tax but as the exertion of another power within the authority given by the Constitution to Congress. Therefore the court could not hold it unconstitutional although it took the form of a tax.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. JONES of Arkansas in the chair). The question is on the adoption of the amendment proposed by the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE].

Mr. HARRIS. Let the amendment be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be stated.

The CHIEF CLERK. At the end of section 2, strike out the proviso, the words to be stricken out being as follows:

Provided, however, That such contract or agreement shall not be made, settled for by delivery or settlement of differences, or by any other mode of performance or settlement in or upon any board of trade, produce, cotton, mercantile, or other exchange, or other commercial association, or in any place or upon any premises where price quotations of said articles are announced, bulletined, or published, nor be subjected to the rules or regulations of any such board, exchange, or other commercial association.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Upon this question the yeas and nays have been ordered. The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BUTLER (when his name was called). In am paired generally with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. I do not see that he is in the Chamber, and I therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. DAWES (when his name was called). The Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN, being absent from the Chamber, I withhold my vote. I am paired with him.

Mr. GEORGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Oregon [Mr. DOLPH], who is absent, but I understand in conference with some of his friends on the other side that when this question was up before he voted the same way that I would vote, and that is "nay." I vote "nay."

Mr. GORMAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE] on this amendment. Otherwise I should vote "yea."

Mr. HANSBROUGH (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Montana [Mr. SANDERS] on this question. I have been advised that the Senator from Nevada [Mr. JONES] who is absent, desires to be paired in favor of this measure in all of its features. So I take the liberty of transferring my pair with the Senator from Montana to the Senator from Nevada, and I vote "nay."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORTON]. Not knowing how he would vote upon this question, I withhold my vote.

Mr. HEDDY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HUNT]. If he were present I should vote "nay."

The PRESIDING OFFICER (when the name of Mr. JONES of Arkansas was called). The occupant of the chair is paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HISCOCK].

Mr. McMILLAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. VANCE]. I understand that he would vote against the amendment, and therefore I will vote "nay." I vote "nay."

Mr. MANDERSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN], but I am assured by the Senator in charge of the bill that he would vote "nay" on this question, and I therefore vote "nay."

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). My colleague [Mr. HAWLEY], who is absent from the Senate, requested me to pair him as being in favor of the bill. I suppose that he would vote against the pending amendment, and I should vote for it. I will pair myself with my colleague.

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER]. Not knowing how he would vote upon this amendment, I withhold my vote.

Mr. SAWYER (when his name was called). I am paired on the bill and amendments with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS], and withhold my vote.

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON] for to-day on the bill, and therefore withhold my vote.

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT]. I am informed that if he were present he would vote against the adoption of the pending amendment. I therefore vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GRAY (after having voted in the affirmative). I voted inadvertently, not observing that the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM], with whom I have a general pair, is absent. I therefore withdraw my vote. I do not know how he would vote on the pending amendment.

Mr. GORMAN. I announced my pair with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE]. Since then I have been requested to pair the Senator from Maine with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH] and to vote. I therefore vote "yea."

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I desire to announce that my colleague [Mr. CASEY] is paired against this amendment with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE].

The result was announced—yeas 10, nays 21, as follows:

YEAS—10.

Blodgett,	Huntton,	Mitchell,	White,

The PRESIDING OFFICER. No quorum having voted, the Secretary will call the roll.

Mr. BUTLER. I move that the Senate adjourn.

Mr. HOAR. I wish the Senator would allow the roll to be called so that we may have a brief executive session. It will take only about three minutes.

Mr. HARRIS. I beg leave to suggest to the Senator from Massachusetts that a roll call will not develop a quorum.

Mr. HOAR. Oh, yes; it will.

Mr. HARRIS. We may just as well adjourn.

Mr. HOAR. A roll call will develop a quorum, I think.

Mr. BUTLER. I insist on my motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina moves that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 4 o'clock and 37 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Wednesday, January 11, 1893, at 12 o'clock m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 10, 1893.

[CALENDAR DAY January 9, 1893.]

The recess having expired, the House reassembled at 11:55 a. m.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union for further consideration of the bill (H. R. 3591) in relation to the Norfolk and Western Railroad.

The motion was agreed to.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, Mr. DOCKERY in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The House is in Committee of the Whole for the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 3591) to authorize the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company of Virginia to extend its line of road into and within the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.

The pending question is on an amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. ATKINSON] upon which a vote was taken yesterday, when the gentleman from Pennsylvania made the point that no quorum had voted.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Mr. Chairman, there is manifestly a quorum present, and I trust that the gentleman from Pennsylvania will withdraw the point.

Mr. ATKINSON. I am not certain that there is manifestly a quorum in the House at this time, but I do not care to insist upon another vote upon my amendment, and I therefore withdraw the point of no quorum.

The CHAIRMAN. The point of no quorum having withdrawn, the House have it, and the amendment is rejected.

The Clerk read as follows:

SECTION 7. That Congress shall have power to regulate the manner and speed of running the cars of said railroad within the corporate limits of Washington and Georgetown.

An amendment recommended by the committee striking out the word "Congress," in the first line of the section, and inserting "the Commissioners of the District of Columbia," was agreed to.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 8. That where the line of the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company or the route thereof as herein authorized shall coincide with or occupy any portion or portions of the route or right of way of any other railroad or transportation company or corporation holding from Congress a charter or authority to construct a line of railroad, and such company or corporation has not, pursuant to such authority, actually graded its roadbed and laid its tracks along and over the whole of the said portion or portions of its said route, ready for the efficient operation of its line of railroad before the 1st day of March 1893, then and in that event the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company is hereby authorized to acquire in the manner herein before provided the said portion or portions of the said route or right of way, to grade its roadbed and lay tracks along and over the same, and to occupy the same for the operation of its line of railroad, hereinafter provided; but should the said company or corporation before the said date complete, in a substantial manner, the grading of their roadbed and the laying of their lines of tracks ready for the efficient transportation of steam railroad passenger and freight cars, then the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company, from the point where their tracks shall so coincide or connect with the tracks of the said company or corporation, shall use the same under the same terms and conditions provided in the second section of this act, to the same extent as is hereinbefore provided. Provided, however, That the language in this section contained shall be so construed as to authorize the said railroad company to acquire or occupy any portion of the property rights or rights of way of the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, excluded by the proviso to section 1 of this act without the consent of said company, its officers or assigns.

The committee recommended an amendment in line 11, striking out "ninety" and inserting "ninety-three," which was agreed to.

The committee also recommended an amendment in line 27, inserting, after "Provided," the word "however," which was agreed to.

Mr. COMPTON. Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer the amendment which I send to the desk.

The amendment was read, as follows:

Strike out all after the word "company," in line 31 of section 8, to the end of the section, and substitute in lieu thereof the following: "Without the consent of the stockholders of said company, or after condemnation proceedings and proper compensation to said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company."

Mr. COMPTON. Mr. Chairman, the purpose and effect of this amendment, if adopted, will simply be to protect absolutely the rights of property of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company. The provision for that purpose in this bill, on page 7, reads as follows:

Provided, That nothing in this section contained shall be so construed as to authorize the said railroad company to acquire or occupy any portion of the property rights or rights of way of the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company excluded by the proviso to section 1 of this act.

The proviso in section 1 here referred to is as follows:

Provided, however, That nothing in this act shall be so construed as to authorize said company to acquire, occupy, or use any portion of the water way, berm bank, towpath, or slope of the canal, or to use the said towpath or the land is covered by such slope.

As far as this goes, Mr. Chairman, it is a together right, but it does not go far enough, for the reason that the canal company owns other property besides the particular thing contemplated in the proviso of section 1, and it seems to me that that company should be protected in all its rights of property, and that in what that property may consist. I do not wish to be understood that the effect of the passage of this bill is to give a through connection to the Baltimore and Ohio canal.

Mr. MEREDITH. The yeas and nays are ordered.

Mr. COMPTON. That is all right. I am not an opponent of this bill. If it shall reach the floor of Congress I shall hail it and shall be glad of a liberal vote for it. For this city, as I presume gentlemen are ready to admit, the people want all the railroad facilities that can be had, as a rule it is only existing opposition companies that object to an increase of railroad facilities. The effect of my amendment, I repeat, is simply and only to protect absolutely all the rights of property of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company. That canal is owned by the State of Maryland, the General Government, and private stockholders. The amendment provides that their property shall not be interfered with without the consent of the stockholders, or after proceedings by condemnation and proper compensation. It does seem to me, Mr. Chairman, that such a provision is preeminently right, just, and proper, and I hope the friends of this bill will accept the amendment.

Mr. HEMPHILL. If the gentleman will consent to make it read "without the consent of the majority of the stockholders," I shall not object. It would be practically impossible to get the consent of all the stockholders. I think the majority of the stockholders should have a right to act in this matter as in other analogous cases, and I trust the gentleman will agree to that modification.

Mr. COMPTON. Of course, Mr. Chairman, I assume that a concession by a majority of the stockholders would be the act of the stockholders.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, your amendment says "without the consent of the stockholders," which may mean all the stockholders. Now, why not agree to the modification I suggest?

Mr. COMPTON. I do not think it is necessary.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Well, if it is not necessary it will not do any harm.

Mr. COMPTON. The meaning is, consent of a majority of the stock.

A MEMBER. Say "without the consent of the company."

Mr. COMPTON. No; I will not accept that.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Let it read, "without the consent of a majority of the stock of said company."

Mr. COMPTON. One word before I accept that amendment. There is this technical objection to it. The stock of this company is held, as I have said, in part by the Federal Government, in part by the State of Maryland, and in part by private stockholders.

Now if we substitute "a majority of the stockholders," as suggested by the gentleman, for the words I have put in the amendment, it might be that a majority of the individual stockholders, or a majority of the private stockholders in interest in other corporations, might defeat the rights of the State of Maryland and the General Government.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. Under the present reading of the proposed amendment, if there should be a meeting of the stockholders of the company and that meeting should determine in favor of the proposition, would not that be a compliance with the language of the amendment?

Mr. COMPTON. I do not know whether it would be or not.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. I think it would.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I believe the gentleman from Maryland and myself have the same idea; and I suggest that he make the amendment read "without the consent of the owners of a majority of the stock." That will cover the point.

Mr. COMPTON. I think that will answer the purpose.

Mr. HEMPHILL. If the gentleman will modify his amendment in that way I will assent to it.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read the amendment of the gentleman from Maryland as modified.

The Clerk read as follows:

Strike out all after the word "company," in line 31, section 8, to the end of the section, and substitute in lieu thereof the following: "Without consent of the owners of a majority of the stock of said company or after condemnation proceedings and proper compensation to said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company."

The amendment as modified was agreed to.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. I move an amendment to come in after section 8.

The Clerk read as follows:

Provided further, That such damage as is contemplated in the proviso to section 1, shall be determined pursuant to the provisions of chapter 18 of the Revised Statutes of the District of Columbia relating to railroad companies, so far as the same may be applicable thereto.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. I will say to the gentleman from South Carolina that the amendment adopted yesterday will be ineffective unless some provision of this kind be adopted.

Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE. The gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. BERGEN] offered an amendment which would meet the case. I will not state positively that it was adopted.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. I understand there is no opposition to my amendment.

Mr. HEMPHILL. It seems to me to be superfluous.

Mr. HOPKINS of Illinois. I find on examination that the object sought by my amendment is accomplished by an amendment which was adopted yesterday. I therefore withdraw the amendment.

Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE. I move to amend by striking out the word "three," in line 12, page 7, and inserting "four;" so as to read "1894" instead of "1893." Perhaps the gentleman from South Carolina will assent to this amendment.

Mr. HEMPHILL. I believe I have no objection to it.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE] will be considered as a read to.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Wait one moment. This company is required to commence the construction of its road within one year and complete it within two. The amendment suggested by the gentleman from Pennsylvania will give the company that has already been chartered some two years ago the Dock and Barge Company—until 1894, to lay down the tracks it is authorized to lay down. That will prevent this company from doing anything toward acquiring that property until 1894, which I think is rather too long a time.

Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE. They only have to begin the work within a year; they do not have to complete it.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. But they have to complete it within two years.

Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE. We give them a year in which to begin it; and if they are prevented from completing it by any action of the company already there, all they have to do is to show a bona fide effort to complete it within the time required, and they can then complete it after the expiration of the time.

Mr. HEMPHILL. What is the object of the gentleman in offering the amendment?

Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE. The bill in its present form is practically a confiscation of any rights that any other company may have there. I simply propose to give them time to carry out the work for which the company was formed.

Mr. HEMPHILL. Suppose we say October, 1893, instead of March, 1894. That will give ample time.

Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE. Very well; let my amendment be modified in accordance with the suggestion of the gentleman from South Carolina.

The amendment of Mr. WILLIAM A. STONE as modified was read, as follows:

In line 11, page 7, strike out the word "March" and insert the word "October;" so as to read "1st day of October, 1893."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I offer an amendment to come in as a new section between section 8 and section 9.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 9. That the Attorney-General of the United States shall forthwith apply to the judges of the supreme court of the District of Columbia to assess the value of the rights, franchises, and privileges heretofore granted, and until the amount so assessed shall be paid into the treasury of the United States, to be used in the cities of Washington or Georgetown shall be taken used, or sold, or otherwise occupied by said company.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. Mr. Chairman, I have drawn this amendment and present it now because I believe it should be embodied in this bill. I believe that it should also be embodied in the franchise of every corporation asking for the privilege of occupying the streets of any of the cities of the United States.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. How about the railroads already occupying the streets here; do you wish to embody them?

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. The provision should have been in their charters in the first instance. The franchise is in those cases have already been granted. The mischief is done.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. Will you put it in now?

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. The gentleman knows that could not be done on this bill. It would not be germane. It would be general legislation on a special or private bill.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. It can go into the law that they shall be compelled to comply with a general provision such as that you propose here, and that their property shall be paid for upon the same terms. You can assess what they are holding now of the public property.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. And the gentleman knows that such a provision would be subject to the point of order. It would not be germane.

Mr. OUTHWAITE. Nobody is going to make the point of order on this side.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. It is not in accordance with the practice heretofore. I repeat it would not be germane. But does the gentleman from Ohio say that that provision should be in this bill?

Mr. OUTHWAITE. I will offer it myself if you will accept it.

Mr. BUCHANAN of New Jersey. I ask the gentleman again, does he say that restriction should be put upon the other companies? [After a pause.] Silence gives consent; and if so why not apply it now, when we are framing a bill for the benefit of this company. As to this company we are now in a parliamentary position to act.

Mr. Chairman, this company is taking advantage of the unrest and discontent which exist in this city as to the limited railroad and the selection of committees, that we shall be brought here within sixty days after our election.

The Senate, Mr. Speaker, is more in touch with the people of this country than the House of Representatives; and why? Because one-third of their members go out and their successors are elected by their respective Legislatures, and they come here and are kept in session for special purposes, whereas the House does not meet until thirteen months after its members have been chosen by the people to represent them.

Suppose that the election of the President had devolved upon the last Congress, when the gentleman from Maine [Mr. REED] was reputed to have counted umbrellas and walking canes, what chance would the Democratic party have had for the election of a President? None, whatever. Now, I say, Mr. Chairman, that this House ought not to be for nine months without a Speaker, as it is under existing conditions. I say that the men who are elected in November ought to be here within sixty days after their election, at their post of duty, responding to the will of the people expressed at the polls.

I say that it was wrong for the Mills Congress to be in session at the short session for three months, legislating for the people after that bill had been repudiated. I say with equal force, because it is not partisan, that the Republican Congress ought not to have been in session for three months after the McKinley bill had been repudiated. The will of the people was thwarted. The representatives of the people felt that they had been repudiated; and nobody will deny the statement that a man who has been beaten by his people at the polls is not as efficient a representative as when he came here with a majority in his favor.

This measure may be beaten. I am not wedded to it, as I told gentlemen on the other side. I do think there ought to be a remedy for the evils of which the people, through the press, complain. I do not think that those evils can be remedied by legislative enactment. I am fortified in the presentation of this case from a legal standpoint by Attorneys-General of the United States. I am fortified by the statement of the Committee on the Judiciary, and I have the pleasure to say that I have at my back in the presentation of this amendment the distinguished gentleman from Maine, who represents the opposition to this matter. Having stated these facts and the principles which are necessarily evolved by them, I yield, of course, to the will of the House.

Mr. CHIPMAN. Mr. Speaker, I now renew my motion for the previous question on the third reading of the joint resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER. The question now is on the third reading of the joint resolution.

The question was taken; and the Speaker announced that the yeas seemed to have it.

Mr. SPRINGER. I would suggest to gentlemen on the other side that they allow the previous question to be ordered on the adoption of this resolution, and then we can adjourn, and to-morrow, when the House is full, it can take action.

Mr. COCKRAN. Take the yeas and nays now, there is a quorum present.

Mr. CHIPMAN. I demand a division.

The House divided; and there were—yeas 33, yeas 86.

Mr. CHIPMAN. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 49, nays 128, not voting 152; as follows:

Mr. LIVINGSTON with Mr. HENDERSON of Iowa.

Mr. MANSUR with Mr. BINGHAM for two days.

The result of the vote was then announced as follows:

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. V. C. Allen, its secretary, announced that the Senate had passed on the bill for the relief of Joseph M. Carnell.

A bill (S. 3561) for the relief of Joseph M. Carnell.

A bill (S. 3562) for the relief of William J. Carnell.

ENROLLED BILLS—SENATE.

Mr. OHLIGER, from the Committee on Education, reported.

ported that they had examined and found truly enrolled bills of the following titles: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (S. 118) for the relief of the estate of Isaac W. Talking-ton, deceased; and

A bill (S. 3623) to amend the act of March 3, 1873, for the relief of the Columbian University, in the District of Columbia.

REPRINT OF A BILL.

On motion of Mr. PEEL, by unanimous consent, an order was made for the reprint of the bill (H. R. 9190) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Cherokee Indians of the Indian Territory, etc.

SATURDAY HALF-HOLIDAY IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a Senate joint resolution (S. R. 133) to amend an act entitled "An act to make Saturday a half-holiday for banking and trust companies in the District of Columbia," which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT, VICE-PRESIDENT, AND REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. COCKRAN moved to reconsider the vote by which the House had refused to order the joint resolution (H. Res. 98) to a third reading; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. WOLVERTON, on account of important business.

To Mr. BLAND, for to-day, on account of sickness.

The House then, on motion of Mr. SPRINGER (at 5 o'clock and 24 minutes p. m.), adjourned.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Under clause 2 of Rule XIII, Mr. PAGE, from the Committee on Claims, reported the bill (S. 730) for the relief of H. W. Shipley (Report No. 2215), which was delivered to the Clerk's desk, ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee of the Whole House.

BILLS, MEMORIALS, AND RESOLUTIONS.

Under clause 3 of Rule XXII, bills and resolutions of the following titles were introduced and severally referred as follows:

By Mr. BARTINE: A bill (H. R. 10115) to provide a battery of modern field guns for the Nevada National Guard—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. STORER: A bill (H. R. 10116) to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate commerce," approved February 4, 1887—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. BRYAN: A bill (H. R. 10117) to amend "An act authorizing the construction of a railway, street railway, motor, wagon, and pedestrian bridge over the Missouri River near Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Omaha, Nebr., and to extend the time for the completion of the bridge therein provided for"—to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

By Mr. BACON: A bill (H. R. 10118) to amend section 5209 of the Revised Statutes—to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

By Mr. ENOCHS: A joint resolution (H. Res. 184) to print 250,000 copies of the special report of the Bureau of Animal Industry on diseases of cattle and on cattle feeding—to the Committee on Printing.

Also, a joint resolution (H. Res. 185) to print 100,000 additional copies of the special report of the Agricultural Department on the diseases of the horse—to the Committee on Printing.

By Mr. BROSTUS: A resolution to amend Rule XLI of the House—to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. DUNPHY: To investigate why War Department refuses to grant in dals of honor to those who, during rebellion, served in Army of United States as acting assistant surgeons—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. MILLER: A resolution in relation to labor—to the Committee on Labor.

By Mr. STOUT: A resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Interior for information as to the opening of a portion of the Navajoe Indian Reservation in Utah—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

PRIVATE BILLS, ETC.

Under clause 1 of Rule XXII, private bills of the following titles were presented and referred as indicated below:

By Mr. BROOKSHIRE: A bill (H. R. 10119) to pension Lemuel M. Walker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BINGHAM: A bill (H. R. 10120) for the relief of Brig. Gen. John R. Brooke, United States Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. BOATNER: A bill (H. R. 10121) for the relief of the estate of Samuel Richardson, deceased, late of East Carroll Parish, La.—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, a bill (H. R. 10122) for the relief of J. S. Douglass, deceased, late of Tensas Parish, La.—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. CLANCY: A bill (H. R. 10123) for the relief of Ellen Fitzgerald—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CATCHINGS: A bill (H. R. 10124) for the relief of the estate of Madison Stephenson, deceased, late of Warren County, Miss.—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HOLMAN: A bill (H. R. 10125) granting a pension to James Theodore Walker—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, a bill (H. R. 10126) granting a pension to Laura M. Cheek—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. KYLE: A bill (H. R. 10127) for the relief of the estate of Alice Hardaway—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. KENDALL: A bill (H. R. 10128) removing the charge of desertion from John Ward—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, a bill (H. R. 10129) removing the charge of desertion from the record of James F. Prewitt—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Reed and other citizens of Center View, and of Rev. F. J. Leavitt, of Springfield, all in the State of Missouri, remonstrating against the repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. COCKRELL. I present a petition of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis, Mo., praying for the passage of legislation providing for the purchase of the claim of the Cherokee Nation to the Cherokee Strip. This petition is similar to the one presented by my colleague [Mr. VEST]. I believe that the bill has already been reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs, and is now upon the Calendar, and I hope that the Committee on Indian Affairs will press the consideration of the bill at no distant day.

Mr. DAVES. I will state to the Senator from Missouri that the bill in reference to the Cherokee Outlot is in charge of the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. PLATT], and I know he and the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS] will engage the attention of the Senate upon the bill at the earliest possible moment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The petition will lie on the table.

Mr. WOLCOTT presented a petition of the Denver (Colo.) Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade, praying for a national quarantine system; which was ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented a petition of the Denver (Colo.) Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade, praying for the passage of legislation encouraging an interchange of trade between the United States and foreign countries; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of the Denver (Colo.) Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade, praying that the city of Denver, Colo., be selected as the headquarters of the Military Department of the West; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented the petition of J. W. McCullah and 19 other citizens of Delta County, Colo., praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depreciate the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antiopion bill until such committee shall report; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. JONES of Arkansas presented the petition of Mrs. E. L. Eblen, formerly Mrs. E. L. McElrath, of Tahlequah, Ind. T., praying for the passage of legislation authorizing the payment of the sum of $22,400 to her for the possession and use by the United States Army during the late rebellion of certain mill property located in Tennessee; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also presented the petition of Frances E. Gale and J. S. Blackford, administratrix and administrator, respectively, of the estate of Capt. Charles Willey, deceased of San Francisco, Cal., praying for the passage of legislation authorizing the payment to them as the legal representatives of the deceased, the sum of $45,000, the same being the value of four vessels which were seized by the Federal Government during the war of the rebellion; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. KYLE presented a memorial of the pastor and 140 members of the Baptist Church of Mitchell, S. Dak., remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

Mr. PROCTOR presented a petition of the Board of Trade of Rutland, Vt., praying for the establishment of a national road department or the passage of such other legislation as will tend to promote the building and maintaining of improved highways in the United States; which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Mr. PETTIGREW presented petitions of M. Hoffman and 23 other citizens of Union County; of A. J. Robinson and 23 other citizens of Yankton County; of J. D. Conley and 22 other citizens of Union County; of G. U. Smith and 19 other citizens of Clay County; of J. N. Moore and 20 other citizens of East Fall River; of Frank Bark igh and 17 other citizens of Yankton County; of George Sawyer and 22 other citizens of Yankton County; of W. P. Shoop and 21 other citizens of Yankton County; of G. G. J. Peterson and 23 other citizens of Clay County, and of B. S. Pigley and 24 other citizens of Clay County, and in the State of South Dakota, praying for the appointment of a Senate committee to investigate the combine formed to depress the price of grain, and asking for the postponement of the Washburn-Hatch antiopion bill until such committee shall report; which were referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. WASHBURN presented a memorial of the Presbyterian Pastors' Association of Minneapolis, Minn., remonstrating against any repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a memorial of the Minneapolis (Minn.) Board of Trade, remonstrating against additional restrictions being placed upon the shipment of grain products to the northwest seacoast; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HILL presented a petition of business men and citizens of Albany, N. Y., praying for the repeal of the Sherman silver act; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a petition of 121 members of the New York Cotton Exchange, praying for the repeal of the Sherman silver act; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. HISCOCK presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, praying for the passage of legislation placing the quarantine at New York and all other places under national control; which was referred to the Committee on Immigration.

He also presented a petition of 121 members of the New York Cotton Exchange, praying for the repeal of the act of Congress known as the Sherman act; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented a memorial of the Methodist Church of Ellington, N. Y., remonstrating against the opening of the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday, and praying that the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited thereat; which was referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).

He also presented a petition of the Merchant Tailors' Society of the City of New York, praying for the passage of House bill 8735, limiting the free entry of wearing apparel of foreign manufacture; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

FUR-SEAL FISHERIES.

Mr. SHERMAN. I am directed by the Committee on Foreign Relations, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3629) to extend to the North Pacific Ocean the provisions of the statutes for the protection of fur seals and other fur-bearing animals, to report it without amendment. As this is a matter of considerable importance, I ask for the present consideration of the bill. In view of the meeting of the tribunal of arbitration to take place next summer in regard to the fisheries it is deemed necessary to have the bill passed, and I believe upon reading it there will be no objection to it. The bill is strongly recommended by the President of the United States and was prepared at the State Department.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Ohio asks for the present consideration of the bill. It will be read for information.

The Chief Clerk read the bill, as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That whenever the Government of the United States shall conclude an effective international arrangement for the protection of fur seals in the North Pacific Ocean, by agreement with any power, or as a result of the decision of the tribunal of arbitration, or in the convention concluded between the United States and Great Britain, February 22, 1892, and so long as such arrangement shall continue, the provisions of section 1395 of the Revised Statutes, and all other provisions of the statute of the United States so far as the same may be applicable, relative to the protection of fur seals and other fur-bearing animals within the limits of Alaska or in the waters thereof, shall be extended to and cover all that portion of the Pacific Ocean included in such international arrangement. Whenever an effective international arrangement is concluded as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the President to declare that fact by proclamation, and to include in the act his portion of the Pacific Ocean to which it applies, and that this act has become operative, and likewise when such arrangement shall be declared that fact and that this act has become operative, and his proclamation with respect thereto shall be conclusive. During the extension of the aforesaid of said laws for the protection of fur seals and other fur-bearing animals all violations thereof in said territory or portion of the Pacific Ocean shall be held to be the same as if committed within the limits of Alaska or in the waters thereof, but they may be prosecuted either in the district court of Alaska or in any district court of the United States in California, Oregon, or Washington.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to have the bill read a second time. I do not know exactly what it is.

Mr. SHERMAN. In view of the meeting of the tribunal of arbitration, of which the Senator from Alaska [Mr. McLEAN] is a member, it is deemed necessary to give the President of the United States certain power—

Mr. COCKRELL. Mr. President, we can not hear anything going on in the way of an explanation.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senate will be in order.

Mr. SHERMAN. Perhaps the shortest statement that could be made of the matter would be to read the brief report which embodies the message of the President of the United States, but I will state the substance of it.

In view of any judgment that may be made by the tribunal of arbitration next summer in respect to the sea-island fisheries it will be necessary to arm the President of the United States with power to issue a proclamation to extend the present law, which applies only to Bering Sea, to the North Pacific Ocean. That is the judgment of all parties who know anything about the subject-matter. The bill simply gives the President of the United States the power to extend the provisions of existing law over the North Pacific, because the real trouble in the seal fisheries is in the North Pacific. The bill is recommended very clearly and forcibly in the message of the President of the United States, and was prepared by the Secretary of State. It has met with the approval of every member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and the necessity for its passage now is apparent to everyone, because whatever judgment may be rendered, that instant it will necessarily involve the exercise of this power.

Mr. TELLER. I certainly do not desire to antagonize the bill when I understand it, because, as the chairman of the committee has stated, the trouble in the preservation of seals is not in Bering Sea, but in the North Pacific Ocean; and although we may succeed in the arbitration in having it determined that we can protect the seals in Bering Sea, they will be utterly destroyed if we do not extend some protection to the seals in the North Pacific Ocean.

Mr. FRYE. There is no objection to the bill.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. SAWYER. I am instructed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 6939) for the relief of Elisha Brown, to report it favorably, without amendment, and I ask for its immediate consideration.

Mr. VEST. I object to the consideration of the bill until we finish the morning business. I do not know anything about the bill, but we should proceed with the routine business.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Objection is made by the Senator from Missouri, and the bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. SAWYER, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 5705) to increase the pension of Amelia Graham, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 7099) granting an increase of pension to Samuel S. Anderson, reported it with an amendment and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 8925) to increase the pension of Harvey Lyon, reported it without amendment and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PASCO, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 915) for relief of the heirs of Noah Noble, deceased, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 2281) for the relief of Miss Jane Linn, submitted an adverse report thereon, which was agreed to, and the bill was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. McMILLAN, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3691) regulating the employment of certain persons in manufactories, workshops, and stores in the District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 3622) to narrow California avenue within Bellair Heights, District of Columbia, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

He also, from the same committee, reported an amendment intended to be proposed to the District appropriation bill, which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MITCHELL. For the Senator from Virginia (Mr. DANIEL), who is necessarily absent from the Senate, I report back with amendments from the Committee on Claims the bill (H. R.

1036) for the benefit of Logan, Simpson, Hardin, and Hart Counties and of the city of Louisville, Ky., and of Sumner and Davidson Counties, Tenn., accompanied by a written report.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE.

A message from the House of Representatives by Mr. T. O. TOWLES, its Chief Clerk, announced that the House had passed the following bill and joint resolution:

A bill (S. 3195) granting to the Yuma Pumping Irrigation Company the right of way for two ditches across that part of the Yuma Indian Reservation lying in Arizona; and

A joint resolution (S. R. 113) providing for the printing of the Agricultural Report of 1892.

The message also announced that the House had agreed to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 9824) to amend "An act to promote the construction of a safe deep-water harbor on the coast of Texas," approved February 9, 1891.

The message further announced that the House has passed the following bills, in which it requested the concurrence of the Senate:

A bill (H. R. 3591) to authorize the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company of Virginia to extend its line of road into and within the District of Columbia, and for other purposes; and

A bill (H. R. 10015) to authorize the construction of bridges across the Hiwassee, the Tennessee, and the Clinch Rivers, in the State of Tennessee.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

The message also announced that the Speaker of the House had signed the following enrolled bills; and they were thereupon signed by the Vice-President:

A bill (S. 118) for the relief of the estate of Isaac W. Talkington, deceased; and

A bill (S. 3623) to amend the act of March 3, 1873, for the relief of the Columbian University, in the District of Columbia.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. FRYE introduced a bill (S. 3706) providing for a commission on the subject of the social vice; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3707) making an appropriation for establishing buoyage on the water front of Chicago, Lake Michigan, Illinois; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. WOLCOTT introduced a bill (S. 3708) granting a pension to Helen L. Dent; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. McMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 3709) granting a pension to John E. Barnes; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WILSON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 3710) to incorporate the Chesapeake and Washington Underground Electric Railway Company; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. BERRY. The junior Senator from New Jersey (Mr. BLOOMER) was compelled to be absent this morning and requested me to introduce for him a bill and have it referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The bill (S. 3711) granting the right of way through the Arlington Reservation for railroad purposes, was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HILL introduced a bill (S. 3712) to grant the right of way for electric railroad purposes through certain lands of the United States in Richmond County, N. Y.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 3713) to provide an American register for the steam yacht Golden Fleece; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 3714) to ratify and confirm an agreement with the Comanche, Kiowa, and Apache tribes of Indians in Oklahoma Territory, and to make appropriations for carrying the same into effect; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. PROCTOR introduced a bill (S. 3715) to authorize the appointment of an associate professor of mathematics at the Military Academy; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. MORRILL submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the District appropriation bill; which was ordered to be printed, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. HALE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the fortification appropriation bill; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

Mr. MORGAN. I submit a resolution, and ask that it be printed and lie on the table, to be called up to-morrow.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Commerce be instructed to inquire and report to the Senate the advantages, if any, that will accrue to the productions, industries, coastwise and foreign commerce, immigration, and other interests of the United States, by means of the additional facilities of transportation, and the reduction of the cost thereof that would be afforded by the building of a ship canal to connect the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans through Lake Nicaragua.

Mr. MORGAN. I shall call up the resolution to-morrow morning, and desire the opportunity to make a very few brief observations to the Senate upon it.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Meanwhile the resolution will lie on the table and be printed.

DISTRIBUTION OF SOUVENIR COINS.

Mr. WILSON submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to transmit to the Senate a copy of the opinion of the law officer of the Government for his Department under which he is disbursing the $2500,000 in souvenir coins in aid of the World's Columbian Exposition appropriated by the act of Congress approved August 5, 1892, and conditioned upon Sunday closing; and also to transmit a copy of such regulations relative to the issuance and delivery of said coins as he may have established in pursuance of said opinion.

PRINTING OF A REPORT.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I move that the report of the subcommittee of the Committee on the District of Columbia on the Senate resolution directing an investigation of the garbage question in the District of Columbia be printed.

The motion was agreed to.

COINAGE OF SILVER.

Mr. MORRILL. I was requested in a note from the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON] to ask that the joint resolution (S. R. 126) authorizing and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to suspend all purchases of silver bullion as provided in the act of July 14, 1890, be referred to the Committee on Finance.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The joint resolution will be so referred if there be no objection.

Mr. STEWART. Is it proposed to call up the joint resolution?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] moves that the joint resolution be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MORRILL. I was requested by the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON] to have it referred to that committee.

Mr. STEWART. I hope the joint resolution will not be referred. I know that several Senators wish to make some remarks upon it. I think after the Senator from New Jersey has made a speech on the joint resolution, and several Senators have signified their intention to reply to him, that to remove it from the Senate for the purpose of preventing a reply would not look well. I do not think the Senator from New Jersey would like to have that done.

Mr. MORRILL. I do not think there is any such purpose on the part of the Senator from New Jersey. He desired to have the joint resolution before the committee previous to its next meeting, and I ask to have it so referred.

Mr. STEWART. I hope it will not be referred until Senators have had an opportunity to reply to the Senator from New Jersey. When such measures are retained for the purpose of debate, after a speech has been made on them it is usual to give an opportunity to reply before they are referred.

Mr. MORRILL. The Senator will see that the amendment proposed by the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. ALDRICH] is still before the Senate, and that brings up the whole subject.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Vermont.

Mr. STEWART. I suppose that the question of reference is debatable?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. It is.

Mr. STEWART. Upon that question I should like to make a few remarks. This is the most serious proposition that has been presented—

Mr. TELLER. I ask the Senator from Nevada to yield. I appeal to the Senator from Vermont to withdraw the motion. He knows very well that the joint resolution can not be referred this morning if persisted in, and there is no reason why it should be referred. The speech of the Senator from New Jersey has been made, and it is no more than fair that before the joint resolution goes to the committee somebody on our side shall have a chance to reply to him. The Senator knows that Senators wish to reply, and I think he should not desire a reference.

Mr. MORRILL. I do not insist upon my motion. I merely made it at the request of the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. SHERMAN. If the Senator from Nevada will allow me a word, I will state that I myself do not see any special reason or any necessity for referring the joint resolution to the Committee on Finance before its next meeting. The Committee on Finance have three or four bills on the calendar, to be considered before them; but as this subject has already been considered by the Committee on Finance in Senate from New Jersey desired that his proposition should be considered at the same time. As a matter of course we would not consider it now. It is a mere matter of form, and rather than to let it go to rest upon the silver question (upon which I hope that the motion of the Senator from New Jersey will not be carried) I will suggest.

Mr. HALE to Mr. MORRILL. Would you withdraw the motion?

Mr. MORRILL. I have no objection to withdrawing the motion.

Mr. HARRIS. What is the motion of the Senator from Vermont?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The motion has been withdrawn. The motion was that the joint resolution be referred to the Committee on Finance.

MEMORIAL ADDRESSES ON THE LATE SENATOR BARBOUR.

Mr. HUNTON. Upon consultation with my colleague, Mr. DANIEL, and at his request, I give notice that on Tuesday, the 21st instant, I shall ask the Senate to suspend its business in order that fitting tributes may be paid to the memory of our late predecessor in the Senate, Hon. John S. Barbour.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM.

Mr. PEPPER. I give notice that next Monday morning, as soon as the routine morning business is completed, I shall call up the joint resolution (S. R. 95) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, to limit the office of President to one term for each incumbent, and that I shall ask the Senate at that time to indulge me while I submit a few remarks upon the joint resolution.

PRINTING OF QUARANTINE BILL.

Mr. HARRIS. There has been no print of Senate bill 2707, the quarantine bill as passed by the Senate, and as there are a great many demands for copies, I move that the bill be printed as it passed the Senate.

The motion was agreed to.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. UTIDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that the President had, on the 10th instant, approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 1831) to admit free of duty the wreckage of the ships Trenton and Vandalia, presented by the United States to the King of Samoa; and

An act (S. 3029) authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Columbia River, in the State of Washington.

The message also announced that the President of the United States had on the 11th instant approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 1786) granting a pension to Mrs. Jennie Gray.

An act (S. 2187) granting a pension to Margaret M. Riker and

An act (S. 2593) granting an increase of pension to Samuel M. Campbell.

The message further announced that the President of the United States had, on the 12th instant, approved and signed the following acts:

An act (S. 317) granting an increase of pension to John M. Roberts;

An act (S. 2592) granting an increase of pension to William C. Tarkington;

An act (S. 2990) for the relief of George W. McKinney;

An act (S. 3048) granting to the Blue Mountain Freighter and Improvement Company a right of way for roads and trails through the Umatilla Indian Reservation in the State of Oregon; and

An act (S. 3314) for the relief of E. Darach, late lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and forty-third New York Infantry.

HOUSE BILLS REFERRED.

The bill (H. R. 10015) to authorize the construction of bridges across the Hiwassee, the Tennessee, and the Clinch Rivers, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The bill (H. R. 3591) to authorize the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company of Virginia to extend its line of road, and within the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

REPORT ON LABOR IN EUROPE.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States: which was read:

To the Senate:
In compliance to the resolutions of the Senate, dated December 29, 1892, and January 6, 1893, respectively, I transmit herewith a report from the Secretary of State of the 10th instant, accompanying the reports of Mr. Walter T. Gillet, United States commercial agent at Limoges, France, and Mr. W. H. Edwards, United States consular general at Berlin, Germany, which were called for by the aforesaid resolutions.

BENJ. HARRISON.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,

Washington, January 11, 1893.

Mr. CHANDLER. I move that the message and accompanying papers be referred without printing to the Committee on Immigration.

Mr. COCKRELL. Is there anything in the papers that ought not to be printed and made known to the public?

Mr. CHANDLER. Certainly not; but they are very bulky, and the committee propose to make a preliminary consideration of the question as to whether they shall be printed.

Mr. COCKRELL. If they are so bulky as appears, it is all right.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The message and accompanying papers will be referred to the Committee on Immigration without printing.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BUREAU OF AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

The VICE-PRESIDENT laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States: which was read, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith for your information a letter from the Secretary of State, enclosing the annual report of the Bureau of American Republics for the year ending June 30, 1892.

BENJ. HARRISON.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, January 11, 1893.

WASHINGTON FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate for the present consideration of Order of Business No. 967 on the Calendar under Rule VIII. The reason for asking its consideration at this time (the bill being to establish a free public and departmental library and reading room in the District of Columbia) is that the library room is to be in the new post-office building, and it will be necessary for the architect of the building to make suitable preparations for its proper construction. The bill is accompanied by a short report, which explains its purpose.

If the bill becomes a law no additional expense will be incurred by the Government of the United States except the expense of compensating two people to take charge of the books and the documents of the library, the books being those now received by the different Departments and surplus books in the hands of the Librarian of Congress. The Librarian of Congress strongly recommends the passage of the bill, which will relieve a great deal of the pressure now on the Congressional Library, and will get the books now in circulation in the different Departments altogether in one department. Each Department of the Government now has a library and reading room. These will be consolidated into one library and one reading room.

While there is an appropriation for the compensation of two people to take care of the proposed library, yet the services of clerks in the different Departments, who now draw pay from the Government for taking care of the books of each Department, will be increased with, and upon the point of expenditure the Government will be the gainer. I ask that the report, which is very short, may be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill will first be read for information.

The Secretary read the bill (S. 1491) to establish a free public and departmental library and reading room.

Mr. MORRILL. I am cordially in favor of a free public library for the District of Columbia, but I can not quite agree with the propriety of emptying all the departmental libraries and pouring them into one spot alone. Take, for instance, the Treasury Department. There is in that Department a very considerable and valuable miscellaneous library, where the large number of clerks there employed can go, take their books as they go home at night, and, after they read them, bring them back in the morning without loss of time. If they have to go to another public institution it will be necessary for those clerks to make two journeys.

Then it seems to me that nearly all of the Departments will have to keep up a library in consequence of the public documents which they require for constant usage. Therefore, while I am in favor of a free library for the District, I do not see the entire propriety of emptying the libraries of the various Departments. I am very sure it will impose a burden upon the employees of those Departments and a very considerable loss of time. I hope, therefore, that that part of the bill will be modified.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, it struck me, as the bill was being read, that it involves a pretty large enterprise. It would seem to me even the provisions of the bill as the Secretary read them, that it inaugurates not only the removal of the small departmental libraries from the different departmental buildings to the city post-office, but establishes what will be in time a great public library here in Washington in addition to the Congressional Library proper.

I think if that is the view of the committee which reports this bill through the Senator from Colorado, that he should state to the Senate what the scope of the bill is and whether it is the intention of the committee in the bill to lay the foundation of a great public library in addition to the Congressional Library; because, if that is done, it will not be a question of a few rooms or a limited space in one of the floors of the new post-office building, but this library will advance and aggrandize, and before many years will require a large proportion of the room of a very great building.

I do not say that it is not desirable that we should have such a library here for the departmental clerks and employees and for anybody else in the District, but it should be understood clearly that, when we embark upon all these great matters, the vast amount of room and the number of books which will be required should be anticipated by the Senate.

I thought also that I noticed a provision in the bill—perhaps I am wrong about that—which is rather a novelty, and that is, that provision should be made by messenger service for furnishing books to persons outside. That is a thing which the Senator, I hope, comprehends in its full extent.

If Congress is to incorporate such a provision into this bill for a public library for the citizens of this District and the departmental employees and clerks, and is also to send them books and take them back, as is done now in a limited way for Senators and Members of the House of Representatives, it will be a very great advance in expenditure; nobody will go to the library, but orders will be given for books; and a force of messengers will be engaged in carrying the books to the houses of the persons and returning them. It may be that that is desirable; it may be that the Senator has taken all this in view. If he has, I hope he will explain to the Senate, so that we may understand what we are doing when we adopt this bill.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Mr. President, I am very glad the Senator from Maine has asked the questions which he has. The committee, which reported this bill through me very much hope that this will be the foundation of a creditable, an extensive, and fully equipped public library for the city of Washington. We have no library what ever here. The Librarian of Congress is forbidden by law to issue the books of the Congressional Library except to officers and employees of the Government. The general public in Washington, the departmental clerks, and the citizens of the city have absolutely no access whatever to the public library of Congress, except as they call at the Library to read there the books within this building.

Mr. GRAY. If I may interrupt the Senator by asking a question—Is he not mistaken about that?

Mr. WOLCOTT. I think not.

Mr. GRAY. Is it not a fact that the citizens of Washington have on certain terms the right to procure books from the Library?

Mr. WOLCOTT. They may go into the Library and read the books.

Mr. GRAY. And take books out.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Oh, no. The Librarian is badgered day after day by eternal requests from the public that they may get a book; but he is forbidden by law to let the books go out. We have to call for them; and when we do it we become personally responsible for the books, and we violate the law when we let other persons have those books in this city, which ought to be a center of culture and intelligence; but there is no public library here, and there should be one. I hope this will be the means at a moderate expense or at no expense at all of founding here what will eventually be a creditable library for Washington.

We start upon this basis: Almost every Department has now included within its buildings certain circulating library books, which have been gradually accumulated, not including the public documents to which the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] referred, but different books and different periodicals which have been presented to it, and which are forwarded gratuitously and given to that Department. The scope and theory of both parties must be heard; but here the old fundamental rule of justice is dispensed with by this measure, and we in Congress make the evidence, and there is nothing for the court to do but simply to make a decree five minutes after they take control of the cause.

This bill is simply to prepare the way for an auditor (for it acknowledges the liability of the Government of the United States) to state how many dollars we are to pay to Mr. McGarran for the minerals taken out of this land during the last forty or fifty years.

I am perfectly willing, Mr. President, to send Mr. McGarran into the courts of the United States, where the Government of the United States shall be represented by a district attorney, where the court is empowered to summon witnesses and compel their attendance, where he can be confronted with those who may testify against him, and the Government shall have compulsory process, as he shall have it, to bring all witnesses to give their testimony, where he shall have a jury trial; and then, when the judgment of that court shall be rendered against the Government of the United States, as far as the Government has any liability, I am ready to help to discharge that liability. But I shall not vote for a bill that confesses the Government of the United States is to be held as a warrantor to pay enormous damages, which may have been incurred during more than two generations by the junior occupant of a piece of land.

These, sir, are the reasons which I have thought proper to express to the Senate as my reasons why I can not support this measure.

Mr. TELLER. I suppose the bill will go over without any further action until Monday, and with the same understanding as before.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. PASCO in the chair). That will be the order in the absence of objection. The Chair hears none.

WILLIAM M. WATSON.

Mr. GORDON. If the matter which has been before the Senate is disposed of, I ask unanimous consent to call up a bill to pension a very old man. It has passed the other House, has been reported by the Senate Committee on Pensions, and I think there will be no objection to it. It is House bill 8038.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Calendar under Rule VIII being in order, the Senator from Georgia asks unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 8038) granting a pension to William M. Watson, of Walker County, Ga. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of William M. Watson, of Walker County, Ga., an invalid soldier of the Mexican war, having been a member of Company E, First Alabama Volunteers, 1846, and in consequence of his disability, arising from a wound received in the service, grants him a pension of $15 dollars per month.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

CHARLES A. LANG.

Mr. SAWYER. I ask unanimous consent to call up the bill (S. 3670) granting an increase of pension to Charles A. Lang.

There being no objection, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill. It proposes to place on the pension roll the name of Charles A. Lang, who was a private in Company G, Second Regiment Dragoons, and served in the Florida war, was captain of Company G, Thirty-fourth Regiment Wisconsin Infantry, and served in the war of the rebellion, and to pay him a pension at the rate of $20 a month in lieu of the amount he is now receiving.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REMOVAL OF SNOW AND ICE.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. I ask unanimous consent to call up for consideration the bill (S. 2265) for the removal of snow and ice from the sidewalks, crosswalks, and gutters in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from North Dakota?

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill be read for information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be read.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. Several provisions have been stricken out by the Committee on the District of Columbia, and I think the Secretary had better read the amended bill.

Mr. COCKRELL. The Secretary has the amended bill before him. He will first read the original bill and then state the amendments of the committee.

Mr. HANSBROUGH. That course appears to me simply a waste of time.

Mr. COCKRELL. After he has read the original he will state the amendments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be read.

The bill was read, and by unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

The bill was reported from the Committee on the District of Columbia with amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendments will be stated in their order.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, I submit that the provisions of the bill will prove very harsh to a great many poor people here.

Mr. COCKRELL. I suggest to the Senator from Florida to hear the amendments stated. I see there are a great many amendments reported. Let them be acted upon.

Mr. CALL. Very well.

The first amendment of the Committee on the District of Columbia was, in section 1, line 7, after the word "to insert" of daylight;" in line 9, before the word "sidewalks," to insert "paved;" and in line 11, after two words "tenant," to insert—

And such owners or tenants shall, under a like penalty, within a reasonable time after notice so to do by the Commissioners, clean off and remove all snow and ice, and become it off and removed, all dirt, sand, gravel, or other refuse matter that may fall or be washed upon any paved sidewalk or alley, street, foot path, or ground in Washington and Georgetown.

So as to make the section read:

That the owner or tenant of each house or other building, or lot or lots of ground, in the cities of Washington and Georgetown, and in such other part or parts of the District of Columbia as the Commissioners of said District shall from time to time designate, shall within the first four hours of daylight after every fall of snow cause the same to be removed entirely from off the paved sidewalks opposite such house, building, lot, or land, under the penalty of $1 for each lot for every such neglect, to be paid by the said owner or tenant, and such owners or tenants shall, under a like penalty, etc.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 3, line 5, after the word "ice," to strike out "or both" and insert "or any dirt, sand, or gravel;" and in line 6, after the word "sidewalks," to insert "and alleys;" so as to make the section read:

That in case the owner or tenant of any house, lot, building, or land shall neglect to comply with any of the provisions of the preceding sections of this act, it shall be the duty of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to cause the removal of snow or ice, or any dirt, sand, or gravel, from all paved sidewalks and alleys in the cities of Washington and Georgetown wherever there has been a failure on the part of the owner or tenant aforesaid to remove the same, and the cost of such removal by order and under the direction of the said Commissioners shall be assessed as a tax against the property to which the sidewalks in question belong, for the purposes of this act, and the said tax so assessed shall be carried to the regular tax roll of the cities aforesaid, and shall be collected in the manner provided for the collection of other taxes.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was, in section 4, line 3, after the word "snow," to strike out "or rain which shall freeze;" in line 4, after the word "gutters," strike out "at the corners;" in line 5, after the word "crosswalks," to insert "to a width of 10 feet;" and in line 8, after the word "obstructions," to insert "and in case the crosswalks are covered with ice it shall be their duty to cause such crosswalks to be liberally sprinkled with sand or sawdust, or such other material as will insure safety to pedestrians;" so as to make the section read:

That it shall be the duty of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, immediately after every fall of snow on the crosswalks or in the gutters, forthwith to cause the same to be removed from the said crosswalks to a width of 10 feet and from out of the said gutters to the breadth of 1 foot, in the said cities respectively; and the said crosswalks and gutters shall be kept clean and free from obstructions, and in case the crosswalks are covered with ice it shall be their duty to cause such crosswalks to be liberally sprinkled with sand or sawdust, or such other material as will insure safety to pedestrians.

The amendment was agreed to.

The next amendment was in section 5, line 3, after the word "immediately," to strike out "upon the commencement of a snow or sleet storm or," and insert "after;" in line 6, before the word "and," to strike out "under the circumstances," and insert "when funds are available;" in line 7, after the word "crosswalks," to insert "which may be used as thoroughfares;" in line 10, after the word "sleet," to insert "to a width sufficient to accommodate winter pedestrian travel;" in line 15, after the word "parks," to strike out:

Provided, That the compensation allowed in payment of the services of the persons employed by the superintendent of public buildings and grounds, as aforesaid, shall not exceed 50 cents per hour for each person while actually at work; And provided further, That one cent for each day public park within the cities of Washington and Georgetown shall be paid by the superintendent of public buildings and grounds in lieu of compensation not to exceed 75 cents per hour for each person actually engaged in cleaning the work.

And in line 31, after the words "provided for," to strike out: And if the work at any of the parks has not been performed in accordance with instructions, payment of the persons so engaged shall be withheld until such time as the work is properly and satisfactorily performed.

So as to make the section read:

That it shall be the duty of the superintendent of public buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia, immediately after every fall of snow or sleet, or as soon thereafter as practicable, to engage such assistance as he may deem necessary, when funds are available, and proceed to remove from all paved sidewalks or crosswalks which may be used as thoroughfares around, about, or through the public parks within the cities of Washington and Georgetown all accumulations of snow or sleet to a width sufficient to accommodate winter pedestrian travel; or in case the same be so congealed as to make removal by ordinary methods impossible, he shall cause such paved side or crosswalks to be liberally sprinkled with sand or sawdust, or such other material as will insure safety to pedestrians who in the lawful and legitimate pursuit of their respective avocations, and it convenient to pass around, about, or through said public parks; and it shall be the duty of the superintendent of public buildings and grounds, personally, or by deputy or deputies, to visit each public park in the cities of Washington and Georgetown as soon as possible after any snow or sleet storm as aforesaid, and carefully inspect the work as herein provided for.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

DEALING IN "OPTIONS" AND "FUTURES."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7845) defining "options" and "futures," imposing special taxes on dealers therein, and requiring such dealers and persons engaged in selling certain products to obtain license, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is on the adoption of the amendment offered by the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE], on which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. CALL. Let the amendment be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be read.

The SECRETARY. At the end of section 2 it is proposed to strike out the following proviso:

Provided, however, That such contract or agreement shall not be made, settled for by delivery or settlement of differences, or by another mode of performance or settlement in or upon any board of trade, produce, cotton, hop, merchants, or other exchange, or other commercial association, or in any place or upon any premises where price quotations of said articles are announced, bulletined, or published, nor be subject to the rules or regulations of any such board, exchange, or other commercial association.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Secretary will call the roll on agreeing to the amendment.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HANSBROUGH (when Mr. CASEY'S name was called). I desire to announce that my colleague [Mr. CASEY] is paired with the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. CARLISLE].

Mr. DIXON (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL]. As he is not present, I withhold my vote.

Mr. HANSBROUGH (when his name was called). I announce my pair with the Senator from Montana [Mr. SANDERS]. I will also announce that I transfer that pair to the Senator from Nevada [Mr. JONES], who is absent, and will vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. HISCOCK (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES]; otherwise I should vote "yea."

Mr. SAWYER (when his name was called). I am paired on the bill and all amendments with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS].

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON].

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT], but I am informed that if present he would vote "nay" on the pending amendment, and I will therefore vote. I vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. DIXON. As I stated, I have a general pair with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL], who is absent as a member of the committee appointed by the Senate to escort the remains of the late Senator Kenna to West Virginia. My colleague [Mr. ALDRICH] is absent unpaired. I transfer the pair I have with the Senator from Mississippi to my colleague, and upon this question I vote "yea."

Mr. MORGAN (after having voted in the negative). A pair has been arranged by which I am paired with the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL], and I withdraw my vote.

Mr. GORDON (after having voted in the negative). I voted inadvertently. I am paired with the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN].

Mr. COCKRELL. My colleague [Mr. VEST] has been called away for a short time to-day on business, and is paired with the junior Senator from Kansas [Mr. PERKINS]. I do not know how my colleague would vote on this particular amendment.

Mr. PLATT. My colleague [Mr. HAWLEY] is absent. Believing that he would vote "nay" if here, and as I should vote "yea," I announce a pair with him upon this vote.

Mr. GEORGE (after having voted in the negative). Does the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL] know how his colleague [Mr. DOLPH] would vote on the pending amendment?

Mr. MITCHELL. He would vote "nay."

Mr. GEORGE. Then I will let my vote stand.

Mr. IRBY (after having voted in the negative). I have just noticed the absence of the Senator from New York [Mr. HILL]. I am paired with him and withdraw my vote.

Mr. MITCHELL (after having voted in the affirmative). I understand the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. GEORGE] has a pair with my colleague [Mr. DOLPH].

Mr. GEORGE. He has; but upon inquiry of the Senator from Oregon [Mr. MITCHELL] I understood his colleague would vote "nay" on the pending question. That is the way I have voted.

Mr. MITCHELL. Then, inasmuch as I vote the other way upon the question, I ask to have my colleague's pair transferred to myself.

Mr. GEORGE. Does the Senator from Oregon withdraw his vote?

Mr. MITCHELL. I will withdraw my vote.

Mr. GEORGE. That suits me very well. I will let my vote stand, and the Senator from Oregon withdraws his vote.

Mr. MITCHELL. I withdraw my vote, and announce my pair with my colleague [Mr. DOLPH].

The result was announced—yeas 19, nays 31, as follows:

YEAS—19.
Brice, Cameron Dixon,	Gorman, Huntton, Palmer,	Quay, Vilas, White,	Wolcott.
NAYS—31.
Berry, Butler, Call, Cary, Chandler, Cockrell, Coke, Dawes,	Dubois, Frye, Gallinger, George, Hale, Hansbrough, Harris, Kyle,	McMillan, Morrill, Pasco, Peffer, Pettigrew, Pugh, Ransom, Sherman,	Shoup, Stewart, Teller, Vance, Voorhees, Washburn, Wilson.
NOT VOTING—15.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. No quorum having voted, the roll will be called.

Mr. MITCHELL. How many are now required to make a quorum?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Forty-four. The roll call will proceed.

The Secretary called the roll, and the following Senators answered to their names:

Berry, Brice, Butler, Call, Cameron, Cary, Chandler, Cockrell, Coke, Dawes, Dixon, Frye,	Gallinger, George, Gorman, Hale, Hansbrough, Harris, Hiscock, Huntton, Irby, Kyle, McMillan,	Mitchell, Palmer, Pasco, Peffer, Pugh, Quay, Ransom, Sawyer, Sherman, Shoup, Stewart,	Stockbridge, Teller, Vance, Vilas, Voorhees, Washburn, White, Wilson, Wolcott.
---	--	---	--

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Forty-five Senators having responded to their names, a quorum is present. The roll will be again called on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Louisiana [Mr. WHITE].

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DAWES (when his name was called). I am paired with the senior Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] whenever he is out of the Chamber.

Mr. DIXON (when his name was called). I transfer my pair with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL] to my colleague [Mr. ALDRICH] and vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL], but he and I voted the same way on the last roll call. I record my vote "nay," notwithstanding the pair.

Mr. HISCOCK (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES].

Mr. IRBY (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. HILL], but I transfer my pair to the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN] and vote "nay."

Mr. PLATT (when his name was called). Upon this vote I am paired with my colleague [Mr. HAWLEY]. I should vote "yea" if he were present.

Mr. QUAY (when his name was called). I have a general pair with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. FAULKNER], but I understand from the Senator from Minnesota, after conversation with the Senator from West Virginia, that I am free to vote upon the bill and amendments. I am in favor of the bill and will vote "yea" on the amendment of the Senator from Louisiana.

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. DAWES. I understand that the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN] would vote the same way I would on this question, and therefore I will vote. I vote "nay."

Mr. HUNTON. I wish to announce that my colleague [Mr. DANIEL] is paired on this vote with the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN]. If they were present my colleague would vote "yea" and the Senator from Alabama would vote "nay."

Mr. GRAY. I have a general pair with the senior Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLOM]. If he were present I should vote "yea." I do not know how he would vote.

Mr. HIGGINS. I have a general pair with the senior Senator from New Jersey [Mr. McPHERSON]. If he were present he would vote "yea," and I should vote "nay."

Mr. HISCOCK. I understand the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES] would vote "yea" on the pending amendment, and as I would vote that way I will vote. I vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 15, nays 32; as follows:

So the amendment was rejected.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question recurs on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Virginia [Mr. DANIEL], to strike out section 10 of the bill.

Mr. WHITE. The Senator from Virginia is absent on official duty, and I ask that the amendment may lie over until his return.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will lie over if there be no objection.

Mr. WASHBURN. I will consent to its lying over unless it is to delay action on the bill. Otherwise I shall ask for a vote upon it. It has been laid over once owing to the absence of the Senator from Virginia, and I hardly feel like letting action on the bill be delayed on that account.

Mr. HALE. Let the amendment be read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the amendment, which was to strike out section 10 as amended, as follows:

SEC. 10. Whenever any contract or agreement for the sale and future delivery of any of the articles mentioned in section 3 of this act shall be made, and the making thereof shall not be reported by the collector of internal revenue, as required by section 9, and it shall come to the knowledge of such collector, or he shall have reasonable cause to believe that the party by whom such contract or agreement was made as vendor or was not, at the time of the making thereof, the owner of the article or articles which were the subject of embrace in, or covered by such contract or agreement, and had not then acquired, and was not then entitled to the right to the future possession of such article or articles under and by virtue of a contract or agreement for the sale and future delivery thereof previously made by the owner of such article or articles, it shall be the duty of such collector to require the party who shall have made such contract or agreement as vendor to forthwith furnish to such collector proof of such vendor's ownership, or right or title to the future possession of the article or articles so embraced in or covered by such contract or agreement, and said party shall thereupon make, and file with such collector, an affidavit stating by whom the said article or articles were owned at the time said contract or agreement was made, and, if affidavit was not at that time such owner, whether at the time of making such contract or agreement affidavit was entitled to the right to the future possession of said article or articles, and how such right was acquired. Such affidavit shall also state the warehouse, elevator, or other place where said article or articles are stored, or, if the same be then in the possession of a vessel, railroad, or other carrier for transportation, the name of such vessel, railroad, or carrier, and the number and date of each separate bill of lading or receipt issued by such vessel, railroad, or carrier therefor, and the amount or quantity of such article or articles called for by such bill of lading or receipt; and such affidavit shall further state the amount or quantity of other articles of the kind embraced in and covered by such contract or agreement, which said affidavit is then the owner of, or entitled to the possession of, and any and all contracts or agreements which said party has made, and which are then outstanding and remaining unexecuted for the sale and future delivery of any such article or articles of such kind. And said party is further required if demanded by such collector, to exhibit to the collector the original receipt of the warehouse, elevator, or other place where the article or articles are then stored, or of the bill of lading or receipt of the vessel, railroad, or other carrier having possession of said article or articles for transportation. And in case said party shall fail or refuse to comply and file with the collector the said affidavit when so required, or shall refuse to exhibit the said warehouse or elevator receipt, or bill of lading or receipt, when so demanded, such failure or refusal shall constitute evidence, and shall be held to constitute evidence, that the contract or agreement made by said party was a "futures" contract or agreement, as defined in section 3 of this act, and said party shall thereupon be liable to be required to pay to said collector upon the article or articles which are the subject of embrace in, or covered by such contract or agreement, the amount or amount of special taxes imposed and required by section 10 of this act, or paid for and upon an article or articles of the same kind when such contract or "futures" contract or agreement, and if when such contract was made, the party making the same was not authorized by a certificate issued to him under the provision of section 5 of this act to make "futures" contracts, or agreements, then said party shall also become liable and to require to pay the further sum of $1,000 per centum by said section 5 of this act as a license fee for conducting the business of dealing in "futures."

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Virginia.

Mr. WHITE. Do I understand the Senator from Minnesota to object to the amendment being carried over?

The VICE-PRESIDENT. That is the understanding of the Chair.

Mr. WASHBURN. I do not feel that the bill should be postponed. It has already been put over once on account of the absence of the Senator from Virginia. If there are any Senators prepared to go on with the discussion, of course I have no objection to the amendment going over further, but I do not feel that the day should be lost by having the amendment go over.

Mr. WHITE. Does the Senator from Minnesota understand that the Senator from Virginia is absent on official duty and the nature of the duty on which he is absent?

Mr. WASHBURN. Certainly, I understand it.

Mr. WHITE. Notwithstanding that, the Senator makes objection. Then I ask—

Mr. WASHBURN. Of course, when it is put on that ground I shall not object to the amendment going over. I recognize the courtesies of the Senate, especially on an occasion like the one on which the Senator from Virginia is engaged. At the same time I hardly think it is a fair way of dealing to have the discussion put over on a pretext of that kind. I shall not object under the circumstances to the amendment going over.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The objection is withdrawn, and the amendment will lie over.

Mr. WASHBURN. I suppose the reading of the bill can proceed.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The bill has been read at length. There are no pending amendments. The bill is before the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, and open to amendment.

Mr. VILAS. I desire to offer an amendment to the bill. I move to amend section 2, after line 15, by inserting the following words:

And does not in good faith intend to purchase and deliver the articles contracted to be sold and delivered according to the terms and requirements of such contract.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS].

Mr. VILAS. Mr. President, it will be observed at once that the amendment proposes to distinguish, in accordance with some discussion which passed on the floor a few days since, the so-called "futures" which are undeniably legitimate, supported by the laws of every State and by a universal consensus of judicial opinion from those which are open to criticism and have sometimes been denominated on this floor as gambling contracts.

To state the proposition is to state all that I desire to say in support of it at this time. It will be observed that instead of drawing the line by the words of the amendment rigorously for the class of contracts stigmatized as gambling, I have drawn it most favorably to include them, so that in order that "futures" should be recognized as legitimate under the bill it will be necessary that it should be understood, or shown by facts, that there was an intention in good faith to go into the market and purchase the articles for delivery. I do not see how the amendment can be justly objected to.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS].

Mr. WOLCOTT. On that I call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. WASHBURN. I should like to have the amendment printed and go over until to-morrow so that I may consider it a little further. My impression is, from what I understand from the Senator from Wisconsin, that the effect of it would be to absolutely destroy the force and effect of the bill, not to forethere is any vote upon it I should like to have time to consider it a little further and give Senators an opportunity to consider it further. I ask that the amendment be printed and go over until to-morrow.

Mr. BLAIR. I suggest to the Senator from Colorado to withdraw his demand for the yeas and nays if the amendment is to go over.

Mr. WOLCOTT. Very well.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The Senator from Colorado withdraws his demand for the yeas and nays.

Mr. HARRIS. As the two amendments are going over to a future day, I ask the Senator from Minnesota if we may not devote the remainder of the day to the consideration of the Calendar under Rule VIII.

Mr. WASHBURN. I understand there are several Senators who desire to speak on this measure, and I see no reason why they should not go on this afternoon.

Mr. HARRIS. I think there are several Senators who desire to debate the bill, but it seems that no one is now ready to take the floor or propose to do so. That being the case—of course I shall make no motion—I simply ask the Senator from Minnesota if we may not devote the remainder of the day to the Calendar under Rule VIII, in view of the fact that the two pending amendments have gone over.

Mr. WASHBURN. Senators have had about a year's time to prepare themselves on this question, and I hope the debate will be continued this afternoon.

Mr. WOLCOTT. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of business on the Calendar under Rule VIII.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Colorado [Mr. WOLCOTT].

Mr. WASHBURN. Upon that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered; and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DIXON (when his name was called). I transfer my pair with the Senator from Mississippi [Mr. WALTHALL] to my colleague [Mr. ALDRICH], and I vote "yea."

Mr. HARRIS (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL]. Not knowing how he would vote, I withhold my own vote.

Mr. SAWYER (when his name was called). I am paired on the bill and amendments with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. DAVIS], but I have the right to vote to make a quorum. I vote "nay."

Mr. STOCKBRIDGE (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Maryland [Mr. GIBSON].

Mr. WILSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Georgia [Mr. COLQUITT], but I am satisfied that if he were present he would vote "nay." I will therefore vote. I vote "nay."

The roll call was concluded.

Mr. GORDON. I am paired with the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN].

Mr. GRAY (after having voted in the affirmative). When I voted just now I overlooked the fact of my pair with the Senator from Illinois [Mr. CULLUM]. I withdraw my vote.

Mr. PLATT. I am paired with my colleague [Mr. HAWLEY] on the bill, and therefore do not vote on the pending question.

Mr. GORDON. I have just been informed that the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. WARREN] if here would vote "nay." I therefore feel at liberty to record my vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 9, nays 36; as follows:

YEAS—9.
Dixon,	Hoar,	Mills,	Vilas,
Hill,	McMillan,	Polmer,	White,
Hiscock,
NAYS—36.
Allison,	Dubois,	Jones of Ark.	Ransom,

Carlisle,	Gray,	Platt,	Wolcott,
Casby,	Harris,	Power,
Colquitt,	Hawley,	Sanders,
Cullum,	Higgins,	Squire,

So the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. WASHBURN. Upon a little further consideration I am satisfied as to the effect of the amendment proposed by the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS], and I withdraw my request to have it go over until to-morrow and be printed. I ask for a vote on the amendment.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Wisconsin [Mr. VILAS].

Mr. MITCHELL. The Senator from Minnesota is not in favor of the amendment?

Mr. WASHBURN. I am not in favor of it because it would absolutely destroy the force of the bill.

Mr. VILAS. I should like to know how the amendment would destroy the force of the bill when it would only provide for contracts that are unquestionably legal and proper.

Mr. WASHBURN. It is a provision that would surely be evaded. Where it comes to the question of delivery it is as certain of evasion as any provision which could be put in the bill. I regard it as absolutely disastrous to the effect of the bill.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. Is the Senate ready for the question on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin?

Mr. WHITE. On that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. HOAR. Let the amendment be again read.

The VICE-PRESIDENT. The amendment will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 2, line 15, after the word "thereof," insert "and does not in good faith intend to purchase" and deliver the articles contracted to be sold and delivered according to the terms and requirements of such contract;" so as to read:

"That for the purposes of this act the word 'futures' shall be understood to mean any contract or agreement whereby a party contracts or agrees to sell and deliver to another or others at a future time, or within a designated period, any of the articles mentioned in section 3 of this act, when at the time of making such contract or agreement the party so contracting or agreeing to sell and make such delivery, or the party for whom he acts as agent, broker, or employee in making such contract or agreement, is not the owner of the article or articles so contracted or agreed to be sold and delivered, or has not theretofore acquired by purchase and is not then entitled to the right to the future possession of such article or articles under and by virtue of a contract or agreement for the sale and future delivery thereof previously made by the owner thereof and does not in good faith intend to purchase and deliver the articles contracted to be sold and delivered according to the terms and requirements of such contract."

Mr. WHITE. Mr. President, I do not think the full scope of the amendment is understood. Under all the judicial opinions now, the rulings of all the State courts and of the Supreme Court of the United States, where a contract for the future delivery of property is made that contract is a valid contract unless proof be made that both the parties to the contract did not intend to deliver. In other words, the contract is a valid contract and can be enforced unless the party assailing the contract makes proof not that one or the other but that both of the parties never intended to deliver. That is the present law as adjudicated by all the cases.

The amendment does not go anything like as far as the adjudicated cases. The amendment makes the contract valid provided the seller bona fide and actually intends to deliver; in other words, where it is a future contract, not the intention of both parties is necessary to an invalidity of the contract, but if the seller has not the actual and bona fide intention to buy and deliver then the contract is null. As the section makes future contracts null and makes this an exceptional case, it puts the burden upon the seller to show those facts.

I certainly do not understand that there would be any possibility of evading such a provision. I certainly do not understand that the objection of the Senator from Minnesota has any force as applied to this contract. Under the law as it now stands the burden is on the party attaching the contract, and the burden is on him not only to show it as to one party, but to show it as to both, whilst under the amendment the burden is on the seller of the property for future delivery to show, before the contract can become valid, that he had a bona fide intention to buy and actually deliver the property under the contract. I can not for the life of me see how the statement of the Senator from Minnesota is accurate.

Mr. GEORGE. Mr. President, I suppose I ought to beg the pardon of the Senate for intruding upon it any further observations on the bill, but as the amendment if adopted would utterly destroy the bill, as the measure would be utterly worthless, I feel it incumbent on me to say a word or two in reference to it.

I should like to call the attention of Senators to an established fact in the testimony which has been taken in this case. What is called the future business of this country, so far as cotton is concerned, amounts to about 40,000,000 bales per year, taking the two exchanges of New Orleans and New York together. I have not my memoranda before me, and I speak in general terms. I have the exact amount of deliveries both in New Orleans and New York, but not anticipating a debate this morning, I have not the memoranda before me. I will state, however, that not more

CONFIRMATION.

Executive nomination confirmed by the Senate, January 13, 1893.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE OF UTAH TERRITORY.

George W. Barche, of Utah Territory, to be associate justice of the supreme court of the Territory of Utah.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, January 13, 1893.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon, and was called to order by the Speaker. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

SPECIAL ORDER FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1893.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that Tuesday next, instead of Saturday, may be set apart for the consideration of bills reported from the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. RAYNER. I object to that, because I think it ought to go to the Committee on Rules, and let the Committee on Rules determine it.

Mr. CULBERSON. I will say to the gentleman that I have talked with the Committee on Rules about it this.

Mr. RAYNER. If the Committee on Rules are willing to give Tuesday it is all right.

Mr. CULBERSON. I will say to the gentleman that it will be perfectly satisfactory to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. RAYNER. Then I will withdraw my objection, if the Committee on Rules have agreed to give Tuesday.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Speaker, I understand the gentleman from Maryland withdraws his objection to my request.

The SPEAKER. Is there further objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas [Mr. CULBERSON] that Tuesday, next, instead of Saturday, be set apart for the consideration of bills reported from the Committee on the Judiciary?

Mr. HOLMAN. What is the request?

The SPEAKER. The request of the gentleman from Texas [Mr. CULBERSON] is that instead of to-morrow, which has been assigned to the Judiciary Committee, that that committee be permitted to occupy the floor on Tuesday next. This request, as the Chair understands, arises from the fact that the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WILSON] and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. TUCKER] are absent attending the funeral of the late Senator Kenma, and there is a bill to be called up respecting the direct-tax account of the State of West Virginia, upon which these gentlemen desire to be heard; and therefore the gentleman from Texas [Mr. CULBERSON] desires to suggest Tuesday for Saturday for the Judiciary Committee. Is there objection to the request?

There was no objection.

CHANGE OF RE. REFERENCE.

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce be discharged from further consideration of the bill, H. R. 2527, and that it be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Virginia [Mr. WISE] from the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce asks that that committee be discharged from the further consideration tion of the bill, the title of which the Clerk will report, and that it be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. The Clerk will report the title of the bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 9828) to encourage the construction of electric railroads, to facilitate the rapid transportation of the mails, to promote the interests of commerce and travel, and to aid in demonstrating the feasibility of the distribution of electrical power for agricultural and other purposes along the line of electric roads, and especially to aid in the construction of a pioneer electric railroad between the cities of Chicago and St. Louis by the Chicago and St. Louis Electric Railroad Company, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, at existing rates.

Mr. STOUT. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The Chair will clear the table, and will then recognize the gentleman from Michigan.

EMOLUMENTS OF OFFICERS OF THE CUSTOMS SERVICE.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting an abstract of the official emoluments of officers of the customs service received by them during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892; which was ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department.

PAYMENT TO INFORMERS, ETC.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting a statement showing all payments made to informers and seizing officers under section 3 of the act of Congress, approved June 22, 1874, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892; which was ordered to be printed, and referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department.

PLEASANT OWEN AND C. A. PENGGE, DECEASED, VS. UNITED STATES.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a copy of the findings of the Court of Claims in the cases of the following-named persons against the United States: Pleasant Owen and C. A. Pengge, deceased; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims.

ELECTORAL VOTE.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a certified copy of the ascertainment of electors for President and Vice-President in the State of New York, transmitted by the Secretary of State; which was laid on the table.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted as follows:

To Mr. SHIVELY, for one week, on account of important business.

To Mr. RAINES, indefinitely, on account of sickness.

NAVAJO INDIAN RESERVATION.

Mr. STOUT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to submit a privileged report from the Committee on Public Lands.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the report.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be directed to inform the House whether an executive order has been issued to restoring to the public domain any portion of the Navajo Indian Reservation, lying in the Territory of Utah; and if so, that he furnish the House with a copy of said order.

The report (by Mr. STOUT) was read, as follows:

The Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the accompanying resolution, have had the same under consideration, and report it back with the recommendation that it be adopted with the following amendment: "Add after the word 'order,' in the last line, 'with a report of all proceedings thereunder.'"

Mr. STOUT. I move the previous question on the amendment and the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The amendment was agreed to.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. STOUT, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled a bill of the following title: when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (H. R. 9824) to amend "An act to promote the construction of a safe deep-water harbor on the coast of Texas," approved February 9, 1891.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message in writing from the President of the United States was communicated to the House by Mr. PARDEN, one of his secretaries, who also announced that the President had approved and signed bills of the following titles:

On January 5, 1892:

An act (H. R. 9417) to incorporate the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia.

On January 7:

An act (H. R. 6644) to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the sale of title of the United States in lot 3 in square south of square 990," approved March 3, 1891;

On January 9:

An act (H. R. 6737) granting a pension to D-Izell R. Bradford, Twenty-fourth Michigan Volunteers;

An act (H. R. 8907) to increase the pension of John Malloy;

An act (H. R. 9487) to amend an act approved April 22, authorizing the Natchitoches Cane River Bridge Company to construct and maintain a bridge across Cane River in Louisiana; and

An act (H. R. 9188) to amend an act approved March 2, 1891, authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Red River, Louisiana, by the Rapides Bridge Company, Limited.

DISEASES OF CATTLE AND CATTLE FEEDING.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to submit a privileged report from the Committee on Printing.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That there be printed and bound of the special report of the Bureau of Animal Industry on diseases of cattle and cattle feeding 60,000 copies, of which 20,000 shall be for the use of the Senate and 40,000 for the use of the House.

The report of the Committee on Printing (by Mr. RICHARDSON) was read, as follows:

The committee have considered the various resolutions which have been referred to them for the printing of the special report of the Bureau of Animal Industry on diseases of cattle and cattle feeding. There are several of these resolutions pending before the committee, and they call for different numbers of this work to be printed. There have been already printed by the Secretary of Agriculture, under the discretion given him, 10,000 copies of the work. The estimated cost of printing and binding this work is about 65 cents per copy. They recommend the passage of the resolution herewith submitted, providing for the printing and binding of 60,000 copies of the work, the estimated cost of which, as shown, will be about $39,000. They recommend that the other resolutions on the subject herewith returned lie on the table.

Mr. O'NEILL of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tennessee has the floor. Does the gentleman yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

Mr. RICHARDSON. I will in a few moments.

Mr. Speaker, this publication is one which has recently been made by the Secretary of Agriculture, and up to this time members of Congress have no copies of this work for distribution. I do not desire to comment improperly upon the action of the Secretary of Agriculture, or of anybody in that Department; but I ask to have read an article which I send to the Clerk's desk, which has been sent broadcast over the country through the United Press. This article must have been inspired at the Department of Agriculture. It is a misstatement of fact. It must have been known by the gentleman who sent it out that it did not convey a proper impression to the country.

The sending of it out has caused persons in all sections of the United States where the United Press dispatches are read, to correspond with members of Congress, in both branches, frequently sending the clipping with their letters calling upon their members for copies of this publication. The gentleman who inspired it, whoever he was, in the Department of Agriculture or elsewhere, must have known and did know that members of Congress have no copies of this work for distribution. The only copies that have been distributed were printed upon the requisition of the Secretary of Agriculture. He had printed 10,000 copies of the work, and distributed them himself through that Department, except that he has sent one copy, I believe, to each member of Congress—

A MEMBER. Five copies.

Mr. RICHARDSON (continuing). With a statement that no more could be furnished.

Now, this morning, through the mails, we get a second letter from the Secretary of Agriculture, saying that four more copies can be furnished. But, Mr. Speaker, I imagine that there is not a gentleman here—perhaps I ought not to say that there is not one—but there are very few members who have not received letters from their constituents asking for this book, based upon this publication in which I have sent to the Clerk's desk, in which it is pretended to give information to the country that members of Congress have these books for distribution.

Mr. COGSWELL. Will the gentleman allow me for a moment?

Mr. RICHARDSON. I will in a moment, when the Clerk shall have read that article.

The Clerk read as follows:

REPORT ON SHEEP INDUSTRY.

WASHINGTON, January 2.

One of the most valuable publications ever issued by the Government is a report upon the sheep industry of the United States, prepared under direction of the Secretary of Agriculture. It treats of the history and conditions of the industry from the early settlement of the country down to the present day, and is handsomely illustrated. It bids fair to rival in popularity the work on the diseases of the horse, published by the Department some time since. It is ready for distribution by the Secretary and through members of Congress.

and numerous other citizens of Texas, and a petition of citizens of Bowie, Tex., praying for the passage of legislation opening up the Cherokee Strip for settlement; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. CAMERON presented a petition of the Philadelphia (Pa.) Board of Trade, praying for the establishment of a Federal Bureau to be known as the department of national roads; which was referred to the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

He also presented a petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, Pa., praying for the passage of legislation creating an Ohio River Commission; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented petitions of John E. Brandt and other citizens of Philadelphia, Pa., and of Charles J. Harrison and 30 other citizens of Somerset, Pa., praying for the appointment of a commission to examine into and report upon immigration evils; which were ordered to lie on the table.

He also presented memorials of the United Presbyterian Church of Airville; of A. L. Cressler and other citizens of Wilkesbarre; of the Methodist Episcopal, Congregational, and other churches of Smithfield; of the Methodist Church of Shiremanstown, and of the Baptist ministers of Philadelphia, all in the State of Pennsylvania, remonstrating against any repeal of the law closing the World's Columbian Exposition on Sunday; which were referred to the Committee on the Quadro-Centennial (Select).
